Q. Do you continue to read the Communist Party press? A. Oh, yes.

Q. As regularly as you did when you were a member?

A. Not as regularly as when I was a member, but I usually keep pretty good track of it. [503]

Q. Yes. Do you consider that your main business or employment now is writing and speaking on Communism? A. No, no, I don't.

Q. Are you seeking employment or work in other fields than writing or speaking on communism?

A. I am, but unfortunately I have had quite a tussle with the Communist Party and the Communist domination of the CIO in our own State, in the State of Wisconsin, makes it impossible for me to hold a job at my trade, which happens to be an electric welder.

Q. You undoubtedly were familiar at the time you were receiving relief, when you were working with the Communist Party, familiar with the laws or the rules governing the giving and receiving of relief?

A. That is very correct, but we Communists cared nothing about laws. As a matter of fact, it was a policy——

Q. (Interposing) Just a minute.

Mr. Del Guercio: Let the witness answer. That is a reply to your question.

Mr. Grossman: No; a "yes" or "no" answer will suffice. I am going to allow him to explain too.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. The answer is "Yes," you were familiar, and you started I think, to explain that you had received relief illegally, did you not? Now, go ahead.

[504]

Mr. Myron: Let him answer, himself.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. All right, did you, during that period, receive relief illegally? A. I think not.

Q. Why do you say you think not?

A. Because I explained to the Relief Department that I got some money for work that I did for the Party but not enough to live on.

Q. Did you inform the Relief Department as to each of the items of income that you did receive during that period?

A. The Relief Department never questioned me on that score.

(Testimony of Farrell Schnering.)

Q. But you did inform them that you had received some income?

A. I told them that my income was insufficient to support myself.

Q. And that satisfied the Relief Department?

A. Apparently it did because they gave me relief.

Q. And were you obliged to make that statement in writing as to your income when you were receiving relief? A. No, not that I recall.

Q. To whom in the Department was it made generally; to social workers? A. Yes. [505]

Q. Do you know what the rules or the law was, or were, governing the amount of income you were entitled to have and still receive your relief?

A. I was never given any specified sum I would be entitled to have before I could get relief.

Q. You don't know, then, whether there was any limit on the amount of income you were entitled to have and still receive relief from the ——

A. (Interposing) I told the Relief Department that my income was insufficient to support me and the Relief Department gave me relief; they gave me a meal ticket.

Q. Then, the social workers, upon being told by you that you had other income but it was insufficient for your needs, never inquired as to the amount of that income; is that correct?

A. Oh, on occasions I told them that I had been paid five or ten dollars by the Party, by the International Labor Defense.

(Testimony of Farrell Schnering.)

Q. Were you ever told after you went off relief —were you ever told that you had been receiving relief illegally by anyone? A. No, no.

Q. In what county was it that you received relief? A. Milwaukee County.

Q. During the entire period? [506]

A. You mean the entire period during which I was receiving relief?

Q. That is right.

A. That is the place I received it.

Q. Could you state for me the address at which you were living during the time that you received relief?

A. Living at 1429 North Aster Street.

Q. During the entire period?

A. During most of it.

Q. And will you state the other addresses?

A. 1247 North 11th Street.

Q. Any other? A. No.

Q. Do you at the present time live alone?

A. At the present time I live with my stepfather and my mother and my stepbrother.

Mr. Grossman: No more questions.

Presiding Inspector: That is all. Anything further?

Mr. Myron: I will just ask one question, your Honor.

Redirect Examination

By Mr. Myron:

Q. You mentioned a moment ago there were times when you denied your membership in the (Testimony of Farrell Schnering.)

Communist Party while you were actually a member? A. Yes. [507]

Q. That was in accordance with the policy of the Party to do so?

A. Yes, that was in accordance with the policy of the Party to do so.

Q. Under instructions of Party leaders you did so on certain occasions when it worked for the best interests of the Party?

A. If I had revealed by Party membership I would not have been able to accomplish the tasks I had before me.

Mr. Myron: That is all.

(Witness excused.)

Mr. Del Guercio: That is our last witness today. We didn't anticipate finishing so soon and for that reason we didn't prepare another witness.

Presiding Inspector: That is quite natural. You would like to adjourn until tomorrow morning?

Mr. Del Guercio: Until tomorrow morning.

Presiding Inspector: Well, we will adjourn until tomorrow morning.

(Whereupon at 3:00 o'clock p. m. an adjournment was taken until Friday, April 4, 1941, at 10:00 o'clock a. m.) [508]

Court Room 276,
Federal Building,
San Francisco, California,
April 4, 1941.

Met, pursuant to adjournment, at 10:00 A. M.

PROCEEDINGS

Presiding Inspector: We will proceed with the hearing. Call Mr. Chase.

EZRA CHASE

called on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Cross Examination

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. Chase, by whom are you now employed?

A. I would decline to state in public who I am employed by. I am employed in private enterprise, I might add. I have no objection to notifying the Court by whom I am employed.

(Offering data to the Presiding Inspector.)

Presiding Inspector: I cannot take testimony unless it is in open court.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. What is the nature of that employment?

A. Pest control work; structural pest control work.

Q. Will you please give us a description of what kind of work that is?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. It is a matter of examining buildings, homes, commercial buildings, for the presence of termites, wood destroying beetles, rot, various kinds of fungi —things of that sort.

Q. Who is your employer?

A. I am going to decline to state publicly.

Q. How long——[510]

A. (Interposing) I don't want a bunch of Communists calling up that place and molesting and jeopardizing my employment.

Presiding Inspector: Just answer the question. Be careful. The witness declines to answer. Do you want to press it?

Mr. Gladstein: I think we are entitled to an answer, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I think you can state who you are employed by.

A. I work for the Guaranty Fumigating and Exterminating Company.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. And the address?

A. 4826 South Main Street, Los Angeles.

Q. How long have you held that employment?

A. I have been there about three months.

Q. Three months?

A. About two to three months. [511]

* * * * * * *

Q. Just prior to obtaining that employment what were you doing?

A. I was employed by the Golden State Termite and Pest Control Company.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Also in Los Angeles?

A. 2116 Labraya Avenue, Los Angeles, California.

Q. For how long a period of time were you employed by this second named organization?

A. Approximately one year.

Q. That takes us back to about the beginning of 1940; is that correct? A. Yes; roughly.

Q. What was your employment just prior to that?

A. I was working for the United States Housing Authority.

Q. Where? A. In Los Angeles.

Q. Who was your immediate employer, that is, your immediate supervisor?

A. I can't at the moment recall the man's name; I believe I have his address, oh, Yetter was his name.

Q. Spell it, please.

A. Y-e-t-t-e-r, I believe.

Q. With what department or division of the Housing Authority were you employed?

A. I was an enumerator. [512]

Q. Out of what office did you work?

A. The office locations changed from time to time; part of the time 74 Flower Street in the City of Los Angeles and part of the time it was in a building at First and Broadway which has since been demolished, and for a short period in San Pedro, California.

Q. All told how long were you employed with the United States Housing Authority?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. Oh, probably six or seven months.

Q. That would be, in other words, beginning approximately in the middle of 1939; correct?

A. About that.

Q. Unless there were periods between the successive employments during which you were unemployed. Were there such periods of unemployment?

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't understand that question, if your Honor please. Let him elicit that information from the witness.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I am asking the question whether there were periods between the successive employments that you have enumerated, Mr. Chase, during which you were unemployed? A. No, there was not.

Q. You understand me, don't you?

A. No, there were no periods. [513]

Q. First of all, you understand me, don't you?

A. I believe that I do.

Q. Now, you can answer the question.

A. There might have possibly been a day or two.

Q. But substantially no period of unemployment? A. Not that I recollect.

Q. All right. Now, we are back to about the middle of 1939 when you became an employee of the United States Housing Authority. What was your employment just prior to that?

A. Just prior to that I had been on the WPA and was transferred from that to United States Housing Authority.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. For how long had you been on the WPA continuously prior to the middle of 1939?

A. Possibly three months, to the best of my knowledge.

Q. Doing what? A. As a night watchman.

Q. Where?

A. On a storm drain project in the vicinity of Florence and Holmes Avenues in Los Angeles.

Q. That brings us to about March or April, roughly, of 1939; correct? A. That is right.

Q. What were you doing just prior to that?

A. I was on relief.

Q. For how long a period? [514]

A. Let's see—well, about where in 1939 now?

Q. We are about in March or April of 1939.

A. Of 1939. From about January of 1938 up to this period I was on relief.

Q. That is from January 1938 until about March or April 1939, the time when you went on WPA, you were on relief?

A. To the best of my memory that is correct.

Q. Was this work relief or——

A. No; I was classed as unemployable for a while.

Q. That brings us back to the first of January, 1938; correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Just prior to that what was your employment?

A. I had been employed as an organizer by the Upholsterers International Union, Local 15.

Q. During what period of time?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. From about August to about December of 1937.

Q. Did you say to the end of December, 1937?

A. The early part of December, I believe, would be more accurate. That is an approximate date to the best of my memory.

Q. Well, be as definite as you can, please, to assist us, Mr. Chase.

A. Well, I believe the early part of December would be quite accurate.

Q. That would mean within the first two weeks? [515]

A. It would not go beyond that, no.

Q. In other words, some were close to the middle?

A. I know it was after Thanksgiving and that it could have been some time through the early part of December; I would say the very early part of it, it seems to me. [516]

* * * * * * *

Q. Some time shortly before or around the middle of December?

A. I believe it would be before.

Q. What is that?

A. I believe it would be a little before the middle of December.

Q. That is in the year 1937?

A. That is right.

Q. And you stated, I think, that you began this job of organizer in August of 1937.

A. About the first of August.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. And just prior to the first—withdraw that. Was that a paid position? A. That was.

Q. What were you receiving?

A. I was receiving $40.00 a week and car expense.

Q. Now, just prior to August of 1937 what were you doing?

A. I was working for the Sterling Furniture Manufacturing Company.

Q. For how long? A. About one year.

Q. That takes us back to about August of 1936, correct? A. That is right.

Q. Have you now enumerated all of the work that you performed during the period covered by your testimony this mornig? [517]

A. To the best of my memory, I have.

Q. If you had done anything else you would know it, would you not?

A. I can't recollent anything else. We have had rather precarious times and we had to move about from one job to another. I believe that is accurate.

Q. And this includes both remunerative and non-remunerative employment, is that correct?

A. That is right.

Q. When you were an organizer for the Union what was that Union.

A. The Upholsterers' International Union, Local 15.

Q. Of course, you were a member of that organization in order to obtain that position?

A. That is right; yes.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. And it was a paid position in the organization, is that right? A. That is right.

Q. How long had you been a member of that organization?

A. I joined the Union in 1935.

Q. Did you remain continuously a member in good standing?

A. Up until December of 1937; yes.

Q. You mean you did not remain a member of the organization after your organizer's position terminated?

A. Possibly a week or two. [518]

Q. In other words, Mr. Chase, you lost, or your position as organizer for the Union terminated close to the middle of December, is that right?

A. Prior to the middle of December.

Q. Yes. And then for a week or two thereafter you remained a member of the Union, that is, a rank and file member. A. Yes.

Q. Correct? A. Yes.

Q. That would, in other words, mean that your membership in the Union would terminate approximately Christmas of 1937?

A. I believe a little before that.

Q. How much before?

A. I cannot remember exactly; I am sorry.

Q. It wouldn't be more than a week before, would it?

A. I am sorry, but I cannot remember distinctly just what that would have been.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Well, your best recollection is that you remained a member of that Union up until a few days, a couple of days before——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) I object to this line of questioning. The question has been asked me and answered many times. The witness here has stated that he cannot recollect, [519] and he has given his best recollection.

Mr. Gladstein: I haven't finished the question yet.

Presiding Inspector: He has a right to press him. I will allow it.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. What I want is your best judgment, you understand, Mr. Chase.

A. The things that we are talking about happened during the months of November and December in the main, and it is rather hard for me to remember exactly the dates. I have kept no record.

Q. I appreciate that, but I want you to put your minds to it. Let me see if I have this straight: Shortly prior to the middle of December, 1937, your job as Organizer of the Upholsterers' Union, Local 15, terminated, correct?

A. Will you restate that?

Mr. Gladstein: Read the question, please.

Presiding Inspector: Read the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. No, I don't believe that is correct.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. State where it is incorrect.

A. On careful consideration, the job as Organizer termi- [520] nated, I believe, a few days before Thanksgiving of that year.

Q. Then were you incorrect in the testimony you gave me a few moments ago?

A. I acted as Organizer right after that—anyway, I was officially removed from the payroll about that time, but I continued to function in the Organizing Committee. I believe the pay stopped, on careful consideration, about a day or two possibly before Thanksgiving. It is easy for me to be slightly off a week or two. After all, this is quite a ways back. I am trying to remember my dates as accurately as I can.

Q. All right. Let me see if I have this now: As far as the pay received by you from Local 15 for the job of Organizer is concerned, your present testimony is that it terminated around Thanksgiving of 1937, is that correct?

A. Yes, that would probably be the closest date that I could fix to that.

Q. But you continued to act as an organizer without pay thereafter?

A. For a short period, yes; maybe a week or so.

Q. And then you did not continue— withdraw that. And then after the discontinuance of your activity as an Organizer you still continued to remain a member of the organization until shortly before Christmas of 1937, is that correct?

A. That is approximately so.

Q. During the time that you were a member of the Com- [521] munist Party were you sincere about your Communism?

A. I was, yes, up until, oh, possibly about 1936.

Q. Until when? A. About 1936.

Q. What happened at that time to make you change your feeling?

A. Well, events that were taking place in Germany and France, in the general bureaucratic control of the Communist Party, their inability to attract to them the type of Americans that I had hoped would embrace the movement at some time, its complete foreign domination, the high-handed manner in which we were herded about, and a number of things, caused me to turn against the Communist Party.

Q. In 1936?

A. It was about 1936 some time.

Q. What part of 1936?

A. I would say possibly about the middle of 1936.

Q. Feeling that way, Mr. Chase, why did you continue to remain a member of the Communist Party?

A. For several reasons.

Q. State them.

A. I was working in the furniture industry and was a member of a Union that was dominated by the Communist Party from the International on down, and it was very hard for me to make a break out of the Communist Party and at the same time [522] be able to hold to my work. I had reached a point where I wanted to injure the Communist Party, and I wanted to take active opposition to them.

Q. That was in the middle of 1936?

A. About that time; yes.

Q. Did you do anything to carry into effect this state of mind that you had reached?

A. Yes, I believe I did.

Q. What?

A. I cooperated with various organizations that were opposed to Communism.

Q. Name them.

A. I unwound some of their work, obstructed some of their recruiting work inside of the Union.

Q. Name them, please.

A. There was a factional dispute going on among the Party members in the Union itself, and one group was trying to gain control of the Communist influence, and the other was trying to achieve exactly the same thing. Each side was trying to stuff the Party unit in there with members so as to gain a greater amount of control over it. I knew that one faction was trying to recruit certain members who were non-Communist in there, and through discussions with those fellows I prevented their joining the Communist Party.

Q. That is to say, from about the middle of 1936 on, [523] while you were a member of the Communist Party, you were secretly working against the Party, is that right?

A. I believe it could be stated that way; yes.

Q. Is there any doubt about that in your mind, Mr. Chase?

A. No, there isn't.

Q. Then please answer positively.

Mr. Del Guercio: Do you have any objection to his having worked secretly in that manner?

Mr. Gladstein: Just a moment——

Presiding Inspector: I think you have the answer.

Mr. Gladstein: What?

Presiding Inspector: I think you have the complete answer.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, Mr. Chase, you said that you cooperated with some organizations in your secret work against the Communist Party, is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. Name them, please.

A. I have cooperated at various times with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, with the American Legion, with the Sheriff's Department of Los Angeles, with the Police Department of Los Angeles, the U. S. Immigration Service, and my information has been freely given to any legally constituted body that wanted it.

Q. And that was beginning when?

A. About 1936.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Now, when you say your information was "given," what do you mean?

A. I mean that I was taking up active opposition to the Communist Party, and I was cooperating with organizations whom I felt displayed a like interest.

Q. I understand, but you said you were giving information to certain legally constituted bodies, right? A. Right.

Q. What you mean to say by that is that you transmitted information to them?

A. Yes, about the Communist Party. [525]

Q. I suppose that would take written form as well as oral form?

A. At times, yes, both written and oral.

Q. Both written and oral? A. Yes.

Q. Is that right? A. That is right.

Q. With whom were you working in the Police Department?

A. I used to make reports to Captain Hines of the Red Squad.

Q. Captain Hines?

A. Captain Hines, William Hines.

Q. Of the so-called——

A. (Interposing) Of the so-called Red Squad.

Q. Beginning when; when did you start to make written reports to him?

A. Oh, I believe I made him a written report in possibly, some time in 1936.

Q. That is beginning in 1936 and continuing thereafter? A. From time to time.

Q. Is that correct?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. Yes; I was never employed by him; I cooperated with him. If I had any information that I thought would be of interest pertaining to the Party's activity, why, I would give it to him.

Q. What was your designation or number?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment. I object to that. The witness has not said he had a designation or number.

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking the question.

Presiding Inspector: No; your question assumes it.

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw the question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you have a designation or number?

A. I told him in sending that in I was not going to sign my name to those things, that I would designate them by B-50.

Q. In other words, your number or designation was B-50? A. That would be right.

Q. Is that right?

A. Yes; I wouldn't sign the articles.

Q. Now, on these reports that you sent to Captain Hines, how many all told would you say that you sent him in writing? That includes both in your hand and typewritten, Mr. Chase?

A. It would be very hard for me to state.

Q. Well, give us your best judgment.

A. Oh, probably a dozen or two.

Q. Twelve to twenty-four?

A. Something like that.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. It could be more? [527]

A. Possibly, yes.

Q. And, what in general, would be contained in these reports?

A. The activities of the Communists in the local union, or any others that happened to come under my observation.

Q. You say the activities of the Communists in the local union?

A. Yes; in the International too. This International was also dominated and controlled by the Party.

Q. So that your reports would cover activities that occurred within the union itself, is that right?

A. Communist activity inside the union, I would say.

Q. Well, let me put it this way: You would report, I take it, on the meetings of the Communist groups as such? Correct?

A. Yes, I would at times.

Q. And also you would report on what took place in the union meetings in so far as those meetings reflected what you considered as Communist activities; is that right?

A. Yes, I would. I also made reports to J. W. Buzzel of the Central Labor Council at one time; I forgot to mention that.

Q. I think you said you made a number of oral reports as well. You remember I asked you whether your reports were written and oral and you said "Yes."

A. Yes, they were both. [528]

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. How many oral reports did you make to Captain Hines?

A. Oh, it would be hard to state. I could only make—I couldn't even venture a wild guess.

Q. Give us your best judgment, please.

A. I couldn't make a guess; probably 30, 40.

Q. Would these be in person or over the telephone, or both?

A. Over the telephone.

Q. Any of them in person?

A. Oh, I have talked to him from time to time.

Q. In his office?

A. Yes, I was in his office one day.

Q. And any other times besides that?

A. I don't recollect over once.

Q. Where were the other times?

A. Over the telephone.

Q. No; where were the other times when you spoke to him personally to make these reports?

A. I talked to him one time in his apartment.

Q. At his home? A. At his home.

Q. Only once?

A. That is all that I recollect.

Q. Where else?

A. I believe that would be all?

Q. At your home? [529]

A. No, he has never been to my home.

Q. At any other office?

A. Not that I recollect.

Q. At the office of the American Legion?

A. No.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. At the FBI? . . No.

Q. At the District Attorney's office?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, the witness has stated he has not talked to Hines at any other place.

Presiding Inspector: He is trying to refresh his recollection.

Mr. Gladstein: That is correct, your Honor.

A. I believe I met him in the District Attorney's office briefly one time; we exchanged a word or two.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Yes. In the Immigration Service?

A. No.

Q. The Sheriff's office? A. No.

Q. Mr. Buzzel's office? A. No.

Q. Can you think of any other place besides Captain Hines' apartment, the District Attorney's office and Captain Hines' office——

A. (Interposing) Not that I—— [530]

Q. (Interposing) Just let me finish. (Continuing)——where you made oral reports to Captain Hines?

A. Not that I could recollect. I have bumped into him possibly a time or two on the street.

Q. You say that you made some reports to him when you met him on the street?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Now, with respect to the written reports, did you retain copies? A. No, I did not.

Q. Of any of them? A. Not any of them.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. In what form did you prepare them, that is, did you write them out in your own hand?

A. Yes.

Q. All of them? A. Yes.

Q. How many copies of your reports would you make? A. One.

Q. Only one? A. Never more.

Q. You never sent a copy of a report that you sent to Captain Hines to anybody else?

A. (No response.)

Q. Do you understand the question? [531]

A. Yes, I am just trying to think. Oh, there has possibly been things in his reports, yes, that went to others, no doubt.

Q. Well, did you yourself send them to others?

A. I believe there was, oh, one instance that I also gave it to J. W. Buzzel.

Q. Anybody else?

A. Not that I recollect at the present.

Q. Did you ever report orally or in writing to any employer in the furniture industry?

A. Never.

Q. Never did that? A. Never.

Q. Do you know what Captain Hines was doing with your reports?

A. I have a fairly good idea, yes.

Q. Tell us.

A. Captain Hines was head of a division of the Police Department whose purpose——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Just a moment, if your Honor please. I object to this question. It is a matter not particularly within the witness' knowledge as to what Hines did with the information that he received here.

Presiding Inspector: Where did you get this idea that you say you have a pretty good idea? [532]

The Witness: Hines as head of a—what was called the Intelligence Division of the Police Department whose purpose it was to combat subversive activities.

Presiding Inspector: And it is from that that you——

The Witness: (Interposing) And that was my——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) (Continuing)——you have your idea as to what was done?

The Witness: That is right.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you discuss it with him at any time, as to what he did with the report or any parts of them? A. No.

Q. Never did? A. I never did.

Q. Now, going to these reports, did you ever report to Captain Hines in writing or orally whether the union was contemplating any strike action at any plant?

A. Well, yes, for several reasons I wanted that to be known. Our union had organized a beef squad inside the local union, and there were several plants that were notoriously open shop, and at one time they had secretly declared a strike, or had decided rather, to throw a picket line and to beat up a bunch of the workers at the Universal

Furniture Company, if they could. And I told Hines that I thought he should send some men down there, that there may be trouble, [533] and there was trouble, even with the presence of the Police.

Q. So you reported to Captain Hines that the union was intending to strike that particular plant?

A. This was predetermined in the Communist Fraction; it was distinctly Communist activity.

Q. Well, now, am I to understand that the union did not contemplate this action?

A. Decisions were always made in the Communist Fraction, and they were introduced on the floor, and my experience in trade unions is they will vote for practically anything that is put to them in the right way.

Q. All right.

A. And the Fraction would invariably have its way and its motions would be carried.

Q. Now, in this particular instance, then, your statement is that the Communist Fraction decided on a strike; is that right? A. That is right.

Q. And that they proposed that on the union floor and it was adopted, is that right?

A. They usually had what they called a strike committee that was made up of Communists and they would, some time or other, bring up a certain problem pertaining to a shop and would usually ask for power to act.

Mr. Gladstein: Would you please read——

The Witness: (Interposing) And the local would grant [534] them power to act.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You can answer that yes or no, can't you?

A. No, I don't believe a yes or no answer is hardly adequate on that.

Q. Let me ask it this way: Did the union adopt the idea of starting this particular plan that we are discussing now?

A. This is as I stated before; this action first took place——

Mr. Myron: It has already been answered.

Presiding Inspector: He just wanted to know whether there was action taken by the union itself in favor of the strike in this particular case.

The Witness: To the best of my memory the strike committee had power to act.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. From whom did it get that power?

A. In the membership.

Q. Membership of what?

A. Of the local union.

Q. All right. So, as I understand it, the local union authorized a group of its members on a strike committee to declare a strike; is that correct?

A. To act for the union, yes.

Q. In acting for the union? [535]

A. That is right.

Q. Now, as I understand it, you reported that fact and the contemplated strike to Captain Hines; correct?

A. Yes; just prior to that there was a man had his skull fractured in one of those affairs, and a bunch of window lights, and all, were kicked out of the factory, and I knew that these fellows were going down there carrying clubs and weapons in their pockets and I didn't want any human injury to be involved in there. It turned out there was a fight there with some heads broken and there were some cars damaged.

Mr. Gladstein: Now, if your Honor please, I move all of this last answer, with the exception of the first word which was "Yes", a direct response to my question, be stricken as non-responsive.

Presiding Inspector: The rest was entirely voluntary but I will let it stand.

Mr. Gladstein: All right, your Honor.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, let me just have this clear, Mr. Chase. The union membership created a strike committee; is that right? A. That is right.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I think that is enough of this. He is going into the same matter again. It isn't for counsel's understanding; it is for the under- [536] standing of the Court here.

Mr. Gladstein: This is cross examination, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Surely, I understand, but you have covered that particular thing.

Mr. Gladstein: I want it very clear in the record.

Presiding Inspector: If it is only to get a running start, why, I will let you ask it.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you, your Honor.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. The union membership created a strike committee? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And endowed the strike committee with authority to call a strike?

A. Yes, that could be——

Q. (Interposing) What is that?

A. That is in substance correct.

Q. And the strike committee did call a strike; correct?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object again, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: This is still getting that strike.

The Witness: I would like to add this: There was not over two or three members in that union that knew that this strike was going to take place against this factory. The members of that union were told to meet at a certain address in [537] Los Angeles and then they were to march over and strike a factory without even being known.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. Chase, did the strike committee declare a strike?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute.

Presiding Inspector: If you know, yes or no.

The Witness: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

The Witness: And they had no members in the factory——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Just a minute, that is all right. You have answered it. Go ahead.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Are you opposed to trade unions?

A. No, I am not. [538]

Q. You are a strong advocate of them?

A. I believe in trade unionism, yes.

Q. Therefore, I suppose you would be opposed to what are generally considered anti-labor activities or forces? A. Yes, I am.

Q. I suppose that would include labor espionage?

A. I have never committed labor espionage.

Q. You would be opposed to it?

A. I have committed espionage against the Communist Party.

Q. But you would be opposed to labor espionage? A. Yes, I would.

Q. That is to say, spying on trade unions for the purpose of transmitting——

A. (Interposing) Spying on trade unions for the purposes——

Q. (Interposing) Let me finish, please.

Mr. Del Guercio: Is counsel trying to define espionage?

Mr. Gladstein: I am trying to ask a question, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Just a moment. Let's hear the last question.

(The question was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: Finish the question.

Mr. Gladstein: That is right. Thank you.

By Mr. Gladstein: [539]

Q. (Continuing) ——information to employers concerning activities of the Union?

A. Of the Communists in the Union, I would be concerned——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) No, no; the question was, in general, whether you were opposed to spying on trade unions?

The Witness: Yes, I am opposed.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. For the benefit of the employer?

A. Yes, I am opposed to that, and I have never done any of it.

Q. Never done any of it? A. No.

Q. Never tried to do any of it? A. No.

Q. Ever try to get a job doing any?

A. No.

Q. Ever apply for a job to do labor spying?

A. No.

Q. Never did? A. No.

Q. If you ever had you would remember it?

A. I believe I would.

Q. You don't think a thing like that would very likely slip your mind, do you? [540]

A. I hardly think so.

Q. Never applied, for example, say, to the Pinkerton Agencies to become what is called an industrial investigator? A. No.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Never did? A. No.

Q. Or the William J. Burns Agency?

A. No.

Q. Or, say, the Glen E. Bodell Agency?

A. No.

Q. Never did? A. No, I never.

Q. If you had you would remember it?

A. I have never made no applications to those organizations.

Q. You wouldn't want to do any labor spying for any of those organizations, would you?

A. I would be a guard, or something of that sort, but I wouldn't do labor spying work.

Q. Well, you make a distinction between a guard and an investigator, is that right?

A. Yes; I wouldn't mind being a guard.

Q. But you would be opposed to being what is called an industrial investigator?

A. An industrial spy, I would. [541]

Q. Have all the answers you have given me here been true?

A. To my best—to the best of my knowledge I believe they have.

Q. You have never made an application, oral or written, to any detection agency to do any labor spying or industrial investigation; correct?

A. I asked several of them about jobs as guard at one time.

Q. But you never made a written application?

A. I have no recollection of ever having made a written application.

Q. Well, I want you to think very hard about this, Mr. Chase. I want you to tell me whether you have ever made an oral or written application for a job as an industrial investigator, or labor spy?

A. I can't remember that I ever have.

Q. Well, can't you say yes or no?

A. I can't remember that I have.

Q. Well, opposed, as you are, to labor spying, can't you tell me whether you have ever done it?

Mr. Del Guercio: That has been asked and answered, if your Honor please?

Presiding Inspector: I think he has answered that.

Mr. Gladstein: Could I have the last answer?

[542]

(The last answer was read by the reporter as recorded.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. "I can't remember that I have," you say. Well, Mr. Chase, that indicates to me that it is possible you did——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) If your Honor please——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) I haven't finished, your Honor; I haven't finished my question.

Presiding Inspector: Let counsel ask the question. Don't answer it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. It indicates to me, Mr. Chase, by your last answer, that it is quite possible you did apply for a job as a labor spy?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. No, I have not applied for any job as a labor spy.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object.

Mr. Gladstein: Can we not have the answer?

Presiding Inspector: No; it isn't any question. You asked what the indication is to you.

Mr. Gladstein: I did ask a question.

Presiding Inspector: You asked whether it was proper as an indication to you. We are not interested in the indication to you.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I will put it this way: Is it possible that you did [543] make such an application?

A. I asked for jobs, yes, at various places, but I didn't specify being a labor spy, and I don't recollect whether I was given an application or not.

Q. Did you ever make an application to become an industrial investigator?

A. I really can't recollect just what was said. It was just a few minutes I spent in a few offices.

Q. Is it possible you did?

A. I hardly think so.

Q. Then, your answer would be "No"?

A. I am not really quite clear on it; I can't remember exactly.

Q. Are you in doubt about this, Mr. Chase?

A. I don't remember.

Q. You mean that there is some doubt in your mind?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. I don't remember just what was said. It was so long ago that I have probably forgotten it, but I do know that I have been in agencies; yes.

Q. This is oral conversations that you have had with agencies?

A. To the best of my memory; yes.

Q. You have never made a written application for a job as a labor spy?

A. I don't recollect. [544]

Q. Can't you say "yes" or "no"?

A. No. I just don't recollect that I ever did. I have been to many places for employment and in some instances applications have been given and in some places they haven't.

Q. Is it possible that you did make an application for a job as a labor spy?

A. It could be possible.

Q. It could be?

A. But I have no recollection of it,—I don't remember.

Mr. Del Guercio: Counsel here is attempting to confuse the witness. He uses the term "labor spy" and "labor investigator." I would like to know if there is any position or if counsel has any information that there is a position as "labor spy" with any kind of detective agency, or any other kind of an agency?

Presiding Inspector: I think counsel is within his rights of cross examination.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you, your Honor.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, let us see—until the middle of 1936 I think you said that you were sincere about your belief in Communism, is that right?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Did you believe in the overthrow of the Government by force and violence? [545]

A. Yes, at one time I did, and I advocated that theory a number of times.

Q. And I think you testified that you were arrested several times in connection with unemployment activities?

A. I stated "Communist activities."

Q. Were you openly acting as a member of the Communist Party at the time?

A. At various times I was acting openly as a Communist Party member. There were times when I was told to come out into the open, and there were times when efforts were made to sort of cover up my membership.

Q. Did you ever lead demonstrations?

A. Oh, yes; I have led demonstrations.

Q. Did any of them result in riots?

A. Yes.

Q. Then you, as a leader of these demonstrations, guided the incitement to riot?

A. There was one demonstration that took place in the——

Q. (Interposing) Just a moment—can't you answer the question?

A. Yes, I would state it did lead to rioting.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Gladstein: I want you to listen to the question and state whether you can answer "Yes" or "No", and if you wish to explain it you may.

Presiding Inspector: Read the question. [546]

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Presiding Inspector: Do you refer to this one?

Mr. Gladstein: Any of them.

Presiding Inspector: The question isn't clear.

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw it and put it again.

Presiding Inspector: You put them all in.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I understood from your testimony, Mr. Chase, that on a number of occasions there were riots resulting from demonstrations by groups, of which you had the leadership, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. I am asking you now whether you, as a leader of those groups, were responsible for the incitement to riot?

A. No, I don't believe that I was.

Q. You were not personally? A. No.

Q. You had no intention to see that a riot occurred? A. No, I didn't.

Q. You didn't do anything like that?

A. No. I was trying to keep everything as peaceful as I could.

Q. I see. Was that in line with the Communist Policy? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. To keep everything as peaceful as possible?

[547]

A. Yes, sir. I was appointed to lead that committee by the Communist Party.

Q. In order to keep things as quiet as possible?

A. No.

Q. For what purpose?

A. I was acting on my own judgment and handling the Committee as effectively as I possibly could.

Q. What was the purpose of handling the Committee?

A. I went as their spokesman before the Relief officials.

Q. What instructions, if any, did you have from the Communist Party with respect to causing a riot?

A. Well, I wasn't instructed to cause a riot; no.

Q. I see. A. Definitely not.

Q. So that any riots which occurred, you say, which did occur, were not in accordance with Communist policy instructions to you?

A. We hadn't hoped to incite a riot; no.

Q. What?

A. It wasn't our hope to incite a riot; we knew it would take place.

Q. Did you ever get paid for being an undercover agent? A. I never received a cent.

Q. Did you receive anything else of value other than money? A. No. [548]

Q. Were jobs found for you? A. No.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Nobody ever obtained or promised to obtain a job for you in consideration for your services?

A. No; and I have never had such a job.

Q. You were just being an angel, is that it?

A. I was actively opposing the Communist Party.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment——

Presiding Inspector: Just a moment. I will exclude the question.

Mr. Gladstein: All right, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I don't know what the figure of speech means.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I want to go back for a minute to the business of labor spying. I think you testified that your best judgment is that you never made a written application to become either a labor spy or industrial investigator, correct?

A. I said I didn't recollect.

Q. Mr. Chase, I am looking now at a copy of the Hearings before a Subcommittee of the Committee on Education and Labor, United States Senate, and popularly known as the LaFollette Committee, published by the United States Government Printing Office, Part 65, and I am looking at page 23734.

I see there an application—— [549]

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) May I see that?

Mr. Gladstein: I am not offering it in evidence, your Honor, but I am phrasing a question on it. I would like not to be interrupted before asking the question.

Presiding Inspector: You may ask the question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I see here an application to the Glen E. Bodell Detectives, by a man who gives his name as Ezra Frank Chase. What is your name?

A. That is my name.

Q. And who gives his age in the year 1937 as 41. What was your age then?

A. That was my age.

Q. And who says that he was born in Idaho Falls, Idaho. Where were you born?

A. That is correct.

Q. And who says he was born in the year 1896. When were you born? A. That is right.

Q. What is that? A. That is right.

Q. And who gives his then address as 121 E. 119 St., Los Angeles. Where did you live at that time?

A. At that address.

Presiding Inspector: You are asking for the contents of this document? [550]

Mr. Gladstein: No, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: You have said, "I see here," and then you have asked whether that was correct. I think counsel may examine it.

Mr. Del Guercio: You refused my request to examine it.

Mr. Gladstein: I will let him look at it. I have no objection to him looking at it.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment. You have shown me this document here, and you have wanted the Court to believe that this witness here made application for a job as a labor spy.

Mr. Gladstein: I do not wish, your Honor, counsel to reveal any of the contents of this document while I have the witness under cross examination. I have that right, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Yes. Hand it back to counsel.

(Whereupon Mr. Del Guercio returned the document mentioned to Mr. Gladstein.)

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Is your memory refreshed enough to be able to state whether or not you did file an application with Glen E. Bodell Detectives on December 13, 1937?

A. Well, the information that you have there is correct, yes; there is no doubt about that.

Q. Answer the question that I asked you.

Presiding Inspector: Does it refresh your recollection— [551] "yes" or "no"—on the subject? That means when you heard this do you now remember it?

A. Yes; I remember of talking to the Bodell Agency and of being given, it seems, an application blank, and I think they gave me a stamped envelope, but to my memory it don't seem that I had ever filled it out, or mailed it in.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Let's go through it. I read here that the applicant in this case filled out it and said that he was married, and had a child named Delores. Did you have a child named Delores?

A. Yes; that is right.

Q. That his mother's name was May Chase. What is your mother's name?

A. That is right.

Q. That her address was 623 Downington Avenue, Salt Lake City, Utah. What is your mother's address? A. You are right again.

Q. And under "Marks or scars" the applicant who filled out this application to the Glen E. Bodell Detectives, stated "Tattoos, right forearm, also on upper right and left. arm." Do you have such tattoos? A. Would you like to see them?

Q. Answer the question. A. Yes.

Q. Do you? A. Yes. [552]

Q. Does this refresh your recollection enough now to be able to state whether you did fill out——

A. (Interposing): Yes, I possibly filled it out.

Q. (Continuing): Let me finish the question before you answer it. Does this now refresh your recollection sufficiently to be able to state whether you filled out and signed an application of the character that I am reading?

A. Yes: I recall that they gave me an application and apparently I must have filled it out. I recall that it laid on the shelf in my closet for several months in my house and I apparently filled it out and mailed it.

Q. What was your purpose in filling out that application?

A. I think that they are an authorized detective agency and that they do quite a variety of detective work.

Q. What kind of work were you trying to do with them?

A. I wasn't interested in any labor spying, but I would have welcomed a job in any factory where there were Communists present. I would have been very glad to have taken a job, yes, and I would take one now of spying in any factory where Communists are involved.

Q. Now, you were seeking, in other words, a job as an industrial investigator, is that right?

Mr. Del Guercio: Counsel has been reading from this application. He has not read it all. He is reading portions of it. The application does not state that the applicant was [553] seeking a job as a labor investigator.

Presiding Inspector: You must not deceive the witness.

Mr. Gladstein: I wouldn't.

Presiding Inspector: I don't know.

Mr. Gladstein: I certainly will not do that, and I will stand corrected if at any time in this proceeding it is shown that I have deceived the witness.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I say that you have been, and I ask that you show the document to the Court.

Presiding Inspector: Let Mr. Gladstein go ahead.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

Read the last question, please.

Presiding Inspector: I rely on you as a member of the Bar not to deceive the witness.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, your Honor.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. I would, yes, where Communism was involved. I think you will find something in there about seditious activities in my qualifications in that line.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you remember that now?

A. I am commencing to remember, yes, what I had stated when I was in the office, that I had experience and understood the [554] Communist movements, and I believe that will so state.

Q. In other words, now that you have remembered filling out this application you testify that you stated in the application that your purpose was to do investigation in factories——that would be industrial investigation—of an anti-Communist nature, is that right?

A. Involving seditious activities.

Mr. Myron: Counsel is incorrectly stating the witness' answer.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Gladstein: He has answered.

Presiding Inspector: Read the answer, the last answer just now given.

(The answer referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Presiding Inspector: Proceed.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You were then a member of a labor union, weren't you, at the time you filled out this application? A. No, indeed.

Q. You had already ceased being a member of the union, is that right?

A. Yes. That came right after that.

Q. You are sure of that?

A. At the time that I talked to several agencies it was possibly in December. [555]

Q. You are sure of that, are you?

A. Well, I can't be too sure of my dates in that period because, after all, it was such a short period of time, and there were a lot of things happening at that time, and I can't be too certain because I have kept no records.

Q. Would you change your mind if I read from this application the following: "Are you a member of any lodge or organization: American Legion 'Union Labor Post.' American Federation of Labor. Upholsterers' Union."

A. I was probably not yet out of—well, I had my dues, I think, paid up to January the 1st.

Q. Your answer——

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. (Interposing): I believe I had my card.

Q. Your answer is now that at the time you filled out the application to the Glen E. Bodell Detective Agency you were a member of the Union?

A. No. I definitely was not then.

Q. Your statement in the application was incorrect?

A. It could be, yes, that I had probably utilized that as a qualification. But I was not employed by that Union.

Q. Well, were you saying something in the application which was incorrect?

A. It could have been that I had utilized that as a qualification, not for the purpose of a serious misrepresentation, though. [556]

Q. Do you remember whether the application required references?

A. They usually do, and I believe that one did too.

Q. Do you remember which persons were used as references?

A. I would have undoubtedly used Captain Hynes as one.

Q. Who else?

A. I couldn't recollect that.

Q. Well, you used a man by the name of R. J. Ruthbard, didn't you? A. Yes.

Q. Who was he?

A. That is my brother in law.

Q. You used a man by the name of J. A. Reshaw, didn't you?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. Those are just character references; yes.

Q. That is to say—by the way, who was Reshaw?

A. He is a real estate operator.

Q. Located where?

A. On Vernon Avenue, in Los Angeles.

Q. Now, you were using these three references to vouch for your character and your integrity, correct?

A. Yes; people that knew me. I think that was all that was required.

Q. How long had you known Captain Hynes prior to the [557] time you made this application?

A. I suppose I have known Captain Hynes probably since about 1931.

Q. No. I mean in the kind of relationship that you sustained toward him at the time that you signed the application to the Glen E. Bodell Detectives.

A. That was probably a year or a year and a half.

Q. Now, in this application you will remember, won't you, Mr. Chase, that there were spaces provided for an applicant to place an "X" after that type of work which he sought, do you recall that?

A. No, I don't.

Q. You don't remember that?

A. No, I don't recollect just what it looked like.

Q. In the one I am looking at there are four such categories, watchman, guard, special police, and investigator. And there is an "X" after the word "investigator." Does that refresh your recollection?

A. No, it doesn't. I still don't recollect any of that part.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I believe that counsel's statement here will indicate that he has been deceiving the witness. He has been asking the witness here, based on the information contained in this application, to admit that he has made application for a job as a labor spy and a labor [558] investigator, and he has indicated right now there isn't a single thing in the application that would justify or warrant counsel in asking any questions concerning that.

Presiding Inspector: I will take that into consideration.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you remember whether the name of the agency appeared at the top of the application?

A. No, I couldn't state that.

Q. You don't remember that at all?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Would it refresh your recollection if I told you it says "Glen E. Bodell Detectives"?

A. Yes, I know the firm; yes.

Q. Would that refresh your recollection so you could state now whether the application you signed bore that heading?

A. I don't believe that I received an application form from anyone else but Glen Bodell. I don't believe I have ever been in possession of any other forms.

Q. So your testimony now would be, would it, that if a name was on top of the application you signed it would be "Glen E. Bodell Detectives"?

A. Yes, I think so.

Q. Underneath there it says "State Prison Board Permit No. 326." Do you remember anything about that?

A. What is that statement again, please? [559]

Mr. Gladstein: Read it, please.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. No, I don't.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. And underneath that, Mr. Chase, is the expression "Industrial Investigations". Do you remember that being on the application?

A. No, I don't.

Q. But if it appears in this document you wouldn't question it was in the application you signed?

A. No. I wouldn't question the document. I just don't recollect it.

Q. Now, under "Remarks" a space is provided in the application for the applicant to make statements of his own. Do you remember anything about that? A. No, I can't recollect it.

Q. Let me see if I can refresh your memory. Under "Remarks" in the application that I have been referring to, the first remark is "Good understanding of subversive activity."——

Mr. Del Guercio (Interposing): If the Court please——

A. I think that is right.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment. I would like to see if counsel is reading that correctly. I have reason to believe, in view of the statements heretofore made, that he is now deceiving [560] the Court in connection with reading this document. I question everything that counsel says.

Presiding Inspector: Very well.

Mr. Gladstein: Very well. I will allow counsel to check. You don't have to hold, because your hand is shaking.

Mr. Del Guercio: So is yours.

Mr. Gladstein: Not as much as yours is.

Mr. Del Guercio: I am not a Communist and you are.

Mr. Gladstein: If your Honor please——

Mr. Del Guercio (Interposing): Well, you didn't have to say that.

Mr. Gladstein: Did your Honor hear that remark?

Presiding Inspector: No. I am blind and deaf today. Go right on.

Mr. Gladstein: Your Honor will recall that in the last question I asked the witness whether there was a space in which he could voluntarily make statements under the caption "Remarks", and I read the first statement: "Good understanding of subversive activity", and he said "Yes, that is correct."

Have I misread that, Mr. Del Guercio?

Mr. Del Guercio: Go ahead. I will tell you when you misread it.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Your answer is you recall it? [561]

A. Yes.

Q. The next sentence is: "Know trade unions and how to deal with them."

A. That is where the Communists are active.

Q. Mr. Chase, that expression, "Know trade unions and how to deal with them"—do you recall writing that?

A. Yes, I do. That means nothing.

Q. Means nothing—next is "Could work as salesman in Dept. store." Do you recall that?

A. Yes.

Q. That is correct, isn't it? A. Yes.

Q. Next is "Do clerical work, good public speaker, machine shop, factory work, quickly adaptable to semi-skilled work." Is that correct?

A. That probably would be correct.

Q. Then "Have worked as a professional still photographer." Is that correct?

A. That is right.

Q. Then "Automobile, aircraft, rubber, meat packing, O. K." Remember that?

A. That is right.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. That is correct, isn't it? A. Correct.

Q. "Date: December 13, 1937." Remember that?

A. What is the date? [562]

Q. December 13, 1937.

A. Yes, that would be about right.

Q. And signed "Signature of applicant, Ezra F. Chase"? Remember that?

A. That is right.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute: "Signature of applicant" is not on there.

Mr. Gladstein: This, of course, is a printed volume and does not contain Mr. Chase's original signature. That is understood.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You don't deny you signed that application?

A. No, I don't deny it.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

Presiding Inspector: Have you read it all now, Mr. Gladstein?

Mr. Gladstein: There are parts that I have not read, but I will introduce the whole thing in evidence, your Honor. We may have further questions on this.

I may say, your Honor, that this is the only volume I have, and I prefer to be entitled to make a photostat of this particular exhibit. You see this occurs in a book and there is printing on the opposite side.

Presiding Inspector: How much longer is it than what you have already read? [563]

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Gladstein: There is quite a good deal of personal, intimate details, such as observations of physical description, and so on, things of that kind, questions as to the use of firearms, and so on. It would take perhaps five minutes to read it into the record.

Mr. Del Guercio: Why not read the whole thing into the record?

Mr. Gladstein: I don't have any objection to that.

Presiding Inspector: That perhaps will be the easiest way out.

Mr. Gladstein: I will read it now.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I check you?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, by all means, Mr. Del Guercio.

I am afraid that Mr. Del Guercio wouldn't read it loud enough for the reporter to hear it.

Presiding Inspector: Never mind; proceed.

Mr. Gladstein: (Reading.)

(The document read by Mr. Gladstein reads in words and figures as follows, to-wit:)

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: What is the date? [567]

Mr. Gladstein: December 13, 1937.

Presiding Inspector: You may proceed.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, Mr. Chase, at the time you made your application to the Glen Bodell Detective Industrial Investigations did you know what kind of a reputation, if any, that organization had in organized labor?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, if your Honor please.

Would you mind reading that question again?

Presiding Inspector: Read the question, Miss Reporter.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

Presiding Inspector: That is a double question, but at the same time, I think the witness can answer that.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

Presiding Inspector: He may say he doesn't know that it had any.

A. The local that I represented used to hire their agents as guards up in the dances that they gave.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, what kind of a reputation did the Glen Bodell Agency have with respect to union or strike activities among trade unions?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. If you know that?

Presiding Inspector: That is, if it had any, and if he [568] knows.

Mr. Gladstein: If it had any, and if he knows.

A. I have heard little or nothing about it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. None at all? None at all?

A. Well, our union there had a little discussion about our union hiring special police from the Bodell Agency to be present at the dances.

Q. When was that?

A. At one dance in particular; I believe it would have been held in November, 1937. The armed officer that was at that dance to keep order was from the Glen Bodell Agency.

Q. Where was the dance held?

A. 121 West 18th Street.

Q. What kind of a place is that?

A. That was the Upholsterers Union Headquarters. They had a large auditorium used for dancing and a beer permit.

Q. Who hired the guard?

A. I don't know; someone in the union hired him.

Q. Did you?

A. No; it would have been Walter Westfall or William Standera who made the arrangements.

Q. Now, at the time that you made your application to the Glen Bodell Agency, did you know whether the Glen Bodell Agency had a reputation of providing strike breakers and labor [569] spies in industrial disputes? A. No, I didn't.

Q. Or in unions? A. No, I didn't.

Q. You didn't know about that? A. No.

Q. Did you know whether the Bodell Agency had a reputation of having provided strike breakers and labor spies in the Salinas lettuce strike in the year 1936? A. No.

Presiding Inspector: Whether they had a reputation for it?

The Witness: No, I didn't.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You didn't know that?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Now, during these conversations you had with Captain Hines, which, I think you said, was about the middle of 1936 on—is that correct?

A. Yes, to the best of my memory.

Q. Well, we want everything according to the best of your memory. You understand that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, during that period of time in your conversations with Captain Hines did he give you any advice as to how to achieve your objectives? [570]

A. Never.

Q. Never at any time? A. No.

Q. He just took your reports and said nothing?

A. There was a time or two that he asked me about Communist activity of various natures, but my reports were voluntary at all times. I was under no obligation to him.

Q. Well, I understood that from your testimony this morning, but I am now trying to find out whether you discussed these reports with him and whether Captain Hines made any suggestions to you? A. No, I recollect no such a thing.

Q. You felt that he was satisfied with your reports and had no suggestions to make?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object, your Honor, to the form of the question. That isn't a question to ask of the witness.

Presiding Inspector: I think the witness may answer; he is well able to take care of himself.

A. I hadn't never given it any thought from that viewpoint.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, will you listen to the question, Mr. Chase, and see whether you can answer it more directly than the answer you have given?

The Witness: I believe I understood it.

Presiding Inspector: Read the question, Miss Reporter.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.) [571]

The Witness: I never gave it any consideration, whether he was satisfied or not. Certain Communist activity took place and I reported the facts as I saw it.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. And he never made any suggestions to you; is that right? A. No.

Q. Is that correct? A. That is correct.

Q. Then it would be your testimony, would it, that Captain Hines never suggested to you that you should do what you could to stir up the membership of the union?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object, your Honor.

A. No, I have no such recollections of anything like that; it is ridiculous.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. He never did that?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. He never suggested that you should stir up the membership on the proposition that there was too much secrecy on the part of the union?

A. No, no.

Q. He never made any such suggestions?

A. No, no.

Q. Did you ever try to stir up the membership because [572] of too much secrecy in the union?

A. I don't recollect anything of that nature.

Q. It is possible that you did?

A. I hardly think so.

Q. Are you uncertain when you say "I hardly think so?"

A. Well, your question is pretty broad.

Q. Well, let's put it this way: Did Captain Hines ever suggest to you that you try to stir up the membership because of the absence of financial reports in the union?

A. Well, there was a great deal of dissension going on in the union regarding financial reports which were seldom given and never correct. There was discussion that was quite general inside the union, and it didn't require any stirring up on that line.

Q. Did you yourself attempt to do any stirring up on that line?

A. I, at different times, did want to see a more careful accounting of the union's funds. There was money being spent for beef squads and things of that sort that the members didn't know about. On one instance there we paid $50.00 to Chester Jordan to get the Longshoremen's Beef Squad up there to beat up a few workers at the Kroehlar strike, a few things of that sort. There was probably $500.00 in a safety deposit box at the disposal of the beef squad that members of the union would have liked to have known a little more about. [573]

Q. Now did you, yourself, then use that to stir up the membership on the incorrectness or absence of financial reports?

A. No, I can't recollect that I ever did make any serious issue out of it.

Q. It is possible that you did?

A. Oh, I have commented on it, I believe, at times, but I don't believe to the extent that it would have stirred up the union to any extent.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Did Captain Hines suggest that you do any of that?

A. No.

Q. Never did?

A. I have no recollection of any such thing.

Q. Do you remember a meeting in your local union in March of 1937 when you were running for office as a delegate to the convention?

A. Yes, I do remember such a meeting.

Q. And do you remember that you were not elected as a delegate because the San Diego members of the union cast their votes for an opponent of yours by the name of Yost, Y-o-s-t?

A. Yes, I remember that very well.

Q. Did you tell Captain Hines about that?

A. Yes, I believe I did, because it was a pretty clever piece of party conspiracy. [574]

Q. What did you tell Captain Hines?

A. I think I gave him an idea of the way the Communists in the union had maneuevered that election.

Q. In writing?

A. I remember distinctly that I had a majority of the votes out of the floor, and the Communist Fraction authorized Walter Westfall to call San Diego to take their votes by phone, and they brought in 26 votes in a solid block.

Q. So, do I understand that you wrote a report and sent it to Captain Hines?

A. I believe I did write that out and sent it to him, yes.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Do you recall what else you said in that report?

A. No, I wouldn't; I had no copy of it.

Q. Did you tell Captain Hines in your report, Mr. Chase, that you jumped up and made a motion that the election was valid and legal, and so forth? You remember doing that, don't you?

A. No, I don't recollect at the time just what I did.

Q. Do you remember telling Captain Hines in this written report that you had expected soon to get Westfall and a man named Standera and Silva out of the Communist Fraction?

A. Yes; they were wavering; they were about to pull away from it; the whole three of us were about to pull away from the Communist Fraction. [575]

Q. That is right. You intended to get them to pull away and expected to do so?

A. Yes, that was correct.

Q. That was in your report to Captain Hines?

A. I don't recollect whether it was in the report or not, but that was the state of affairs.

Q. Then, it is quite likely that it was in the report? A. Yes, it could have been, yes.

Q. And you were the person, that is, you were working on Westfall and Standera and Silva to get them out of the Fraction?

A. Yes, I wanted to separate them from the Communist movement.

Q. Then, as a matter of fact, your purpose, I take it, would be to do what?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. We wanted to eliminate the Communist Party in that local.

Q. So that you could rebuild the union under the control of yourself, Standera, Westfall and Silva; correct?

A. The better way to do it would be that we could get it out from the influence of the Communist trade union commission which we were resentful of at the time.

Q. But your purpose there would be, would it not, in separating these three men whose names you have mentioned, that it would give you control and enable you to rebuild the union? [576]

A. Yes, we would have had control, then, and we could have rebuilt the union without interference and without making money donations and this and that to various phases of the Communist program, which I was honestly resentful of, and I believed the other three too felt that way about it.

Q. And you reported that to Captain Hines?

A. Yes, I believe I did.

Q. Did you ever use any other name besides Ezra F. Chase?

A. In the party, yes; I have used a couple of names.

Q. Well, outside of your party names?

A. I don't recollect, now.

Q. Ever use R. F. Chase? A. No.

Q. Rubin F. Chase?

A. Not to my knowledge; I don't recollect anything like that.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Aren't you sure about that?

A. No, I have never used the name Rubin F. Chase.

Q. Frank Chase?

A. Frank Chase is my real name.

Q. You have used that, then?

A. Yes, I have; that is my true name.

Q. Have you used—well, your true name is Ezra Frank Chase? A. Ezra Frank Chase. [577]

Q. You have used Frank Chase?

A. I have went both by the name of Ezra Chase and Frank Chase; I am known that way at the present time.

Q. Ever use the name of Rubin Chase?

A. No.

Q. What was the designation which you said you sent your reports under to Captain Hines?

A. I used to just scratch B-50 on them.

Q. Was there ever any change of designation during the time that you were signing reports?

A. No.

Q. Never?

A. Not that I recollect, any other change.

Q. You mean you don't recall, but it is possible that there was a change?

A. I hardly think that it is possible.

Q. But you are not sure?

A. Well, I believe that I would state that I am sure of that.

Q. You believe you would state that you are sure? A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Oh, that is a matter of speech.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you ever apply for a job with the Pasadena [578] Police Department? A. Never.

Q. Or the Chief of Police in Pasadena?

A. Never; I have never met them, never had any conversation with them whatever.

Q. Now, at this meeting where, as you described it, you lost the election as a delegate to a forthcoming convention because of the San Diego votes——

A. Yes, sir.

Q. (Continuing) There was also elected a full time Secretary and Treasurer; remember that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At a salary of $40.00 a week: correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And expenses? A. Yes.

Q. You reported that to Captain Hines, didn't you?

A. Yes, I—no, I don't know that I did: I possibly might have, did, yes.

Q. The union at that time was in a bad state financially, wasn't it?

A. Yes, we probably were about that time in very bad shape for money.

Q. And, of course, you told Captain Hines that?

A. I might have done.

Q. When did you first establish contact with

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Captain [579] Hines with respect to the relationship which you are now discussing, that is, in giving him information?

A. I think that has already been asked and answered.

Q. I want as near as——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) If your Honor please, the witness has already stated that.

Presiding Inspector: I think he has.

Mr. Del Guercio: He stated it over and over.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, you said it was about the middle of 1936, I think? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that right? A. That is what I said.

Q. How did you establish that contact?

A. I happened to run into Hines and he asked me how I was getting along in my revolutionary activity. I let him know that I was not in accord with the Party. I told him that I was no longer in accord with the Party.

Q. What did he say?

A. He said, "What is the matter? Are you losing confidence in your future governors?"

Q. Then, what did you say?

A. Oh, a little idle chatter took place. I don't recollect the conversation that I had some years back.

Q. Where did this conversation take place? [580]

A. I think it was along Broadway.

Q. Who else was present, if anybody?

A. No one else.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Just the two of you?

A. Just the two of us.

Q. What else happened in this conversation?

A. I don't think anything else took place. Oh, I told him at the time—yes, I remember definitely now I told him at the time that I would be very glad to give him material that he could use, that would be useful in opposing Communism.

Q. You told him that on the occasion of this meeting? A. Yes.

Q. And what did he say?

A. Well, he said something to the effect that I could probably help him out from time to time.

Q. And how soon thereafter did you start making reports to him?

A. Oh, I don't recollect just how soon. I made him some reports, yes.

Q. Well, now, you must have worked out your method of sending reports to him; or speaking to him orally at that conversation or later on, I take it?

A. Oh, I had his phone number.

Q. Well, when did you get that? [581]

A. I think I got it from him the time I was talking to him. He told me to give him a ring sometime.

Q. At this first conversation when you said you would supply him with information; is that right?

A. Yes, I think he gave me his phone number at that time.

Q. Well, what else was said with respect to your reports?

A. I don't recollect anything else being said. We only talked for a moment or two.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Well, didn't you discuss the question of whether you should sign your reports?

A. No, we didn't.

Q. Not at that time? A. No.

Q. When did you?

A. I don't recollect that there was ever any discussion over it.

Q. You never did sign actually your reports?

A. No, I didn't sign any.

Q. Well, what arrangements were made so that he could tell from whom he was getting the report?

A. I told him what I would put on them.

Q. What did you tell him?

A. I told him that I would put an identifying mark of B-50 on them. [582]

Q. And what did he say to that?

A. I don't think he made any comment of any amount; might have said "All right."

Q. Who suggested that number? You or he?

A. I did.

Q. What did he say?

A. Nothing that I recollect.

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please, I think I will enter another objection here. We are getting far afield. This is cross examination for one purpose and this is apparently an inquisition here for another purpose.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I assume that Mr. Gladstein has some purpose in this.

Mr. Gladstein: That is right, your Honor.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: Of course, it isn't fully apparent to the Presiding Examiner. Every question on both sides is asked several times.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Going back for a moment to that March meeting in the union, Mr. Chase, when the San Diego telephone votes defeated you when you were running for delegate, although you were defeated as a delegate to the convention, in another respect it was really very helpful to have the thing happen that way, wasn't it?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I didn't understand that.

[583]

Mr. Gladstein: Your Honor, I may say this is preliminary to something which I represented to your Honor that I have reasonable ground to believe is appropriate. Now, I would prefer not to——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Well, I don't quite understand the question.

Read the question again.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

Presiding Inspector: Helpful to him?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, helpful to Mr. Chase.

Presiding Inspector: Very well.

A. No; if you feel that I would have capitalized upon that for disruptive activity you are mistaken, because when I took office in that union as organizer their funds were in a very bad condition: they, practically had none. Their membership was possibly less than 200 and a great part of them were in bad standing, and under my leadership in the union it went to a paper membership of 1800. The members that were totally paid up to date, I believe, would have approximated 1100, there being about 400 that were either wholly or partially in good standing. I organized, during my time in that union, may factories that no one would dispute that they had put forth every effort to organize for a number of years. I could name a number of those factories. I was sincerely out to organize and to get as many people into [584] the union, and to negotiate agreements where wages, hours and conditions would be obtained.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, let's get back to this meeting, Mr. Chase. I am trying to find out if this isn't——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) This is an explanation, I suppose, why it was not helpful to him?

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, as I understand it, you were trying to break off certain people from the Communist Fraction, you said? A. Yes.

Q. Yes, and the manner in which these votes from San Diego came in was considered pretty raw, was it, against you?

A. It was very raw, yes.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. And there was some dispute in the membership, I take it?

A. The membership was quite demoralized by the way the thing was done because the majority of them on the floor had voted for me.

Q. Yes. So, in other words, that disgust at the way you were defeated would, in a way, because of the way you were defeated, help you with the membership; isn't that correct?

A. Yes, it might have helped me some. [585]

Q. Yes. Now, as I recall your testimony, Mr. Chase, you were present at two meetings where Harry Bridges spoke. One was in an auditorium and the other was at a place on Washington Boulevard? A. That is correct.

Q. Those are the only times?

A. Those are the only times, yes.

Q. Now, let's take first the meeting in the auditorium. What auditorium was that?

A. The Olympic Auditorium.

Q. A large auditorium?

Q. Yes, it is quite large.

Q. How many people attended?

A. I could only venture a guess; probably a couple of thousand.

Q. Was it open to the public? A. Yes.

Q. Advertised? A. Yes.

Q. Who were the speakers?

A. Harry Bridges, a Mr. Latham of the Hawaiian Steamship Lines, I believe and there was a Minister from Boyle Heights. Aside from that I recollect no other speakers.

Q. What was the subject of discussion?

A. The labor conditions in the maritime industry, to the best of my memory. [586]

Q. Do you remember anything that Harry Bridges said that night?

A. No, I don't recollect anything definite that he stated there.

Q. All right. Now, the other meeting, I think, you said was somewhere on Washington Boulevard?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was that address?

A. 1210½ West Washington Boulevard.

Q. What kind of a place was that?

A. That was the union headquarters of the Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union.

Q. What kind of a building was it, can you tell us? A. It is a two-story building.

Q. What was it used for aside from an office, if anything?

A. I couldn't recollect just what is on the ground floor, whether that is apartments or whether it is business. I couldn't recollect definitely just what is there.

Q. What time did that meeting take place?

A. I think it was called for about 10:00 o'clock in the morning.

Q. Do you remember the date?

A. It would be about September or October, as nearly as I remember. [587]

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Well, which?

A. I believe about September.

Q. When in September?

A. I don't remember the exact date.

Q. Well, do you remember what part of the month?

A. I believe it would have been toward the latter part of the month.

Q. During the last two weeks?

A. Yes, I believe that that would be quite close to it.

Q. Closer to the end of the month or closer to the middle of the month?

A .Well, now, it is a pretty hard matter to remember just the exact date of events that took place several years ago.

Q. You wouldn't want to be positive?

A. I would be better informed as to who was there.

Q. I will get around to that, too.

Now, do you know how the meeting was called?

A. I know how I got my call.

Q. I didn't ask you that. I said, "Do you know how the meeting was called?"

A. No, I don't.

Q. What kind of a meeting did that purport to be?

A. My understanding of it was that it was to be the policy that the A. F. of L. unions and party members were to be guided in moving A. F. of L. unions into the CIO. [588]

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Did you get that understanding from what was said during the meeting? A. Yes, I did.

Q. You got that from the discussion during the meeting itself—— A. Yes.

Q. Let me finish, please, Mr. Chase. Just a moment.

Presiding Inspector: Well, he can't tell when your question ends. That seemed to be all. Don't scold the witness.

Mr. Gladstein: I am sorry, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Now, if you want to add anything to the question, add it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I want this very clear, Mr. Chase. Did you get from the speeches made at that meeting in the Warehouse Hall the idea that the policy was being laid down as to what A. F. of L. and Communist Party members were supposed to do on the question of CIO affiliation?

A. Yes, I had that impression.

Q. From what did you gain that impression?

A. From the remarks of the speaker and from the instructions that I received, and from whom I received them, to go to that meeting.

Q. Well, now, let's confine ourselves to the meeting itself for the moment. [589]

What remarks were made during the meeting itself which gave you the idea that a policy was there being laid down for what A. F. of L. and Communist Party members were to do with respect to CIO affiliation?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. Well, there was confusion in Los Angeles as to the best procedure to follow in getting unions and union members over to the CIO. Many of them in the local of which I was a part were wanting to go out and set up a local and affiliate with the CIO, create a new union in the industry, take what members they could get and move over to it; some of them had that idea. There was others that wanted to put it to a vote on the floor of he union and to move the local union over. And this meeting was—it was outlined by Bridges that they weren't to split the unions, the locals, but they were to elect delegates to central bodies and, I believe, to national conventions and things of that sort, to work to the movement of the entire International, if possible. That, in substance, is what I think the meeting was about.

Q. Well, I asked you what remarks were made by Bridges or any other speaker at this meeting from which you derived the conclusion that the policy was being laid down at that meeting for members of the American Federation of Labor and members of the Communist Party with respect to CIO affiliation?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, Mr. Witness, please.

The Witness: Yes. [590]

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the question as having been asked and answered several times, if your Honor please. The witness has given an answer.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: I am not quite sure whether he has answered it or not. He may have answered it.

Mr. Gladstein: I don't think he has.

Presiding Inspector: I think I will allow him to answer it again.

Now, the question is as to what the remarks made at the meeting were in this respect?

The Witness: He was laying down a policy that would be followed—to be followed by A. F. of L., and CIO unions, too, for that matter, in furthering the program of the CIO and moving A. F. of L. unions into the CIO, but the important part of it was that my instructions came over the telephone from the organizer of the Communist Trade Union Section, that I would have to attend the meeting or suffer disciplinary action, and to take two other Communist officers of the local union with me, where Harry Bridges was to lay down the line.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, Mr. Chase, a while ago, when I asked you what you relied on for your conclusion that Harry Bridges was laying down a policy for Communist Party members at this meeting, you said first remarks at the meeting, and second the instructions you got over the telephone. Remember that?

[591]

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, if your Honor please. I object to that as being argumentative.

Mr. Gladstein: No, your Honor. This is introductory——

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I am not sure whether that is exactly right or not. It may be or it may not.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, is that correct?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, please.

Mr. Gladstein: He just said "Yes".

Presiding Inspector: Let the witness answer that and then explain it.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you say "Yes" to that question, Mr. Chase?

A. No, I haven't given you a "Yes" or "No" answer to that question.

Q. I thought I heard you say "Yes"?

A. I don't think it should be answered as such.

Q. I think the Judge will be the judge of that.

Presiding Inspector: I am going to let you explain. Now, go ahead.

The Witness: It has long been understood among Communists in the trade union movement——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) No, that will hardly do. [592]

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't understand the question myself.

Presiding Inspector: Read the question.

The Witness: Read the question.

Mr. Gladstein: I will go way back, your Honor.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Let the stenographer read the question.

Mr. Gladstein: Your Honor, I do not wish to take advantage of the witness in any way.

The Witness: No, of course.

Presiding Inspector: No, but we will have to have order; no comments.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, I will review this just briefly.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. Chase, you recall that a little while ago I asked you what it was that occurred upon which you formed the conclusion that Harry Bridges was laying down a Communist Party policy at this meeting on Washington Boulevard; you remember that? A. Yes.

Q. Don't you? A. Yes.

Q. All right, and you answered me, first you said because of remarks that were made at this meeting at Washington Boulevard, and second because of instructions that you got from a Communist, you say, over the telephone; you remember that? A. That is right. [593]

Q. Then, I asked your what remarks at the meeting on Washington Boulevard were made from which you derived the conclusion that Harry Bridges was laying down a policy for Communist Party members and A. F. of L. members with respect to CIO affiliation? Will you please state those remarks?

Presiding Inspector: Well, now, just a moment.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

That isn't founded on his answer. He said he got it from two sources.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: He didn't name the one source alone or, at least, I don't know that he did, but the two together. Now, if you want to ask him whether he got that impression from each of them separately you may ask him that, but you assumed in the question.

Mr. Gladstein: As I understood the witness——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) We may not understand each other.

Mr. Gladstein: I see.

Presiding Inspector: But he has given two sources, hasn't he, together?

Mr. Gladstein: That is right, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Now, you take one of those sources without connection with the other and ask him, assuming that it was from that alone——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) No, I am not saying that. [594]

Presiding Inspector: Well, that is the implication that I get from the question.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I will withdraw it and put it this way:

Presiding Inspector: You understand.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, I think I know what your Honor is pointing out. I simply want this: The witness has given two points; one is the remarks at the meeting and the other is a telephone conversation. Now, for the moment, I wish to confine my questioning to the remarks at the meeting.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: For the moment I want to know what those remarks were and that is why I am asking the witness what——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) You may ask what was said at the meeting, of course.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. What are the remarks that you had in mind when you gave this answer a moment ago, that is, with respect to remarks and the telephone conversation by which you concluded that Harry Bridges was laying down the Communist policy?

Mr. Myron: Your Honor, I think that question is vague. I think he can ask what remarks were made by Harry Bridges.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, I think you better rephrase: what remarks were made.

Mr. Gladstein: All right, I will reframe it. [595]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. What remarks were made by Harry Bridges at this meeting?

Presiding Inspector: Well, I rather think he has also told them.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I would like them again, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Very well, you may have them again.

What did Bridges say at the meeting?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

The Witness: Well, I outlined already what he had stated, that it would be improper for small groups of trade unionists to split their locals and move over to the CIO in small groups, that that was not what the CIO wanted, that they wanted the entire International, and they should work toward those ends; that, in essense, is what the meeting was about.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Those are the remarks that Harry Bridges made at that meeting?

A. But those are not all of the remarks.

Q. What other remarks?

A. He made another remark there about Red baiting—at that time there was considerable Red baiting,—it was cropping up in various local unions—that the Party was trying to put the damper on Red baiting, to discredit the Red baiters as much as they could, and he said, in words to this effect: "There was a time when I thought that if a man was opposed to the Communist Party that it was his right to so speak". [596] He says, "Experience has taught me to treat with distrust those who Red bait."

Q. Any other remarks that he made at that meeting that you remember?

A. That is about all that I recall.

Q. So that represents, in essence, all of the remarks at the meeting made by Harry Bridges which was part of your answer to my question as to what you relied on when you said that Harry

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Bridges was laying down the Communist policy at that meeting; correct?

Mr. Myron: Just a minute. That isn't what the witness said.

Presiding Inspector: No, I don't think he said that.

Mr. Myron: The witness has answered two questions. I think he said at first he was directed by the Communist Party to go to this meeting to hear Harry Bridges lay down the Party line. Then, he stated what he heard at the meeting which, according to the witness, is the party line.

Mr. Gladstein: Could we have the question read, please?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

Mr. Gladstein: Isn't that correct?

Presiding Inspector: No, I don't think that is correct.

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw that question.

Presiding Inspector: I think you should try to sever it from what the witness has said was the original instruction.

By Mr. Gladstein: [597]

Q. First of all, before we finish that, the people at this meeting on Washington Boulevard, how many were there? A. Oh, probably 25.

Q. Did you know them all?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Well, did you know who they all were?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. No, I didn't know who all of them were.

Q. Did you know whether all of them were trade unionists from one trade union or another?

A. Well, I believed them all to be from trade unions, yes.

Q. Name some of those who were present.

A. There was Robertson.

Q. What union was he from?

A. United Rubber Workers.

Q. Who else? A. There was John Horn.

Q. What union was he from?

A. The Brewery Workers. There was Bill Gately.

Q. What Union?

A. Mine, Mill, and Smelter Workers Union.

Q. Who else? A. There was Lou Baron.

Q. What union was he from?

A. The Furriers. [598]

Q. Did he hold an office in that union?

A. He held some office there; his main office was in the Communist Party.

Q. Did he hold an office in the union?

A. Of some nature, yes, a member of the Executive Board or something of that nature. I don't know just what it was, but I do know that he was an officer.

Q. He was a union officer? A. Yes.

Q. Who else? A. J. Miller.

Q. What union was he from?

A. Business Agent of the Furriers Union. Kingpin of the Communist Party.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Whom was he representing—withdraw that. Who else?

A. He was representing both the——

Q. (Interposing) Just a moment, please. I withdraw the question.

Presiding Inspector: He withdrew the question. Strike the question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Who else was present?

A. Walter Westfall.

Q. What union was he from?

A. Business Agent—the Upholsterers.

Q. Who else? [599] A. Joe Silva.

Q. What union was he from?

A. President of the Upholsterers.

Q. Who else? A. Eddie Sugar.

Q. What Union?

A. United Auto Workers.

Q. Did he hold an office?

A. Sort of a free-lance organizer, to the best of my memory.

Q. Who else? A. Matt Pellman.

Q. What union? A. 884 of the Carpenters.

Q. Who else?

A. That is all I can think of from memory. [600]

Q. Can you think of any person who was present at that meeting who was not an officer or representative of a trade union?

A. No, I don't know of anyone who was not connected with a trade union, but they were all connected with the Communist Party with the exception of two I knew.

Q. Who were the two?

A. J. R. Robertson and John Horn, of the Brewery Workers. Neither one, to my knowledge, was a Communist.

Q. Do you remember whether a man by the name of Coulter was there?

A. I don't know Coulter.

Q. You never heard of Mr. Coulter of the Oil Workers? A. No, I never heard of him.

Q. You don't know whether he was present?

A. I don't know whether the Oil Workers had any representative there or not; I don't recollect.

Q. Well, that is, as far as your memory goes they may have or may not have had a representative there?

A. Yes; but I don't know—I didn't know the Communists that were there from the Douglas Aireraft either, but they were there.

Q. Was Mr. Buick there?

A. I don't recall Mr. Buick being there.

Q. What union was he from? [601].

A. He was connected with the International Ladies' Garment Workers. He might have been there, but I don't recollect him being there.

Q. Was he a Communist? A. No.

Q. Now, on this phone conversation, with respect to the meeting itself, how long prior to the meeting did the phone conversation occur?

A. You mean the conversation, with Lou Baron?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Yes; the one that you have testified about.

A. I got the call about 5:00 or 6:00 in the evening the day before.

Q. Where were you at the time?

A. In the Union headquarters, the Upholsterers' Union.

Q. Now, give us your best recollection of exactly what was said in this phone conversation, would you please, Mr. Chase? I realize it is a long time ago, but I want you to give us your best recollection.

A. Yes. Baron told me that there was going to be a very important meeting the following morning at 10:00 o'clock. I don't recall whether he said "Comrade Bridges" or "Harry Bridges"—he oftentimes in my presence referred to Bridges as "Comrade" and at other times at "Harry" Bridges. But he said "Bridges will lay down the Party line to be followed. Now, you, yourself, and Joe Silva, and Walter Westfall, being [602] the outstanding party members, and holding office in the Union, are to be present at this meeting, and failure to attend will be followed by disciplinary action. So impress that on their mind."

Q. What did you say?

A. I told him "All right."

Q. Was there any occasion for Baron telling you that if you didn't attend there would be disciplinary action?

A. Well, that is quite common practice. There are so many meetings to be attended of the Communist Party that oftentimes a member might miss some meeting, but a meeting of sufficient importance, you will be notified, and it is obligatory to attend or disciplinary action will follow.

Q. Do you remember whether Baron said that Bridges was going to lay down the Party line?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that the expression used?

A. That is the line he used.

Q. No, no—I want to know whether Baron used the expression over the telephone "Party line"?

A. Yes.

Q. He did? A. Yes.

Q. You remember that? A. Yes. [603]

Q. He didn't use just the word "line"?

Mr. Del Guercio: He just testified he used "Party line".

Mr. Gladstein: This is cross examination.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead. He may press it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. He didn't use just the word "line", did he?

A. I am positive he used the words "Party line".

Q. He didn't use the word "policy"?

A. No. The Communists seldom express themselves with that word. "Line" is the word that is used more frequently than the word "policy".

Q. So that your testimony now is that Baron did not use the word "policy", but used the words "Party line", correct? A. That is right.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Are you sure about that? A. Yes.

Q. I want you to think hard about this—still "yes"? A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever testify before the Dies Committee? A. Yes, I did.

Q. When? A. I believe in April.

Q. April of when? A. Of 1940. [604]

Q. About a year ago? A. Yes.

Q. Was your memory better about this 1937 business then than now, or is it better now?

A. Well, that would be hard to state.

Q. You think as time elapses your memory gets better or gets worse—what about it?

A. Restate it.

Q. I am asking you whether you think your memory gets better or worse as time goes on?

Presiding Inspector: I wouldn't go into that. I am not interested in the witness' view of that.

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw the question.

Do you want to check me, Mr. Del Guercio?

Mr. Del Guercio: I certainly do. What are you going to read from?

Mr. Gladstein: I am now reading from Volume 13 of the Hearings before the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives, Seventy-Sixth Congress, under the title "Investigation of Un-American Propaganda Activities in the United States," commonly known as the Dies Committee, and these proceedings occurred on April 25, 1940, and I am reading from page 8033 of the volume that I have named.

I want you to listen to this, Mr. Chase.

"I was called to the telephone in the Union headquarters, [605] and Lou Barron was speaking on the other end. Lou Barron at that time was the Organizer of the Trade-Union Section of the Communist Party. Lou Barron told me that Harry was in town and he said, 'Harry is holding a meeting at 1210½ West Washington Boulevard,' and he said, 'You, yourself, and Walter Westphal and Joe Sylva are to go there as the representatives of the Union.' "——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) "Your union".

Mr. Gladstein: Yes—" 'your union'. He says 'and Bridges is going to lay down the policy, the new policy, with which we are to follow in regard to taking of A. F. of L. unions over to the C. I. O.' And I attended that meeting."

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Was that testimony given by you before the Dies Committee? A. That is right.

Q. Under oath? A. Yes.

Q. Was it true?

A. The two reports are substantially the same.

Q. I am asking you whether the testimony you gave before the Dies Committee was true?

A. Yes, I will say that it was.

Q. Why didn't you tell the Dies Committee that Lou Barron had used the expression "Comrade Bridges" over the tele- [606] phone and that he had used the expression "Party line"?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Del Guercio: There is nothing to indicate that he was asked that.

Presiding Inspector: He said in his examination that he wasn't sure whether he used the name "Comrade".

Mr. Gladstein: Today, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Today.

Mr. Gladstein: He was pretty sure about "Party line."

Presiding Inspector: Yes, but not about——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) I will withdraw the part about "Comrade Bridges".

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Why didn't you tell the Dies Committee that Mr. Baron had used the expression "Party line" in his telephone conversation?

A. Well, I felt that about all that was required was to be able to remember in substance what was said, I wasn't pressed for exact wording as I am now, and I was quoting to the best of my memory, or what I thought to be what was said, to convey the meaning.

Q. You were asked by the representative of the Dies Committee who questioned you whether you thought Bridges was a Communist, weren't you?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment. There isn't anything there to indicate that he was asked that.

[607]

Mr. Gladstein: I will change the form of the question.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: I will rely on you that you have some basis for the question.

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw the question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Were you asked by a representative of the Dies Committee as to whether you considered Bridges a Communist?

A. I believe I was asked that question; yes.

Q. And you told them that you did, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. In substance, that is what you said?

A. Yes. I have believed for a number of years Bridges to be a Communist.

Q. And don't you remember that you were asked what information, what basis you had for your belief, weren't you asked that?

Mr. Myron: Was he asked that? The record is right here.

Mr. Gladstein: I can ask the witness for his recollection.

Presiding Inspector: Are you relying on the fact that you have a basis for that?

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw the question and put it another way.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Were you asked whether you had any information, any dependable information, or sound grounds, to believe that [608] Harry Bridges was a member of the Communist Party?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment. Are you reading that from the report now?

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking a question.

Mr. Del Guercio: I think the witness has a right to know whether he is reading from that report or not.

Presiding Inspector: You have the transcript of the testimony?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, I do.

Presiding Inspector: You shouldn't ask that question unless it was asked.

Mr. Gladstein: First of all, I have a right to test the recollection of the witness.

Presiding Inspector: Not on a vital point.

Mr. Gladstein: The difficulty with your question, your Honor, if I ask the question the witness is told which way he may answer the question without any difficulty.

Presiding Inspector: The proper question is "Did you do this or that in substance?"

Mr. Gladstein: Before I can ask what he said I have to ask what he was asked.

Presiding Inspector: "Was this or that in substance asked?"

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I will put it this way: In substance, Mr. Chase, were you asked whether you had any information, dependable [609] information, or sound grounds, to believe that Harry Bridges was a Communist Party member?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to that same question. He hasn't indicated whether he is reading from this document.

Presiding Inspector: I will rely on Mr. Gladstein to not deceive the witness.

Mr. Del Guercio: He has said so many times that he wouldn't deceive the witness.

Presiding Inspector: He may answer that question. Were you asked that?

A. I don't recollect whether I was asked that question in that way or not. Your wording is so different from what it would have been there. I really don't recollect, recognize exactly just what it was.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. My wording is so different? Let me read this to you, Mr. Chase.

Mr. Myron: You are going to read from the record?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes. You watch it.

Mr. Gladstein: (Reading):

"The Chairman:" —That is Congressman Martin Dies—"Do you have any information, any dependable information or sound grounds, to believe that Harry Bridges was a member of the Communist Party? [610]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Were you asked that question?

Mr. Myron: He just said he didn't remember.

Mr. Gladstein: I have a right to ask the question.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: Proceed.

A. Questions about Bridges were asked, but I don't recollect whether that question was asked in that way or not.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. If the record shows, as I have just read it, would you be ready to accept that question?

A. Of course. I am merely telling you I don't recollect. If it is in the report why that is correct, of course.

Q. Then you are willing to say now, if the record shows that you were asked the question as I put it, it was asked? A. Yes.

Q. All right. Do you remember your answer?

A. No, I don't remember it word for word, but it would have been a confirmation of my belief of Bridges to be a Communist, because I have believed that over a period of time, and I have had reasons for believing it.

Q. You understand that the question which I have just read called for information, or sound grounds for your belief? You understood that, didn't you? A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember what your answer was to that question? [611]

A. Not distinctly; no.

Q. Suppose I read it——

Mr. Myron: (Interposing) Just a moment. He says he doesn't remember the question and I don't see how he can remember an answer to a question that he doesn't remember being asked.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: Perhaps if his memory is refreshed by the answer he may remember.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I will read the question, Mr. Chase, so you will be clear on it. The question asked by Congressman Martin Dies was this:

"Do you have any information, any dependable information or sound grounds to believe that Harry Bridges was a member of the Party?"

Then the answer:

"Mr. Chase: I have never doubted it, and neither has any other Communist among themselves."

Do you remember giving that answer?

A. Yes, I do. It could have been fortified considerably, too, if I had been pressed by further questioning on that.

Q. Well, weren't you pressed for further questioning on that?

A. No, I wasn't. I think the report will show. It gives the next question that was asked. [612]

Q. Your recollection is that you were not pressed further by the questioner, is that right?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. Well, now, let me read to you what happened right after that last answer that you gave.

Mr. Myron: What happened?

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you know the last answer of yours that I have just read was one in which you said, "I have never doubted it, and neither has any other Communist among themselves?" Do you remember that? A. Yes.

Q. The next question by the Chairman was this:

"The Chairman: Well, on what would you base such a belief?"

Do you remember being asked that question?

A. Not clearly; no.

Q. You don't remember, but if it appears in the record you would be ready to admit that that was asked, correct? A. Yes, of course.

Q. Do you remember what your answer was?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Have you any idea at all as to what your answer was?

A. It could have been from a number of angles.

Q. You understood by that question, didn't you, that you [613] were being asked by Congressman Dies to give whatever dependable or sound information you had that was the basis of your belief that Harry Bridges was a member of the Communist Party? You understood that, didn't you?

Mr. Myron: (Interposing) Just a moment. You asked that question previously. Now you are referring to a different question, aren't you?

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking the question that I am asking now, which I think is appropriate.

Presiding Inspector: I think I will allow it.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

Read the last question, please.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. Yes.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. When was the first time that you ever told anybody that you had information to the effect that Harry Bridges was a Communist?

A. I believe to Ellis and Dunne, the Department of Immigration—they are two men, one named Ellis and the other named Dunne.

Q. When was this?

A. About the time of the last Bridges Trial was going on.

Q. Before, during or after? [614]

A. I believe it was during.

Q. And how did you happen to be giving this information to Mr. Ellis and Mr. Dunne?

A. They came to my house to see me.

Q. Will you describe in a general brief way what took place?

A. They came to my house and had a conversation with me, and asked me to come to the office, if I would drop into their office in the next day or so.

Q. Did they first ask you, when they were at your house, what they wanted of you?

A. Yes.

Q. What did they say?

A. They asked me if I had any knowledge of

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Harry Bridges being a member of the Communist Party.

Q. What did you say?

A. I told them it was my opinion that he was. I believe that is what I told them.

Q. What else did they say?

A. I don't recollect exactly what all was said.

Q. You think that was the essence of everything said on this first occasion?

A. There was more said than that. It is hard to remember verbatim conversations that took place so long ago.

Q. Is there anything of importance that stands out in your mind besides what you have told us?

[615]

A. No, I don't believe there was.

Q. Then, I understand you, they asked you to come up to their office? A. Yes.

Q. Did you do so?

A. Yes, I went up there.

Q. How long after the occasion when they came to your house?

A. I believe it was about the next day.

Q. Where did you go?

A. To the Federal Building.

Q. Los Angeles? A. Yes.

Q. And where did you go in that building?

A. It was in the Department of Labor, I believe, at that time.

Q. Who did you see?

A. Mr. Ellis and Mr. Dunne.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Anybody else present?

A. Yes; there was a stenographer.

Q. Tell us what took place on that occasion?

A. I made a statement for them. I don't recollect just everything that was in the statement.

Q. What kind of a statement?

A. It was pertaining to Bridges and Communistic activi- [616] ties in general.

Q. You mean an affidavit? A. Yes.

Q. That is to say, you were asked questions by them, were you?

A. No, I don't know whether it was an affidavit or not. I am not certain about that.

Q. Did you sign it?

A. I couldn't be so sure about that. I doubt I did because there were several typographical errors in the copy that I glanced over at a subsequent date.

Q. Did you ever sign a copy of it?

A. I am not sure that I did.

Q. What is your best recollection?

A. That I am not sure.

Q. Your best recollection is that you have no recollection? A. I am not sure.

Q. Well, now——

Presiding Inspector: I think we will stop here until two o'clock.

(Whereupon, at 12:30 p. m. an adjournment was taken until 2:00 p. m. of the same day.)

After Recess
2:00 o'Clock P.M.

Presiding Inspector: You have the witness, Mr. Gladstein.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

EZRA CHASE

called on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Cross Examination (Resumed)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. Chase, just before we suspended this morning I was inquiring about a meeting you had with some Immigration Inspectors. Before we go any further with that I would like to go back for a moment and ask you about the local union to which you belonged. That was called the Upholsterers' Union, I think you stated?

A. International Upholsterers' Union, Local 15.

Q. Did it always retain that name while you were a member of it?

A. Well, while I was a member of it; yes.

Q. Did it have some other name, or number, prior to your getting in, or after you left?

A. Local 15 has been an old local in Los Angeles and has been known as such for a time prior, beyond my connection with it. There was an Amalgamation at one time, however, of a local union called Local 10 of the Trade Union Unity League, [618] which was the Communist group that moved into Local 15, and dropped their identity as the Trade Union Unity League.

Q. Did you ever belong to any other local of the Upholsterers' Union besides Local 15?

A. Never.

Q. Now, I think you said that you never received any money from Captain Hynes for the reports that you submitted to him?

A. That is correct.

Q. Did you receive anything for expenses?

A. No.

Q. Did you receive anything of value, or a consideration of any kind for those reports?

A. No.

Mr. Del Guercio: Your Honor, that has been asked and answered several times.

Presiding Inspector: Yes. I will allow it to stand.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. In addition to Captain Hynes, did you have any contact with anyone else in the Los Angeles Red Squad? A. No.

Q. Nobody besides him? A. No.

Q. Did Captain Hynes ever advise you who to contact in the event you couldn't reach him? [619]

A. No.

Q. Never at any time? A. No.

Q. You are sure about that?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. No, I have no recollection of any such instruction?

Q. No. Do you know Lieutenant Wellpot?

A. I knew all of the members of the Red Squad including Wellpot.

Q. Well, you know him, do you?

A. Yes, sir, I knew Rudy Wellpot.

Q. Did you know him at the time you were submitting reports to Captain Hynes?

A. Yes, I had known him prior to that date.

Q. Do you know whether Lieutenant Wellpot knew that you were submitting records to Captain Hynes? A. No, I don't.

Mr. Myron: Now, you Honor——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) I am asking for his knowledge. He has answered the question. I don't see any reason for an objection, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I don't know, but, of course, he has a right to make the objection.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

Presiding Inspector: Do you want to strike it out?

Mr. Myron: If he asks of his own knowledge if he knows. [620]

Mr. Gladstein: Would you read the question, Miss Reporter?

Presiding Inspector: I don't think it makes much difference.

The Reporter: Will you spell "Wellpot", please?

Mr. Gladstein: W-e-l-l-p-o-t.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Is that correct?

The Witness: I believe that is the way he spells it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, during all this time I believe you stated that your number, your operative number was B-50? A. That is correct.

Q. That is true, is it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, how would that be written, B-50?

A. It could be that way or just B50.

Q. Just one more question about the question of remuneration or expenses.

You have already testified that you never received from Captain Hynes either pay for expenses or anything else for these reports. Did you receive any pay or expenses or anything else of value from any other person for these reports?

A. No.

Q. You did not? A. No.

Q. Now, I think you have already said also that Captain [621] Hynes never instructed you as to how you should go about your activities within the Upholsterers' Union; is that correct?

A. Never.

Q. He never did? A. No.

Q. Did you ever ask him for instructions?

A. No, I can't recall that I ever did.

Q. Well, will you make an effort to remember, Mr. Chase, so that I can get as exact an answer as it is possible for you to give?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. Oh, it is possible I might have asked him a question at some time but I don't recollect the incident.

Q. Well, did you ever ask him—withdraw that. Did he ever give you instructions, for example, with respect to how to break strikes?

A. No.

Q. Or anything in connection with strikes?

A. No, I have no such recollections.

Q. Did you ever ask him for instructions with respect to breaking strikes?

A. I have never tried to break a strike.

Q. No; I asked you whether you ever asked him for instructions with respect to breaking strikes? A. No, not that I recollect.

Q. Could you have? [622]

A. I have no recollection of any such.

Q. Is it possible that you did ask him for instructions as to how to break a strike?

A. I remember no such a thing.

Q. You said earlier today that you were a strong supporter of trade unions. How do you reconcile that statement with the statement you have just made that you don't recollect as to whether you ever asked for instructions on how to break a strike?

Mr. Myron: I object to that, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, I will exclude that. That isn't quite what he said.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, read back the question and answer, will you, Miss Reporter?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: He said he had no recollection of any such matter.

Mr. Gladstein: That is what I thought I put in the question, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: No.

Mr. Gladstein: Didn't I?

Would you read the question? I will correct the question if that is incorrect.

Would you read the question?

Presiding Inspector: That he never had any recollection of ever having asked it, should be the question. [623]

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I will withdraw that and put it this way:

Presiding Inspector: You see, you imply in that something in the answer which is not quite there; it is only a shade of difference.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I will try to remove the shade, your Honor.

Q. I asked you, Mr. Chase, whether you had ever received instructions from Captain Hynes as to how to break a strike, and you said "No"; is that correct?

Presiding Inspector: You see, you are asking it on a basis of a failure to recognize something positive; now, that is negative, his failure to recollect. Then, of course, you can fail to recollect, have no recollection about anything which is consistent either with it never having occurred or of it having occurred and your recollection is not right, but when you say you have no recollection there is no proof it ever occurred.

Mr. Gladstein: I see; I understand it.

I think, your Honor, perhaps we can get at it by questions directed to the state of mind of the witness as of the time of this occurrence. Would that be a proper approach?

Presiding Inspector: I think so. If he has any recollection of his state of mind at the time; yes.

[624]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, Mr. Chase, was your state of mind with respect to trade unions such that after the time you started making reports to Captain Hynes you could have asked him for information, or instructions as to how to break a strike?

A. I have no recollection.

Mr. Myron: I object to that. Ask him what his state of mind was at the time.

Presiding Inspector: He can answer what his state of mind was at the time.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. What is the answer?

A. I have no recollection of having made any such inquiry.

Q. What was your then state of mind with respect to strike breaking in general?

A. I would be against it if it were being conducted by a union whose purpose it was to use it as a revolutionary battering ram.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. In general, your position would have been against strike breaking?

A. Yes; aside from the Communistic angle that might be involved.

Q. And the exception would be what?

A. The exception is of the Communistic angle that may be [625] involved.

Q. What do you mean by that?

A. I mean that if the union was under the leadership of Communists in there that I might even be in favor of breaking it.

Q. That is to say, if a Union was under the leadership of people that you knew or thought were Communists, you would be in favor of breaking the strike as a general proposition?

A. Communist strikes are so——

Q. (Interposing) Couldn't you answer "Yes" or "No"?

A. If the strike was under the leadership of Communists, and I considered it a strike which had as its basis the extension of the powers of the Communist Party in the Trade Union movement, or to fortify their revolutionary ambitions, yes, I would be very proud to help break that strike.

Q. Now, what kind of a strike would such a strike be?

A. Well, we have a number of examples of them throughout the country today. We have had many of them in the past too.

Q. Suppose the strike was on the basis of demands for wages, hours and working conditions, would that fit within the exception that you have named?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Myron: I object to this, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: If he can answer it I will allow it.

A. Communists, as I have stated previously, approach workers on a basis of their immediate problems and grievances. [626] The approach of Communists to the workers in a factory or an industry will usually be on the basis of hours, wages or conditions; but the real purposes of the Communists, which are known to them, are something entirely different from that. I wouldn't be guided by the asserted claims or promises that the Communist leadership of a given strike may have.

Mr. Gladstein:

Q. In other words, if the leadership of the Union is Communist that would determine your attitude toward the strike?

Mr. Del Guercio: That isn't what the witness said.

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw the question.

Q. Would one of your reasons for being against that strike be that if the strike was won that fact would help the Communists gain prestige or greater control of the Union?

A. Yes. Whenever they conduct a successful strike why naturally that furthers the interests of the Communist International.

Q. Did you ever report to Captain Hynes, or anyone else in his department, upon any other Communistic activities except those within the Upholsterers' Union, of which you were a member?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. Tell us about those, will you, the organization to begin with.

A. I made reports on the formation of the California People's Legislative Conference. [627]

Q. When was that?

A. About June of 1937.

Q. Any other organization on which you made a report to Captain Hynes?

A. Well, the Laborers' non-partisan League would be in connection with the California People's Legislative Conference. I included them both in the same report.

Q. Was this report submitted under your usual designation of B-50?

A. I believe it would have been; yes.

Q. Is there any doubt about that in your mind?

A. My answer is I believe it would have been.

Q. I am asking you if there is any doubt in your mind.

A. I have made reports on those two sources; some of them were signed by my name, but I don't believe Captain Hynes would have one direct from me. He may have had one from some other source.

Q. The reports would have been either signed by you or by your designation of B-50?

A. Yes.

Q. But not by anything else?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. No; it wouldn't have been.

Q. Or any other name? A. No.

Q. Or any other designation? [628]

A. No.

Q. Any other organizations as to which you reported Communistic activities to Captain Hynes?

A. I don't recollect any at the moment.

Q. All right. Now, this morning you testified that there was a strike while you were a member of the Upholsterers' Union on which you made a report to Captain Hynes. At what plant was that strike?

A. I believe the one you are referring to to be the Universal Furniture Manufacturing Company.

Q. When did it occur?

A. About July of 1937; July or August—I believe it was the first part of August—that would be more accurate.

Q. I didn't hear that.

A. The first part of August would be the more accurate.

Q. Now, you prefaced your answer by the statement that you believed I was referring to it. I am asking you for the one you referred to this morning. Is it the Universal Manufacturing Company?

A. Yes; that is the one.

Q. That is the one you are referring to?

A. That is the one I had in mind; yes.

Q. Did you ever make any reports to Captain Hynes, or anyone in his department, with respect to any strike at any other plants? [629]

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I am getting a little confused here. I don't know whether we are trying the Alien her to determine whether Mr. Bridges is a member of the Communist Party, or whether Captain Hynes. I would like to be straightened out on that.

Mr. Gladstein: Does your Honor wish to hear the basis of this examination?

Presiding Inspector: No. I think it is a question of credibility.

Mr. Gladstein: That is correct, your Honor.

Will you read the last question?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. I believe I wrote something on the strike of the Kroehler Manufacturing Company.

Q. (By Mr. Gladstein) When did that strike occur, please?

A. That strike strung out over quite a period of time. To the best of my memory it was going on over possibly the greater portion of 1937.

Q. And you were making reports during the course of the strike?

A. Oh, I probably made one, maybe more. I don't really recollect any, but the importance of it, and of the issues involved, why, I am inclined to believe that I at least made a report of it. [630]

Q. Did you ever make, in either of those cases, the Universal Manufacturing Company or the Kroehler case, any report to Captain Hynes in advance of the calling or establishing of the strike?

A. I called Hynes on the phone the night before we were to picket the Universal Manufacturing Company and I told him that I expected that there was going to be trouble, and I didn't think that the situation warranted having any trouble; that we had no members whatever in the factory, and the picket line was to be formed for organization purposes. There was a great deal of feeling existing between the workers in the Universal Manufacturing Company and those in the Union, and I anticipated that there would be violence committed there, and I didn't want that to happen, but some happened in spite of the presence of the Police Department.

Presiding Inspector: You have already told about that, haven't you?

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you, other than the case of the Universal Manufacturing Company, or the Kroehler Manufacturing Company, ever inform Captain Hynes in advance of the actual establishment of a strike and picket lines?

A. I have no recollection of anything like that; no.

Q. Try hard to remember? [631]

A. No, I don't remember.

Q. Did you ever, in advance of—withdraw that. Did you, in advance of the Universal strike, the one that you have just testified about, ask for instructions from Captain Hynes?

Mr. Myron: Just a moment. He said definitely that he never asked for instructions from Captain Hynes.

Presiding Inspector: Unless you can refresh his recollection it wouldn't help very much.

A. I can't remember that I ever did ask for instructions.

Presiding Inspector: That is the same answer given before. If you can refresh his recollection you will be permitted to do so.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Let's go to the Universal Furniture Manufacturing Company for a moment, Mr. Chase. Why did you inform Captain Hynes in advance of the strike that there were to be picket lines established?

A. I wanted the police department to be there, because I didn't want a street fight to break out there; I didn't want the Union in trouble; I didn't want to be in trouble myself, and I knew that trouble was going to happen there. Some arrests were made because of throwing rocks there that morning.

Q. Is that the only reason?

A. Yes. I knew that trouble was—I wanted to keep [632] peace there. There was no good purpose to be achieved by the Union in throwing that picket line around that factory. The whole thing was stupid from beginning to end. I had talked against it and tried to break it in the Union, and I was determined to try to break it at all costs.

Q. Despite the fact that the Union voted the strike?

A. The Union didn't actually and directly vote that strike.

Q. Despite the fact that the Union authorized the Strike Committee to call the strike?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Despite the fact that the Strike Committee did——

A. (Interposing) The Strike Committee was made up of Communists.

Q. Just a minute. Despite the fact the Strike Committee called the strike?

A. The Strike Committee was the Communist Party and I was disregarding their decisions.

Mr. Gladstein: I would like to hear a "yes" or "no" answer.

Mr. Del Guercio: He has a right to explain.

Mr. Gladstein: I have no objection to any explanation but I am asking a question which could be answered——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Well, the question was despite the fact that the Union had authorized its strike [633] Committee to call, do I understand, this particular strike?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Had the Union authorized the Strike Committee to call this particular strike?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

The Witness: The Union had given the Strike Committee a bill, a free bill to go ahead and act as they saw fit. A number of strikes were in contemplation; they were not mentioned specifically.

Presiding Inspector: I think that is sufficient basis for you to ask the question if you wish to.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you remember any other strike in which you informed Captain Hynes in advance?

A. No, I don't recall.

Q. Were there any other strikes that you can remember that occurred while you were in the organization?

A. Oh, they had them all the time.

Q. Could you name a few?

A. Oh, they struck the Angelus Furniture Company.

Q. Yes.

A. Without any members in it; Moody Manufacturing Company.

Q. Yes, any others?

A. The Sterling Manufacturing Company.

Q. Sterling? Did you say Sterling, Mr. Chase? [634] A. Yes.

Q. Any others?

A. Crown Upholstering Company.

Q. Crown. Well, that will be sufficient.

A. It will include all the furniture upholstering shops in Los Angeles.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Now, did you inform Captain Hynes in advance of the strike in the Angelus plant?

A. It could be possible; I have no recollection of it, though.

Q. Moody?

A. That could be possible but I don't recollect.

Q. Sterling?

A. The Sterling strike would not be called as an individual. Every year when a new agreement was negotiated—that was a closed union shop. All the closed shops would be struck once a year.

Q. Crown? A. Crown was a closed shop.

Q. Now, you say it is possible that you did call Captain Hynes in advance of both the Angelus and Moody cases?

A. I could be possible, yes.

Q. What would have made it possible? What would have caused you to do that?

A. I can't recollect what I did, or I wouldn't be able [635] to recollect just what would have caused it, unless I had considered there was some important angles at the time; they are quite a while back.

Q. Well, what could have caused you to call him in advance in the case of either of those strikes?

Mr. Myron: He says he doesn't recollect.

Mr. Gladstein: I know, your Honor, but I am entitled to have the witness give as exact and definite an answer as possible.

Presiding Inspector: He says he will have to know the circumstances; he doesn't recollect. Haven't you got it already?

Mr. Gladstein: I don't think sufficiently.

Presiding Inspector: Under certain circumstances he has done this. Hasn't he given the purposes? I don't want to cut you off on the matter.

Mr. Gladstein: All right, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I think you have gotten it pretty thoroughly.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Could it have been, Mr. Chase, because you were asking for instructions from Captain Hynes?

A. No. I never had to ask for any instructions on the conduct of a strike.

Q. You are sure about that? A. No. [636]

Q. You mean you are not sure about it?

A. I mean that I hadn't asked for instructions on it.

Q. You never did?

A. I have no recollection of it.

Q. Mr. Chase, in Volume 64 of a publication entitled "Violations of Free Speech and Rights of Labor, Hearings before a Subcommittee of the Committee on Education and Labor, United States Senate," popularly known as the LaFollette Committee, Part 64 containing supplementary exhibits, on page 23577 there is an exhibit which reads as follows:

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

"Furniture Workers Union
Exhibit 10304
(Intra-Departmental Correspondence)
Los Angeles Police Department Office of:"

"B-50.
Captain Hynes or Lieutenant Wellpot."

Mr. Del Guercio: Are the inflections in the transcript also?

Mr. Gladstein: "We called a strike tonight 9/16." That is September 16—"all workers will go out at 7:30 A.M. tomorrow.

"Moody—" M-o-o-d-y "Bed Co., 154 East 57th Street. If you have any special instruction for me leave note with night man at office and I will call in tomorrow night. [637]

"The name "Catherman"—C-a-t-h-e-r-m-a-n—"12M", the letter "M" standing for "midnight"—"9/16."

Having read that exhibit, does this——

A. I have no knowledge——

Q. (Interposing) Just a moment, please. I haven't asked you a question, Mr. Chase.

Does this refresh your recollection as to whether or not you called in to Captain Hynes or Lieutenant Wellpot to advise of the calling of the strike at the Moody Bed Company?

A. I can't recognize that report.

Q. What about the report?

A. I have no recollections of that report. There are a few things in that that sound rather queer to me.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. State them, please.

A. Would you re-read that?

Q. Yes. Better than that, you read it.

A. You know, these things were hauled out of the files by a couple of Communist Attorneys, Dave Sokol and Al Wierin, and, I think, some funny stuff has been pulled, if you want to know what I think.

Q. So the record may be clear, Mr. Chase, I am showing you what purports to be an official copy of the LaFollette Committee Reports, Part 64, Page 23577, and I call your attention to Exhibit 10304 at the bottom of that page and you can read that for yourself and study it for a while. [638]

A. (Witness examining document.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Then, also that portion, if I may add, if it does indicate as to how the LaFollette Committee got possession of those.

Mr. Gladstein: He can read the whole volume, if he wishes.

The Witness: The reason I want to question this is——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) These are public documents, your Honor. I mean to say I am sure Mr. Del Guercio would have no difficulty in getting copies from the LaFollette Committee, or, for that matter, if there is any question about these we will join any request with Mr. Del Guercio for the original exhibits from the LaFollette Committee, whatever they may be, the photostatic copies or whatever the documents are. We would like to have those.

The Witness: This report smacks of being fictitious for a number of reasons. I know the name of the Moody Mattress Company and I know it well, and it is not the Moody Bed Company and I made no such a report. That report has been cooked up from another source; I didn't make it. [639]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. What other reason, please?

A. That is enough.

Q. Is that the only reason?

A. I wouldn't have called it the Moody Bed Company.

Q. Is that the only reason?

A. And I have no recollection of any such a report.

Q. Are those all your reasons?

A. That ought to be enough.

Q. Are those all your reasons?

A. That is all I could think of, but I would never have made the mistake of calling that the Moody Bed Company.

Q. You realize, of course, that this is supposed —this is the report for the person to whom you spoke over the telephone. You realize that, don't you?

A. I don't recollect ever making any such call.

Q. Do you deny that it was made?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. No. I don't deny that a call was made, but I have no recollection of ever having made it.

Presiding Inspector: It is hearsay, isn't it, Mr. Gladstein? This is hearsay; this was hearsay before the Committee, wasn't it?

Mr. Gladstein: If I may say, your Honor——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Was the man who made that sworn?

Mr. Gladstein: Well, as I understand it——

[640]

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Well, was the man who made that sworn?

Mr. Gladstein: I do not know. I think these are Exhibits taken from the files of Captain Hynes.

Mr. Del Guercio: By whom?

Mr. Gladstein: By the LaFollette Committee.

Mr. Del Guercio: Oh, just a minute now. Does it state that in there?

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I may state this simply on my information, and it is subject to check——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Yes. You don't know; you haven't examined it that far?

Mr. Gladstein: No. I am of the opinion that the LaFollette Committee held a hearing not long ago in San Francisco and Los Angeles. In connection with the hearings in Los Angeles—I think this is a matter of common knowledge that such hearings were held and that Senator Thomas was here and, I think, conducted hearings in this building in San Francisco, and also——

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Well, I merely asked for information.

Mr. Gladstein: Also in Los Angeles.

Presiding Inspector: Whether it appeared in the record that the man who made that entry was sworn, or is it just hearsay?

Mr. Gladstein: Well, we have no way of knowing except [641] from the internal evidence in the volume, which I have not examined. This, however, is an official report of the——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Perhaps, it doesn't make any difference. I merely wanted to know for the moment.

Mr. Myron: I think I might clear your Honor's mind by stating that it purports to be a telephone call that was made to the Police Department.

Presiding Inspector: Who made the report?

Mr. Myron: I don't know, your Honor. I haven't access to it to find out whether it is a record——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) Well, the report itself, your Honor, indicates from the internal evidence that Agent B-50 called—— Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Called whom?

Mr. Gladstein: A person named Catherman.

Presiding Inspector: Now, was Catherman sworn?

Mr. Gladstein: I do not know.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you know Mr. Catherman, C-a-t-h-e-r-m-a-n?

A. I know no such man; I have never heard the name before.

Q. Never have? A. No.

Presiding Inspector: My only point in asking it was to know whether it was fully sworn to, as it might affect the [642] credibility, that was all, in the face of the witness' statement.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I think, your Honor, we can undertake to find out what the La Follette Committee states with respect to these documents.

Presiding Inspector: Yes. Well, you can do that sometime.

Mr. Gladstein: That will require some search, though.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, let's go back, Mr. Chase, to the statement you were giving to the Immigration Inspectors whose names were Ellis and Dunne.

By the way, when they first called on you in your home did they tell you how they learned that you might have some information concerning Harry Bridges?

A. I don't recall that they did.

Q. You don't recall that? A. No.

Q. Well, what do you recall them telling you when they came to the house?

A. They showed their identification.

Q. Yes.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. And told me that they understood that I had been in the Party.

Q. What else? [643]

A. And wanted to know possibly what I knew that would be of use to them in the Bridges case; that was the case in question at the time.

Q. The case was going on at the time?

A. I believe it was.

Q. And what happened after that?

A. They made arrangements with me, to meet them the next day.

Q. And, I think, you have said that you met them in the Immigration offices in Los Angeles?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And there were present Mr. Ellis, Mr. Dunne, yourself and a stenographer?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Man or woman stenographer?

A. It was a woman.

Q. Know the name? A. No, I don't.

Q. Now, please describe for us what procedure occurred at that time.

A. What procedure?

Q. What took place?

A. Well, we proceeded to draw up a statement.

Q. Well, tell us how it was done.

A. I dictated it and the stenographer took it down in shorthand and then made it on the typewriter. I think. [644]

Q. Don't you remember?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. Yes, it was taken down in shorthand and then typed.

Q. It was typed?

Mr. Myron: He said it was typed.

A. Yes.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Was it shown to you after it was typed?

A. I am in doubt about that, whether it was or not.

Q. Were you asked to sign it?

A. I am in doubt about it, whether I signed the report or not.

Q. This morning you said something about corrections. To what did you have reference?

A. I have read a report of it and there were several things in there that were in error. That is what made me think that I possibly hadn't signed the copy, because stenographers often make mistakes in things of that nature.

Q. Where did you read a report of what you dictated that day to the stenographer?

A. The FBI had a copy of it.

Q. When did you see that?

A. I believe I saw that Tuesday night.

Q. Of this week? A. Yes.

Q. Where did you see it? [645]

A. At the FBI office.

Q. In San Francisco?

A. In San Francisco.

Q. Who was present at the time it was shown to you?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. I believe Mr. Findlay and one other man; I don't recall his name. I am not well enough acquainted with them to remember them all.

Q. Anybody else?

A. I believe there were just two of them present.

Q. Describe for us what was shown to you.

A. I think it was two typewritten sheets of paper.

Q. Signed?

A. I don't recall. I think that it was a copy that had been copied from an original that I had made, as I remember. I was pretty tired; I just shot through it in rather a hurry; I didn't really pay a great deal of attention to it.

Q. The original had been signed by you?

A. I don't know.

Q. Was it a statement in which you stated what you knew concerning Bridges?

A. It contained things on that line, yes.

Q. That is, it purported to be a statement as to your information concerning whether Harry Bridges was a member of or affiliated with the Communist Party; correct?

A. Yes, that would be the subject.

Q. And this was a copy, a two-page copy of an original [646] statement; is that right?

A. I think that is correct.

Q. Did they tell you where the original statement was? A. No, never asked.

Q. Do you know where it is? A. No.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Is it your recollection that you signed the original statement?

A. I can't recollect that I did.

Q. But you don't know?

A. No, I don't.

Q. It is possible that you did?

A. It is possible that I didn't.

Q. Well, it is possible that you did and it is possible that you didn't?

A. Yes, it is; I really don't know.

Mr. Gladstein: If your Honor please, we would like to have permission to examine the statement that the witness has testified about.

Presiding Inspector: I think you have wasted a good deal of time on it already.

Mr. Gladstein: What do you mean?

Presiding Inspector: You have asked each question about four times.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, we are now asking your Honor to [647] make available to us——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Do you want to ask your adversaries if they want to produce it?

Mr. Gladstein: Would you produce the original of the statement, Mr. Del Guercio?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I have no such statement; I have never seen it. I am not saying that such a statement doesn't exist. I haven't produced it and don't intend to produce it; I haven't seen it.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Gladstein: Your Honor, in connection with the relevancy of our right to have the statement, first of all let me check this and see. I simply want to ask for information whether anyone seated at the table for Government counsel——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) You can't ask each one. If they won't offer it you have your proper——

Mr. Myron: Do you mean did the Government use this statement to present the evidence?

Mr. Gladstein: No; I am asking whether anybody—whether you, for example, Mr. Myron, have in your possession——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Just a moment. I object to this procedure, your Honor. He should address his remarks to the Court.

Presiding Inspector: He may ask whether you will produce it. If you say "No" that is all there is to it.

Mr. Del Guercio: If he will ask me—I am in charge of the Government's case—I will say no, I will not produce it. [648]

Mr. Gladstein: I am doing this in line with your Honor's suggestion.

Presiding Inspector: He said, "No."

Mr. Gladstein: First, I want to know if they have it. As I understand, Mr. Del Guercio says he hasn't it.

Mr. Del Guercio: Don't misquote me.

If the Court please, I said that I have never seen such a statement, that I do not have it now——

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) And you don't intend to produce it?

Mr. Del Guercio: Don't know anything about it, and I refuse counsel's request to make any further inquiry.

Presiding Inspector: All right, go ahead.

Mr. Gladstein: First, could we not find out whether other Government counsel have this statement?

Presiding Inspector: I think we could assume that other Government counsel are under Mr. Del Gurcio's control; he has charge of them all.

Mr. Gladstein: If your Honor please, concerning the relevance of this statement and our right to have it, I would like to have you hear Mrs. King on this question, because it is obviously of vital importance. [649]

Mrs. King: This same proposition, if your Honor please, arose in connection with the last hearing at which time Government Counsel did, as they do now, refuse to permit us to have previous statements.

With reference to that Dean Landis—I am reading from his report—said:

"The first relates to a series of requests made by the Alien for the production of certain documentary evidence in the possession of the Government. This evidence consisted either of affidavits of witnesses taken before Immigration Officials—

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

witnesses who were later called to the stand—or"—

That part of his statement is immaterial.

Dean Landis explained that Counsel for the Government, claiming to be bound by the Department regulations, refused in each instance to produce the evidence requested, even though it was then in their possession.

"The first of these requests was granted by the Secretary."

That is, Dean Landis took up with Secretary Perkins, who was then in charge of the Labor Department, under which Department the Immigration Service then was, the question of furnishing counsel for Mr. Bridges with written statements. Secretary Perkins did furnish them.

However, in support of this report Dean Landis cites the applicable law on this question and he says:

"Counsel for the Government, at the hearing and subsequently, [650] have taken the position that these documents, especially the earlier affidavits of witnesses made before immigration officials, were priviliged communications and thus the Government was under no duty to produce them. They rely upon Arnstein vs. United States, 296 Federal, 946"—

I will not read all of the authorities. The conclusion reached by Dean Landis, and the authorities, can be found in Footnote 15, at page 5 of his report, which I would like to have in the present proceeding. It concludes:

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

"As Dean Wigmore says, 'It seems wiser to stand firm upon ordinary considerations of fairness, and to hold that the prosecution is not entitled at the trial to withhold from the inspection of the accused and the jury any documents or chattels relevant to the case. Indeed, weightier considerations would seem to underlie the privilege of non-disclosure that attaches to testimony given before a Grand Jury than to testimony taken in preliminary investigations before an executive or administrative official. But the now universal rule is that a witness may be impeached in any subsequent trial, civil or criminal, by self-contradictory testimony given by him before a grand jury."

Now, in this case Government counsel, of course, content that they do not have this statement. The witness has said that it was given to Immigration Inspectors at Los Angeles; that it was seen by him in the FBI office in San Francisco. [651]

I do not have to tell your Honor that both the Immigration Service today, and the FBI, are under the Department of Justice, and that there is no possibility that what is in the hands of the FBI is not in the hands of the Immigration Service or vice versa. In other words, these statements are in the hands of the Department of Justice and, consequently, the Department of Justice, whether it is the FBI or the Immigration Service, is in a position to give us these statements and we feel, more especially in view of the fact that the credibility of this witness is seriously questioned, that we are entitled to these statements to determine whether there are any contradictory statements in the preliminary statement that he made in the Immigration Office in Los Angeles at the time of the last hearing, that is, in 1939.

Presiding Inspector: What do you say about that, Mr. Del Guercio?

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please, we are not, of course, concerned with what occurred in the Landis hearing, we are not trying this case on any evidence, or on the evidence that was introduced in that hearing. This is an entirely new and separate hearing. It is based, of course, on the rules promulgated by the Attorney General. We are not required under the rules to furnish counsel with any transcripts of any testimony that may have been taken prior to the issuance of the Warrant of Arrest. We are relying on that rule and we are [652] proceeding in accordance with that rule, and I believe that that is all that is required.

Now, this statement that counsel refers to was taken, I understand, some time during the course of the last hearing.

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) We do not hear you. I am sorry, but will you please speak up?

Presiding Inspector: He simply says that it was taken in the course of the last hearing and he differentiates between the last hearing and this one as being entirely separate.

Of course, they do not claim that this was in preparation for this hearing; but they say that they would have a right, as it has been used in the preparation of the witness for his testimony, that it was shown him, and that they would have a right to see it.

I do not think I have power to rule on the matter.

Mr. Gladstein: Before you rule——

Presiding Inspector: I doubt I have authority to rule on the matter.

Mr. Gladstein: (Continuing) —— let me add this——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) May I finish?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I cannot change the rule of the Department. That is the rule of our Department and I am bound by it.

Presiding Inspector: Certainly. I do not believe I have [653] any authority to rule, Mr. Gladstein, on this point. It is a Departmental matter.

Mrs. King: If your Honor please, whether you have authority or not——

Presiding Inspector: You don't think I have, do you?

Mrs. King: I refuse to get involved in that problem.

I would suggest that at the time that Dean Landis was confronted with a similar dilemma——

Presiding Inspector: He took the same view, evidently.

Mrs. King: (Continuing) ——he wrote to the

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Secretary of Labor and requested her to furnish the statement.

Now, I am requesting you to request Attorney General Jackson to furnish us with this statement. In other words, the rules of the Department, in so far as they are public, make no provision with reference to this situation at all.

I seriously doubt whether there are any rules yet, because they are in the making. The Departmental rules relating to deportation have not been fully formulated.

Presiding Inspector: Probably so.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please——

Mrs. King: May I finish?

Mr. Del Guercio: May I correct that misunderstanding? I am sure it is a misunderstanding. They have already been filed in the Federal Register.

Mrs. King: I have the Federal Register right here, but [654] I have information from the officials in Washington that the rules in the Federal Register are not complete.

Mr. Del Guercio: That is news to me.

Mrs. King: In view of these circumstances, in view of the importance and interest involved in this situation, may I request your Honor to ask Attorney General Jackson if he will furnish to the Attorneys for Mr. Birdges the preliminary statement of this witness so that a precedent may be set in this case with reference to this type of situation?

Mr. Del Guercio: We don't need a precedent.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: I will suggest to you, Mr. Del Guercio, that you communicate during the coming week with the Attorney General himself—I do not request that it be produced—and that he advise as to what the Departmental view is on the matter.

Mr. Del Guercio: If you suggest that I will.

Presiding Inspector. Yes, I do. I am not asking anything from the Attorney General, but I am asking you to get a ruling of the Attorney General so as to cover this point.

I feel very certain that I have no power, that it is not within my commission here, to direct one way or the other in this matter.

Mr. Del Guercio: I think the position of the Court is correct on that.

Mr. Gladstein: I don't know whether the record shows it [655] but, of course, our purpose in requesting it is for the purpose of examining whether the witness, at the time he made a prior statement, made statements which are inconsistent with his testimony here, or which tend to impeach his testimony.

Presiding Inspector: I think that is perfectly clear, the purpose.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Aside from the statement you gave to Mr. Dunne and Mr. Ellis, have you ever made any other statement concerning what information you had as to Harry Bridges being a Communist?

A. There may have been portions of it in the report to the Dies Committee.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. A written statement?

A. It would have been included, yes, in my statement to the Dies Committee. The subject would have been touched on; yes.

Q. I don't mean your testimony, I mean a statement which you gave in writing?

A. Well, that is what I am referring to. I am referring to my report to the Dies Committee.

Q. You made a report to the Dies Committee?

A. Yes; they took a statement from me.

Q. Who, from the Dies Committee, took a statement from you? A. Yes.

Q. Who did? [656] A. James Stedman.

Q. Anybody else? A. And the FBI.

Q. I am referring now just to the Dies Committee. Was Mr. Stedman present with a representative of the FBI at the time?

A. Mr. Stedman was the investigator for the Dies Committee, as I understand it.

Q. Where did you meet him?

A. In the Federal Building in Los Angeles.

Q. Who else was present?

A. A stenographer.

Q. Anybody else?

A. Well, Mr. Hurley could have been present. He was a portion of the time when I was interviewed.

Q. Do you know his full name?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Is it George Hurley?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. I am inclined to believe it is; I am not positive.

Q. Now, you mentioned a moment ago that you spoke to the Dies Committee representative and the FBI. Did you mean to imply that you spoke to both or to representatives of both the FBI and the Dies Committee at the same time?

Mr. Del Guercio: He spoke to the Dies Committee and he spoke to a representative of the FBI. He testified on that [657] point.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, I am asking whether he means to say that he spoke to representatives of both the FBI and the Dies Committee at the same time.

A. No.

Q. You did not? A. No.

Q. All right. Now, where did you say you spoke to the representative of the Dies Committee?

A. In the Federal Building in Los Angeles.

Q. Do you know in whose office it was?

A. It was their office, I presume; they were occupying it.

Q. How did you happen to go up there?

A. I was called.

Q. By whom?

A. I think Mr. Stedman called me on the phone.

Q. Tell us about the conversation, if you will?

A. He just called me and wanted to see me.

Mr. Del Guercio: I think that is going far afield. He already questioned this witness concerning the testimony given before the Dies Committee. He has the report before him. Now he is going into the preliminary matter of it.

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw the question.

[658]

Presiding Inspector: He has withdrawn the question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. At Mr. Stedman's request you went to that office, is that correct? A. Correct.

Q. And you say there was a stenographer present? A. Yes.

Q. Did you dictate a statement to her as to what you knew about Harry Bridges being a Communist?

A. Yes. It would have been contained in there some place. I wouldn't say it was all that I knew, but there was mention made of it, I am sure.

Q. How long a statement was it?

A. Well, I was making a statement there as to general policy of the Communist movement. I wasn't dealing at any great length on any particular phase or branch of it, but dealing more with the general policy.

Q. What was the date of this, please?

A. It was over a period of time in 1939, I believe.

Q. You mean you went up there on more than one occasion to give statements?

A. Yes. We didn't complete it at one sitting.

Q. Over how long a period did you make these statements?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. Oh, it was done at times that were convenient to both of us. I was up there maybe three or four different times. [659]

Q. Well, from the first time until the last time you were up there how long a period elapsed?

A. I have no idea.

Mr. Del Guercio: I want to interject another objection. If we continue this we will be here all summer. There should be some limit to this.

Presiding Inspector: I am already reconciled to that.

Mr. Gladstein: You want me to explain the purpose?

Mr. Del Guercio: No, you need not explain.

Mr. Gladstein: If Mr. Del Guercio is questioning——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) I would rather hear the witness, for that matter.

Presiding Inspector: I think you have gone far enough. I suggest you go to something else. You have shown these statements were made on the general subject of the Communist activities as the witness viewed them, without any particular reference to any individual, is that right?

The Witness: That is right. Individuals may have been mentioned here and there, but it was just the general policy in the main.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Didn't you testify a moment ago that you did talk about Harry Bridges in a statement you gave to the Dies Committee?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. Yes, but I make no claim as to the report being ab- [660] solutely complete in none of its contents. It is more of a summary of Communistic activities throughout the United States in a general way. I made no attempt to make the report absolutely complete on everything that I knew about it.

Q. Did you sign the statement when it was finally prepared? A. Yes.

Q. Did you get a copy of it?

A. There was a copy made for me. I don't believe I ever picked it up.

Q. Don't you know?

A. No, I didn't; I am sure I didn't pick it up.

Q. All right. Now, you have mentioned two statements; one to the Immigration Inspectors in Los Angeles by the name of Ellis and Dunne, and the other to the two representatives you have named of the Dies Committee. Other than those two have you ever made any statement containing your information or knowledge concerning whether Harry Bridges was or is a Communist?

A. I recollect no others.

Q. None at all?

A. No. I have no recollection of any others at this time.

Q. Did you ever give a statement to the FBI?

A. I thought I had told you about that.

Q. Well, as I recall it, you have testified to one you [661] gave to the Immigration Department, and one you gave to the Dies Committee——

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Pardon me, Mr. Gladstein. I may be wrong, but I thought I heard the witness testify that he had made a statement to the FBI.

Mr. Gladstein: Did he?

Presiding Inspector: I think Mr. Myron questioned him on that, didn't you, as to whether they were at separate times?

Mr. Myron: I think he made the statement that it was at the time the one was made to the Dies Committee. That was in the form of a question.

Presiding Inspector: I thought there was some testimony on that. I don't know as it is very material. I thought there was some such testimony.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you give a statement to the FBI?

A. Yes.

Q. That is, to representatives of the FBI?

A. Yes.

Q. When?

A. That would be about September or October of last year.

Q. That would be after the statement that you gave to the Dies Committee? A. Yes.

Q. This is a third statement? [662]

A. Yes.

Q. A written statement? A. Yes.

Q. Signed? A. Yes.

Q. Did you get a copy? A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you ask for a copy? A. No, I didn't.

Q. And you never received one? A. No.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. With respect to what you said concerning Harry Bridges, and affiliation with or membership in the Communist Party, is there any difference between what you said in the written statement you gave to the FBI and in the written statement that you gave to the Dies Committee representatives?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the question, to the form of the question.

Presiding Inspector: The question is rather an unusual question. You haven't the documents here. I will permit you to ask whether he recalls any difference in those statements; I mean when the same subject was covered in both documents. You wouldn't want omissions in one statement and affirmative matters in another.

Mr. Gladstein: We don't have the documents. We are trying, [663] of course, to find out whether there are any inconsistencies in his statements.

Presiding Inspector: You can hardly find it out from the witness.

Mr. Gladstein: We can ask, first of all, whether there are or not.

Presiding Inspector: As far as he remembers.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes; of course.

Presiding Inspector: Ask him whether he remembers any difference between these three statements as to statements of fact. Of course, it has been very clear, in the statement that he gave during the Landis investigation, he didn't cover all the activities of the Communist Party, or it is probable he didn't, as he did in the statement given the Dies Committee. You don't mean that?

Mr. Gladstein: I am not interested in that. I confine my question to the defendant, Mr. Bridges, in this case.

Presiding Inspector: Ask if he remembers any difference in the statements. He may state that.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

Presiding Inspector: You can put the question that way.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I think you put the question. Do you understand the question? A. Yes? [664]

Q. Answer it.

A. There could be some difference. The reports weren't absolute duplicates of one another, I am quite sure. There are a number of reasons that I have as to why I believe Harry Bridges to be a Communist. At one time I may consider that for a certain reason and at another time it may be for another reason, because anybody who has been in bed with Communists as long as Harry Bridges has must have left a lot of tracks.

Presiding Inspector: I don't know that that advances us very far.

Mrs. King: May we have a recess?

Presiding Inspector: You are inquiring about things you haven't the fundamental knowledge of.

Mr. Gladstein: We don't have the documents.

Mr. Del Guercio: Of necessity, any answer to a question would depend, first, on the circumstances under which the question is asked; and, secondly, the formation of the question, and on the state of mind of the witness at the time.

Presiding Inspector: That is quite obvious.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. At the time you made the statement for the FBI last year were you shown either of your prior statements that you had given to the Dies Committee or to the Immigration Inspectors? [665-6]

A. I don't recall whether I was or not.

Q. Don't you remember that?

A. No, I don't.

Q. At the time that you gave the statement to the Dies Committee representatives were you shown the statement that you had given to the Immigration Inspectors during the last Bridges hearing?

A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't recall that either? A. No.

Mrs. King: If your Honor please, the statement to the FBI, as opposed to the statement to the Immigration Service, is likewise in the hands of the Attorney General as the head of the Department of Justice. I should like, therefore, to request that when Mr. Del Guercio writes to the Attorney General with reference to the statement given to the Immigration officials, that he should also at the same time write with reference to instructions concerning the statement made to the FBI.

Presiding Inspector: I think that would be fair.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I will only do so at your request.

Presiding Inspector: I request it.

Mr. Gladstein: Would your Honor want a recess at this time?

Presiding Inspector: We will take a short recess. [667]

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

Presiding Inspector: Mr. Gladstein, the witness is yours.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. For a moment, Mr. Chase, I want to ask you about the Moody—M-o-o-d-y—strike. Is that right?

A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: M-o-o-v-y?

Mr. Gladstein: M-o-o-d-y.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did the American Federation of Labor, Central Labor Council, in Los Angeles, have the Moody Company on the so-called "Unfair list" or "We do not patronize" list?

A. I do not believe so.

Q. Is that your best recollection?

A. Yes. It would very likely have been me who would have introduced the motion in the Central Labor Council, and I have no recollection of having made any such motion.

Q. But you would not want to be sure about that?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. I wouldn't be positive, no, sir, but my best recollection is it wasn't.

Q. Do you know whether the Central Labor Council supported the Moody strike in any way?

A. No. The Central Labor Council seldom supported the [668] strikes that were called by Local 15. They regarded it as a Communist Union and any support they did give was usually with the left hand.

Q. Was any support given in the case of the Moody Strike by the Central Labor Council?

A. No.

Q. Can you think of any strike conducted by Local 15, while you were in it, to which——

A. (Interposing) Well, I——

Q. (Continuing) I haven't finished the question yet. You cannot answer the question until I have finished.

Mr. Del Guercio: If you make it short he might be able to.

Mr. Gladstein: I will ask the question again.

Q. Can you think of any strike of Local 15, while you were a member of it, to which the Central Labor Council did give support?

A. What do you mean by "support"?

Q. Support on the picket lines, financial support, support by resolutions asking unions to support it, putting the Company on the unfair list, asking other unions or other employers to boycott the firm—all of those things will be included within my word "support".

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. Yes. The Central Labor Council throughout the United States, I believe, gave support on the strike against [669] the Kroehler Manufacturing Company, not especially at the plant in Los Angeles, but because of it being a nation-wide concern, and there were bona fide strikes against it that were sanctioned by the American Federation of Labor in various localities throughout the United States; but as far as getting any support for the strike there in Los Angeles was concerned, it was negligible. [670]

Q. Well, what kind of support, negligible, or otherwise, did the Central Labor Council give to Local 15 in the Kroehler case?

A. It was placed on the unfair list.

Q. That is, the company was?

A. Yes, and the longshoremen, at the expense of $50.00 they loaned us the beef squad to come up there and mess things up a little.

Q. Now, what about the Universal strike? Did the Central Labor Council give any support to Local 15 in that case? A. None whatever.

Q. Not at all? A. (No response.)

Q. What is the answer?

A. Well, wait just a moment. The Universal, I do believe, was on the unfair list but that was the extend of the support.

Q. That is one of the strikes concerning which you have——

A. (Interposing) No, I——

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. I haven't finished yet, please.

Universal is one of the strikes concerning which you made reports to Captain Hynes; correct?

A. Just a moment. There is one issue that is not clear on that Universal. The Universal was on the unfair list with the American Federation of Labor prior to the calling of that strike, and any support that it received from the Central Labor [671] Council was not because of that strike, but it was because of past connections.

Q. In the case of the Angelus strike did the Central Labor Council give support of any kind to Local 15——

A. (Interposing) There was another union——

Q. (Interposing) I haven't finished yet, Mr. Chase.

A. I can't tell when you are through.

Q. In the case of the Angelus strike did——

Mr. Del Guercio: Angelus or Angeles?

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. How is it pronounced? A. Angelus.

Q. How is it spelled? A. A-n-g-e-l-u-s.

Q. In the case of the Angelus strike—that is the one you were testifying about earlier this afternoon? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In that case, in that strike did the Central Labor Council give support in any form to Local 15 of the Upholsterers' International?

A. No, but another A. F. of L. union claiming jurisdiction over a portion of the plant broke the strike by going through the picket line.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. What union?

A. The Furniture Workers' Union; it is an affiliate [672] of the Carpenters and Joiners.

Q. What Local?

A. I just can't recall the number of the Local at the moment, but it is an affiliated union with the Carpenters and Joiners.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I don't want it to appear that I am trying to limit counsel's cross examination, but I think we have reached a point here where we should decide what are reasonable limits and what are unreasonable limits. We are going far afield, it seems to me, with inquiries into these various strikes.

Presiding Inspector: Well, in many of these cases, I suppose, he has concluded by the answers of the witness, that they are on the direct issues of Mr. Bridges' membership in the Communist Party, or on the subversive enterprises of the Communist Party.

Mr. Del Guercio: But these other strikes are so far afield and so far remote.

Presiding Inspector: They don't harm you because if they aren't on one of those two issues, if they simply go to the credibility of the witness on a collateral point, counsel is concluded by the answer of the witness.

Mr. Gladstein: May I say, in view of Mr. Del Guercio's objection, what our purpose is in going into this character of testimony with the witness so that it will be clear? [673]

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

It is our purpose to show that the strikes, which were conducted by Local 15, Upholsterers' Union, to which the witness has testified, did, in fact, receive official support from the American Federation of Labor in Los Angeles and were bona fide trade union strikes, that it follows as a consequence that when this Witness Chase acted as an informer and undercover operator for Captain Hynes, giving him reports concerning these strikes and concerning the breaking of the strikes and informing him in advance of the calling of the strikes, that Mr. Chase thereby places himself in the position of an anti-labor spy and that he, thereby, by virtue of that fact is the kind of person who, having that kind of a bias and prejudices, places great doubt upon any testimony that he gives in this case against Mr. Bridges. That obviously goes to the question of the credibility of the witness.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, but on those points you are bound by the evidence of the witness; they are purely collateral to the main issue.

Mr. Gladstein Well, now, if your Honor please——.

Presiding Inspector: You may ask all you wish within limits about the conduct of this witness for himself. You couldn't contradict him on collateral points. You could go on forever, if that were so.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, your Honor——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) On the question of [674] credibility you may not contradict the witness by direct testimony.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Gladstein: Do you mean, your Honor, that we are bound——

Presiding Inspector: Now, it is elementary, elementary in the law.

Mr. Gladstein: I wish to ask a question.

Do you mean we are bound by this witness' answers as to bias or prejudices?

Presiding Inspector: Certainly, as to definite points, as to definite actions.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, now, if your Honor please——

Presiding Inspector: You may show bias and prejudice by other witnesses, of course.

Mr. Gladstein: That is right.

Presiding Inspector: But that must be bias and prejudice directly and not by a contradiction of this witness on collateral issues, but it is elementary of the law; every law student knows it.

Dean Landis laid it down in his report; he discussed it.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, as a matter of fact, your Honor, Dean Landis correlated the authorities pointing out the relevance of testimony which goes to show that a witness has a bias or prejudice of an anti labor character.

Presiding Inspector: Certainly, that is all competent to show; it is competent; I am not stopping you. [675]

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: It is all competent, but you are bound by the evidence of the witness.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Gladstein: I think we would be entitled to call other witnesses.

Presiding Inspector: We haven't come to it anyway.

Mr. Gladstein: All right, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: On collateral matters, on collateral matters you are bound by the evidence of the witness.

Mr. Gladstein: Is it your Honor's position that the bias or prejudice of the witness would be a collateral matter?

Presiding Inspector: Why, certainly, or his credibility. Supposing you asked him if he stole $50.00 from John Doe on such and such a day.

Mr. Gladstein: That would be collateral.

Presiding Inspector: That would be absolutely collateral.

Mr. Gladstein: Suppose I asked him if he was getting a thousand dollars for testifying and he said "No" and I could prove otherwise?

Presiding Inspector: Yes, but the question, whether you asked him or not would be evidence which would be admissible whether you had asked him or not.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, in other words, —

Presiding Inspector: You can't ask him anything to contradict him for the purpose of showing that what he has testified [676] on the stand has been false.

Mr. Gladstein: I didn't quite understand it.

Presiding Inspector: For the purpose of showing he has falsely testified on the stand, with that sole purpose.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Gladstein: You say I can't?

Presiding Inspector: No. Just the example I gave, if you asked him as to whether he had stolen $50.00 from John Doe on a certain day, and he said, "No", you couldn't put John Doe on the stand and show that he did, because that would have no purpose; that would have no purpose in this case.

Mr. Gladstein: I agree with that.

Presiding Inspector: Unless it bore on one of the issues.

Mr. Gladstein: That is correct.

Presiding Inspector: Now, you can show independent evidence, whether he has testified about it or not, bearing on his credibility.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, as I understand it——

Presiding Inspector: Independent testimony to show that he is not a faithful witness, to show bias.

Mr. Gladstein: I see.

Presiding Inspector: You can show that he said, for example, to Richard Roe that he had a personal grudge against Mr. Bridges, we will say, for the sake of argument.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: You could show direct bias, whether [677] he testified about it or not.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Well, that is the rule.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I don't think we have any disagreement there.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: Perfectly elementary. I think every lawyer that ever tried a case knows that.

(Discussion off the record.)

Mr. Gladstein: What was the last question?

Mr. Grossman: Your Honor, do I understand that the record thus far does not include any argument of counsel?

Presiding Inspector: It includes the objections of course, and the rulings on them.

Mr. Grossman: But no——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I think you will find—I am not quite sure of it—I think you will find that the rule laid down by the Attorney General says that argument is not included in the——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) At the discretion of the Presiding Judge.

Presiding Inspector: At the discretion of the presiding Judge.

Mr. Grossman: I think it is our position that it may not be a part of a certain kind of record, but that it becomes a part of the record of this case. We want some permanence [678] to be attached, if possible, to the arguments made, though that may be excluded when you transmit an official record to Attorney General Jackson.

Presiding Inspector: Very well, we will have no trouble about it.

Mr. Gladstein: Will you read the last question, please?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I think you said, Mr. Chase, that you work as a pest control operator? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is a license required for that kind of a job?

A. The firm at the present time must be licensed; the person in charge is required to be licensed.

Q. You are not the person in charge?

A. No.

Q. The employees are not required to be licensed?

A. Not as yet.

Q. Well, then, actually an employee would not be a pest control operator, but working for a pest control operator; is that right?

A. Well, I didn't say I was a pest control operator. I said I was working as a pest control inspector and somebody else injected that part into it.

Q. Now, Mr. Chase, when did you say you left the Upholsterers' Union? [679]

A. I said that was around the early part of December, around the early part.

Q. Before that you had a paid job as organizer?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you lose that position? A. Yes.

Q. What? A. Yes.

Q. By action of the membership of the union?

A. By action of the Communist Fraction in the union.

Q. You mean the union did not act on it?

A. The Executive Board acted upon that and the Executive Board was about 70 to 80 per cent Communist.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Did the membership of the union act on it or not?

A. The membership would probably verify the acts of the Executive Board; I don't know that they did in this case.

Q. So you can't say? A. No.

Q. But what the membership did authorize or verify—— A. No.

Q. Well, let me finish.

A. I am not informed on that.

Q. You are not in a position to say that the membership did not authorize or verify your dismissal from the post as organizer?

A. No, I don't know it to be a fact one way or the [680] other.

On my dismissal as organizer—just a moment here; I misunderstood you there. No, the membership did act on my dismissal as organizer, absolutely. I was misunderstanding you; my error.

Q. When did Local 15 go to the CIO?

A. Some time in December, I believe.

Q. Of what year? A. 1937.

Q. Were you in agreement with that movement?

A. No.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object, your Honor.

What difference does it make whether he was in agreement or disagreement with that with the issues in this case, or to the credibility of the witness.

Mr. Gladstein: It is preliminary.

Presiding Inspector: I will take it. I am allowing very wide latitude here.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Very.

Presiding Inspector: You shall have it too.

The Witness: I started to say that when we came really close to the move I went to J. W. Buzzel of the Central Labor Council and I reported to him the conditions that were—the events that were happening, and he sent a telegram to William Green in Washington who authorized the Upholsterers International to send a man out to try to gain control of the [681] union again.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I take it you were opposed to the move to the CIO?

A. Yes. Incidentally, on this subject, Walter Westfall, the Communist Party member who was the Business Agent, made a statement to the American Federation of Labor covering the conspiracy of the Communists inside the union to take it to the CIO.

Q. Well, then, I take it that you would have been opposed all the way along to affiliation with the CIO?

A. I would have taken action, yes, to have opposed any move that the Communists were making.

Q. Well, were you opposed to affiliation of Local 15 with the CIO?

Mr. Myron: He has answered the question.

A. Yes. I considered the CIO, to a large extent and especially in the furniture industry, to be under Communist domination and I would have opposed that, yes.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. For how long a period before the actual move to CIO were you openly opposed to it?

A. There was a time that I thought I would like to go CIO, but when it reached the point to where I knew I was definitely going to break with the Communist Party I done an about face and swung my support back to the American Federation of Labor. [682]

Q. Now, I think you said——

A. (Interposing) There was, for a long while, I was in favor of the CIO, made a number of talks in favor of it.

Q. I see.

A. At the instructions of the Communist Party, of course, and you must understand at this point that my livelihood was wrapped up in the furniture industry, and being a member of the Communist Party, I couldn't just walk out and get another job. You sometimes have to do things in order to make a living that you probably wouldn't like to do. And having been involved with the Communists, I did not have the economic strength to break with them at any time that I wanted to. I had wanted to for quite a long time, but I had to do their bidding because they were the master in that union.

Q. Do I understand, then, that there was a time, when you were advocating affiliation to the CIO not because you believed in it, but because you regarded that as the most expedient thing for you personally?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. No, I wouldn't state it that way by a long shot.

Q. How would you state it?

A. It is because my economic welfare was firmly in the hands of the Communist Party and I was acting under the lash of necessity at their orders.

Q. Without the exertion of the Communist Party in that union would it have gone CIO? [683]

A. No.

Q. Now, for how long a period of time before that actual move to the CIO did you take an open position against that change of affiliation?

A. Oh, probably just a few weeks before I took an open position.

Q. And prior to that time for how long a period had you secretly been opposed to CIO affiliation but not in a position, as you have explained it, to openly oppose such change of affiliation?

A. I couldn't state; I don't recollect how long it would have been. There were times in there that I was somewhat undecided as to which way to move; I didn't know what to think. I was not exactly satisfied inside the American Federation of Labor, and events took place that made it appear that I would be even less satisfied inside of the CIO.

Q. Well, what caused you to be indecisive about this?

A. Well, I didn't like the CIO mainly on the ground that the Communists were in control of a great portion of it.

Q. And what caused you to be indecisive with respect to staying in the A. F. of L.?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. I believed that——

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment, please. I am getting so that I confess here I don't know when to object and when not to object.

Presiding Inspector: You may object any time that you [684] think.

Mr. Del Guercio: But it has gone so far afield.

Presiding Inspector: You may object any time you believe it is improper.

Well, we have gone into the question of indecision and I think I will allow counsel to ask the witness how the indecision arose and how it was resolved; we are already in this.

The Witness: I would like to answer the question.

Mr. Gladstein: Read the question, please.

Presiding Inspector: Read the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

question, and having it driven to me throughly and over such a period of time I had come to regard the American Federation of Labor as an organization made up of a lot of crooks and thieves, fakers, a bunch of ogres of various kinds. Through this schooling I [685] had reached a point to where I had nothing but contempt and hatred for the American Federation of Labor. But, as I went further in and had a greater insight into the way the Communist Party conducted its union affairs I could understand then, and I could appreciate that the American Federation of Labor was a far greater instrument of value in the hands of working men for extending their working conditions and not excepting the fact that it did not have, as a part of it, the violent overthrow of our Government.

Now, when I commenced to get a complete picture of it I sincerely regretted in my heart that I had ever taken the steps and had ever made some of the utterances that I made against the American Federation of Labor and other institutions which are a part of this country, and I have tried to make reparations of that.

Presiding Inspector: Any further questions?

Mr. Gladstein: Oh, yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I ask just one question and then I will cease. What kind of a line is this?

Mr. Grossman: You mean the witness' statement?

Mr. Del Guercio: No, the line that you are taking now?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Grossman: What do you mean by "line?" Do you want to know the next question?

Mr. Del Guercio: No; sit down.

Mr. Grossman: All right. If your Honor please, I think we might as well have an understanding at this time with [686] respect to the conduct of Mr. Del Guercio. I think it ought to be in accord with the usual court room manner in respect to members of the bar. I don't know whether Mr. Del Guercio is a member of the bar, but I assume he is, and if he is, he certainly ought to give the respect and dignity that is due to the Court and to counsel who are participating in any case.

Presiding Inspector: Let's hear the next question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, I think you said you went back to the Dies Committee to testify in April of 1940; is that right? A. Yes.

Q. At whose expense?

A. At the expense of the Dies Committee, I presume.

Q. Don't you know?

A. They are the ones—I suppose it comes directly from them, but out of the Government indirectly.

Q. Now, who paid your expenses? Did you do so? Did you get money to pay them?

A. No; arrangements were made that I was to get my ticket and I was paid off for my witness fee at the Treasury Department of the United States Government.

Q. From whom did you get your ticket?

A. From the United Air Lines.

Q. Do you know who arranged for that ticket to be given to you at the United Air Lines?

A. No, I do not. [687]

Q. Well, who advised you that you could pick it up there? A. James Stedman.

Q. The representative of the Dies Committee?

A. Yes.

Q. You say you received a witness fee?

A. Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Well, isn't this a little remote from the issues before us? It is the usual practice, I suppose.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. What other expenses besides the airplane ticket did you receive?

Mr. Myron: Of course, your Honor, if there is any evidence that the Alien wishes to offer that anything was improperly done in securing his evidence as a witness before the Dies Committee, why, we won't object to the question, that is, if they make an offer of evidence.

Mr. Gladstein: We just have a right to ask.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, but I don't suppose you claim anything of that kind so far as yet.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. Chase, going back for a moment to the time that you were giving a statement to the Immigration Inspectors during the 1939 Bridges Hearing, after you gave that statement did you ever hear from the Inspectors again? [688] A. No.

Q. Or from anybody else? A. No.

Q. You did not testify as a witness in the last hearing? A. No; you know that.

Q. Did anybody tell you why your testimony was not used? A. No.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: Well, he says, "No."

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Were you told at the time your statement was taken as to whether you would be willing to be a witness? Were you asked that?

A. That is better. Yes.

Q. What did you say?

A. I said yes I would.

Q. But no one asked you to be a witness, is that correct?

Mr. Myron: Well, that is evident; he was not a witness, was he?

Mr. Gladstein: That doesn't follow.

Presiding Inspector: I think he has already answered that. [689]

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I didn't remember that he had.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: I think so, but to be sure, did any one ask you?

The Witness: They asked me if I would be willing to testify. I told them "Yes."

Presiding Inspector: Yes, but you weren't asked to be a witness after?

The witness: No.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Was there anything else said in that connection in that conversation?

A. Not that I recollent.

Q. What names, if any, were mentioned during that conversation that you remember?

Mr. Myron: Which conversation is he referring to? I am wondering why this examination is being made? Is it for the purpose of delaying this witness over here for the next week.

Presiding Inspector: I don't know, can't tell. Go ahead, Mr. Gladstein.

Mr. Gladstein: Counsel says that the witness may not know which conversation we are talking about. I thought it was clear, but I will make it clear which one I am discussing.

Q. I am talking now, about the time, Mr. Chase, that you went up to the Immigration Office and there were present [690] with you a stenographer and two Immigration Inspectors whose names you have given. I think they were Dunne and Ellis, or Ellis and Dunne; is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, on that occasion—will you direct your mind to that occasion? A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Tell us all that was said with respect to the possibility of your testifying in the Bridges case that you can remember.

A. I am very sorry; I don't remember.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to that. It has already been asked and answered. He has had the witness in that office there.

Presiding Inspector: I think you have covered that. He says he was asked whether he would be a witness and he said he was willing to be a witness, and they didn't ask him to be a witness afterwards.

Now, what more can there possibly be than that?

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did they ask you whether you had ever sat at my meetings with Mr. Bridges?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that as being asked and answered.

This witness has given all the conversation that was had there at that particular time.

Presiding Inspector: I will take that as an attempt to [691] refresh his recollection.

Mr. Gladstein: Will you read the question?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

A. I don't remember.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did they ask you whether you had ever heard Mr. Bridges make any speeches?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Did they ask you whether you had ever sat in any Communist Party meetings with Mr. Bridges?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Did they ask you whether you had ever seen any membership book in the Communist Party purporting to belong to Mr. Bridges?

A. I do not remember.

Q. Did they ask you what information you had that would prove that Mr. Bridges was a Communist?

A. I can't remember what was asked me at that interview. I think I have stated that a number of times.

Q. Do you remember anything that you said in that conversation?

Mr. Myron: He has repeated the conversation a few times.

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking him now if he remembers anything that occurred.

Mr. Myron: You mean other than what he has already said?

Mr. Gladstein: I don't know what he has already said. [692]

Mr. Myron: Well, the record contains it.

Presiding Inspector: I think you did ask him about that.

Mr. Gladstein: All he said, he dictated a statement, on it.

Mr. Myron: That is saying a lot.

Mr. Gladstein: All right, let me ask it this way:

Q. Do you remember anything that you dictated in your statement to the Immigration——

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. (Interposing) No, I don't; I don't clearly remember what was in the statement.

Q. Can you tell me anything at all that you dictated in that statement?

Mr. Myron: That was asked and answered.

A. It concerned the Bridges matter. Just what was said in the statement I do not recollect at this time.

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please, obviously counsel could ask a million and one questions as to, did you say this, did you say this other thing. Now, there certainly is a limit there.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, I think he has got about to the limit.

Mr. Gladstein: Not quite, your Honor. I have one more question.

Presiding Inspector: About to the limit.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Isn't it true that you saw this statement that you dictated to the Immigration Inspectors only Tuesday of [693] this week, or last week?

A. It seems to me that I did, but I wouldn't be too positive about that. I was rather tired getting in, and I saw a statement, and I am not going to be too sure that it was that statement either, because I have been doing quite a little bit of reading and looking around, and I could be mistaken on that. It is entirely possible I could have been mistaken.

Presiding Inspector: The next question.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. At any time in your discussions with the FBI Agents were you told why you were not called as a witness in the 1939 hearings?

A. No, I was not.

Mr. Myron: What would they know about the reasons why he was not called, or anything like that?

Mr. Gladstein: I am just asking the question.

Mr. Myron: Do you intend to offer evidence to that effect?

Mr. Gladstein: I have a right to ask the question; don't I, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: I am not sure about that. Would they have a right? Would an FBI agent have a right to tell—would he be the person who would conclude whether a person should be a witness or not? [694]

Mr. Gladstein: No.

Presiding Inspector: Well, then, I wouldn't ask the question. I don't think you will get anywhere with it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, has anybody ever told you why you were not called as a witness?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute. That is the same question in a different form.

Presiding Inspector: Any one of the people in the room might have told him that; we couldn't go into that, any person.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Gladstein: That would include responsible officials. In other words, I don't want to pin it down to any branch of the Government.

Presiding Inspector: You can ask if Mr. Landis told him that, or the counsel in that case told him that——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) Well, I am, of course, referring to representatives of the Government. I can put it in this way:

Presiding Inspector: Well, ask if representatives of the Government——

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. (Interposing) Has any representative of the Government, or any Department of the Government ever told you why you were not called as a witness in the last hearing? [695]

A. No.

Q. Now, you testified that in the telephone conversation between you and Mr. Baron, Mr. Baron said that Comrade Bridges was coming into town; is that right?

Mr. Myron: Are you testifying for the witness?

Presiding Inspector: Now, wait; you are quoting testimony this time.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I will withdraw it and put it this way:

Q. Did Mr. Baron use the expression "Comrade Bridges" in his telephone conversation to you?

Presiding Inspector: Now, we have been all over that, and the witness said in answer to your question that he either said "Comrade Bridges" or "Harry Bridges" and he was not sure which.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Is that a correct statement?

A. That is correct.

Q. That is, you don't remember whether it was Comrade Bridges or Harry Bridges?

A. In circles in the Party I have heard him referred to both ways innumerable times and it is hard to remember the exact precise instance.

Q. How many times have you heard Mr. Bridges referred to as Comrade Bridges?

A. Oh, a number of times. There is no Communist in the [696] movement that don't believe Harry to be a member; that is common knowledge?

Q. Now, how many times have you heard Mr. Bridges referred to as Comrade Bridges?

A. Probably hundreds or innumerable times by practically all of them that I have come in contact with.

Q. Perfectly open and not any attempt to conceal it?

A. I said among members.

Q. I say that; is that correct?

A. And then when the movement came on, though, to cover him up more, at the time of the 1934 strike, it being quite a success, the Communist stuck their chin out a mile to take credit for that strike, and it was openly boasted among Party members themselves and it was quite general, but as the heat was turned on, why, they commenced then to cover up.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. When was that heat turned on?

A. Oh, I would say right about some time in 1937 while they were getting pretty tight on the subject, quite tight.

Q. From about that time on they stopped referring to Mr. Bridges as Comrade Bridges?

A. I don't know what they did after I left the Party.

Q. Well, what is your testimony on the subject?

Mr. Myron: There it is, right there.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead, Mr. Gladstein, Don't interrupt unless you have an objection.

By Mr. Gladstein: [697]

Q. Were these references being made as Comrade Bridges continuously while you were in the Party, up until 1937; that is what I want to know.

A. Yes; not only that, but Elmer Hanoff who was the County organizer, by the way, told me definitely on one occasion that Bridges was a Communist.

Q. When was this?

A. That was in 1934 during the Longshoremen's strike; he told me that the Communists had the leadership of it.

Q. Is this the first time that you have mentioned this to anybody?

A. I have known it quite a while.

Q. Is this the first time you have ever mentioned that to anybody?

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

A. Oh, I might have mentioned it a time or two, but it actually happened.

Q. Mr. Chase, tell me when, prior to today, that you have ever mentioned the fact that Elmer Hanoff, if it is a fact, as you testified, told you that Bridges was a Communist?

A. I probably haven't.

Q. What is the answer?

A. I probably haven't told it very generally.

Q. You probably have not?

A. Yes, sir. There are several things that I haven't told generally that went on in the Communist movement that I might decide to tell some time.

[698]

Q. Mr. Chase, why did you not tell the Dies Committee you were being asked what information you had that would prove that Bridges was a Communist, this statement of Elmer Hanoff to you as to the effect that Bridges was a Communist?

A. Well, I didn't consider the testimony on the Bridges case before the Dies Committee as having a great deal of importance. I was testifying more as to general policy and Communist movement on a very wide scale, and I was not going into any great lengthy detail to furnish complete testimony on any particular phase of it.

Questions were being directed to me by first one; by the time I would get it half answered someone else would interject a question.

Q. Is that your reason? Is that your explanation? A. Well, that could be, yes.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Well, is it or not?

A. I said that I didn't testify completely to every phase of every subject.

Q. Mr. Chase, I asked you what the reason was that you did not mention this Hanoff incident to the Dies Committee, and you have just given an explanation. I am now asking you if that is your complete explanation to that question?

A. It might have, at the time, escaped my memory. I have mentioned possibly time and again that different members have referred to Bridges and have stated that he was a member [699] of the Communist Party.

Q. Did you ever tell that to any representative of the United States Government?

A. I don't recollect that I did. There is a few other things that I haven't told yet, too.

Q. Did you mention that Elmer Hanoff told you that Bridges was a Communist in any of these three statements that you gave, Immigration Department, Dies Committee and FBI?

A. Yes, I told the FBI.

Q. In that statement?

A. In a statement.

Q. Tell us what you said in that statement?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object, your Honor. He has just told him there what he said in that statement.

Mr. Gladstein: I mean concerning this incident. This is something new that the witness has not yet testified about.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Presiding Inspector: That is true, but he just told you that he told them that.

Mr. Myron: With the did of counsel they refreshed his memory.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, now, there is no——

Presiding Inspector: Haven't you got it all?

Mr. Gladstein: Not yet, your Honor. This is the first time this has been mentioned in the case and, therefore, I [700] think I have a right to ask it.

Presiding Inspector: I haven't heard it before.

Mr. Gladstein: Neither had I.

Presiding Inspector: No.

Mr. Gladstein: And I would be very surprised——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) You may, of course, ask about it.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

Presiding Inspector: But I think, as to the last question, you have already had the answer.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, as I understand it, the witness has said that he talked to the FBI and gave the FBI a statement he did tell them about this Elmer Hanoff conversation. Now, I want to go into the substance of what he told them, the essence of it.

Presiding Inspector: If there is anything more you may, of course.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Will you please tell us what you told the FBI in this written statement concerning this incident of Elmer Hanoff telling you that Bridges was a Communist?

Mr. Myron: You mean other than what he has already told?

A. I have about stated it; yes, there were other things in the report. [701]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Concerning this incident, Mr. Chase?

A. No, nothing other than what we have stated here.

Q. Then, what?

A. Nothing other than what we have stated here on this particular phase of it.

Q. You mean what we have stated?

A. Yes, I have stated in their report, yes, that Elmer Hanoff told me that. There is other people have told me that, too, that I haven't mentioned.

Q. Who is Elmer Hanoff?

A. Elmer Hanoff was the County organizer, or Section organizer of Los Angeles at the time.

Q. Would you call him an important Communist?

A. Yes, he is a very important Communist.

Q. Were any of the other people who told you that Bridges was a Communist important people in the Communist Party?

A. Not so much so as Hanoff, no.

Q. Well, name some of the other important ones.

A. Ronald Keith told me that Bridges was a Communist. He had belonged up here; he is not so prominent.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Q. Who else?

A. Well, I never took the trouble to ask them, but they commonly refer to him as Comrade Bridges; they accepted him as a Communist through the Communist movement. You never hear them lambasting or criticising his actions, do you? [702]

Q. Now, in your direct examination for the Government in this case you did not mention this Hanoff incident. Can you explain why?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, if the Court please. In the first place counsel is misleading the witness.

Do you say that I asked the witness if Elmer Hanoff had asked if he was a member of the Communist Party?

Mr. Gladstein: Would you read the question?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I think that speaks for itself because I didn't ask him, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: I will let him answer.

Can you tell why? Yes or no.

The Witness: No, I don't know; it was not asked. It was not included in the statement. I would have answered it if it had been asked.

(Messrs. Gladstein and Grossman examine documents.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Does counsel desire a recess? Will it take very long?

Mr. Grossman: Two minutes.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Mr. Gladstein: Would your Honor be adverse to a recess for a couple of moments?

Presiding Inspector: No, not at all.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

[703]

Presiding Inspector: Mr. Chase, would you be willing to write a letter for us?

The Witness: Write?

Presiding Inspector: Would you object to writing something with a pen and pencil?

The Witness: No, I wouldn't.

Presiding Inspector: Well, will you write——

Mr. Goodwin (interposing): I want to interpose, on the part of the Government, a formal objection to taking a specimen of the handwriting of this witness in advance of the offer of any document in court, or of any request, or any question presented to the witness as to whether a given document is in his handwriting.

We have discussed this, and we have given our reasons for our objection, and I am stating them merely for the present purpose of the record.

Presiding Inspector: We will see about any document afterwards.

We would like to have some of your handwriting now. I suggest that you write, not your signature, but write—let me see a document——

Mr. Gladstein (interposing) Read from this.

Presiding Inspector: What is that?

Mr. Gladstein: Dean Landis' report.

Presiding Inspector: That might be difficult.

[704]

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

Write this:

"This is the month of April in the year 1941 and the weather here in San Francisco has not been true California weather, according to the statements of people living here."

Sign that.

(Whereupon the witness wrote in ink and signed as requested.)

Presiding Inspector: Now write the following:

"But others who do not live in California are doubtful in this matter, although they have no personal knowledge sufficient to form a belief."

Sign that.

(Whereupon the witness wrote in pencil and signed as requested.)

Presiding Inspector: I am grateful to you.

Mark this for identification.

Mr. Gladstein: Could we have a photostat made of that, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

The Reporter: How shall I mark it, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: It is an exhibit written at the request of the Court. Use the next exhibit number and call it "Court's Exhibit No."—whatever the next number is.

(The document referred to was marked Court's Exhibit No. 133 for identification.)

[705]

Mr. Gladstein: We have no further questions.

Presiding Inspector: Let me have the document that you spoke of so I may mark it.

(Testimony of Ezra Chase.)

(The document referred to was handed to the Presiding Inspector by Mr. Grossman.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't believe there are any questions on redirect.

Presiding Inspector: I have marked four photostatic pages with the date, April 4th, and either my initials or my name on them.

Mr. Del Guercio: All right. They will be available to us?

Presiding Inspector: Yes; they will be available.

Are there any other documents?

Mr. Gladstein: That is all, your Honor.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will ask that the witness be excused.

Presiding Inspector: Yes. See how I have done that?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes. That is the document to be offered by the defense?

Presiding Inspector: The ones they contemplate offering, I assume.

(Whereupon the documents referred to were returned to Mr. Gladstein.)

Presiding Inspector: There are no questions in rebuttal?

Mr. Del Guercio: No. [706]

Presiding Inspector: You are excused.

(Witness excused.)

Mr. Gladstein: Will you give permission to the reporter—I think that he probably has arrangements with his photostatic service—to have a photostat made of that exhibit so we may have exemplars?

Presiding Inspector: You may have the very important weather report and comment photostated; yes.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

Presiding Inspector: It is eight minutes to five o'clock. Do you want to call another witness?

Mr. Del Guercio: I would rather not, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Then we will take a recess until Monday, April 14th, at ten o'clock in the morning, the understanding being about that as we agreed, all of us, in chambers.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: That is, that if Mr. Bridges finds it necessary, in his opinion, to be away not more than one day of the week following next week, when an election takes places in his Union, he will be allowed to be away that day.

(Whereupon, at 4:55 o'clock P. M., Friday, April 4th, an adjournment was taken until Monday, April 14, 1941, at 10:00 o'clock A. M.) [707]

Court Room 276,
Federal Building,
San Francisco, California,

April 15, 1941.

Met, pursuant to adjournment, at 10:00 A. M. [708]

PROCEEDINGS

Presiding Inspector: All right, Mr. Del Guercio.

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please, at the last session, I believe it was Friday, counsel for the Alien requested the Court that you instruct us to communicate with the Attorney General in regard to making available to the defense certain statements made by Government witnesses prior to their appearance on the stand.

The matter was discussed with the Attorney General by Mr. Schofield who, as you know, is in charge of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. I have his reply.

The Attorney General has left the matter entirely within my discretion. He has also stated that it is his desire, as well as the desire of Mr. Schofield, that if in any case a witness should, when called to testify, vary in any substantial or material way from prior statements made by the witness so as to indicate that he is testifying falsely, this should be frankly revealed by the Government.

I will follow that policy throughout.

Mrs. King: If your Honor please, I do not exactly know what the implications of Mr. Del Guercio's remarks are, but this request was made with reference to a specific witness, Ezra Chase. He hasn't stated specifically whether he will or will not furnish the statements previously made by Ezra Chase to the Immigration Service, and to the FBI. But I rather as- [709] sume from his statement that he will not furnish them. I should like at this time to request him specifically to furnish those statements so that we will be talking about something definite and, if possible, so that we can obtain those statements.

Presiding Inspector: Do you want to say anything?

Mr. Del Guercio: No; I think my remarks to the Court cover generally the whole situation.

Presiding Inspector: Very well.

Do you want to cross examine Mr. Chase further?

Mr. Gladstein: Well, your Honor, we have not considered that because, frankly, we did not think that the Government would choose not to reveal a prior statement made to the FBI when it is claimed, as we have made the claim, that that statement, if revealed, would show contradictory statements, that is to say——

Mr. Del Guercio (interposing): There is no support for any such statement, if the Court please, and counsel has no business making any such remark.

Presiding Inspector: No; I understand your position on that. We will have to go to something else.

If you wish to cross examine Mr. Chase further, you may, he may be called, but if you don't care to cross examine him further we will have the next witness.

Mr. Gladstein: Could we consider that question for a [710] moment, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Yes, certainly.

Mr. Del Guercio: Of course, the Witness Chase was excused, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, but——

Mr. Grossman (interposing): Your Honor, at this time we are not prepared to cross examine Mr.

Chase because we haven't completed our investigations of handwriting and other—— .

Presiding Inspector: Well, we will go on with another witness. If you want to make an application later I will hear you. Call the next witness.

Mr. Del Guercio: Take the stand——

Mrs. King (interposing): If your Honor please, before the examination of this witness is started I should like to go further into this problem of statements which are being withheld by the Government. This matter was gone into fully at the last hearing and it was shown that common fairness required that the statements be furnished to the attorneys for Mr. Bridges. We believe that this same rule should go at the present time. However, the Government, of course, runs its own case. However, if these statements are not to be furnished we suggest that a presumption should result from the failure to produce these statements. Obviously we cannot be bound by Mr. Del Guercio's opinion that the statements——

Presiding Inspector (interposing): Oh, well, no inference [711] that they are the same will be drawn or any inference that they are not the same.

Mr. Del Guercio: I also resent that remark of counsel.

Presiding Inspector: The Examining Investigator will draw no inference one way or the other from their absence because it is beyond the power of the Presiding Investigator to——

Mrs. King (interposing): Well, Dean Landis certainly did not regard it as beyond the power and stated to the Government at that time that it was approprite that an inference—that we should argue that an inference could be drawn if the Government did not produce these, and if you——

Presiding Inspector (interposing): Well, my present view is that—of course, I haven't made up my mind on that—but my present view is that no inference will be drawn by me one way or the other. Certainly no hostile view will be drawn.

Mrs. King: Well, if your Honor please, in view of your position and your present statement the attorneys for Mr. Bridges request that they have an opportunity to submit a memorandum of law with reference to this problem to establish that probably a presumption, and certainly an inference, is proper in the event that evidence solely within the power of one party is withheld by that party and is not produced for the consideration of the official who is investigating—— [712]

Presiding Inspector (interposing): I will receive an argument in writing on that when the time comes. Of course, this evidence, as you call it, is not original evidence. It is simply—all you want it for is to effect the credibility of the witness.

Mrs. King: Yes, and this is a witness, of course——

Presiding Inspector (interposing): Well, I won't go any further with it now, but you may submit such an argument, of course.

Mrs. King: And you have a witness here who has been shown, from the written statement which appears in the Dies Committee reports, did testify in a very different way.

Mr. Del Guercio: He did not.

Presiding Inspector: This is argument which will come up ultimately, of course. There is no use in advancing it now. I understand what you mean. We will go on with the witness.

Raise your right hand and be sworn. [713]

Upon Appeal from the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of California, Northern Division called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

HOWARD RUSHMORE

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What is your name?

A. Howard Rushmore—R-u-s-h-m-o-r-e.

Q. Where do you live?

A. 75 Thayer Street, New York City.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. I am a reporter.

Q. Mr. Rushmore, have you ever been a member of the Communist Party? A. I was.

Q. When did you join the Communist Party?

A. Approximately the fall of 1934.

Q. And where?

A. In St. Louis, Missouri.

Q. And what was the name of the Communist Party at that time?

A. The name was the Communist Party of the United States.

Q. And how long did you remain a member of the Communist Party?

A. Until December 19, 1939.

Q. Now, while you were a member of the Communist Party did you hold any positions within the Party? [714]

A. Yes; I held a number of positions.

Q. What was your first position?

A. My first position was Managing Editor of the Young Worker which is the official organ of the Young Communist League at that time.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. For how long a period did you hold that position? A. About one year.

Q. Where was that?

A. In New York City; 35 East 12th Street.

Q. Just prior to your joining the Communist Party what was your occupation?

A. I was engaged in newspaper work in my home town, which was Mexico, Missouri.

Q. Why did you join the Communist Party?

A. Because at that time I thought their program was substantially one that was appropriate for Americans who had ideals of liberty and democracy. At that time I was about 21 years of age and about the age when youth is rather idealistic, and from the Communist literature that I saw, and the other propaganda that I received, I thought there was an answer to what I had been seeking in the form of a democracy that was perhaps extended further than our own.

Q. Were you born in this country?

A. Yes. I was born in Mitchell, South Dakota.

Q. Now, what other positions did you hold in the Communist [715] Party?

A. For a period, the summer of 1936, I was the North and South Dakota Organizer of the Young Communist League.

Q. The Young Communist League—now, is that affiliated with the Communist Party?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. Well, the best way to describe the Young Communist League, I think, would be to say it is a junior section of the Communist Party, molded very closely along the lines of the parent organization.

Q. Does it have the same aims, purposes and objectives as the Communist Party?

A. Yes; the same aims.

Q. Is it controlled by the Communist International, the same as the Communist Party of the United States is?

Mr. Gladstein: All of the last three questions have been leading and suggestive. May we ask for a ruling asking counsel on direct examination not to lead the witness?

Mr. Del Guercio: This is a matter that is already in evidence, your Honor. It is for the purpose of expediting the examination of this witness.

Presiding Inspector: Do not lead any more than you can help. If it is just repetition, something already in the record, of course the Examiner will take that into consideration. But be careful about it.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. By whom is the Young Communist League controlled? [716]

A. Properly it is controlled by the Young Communist International, which has its headquarters in Moscow.

Q. And who, in turn, if anyone, controls the Young Communist International?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. Well, that naturally is controlled by the Communist Party, the Communist International.

Q. Did you hold any other positions while you were a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes. During the summer of 1936, when I was out in the Dakotas, and throughout the Great Plains, I edited a special farm page of the Daily Worker.

Q. And for how long a period?

A. That extended up until around March, 1937.

Q. You say you "edited"—what do you mean by that?

A. Well, I gathered the news of the Great Plains, as far as the farmers went, the various farm programs the Party was carrying out, and by and large any news pertaining to farm activities; and this news, stuff, I would send to the Daily Worker in time for their national edition which was sent throughout the country. They had a special page they called the farm page. Most of the stuff was compiled by myself.

Q. I see. For how long a period of time did you do that work?

A. Well, during the late summer of 1936 and until March 1937. I believe it was discontinued approximately March 1937. [717]

Q. What other positions did you hold?

A. For a brief period of time, in connection with my newspaper work there in the Great Plains, I was Organizational Secretary of the Communist Party of Iowa.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. Any other positions?

A. Yes. Then I returned to New York and joined the staff of the Daily Worker; and on the Daily Worker I alternately served as feature editor, general assignment man, ships' news, assistant editor and managing editor of the magazine section of the Sunday Worker.

Q. How do you become a member of the staff of the Daily Worker?

A. There is one obligation which, I think, is held pretty firm, at least throughout the time I had anything to do with the Communists, and that is you have to be a member of the Party to become a member of the Daily Worker Staff.

Q. You mean a member of the Communist Party?

A. A member of the Communist Party; yes.

Q. And you were a member of the staff for how long a period?

A. Well, that was from about May 1937 until December 1939.

Q. I believe you have already testified concerning the Sunday Worker, that you edited that paper?

A. No. It was the magazine section, a supplement sent out to the other Communist papers, the People's Daily World, the [718] Chicago Midwest Daily Record, and it was included in the New York Sunday Worker. It was a 12-page magazine section of which I was the managing editor.

Q. Was this also inserted in the Daily Worker?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. Yes. The Sunday Worker, to be exact, was the title of it.

Q. You say you contributed articles to all of these papers mentioned by you?

A. Yes; I had a number of articles.

Q. Were you required to submit your articles to anyone before they were published?

A. Yes. The Daily Worker has an editorial board of—it varies from four to six or seven members—and all copy, features, news, everything else, has to be submitted to one member of the editorial board before it is O.K.'d and put in the paper.

Q. While you were on the staff of the Daily Worker did you ever have any staff meetings?

A. We had frequent staff meetings; approximately once a week, I would say.

Q. And what was discussed at these staff meetings?

A. Various matters pertaining to the changes in party policy, or what lines to follow on particular things affecting the news. The meetings were held more frequently, I would say the last year I was there in 1939 when there were rapid changes in the Party line, and the editorial board called [719] in often a special member from the Political Bureau of the Communist Party to give us the proper line on these events, because often we were rather confused as to how to keep abreast of the Line and the news at the same time.

Q. How many times would a representative from the Political Bureau appear at these staff meetings?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. Well, that varied. Sometimes there would be a member of the Political Bureau and sometimes not, present. It might be a specialist in other affairs pertaining to the Daily Worker.

Q. Who was the Business Manager of the Daily Worker while you were a member of the staff?

A. The first Business Manager I ever knew there was David Leeds—L-e-e-d-s. [720]

Q. David Leeds. And was he also a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You know that of your own knowledge?

A. I do.

Q. Does he have any other name?

A. He has another name; I have heard it. I don't remember—it is Amerilgo, or something like that. I don't know how it is spelled; I don't know how to pronounce it.

Q. Do you know if David Leeds is his correct name?

A. I was told even while on the Worker that this other name was his real name, but I paid little attention to that because most of the people around there used assumed names. It was nothing new to——

Q. (Interposing): Did he ever have a position with the Communist Party?

A. Yes. I knew at one time he was Financial Secretary of the New York Communist Party.

Q. Now, during any time that you were a member of the Communist Party did you ever have occasion to interview the Alien here, Mr. Bridges?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. Yes, in the summer of 1935.

Q. And what was your position in the Communist Party at that time?

A. Well, that was shortly after I came to New York from [721] Missouri and I was Managing Editor of The Young Worker at that time.

Q. And The Young Worker, that is the official organ of the Young Communist League?

A. It was, yes.

Q. And do you see the Alien here in this court room? A. Yes, I remember Mr. Bridges.

Q. Do you recognize him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where is he?

A. He is sitting at the end of this table, the counsel table, at the end to my left.

Mr. Del Guercio: May the record show that the witness has identified him?

Presiding Inspector: Certainly.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Where did this interview take place?

A. I believe the name of the place was the Manhattan Opera House, something like that. I forget the exact—there are so many of those meeting halls in New York and I covered a number of meetings. I believe it was the Manhattan Opera House.

Q. And did you interview anyone else about the same time?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. Yes, I was assigned to interview these people in the Youth Congress, which was coming very rapidly to the fore then [722] in the Young Communist League's program, and I talked to Mr. Bridges and a Mr. Louis Weinstock.

Q. Who was Louis Weinstock?

A. Louis Weinstock I knew to be even at that time a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party, and is now one of the officials of District Council Nine of the Painters Union, New York City.

Q. Who instructed you to interview Mr. Bridges and Mr. Weinstock?

A. The Editor of The Young Worker, whose name was Joseph Cohen, C-o-h-e-n.

Q. And did you write the result of your interview with Mr. Bridges and Mr. Weinstock?

A. I did.

Q. And did it appear in The Young Worker?

A. It did.

Q. Well, what was this Youth Congress movement, Mr. Rushmore?

A. That was one of the most important of the front organizations which was started by the Young Communist League and the Communist Party in '35, when they adopted their Trojan horse policy. However, to be correct, the Youth Congress, as such, came into being before that time. About in 1934 or '33—I don't know the exact date on that—I was not in New York then—there was some sort of a Youth Convention called there [723] at

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

New York University and there was quite a split in the organization over policy and the Young Communist League took over the largest wing of this youth movement and called it the Youth Congress, and it really came to the forefront and to its rather wide scope in 1935.

Q. And you say it was completely dominated and controlled by the Communist Party?

A. I would say that from my experience, yes.

Q. And what was the purpose of the Youth Congress?

A. The proper claimed purpose was to give jobs to unemployed youth, to fight race discrimination, and to preserve democracy, peace and freedom. The actual aims, of course, were the aims of the Young Communist League.

Q. And what was that?

A. The similar aim to that of the Communist Party, an ultimate revolutionary overthrow of the capitalist order and establishment of proletarian dictatorship.

Q. And you were instructed, you say, to interview the Alien here concerning the Youth Congress? A. To interview who?

Q. The Alien here?

A. Yes. I was told to interview Mr. Bridges by Mr. Cohen, my editor.

Q. Also Mr. Weinstock?

A. That is correct. [724]

Q. Who, you say, is a member of the Politbureau? A. No, of the Central Committee.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. Of the Central Committee.

A. He might have been a member of the Political Bureau; I don't know about that.

Q. I will show you what purports to be here a photostatic copy of the New York, Tuesday, July 23, 1935, page three, on which appears an article "Bridges and Weinstock Praise Youth Congress" by Howard Rushmore, and ask you if you can identify that?

A. (Examining document): Yes, that is a photostat of The Young Worker.

Q. Now, was that a correct transcription of your article on Bridges and Weinstock Praise Youth Congress? A. It is.

Q. Now, there appears on this photostatic copy the following "The Young Worker, Official Organ of the National Executive Committee, Young Communist League, 35 East 12th Street, New York City." Is that correct? I believe you have testified that The Young Worker was the official organ of the Young Communist League?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And is that a photograph of Harry Bridges?

A. Could I see that a little closer, please?

Q. (Handing document to witness.) [725]

A. Yes, that is.

Mr. Gladstein: If your Honor please, while we are waiting, are we to understand that it is the theory of Mr. Del Guercio that it is material to the issues of this case that Mr. Bridges permitted himself to be interviewed by a reporter, or is it his contention that there is something that Mr. Bridges said in that interview which is material? If the latter is the case, we are waiting for him to reach the actual statements that Mr. Bridges made.

Mr. Del Guercio: My theory, if I may reply to counsel, is that Harry Bridges, throughout the period of time from about 1932 to the present time, has been a member of and affiliated with the Communist Party, and that his conduct throughout this period of time has been such as to lead anyone to believe that he was a member of the Communist Party.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I renew the question. I am simply wondering whether counsel intends——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): I don't suppose he has to answer it unless he wishes to.

Mr. Gladstein: Let us have this understanding, if your Honor please: I do not see Mr. Del Guercio marking for identification a document which has been shown the witness.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer it in evidence, if that will relieve you.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

Presiding Inspector: Doesn't it seem to be wise to ask [726] him whether this is a true account of what Mr. Bridges said?

Mr. Del Guercio: I believe I did ask the witness.

Presiding Inspector: I didn't hear it.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. If I haven't, is this a true account of what Mr. Bridges said at that time?

A. It is, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I will receive it.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer it in evidence at this time and ask it be marked.

Presiding Inspector: I will receive it.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 134.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, Mr. Rushmore, I note from this article that Mr. Bridges made mention of the National Students League. Are you familiar with that?

A. Yes. The National Students League was, I think, the first—as far as I know is the first outright Communist organization of the Students College and High School Students.

Q. And what kind of an organization was it?

A. Well, it was patterned along the lines of the Young Communist League, only it was to be set up in its various units in the colleges and schools wherever it could be established.

Q. Well, was it also a Communist organization?

[727]

A. To the best of my knowledge it was.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I read from this article, if the Court please?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Mr. Del Guercio: As to what Bridges said about the National Students League at that time.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: May I suggest that the whole thing be read if there is going to be any part of it read, your Honor?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes, I will be glad to read the whole part of it.

"Bridges and Weinstock Praise Youth Congress.

"'I think the American Youth Congress is a splendid thing,' Harry Bridges said. Tired from days of speech-making and endless meetings with rank and file longshoremen, the West Coast leader nevertheless grew immediately enthusiastic when I asked him for his opinion on the Congress.

"'An important step forward in the youth movement,' the San Francisco strike leader said. 'Perhaps one of the most important things in many years as far as the youth is concerned.'

"In the press conference he was asked about the young longshoremen. 'None of them are very young. They can't join until they are least 21 years old and most of our workers on the West Coast are way over that age.' [728]

"During his speech at the Manhattan Opera House Bridges had several times spoken of football teams scabbing during the General Strike. I asked him if he referred to the athletes from the California Universities.

"'Yeah,' Bridges said, smiling. 'The coaches must have wanted to give their boys a workout.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Stanford sent their first and second string football team down for a——' "

You needn't snicker there, Mrs. King.

Mrs. King: Would you address the Court, Mr. Del Guercio?

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead; I will run this Court. Now, go ahead and read.

Mr. Del Guercio: " 'The coaches must have wanted to give their boys a workout.' "

Presiding Inspector: That refers to everyone, of course. We are going to have a proper hearing here. Everyone is going to have their opportunity. Go right ahead.

Mr. Del Guercio: " 'Stanford sent their first and second string football team down for a workout. They got it.' I didn't ask what kind of a workout, but I imagined, from Bridges' words, that the squad probably were more than satisfied.

" 'But don't get me wrong on the college students,' the longshoremen's leader hastened to add. 'Five members of the National Students League came over to the general Labor council meeting and pledged us that they would help us in any way [729] they could. About the only scabs from the universities were the athletes.'

"Surrounded by a crowd of longshoremen and workers waiting to shake his hand, Bridges asked to be excused from any more interviewing. 'I'm pretty tired,' he grinned.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

"'A Great Thing'" — Weinstock.

"I also asked Louis Weinstock, militant leader of the Painters' Union, about the American Youth Congress. Weinstock, who spoke on the same platform with Bridges at the Manhattan Opera House, did not hesitate in beaming approval of the Congress.

"'I've followed it closely and think the youth of the United States certainly are doing a great thing,' Weinstock said. 'It's swell how the A. F. of L. locals sent youth representatives. The broad united front is a real advance in the fight against starvation wages for the youth.'" [730]

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, Mr. Rushmore, during any of these staff meetings of The Daily Worker was the name of the alien ever brought up?

A. Once or twice, that I remember.

Q. And in what connection?

Mr. Gladstein: Just a moment, if your Honor please. Unless a foundation is laid that the alien is supposed to have been present at any of these occasions about which he is about to be asked it is quite obvious that the questioner is seeking hearsay, and I think we may as well have an understanding on this whole question of hearsay; because how would it be possible for us to defend against the kinds of double and triple hearsay which counsel could request? How would it be possible for us to check on the veracity of the statements of any witness if, in the absence of Mr.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Bridges, people talk about him, and testimony is permitted of that hearsay character?

We recognize that to some extent, within the discretion of the Examiner in administrative proceedings, hearsay is admissible, and that the real question is one as to the weight or value of that hearsay, but if we are going to have nothing but hearsay, as we have had from Mr. Chase already, as we are about to have apparently from this witness, let us have an understanding, because we have a lot of hearsay of our own concerning the FBI and others on the other side of this case.

Are we going to open the doors wide to hearsay or are we [731] going to confine ourselves to evidence which is admissible in common law?

I think I recall a public statement made by Major Schofield—I don't know whether the press quoted his accurately—in which he was reported to have said at the time of the argument, the original argument on the postponement, that the hearing, he anticipated, in this case, would not be as long as the last, for one reason because the rules of common law applicable in evidence would govern more strictly in this case than in the last.

I think we should have some understanding on this question of hearsay.

Presiding Inspector: The Examiner won't make any general ruling on this matter, but, of course, you may interpose an objection later when the proceeding is a little more developed.

Go ahead, Mr. Del Guercio.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Mr. Del Guercio: What was your answer?

The Witness: Will you repeat the question, please?

(The question was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. At one staff meeting——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) Just one moment. May the record reflect our objection to the present question on the ground it calls for hearsay?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: Also that we now move to strike the answer [732] to the preceding question to which we did not have an opportunity to object before the answer came.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, you may have it appear that [redacted] objection was made, or that you made a motion to strike, and that motion I will deny, and the other objection generally may also appear to this whole line of testimony as hearsay.

Mr. Gladstein: That is, the record may now show, so that it will not be necessary for us, your Honor, to repeat these objections; is that correct?

Presiding Inspector: Yes, but if it comes to a crucial question I think you ought to interpose. I am now merely allowing this to sketch the background to see what is to be definitely shown about this matter.

Mr. Gladstein: But are we to understand that in a general sense the record is now to reflect that it may be deemed that we are objecting to this general line of questioning on the ground it is hearsay and it will not be necessary for us to specifically repeat that objection as to each question?

Presiding Inspector: Yes, you are correct, you are correct about that.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: That will be satisfactory?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, thank you.

A. (Continuing) At one staff meeting at which we were addressed by Jack Stachel the name of Mr. Bridges came up briefly. [733] Stachel was a member of the Political Bureau of the Communist Party and assigned by the Bureau and by the Central Committee to have charge of all trade union work of the Party, and occasionally he talked to us when something important was coming up in connection with our work in trade union matters. And on this day—I think it was the latter part of '38—Stachel talked to us and mentioned the West Coast in his discussion. He usually talked for about an hour, dealing with various phases of West Coast labor, and I forget the—some of the leaders he was discussing, but he was putting them in their various classifications, and I remember distinctly he said to us, when he mentioned Bridges he said: "Now, Comrades, we all know where Bridges stands." I remember that statement made by Stachel.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, while you were a member of the staff of The Daily Worker did you have occasion to consider the treatment that was to be accorded matters pertaining to Bridges?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. Well, he was one of a number of trade union leaders who were more or less the national heroes of The Daily Worker and the Communist Party.

Q. How was he considered by the The Daily Worker?

A. Well, I would say that he was——

Mr. Gladstein: I object to that question as being vague and indefinite. Now, I understood The Daily Worker, by [734] the question here, was a newspaper.

Mr. Del Guercio: I didn't say The Daily Worker was a newspaper. I said it was the official organ of the Communist Party.

Mr. Gladstein: I think the question is, how was Mr. Bridges considered by The Daily Worker. Isn't that the question?

Presiding Inspector: That means the staff, of course, of The Daily Worker.

Mr. Gladstein: That is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial as to how they considered him.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I don't know exactly what you seek.

Mr. Del Guercio: One of the issues in this case is whether or not the alien here was a member of the Communist Party.

Presiding Inspector: Certainly.

Mr. Del Guercio: Now, there are a number of ways of establishing that. One is, of course, by producing the membership card, if the alien ever had one, and another way, of course, is by showing his conduct for an extended period of time.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, but the impression of these men, as to whether they have regarded him with favor or not, doesn't advance this very much.

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, in this connection here too, that here is an admitted member of the Communist Party during the [735] period of time to which we allege that Bridges, the alien here, was a member. It is the same as being a member of a fraternal organization. Certainly it would go to members of that organization to determine who are members of the——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Yes; I don't say that I will exclude this question but it doesn't advance the argument very far, just to say what they asked him, what their impression was about it.

Mr. Del Guercio: Not impression; what treatment.

Presiding Inspector: Well, what their attitude was toward him. What was the exact phrase?

Mr. Gladstein: How they considered him.

Presiding Inspector: How they considered him.

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, I will withdraw that question and frame this one:—

Presiding Inspector: They might consider him favorably.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What kind of treatment did The Daily

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Worker, the official organ of the Communist Party of the United States, give, if any, to the alien here?

Mr. Gladstein: I object, in the first place, on the ground that this is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial; secondly, I should think it calls not for the best available evidence. I suppose that the best method of determining what kind of treatment—assuming that this is material in this case—was accorded to [736] Mr. Bridges by the staff of The Daily Worker would be to show the sheets, the actual copies of The Daily Worker in which write-ups or interviews concerning Bridges appeared, and not to ask for secondary evidence from this witness.

I make the objection on both of those grounds, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: If this were a Court I would exclude this question, but in this general investigation where very wide scope is afforded to each side, I think I will receive this particular question and the answer.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You may answer.

A. During my time on The Daily Worker, and in my various capacities there, I came to know Mr. Bridges as a figure in our news there, as what the newspaper men called a "Sacred cow". That, to translate it, means a person to whom only favorable publicity is given, and favorable display of the particular news involving him, and never a criticism; or, you might say, all around 100 per cent favorable treatment by the members of the staff of the various newspapers.

Q. Was he given such favorable treatment as a "Sacred cow" all during the time that you were a member of the staff of The Daily Worker?

A. He was.

Q. From your interview with Mr. Bridges there in connection with the Young Worker, or the Workers' Congress—excuse me—Youth Congress, and from your experiences there as a [737] member of the staff of The Daily Worker over an extended period of time, and from your other knowledge gained while you were a member of the Communist Party, would you say that the alien here was a member of the Communist Party during that period of time?

Mr. Gladstein: Could we ask that the question be read? I am sorry, but I did not hear it.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Mr. Gladstein: If your Honor please, we certainly do object to a question of this kind which calls for opinion, guess, conclusion, hazard, venture, and which has within the framing of the question several compound, indefinite, assumed portions.

If your Honor will have the question read back you will see what I have reference to.

Presiding Inspector: I have heard it twice.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will strike the question and ask him if, in his opinion, Mr. Bridges was a member of the Communist Party?

Mr. Gladstein: We object to that. That isn't evidence. People aren't supposed to take the stand and give opinions. The witness is supposed to be here to testify under oath. I can get thousands of people to come in here and give opinions on the question. We object to the question because it calls [738] for hazard, guess and opinion, rather than evidence.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Presiding Inspector: I will exclude it.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

Presiding Inspector: But you may show anything else that he knows.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. During the time that you were a member of the Communist Party did you become familiar with the literature published and distributed by the Communist Party?

A. Yes; I saw a great deal of it.

Q. I will show you a book called "From Bryan to Stalin," printed in the U. S. A. by the International Publishers Co., Inc., copyright, 1937, and ask you if that is one of the pieces of literature that you are familiar with?

A. (Examining book) Yes; I have seen that book.

Q. Was this book circulated and distributed by the Communist Party of the U. S. A.

A. Yes. That particular book, "From Bryan to Stalin" was given quite a wide circulation. Foster is the National Chairman of the Communist Party. I remember, in my own experience, we reprinted several chapters of that particular book in the Magazine Section, of which I was the Managing Editor, of the Sunday Worker—Sunday Worker Magazine Section. We did this to give the book the widest possible publicity and to increase sales.

[739]

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please, I would like to read from page 260 of this book, as it has to do with the 1934 strike, and we will offer evidence in this case to connect the alien with the 1934 strike.

Presiding Inspector: Who is the book by?

Mr. Del Guercio: This is by Foster.

Presiding Inspector: I think he has been shown to be a member of the Communist Party, or the leader?

Mr. Del Guercio: That is correct.

Mr. Gladstein: There is only one question I would like to ask and that is this: Whether Mr. Del Guercio intends to introduce the volume or just read certain excerpts from the contents?

Mr. Del Guercio: I will introduce the volume.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer it now in evidence.

Presiding Inspector: Very well. It will be received.

(The book referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 135.)

Presiding Inspector: Off the record.

(Remarks outside the record.)

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Presiding Inspector: Proceed.

Mr. Del Guercio: Reading from this book:

"But it was in the big Pacific Coast Marine and San Francisco general strike that the C. P."—

[740]

That is the Communist Party?

A. That is the usual abbreviation, C.P., for the Communist Party.

Mr. Del Guercio: (Continuing reading) —"and T. U. U. L."—

What does that stand for?

A. Trade Union Unity League.

Mr. Del Guercio: (Continuing reading) —"did their most important strike work in this period. In fact, in this struggle their influence was decisive. It so happened that I was in San Francisco during the general strike although too sick to take an active part in it. It was the greatest torture for me to be in the midst of such a glorious struggle and yet to be unable to help.

"Here I have space for no more than a bare outline of this historic fight. In 1932, on the then largely-unorganized San Francisco waterfront, the C. P. and T. U. U. L. carried on their work intensively along two main lines: the seamen were organized into the T. U. U. L. Marine Workers Industrial Union and the longshoremen into the A. F. of L. International Longshoremen's Association. Following out this policy, there was in 1933 a strong M. W. I. U. organization built up along the Pacific Coast and, together with other militant workers, the T. U. U. L. forces succeeded in organizing a large I. L. A. local union among the disorganized Frisco dock workers. The [741] leader of the longshoremen was Harry Bridges and the head of the local M. W. I. U., Harry Jackson; both left wing militants. The Secretary of the California district of the Communist Party was Sam Darcy.

"The strike movement began among the longshoremen early in the spring of 1934. The San Francisco local had taken the lead in lining up the weak I. L. A. Coast locals to present demands to the employers. The employers, aided by corrupt I. L. A. top leaders, tried the usual schemes of delay, conciliation and arbitration to break up the rapidly developing militant movement. Rejecting these maneuvers, the I. L. A. locals declared a strike on May 9th and had the whole Pacific Coast tied up within two days. Harry Bridges was elected Chairman of the I. L. A. strike committee, and the Western Worker, local Communist organ, was endorsed as the official strike journal.

"The open-shop employers were determined at all costs to defeat the militantly-led longshoremen, the heart of whose demands was the right to organize. This aroused the fighting spirit of the marine workers generally. The T. U. U. L. union, the M. W. I. U. promptly called out its seamen in support of the 12,000 striking longshoremen and tied up every ship coming into Frisco. The other marine unions, A. F. of L., followed suit, and soon the entire marine industry of the Pacific Coast was paralyzed. Ten unions, with 30,000 workers, were now out. [742] The striking unions made a Solidarity Pact and formed the Joint Strike Committee of 50, with Harry Bridges as Chairman."

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

And reading from page 264, the second paragraph:

"The 30,000 maritime workers continued their coastwide strike until July 31st, when they agreed to arbitration. By force of their solidarity and fighting spirit, they managed to secure a favorable decision. Later the I. L. A. reelected its fighting leader, Bridges; the marine unions built up their strength, united themselves into the Maritime Workers Federation, and established the best wages, hours and working conditions to be found on any American coast.

"In this great strike the C. P. and T. U. U. L. forces made a number of errors. Among these were a certain hesitation at times in exposing the treachery of the A. F. of L. leaders, the failure to spread the struggle to the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, a lack of activity by the left labor forces to get control of the General Strike Committee, etc. But in the main it was a splendid and successful fight and it cast much deserved credit upon the Communist Party and the other militant fighters who led it so gallantly."

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a booklet, Mr. Rushmore, called "Report to the 8th Convention Communist Party," by Earl Browder, and ask you if you are familiar with this booklet?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. (Examining booklet) I have seen that sold in the [743] St. Louis Workers' Book Shop. I think I got hold of one of those very shortly after I came in contact with the Communists down there.

Q. Was that then distributed and sold under the auspices the Communist Party?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. And circulated by them?

A. Circulated in that particular area; I know that. And that would lead one to think it was circulated throughout the country, for St. Louis is one of their main districts, and all districts are supplied with this literature.

Q. And does it contain the accepted doctrines and teachings of the Communist Party?

A. That is the speech of Earl Browder, I think —may I see that again?

Q. (Handing booklet of the witness)

A. Yes, that is a report of Earl Browder's, who was at that time General Secretary of the Communist Party of the United States. You might say this is the proletarian bible of the Communists.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 136.) [744]

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I show you a book called "The Communist," March, 1935, published monthly by the Communist

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Party of the U.S.A., and ask you if you can identify that?

A. (Examining book) Yes. This magazine is an official organ of the Central Committee of the Communist Party and is required to be read by all Party members. I recognize the by-lines of Earl Browder, Robert Minor, Anna Damon, Alex Biddleman, F. Brown and Bill Lawrence. These people, to my own knowledge, I know to be members of the Communist Party and most of them national leaders of the Party.

Q. How about Alex Biddleman?

A. He is a member of the Polburo, and probably the outstanding Marxist theoretician of the Party.

Q. And does this book, magazine, contain the accepted doctrines and the teachings of the Communist Party?

A. Yes; this is an official magazine.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this magazine only for one article, if your Honor please, being the "Report to the National Agitation and Propaganda Conference, January 18, 1935."

Presiding Inspector: You simply offer that article?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes. I have a photostatic copy of it which I would like to substitute for the original.

Presiding Inspector: Very well; that may be done. [745]

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 137.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you the February 1935 issue of The Communist, published by the Communist Party of the U. S. A., and ask you if you are familiar with that issue?

A. (Examining magazine) Yes; I have seen this issue.

Q. And that, like the previous one that you identified, contains the accepted doctrines and teachings of the Communist Party?

A. That is correct.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer this book in evidence and ask that a photostatic copy be substituted for the original.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The book referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 138.)

Mr. Del Guercio: May we ask for a short recess?

Presiding Inspector: Certainly. We will take a short recess.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

Presiding Inspector: Proceed, Mr. Del Guercio.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a booklet called "Resolutions

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Seventh Congress of the Communist International," including the closing speech of G. Dimitroff, published by the Workers [746] Library Publishers, New York, and ask you if you can identify that booklet?

A. (Examining booklet) Yes.

Q. Is this booklet distributed and circulated by the Communist Party? A. It was; yes.

Q. Does it contain the accepted doctrines and teachings and practices of the Communist Party?

A. Yes. That is the summary of the resolutions of the Communist International meeting, which is the highest govering body of all the Communist Parties.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 139.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Reading from the top of page 27:

"While preparing the working class for rapid shifts in the forms and methods of struggle as circumstances change, it is necessary to organize, in proportion as the movement grows, the transition from the defensive to the offensive against capital, steering toward the organization of a mass political strike, in which it is indispensable that the participation of the principal trade unions of the country should be secured." [747]

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Is that one of the practices and doctrines of the Communist Party, or was it at that time?

A. Yes. I personally went through, I think, the greatest period of these particular shifts in the Party line. I know myself, and a number of other Daily Worker reporters who were on the paper at the time I was there, were sometimes a bit bewildered by these many shifts that would come out almost overnight, and we had quite a time keeping up with the Party line and its changes towards trade unions and other organizations.

Q. Their methods were changed as circumstances or situations developed, is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. But would their basic principles and doctrines change?

A. No. I would say that the teachings of Lenin and Stalin and, of course, Marx, were always the base of all the Communist policies and programs. However, they did go through some astonishing maneuvers. I remember in 1936 that they ostensibly forgot Lenin and Stalin in favor of a rather weird collection of characters. They lumped together at one time Father Divine and Lincoln, and would go to quite extremes in putting forth all of a sudden new Communist heroes which they claimed had fitted into the Party line at the moment.

Q. For what purpose? [748]

A. For the evident purpose of recruiting and spreading their propaganda to the American people who formerly had rejected the theory of a proletarian revolution and who possibly might have been fooled by this new democratic line.

Q. While you were a member of the Communist Party did you become familiar with these practices and policies of the Communist Party?

A. What practices do you mean?

Q. Well, refer particularly—did you ever hear of the practice of hypocrisy and deceit?

A. Yes; I heard of that a number of times.

Q. Does the Communist Party have such a policy of hypocrisy and deceit?

A. That is their outstanding policy, I would say.

Q. Their outstanding one. What is this policy of hypocrisy and deceit?

A. An example, I think, in the trade union field would be the idea that they are putting over to the rank and file of a particular union involved, that they are leading them to struggle for better wages, shorter hours, better working conditions, and things like that. That is what I would call a sublime hypocrisy because the ultimate aim is not to better the conditions of the American workers, but to recruit them into the Communist Party and prepare them as stooges for this hoped-for proletarian revolution. [749]

Q. And in following out that policy of hypocrisy and deceit what do they instruct particularly their members to do?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. Well, the members, of course—you mean the leaders in the various unions, or just what do you mean by that?

Q. The leaders in the various unions in particular?

A. Well, these leaders, if they are Communists, are pretty well schooled in Communist technique. That technique is very elastic and flexible. They may put forth almost any proposal or any policy to fit the given moment, and to ultimately strengthen their position, and even to strengthen their union.

Q. Well, now, these labor leaders, Communist Party labor leaders, are they instructed to disclose their membership in the Communist Party?

A. I would say up until the time I knew anything about the Communist Party—before that they were rather open and, you might say, to a semi-degree, honest in that they would say they were Communists and were after such and such a goal. But when I came into the Party and doing my newspaper work there covering various union activities, I found they tried to completely submerge the identity of known Communists, if they were labor leaders. For instance, Weinstock, I knew to be a member of the Central Committee in New York, and known as an aggressive labor leader, and no mention was made of him in the Daily Worker of his being a Communist. [750]

Q. In carrying out this policy of hypocrisy and deceit what are the members instructed regarding the giving of testimony in the courts of this country?

A. Well, the devoted Party member has been taught, and it is very carefully taught, if he is in a position where he should know this, that a court of law is nothing but a capitalist institution and, as such, one of the worst, and to lie before a court or to in any way give false testimony, is not a disgrace; on the contrary, it is an honor to the Party if it advances the Party's end. [751]

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't know if I offered this last document in evidence.

The Reporter: Yes, it was offered and received.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. And what you have just said concerning instructions given to members of the Communist Party, of course, applies also to members of the Communist Party, members of the so-called front organization like the ILD, the Marine Workers Union and such similar organizations?

A. That applies throughout the front groups. I remember one example during the Civil War in Spain. Some committee, medical committee set up to aid the Loyalists was aided by a Minister and the Communists went to some length to use this Minister as their leading front individual, and he died in 1938, I believe, and then the Daily Worker came out and said he was a member of the Communist Party, only after he was dead. Before that they went to some length to say he was not a Communist and even intimated he was not pro-Communist.

Q. I will show you a pamphlet called "Democracy or Fascism", Earl Browder's Report to the 9th Convention of the Communist Party, published by Workers Library Publishers, New York City, June 1936, and ask you if you can identify it?

A. (Examining pamphlet) Yes, that pamphlet was widely distributed by the Communist Party during that year. [752]

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 140.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You say that was distributed and published by the Communist Party?

A. Very widely distributed, yes.

Q. I will show you another issue, August, 1936, of "The Communist" published monthly by the Communist Party of the United States of America and ask you if you are familiar with that issue?

A. (Examining pamphlet) I recognize the by-lines on the cover—they are also in the index—of Bittelman, Harrison George, David Ramsey, V. J. Jerome. All these persons I know of my own knowledge to be members of the Communist Party.

Q. I note here an article on The World Peace Conference by Harrison George.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

You say you recognize Harrison George as a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes; I knew Mr. George personally while I was on the staff of the—that was The Young Worker at the time I knew him.

Q. What does he do at the present time? [753]

A. Mr. George, I believe, is Editor of The Peoples World.

Q. And is The Peoples World an organ of the Communist Party?

A. They proclaimed it was not an organ but it is a Communist Paper financed by the Communist Party.

Q. Do you know what positions, if any, Harrison George occupied in the Communist Party either here in the United States or elsewhere?

A. Before I came to New York I had heard that Harrison George had been a writer for the Daily Worker. He edited a column called "Red Sparks" as a member of the staff, and in the spring of '36 I met him there and had several conversations with him. He came from my part of the country and we got rather familiar, talking about the old times anew. While we were talking he said that he had been engaged in Comintern work, I believe down in Brazil, South America, at least. Comintern work means in American language a special agent for the Communist International.

Q. Do you know if he was ever an agent of the so-called OGPU?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. That would be the same thing.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer this document in evidence.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 141.) [754]

Mr. Del Guercio: In the interest of time may I offer these next four documents here all at one time?

Presiding Inspector: I have no objection.

Mr. Del Guercio: Have you any objection?

Mr. Gladstein: No, but will you keep them all in order?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes.

Mr. Grossman: Any particular articles?

Mr. Del Guercio: No.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you four booklets, or magazines, the first one called "Resolutions of the Ninth Convention of the Communist Party" published by the Workers Library Publishers, 1936; the next the December, 1935 issue of The Communist, published monthly by the Communist Party of the United States; the next "Party Organizer" Volume VIII, December, 1935, issued by Central Committee, Communist Party of the U.S.A., and the last, the January issue of "The Communist," and ask you if you can identify these four books?

A. (Examining books) This January 1938 issue of "The Communist" I remember particularly because that was while I was on the staff of the Daily Worker and we were given this every month; it was required reading of all staff members. The others I also can identify as official Communist publications.

Q. And were they distributed, all four documents, by [755] the Communist Party?

A. (Affirmative nod.)

Q. Did you say "Yes"?

A. Yes, they were.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer these four booklets in evidence, your Honor, in the order in which they were given.

Presiding Inspector: They may be received.

(The booklets referred to were received in evidence and marked Governmnt's Exhibits Nos. 142, 143, 144 and 145.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. On Government's Exhibit 143, the December 1935 issue of The Communist appears an article by—appears two articles, one by William W. Weinstone and another by Roy Hudson.

Is that the same Weinstone you interviewed at the time you interviewed the Alien?

A. No; that is William Weinstone, who was formerly the Communist Party organizer in Detroit in what they call the auto district. Louis Weinstock was the one that I referred to in the article.

Q. How about Roy Hudson? Do you recognize him?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. Yes; Hudson I knew personally as the waterfront—we called him the waterfront commissar of the Party. He was assigned by the Central Committee. I think he is—he is on the Political Bureau now, assigned to all waterfront work.

Q. And a member of the Communist Party, of course? [756]

A. A member of the Central Committee, I am sure, and I think of the Political Bureau.

Q. I will show you a booklet called "Dimitroff, Working Class Unity—Bulwark Against Fascism", published by the Workers Library Publishers, New York, and ask you if you can identify it?

A. (Examining booklet). This is not only a Communist pamphlet, but probably one of their most important ones. This gave the new line on the Trojan horse policy of the frontal organizations in adopting the democratic front and things like that. It was distributed in tens of thousands of copies throughout the United States. I would say this is one of their major publications of the last five years.

Q. When you say adopted Trojan horse tactics, what do you mean by that?

A. It stems from the old fable of the Trojan horse. I believe Dimitroff referred to it in this particular pamphlet as boring from within. The Communists decided at the Communist International Convention at Moscow in 1935 that their old tactics weren't getting them very far and they would have to, I believe the phrase was, penetrate the bourgeois trade unions—that meant A. F. of L.—and bore from within and attempt to get leadership in these unions, and they even soft pedaled their attacks on religion and tried to bore from within the churches. It extended from without the sphere of American social and political life to penetrate, to capture and [757] to control.

Q. Was all that for the purpose of deceiving?

A. Certainly.

Q. And you say this was widely distributed by the Communist Party?

A. Very widely, yes, one of their major pamphlets.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer this booklet in evidence.

Presiding Inspector: It will be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 146.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you now the March 6th, 1939 issue of the Daily Worker and ask you if you can identify that particular issue?

A. (Examining paper.) Yes, I recognize this as the Daily Worker.

Q. And is that an official organ of the Communist Party, or was it at that time?

A. It was and still is in spite of their policy of disclaiming any official connection with the Party.

Q. Do they at the present time disclaim——

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. (Interposing) Oh, they claim now they have nothing to do with the Communist Party even though it is published in the headquarters of the Party.

Q. Is that another Trojan horse tactic?

A. Yes; it is one, I think, to escape the new law about [758] registering as a foreign agent, also to escape the numerous creditors. They have a number of creditors that are always after them. They use the capitalist court in many ways to evade this.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this copy in evidence and ask that the photostat be substituted.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The paper referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 147.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Where is the national headquarters of this Party, or where was it at the time you were a member?

A. It was and still is—they have two addresses: a long building running between 12th and 13th Streets, in downtown Manhattan. One address is 50 East 13th; the other is 35 East 12th.

Q. I will show you a booklet called "Abridged Proceedings, Seventh World Congress, the Communist International", No. 17-18, organ of the Executive Committee of the Communist International, published by the Workers Library Publishers, and ask you if you can identify it?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. (Examining booklet) Yes; this was widely distributed by the Communist Party.

Q. And does it contain the practices and teachings of the Communist Party?

A. The very important ones, that is, of the Committee [759] of the Communist International, the Executive Committee.

Q. Whatever is contained in this booklet is binding upon every Communist Party member?

A. Very binding, yes.

Q. I read from page 1175 of this booklet: "'If the Communist Parties wish to become a real mass force capable of advancing the revolution, they must link up with the trade unions and rely upon them for support.'"

Was that the policy of the Communist Party at that time? A. Yes, as I knew it, it was.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as the Government's next exhibit.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 148.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a number of magazines, booklets and newspapers—not newspapers—they are copies of the Daily Worker—the first called "The Communist International," August 1938 issue, organ of the Executive Committee of the Communist Party; the second, "The War and the Working

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Class" by Georgi Dimitroff, General Secretary of the Communist International; the next, "The Struggle Against War, the Peace Policy of the Soviet Union" by Robert Minor, published by the Workers Library Publishers, October 1936; the next "Social- [760] ism, War and America" by Earl Browder, General Secretary, Communist Party, U.S.A., published by the Workers Library Publishers, November, 1939, and the next, copy of the Sunday Worker dated New York, November 5, 1939, and the last, copy of the Sunday Worker, dated New York, Monday, November 6, 1939, and I ask you if you can identify all of these documents?

A. (Examining documents) Yes, these are all official Communist documents.

Q. Were they distributed and circulated by the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. With particular reference to the booklet called "The War and the Working Class" by Georgi Dimitroff, do you know when this was issued?

A. I don't remember the year on that.

Q. Do you recognize the print of the Workers Library Publishers?

A. They had a union label on there that was usually indicative; I think it was 209. That is usually the give-away on their publications.

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, this shows on a certain page, your Honor, that it was published by the Workers Library Publishers, Incorporated. P. O. Box 148, Station D, New York, New York. Then appears the union label and the number 209.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

I will offer these documents in evidence in the order in which they were presented to the witness.

[761]

Presiding Inspector: They may be received.

(The document referred to were received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibits Nos. 149 to 154 inclusive.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a booklet called "Handbook of Marxism" published by the International Publishers, New York, and ask you if you recognize this book?

A. (Examining book) Yes; that was sold at the Workers Book Store there on 13th Street when I was in New York connected with the Party.

Q. Was it caused to be sold by the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. Distributed by the Communist Party?

A. That is correct?

Q. Circulated by it? A. That is right.

Q. Does this contain the accepted doctrines, teachings of the Communist Party?

A. It is a condensation of the major works, I believe, of Marx, Engels, Lenin and Stalin and others.

Q. And are the doctrines and teachings here binding upon every member of the Communist Party?

A. I would say those are the basic teachings of Communism.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer this book in evidence, if your Honor please. [762]

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The book referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 155.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I would like to read an excerpt from this book, if your Honor please, on page 1041:

"In order that revolutionary work and revolutionary action may be co-ordinated and in order that these activities may be guided most successfully, the international proletariat must be bound by international class discipline, for which first of all, it is most important to have the strictest international discipline in the Communist ranks.

"This international Communist discipline must find expression in the subordination of the partial and local interests of the movement to its general and lasting interests and in the strict fulfilment, by all members, of the decisions passed by the leading bodies of the Communist International.

"Unlike the social-democratic Second International, each Section of which submits to the discipline of 'its own,' national bourgeoisie and of its own 'fatherland,' the Sections of the Communist International submit to only one discipline, viz., international proletarian discipline, which guarantees victory in the struggle of the world's workers for world proletarian dictatorship."

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a booklet called "The Communist [763] Party, A Manual On Organization" by J. Peters, published by the Workers Library Publishers, and ask you if you can identify it?

A. (Examining booklet) Yes, I have seen this publication. It was a very important one inasmuch as it was used as a guide by all the party organizers, particularly unit organizers and section organizers and organizers of what they call the industrial or shop units. It gave a very complete detailed picture of how the Party units should be set up in various industries, or in street units, very inclusive and very important to the Party.

Q. And is it used particularly by labor leaders?

A. Well, I would say it is used by labor leaders who are members of the Communist Party.

Q. Yes, that is what I mean. And this is circulated, of course, and distributed by the Communist Party? A. It is.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 156.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. On page 42 of this booklet a definition is given of the Communist International as follows: "The Communist International is the international organi- [764] zation of Communist Parties in all countries. It is the World Communist Party. The Communist Parties in the various countries affiliated to the Comintern are called Sections of the Communist International."

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Is that correct? A. That is correct.

Q. And again on page 104 are set forth the conditions for membership in the Communist Party, and among the conditions are these: I read.

"'I now take my place in the ranks of the Communist Party, the Party of the working class. I take this solemn oath to give the best that is in me to the service of my class. I pledge myself to spare no effort in uniting the workers in militant struggle against fascism and war. I pledge myself to work unsparingly in the unions, in the shops, among the unemployed, to lead the struggles for the daily needs of the masses. I solemnly pledge to take my place in the forefront of the struggle for Negro rights; against Jim-Crowism and lynching, against the chauvinist lies of the ruling class. I pledge myself to rally the masses to defend the Soviet Union, the land of victorious Socialism. I pledge myself to remain at all times a vigilant and firm defender of the Leninist line of the Party, the only line that insures the triumph of Soviet Power in the United States.'

"Our Party application carries this declaration:

"'The undersigned declares his adherence to the program [765] and statutes of the C.I. and the Communist Party of the U.S.A. and agrees to submit to the discipline of the Party and to engage actively in its work.' "

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Does that appear, or usually appear on membership books of the Communist Party?

A. That is an oath, I believe, which, I think, was administered in 1935 and, perhaps, prior to that. I heard it administered in 1935 at Madison Square Garden to several hundred newly recruited Communists and this was at a large rally, a rather impressive thing. They put it on for its showmanship value, I would say. I never heard that particular oath administered after that; they may have changed the wording. That is pretty strong for the line they later adopted, but on the Party card which you signed as an applicant, I think the latter portion which you read there is correct, if I remember.

Q. Well, there is something in here about Fascism, that they pledged themselves to fight Fascism. Did they change that policy after Lenin, or Stalin and Hitler got together?

A. Well, they pledged to fight Fascism and, oh, I know they were doing that when I joined and up until the time that Hitler became a comrade they were very active in doing that, but as soon as the pact was signed there was a marked decrease in that Nazi-anti-Fascist program of theirs. [766]

Q. And were you associated with the Daily Worker after the getting together of Hitler and Stalin? A. Only for a brief time.

Q. And did the policy of the Daily Worker

change in connection with its fight against Fascism after that meeting?

A. Yes, it changed to a marked degree. I know when the pact was signed there was some consternation around there, particularly among the staff members, even on the editorial board where there was usually a serene calm reigning. They had quite a time deciding what line their editorials should take explaining this. I think it was held up one day until they could get a complete formulation. When they did publish the editorial there were hundreds of letters from Daily Worker readers protesting this pact and demanding a better explanation. I know of two staff members being assigned to write letters from readers which glowingly hailed this pact, letters written in the city room of the Daily Worker, whereas, the protesting letters were never printed; most of them were destroyed.

Q. I will show you what appears to be an application card for membership in the Communist Party of the U.S.A. after the year 1936, and ask you if you recognize this card?

A. (Examining card) Yes, I have seen this card. If you will notice their slogan, it has been much watered down from the one you read. They just ask for adherence to the [767] program and statutes of the Communist International of the Communist Party, and agree to submit to the discipline of the Party. There is no mention there of the Leninist line and things like that. It changed:

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

within a period of a year there they changed their recruiting slogan.

Q. Well, do you recognize this as an application card for membership in the Communist Party?

A. Yes, I have seen this card.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer that in evidence and ask that a photostatic copy thereof be submitted for the original, that we be permitted to withdraw the original.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The card referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 157.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a pamphlet called "The Constitution and By-Laws of the Communist Party of the United States of America," published by the Workers Library Publishers, Incorporated, August 1938, and ask you if you can identify it?

A. (Examining pamphlet) This was widely distributed, principally because this is a new constitution for the Communist Party in which they set forth their Trojan horse policy and watered down the more revolutionary aspects of their program, at least temporarily, and in this constitution they hail in the first paragraph the traditions of Jefferson, Paine, [768] Jackson and Lincoln, which, in '34, all of these national heroes in '34 they were declaring as bourgeois democrats and fakes and everything like that. This constitution was then widely distributed for its effect on the front organizations. People in these front groups who didn't know much about the Communist Party from reading this would think it is a left wing form of the New Deal.

Q. And this was done for what purpose?

A. For the obvious hypocracy engaged in by the whole Trojan horse program.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer this in evidence, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The pamphlet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 158.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You say this was distributed by the Communist Party? A. It was.

Q. I will show you what appears to be a later edition of the Constitution and By-Laws of the Communist Party of the United States of America, published by the Workers Library Publishers, third printing, October of 1939, and ask you if you can identify this?

A. (Examining pamphlet) Yes, I have seen this pamphlet.

Q. Was that also distributed and circulated by the Comunist Party? [769] A. It was.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer this in evidence, your Honor, and ask that a photostatic copy be substituted.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The pamphlet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 159.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a booklet called "Dimitroff, Speeches at the Seventh World Congress, The United Front Against War and Fascism," published by the Workers Library Publishers, New York, and ask you if you are familiar with that booklet?

A. (Examining booklet) Yes, I know that.

Q. Was this booklet distributed, circulated by the Communist Party? A. It was.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order and ask that a photostatic copy thereof be substituted.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 160.) [770]

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a copy of the English Edition of the "International Press Correspondence," Volume 18, No. 32, dated June 25, 1938, and ask you if you are familiar with that issue?

A. (Examining magazine) This is one of the publications that all the Daily Worker staff members had to read. We were given this whenever it came out and required to read it. I know it was circulated and sold by the Communist Party.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. What is the International Press Correspondence?

A. That is similar, but on a more frequent publication basis, to the Communist International Magazine. This gives the official, you might say, the actual Moscow line, on the work of the Communist Parties throughout the world. All of this material is very carefully edited. This paper speaks for the voice of the Communist International and it is the voice of the Communist International.

Q. Is it accepted as binding upon members in the United States?

A. Any program laid down in this particular publication would be binding on them; yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence and ask that a photostatic copy be substituted for the original.

Presiding Inspector: That may be done. It will be received. [771]

(The magazine referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 161.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I have here a number of documents, the first being the March issue of The Communist; the next being a copy of the Special Edition of the "World News and Views," formerly the International Press Correspondence, for Thursday, April 6, 1939; the next being the September, 1939, issue of The Communist, "Twenty Years of the Communist Party of the U.S.A.;" and the last being a booklet called "Milestone in the History of the Communist Party," by Alex Bittleman, published by the Workers Library Publishers, New York, and ask if you can identify these documents?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. (Examining documents) Yes; these are all Communist publications.

Q. Were all these publications circulated and distributed by the Communist Party?

A. They were.

Q. All four of them? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer these in evidence in the order shown to the witness, and ask that a photostatic copy of the "World News and Views" be substituted for the original thereof.

Presiding Inspector: That may be done. They will be received. [772]

(The documents referred to were received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibits 162, 163, 164 and 165.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I have here a number of booklets, the first being "Resolutions of the Ninth Convention of the Communist Party," published by the Workers Library Publishers, 1936; the next being the September 1936 issue of "The Communist International"; the next "Dimitroff, Full Report and Speech in Reply to Discussion, the United Front Against Fascism and War," published by the

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Workers Library Publishers, New York, Third Edition, October 1935; and the last being the September 1938 issue of "The Communist," and ask you if you can identify these four documents?

A. (Examining documents) Yes. I recognize them. They are all Communist documents.

Q. Were all four of these documents distributed by the Communist Party? A. Yes, they were.

Q. And circulated by it? A. Yes, they were.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer them in evidence in the order shown to the witness.

Presiding Inspector: They may be received.

(The documents referred to were received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibits 166, 167, 168 and 169.) [773]

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I show you a booklet called "Party Organizer," dated July 1938, issued by the Central Committee, Communist Party, U. S. A., and ask if you can identify that? A. (No answer)

Presiding Inspector: Did the witness answer?

The Witness: No. I thought he was going to show me the others.

This is the Party Organizer issued by the Central Committee of the Communist Party. I have seen this, this particular copy, and I know it was distributed by the Communist Party.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 170.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I show you a pamphlet called "An Open Letter to All Members of the Communist Party," issued by the Central Committee of the Communist Party, U.S.A., and ask you if you can identify that?

A. (Examining pamphlet) This was printed and distributed a year or two before I knew anything about the Communist Party; but this particular document was later re-printed in various forms, a very important thing at that time, and held [774] good until 1934 and 1935, this particular policy.

Q. Was it distributed during the time that you were a member of the Communist Party?

A. I have seen it in a book, I believe, of Browder's speeches, or something like that; it was a part of that book. I have never seen this particular pamphlet before in this form, but I know this Open Letter was published by the Communist Party and distributed in other forms.

Presiding Inspector: Whose letter is it?

The Witness: It is called "An Open Letter," which was adopted by the Extraordinary National Conference of the Communist Party of the U. S. A., held in New York City, July 7-10, 1933.

Presiding Inspector: No author?

The Witness: No; put out by the Central Committee, Communist Party, U.S.A.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Can you recognize it as such? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer it in evidence.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 171.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I show you a copy of "Sunday Worker," for Sunday, February 19, 1939, and ask you if you recognize that issue of [775] the Sunday Worker?

A. (Examining newspaper) Yes. This is the Sunday Worker. I was on the staff at that time and was in charge of getting out this supplement which was issued in the Sunday Worker.

Q. And that was caused to be published by the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order, and ask that a photostat thereof be substituted for the original.

Presiding Inspector: That may be done. It may be received.

(The newspaper referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 172.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I show you a booklet called "Earl Browder Reports to the Ninth Convention of the Communist Party," Manhattan Opera House, New York, June

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

24, 1936, published by the Workers Library Publishers, New York, and ask you if you recognize that document?

A. (Examining booklet) Yes; this is a Communist Party document.

Q. I believe it states that Earl Browder was then the General Secretary of the Communist Party, is that correct? A. He was at that time; yes.

Q. Was this distributed and circulated by the Communist Party? A. It was. [776]

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer it in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 173.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a pamphlet called, "Resolutions of the 10th Convention of the Communist Party, U.S.A., the Democratic Front, the 1938 Elections, Party Building," published by the Workers Library Publishers, Inc., July 1938, and ask you if you recognize that?

A. (Examining pamphlet) I do. That is an official Communist Party publication.

Q. Was it distributed by the Communist Party?

A. It was.

Q. And circulated by it? A. It was.

Q. On page 18 of this pamphlet appears the following:

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

"Of equal importance and urgency with the recruitment of new members is the rapid expansion of the Daily Worker, Sunday Worker, Daily Record and People's World, on a scale that would correspond to the growing role and influence of our Party, as the indispensable instrument for realizing the present objectives and historic aims of the working class movement, and extending also our shop and neighborhood papers." [777]

Are all those papers mentioned in there Communist-controlled publications?

A. Yes, they are.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer that in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 174.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I show you a booklet called "The Communist International," organ of the Executive Committee of the Communist International, published by the Workers Library Publishers, and ask you if you recognize this document?

A. (Examining booklet) I do.

Q. Was that booklet circulated and distributed by the Communist Party? A. It was.

Q. Does it contain the teachings and doctrines of the Communist Party?

A. The basic teachings.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer that in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 175.)

By Mr. Del Guercio: [778]

Q. I show you a copy of the Sunday Worker, for May, 1929, and call your attention to the Special Supplement appearing therein, and ask you if you recognize this paper?

A. (Examining paper). Yes; for this particular edition of the Sunday Worker I was the City Editor.

Q. At that time? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer in evidence, if your Honor please, only the Special Supplement appearing in this paper, and ask that a photostatic copy thereof be substituted for the original.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The special supplement referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 176.)

Presiding Inspector: Will you have enough documents to occupy the afternoon?

Mr. Del Guercio: No, I do not believe so, your Honor. I believe it will take another half hour, or an hour at the most.

Would you like to adjourn at this time?

Presiding Inspector: It is now half past twelve

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

and I think we will adjourn at this time and reconvene at 2:00.

(Whereupon, at 12:30 p.m., a recess was taken until 2:00 p.m. of the same day.) [779]

After Recess

2:00 o'Clock P.M.

Presiding Inspector: You may resume, Mr. Del Guercio.

HOWARD RUSHMORE

called on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Direct Examination (Resumed)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Rushmore, I will show you Government's Exhibit No. 145. The Communist for January, 1938. Are you familiar with that particular issue of The Communist?

A. (Examining magazine) Yes.

Q. You mentioned, or testified this morning concerning this so-called Trojan Horse policy of the Communist Party, and at about 1936 they began concealing their real aims?

A. The policy was actually established in 1935 at the Moscow convention of the Communist International, but the actual working out of that policy didn't get going in this country, I would say, until the latter part of 1935 and early 1936.

Q. Now, this magazine here, The Communist,

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Government's Exhibit No. 145, on the back page of the front cover, suggests readings for Lenin Memorial Day, certain books by Lenin, Browder, Stalin and Alex Bittleman, that were printed and published prior to that time? [780]

A. Yes. I am familiar with most of those publications.

Q. Most of them were published, however, prior to the time that they began to adopt this Trojan Horse policy?

A. Yes; most of them were.

Q. Did they nevertheless continue to circulate and distribute literature which contained the basic principles of Communism?

A. Oh, they did, yes.

Q. And they did, as indicated by this advertisement here in this Communist Magazine, continue to suggest the reading and distribution of such publications?

A. Yes, that was part of the policy, even though they—a milder form was being advocated, the Party members were still urged to read the basic teachings of Lenin, Stalin, Marx, and so forth.

Q. So that they never abandoned at any time the basic principles, teachings of Lenin and Stalin?

A. No.

Q. And others?

A. No, not at any time.

Q. Mr. Rushmore, I have here a number of documents, the first one being a copy of the Daily Worker for Tuesday, November 15, 1938; the second one being a booklet called "The Fight for Recovery, Stop the Sit-Down Strike of Big Business," by Mary Collins, published by the National Campaign Committee [781] of the Communist Party by Workers Library Publishers, 1936; the next one a booklet called "The Democratic Front", by Earl Browder, General Secretary, Communist Party, U.S.A., published by the Workers Library Publishers, and the next being a booklet called "Theory as a Guide to Action," by Earl Browder, published by the Workers Library Publishers, January 1939; and the last being a copy of the Daily Worker for Wednesday, September 7, 1938, and I will ask you if you can identify all these documents?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. (Examining documents) Yes, these are all Communist documents.

Q. Were all these documents distributed by the Communist Party? A. They were.

Q. And circulated by the Communist Party?

A. They were.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer these in evidence in the order shown to the witness.

Presiding Inspector: They may be received.

Mr. Del Guercio: And I ask that photostatic copies of the Daily Worker be substituted for the originals.

Presiding Inspector: That may be done.

(The documents referred to were received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibits 177, 178, 179, 180 and 181.) [782]

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a booklet called "State and Revolution," by V. I. Lenin, revised translation, published by International Publishers, New York, 1935, and ask you if you are familiar with this booklet?

A. (Examining booklet) Yes.

Q. Was this booklet distributed and circulated by the Communist Party?

A. Widely distributed.

Q. And does it contain the accepted doctrines and principles of the Communist Party?

A. Yes, it does.

Mr. Del Guercio: I want to call the Court's attention to the fact that this booklet here is listed on Government's Exhibit No. 145 as literature which should be read and distributed.

I offer it in evidence.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 182.)

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please, I would like to read from this booklet on the question of the advocacy of force and violence by the Communist Party—reading at the bottom of page 9:

"But what is forgotten or glossed over is this: If the [783] State is the product of the irreconcilable character of class antagonisms, if it is a force standing above society and 'increasingly separating itself from it,' then it is clear that the liberation of the oppressed class is impossible not only without a violent revolution, but also without the destruction of the apparatus of state power, which was created by the ruling class and in which this 'separation' is embodied."

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

And reading again from page 19 of this same booklet, at the bottom of the page:

"We have already said above and shall show more fully later that the teaching of Marx and Engels regarding the inevitability of a violent revolution refers to the bourgeois state. It cannot be replaced by the proletarian state (the dictatorship of the proletariat) through 'withering away,' but, as a general rule, only through a violent revolution."

And again on page 23, at the bottom of the page:

"The doctrine of the class struggle, as applied by Marx to the question of the State and of the Socialist revolution, leads inevitably to the recognition of the political rule of the proletariat, of its dictatorship, i.e., of a power shared with none and relying directly upon the armed force of the masses. The overthrow of the bourgeoisie is realizable by the transformation of the proletariat into the ruling class, able to crush the inevitable and desperate resistance of the bourgeoisie, and to organize, for the new economic order, all [784] the toiling and exploited masses.

"The proletariat needs state power, the centralized organization of force, the organization of violence, both for the purpose of crushing the resistance of the exploiters, and for the purpose of guiding the great mass of the population."

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a booklet called "Foundations of Leninism," published by International Publishers, New York, and ask you if you are familiar with this booklet?

A. (Examining booklet) Yes. That was issued and in the first printing there were 100,000 copies. It was unusual for a Communist publication and there was wide distribution of it by the Communist Party.

Q. Who was it distributed by?

A. The Communist Party and its agencies.

Q. Does this booklet contain the doctrines and teachings of the Communist Party?

A. It does.

Mr. Del Guercio: I would like to call the Court's attention to the fact that, although this booklet was published in 1934, it is shown in Government's Exhibit 145 as being one of the books that was suggested to be read and distributed.

Now reading from pages 50 and 51 of this book:

"The dictatorship of the proletariat does not arise on the basis of bourgeois order; it arises while this order is [785] being torn down, after the overthrow of the bourgeoisie, in the process of the expropriation of the landlords and capitalists during the process of socialization of the principal instruments and means of production, in the process of violent proletarian revolution. The dictatorship of the proletariat is a revolutionary power based on violence against the bourgeoisie."

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

And again reading from page 52, the middle of the page:

"Democracy under the capitalist system is capitalist democracy, the democracy of an exploiting minority based upon the restriction of the rights of the exploited majority and directed against this majority."

Again reading from the bottom of this same page:

"Second deduction: The dictatorship of the proletariat cannot come about as a result of the peaceful development of bourgeois society and of bourgeois democracy; it can only come as the result of the destruction of the bourgeois state machine, of the bourgeois army, of the bourgeois civil administration and of the bourgeois police."

Again reading on page 103 we find.

"The revolutionary will accept a reform in order to use it as a means wherewith to link legal work with illegal work, in order to use it as a screen behind which his illegal activities for the revolutionary preparation of the masses for the overthrow of the bourgeoisie may be intensified.

"This is what the revolutionary utilization of reforms [786] and agreements in an imperialist environment means."

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Now continuing at page 108, the bottom of the page, and continuing on page 109:

"Every army at war must have an experienced General Staff if it is to avoid certain defeat. All the more reason therefore why the proletariat must have such a General Staff if it is to prevent itself from being routed by its mortal enemies. But where is this General Staff? Only the revolutionary party of the proletariat can serve as its General Staff. A working class without a revolutionary party is like an army without a General Staff. The Party is the Military Staff of the proletariat."

I will offer this document in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 183.) [787]

Mr. Gladstein: I notice, our Honor, that the last document just submitted was introduced also in the former trial against Mr. Bridges. I am wondering what distinguishing marks the reporter is making to show what number it takes now.

It probably has a different number from the one it had before, doesn't it?

The Reporter: The old exhibit is scratched off and the new exhibit number will be on this with the date as of today.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you another booklet called "A Letter to American Workers" by V. I. Lenin, published by the International Publishers, 381 Fourth Avenue, New York, and ask you if you are familiar with this book?

A. (Examining book) Yes, that is a Communist Publication.

Q. And was it circulated and distributed by the Communist Party? A. It was.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer it in evidence, if your Honor please, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The book referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 184.)

Mr. Del Guercio: And I desire to call the Court's [788] attention to the fact that this document is also another one of those mentioned in Government's Exhibit 145.

And reading from page 16 of this booklet, beginning at the bottom of the page:

"Representatives of the bourgeoisie understand that it was worth letting the country go through long years of civil war, the abysmal ruin, destruction and terror which are connected with every war for the sake of the overthrow of Negro slavery and the overthrow of the rule of the slave-owners. But now, when we are confronted with the vastly greater task of the overthrow of capitalist wage slavery, the overthrow of the rule of the bourgeoisie —now the representatives and defenders of the bourgeoisie, as well as the socialist-reformists, frightened by the bourgeoisie and shunning the revolution, cannot understand and do not want to understand the necessity and the legality of civil war.

"The American workers will not follow the bourgeoisie. They will be with us for civil war against the bourgeoisie. The whole history of the world and the American labor movement strengthens my conviction."

Presiding Inspector: Who wrote that?

Mr. Del Guercio: V. I. Lenin.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. V. I. Lenin, is he sort of a patron saint of the Communist Party? [789]

A. I would say he is the ranking patron saint, even before Marx.

Q. I will show you another book entitled "Strategy and Tactics" published by the International Publishers, Copyright, 1936, and ask you if you are familiar with that?

A. (Examining book) I have seen that distributed.

Q. Distributed by the Communist Party?

A. That is correct.

Q. And does it contain, as the title indicates, strategy and tactics?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. As the title indicates, I have never read that particular volume but I am familiar with the general content, that it is a basic formulation of Communist action for the world parties.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this book in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The book referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 185.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a book called "Problems of Leninism" by Joseph Stalin, published by the International Publishers, New York, and ask you if you are familiar with that?

A. (Examining book) I am.

Q. Who is the Joseph Stalin mentioned?

A. He is the Russian Dictator, Joseph Stalin.

[790]

Q. And was this booklet circulated and distributed by the Communist Party? A. It was.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer this in evidence, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 186.)

Mr. Del Guercio: And if I may be permitted to do so, I would like to read from page 19 of this book, 19 and 21.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

"Can such a radical transformation of the old bourgeois system of society be achieved without a violent revolution, without the dictatorship of the proletariat?

"Obviously not. To think that such a revolution can be carried out peacefully within the framework of bourgeois democracy, which is adapted to the domination of the bourgeoisie, means one of two things. It means either madness, and the loss of normal human understanding, or else an open and gross repudiation of the proletarian revolution."

And going down, skipping one paragraph:

"That is why Lenin states that '. . . . the liberation of the oppressed class is impossible not only without a violent revolution, but also without the destruction of the apparatus of state power, which was created by the ruling class.' " [791]

And on page 39:

"Fifthly, the concept of the dictatorship of the proletariat is a concept of the state. The dictatorship of the proletariat must necessarily include the concept of violence. There is no dictatorship without violence if dictatorship is to be understood in the strict sense of the term. Lenin defines the dictatorship of the proletariat as 'power based directly on violence.' "

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you another booklet called "The Proletarian Revolution and Renegate Kautsky" by V. I. Lenin, published by the International Publishers, New York, Copyright 1934, and ask you if you are familiar with that?

A. (Examining book) Yes, I have seen that book occasionally.

Q. And was this publication distributed and circulated by the Communist Party?

A. It was.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, your Honor, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: Received.

(The book referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 187.)

Mr. Del Guercio: And for further literature on the advocacy of force and violence by the Communist Party I direct the Court's attention to pages 19, 20 and 22 of this booklet. [792]

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a pamphlet called "The Party Organizer", March 1935, issued by the Central Committee, Communist Party of the U. S. A., and ask you if you are familiar with this document?

A. (Examining pamphlet) Yes, I have seen this particular copy of this publication.

Q. And is that distributed and published by the Communist Party? A. It is.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this document in evidence, your Honor, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: Received.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

(The pamphlet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 188.)

Mr. Del Guercio: And for the purpose of showing how the Communist Party circulates and distributes and the amount of the distribution of these various publications I read from page 42 and 43 of this book.

"The lowest edition published this year was 4,000 and the highest 60,000. The 60,000 wasn't a one-cent pamphlet either. It was Why Communism?, and retailed at 10 cents. We are preparing a new edition of the pamphlet at 5 cents. We expect to publish 250,000 during the year—starting with 100,000. We published 11 pamphlets on trade unionism and [793] labor struggles. We published 4 Y. C. L. pamphlets. It is very interesting to say that the best distribution was received of the youth pamphlets. Ninety per cent were sold. They were published in 20,000 to 25,000 editions. The Y. C. L. primarily handled the distribution."

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What is the Y. C. L.?

A. It refers to the Young Communist League.

Q. I will show you a pamphlet called "Capitalist Stabilization has Ended", Thesis and Resolutions, apparently of the Twelfth Plenium of the E. C. C. I., published by the Workers Library Publishers, and ask you if you are familiar with this document?

A. (Examining document) This was published in 1932 but I have seen a copy of this. I remember the title "Capitalist Stabilization has Ended" provoked an argument one day. I was talking to some Communist there in New York about that. The advantage of trying to push a pamphlet like this out where I came from with the title "Capitalist Stabilization has Ended", I said it was not very intriguing. I remember that incident, although the pamphlet was printed about two or three years before I knew anything about the Communist Party, but it was distributed widely, yes.

Q. It was distributed?

A. Yes; there were some still around at the time I got ahold of that. [794]

Q. When you say it was distributed you mean it was distributed by the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The pamphlet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 189.)

Mr. Del Guercio: And reading from page 20 and 21 of this document:

"In regard to organization, the chief tasks of the Sections of the C.I. are: (a) carefully to conceal the Communist nuclei in the factories, combining this with fearless mass work; (b) to immediately proceed to form strictly secret nuclei in military units and the militarized organizations of the bourgeoisie in munition factories, on the railroads and in the ports; (c) to wage a determined struggle against provocation in all forms; (d) to take measures to insure that the Party can promptly pass to an illegal basis in case of necessity;"

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

And again from the bottom of page 20:

"The E.C.C.I. insists on the Y.C.L. being converted into a real mass organization, and imposes on all the Communist Parties the duty of securing an improvement in the political mass work among the youth and the strengthening of the Party [795], leadership of the work of the Y.C.L. Equally, the Comintern insists on the conversion of the sports leagues, and the I.L.D. (I.R.A.) into real mass organizations."

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, Mr. Rushmore, what is the E.C.C.I.?

A. That is the Executive Committee of the Communist International.

Q. And the Y.C.L.?

A. Young Communist League.

Q. And the I.L.D.?

A. That probably is the International Labor Defense.

Q. And the I.R.A., if you know?

A. I don't know about that. [796]

Presiding Inspector: You said something about the International Red Aid?

The Witness: It might be; I am not familiar with that.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I believe there is already evidence in the record on that by Mr. Gitlow.

Presiding Inspector: Yes — International Red Aid.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I show you a booklet called "The Communist Party in Action," by Alex Bittelman, published by the Workers Library Publishers, New York, in May of 1934, and ask you if you are familiar with that?

A. (Examining booklet) I have seen this particular pamphlet.

Q. Was it distributed and circulated by the Communist Party? A. It was.

Q. Do you know the Alex Bittelman who is shown to have written this article? A. I do.

Q. Is he a member of the Communist Party?

A. He is a member of the Political Bureau of the Communist Party and one of the national leaders.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 190.) [797]

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a booklet called "The Great San Francisco General Strike," by William F. Dunne, published by the Workers Library Publishers, October 1934, and ask you if you are familiar with that?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. (Examing booklet) I have seen that pamphlet; yes.

Q. Was it distributed and published by the Communist Party? A. It was.

Q. And circulated by it? A. It was.

Q. Do you know the Wm. F. Dunne who prepared this?

A. I know him as former editor of the Daily Worker and now on the staff of the Daily Worker.

Q. Is he a member of the Communist Party?

A. He was a member of the Central Committee until he was expelled, and I think he was reinstated at one time and is now back in the good graces of the Communist Party.

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please, on page 5 of this document appears this:

"The Marine Workers Industrial Union—affiliated to the Trade Union Unity League—raised the question of a general strike. The Left wing in the leadership of the ILA and the Joint Strike Committee of the Waterfront Unions, headed by Harry Bridges, in San Francisco, endorsed the [798] proposal to call upon the Bay Counties' unions for a general strike.

"Harry Bridges and the committee of strikers brought the question of the general strike to the Central Labor Councils in San Francisco and Oakland. The official leaders opposed it. Bridges and the committee then began a systematic canvass of all local unions affiliated to the Central Labor Councils."

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

I offer this to show that Harry Bridges and the Marine Workers Industrial Union are shown, by this booklet, to be affiliated to the Trade Union Unity League.

I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 191.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a pamphlet called "Political Education the Ultimate Aim," published by the International Publishers, New York, copyright 1935, and ask you if you are familiar with that?

A. (Examining pamphlet) I am.

Q. Was this published, distributed and circulated by the Communist Party? A. It was. [799]

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The pamphlet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 192.)

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please, I now offer in evidence a certified copy of the Certificate of Incorporation, for the year 1936, of the F-A Printing Corp., under the seal of the Secretary of State of the State of New York, and ask that it be admitted in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received without objection.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 193.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Do you know what the "F-A Printing Corp." is?

A. That is a Finnish printing company located in the national office of the Communist Party on the fourth floor.

Q. Who actually owns and controls it?

A. That would be the Communist Party, probably what is called the Finnish Section of the Communist Party.

Mr. Del Guercio: I have here, if your Honor please, a certified copy of a certificate of incorporation of the F & D Printing Co., Inc., for the year 1935, under the seal of the Secretary of State of the state of New York, and I offer it in evidence. [800]

Presiding Inspector: It may be received without objection.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 194.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What is the F & D Printing Co.?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. That is an abbreviation for the Freiheit Daily Worker.

Q. What kind of a corporation is that?

A. The Freiheit is a Communist daily newspaper printed in Yiddish. The Daily Worker is the official organ of the Communist Party.

Q. Is the F & D Printing Co. owned and controlled by the Communist Party? A. It is.

Q. On the Certificate of Incorporation, on the third page thereof, appears this:

"The office of the corporation is to be located in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County and State of New York."

And then it gives an address, 35 East 12th Street, New York City. What address is that?

A. That is the national headquarters of the Communist Party.

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please, I have three documents here I would like to introduce in evidence. The first one is a certified copy of a Certificate of Incorporation of the Prompt Press, Inc., for the year 1934. [801].

The second is a certified copy of a Certificate of Incorporation for the Daily Publishing Co., Inc., for the year 1939.

The third is a certified copy of a Certificate of Incorporation for the Freedom of the Press Co., Inc., for the year 1940.

All three documents are under the seal of the Secretary of State of the State of New York.

I ask that they be received.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Presiding Inspector: They will be received without objection.

(The documents referred to were received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibits 195, 196 and 197.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Do you know what the Prompt Press, Inc., is?

A. That is a print shop located near the national office of the Communist Party.

Q. Is it owned and controlled by the Communist Party? A. It is.

Q. Are you familiar with the Freedom of the Press Co., Inc.?

A. Not personally. That is an incorporation set up by the Daily Workers after I left the paper.

Q. How about the Daily Publishing Co., Inc.?

A. Yes; that is a legal maneuver in which to escape payment [802] of a criminal libel action against the Daily Worker. They changed the corporation name and papers while I was still there.

Q. You testified this morning that during all of the time that you were on the staff of the Daily Worker the alien here, Harry Bridges, was given extraordinary treatment by the Daily Worker, is that correct?

A. Mr. Bridges was given unusual favorable treatment by the Daily Worker while I was there.

Q. Over what period of time was that?

A. That included the period of time I was on the Young Workers and on the Daily Worker; approximately four years.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. In your experience had any non-communist person ever been given such favorable treatment by the Daily Worker and the Sunday Worker?

Mr. Grossman: We object to the question as assuming something not in evidence.

Mr. Del Guercio: If he knows.

Presiding Inspector: He is asking for first, the fact; and, second, his opinion about it.

Mr. Grossman: That assumes something not in evidence.

Presiding Inspector: Of course, other people were treated some way by the Daily Worker, and he wants to know whether those people were given such favorable treatment.

Mr. Grossman: It carries with it an implication which, [803] perhaps, your Honor doesn't see.

Presiding Inspector: I do not think there is any implication there. However, we will consider that matter if there is any.

The Witness: Shall I answer?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

A. No person who deviated from the Party line, or who disagreed with the Party line, would be given consistent favorable treatment.

I can cite a couple of cases. One is President Roosevelt, who was called a Fascist, anti-Semitic, and a lot of other names, around 1936, and then they switched to supporting him in the election; and then, that is, about 1939, now, they are calling him a Fascist again.

I could name a number of other very prominent people who, at one time or another, for a period of several years, supported the Communist Party, but to have that consistent support seems to indicate that that person is in the high regard of the editors of the paper.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What were your activities directed to during your membership in the Communist Party, Mr. Rushmore?

A. My major activity was along journalistic lines, newspaper work, writing.

Q. Did you know William Hinckley, who is National [804] Chairman of the Youth Congress?

A. I did.

Q. Was he a member of the Communist Party, or of the Young Communist League?

A. I don't know of my own knowledge about that.

Q. Did you ever attend any meetings with the Political Bureau of the Young Communist League?

A. I attended one meeting briefly, one time, in the spring of 1936.

Q. What was discussed at that particular meeting?

A. I wasn't in on the general discussions. They allowed only very high officials of the Young Communist League at these Political Bureau meetings. They called me in to discuss a question dealing with a pamphlet they planned to get out and on which they wanted me to help write it, and I was called in to discuss the pamphlet and left as soon as I had finished. [805]

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. During your membership in the Communist Party did you ever meet Clarence Hathaway?

A. Yes, I knew Mr. Hathaway very well.

Q. Was he a member of the Communist Party?

A. He is not now.

Q. Was he at the time? A. He was.

Q. And I believe you testified that Roy Hudson was a member of the Communist Party?

A. He is a member of the Political Bureau of the Communist Party, the Central Committee. I am sure of that.

Q. Do you know Al Lannon, L-a-n-n-o-n?

A. Yes, I know him to be one of—what they called the commissars of the waterfront, in other words, one of the Communist Party leaders on the New York waterfront.

Q. A member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes, naturally.

Q. Do you know Joseph Curran, C-u-r-r-a-n?

A. I have met Mr. Curran briefly in my newspaper work for the Daily Worker; I don't know him personally.

Q. Do you know him to be a member of the Communist Party?

A. I have heard he is a member of the Communist Party.

Q. Is that his true name? [806]

A. As far as I know.

Q. Do you know Ella Reeve Bloor?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. I do.

Q. Who is she?

A. She is a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party, probably their most active woman leader.

Mr. Del Guercio: You may cross examine.

Mr. Gladstein: May we have a short recess now?

Mr. Del Guercio: May we have a short recess now?

Presiding Inspector: Yes; you seem to be in agreement on that.

(Whereupon, a short recess was taken.)

Presiding Inspector: All right, Mr. Gladstein.

Mr. Gladstein: Mr. Grossman will conduct the cross examination.

Cross Examination

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Rushmore, in the latter part of your testimony you were referring to President Roosevelt and his treatment in the Daily Worker. Would it be correct to state that during certain periods while you were on the Daily Worker staff President Roosevelt was treated as if he were a sacred cow, but during other periods he was attacked bitterly and seriously?

A. That is what I said, in effect.

Q. Yes. What period was it? What periods were there during which President Roosevelt was treated carefully and [807] like a sacred cow?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, your Honor.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

I object to the remark of counsel about the President being treated in that manner.

Presiding Inspector: I will take it. Go ahead. You opened the door.

A. During the year '37—I can speak of that, having worker there most of that year—and the early part of '38. However, there was rather a cautious approach, pretty enthusiastic support, yet, criticism at frequent times of various policies of the President and of the Administration. I wouldn't classify him as a sacred cow at that time.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. What would you say was the attitude toward John L. Lewis during the period that you worked on the Daily Worker?

A. The period that I worked there the attitude toward John L. Lewis was pretty much of favorable treatment throughout.

Q. During what period would that be?

A. Well, that would be '37, '38 and '39.

Q. What would you say was the attitude toward Father Divine during the time that you worked on the Daily Worker?

A. They had sort of broken away from Father Divine when I came on there. They supported him, I think, one year and he got his followers to march in a May Day parade, and then they had some bickering. I don't know what happened [868] there, whether the Father wanted to take over the Communist Party or vice versa, but I do not know there was a break there and no longer a support of that particular movement there in Harlem.

Q. But there was a time when the Daily Worker definitely and always supported Father Divine?

A. I couldn't say that.

Q. You mean you weren't working on the staff at that time? A. No.

Q. What was the attitude toward the C.I.O. when you were working on the Daily Worker?

A. The attitude toward the C.I.O. was of support throughout the time I was there.

Q. Unfailing support?

A. Toward the—you mean the organization as such?

Q. Yes. A. I would say that; yes, sir.

Q. What was the attitude toward the President's wife during the time that you worked on the Daily Worker?

A. Well, I remember both favorable and unfavorable criticism of Mrs. Roosevelt.

Q. Do you remember any particular times when the attitude toward her was entirely favorable, no matter what she did? [809]

A. No, I don't think there was any such time.

Q. What was the attitude of the Daily Worker toward Mayor LaGuardia?

A. That has jumped rapidly from one extreme to the other.

Q. Can you give me the period or periods during which he was treated very carefully and delicately and always praised?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. My guess would be in '37, and maybe not throughout the year, because very often there would be a sharp attack on various policies of LaGuardia even though in general they were supporting him.

Q. Do you remember the attitude of the Daily Worker toward Heywood Broun?

A. The attitude toward Broun varied too. Broun at one time was an active Socialist. He was very cordially hated by the Communists and even after he formed the Newspaper Guild he was not entirely liked by the Communist Party. There was only a period of, say, two years that I can recollect where generally they supported Broun's policies.

Q. During those two years was there any criticism of Heywood Broun?

A. I don't recall whether there was or not.

Q. Were there any Congressmen or Senators, that is, of the National Congress, who were treated by the Daily Worker as you state John L. Lewis was treated, for example? [810]

A. Well, I stated that Lewis was not treated consistently favorably. Do you that, or just what do you mean by that?

Q. Didn't you state during the period you were on the Daily Worker he was treated favorably?

A. That Lewis was?

Q. Yes.

A. I said generally, although there could have been criticism; there probably was criticism here or there.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. Do you remember any Congressmen or Senators who were treated very favorably by the Daily Worker?

A. You mean the sacred cow category?

Q. Yes, in other words, who seemed to be treated unusually well?

A. Well, I can think of two. One of them, to my knowledge, is a member of the Communist Party, Jerry O'Connell of Montana.

Q. Who is the second?

A. A Congressman named Bernard of Minnesota.

Q. What about Maverick?

A. What about Maverick?

Q. Yes.

A. As I recollect it, there was also this question of criticising Maverick. At the time he wrote a book which they liked very much and then he changed certain of his policies and they criticised him quite a bit about it.

Q. Would you say, though, that even with respect to a [811] man like Maverick there were times when he was treated like a sacred cow, in other words, even when he should have been criticised he was not?

A. Not a fellow like Maverick. They would criticise him if they thought he had deviated from the party line.

Q. What would you say was the attitude toward the American Labor Party?

A. That also varied. For a time they supported it completely. Then when the right wing decided to kick out the Communists, reduce the Communists, naturally, the Daily Worker did not support them; in fact, they supported the left wing group which was set up.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. During what period did they support them unqualifiedly?

A. I would say during the '36 election it was virtually unqualified; I am not sure it was completely so though.

Q. Would you say the attitude of the Daily Worker toward the American Youth Congress was unusually friendly?

A. Completely; it has always been.

Q. Can you think of any other organizations or federations generally similar to the American Youth Congress that were treated in the same way?

A. Well, virtually all the Communist Party front groups such as the American League for Peace and Democracy which is now the American Peace Mobilization; the International Labor Defense, the organizations such as—oh, some of the pro- [812] fessional, like the Lawyers Guild, and a number of others. I can list them at quite some length if you want.

Q. I wish you would, please.

A. All right; the American Students Union, Friends of the Soviet Union; of course, going back in the early days of the Students movement, the National Students League.

Q. Consumers Union?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. Consumers Union, I would say received favorable treatment, yes.

Q. I mean unduly favorable, indicated they were giving the treatment because they felt it was Communist dominated, rather than because they deserved it?

A. I was told on one occasion by one of the Daily Worker Editors to reprint Consumer Union reports whenever possible. They would always give us permission.

Q. You understand what I mean, Mr. Rushmore. I mean an organization who was not treated fairly in the sense that you were merely reporting favorable things about it, and an organization that was treated in the sense that you reported unfavorable matter in the sense that the organization was Communist controlled. Would you say the Consumers Union was or was not in that category?

A. I would say it was, as I recollect.

Q. What about the Committee for the foreign born?

A. That was also a Communist front group and supported as such by the Daily Worker and the Communist Party. [813]

Q. Can you think of any other organizations that would fall in that category? League of Women Shoppers?

A. I recollect they did receive some publicity. I am not very familiar with that particular organization. I understood it was one of the Party groups; I was not sure about that.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. Do you remember the attitude of the Daily Workers toward Governor Olson?

A. I know they supported him in the election campaign. I don't know how enthusiastically, though. I think the Peoples World was set up at that time, if I am not mistaken, and that probably was the main support of him.

Q. What about Labor's Non-Partisan League?

A. Labor's Non-Partisan League? That depended upon the individuals in the particular vicinities and communities who were heads or officials of the Labor's Non-Partisan League.

Q Mr. Rushmore, are you now a member of any union?

A. I am a member of the American Newspaper Guild; I have been since 1935.

Q. Are you employed at the present time?

A. I am.

Q. And by whom?

A. I am employed by the New York Journal as a reporter.

Q. How long have you been employed by them?

[814]

A. Since August, 1940.

Q. And before August, 1940, were you employed?

A. I was engaged in free lance writing.

Q. For which publications?

A. Oh, a number of them; American Magazine, Reader's Digest, American Mercury, Christian Herald Magazine.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. Did you run any articles on Communism?

A. Quite a few, yes.

Q. Did you write most of your articles on Communism?

A. Well, I wrote—yes, I would say most of them were on Communism.

Q. Did you write any articles on the CIO?

A. No.

Q. Did you write any articles on the functioning of Communists in the trade unions?

A. I indicated in one article in the American Magazine that the role of the Communist in the trade union was to destroy trade unionism, but I didn't make that an article; just part of an excerpt.

Q. Did you support yourself between the time that you left the Daily Worker and the time you got your present job by this free lance writing?

A. I did.

Q. Solely by that?

A. Solely by that. [815]

Q. Since the time that you left the Daily Worker have you had any other income than was obtained by this free lance writing and obtained by your present employment? When I say "your present employment" I mean on the newspap

A. Yes, I understand. No, that was my only source of income, those two things.

Q. Did you testify before the Dies Committee?

A. I did in one private hearing.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. And where was that held?

A. Held in New York. They asked me to testify on one particular subject in a private hearing which was not open to the public.

Q. When was that?

A. That was in the fall of 1940.

Q. And what was the subject?

A. I was, as I understand it—at this private hearing I was told not to reveal what I testified to so I certainly couldn't do that here.

Q. Well, the Examiner will have to rule whether you can or can't.

A. I was under oath and I was told not to.

Mr. Grossman: May we have a ruling, your Honor, as to whether there is any privilege attaching to what the subject matter was of that hearing?

Presiding Inspector: What have you to say about that, Mr. Del Guercio? [816]

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't believe the witness should be compelled to reveal what he testified. He was under oath at that time. He took an oath not to reveal what testimony he gave. It has not been made public; it has not appeared in any of the issues of this case.

Presiding Inspector: Well, it doesn't seem as though it were material. It has not been shown——

Mr. Grossman (interposing): I don't know whether it is or isn't.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did this subject matter have anything to do with Harry Bridges. A. It did not.

Q. Did it have anything to do with the trade unions? A. It did not.

Q. Did it have anything to do with the CIO?

A. It did not.

Q. Have you ever given any affidavits to the Dies Committee? A. I have not.

Q. What were the circumstances surrounding your leaving the Communist Party?

A. I made that pretty much a matter of public record in my various writings. As I indicated this morning, the hypocracy and the deceit of the Party finally caused me to recognize that what I thought it was was completely another thing, [817] and I decided to leave them as enthusiastically as I joined them, I mean enthusiastically as before I was leaving. I was very glad to leave the Communist Party.

Q. Well, then, am I to understand that you withdrew rather than being expelled?

A. No; I sent a letter of resignation to the Editor of the Daily Worker after the incident involved around a movie review which is pretty much a matter of public record now, and I had no interest in whether they expelled me or what they did.

Q. You mean you resigned from the Daily Worker staff or from the Communist Party?

A. Well, both, effective both, resigned from the Daily Worker staff under such circumstances, and publicly attacked them; I think they expelled me. They had some statements in their paper later on about the whole thing.

Q. What was the issue?

A. This particular issue involved a movie, "Gone With the Wind" which I was asked to call a Fascist picture and I refused to do that, particularly since the editors who asked me to do that had not seen the picture. I asked them in all fairness to see the movie, to then judge whether or not I was wrong or right. They refused and ordered a blanket review, calling it Fascist, anti-Negro and everything else, when I didn't think it was that.

[818]

Q. You mean the difference between you and the Communist Party was solely the difference as to an evaluation of the movie "Gone With the Wind"?

A. Certainly not. That was sort of a combination of a lot of differences which I had had, and had been growing over a period of a year or two on the Worker.

Q. Did you differ—when I say "differ" I mean the different attitudes on your part and on the part of the Daily Worker toward the picture "Gone With the Wind" reflect any political disagreement?

A. I would say that was the main disagreement, was a political disagreement.

Q. I mean, did this incident over the criticism of that movie reflect this disagreement?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. Yes, I would say so.

Q. Well, could you express in simple language, then, what this political disagreement was which your criticism of the movie brought out?

A. I would say that basically it was the freedom of press and speech which I had thought of all people the Communists encouraged, and I had found through actual experience they discourage it; that reflected that, generally speaking.

Q. Was there any other difference which your attitude toward the movie discouraged?

A. If you are hinting at the Negro angle, no.

Q. I am not hinting. I wanted to know if there were [819] any fundamental reasons for the disagreement? Very frankly, it appears to me it would be very strange that you——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) We are not concerned with what it appears to you.

Presiding Inspector: Let's hear the question; then object. Go ahead.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. I am concerned, Mr. Rushmore, with this: It would seem off-hand that a mere disagreement in reviewing a movie would not be such for one to take such very serious steps, or, perhaps for an organization to take such serious steps.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute.

Presiding Inspector: Finish the question.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Therefore, I am concerned with whether in your differing opinions with respect to this movie, there may not have been involved some diametrically opposed views on some political questions?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Presiding Inspector: Don't answer that.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object, your Honor, to the form of the question.

Presiding Inspector: I think the form is very objectionable. [820]

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Now, is your answer still the same, Mr. Rushmore, to the effect that the only political difference which the reviewing of this movie brought to life, was a difference on freedom of speech?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, if your Honor please. This witness has already testified that there were other differences.

Presiding Inspector: I think that is so. He said this was a culmination.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. What are the other differences?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to that, too. He has already given his other differences. If counsel is paying no attention that is his hard luck.

Mr. Grossman: Let us assume that I wasn't paying attention, I still have a right to get it clear.

Presiding Inspector: Sure, but not more than once. He already told you that the principle of hypocrisy and deceit had influenced him; so he told you something.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Mr. Grossman: But I don't know that that is all, and he hasn't so indicated.

Presiding Inspector: Ask him if it is all.

Mr. Grossman: I am asking him if there is any other difference.

Presiding Inspector: I didn't understand you to ask that. [821]

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Were there any other political differences between yourself and the Communist Party at the time of this review?

A. Those are the fundamental differences. When I speak of suppression of freedom of speech, and the continuance of hypocritical and deceiving policies, that covers a wide area and that is the fundamental reason for my leaving them.

Q. Does this represent all of them—I mean, all of those you consider important?

A. If you want to go into minor details—the fact that Hitler who, I thought, had been the only party fighting Fascism, but then I found out they had joined it, and a few things like that, entered into it.

Q. I am not concerned with those disagreements that are to you minor. I am concerned with all those that are important to you. Have you stated all those that were important bases of disagreement at that time between you and the Communist Party?

A. I would say so; yes.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. Would it be correct then that you agreed with the Communist Party, at the time you left the Communist Party, on the question of force and violence, and the use of it to overthrow, or the possible use of it to overthrow a capitalist government?

A. It would not.

Mr. Grossman: May I have the question and answer read, [822] please?

Presiding Inspector: Wasn't that a complete answer?

Mr. Grossman: I think it was, but I would like to have the question read.

Presiding Inspector: The answer is directly as you asked.

Mr. Grossman: I want the question read to refresh my memory, the entire question, and the implication of the answer.

Presiding Inspector: I didn't understand that you asked for the question to be read.

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: I didn't so understand you.

(The question and answer referred to were read by the reporter as above recorded.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Will you explain then why you did not state that was one of the major disagreements between you and the Communist Party?

A. I certainly think that point is covered when you speak of freedom of speech, and things like that.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

You cannot have force and violence and freedom of speech at the same time.

Q. When did you first make up your mind that the Communist Party had views on force and violence with which you were not in agreement?

A. I had debated that for a considerable period of time. I might say that in my work as a newspaper man I didn't see [823] some of their more intricate operations. But when I was in Iowa I saw one instance of force and violence, namely, a strike called by the Communist Party purely for publicity's sake, and in which some people were injured, unnecessarily, I thought, and I objected to that, and similar things such as that that I encountered.

Q. When I refer to the overthrow of the government through force and violence, Mr. Rushmore, I refer to making some fundamental change in the economic or political system through the use of force and violence. Did you consider these——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Just a minute.

Presiding Inspector: Let him finish his question.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. (Continuing) Did you consider these examples you have just given, of violence taking place during a strike, examples of force and violence being used to change the economic or political system?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute. I object to the question. Counsel is attempting to define, give his own definition of the use of force and violence.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Presiding Inspector: I will allow the question.

A. I would say those were some of the——

Presiding Inspector: We will allow wide latitude on cross examination.

A. I would say that was an example of some of the [824] preliminary steps that they were taking toward the ultimate goal.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Then would this be a correct statement of your views at the time you were a member of the Communist Party: That you believed with the Communist Party on the question of force and violence to change the economic or political system until you saw certain examples of violence in a strike and at that time you date your beginning to disagree with the Communist Party on the issue of force and violence?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute——

Presiding Inspector: If he can answer.

A. I would say that I completely disagreed with them on the question of force and violence as advocated in some of the Russian literature, the literature of Lenin and Stalin, and I always thought that was the business of Russia; but as American born, being born in an American community, I couldn't see such a transition in America, and I doubted if it could and I didn't think the Communist Party had to go through that method, and

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

I didn't think they would until I encountered these other examples and got in New York, and got into the major league, so to speak, and saw what they really wanted to do.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. When did you first reach the conclusion, which you indicated you had reached, that the Communist Party in this [825] country advocated the same things that they advocated in Russia before the Revolution?

A. I never reached any conclusion on that. I had experiences there on the Daily Worker, I would say in the latter part of 1938, and I became aware that there were a number of OGPU agents there, obviously people not only of foreign birth, but of foreign ideas; and I found out they were the actual leaders of the Communist Party. That worried me quite a bit because I didn't believe that the American Radical Party should be headed by foreign-born people, particularly of that type.

Q. Returning to the question of force and violence, Mr. Rushmore, did you ever, during the entire time that you were in the Communist Party, believe in the overthrow of the United States Government through force and violence?

A. I will say to that question, "No."

Q. And for what period, during which you were in the Communist Party, did you feel that the Communist Party of the United States equally did not believe in the overthrow of the United States Government through force and violence?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute!

Presiding Inspector: Is that material?

Mr. Grossman: I think it is.

Presiding Inspector: Is it material what his belief was?

Mr. Grossman: In the first place, I think it is material whether this particular witness believed in the overthrow of [826] the United States Government through force and violence. It is also material as to whether, during the time that he was in the Communist Party, he believed in the same doctrines the Communist Party believed in.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it. It may be rather remotely material.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I be heard?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't believe that it is material for this reason: First of all, we are not charging this witness with believing in the advocacy of the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force and violence. We are not charging the alien here with believing in the use of force and violence in the overthrowing of the Government of the United States. We are charging the alien with belonging to an organiaztion, affiliated to an organization that believes in and advocates and teaches the overthrow of the Government by force and violence.

Presiding Inspector: This witness has been shown to be a member of the Communist Party and on that account I think I will allow this on cross examination. I am not sure that it has much materiality.

He may answer the question.

The Witness: May I have the question read?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.) [827]

Presiding Inspector: It is of very little materiality as to what he believes the Party or the organization that he belongs to believes in.

Mr. Del Guercio: There is no evidence in the record that the organization seeks at any time to——

Presiding Inspector: I say, it is of very little materiality.

Mr. Grossman: It strikes me as very strange that after Mr. Del Guercio has this witness identify so many different Communist documents theoretically, obviously, and this witness has stated so positively that he has held positions of importance in the Communist Party, that he could fail to appreciate and clearly understand at all times during which he held these important positions, if he did hold them, what the doctrines of the Communist Party were. It is quite obvious that the theory of the Government is that the Communist Party did hold these views on force and violence; yet this witness attempts to give us the impression during this entire period he did not hold the same doctrines of force and violence. As a matter of fact, his explanation is, I will say, unconvincing to me, considering his purported familiarity with these documents. That is why I am pressing it further because I frankly don't know what the answer is; whether he did believe in the doctrines up to now, and perhaps still does; or whether he disagreed with such doctrines during the entire time that he was in the Communist Party; or whether perhaps he is not telling the [828] truth under oath because he thinks it will have some effect on the credibility we will give his testimony here.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Presiding Inspector: I will take the answer if he can answer it.

A. At the time I went to New York to work for the Communist Party as such it was a period when they began to advocate Americanism, and that was one of the reasons I was brought there, I found out later. While I was there in an official capacity I agreed pretty thoroughly with the Communist Party on their general principles, as far as I knew them, until I found out differently, on trade unionism, on race discrimination, and a lot of the more theoretical aspects of the Communist Party program.

As far as identifying these particular pamphlets. I have seen these pamphlets around a number of the Party book stores, and the Daily Worker. We had access to a lot of literature that was given to us to read.

I do not think that I said that I had read all of these particular pamphlets. I have seen them and some of them I have read.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. When first did you read the pamphlet "Foundations of Leninism?"

A. Will you show the pamphlet to me, please?

Q. (Handing pamphlet to witness) [829]

A. I think I read that late in 1934 or early 1935.

Q. Did you read it through?

A. I don't think I did.

Q. When did you first read the pamphlet or the document, "State and Revolution?"

A. I think I read that in 1935.

Q. When did you first read the document, "The Proletarian Revolution and Renegade Kautsky?"

A. I don't ever remember reading that. It was probably in the Lenin Library, and I have seen it sold in book stores.

Q. When did you first read the pamphlet, "Why Communism?" A. What pamphlet?

Q. "Why Communism?"

Mr. Del Guercio: I didn't show him that.

The Witness: I wasn't shown that.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you read the pamphlet written by a man named Peters—I have forgotten the name—do you know the one I am referring to?

A. Yes—"Manual on Organization."

Q. When did you first read that?

A. I read portions of that in the spring of 1937, particularly those portions dealing with the unit organizations.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. At any time have you ever made reports on your [830] activity within the Communist Party, or within any union, to the FBI?

A. I have not. You mean while I was in the Communist Party or while I was in a union?

Q. Yes.

A. I have not.

Q. Have you made reports to any organization of your activities within the Communist Party or any union? A. While I was in either?

Q. Yes. A. No, I have not.

Q. When first were you advised that you were going to be a witness in this case?

A. Approximately a month ago.

Q. About a month ago? A. That is right.

Q. Would you say that the American Youth Congress was generally known as a Communist organization in 1935?

A. I wouldn't say it was as well known then as it is now as a Communist front organization.

Q. Would you say that it is generally known now as a Communist organization?

A. I would say so.

Q. Do you recall any period during which the wife of the President of the United States was connected in any way with [831] the American Youth Congress?

A. She spoke at one or two of their meetings. I didn't cover the meeting and I don't remember when it was.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. Did she speak during the period when you stated it was generally known that the American Youth Congress was a Communist organization?

A. If you will give me the date when she spoke I will answer.

Q. Do you remember that she spoke?

A. Yes, but not the date. If she spoke in 1935 it wasn't as well known as a Communist front organization as now.

Q. Was it then known as a Communist organization—and when I say "known", I mean outside the Communist Party?

A. Certainly; but not as widely exposed as a Communist front organization as it has been in the last year or two.

Q. Would you say intelligent people, intelligent in the sense that they knew about political organizations, and organizations like the American Youth Congress, knew in 1935 that the American Youth Congress was a Communist organization?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the form of the question.

Presiding Inspector: If he can answer the question; all right.

The Witness: May I have the question again?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.) [832]

A. That is pretty involved.

Presiding Inspector: That is indefinite.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. What did you mean when you said it was generally known as a Communist organization in 1935?

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

A. I didn't say it was generally known; I said it was widely known, I believe, now.

Q. What did you mean when you said it was widely known as a Communist organization in 1935?

A. I say it is widely known now because of being exposed by a number of newspapers and magazines and——

Q. (Interposing) We are endeavoring to——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Just a minute. The witness is answering your question.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. What do you mean when you said in 1935 it was widely known that the American Youth Congress was a Communist organization?

A. I did not say in 1935 it was widely known as a Communist organization.

Mr. Grossman: I wonder if we could have the reporter, without too much trouble, go back to that portion of the testimony?

Presiding Inspector: No, no; we will not stop to go back.

By Mr. Grossman: [833]

Q. What did you say with respect to 1935, with respect to whether the American Youth Congress was known as a Communist organization?

A. I said in 1935 I didn't think it was as widely known as a Communist organization as it is now. However, there had been a number of arficles, magazine articles, newspaper articles, stories at that time in a number of papers, and magazines, accusing it of being a Communist front organization. The Congress was held in Detroit, I think, in 1935, and I know at that time there was a great deal of accusation on all sides as to its communistic policy.

(Testimony of Howard Rushmore.)

Q. Do you remember where that convention was held you referred to?

A. The 1935 convention, as I recollect, was held in Detroit.

Q. Do you remember who addressed that convention? A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you remember whether Governor Murphy addressed that convention? A. I do not.

Mr. Grossman: No further questions.

Presiding Inspector: Anything further, Mr. Del Guercio?

Mr. Del Guercio: May I have a second?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: No further questions, your Honor. [834]

Presiding Inspector: You are excused.

Mr. Del Guercio: The witness is excused?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

(Witness excused.)

Mr. Del Guercio: We have another witness, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: You had better call him.

Mr. Del Guercio: A few minutes ago I told him to go home.

Presiding Inspector: Then you won't call him. Do you want to recess until tomorrow morning?

Mr. Del Guercio: If you please.

Presiding Inspector: Ten o'clock tomorrow morning.

(Whereupon, at 3:55 P. M., an adjournment was taken until Wednesday, April 16, 1941, at 10:00 A. M.) [835]

Court Room 276,
Federal Building,
San Francisco, California.

April 16, 1941.

Met, pursuant to adjournment, at 10:00 A.M. [836]

PROCEEDINGS

Presiding Inspector: All right Mr. Del Guercio, will you resume?

Mr. Del Guercio: Will you take the stand, Mr. Diner?

Presiding Inspector: Stand up, please, raise your right hand and be sworn.

SAM DINER

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What is your name?

A. Sam Diner—D-i-n-e-r.

Q. Where do you reside? A. San Rafael.

Q. What is your present occupation?

A. I run a ladies' apparel shop.

Q. Have you ever been a member of the Communist Party? A. I was.

Q. When did you first join? A. 1931.

Q. Where? A. San Francisco.

Q. And for how long a period did you remain a member of the Communist Party?

A. Until September 1936—1936 or 1937; I don't [837] remember exactly.

Q. And during the time that you were a member of the Communist Party were you assigned any tasks by the Communist Party? A. I was.

Q. And what were those tasks, beginning from the start?

A. My major objective was to organize the unorganized workers in our industry.

Q. And what industry was that?

A. The Ladies' Garment Workers.

Q. Were you a member of the Ladies' Garment Workers Union at that time?

A. At that time, no.

Q. Did you later become a member of that union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was that? A. 1934.

(Testimony of Sam Di

Q. 1934. Were you a member of the Communist Party at the time of the 1934 strike?

A. I was.

Q. Were you given any assignment by the Communist Party in connection with any activity in the 1934 strike? A. No.

Q. Did you participate in the 1934 strike?

A. I did.

Q. And what did you do? [838]

A. Well, at that time I was a member already of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union. My task was to see that all the workers were out of the shops to participate in the strike.

Q. Who gave you that task? Who assigned you that task to see that the——

A. (Interposing) The Union.

Q. The Union? A. Yes.

Q. As a member of the Communist Party were you given any instructions in connection with having your Union strike? A. No, no.

Q. Did you hold any positions in the Communist Party? A. I did.

Q. What were they?

A. I had various functions. I was a member of the Board of Directors of the School.

Q. Of the School?

A. Yes, Workers School.

Q. What kind of a school is that?

A. Well, teaching the philosophy of Marxian theory and helping to organize workers for struggle in the various unions.

(Testimony of Sam Dinn.)

Q. And who gave you that assignment?

A. Well, that was the fundamental thing of the school.

Q. Well, I mean how were you appointed as instructor or [839] organizer in the school?

A. Well, the reason I was appointed at that time—the appointment came before—may I explain?

Q. Surely.

A. Before I joined the A. F. of L. Union back again I was a member of the Needle Trade Workers Industrial Union which broke away originally from the A. F. of L. At that time I was elected President of the Needle Trade Workers Industrial Union and I was told at that time by being a President of a Union that it would be a logical thing for me to be a member of the school so as to build up the prestige among the workers.

Q. Who told you that? A. Mr. Darcy.

Q. Is that Sam Darcy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was his position in the Communist Party?

A. He was District Organizer, District 13.

Q. And District 13 covered the San Francisco area? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Proceed. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are you through with your——

A. (Interposing): I am through.

Q. Now, you say you were President of this International [840] Ladies' Garment Workers Union?

(Testimony of Sam Dine

A. No; I didn't say that. I said I was President of the Needle Trades Workers Industrial Union.

Q. Was that affiliated with the American Federation of Labor? A. No.

Q. What kind of a union——

A. (Interposing): Trade Union Unity League.

Q. And that was a Communist organization, was it not? A. Supposed to be.

Q. Well, was it sponsored by the Communist Party? A. Yes, it was.

Q. And you were President of that Union?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, during the 1934 strike here in San Francisco were you Treasurer of the Emergency Defense Committee? A. I was.

Q. What kind of a committee was that?

A. To defend civil liberty rights.

Q. Who organized it?

A. I don't know who organized it.

Q. How did you become the Treasurer of it?

A. I was told by Darcy.

Q. Is that the same Sam Darcy?

A. Yes. [841]

Q. What did he tell you? A. What?

Q. What did Sam Darcy tell you?

A. He told me that I was supposed to take over the office and be the Treasurer of this Defense Committee.

Q. And were you given any funds?

A. No, sir—funds for what?

Q. To carry on your work?

(Testimony of Sam Dinc.)

A. The funds were there when I came in.

Q. The funds were where, who had them?

A. In the bank, I guess.

Q. Were they turned over to you?

A. Yes.

Q. You mean that you had access to the funds that were in the bank? A. I had.

Q. How much money was in there?

A. Oh, I don't remember; a few hundred dollars, I guess.

Q. And was the money there placed in the bank in your name? A. Yes.

Q. Who placed it there, do you know?

A. I don't know who placed it there, but I signed.

Q. Who told you that the money was in the bank?

A. The Committee that was in charge before me.

[842]

Q. Had there been a prior Defense Committee?

A. Yes.

Q. Who were some of the members of the prior Committee?

A. Some of them I didn't know at all.

Q. Do you know any of them?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. What are their names?

A. One was a man by the name of Falchoff.

The Reporter: Spell it, please.

The Witness: I don't know how to spell it.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. F-a-l-c-h-i-o-f-f?

A. Maybe that is the way; I don't know how to spell his name.

Q. Do you know any others?

A. A fellow by the name of Wilson.

Q. Is that the—what Wilson is that, what did he do at that time?

A. He was supposed to take care of the office at that time.

Q. Where did you have your offices?

A. The original office we had was at 6th and Market, where the International Labor Defense was. Then we moved to 7th and Market, to a private office.

Q. Did you have any instructions as to whether or not [843] you should work with the ILD?

A. Well, they were about the same. I mean not exactly instructions, but we consulted one another pertaining for what purpose the money should be used.

Q. Who in the ILD did you consult with?

A. Elaine Black.

Q. Who else?

A. Wilson, I just mentioned, and Falchoff.

Q. Did you consult with any attorney members of the ILD?

A. Well, whenever it was necessary to use an attorney we consulted with an attorney.

Q. Who of the attorneys did you consult?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. Mr. Anderson.

Q. Mr. Anderson? A. Yes.

Q. Who is Elaine Black?

A. She was the Secretary of the ILD at that time. I don't know what she is now.

Q. Was she also then a member of the Communist Party? A. She was.

Q. And who is Anderson, Leo Anderson?

A. He is an attorney.

Q. Was he also a member of the Communist Party? A. I don't know.

Q. I mean George Anderson, is that not right?

[844]

A. Yes.

Q. Will you state just what you did as Treasurer of the Emergency Defense Committee?

A. I was supposed to bail out all those arrested, to see that necessary funds were available for that emergency fund.

Q. Anything else?

A. To secure legal advice from attorneys if it was necessary to defend the workers.

Q. Were you to go anywhere else than to the ILD to secure attorneys for the persons that were arrested?

A. As I said before, both Committees worked in conjunction with one another.

Q. Both Committees—what was the other Committee?

A. The ILD and the Civil Liberties Defense Committee.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. They were working together, you say?

A. Yes.

Q. And how much money did you expend during the time that you were treasurer?

A. I judge we handled about $10,000 or $12,000.

Q. Well, now, you originally had $300, you say, that was made available to you in the bank?

A. I didn't say $300. I said a few hundred dollars. The exact amount I don't remember. [845]

Q. Well, where did you get the rest of the money?

A. From various loans, donations.

Q. Well, from what sources?

A. People that had a sympathetic attitude toward the issue involved.

Q. Did any of that money represent dues from Communist Party members? A. No, sir.

Q. Did the ILD furnish you any money?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did Sam Darcy furnish you any money?

A. No, sir.

Q. During the time you were treasurer of this Emergency Defense Committee did you contact the Alien here, Mr. Bridges? A. No, I didn't.

Q. Do you know him? A. Yes, I do.

Q. Where is he?

A. Right there (Indicating).

Mr. Del Guercio: May the record show that the witness has identified Mr. Bridges?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Presiding Inspector: No objection to that?

Mr. Gladstein: No objection.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. When did you first meet the Alien here?

[846]

A. Oh, I met him several times right after the general strike.

Q. Right after the general strike?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And where was the first time you met him?

A. In the ILA office.

Q. ILA office? A. Yes.

Q. That is the International Longshoremen's Association? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what was the occasion of that meeting?

A. Oh, just a question of visiting about trade union activity.

Q. Trade union activity in what?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In your own union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was the Needle Trade Workers Union?

A. No; that was already the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union.

Q. And when was that about?

A. That was right after the strike, around 1934 or '35.

Q. When did you next meet the Alien?

A. I met him once in his house.

Q. When was that?

A. Around the same time, maybe a few months

(Testimony of Sam Dimer)

after. I [847] can't remember exactly the date, but it was between '34 and '35.

Q. Will you state the occasion for going——

A. (Interposing): The very same thing, talking over matters regarding union business.

Q. Well, did anyone send you to his house?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who sent you?

A. An officer of the Communist Party.

Q. Do you know which one?

A. I don't remember exactly the name, but I was told—somebody took me up; I didn't know where he lives; somebody took me up there.

Q. Well, what member of the Communist Party told you to go to Mr. Bridges' house?

A. Well, that was either Sam Darcy or Hanoff.

Q. Is that Elmer Hanoff? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Sam Darcy then connected with any union? A. No.

Q. Was Elmer Hanoff connected with any union? A. Not that I know.

Q. Well, why did Sam Darcy or Elmer Hanoff tell you to go to Bridges' house?

A. Well, just to meet him. We were on the verge of organizing some organized workers and I wanted to get some information from Harry.

[848]

Q. Some information from whom?

A. From Mr. Bridges.

Q. And you say you went over to Bridges' house with someone else? A. I was.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. Do you know who that person is?

A. Yes.

Q. What is his name? A. Jeff.

Q. Jeff? Is that Jeff Goodman?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was he also a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, he was.

Q. And whom did you meet when you went to Bridges' house?

A. I met his wife. He was not home at that time but he arrived later.

Q. He arrived later. And did you have any conversation with Bridges when he arrived?

A. Just about a few minutes.

Q. What did you talk about?

A. About whether he can give me some information regarding organizing certain crafts that was not organized yet.

Q. And now what kind of information regarding organizing? Was it to be a purely union activity or was it a Communist activity?

A. No, purely union activity at that time. [849]

Q. Purely union activity at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did Mr. Bridges tell you——

A. (Interposing): He gave me some information that I asked for.

Q. You say you only talked to him about a minute and a half? A. No, a few minutes, I said.

Q. A few minutes. Five minutes?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. Well, maybe ten; more than five minutes.

Q. More than five minutes? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Approximately ten?

A. Approximately ten.

Q. Did you tell Bridges who sent you?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Who else was present when you——

A. (Interposing): Nobody.

Q. Nobody. Was Jeff present?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you next speak to Mr. Bridges?

A. I met him next at the—on Clay Street in his office.

Q. And what was the occasion of that meeting?

A. I think just a visit.

Q. Just a visit? [850] A. Yes, sir.

Q. A social visit?

A. Yes, I think a social visit.

Q. On Clay Street? You mean Mr. Bridges' home on Clay Street? Was he living there at that time?

A. No, that was his office, union office.

Q. Oh, his office. When did you next meet him?

A. Next I met him in Fresno.

Q. In Fresno. And when was that?

A. That was right after the general strike.

Q. Right after the 1934 general strike?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what was the occasion of that meeting?

A. I was delegate to the State Convention of the Communist Party.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. And can you trace the time more definitely than right after the 1934 general strike?

A. Well, it was on a Sunday, some time in the fall.

Q. Sometime in the fall? A. Yes.

Q. Of what year? A. 1934.

Q. 1934. And you say that there was a convention of the Communist Party there at Fresno at that time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where were you living at that time? [851]

A. San Rafael.

Q. San Rafael. And how did you get down to Fresno?

A. Well, I was working at 49 Fourth Street at that time. Mr. Darcy and Mrs. Darcy called at the time when I quit at 12:30 and they took me to Fresno.

Q. You drove with Sam Darcy and his wife to Fresno? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you register there in a hotel at Fresno?

A. I did.

Q. What hotel did you register at?

A. I think it was the Travelers, if I am not mistaken.

Q. Did Sam Darcy and his wife register in the same hotel? A. They did.

Q. And under what name did you register?

A. My own name.

Q. Did Sam Diner register?

A. Sam Diner, yes; I am Sam Diner.

Q. No, I mean Sam Darcy; excuse me.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. He did.

Q. Did he register before or after you did?

A. I think he registered before me.

Q. And you registered immediately after he did?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did Sam Darcy register in his correct name?

A. I don't know. [852]

Q. I will show you what appears to be the original register of the Hotel Travelers, Fresno, California, on which appears the name of S. Diner, for December 22, 1934, and ask you if that is your signature?

A. (Examining document): Yes, sir.

Q. Then, that is the day that you arrived in Fresno, December 22, 1934?

A. I don't exactly remember the day, but that was in the fall, I know.

Q. Well, did you arrive on the same day that you registered there?

A. Yes sir, I arrived on Saturday night and I registered on Saturday night.

Q. And you say that Sam Darcy registered in the same hotel just before you did?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well, now, immediately above your name appears this:

"Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Frank, F-r-a-n-k."

Could that be Sam Darcy?

A. I couldn't say that.

Q. But you do know that he registered immediately before you did?

(Testimony of Sam Dir

A. I registered after him.

Q. After him? A. Yes, sir. [853]

Q. There was not anybody else——

A. (Interposing): Between, no.

Q. Between his registration and your registration? A. No.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: It will be received without objection.

(The register referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 198.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. And now this shows that you were assigned room 236. Where was Mr. Darcy and his wife assigned?

A. I think it was adjoining my room.

Q. Do you know that it was adjoining to yours?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, this says that Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Frank were assigned to room 235 and you were assigned to room 236. Would that be correct?

A. Oh, yes, that would be correct.

Mr. Del Guercio: I ask that the photostat of this be substituted for the original.

Presiding Inspector: No objection, it may be done.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, you say that you went to Fresno to at-

(Testimony of Sam D tend a Convention of the Communist Party. [851]

A. That is what I said.

Q. Who called that convention?

A. District Thirteen.

Q. District Number Thirteen?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Of which, you have testified, I believe, that Sam Darcy was the organizer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And who instructed you to appear at the convention? A. Sam Darcy.

Q. And was the convention held the same day you arrived in Fresno? A. No.

Q. When was it held?

A. The following day.

Q. The following day? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was on Sunday? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The day following your arrival in Fresno?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were others than Communist Party members permitted to attend this convention? A. No.

Q. Of the Communist Party? A. No.

Q. Was it a purely closed Communist Party Convention? [855] A. Yes, sir.

Q. There is no question about that in your mind?

A. No question in my mind. [856]

Q. Did you see the Alien here, Mr. Bridges, at that convention? A. I did.

Q. What was he doing there?

A. As much as I was doing there.

Q. Well, now, what kind of a convention was

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

this Communist Party convention, what was it called for?

A. Well, it was called for to have a check-up of shortcomings and achievements during the general strike.

Q. A check of what?

A. Of various activities that had been done and not been done.

Q. In what lines? A. All lines.

Q. In all lines? A. Yes.

Q. Were there various committees?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you on any committee?

A. I was.

Q. On what committee?

A. Trade Union Committee.

Q. Trade Union Committee? A. Yes.

Q. What was your position on that Committee?

[857]

A. I was Temporary Chairman at that time.

Q. And what was Mr. Bridges, the Alien, here?

A. Mr. Bridges spoke before that Committee.

Q. Was he a member of your Committee?

A. Yes.

Q. You say he spoke before your Committee. When did he do that?

A. In the afternoon, late in the afternoon.

Q. During the convention? A. Yes.

Q. In what part of the convention—where was this convention held? A. In Fresno.

Q. Do you know the place?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. I don't know the name of it, but I know the place.

Q. Would you recognize a photograph of it? I will show you a photograph of a building here and ask you if you can identify it?

A. (Examining photograph) Well, the place wasn't so decorated as it is now. Maybe it has been remodeled since then; I don't know. But I can recognize the inside better than the outside.

Q. You can't recognize that building as it is there now as the place where the convention was held?

A. It wasn't so clean. [858]

Q. You say you can recognize the inside of it?

A. More than the outside; yes.

Q. I will show you some photographs here and ask you if you can recognize any of these photographs?

A. (Examining photographs) I can recognize this one.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this photograph in evidence at this time as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received without objection.

(The photograph referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 109.)

A. (Examining photograph) I recognize this one.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence and ask that it be marked.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Presiding Inspector: It will be received without objection.

(The photograph referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 200.)

A. (Examining photograph) I recognize this one.

Mr. Del Guercio: I ask that this one be marked and I will offer it in evidence.

Presiding Inspector: Received without objection.

(The photograph referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 201.) [859]

A. (Examining photograph) And this is a duplicate, the same as another one.

Mr. Del Guercio: That is a duplicate. I will withdraw that.

A. (Examining photographs) That is all I recognize. Maybe it has changed since then.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You recognize Government's Exhibits 200, 201, and 199 as being the inside of the place where this Communist Party held its convention in 1938 on a Sunday? A. I do.

Mr. Grossman: Have you marked for identification the front view of the hall that the witness said he couldn't identify?

Mr. Del Guercio: No.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Mr. Grossman: If not, I would like to have you do that.

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't know as I will.

Mr. Grossman: I submit, your Honor, we are entitled to have some record of the picture that the witness could not identify.

Presiding Inspector: I do not see any objection to having it marked, Mr. Del Guercio, for identification.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will withdraw my objection and I will offer it for identification. [860]

(The photograph referred to was marked for identification as Government's Exhibit No. 202.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Have you seen this place since this Communist Convention? A. Yes, I have.

Q. With whom did you go to Fresno?

A. Mr. Devereaux.

The Reporter: Spell it, please.

The Witness: I don't know how.

Mr. Del Guercio: D-e-v-e-r-e-a-u-x.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. He is an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you then recognize the place as being the meeting place of this Communist Convention?

A. Yes.

Q. You said that the Alien here spoke at a meeting of your Committee? A. What?

Q. That he spoke at a meeting of your Committee? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Sam Dinc[illegible])

Q. That was inside the hall?

A. Yes. [861]

Q. And during the time of this Convention, is that correct?

A. It was in a separate room from the hall.

Q. In a separate room?

A. In the building; yes, sir.

Q. And what did he speak about?

A. Oh, about the general trade union movement; that is about all.

Q. Was it a speech or was it more in the nature of a report?

A. It was more of a report than a speech because it didn't last very long.

Q. To whom did he make this report?

A. To the entire committee.

Q. And you were acting at that time as Chairman?

A. Temporary Chairman of the Committee; yes.

Q. And how were you appointed Temporary Chairman of this Committee?

A. By Mr. Darcy.

Q. And was this a Committee within the Communist Party convention that was being held there at Fresno at the time?

A. All conventions are broken up into committees.

Q. I see. What else occurred at this Communist Party convention? A. In what way? [862]

Q. Well, did anybody else make any speeches?

A. Oh, several others made speeches.

Q. Who else, besides the Alien here?

A. I think Mr. Darcy spoke.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. What did he speak about?

A. About the various shortcomings as far as the general strike was concerned, and part of its achievements. I can't remember exactly the words; it is impossible.

Q. The shortcomings of whom?

A. Of the Communist Party.

Q. Of the Communist Party. Did anybody else talk at the convention?

A. At this moment I can't recollect unless I can refresh my memory.

Q. How long did this convention last?

A. All day.

Q. All day. And were you in attendance all that day? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know if the Alien here, Mr. Bridges, was in attendance all day?

A. Well, as I say, he came in there around early in the afternoon and he was there until dark.

Q. Now, are you sure that this was a purely Communist convention? A. Definitely.

Q. Could anybody but a member of the Communist Party [863] have attended this convention?

A. Oh, no.

Q. Under any circumstances? A. No.

Q. Who else was present at this convention besides Sam Darcy and the Alien here?

A. A member of the Comintern was there.

Q. A member of the Comintern. Do you know his name? A. No, I don't.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. Do you know what name he used at this convention? A. No.

Q. Where did he come from?

A. I don't know.

Q. You say he was a member of the Comintern. How do you know that?

A. I was introduced to him.

Q. By whom? A. By Mr. Hanoff.

Q. Mr. Hanoff was also there? A. Yes.

Q. And did this Russian member of the Comintern make a speech?

A. I don't know whether he was a Russian or not.

Q. I thought you said he was. Excuse me.

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did he talk? [864] A. No.

Q. Who else was present at this convention, if you can recall?

A. A lot of people were there but I don't know their names.

Q. Was George Wolfe there?

A. I think he was there.

Q. Was Jeff Goodman there? A. Yes.

Q. That is the same Jeff Goodman that you have previously testified about? A. Yes, sir.

The Reporter: Spell it, please.

Mr. Del Guercio: J-e-f-f G-o-o-d-m-a-n.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Was Walter Lambert there?

A. I don't remember.

(Testimony of Sam Dinier.)

Q. Where was this representative of the Comintern sitting in this convention?

A. He was sitting in the background near a window.

Q. In the back near a window? A. Yes.

Q. Why did he choose that particular place to sit, if you know? A. I do know. [865]

Q. Why?

A. The rumor was circulating around that the American Legion was going to break up the convention and he was supposed to be the first one to get out in case of a thing like that happening.

Q. And that is why he was sitting near the window? A. Yes.

Q. You say you were connected with the Needle Trades Workers Union? A. I was.

Q. Did you hold any office?

A. I was President of this Union.

Q. President of that. Where did you have your offices at that time? A. 830 Market Street.

Q. 830 Market Street? A. Yes.

Q. And during what year did you have your office there? A. One year.

Q. What year was that?

A. That was, I think, in 1933.

Q. Are you familiar with the mimeographed sheet, the Waterfront Worker?

A. I know the name.

Q. Well, did the Waterfront Worker use the offices you [866] had as its mailing address during that period of time you occupied it?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. Yes.

Q. And who asked—did you give them permission to use the office? A. I didn't.

Q. Who gave them permission?

A. The Secretary of the Union.

Q. The Secretary of the Union. Who was the Secretary of the Union at that time?

A. Fred Firestone.

Q. Fred Firestone? A. Yes.

Q. Was he a member of the Communist Party?

A. He was.

Q. A functionary? A. He was.

Q. Did he hold any other office than Secretary of your Union? A. In the Union?

Q. No; otherwise in the Communist Party or anywhere else?

A. Yes. He was at that time Waterfront Organizer!

Q. Waterfront organizer? A. Yes.

Q. For the Communist Party? [867]

A. He was.

Q. I show you a copy of the Waterfront Worker, dated San Francisco, February 1933, on page 3 of which appears this:

"Waterfront Worker

"This paper is issued by a group of longshoremen for longshoremen for the Waterfront Worker, (Room 421) 830 Market St., San Francisco, Calif."

Is that the offices you were occupying as President of the Needle Trades Workers Union at that time?

A. Yes.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. Do you recognize this particular issue of the Waterfront Worker?

A. I don't know about this issue; I recognize the Waterfront Worker.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, if your Honor please, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: Received without objection.

Mr. Del Guercio: I ask that a photostat thereof be substituted for the original.

Presiding Inspector: It may be done.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 203.)

GOVERNMENT'S EXHIBIT No. 203

[Cut] Waterfront Worker Price 1c

Vol 1 No. 2 San Francisco Feb. 1933

Organizing The "Front"

Tom Mooney Sends Greeting

California State Prison.
San Quentin, Calif.
December 22nd, 1932.

"Waterfront Worker"
San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Fellow Workers:

I was exceedingly interested in the bulletin recently sent in care of my Defence Committee. I think the "Waterfront Worker" can become a most effective organizational force on the waterfront and I hope that efforts will be made to see that it is regularly distributed.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

The importance of organizing the longshoremen and waterfront workers along militant lines is only too self-evident. At this time especially is this so. The water front workers have always responded to militant leadership and if the longshoremen; who are taking the iniative, stick to the task of interesting the workers belonging to the marine industry in their day to day problems, victory is bound to ensue. My best wishes for a strong, militant and fighting Industrial Union.

Comradely yours,

Unemployment Relief

This problem of unemployment amongst longshoremen is one that demands some action, especially since so few men are working in regular gangs and since so many old timers are now put on the spot by the shipowners. It is high time that we raised certain demands before the county, state and federal government, such as the following;

Unemployed Cash Relief of a Minimum of $10 A Week. (the money to come from a tax on the profits of the shipowners and from the Construction Loan Fund to the shipowners passed by the Jones-White Act.)

The Next Steps

The "Frisco" waterfront is ripe for organization. Things are beginning to stir. The interest in the first issue of the "Waterfront Worker" is proof of this. Many longshoremen after reading it are asking a number of questions. What is this new outfit? What is behind it? What does it intend to fight for, and how? Of these questions asked, this issue will answer them in part, but it will take future issues of this paper, and the future growth of the organization started to answer these questions in full.

In the first place, the longshoremen involved in this developing movement mean to carry on a fight against the speed-up methods of the shipowners as one. We are organizing to fight for these demands which concern us and all longshoremen:

1. For a deep cut in the size of the load; this to be included in the new working rules.
2. For more men in a gang.
3. For a real fight against further wage-cuts.

What sort of organization have we in mind that will be effective in a fight for these demands?

To begin with sucking our thumbs will get us nowhere. The main push must come from ourselves, and especially those on the job. Leaving it to a few officials as in the past will not do. This means we must begin with the organization of groups amongst the gangs on the docks. These groups can expose greviances on their particular dock, recruit and carry on organizational work amongst the rest of the men in the gangs, and in time act as the leadership in action taken on some particular dock against a greviance.

(Testimony of Sam Di...)

These groups work on the quiet till they are strong enough. Representatives from the groups meet those from other groups to exchange experiances, discuss greviances and to figure out ways and means of overcoming them, such as job action, etc. These groups will form the basis of a wide and general organization of all longshoremen. These are only the outlines. Future issues of this paper will fill in the details from actual experiances.

The "Speed-Up"

The life of a longshoreman on the water-front is not a bed of roses by a long shot. But by far the worst kick we have coming is the one that has made things on the "Front" unbearable and that should more than anything else spur us to action, is the terrific speed-up. The shipowners always hungry for profits, have been quick to take advantage of the unorganized state of the longshoreman. They have piled work on him, the sky being the limit.

What does the speed-up mean? First, it means complete exaustion. A man putting in a full days work on one of the speed-up docks (and there are few exceptions) is only fit for bed when he gets home. If he is lucky enough to be on one of the docks that gets steadier work and sometimes a little overtime, the exaustion is complete. To pep himself up for some more of that he has to take a few more drinks. And after a few, he takes a few more, with the result that the bootlegger gets most of his pay.

(Testimony of Sam Dinn.)

The speed-up brings in its train other results. The feaverish running around and exaustion results in increased accidents. Working at such a fast pace and the bigger and bigger loads means that a ship will take so much less time to load or discharge and more than doubles the unemployment now on the waterfront. This not only means less work but also amounts to a wage-cut and a huge one at that. A man puts out about three times as much work for 75c an hour as he formerly put out for $1 an hour. This means in an indirect way he is really working for 30c an hour. The shipowners know that when the lower costs of loading and discharging show on their ledgers in double profits.

The shipowners also us a free hand in getting rid of the older men who may not be able to stand the gaff as well as the younger men. This has resulted in hundreds of "old timers" who have built up the treasuries of the shipowners, now being forced to walk up and down the waterfront without even a chance to make even their bread.

There is hardly a wrinkle in the development of the speed up that the shipowners have overlooked. They have introduced the fast jitney. The double board is the rule. The size of the gang has been cut. The loads have been increased and are still increasing. Finally the shipowners in their wisdom have carefully picked bosses that know how to speed-up. And how well the shipowners have found what they wanted.

The increase of the size of the loads is the main method in the speed-up. Four bales of cotton make a load in place of two or three. A ton and a half of lead makes a load instead of the former 1800 pounds. Twenty bags of rice now make a load instead of twelve or fifteen. Over thirty bags of coffee is the rule, and instead of a couple of oil drums in a sling, as many as eight now make a load.

Swayne and Hoyte is a good example. On sugar there is no limit as long as backs can still stand it. Forty cases of canned goods is common in place of the previous eighteen. The loads are climbing higher and higher. "Pile them up boys," say the shipowners. "Pile them up higher and higher, one tier, two tiers, three tiers, and faster boys, faster. The hook is hanging. Pile 'em up boys; the B. B. says it's O. K."

The shipowners give loving attention to the speed-up bosses. They have gone to the trouble of importing them from other ports. And why shouldn't they when such geniuses as big Knute Larsen can conceive such a bright idea as using boards for practically everything; when such a speed-up genius as "Lord" Nelson is still at large; when the speed-up geniuses on the American-Hawaiian can so easily think of using two scows on a bridle as they did the other day. Even the brains of these bosses work on the speed-up basis.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

The other day "Overtime" Fred wanted to save some overtime for the American-Hawaiian. The idea suddenly flashed across his mind that two loads of drums could be hooked on the same gear. So he did this and the American-Hawaiian is in a few dollars and the longshoremen eat beans and don't go to the movies.

Well, it's all true. But what can be done about it? Some suggest that we slow down. That's O. K. but that requires a high degree of organization. It requires co-operation between parts of a gang and amongst gangs on a dock; and that is not possible where there is no organization amongst men and everyone is accustomed to work as an individual. If that it done by individuals it does not go very far. Another man will just take his place. The only solution is new working rules and the organization to enforce them: smaller loads, larger gangs, no speed-up bosses. This is the solution. And with the help of the rest of the longshoremen organization will be built on the "Frisco" waterfront and the solution worked out.

Speed-Up Works Both Ways

Bad stowage and bum dunnage resulted in "Mustache Charley" and "Anarchist Brown" of the Dollar Line being laid off for a while because two bails of silk were spoiled by oil.

WATERFRONT WORKER

This paper is issued by a group of longshoremen for longshoremen. Write for the Waterfront Worker, (Room 421) 830 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

News-Getters Wanted

This paper can become our best organizer. With your help we intend to improve it. It can become a real factor on the "Frisco" waterfront. It can be used not only as a medium for exposing the many greviances, also for the clarification of the many problems we are faced with, but also for the building of organization to better our conditions. Groups can soon arise who will take the lead in organizing a regular longshore army to put an end to the shame and curse of the "Frisco" waterfornt. This is a common task. Write for the "Waterfront Worker" of the situation as you see it. We want to cover all questions. Become a regular correspondent—a newsgetter from the "Front" and from the docks. Moratoriums for the Shipowners'

Again the shipowners are to petition the government to "give greater latitude" in their dealings with delinquent shipowners who borrowed from the Constructn Fund of the U. S. S. B.. T. V. O'Connor, Chairman of the Board made the statement that "just now the U. S. B. is observing a 'policy of forbearance' in respect to interest payments and curtailment of outstanding loans"

$122,744,00 has been loaned for 48 ships, launched from Jan.1930 to Oct. 1932 (33 months). All but 10 vessels received ten year mail contract subsidies amounting to $300,000,000.

The shipowners certainly know how to concerve their profits.

Matson Line Profits

Despite the far reaching effects of the crisis the Matson Navigation Co. still continues to pay dividends and no wonderwhen $67,000 for each outward voyage is the reported government mail subsidy.

Last year a $6 dividends per share was paid as compared to $4 per share the year previous. The Matson Nav. Co. besides owning the Matson Terminals,astevedoring organization, the LASSCO, the Oceanic SS Co and half interest in the Oceanic & Orental Nav Co (American-Hawaiian owns the other half), and share in the inter-Island Steam Nav. Co., also owns the controlling interest in the Territorial Hotel Co. (Royal Hawaiian, Moana, Seaside Hotels).

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

$27,800,000 is its present authorized capital as compared with the $5,000,000 in 1921. They paid stock dividends of as high as 150% after the war.

Injuries to Longshoremen

Accidents, especially in these days of speed-up, are not uncommon,despite all of the bosses' safety. first schemes. Not only is a Longshoreman,when employed,constantly risking life and limb, but in cases where he does not get busted up,and it doesn't end fatally, there is still the fight for compensation facing him. He still has the struggle to get an injury rating from the so-called "Impartail" Referees of of the Compensation Commission of the Department of Labor. Hundreds of permanently injured longshoremen have found themselves after the "impartial" hearing of their case, suddenly cut off from further compensation,and too incapicated to carry on their own vocation. The only thing left is starvation. Sometimes they have found themselves blacklisted also through bucking the company doctors.

This is how it usually works.Under the clauses of the Act a longshoreman can get his own doctor, but he has also to be examined by the shipowners company doctor. Very seldom will one doctor dispute the diagnosis of another doctor who has handled the case before him. The longshoreman learns what that means when the company doctor gets together with the other doctor for a decision.

Many of the doctors whom the longshoremens lawyer may have referred him to are, like the lawyers, closely connected with the shipowners and working things both ways. Money talks, and usually when there is a conference of three doctors the one who represents the shipowners has all the say. Under these circumstances is it any wonder that so many longshoremen are turned down for a permanent injury rating thru lack of evidence,etc.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

While there is no one to fight for the longshoremen these things will continue. The best thing is to bear in mind the old maxim, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure".

Organize to fight against the speed-up and to enforce real union working rules. This is the best way to prevent accidents.

Our Main Aims

We are out to build an organization, THAT can set a limit of so much on aboard for all docks. All to be fined who don't comply.

THAT can not only prevent furhter wagecuts, but can also win back the old scale of wages.

THAT can as an organized body force the shipowners and their county, state and federal legislative bodies to guarantee all unemployed or semi-unemployed longshormen Unemployed Cash Relief of a minimum of $10 a week.

Panic in the "Blue Canyon"

The "Waterfront Worker", we learn, is not only in popular demand on the "Front" but has been asked for in other quarters. It must have been funny when Stein went up to the mailing address we gave and asked the guy there for six copies of this bulletin. As it happened the guy there had not been informed about the "Waterfront Worker" so he did not know what Stein was talking about. Stein introduced himself as a "union" official; said he was interested in the same thing as we are (he didn't mention anything about our proposal for a moratorium on dues, though).

When he failed to get the "Waterfront Worker" he gave a longshoreman 50¢ to try and get six copies.

What we are curious about is why Stein wanted six copies. D'y' think it's because he likes to see his name in print? Or May be he wants to give one or two copies to some of his friends; say "Scabby Peterson" of the Fink Hall or the "Law and Order" gang of the Chamber of Commerce. What do you think?

Same B. B. Delegates Hold Office

Well the elections are over—we mean of the "Blue Book"—and we don't want to come out with the wise guy stuff "I told you so", but it is no news to us that the same B.B. delegates are holding down their "pie card" jobs.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Government's Exhibit No. 203—(Continued)

On the face of it, it was nice and democratic; pretty speeches and all that. They even used the old gag about the recent wage-cut. When times get better and prosperity shows up around the corner, etc. they would see that we got the old scale. O, yeh?

"Red" the Radical

It is reported that quite an argument has ensued around our old friend "Red" of the B.B. Some say he is as radical as we are, or at least he can shoot the radical phrases; some say not.

Well the argument is easily settled. We propose to do the same thing as the European debtor nations are doing—declare a moratorium, only this time of course on the matter of dues to the B.B. If "Red" supports us on this in preference to his dues collecting job at fifty-five bucks a week, then he will be as radical as we are.

Beware of the guy that talks radical and acts the other way.

Does "Scabby" Peterson Hold the Bag?

On the matter of the $30,000 of the longshoremen's money in the "Blue Book" treasury. We have been informed that it was Stein himself who made the statement to a longshoreman who was forced to join up in the B.B. He is reported to have said that the treasury is not kept in the name of the B.B. so that no one could bring suit against them. Then the question arises, in who's name is the money held? This we heard was none other than our old friend "Scabby" Peterson of the Fink Hall.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Bust the Dues Collecting Rackett

"The word is out for you" is the warning we have often received when the B.B. is on our trail for back dues to this shipowners company union. Plenty of us have figured out how to evade this racket. Some of us have gotten by for a considerable period only to be either pulled off the job or forced to pay up. It is reported that some longshoreman on the Matson dock was recently cought after getting by for several years.

This rackett of the B.B. will continue as long as we remain unerganized. Individual action will get us no where. We think it is about time that we started a real organized campaign along the whole waterfront and to deckare a moratorium on dues and agitate for the longshoremens money in the B.B. trasury being utalized for the relief of unemployed members.

More Lives Sacrificed to Profit

Shipowners Holler

The Shipyard Maritime Association has strongly objected to the economy proposal to place the administration of the Longshoremen and Harborworkers Compensation Act in the hands of the Department of Labor and thereby abolish the Employers Compensation Commission.

The shipowners stated that "it was most unreasonable and unwise to intrust the interests of the maratime employers to a department which could not be expected to consider same from other than a partisan standpoint, and with a prejudice which would work grave injury to such maritime employers."

We fail to see why the shipowners are getting so hot and bothered about the change from their Department of Commerce to their Department of Labor. If the long shoremen had a say in the matter it would be different.

Lessons of the—— By M. S.—

1919 Longshore Strike

How the "Blue Book" shipowners company union was introduced on the "Frisco" water front when the "Red Book" unions broke up.

The long drawn out longshoremens strike of 1919 resulted in the final break-up of the Riggers & Stevedores' Union (Red Book) and the coming into existence of the shipowners' "Blue Book" company union (Longshoremen's Association of San Francisco).

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Much can be learned that longshoremen can use to advantage at the present period.

The strike was characterized by the militant stand of the rank and file longshoremen against the vicious attacks of the shipowners, who were supported by the Chamber of Commerce, the city officials including Mayor Rolph, and by the treachery of the officials of the A. F. of L.

Before the strike, which lasted from the middle of September to the end of December, the shipowners had started a drive to increase loads and cut the size of the gangs. The longshoremen answered with the strike, which began with a walk-out of a couple of hundred men but soon developed into a complete tie-up of the port. The longshoremens demands called for a load limit of 1200 pounds, 16 men to a gang, and travelling time.

Early in the strike a conference of both sides was called by Rolph who was then mayor; but it ended without any success. After it, Rolph called on the shipowners to organize themselves more strongly. With this support of the city administration, the shipowners worked skillfully and persistenely with the aim of completely breaking the "Red Book" union. What were the methods used?

In the first few days of the strike, when the shipowners succeeded in bringing in about 150 scabs, the mistake was made of taking a defensive instead of an offensive attidude; a strong picket line should have been put on. Plenty of other weaknesses were shown on the part of the leadership which were utalized to full advantage by the shipowners.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Through their press the shipowners made the claim that most of the men were against the strike, which they said was forced by a "radical minority" of the union calling for a rising vote instead of a secret ballot. This whine in the public press had for its purpose the isolation of the militant leadership and shows that the shipowners were also working thru their agents in the union. They followed this up with a refusal to meet in conference with the rank and file strike committee. On Oct. 14 when the fatal mistake was made of permitting the strike being taken out of the hands of the rank and file committee, the shipowners made even more arrogant demands that negociations be taken out of the hands of the officials and put into the hands of "appointed" men on the bigger docks, evidently having certain "safe" ones in mind. Compliance with these maneuvers added to the strength of the shipowners and gave them more opportunity to work within the union.

Another factor in the final betrayal was the role played by the A.F. of L. officals. The Central Labor Council stabbed the longshoremen in the back by proposing that the shipowners demand for a secret ballot be granted, and by urging for a compromise without a fight. Casey of the teamsters by all kinds of subterfuge prevented his members from striking in sympathy. The same can be said of the officials of the I.S.U.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Now for the final page in the story of the strike, and the dirtiest of them all:

The shipowners had been consistantly working to break the union from within. On Oct. 29th, the Chamber of Commerce supported the shipowners by sending out an appeal for funds "to be used in such ways at it deems wise and effective in meeting the present intollerable situation on the waterfront". On Dec. 8th they had collected a strike-breaking fund of $100,000. On Dec 9 the press carried the following:

"The Longshoremen's Association of San Francisco (B.B.) was organized last night at a meeting called at Eagle Hall by stove dore foremen. The Waterfront Employers union, it was stated, has offered to enter into a five year agreement with the Associaition. It was also stated that the employers had to provide headquarters for the new organization. The meeting last night was held under police protection, 30 plain clothesmen being present."

On Dec. 11th, Bryan and Stein stated that the "Blue Book" would work on a closed shop basis. In other words the "Red Book" men must join it to work.

On Dec. 23rd, the shipowners stated that they would not employ any "Red Book" men unless they joined the "B.B."

Nothing more need be said. The longshor men know the rest and can draw their own conclusions and learn plenty.

What's Happening in Other Ports

SAN PEDRO:—"The problem of further wage-cuts will come up with a bang next month" is how the local press expresses the situation in this port. A cut has already gone into effect immediately following the new scale set by San Francisco.

The new scale paid is as follows: Hold men 75c and $1.15 overtime; on the dock 65c and $1 overtime; car gangs 55c with the same for overtime. The shipowners cunningly apply the rule of "divide and conquer" by giving the sop of 85c and $1.20 overtime for hatchtenders and winch drivers with the purpose in mind of speeding up the lower ratings.

TACOMA:—The wage-cut of 10c that was put over in San Francisco and back East prior to that, has gone into effect in all N.W. ports. The only thing that prevented the longshoremen from striking was lack of leadership. The I.L.A. officials didn't begin to move until a few days before the cut went into effect.

Only 29 members of the "New Town" local attended the first meeting called. The situation was allowed to drag till after Jan. 1st when the cut became effective. A few men proposed to stay at home and refuse to accept the cut. There is some talk of the need of a new union since the I.L.A. officials refused to act.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

EVERETT:—The I.L.A. (67 members) at its Dec. 17th meeting rejected proposals to accept a cut and called for a delegates meeting from all locals in the N.W. No action was taken.

SEATTLE:—On Dec. 15th, the "Fink Hall" committee met (employers and employees). The 10c cut was announced which the longshoremen refused to accept. On Dec. 23rd another meeting was held and again the wage-cut proposal was rejected. The executive committee overuled them.

The sentiment was strong against the cut but as in Tacoma the I.L.A. district leadership allowed things to drift.

Bjorklund, district organizer of the I.L.A. came to Seattle and stated that an organizational drive would be started soon. Little is expected to come of it.

The maneuver of the shipowners in offering free rent in the Fink Hall to the I.L.A. is believed to be the first step in establishing something similar to the "Blue Book" in "Frisco." Since the upkeep of the Fink Hall costs the shipowners about $20,000 a year they are looking favorably to all longshoremen joining the I.L.A. provided they control it through Bjorklund and Co. just as they do back East through Ryan, the International President.

PORTLAND: — The I.L.A. here has closed up. About 25 old timers kept the hall open but due to the sabotage Bjorklund they were finally forced to give up.

Havana Dockers Prepare for Struggle

Japanese Seamen Win Strike

A report from Tokio dated Nov. 5th, states that steamers on the Inland Sea service have been tied up by striking crews. The essential parts of the engines were removed and prevented these ships being worked by scabs. The later reports state that the seamen have won their demands. (N.Z. Seamens Journal)

French Dockers Strike Against Cut

On Dec. 3rd, 4,000 longshoremen in the port of Le Havre struck against a cut in wages.

On Dec. 10th the longshoremen in Dunkirk came out in sympathy. The crews of the American ships Liberty and Pipstone County refused to work cargo although 75 francs a day was offered them. The crew of the Dutch ship Cryusen battled the scabs who came aboard to work cargo.

Self Help

Seattle:—Unemployed workers here smashed the plate glass windows of a clothing store on the "Skid Roads" early Christmas morning, helping themselves to underwear, shoes and other necessities.

A "Bright" Idea

We don't know whether it was "Overtime Fred" or "Berkely Bill" who conceived the "bright" idea of hitching two scows to an automobile bridle. Anyway the bosses went around smiling when they saw how it worked. However the "idea" is not yet perfect but in time they hope to have it so that there will be only one man to a scow.

The nickels and cents that we collected on the Dec. issue of the "Waterfront Worker" has helped to pay for half of the present issue; the rest has been donated. Again, thanks.

"Frisco" Longshoreman For Organization

Editor, The Waterfront Worker: To say it is time something was done about conditions on the waterfront is to say the least.I was sure glad to get a copy of your bulletin,and to see that at last there is a move towards a change.It certainly can be seen that if the present policy of big loads and lots of 'em coupled with the new cut in wages,is continued,the old saying of a stevedore needing nothing but a"strong Back and a weak mind"wont be a joke,but a fact.

I hope that in your next issue there will be more details as to how you intend to go about organizing men on the front,and as to how I and others that I know feel the same way,can help. For the present you may depend on me to be a loyalreader and booster of this paper.

like to know of th e conditions here We are already working under the new wage-cut agreement with the Fink Hall which they put over by promising more days of work per week.In the last six months more speed up and mechanical changes have been introduced. For instance on Pier 53 the shipowners went to work and extended the loading capacity of the trailers.They used to have 4,now they have 2.on pulp they added two more bales,making eight bales to a load.They figure on piling them up some more when the new system is working more smoothly. In the hold the gang is cut down from 6 men to 4——and they have to handle the 2 more bales per load.On the dock about 4 car gang men handle pulp with a locomotive crane. There is no end to the speed-upmethods. Those that I showed the Waterf ront Worker to were pl eased to see that something has been started in "Frisco".Will get some of the boys together here.

Letters From Longshoremens Wives

In the next issue we wpect to hear what some of the longshoremens wives have to say. Longshoremen are not the only ones who suffer from wage-cuts, and unemployment. . Even speed-up effects the longshoremens wife as it results in the husbands not only comming home played out after the shipowners have sweated every available ounce of energy out of him, but irritable through overwork they often seek recreation in a few drinks that may cause endless quarrels in the family. Lets hear from the longshoremens wives.

For or Against

Our slams at certain gang bosses may seem that we are against all gang bosses in general. This is not the case. We are against those bosses who play the game of the shipowners and against the interests of the longshoremen.

Fouled

We have not been able to confirm this, but there might be something to the story. It is reported that a certain particularly vicious gang boss got fouled in the cargo recently. How to get him out was the problem. One of his gang suggested putting a rope sling around his neck and pulling him loose with the gear. Anyway, finally someone went down and pried him clear with a pick. Pity for the gang boss's wife and kids, this longshoreman said, was the only reason he did not plant the pick into the soft part of his Boss's anatomy.

An "Admiral" On the Bum

Times must be tough,all right."Admiral" Nelson (the same we referred to last month) is to be seen now playing the horses. He is still interested in speed and is trying to pick a "fast one". Now that he has no poker game to cut he has to fall back on the ponies. So have the mighty fallen!

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Another Speed-up King

Big Knute, we are informed was the guy who conceived the bright idea—plenty of men have cursed him for it since. We mean about the matter of using boards for all kinds of things. Through this Swayne and Hoyt now sling 8 oil drums, while even on the hungry California docks, up till recently 3 drums were a load. This bird was also famous for getting gangs to report to the bootlegger for orders. Soon we hope to have a say about things also.

Swiping Gear

One of our readers has been inquiring from us as to whether Mack of the Steel dock still swipes new rope slings and sneaks out of sight so that he can splice them into scows. We are not able to give the required information. Maybe someone else can, but it is not unusual for some gang bosses to steal for their masters. "Overtime Fred" is an example. This is what the system breeds.

Dollar by Name and Dollar by Nature

"When we make a deal, and if we make one, it will be a good deal for the Dollar Steamship Lines. Otherwise the deal doesn't go." So R. Stanley Dollar, president of the Dollar Steamship Lines was quoted as saying at a Christmas dinner for employees of the company aboard the liner President Hoover at San Francisco. (Pacific Shipper).

Speaking of "deals", we got a dirty one recently when the 10c wage-cut was put over. It was a "good deal" for our friend Dollar all right. When we are strong enough we intend to make a deal with Dollar, and one that will "go". We know a few things about "good deals" and how to organize to put them over ourselves.

(Testimony of Sam Direy)

Back to "Prosperity"

According to a bunch of university professers who recently held a congress back East, if we were to return to the 1929 "prosperity" period, 50% of the Unemployed would still be jobless as a result of the introduction of new machinry and methods of speed-up. We agree, only we figure they are too conservative in the estimate—that an even greater percentage of workers would be disemployed.

The conclusions to be drawn are first we are entitled to live and since the shipowners can get support from the government, why can't the unemployed get relief? Yes, we support the demand for UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE from the state.

Working Rules in Other Ports

From Portugal, we learn that longshoremen have working rules there and that a limit set for one man to handle is 60 pounds. All over this means doubling up.

From other parts of the world we have as yet little information on working conditions. One fact is known and that is the shipowners themselves boast of "Frisco" as the greatest speed-up port in theworld. We figure on changing this in time. Way down in Australia the wheat "lumpers" on the decks forced a change through organizing, from the 5 bushel bags to three bushell bags. In certain ports down there they also have a 15 minutes rest period for a morning and afternoon "Smoke". We can enforce working rules when we also get organized strong enough.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Do you know who the editors of the Waterfront Worker were at that time? [868]

A. I don't.

Q. Who appeared at your office as representatives of this Waterfront Worker?

A. Well, I really can't say who did. I was working all day. I can't say who did.

Q. You don't know who—you can't recollect at this time who represented it? A. No.

Q. Do you know Harry Jackson? A. I do.

Q. Who is he? A. Who he is?

Q. Yes. A. Harry Jackson.

Q. Do you know him by any other name than "Harry Jackson"?

A. He has another name, I think—Glickshone.

The Reporter: Spell it, please.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

The Witness: I don't know how.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Is it G-l-i-c-k-s-h-o-n-e?

A. I suppose so.

Q. That is as near as you can figure it out?

A. Yes.

Presiding Inspector: He said "Yes." [869]

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Did you know Harry Jackson to be a member of the Communist Party at that time?

A. I do.

Q. What was his position in the Communist Party?

A. Well, I can't tell what his position was at that time.

Q. Well, can you state whether or not you knew Harry Jackson to be a member of any union?

A. I think he was a member of the Waterfront Workers Industrial Union.

Q. Waterfront Workers Industrial Union?

A. Union. I don't know if it is on Market Street near——

Q. (Interposing) Do you mean the Marine Workers Industrial Union?

A. The Marine Workers Industrial Union, that is right.

Q. He was what for that union?

A. He was what?

Q. What was his position?

A. He was supposed to be organizer.

(Testimony of Sam Usher.)

Q. Organizer. But was he a worker? Do you know whether he worked for a living?

A. How could he live if he don't work.

Q. I don't know. Was he a longshoreman?

A. I think he was a sailor, wasn't he? Supposed to be.

Q. Did Harry Jackson ever come to see you at your offices? [870] A. He did.

Q. At 830 Market Street?

A. He used to come to visit us at 77 Fourth Street; we had an office at that time at 77 Fourth Street.

Q. 77 Fourth Street? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you have your offices there?

A. During '29 and '30.

Q. '29 and '30? A. Yes; '31, I guess, too.

Q. That was prior to the 1934 strike?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will show you a copy of the Waterfront Worker for June 1933, volume 1, No. 6, and on page 3 thereof appears this:

"Waterfront Worker, 830 Market Street, Room 421, San Francisco, California."

Is that the address of your offices at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recognize this issue of the Waterfront Worker?

A. (Examining document) I said I don't recognize the issue exactly, but I recognize the Waterfront Worker.

Q. You have seen these before?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have seen them in your offices at that time? [871] A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, if your Honor please.

Mr. Gladstein: May we see it before you offer it, please?

(The document referred to was passed to counsel.)

Presiding Inspector: Received without objection.

Action Against Short-Timing on 26
The New Deal on 40

(from a correspondent)

The superintendent of the McCormick Steamship Company at Pier # 40, Stratmeyer —by name, has issued strict orders forbidding longshoremen inside the dock before working hours, therefore, denying them shelter frome the elements of the weather and the use of the lavatories. His reason for s o doing are that the men gamble in their spare time, notwithstanding that h e—Stratmeyer, and other white collared gentry are continually gambling and smoking inside the dock. Longshorem men, this lackey is a high salaried employee receiving more in a month then any of you workers do in a year and you are the ones who pay him out o f the profits that you pile up for the McCormick Steamship Company. He is also having the hatch bosses continualy shouting at the men "to hurry-up as there are plenty of good men out side the gate," with plenty of emphasis on the "goos men".

Longshoremen, o f the McCormick Company and all other steamship companies, do you not think it time to arouse yourselves from your lethargy and put an end to these miserable conditions by organization?

Teamsters Gain Victory

The militant stand taken by t h e teamsters against a wagecut has forced the draymen to back out and abandon the idea. Moreover the Draymen were forced to sign a two year agreement during which time no change in wages or working conditions is to be attempted.

When the cut of fifty cents a day was first introduced t h e men voted almost unanimously against it (9 4 4 against, 6 for) and stuck to it.

The stubborn resistence of the rank and file o f the teamsters and their threat of strike action, showed the Draymen t h a t they were tackling a tougher job then they expected.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Organization made this victory possible. If the teamsters can stand up and fight, why in the hell can't we.

—o—

On May 11th, the 3 steady gangs on Pier 26 were cheated out of half an hour. The trick was done in the following manner: The gangs were working on the Texan. They knocked off at 5 and took the 5:40 to Oakland, arriving there at 6:20. Instead of immediately turning to they were made to wait to 6:30. As could easily be seen, the idea was to save half an hour on the men and when the gangs got their pay they found that was just exactly what had been done.

A number of the men decided that this short-timing could not be allowed to pass without a fight. They got together and drew up a letter to Stein explaining the case and demanding action on it by the B.B. The letter pointed out that this act was a violation of the working rules, that it was up to the B.B. officials to see that they were carried out, and that if the B.B. officials were really looking out for the interests of the men, as they claim, they would immediately take steps to get that half hour back for the men.

Copies of this letter were also posted up inside Pier 26. The "Waterfront" learns that so far the

B.B. has done nothing. We, as well as the men on Pier 26, are convinced that Stein & Co. have no intention of doing anything.

This practical example shows in plain colors the nature of the B.B.racket.Such violation s of the working rules,that are still in effect at the present time, occur every day. We must follow up this example of gross violation of our working rules and put pressure on the B.B. officials to enforce them or get off the waterfront and make room for an organization that will fight for our rights.

U.S.Congress Against War to Meet

With all the talk of peace, war preparations on the Pacific and in the rest of the world continue at a madder pace than ever. We know that while t h i s peace talk is going on we, ourselves, are daily handling munitions and other war material. T h e following appeal received by us should arouse the active interest of all the workers on the waterfront. This appeal is issued by Sherwood Anderson, Theodore Dreiser, Upton Sinclair, leading literary figures, in the name of the American Committee for Struggle against War, 104 Fifth Ave.New York City, N.Y. This appeal calls on all organizations and individuals opposed to war to participate in a United States

Congress Against War in New York City, on Sept. 2,3,4, It reads in part as follows:

"War, never far distant in this mad dog-eat-day society of ours, is terrifyingly close these days. In China the slaughter of men, women and children, combatants and non-combatants continues from day to day. In South America undeclared war continues with unabated intensity. In Europe, the counter-revolution in Germany has produced two hostile alliances both of which are busy arming for another warld war. Even in this country people are talking of war as a means of restoring prosperty—without realizing that war under present conditions would mean the suicide of our whole civilization.

We have been depending on statesmen and diplomats to preserve the peace of the world. We can do so no-longer. The time has come when we must act ourselves—or face our defeat.

"All individuals and organizations must cooperate in building union against the war forces and war actions facing us today. Let all the opponents of war come together against this common horror; the interst of all demand that this union against war be formed.

Anyone wishing the full call can get it at the "Waterfront Worker" address. A Conference will be held in San Francisco on July 9. For information write, to Committee for Struggle Against War, Room 201, 1179 Market St. San Francisco, Calif.

2nd National Convention of the M.W.I.U.
New York
July 15

The M.W.I.U. Convention

In our last issue we published a letter from the MARINE WORKERS INDUSTRIAL UNION inviting the longshoremen of this port to elect a delegate to the National Convention of the M. W. I. U. to be held in New York City, July 15th. Since that time, we have received the official call for the Convention which reads in part:

"Thousands of longshoremen in Boston, the coastwise men in New York and the New Orleans dockers have rebelled, despite the leaders of the I. L. A., have taken organized action against the continuous attacks of the shipowners. The strike on the point Gorda, Munmistic, Belgenland, Walter D. Munsen, and West Kebar are a few of the actions of the seamen against wage cuts, two watches and rotten conditions.

"To work out a fighting program of action, to unite all our forces and to prepare for such action as will stop the wage cuts, and win better conditions the MARINE WORKERS INDUSTRIAL UNION is calling for convening of its Second National Convention, in New York City on July 16, 17, and 18."

Waterfront Worker To send Delegate

This Convention Call sounds good to us. We believe it is possible to work out a common program of action for all longshoremen. We believe that a thorough discussion of our problems with the stevedores, seamen, tow-boatmen, etc. from many other ports, that will be at the Convention, might help us considerably. And finally, we believe that any organization in this port, to be successful, must be connected up with the organized longshore men in other ports.

For these reasons the groups on the various docks that publish this paper, have decided to send a delegate to this Convention. It will mean a real sacrifice in time and money but we think it will prove well worth it. Any stevedore wishing to help us raise the money to send our delegate is invoted to send a contribution, no matter how small, in care of the Waterfront Worker.

THE MAIL BAG

Tied to the Gate

Editor,

Waterfront Worker

George Haskell, Pier #32, is becoming very liberal, with the time of the stevedore. Tuesday, May 23rd, he kept a number of men waiting all day to be picked to work the Maunawili. At 8 o'clock in the morning he told the stevedores to come back at 1 p. m. to wait. At 1 p. m. he told the men to wait. At 1:30 p. m. a few men were picked to work the Yale. The other men had to wait until 5 p. m. to be picked to load the Maunawili, and were ordered to report at 7:30 p. m.

George Haskell makes a practice of making men wait around to be picked for work when he could very easily tell them to report at a certain hour and not have to wait around the dock gate.

One Thursday, he checked a number of stevedores out who were working the Yale at 3:30 p. m. and made them wait to 5 p. m. to be picked. Men who are made to wait have to buy their meals when they could very easily save this money by being told to report at a stipulated time. The bosses take every advantage at this time because so many men are unemployed.

The Big Shot

Mr. Editor

Waterfront Worker

Harry Jenson,one of the big shots of the waterfront took a gang over to 14th Street to work and in 3½ hours came back to #48 on this side to finish the ship. He told his gang that if they wanted to work that they would not get any travelling time so Mr. Stein was told about it and he wanted to know what they wanted him to do about it so the big shot Jenson, layed off the gang. He is a big help to the men that work for him. He would let you die before he would get a watercan and he raises hell for waking him up.

A Longshoremen

—o—

Gaffers and Walkers

Comrade Editor

A while back at the Richmond Ford Plant,a hatch gaffer was running about and shouting when the Ford plant super asked a longshoreman who that feller is, and on being told he was the boss of the gang, immediately went up to him and told him he did not want so much noise around there and he closed like a clam at low tide.

In another hatch the gaffer had already sent in a few loads of automobile parts, and the same super on seeing the parts in the hold, ordered them sent ashore and to clean up the hold before loading. Thereon, the hatch boss said it was all right, meaning the hold did not need sweeping. So the super said, "Never mind, I am in charge" so out came the freight again and the gaffer would remind you of a small boy after chastisement.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Flatfoot Olson of the McCormick Steamship Company at Pier #40 was ordered to bring eight men over to a ship, but he took it upon himself to bring only six, and on starting to work was asked why he did not bring the eight men as was ordered by the Walker Oliver, and he said he thought eight men were too many. Thereupon, Oliver told him he ought to make him go in the hold and do the two men's work that he failed to bring and he was whimpering something which was not intelligible.

Sometime ago a vessel was to come to Port Costa to load grain for Europe and it was talked about for two weeks before arrival. Woodside was the stevedore and he took the names, addresses and phone numbers of the gaffers (bosses) who were running after him and took the easiest way out, telling them he would send for them if he had an opening. There were 52 in all promising to put in all the way from 1200 to 1800 sacks an hour. He, Woodside, only used two bosses who were with him for years so the efficiency experts didn't get a chance to show their skill.

ON THE SPOT
WATERFRONT WORKER
OUR "FRIEND" WICKS

Waterfront Worker

Gentlemen:

I just wanted to know whether the Blue Book Agents work on Saturdays or not. I happened to be at the Tanforan Race Track Saturday, the 22nd. (April-delayed.) I saw our "friend" Wicks down there and his face was not all smiles. I guess he did not connect with any of the fast horses because his face was a mile long.

Sincerely,

A....., a stevedore

EDITORIAL NOTE:

Why should the B. B. agents work Saturday or any other day? Haven't they a few thousand strong backs working for them? And does "A" really think that collecting brass from bootleggers and forcing men to pay into the racket, is work? We might ask—Did Al Capone . . .work? . . . . Does a second story man work?

In one sense the B. B. agents do work. For fourteen years they have been working for the shipowners. And we must admit, they have done a good job.

However, we should answer "A's" question. We do not think that all BB agents "work" Saturday.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Government's Exhibit No. 204—(Continued)

It is such a poor day to make money. We hope soon to relieve them of their work on all days. Then "A" will not see them at the track but in the souplines, unless some shipowners reward them for years of faithful service.

—o—

"Red" has been heard to say "this or that man helps to pay my wages." This raised a discussion amongst a few stevedores as to whether the money "Red" gets was wages or highway robbery. One stevedore claimed that it was highway robbery, and richly illustrated his point in the following manner:

"If a man comes into my house, sticks a gun into my ribs and says, 'Give me 75c per month or I'll take the bread out of your family's mouth,' is that man getting wages?" Red does the same only he does it on a dock and he can take your bread by getting you fired.

THE "NEW DEAL" AND THE WORKERS

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation continues to loan hundreds of millions to the railroads and banks on worthless securities. The government continues to subsidize the ship owners. This is part of the "New Deal". Roosevelt is out to bring back prosperity all right for the bosses. What about the workers? For the workers the "New Deal" has brought:

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

1. A 15% wage cut for all federal employees. Postmen, mail clerks, soldiers, sailors—what have you—all took a 15% cut.

2. A cut of close to half a billion dollars in diability allowanee s and compensation to wounded and injured veterans of the last war. And no payment of the bonus.

3. The loss of millions of dollars of workers' savings in the closed banks which failed to open.

4. A program of "cheap money"—which means your dollar buys less and less food and clothing. Since the new deal started, prices have gone up an average of 11 points but we don't notice wages going up, in spite of all the tall stories in the press. In other words, we all take an indirect wage cut.

What a deal! To us the "New Deal" looks like a dirty deal for the workers.

—o—

I.L.A. HEAD TO SEND UNION MEN TO WORK FOR A DOLLAR A DAY

Joseph P. Ryan, President of the I. L. A. (at a salary of $8,000 per year), President of the Central Labor Council of greater New York, member of the Supreme War Board, etc. has been appointed to the New York State Emergency Relief Board.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

This makes the fifth job he holds, drawing pay on all of them.

This appointment is in recognition of his services in holding down the starving longshoremen. Recently a committee of unemployed stevedores who visited the State Emergency Relief Board and asked for assistance, were told to go out to the forced labor camps. This means that appart from asking the stevedores to scab at a dollar a day on the reforestation service, Ryan, as a member of the War Board, is out to build a military trained force among the longshoremen. Thus, the relief and war plans go hand in hand.

WATERFRONT WORKER

Attempt to Revive RED BOOK fails!!

That the stevedores on the San Francisco front have lost faith in the old line craft unions was proven a couple of months ago when an attempt to revive the old Red Book, that is, the I.L.A. fell through. Attempting to cash in on the sentiment for organization created largely by the WATERFRONT WORKER, two old timers, former officials of the Red Book, tried to call a meeting with the object of starting up the old union again. Despite the sentiment for organization on the waterfront, the scheme did not work. Why?

First of all, because the longshoremen have seen the craft unions in action. In 1916 and 1919, the stevedores were in the Red Book and the sea men were organized in the I.S.U. controlled by Andy Foureseth. In both years the longshoremen struck and the backbone of both strikes was broken by the failure of the I.S.U. to take up the fight with them. In 1921 and again in 1923 the seamen got a taste of the same medicine when their strikes were broken largely through the failure of the longshoremen to stand by them. The lesson is clear. Unless the longshoremen and seamen are organized in ONE UNION with one united leadership the prospects of success in any big struggle with the ship owners are slim indeed.

THE RECORD OF THE I.L.A.

Second, the stevedores know the record of the I.L.A. to which the Red Book was affiliated. They saw recently the Tacoma longshoremen, where the I. L. A. has complete control, take a cut without a murmer from the union. They know that Ryan, President of the International Longshoremen's Association, signed an agreement with the ship owners last year which included a wage cut for every port on the Atlantic organized in the I.L.A. And they know that when the Boston longshoremen refused to accept Ryan's sell-out agreement and struck against it, Ryan himself brought in scabs to smash the strike.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

We want an organization that will bring results, that will defeat wage cuts and not help the shipowners force them down our throats. Such a union must take in both seamen and longshoremen—in fact, all workers in the industry. It must do its best to secure united action of the teamsters and all other workers connected with the water front. It must at all times be in the control of the rank and file members and not a small set of highly paid officials.

Waterfront Worker is more than a paper, it is also an organizer. Support it. Send in your Contributions.

—o—

OUR POLICY

THE WATERFRONT WORKER and the organized group of stevedores on the principal docks which publish it, stand solidly for the organization of such a union. It cannot be built from the outside. It must be built by US, the stevedores, right here on the docks.

Already a start has been made by the organization of small groups of reliable men on the main docks. These groups are beginning to get into action, in a small way for the present. As they grow, they will more and more, organize and lead the fight on each dock against short timing, pay for all travelling time, against the slave driving and abuse of certain bosses and the whole system of petty graft and bribery on the front and other grievances of which there are many.

In the course of the fight for these small demands, we will organize and train ourselves, and we will lay the basis for a powerful union on the waterfront, capable of protecting the interests of all stevedores. Such is our policy.

RUSSIAN LOU, THE "EGGSPERT"

Russian Louis on the Dollar piers is quite an efficiency "eggspert". He is a timesaver as lowering the boom on the fly or while working cargo which is a most dangerous thing to do while men are working below. He is also getting to be somewhat of a financier and money changer with his cashing in on the brass.

When Louis leaves this earthly sphere, the Dollar Steamship interests will reward him with a niche in the Hall of Fame.

We have had a bit of information about Amiel, boss on the Matson for a long time, but we desisted from a slam because it would also mean a slam for some of the men. But should we desist?

The fact is that sometime ago Amiel got a gang to paint his house. Under the present conditions on the front some of the weaker ones amongst us will go to that extent to keep the family in groceries and under a roof. But there are also professional belly-crawlers who will do that under any conditions. To the first class we wish to advice that such tactics in the end do not not either help them or anyone else on the front. They make matters worse. To the second class we haven't words strong enough to express ourselves. But we will take care of them when we have more organization on the waterfront.

—o—

OUR "BETTERS"

How many bosses are there that try to impress us that they are our betters? We got an example of how better they are the other day on Pier #41.

Joe Ferrara—drunk as usual. Joe disappeared inside the foreign ship—to get a few more drinks. As luck would have it, the gang plank was already lifted and Joe, with a few more drinks inside of him, found himself on the partly lifted gangplank. The gang was delighted. Some hollering, "Jump", hoping he was a bad jumper. The rest hollered to

COMMON INTERESTS

We can be proud of our ingenuity in inventing descriptive names. Even our Australian brothers have heard of it and are trying hard to go us one better and seem to be making a go of it too. Here are some choice ones coined in Sidney, Australia. They all refer to gang bosses.

"The snake"—(No snakes on the S.F. Waterfront?).

"The Spit".

"The Grey Shadow".

"The Admiral"—(Have they heard of Admiral or Lord Nelson?).

"The Blushing Lad"—(We heard that Wine Miller blushed when he was shown the WATERFRONT WORKER).

"The Worm"—(Any worms here?)

BIG BRAINS IN ACTION

"Isle Stevedores Evade Injuries"

"Kanaka, Japanese and Filipino stevedores in the Hawaiian Islands have a lower accident rate than other ports, for five reasons.

"The first is, that they generally have large families. In the second place, they work barefoot. Such is the finding of Byron O. Pickard, safety engineer for the Pacific American Steamship Association, and Capt. Francis W. Edwards, assistant operating manager for the Matson Navigation Company.

"They find that the stevedores by going barefoot seem to hold on to pier and dock like an abalone sunning itself on a rock. Hence, they don't fall, nor do they drop cargo boxes on their toes, an operation conducive to more or less discomfort. As for the 'large family' factor in safety regulations, the necessity of feeding many mouths makes the island stevedores less anxious about laying off while nursing crushed feet or other anatomical dents."

Yes, you got to have brains to be a boss.

—o—

TOO GOOD A SERVANT

There is such a thing as being just a little too good—a little too wise. Harry Cook on #39 is very much that way. Harry goes hog-wild when he sees a piece of cargo. Fast is not enough for him. He tries to be a better servant than any other gang boss, yet he does not seem to hit the mark. When there is any overtime, others get it while he stands by. The fact is that a man can overdo himself. Even the bosses can't stand his hollering and mad antics. Get wise to yourself, Harry?.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

CRAFT SCABBING

History teaches many things. Looking back for the last seventy or eighty ears, on the Pacific Cost, the conditions of the longshoremen and seamen presented a picture of continuous class struggle. Wages rose and fell in the never ending battle with the shipowners.

Viewed in the light of modern trustified industry the early forms of organization of the stevedores—benevolent societies and mutual protection associations, craft unions, etc.—are in no way in keeping with the present situation. The class struggle against the shipowners for wages and conditions is war and in modern times demands a well developed and trained army. Such must be the modern union.

In the past, every weakness of the stevedores was utilized by the shipowners to their own advantage. One of those main weaknesses was the narrow craft division between the seamen and stevedores in particular. Divide and conquer—was the steamship owners policy. Craft differences assumed the character of one section of the industry scabbing on the other. The history of the failure of craft unionism is illustrated by many such instances. Even federations of craft unions were common. In this respect, the officials were the most bitter and mainly to blame. There were, and still are, the main opponents to industrial unionism. Local craft or trade autonomy was a constant thing they harped on. Trouble was experienced mainly between seamen and longshoremen. The dispute developed over the discharging of cargo whether the seamen should confine their work to navigating at sea only.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Back in 1887 the "wharvies" in Port Pirio, Australia, requested the sailors of the Pacific not to discharge cargo. The stevedores in San Francisco asked them not to work overtime on the docks.

In December 1891 union longshoremen in Frisco refused to take lumber from the union crew of the "Annie Larson" and forced the captain to discharge the sailors. The breach widened the following March when the union seamen refused the request of the longshoremen's union not to discharge cargo to anyone but union men.

In September-October 1900, there was further trouble in which the teamsters were involved and which finally resulted in the agreement that the sailors work inside the rail, (in the hold) each union to refuse to receive from non-unionists.

Red Hook, Brooklyn, N. Y.—A delegate of the I.L.A. tried to collect dues from a longshoremen with a large family. When the longshoremen refused to pay, the delegate struck him across the mouth with a black-jack, sending him to the Hospital where he stayed two weeks.

Baltimore M.D.—Over a hundred negro and white longshoremen, belonging to the International Longshoremen's Association, an A. F. of L. organization, responded to the call of the Marine Workers Industrial Union to march on to Washington to protest against the frame-up of the nine Scottsboro boys, and to demand that the President use his dictatorial powers and release them. Barcelona, May 22.—Ships flying the Nazi emblem, the swastika, now an official German symbol, will not be unloaded in this port, according to a decision of the Dockworkers Trade Union.

Yesterday, the dockworkers refused to unload a ship flying the swastika and succeeded in beating off the police in a bitter fight that took place at the dock warehouses.

Rotterdam, April 28 (by mail) The Chinese crew of the dutch steamship "Olderkork" went on strike yesterday refusing to sail with a cargo of arms and munitions that had been loaded for Japan.

Today the Chinese seamen were driven on board by armed policemen, aided by secret sevice men, who brandished loaded revolvers and forced some of the Chinese seamen to march on board with their hands up.

Copenhagen, May 23—On May 1, the sailors of the cruiser "Olderkerk" sent a delegation to the captain, demanding leave from 1 p.m. on. When he asked them if they wanted to join the First of May demonstration they said: "Yes". He then rejected their demand.

The sailors at once voted to go on strike, and after striking three hours they won a complete

Extra Men and Swampers

Elsewhere in this issue we publish a letter from a stevedore complaining of the habit of Haskell on the Matson dock keeping the extra men waiting all day and then sending them home without an hour's work. Almost every boss on the front gives the extra men and swampers the same run-around. It's "Stick around boys", and, "Wait until 2 o'clock boys". There is no earthly reason for it. The company knows when the ship will dock. The stevedore bosses know how many men they will use and when they will want them.

It is just about time we put a stop to this stuff and it can be done: All we need is a little organization among the extra men and some united action and we can compell the companies to establish regular hours of hiring, say at 8 o'clock and 1 o'clock, with no hiring in between. This will cut out the old "stick around" stuff.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Then there is the question of pay for short shift as soon as the job is done. We can win that too if we only buckle down to the job of organization. What do you think about it, extra men and swampers? Let's hear from you! Write!

The next issue of the Waterfront Worker will be out on time. Watch for it.

AN IMPORTANT EVENT

The great majority of the seamen and longshoremen want to fight back against the present conditions. The strike on the "Point Gorda" in Frisco some months ago, the recent strikes on a number of ships on the east coast, and strike action taken by the stevedores in Boston, Philadelphia and the Gulf Ports in the last two years prove this. The popularity of the "Waterfront Worker", the first real move for organization here—is added proof. But we lack sufficient organization and leadership. The Unity Convention called by the Marine Workers Industrial Union has as its main aim the development of such organization under a unified and militant leadership. It is to the interest of the stevedores of San Francisco as well as those of all other ports to take an active part in this convention and to give full support to its decisions.

THE MOONEY TRIAL

Matt Brady, the District Attorney, acknowledged that Mooney was framed on perjured evidence, but he refused to produce this evidence in court so that Mooney could refute it and expose the whole rotten frame-up. Judge Ward agreed that Mooney is innocent but he even refused to allow the defense the right to introduce evidence proving his innocence and instead ordered a directed verdict without one shred of evidence being produced.

These gentlemen are all agreed that Tom Mooney was framed, that he is absolutely innocent—But They Are Also Agreed That He Shall Remain in San Quentin the Rest of His Natural Life. This is class justice with a vengeance! And it all proves just one thing. That Tom Mooney will never be freed until the masses of workers by militant and insistent demand force his freedom!!

Still Speeding Up

Editor Waterfront Worker:

The ways and means committee for speeding up production at Pier 26 has been at work again.

This time it decided that as six slabs of copper in a load wasn't sufficient to keep the gangs busy every second of the time, why not make it seven. Well, seven it has become, and unless some steps are taken to prevent it, we will probably soon be slinging eight.

Here's wishing you luck with the paper, and we hope you keep up the good work.

What Does "The News Letter" Mean?

Like the rest of the stevedores we have signed up in the I.L.A. and paid the 50c. Like the rest of the stevedores we are fed up with the B.B. and have organized to finally smash it. It is now up to us to make the new union a real fighting weapon of the stevedores able and ready to win better wages and working conditions and to protect all our interests.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

To do this we ourselves must take control of our organization. The "News Letter" issued by a self appointed executive board has convinced us that we must start doing this immediately. What does this letter contain? And what does it mean to us?

To the surprise of everyone we find out that a complete slate of officers has been installed without a meeting of the men, without the men voting on it or even being consulted on it. This in spite of the fact that a meeting has been promised us daily for two weeks. We also find that there is also an executive board. Who elected it? Have we no say in those things? This letter further states that "Communications have been forwarded to waterfront employers requesting conference for the prupose of considering proper wages and conditions of work." The "News Letter speaks of a secret ballot? We must remember that that was what was demanded by the ship owners from the Red Book in the 1919 strike. They did not demand that for our good. Experience has shown that the secret ballot can easily be fooled with.

Men elected by the stevedores themselves must handle these matters. This slate of officials, this executive board, are not the doing of the men who signed for the I.L.A. They are self elected. We have time and again pointed out the sell-out puts put over by the high officials of the I.L.A. in other ports when the men allowed a few officials to take their union away from them and run it to suit themselves. (New Orleans strike sell-out; acceptance of two wage cuts in Tacoma without an attempt at a comeback. President Ryan importing scabs to break the spirit of the Boston stevedores in 1931.)

This is bound to happen when the men themselves do not become active in building and running the organization. When the men allow a few officials to run the outfiit, the majority lose interest in it and another B.B. is the result. We have had 14 years of the (Continued on Page 2).

"THE NEWS LETTER"

B. B., we must take care. A bad start has been made. To correct it we propose that we demand the following be done:

1. A meeting of all men who have signed up be immediately called. Lack of a hall is no excuse, we have enough money in the treasury and all kinds of halls are available.

2. That at this meeting the following be done:

a. A chairman be elected from the floor to insure fair hearing to all.

b. The men elect their own officials—these should be stevedores well known to the men on the docks.

c. That an Executive Board of 24 to 30 be nominated and elected from the floor, its members representing the different docks. Such a board should be made up of trusted rank and file stevedores from the docks.

d. That this board be instructed to take care of the negotiations with the ship owners and to report to the membership. Men elected by the stevedores themselves should handle the funds and all affairs of the organization. These are not only our interests but the interests of every other stevedore. We call on them for their cooperation and support in carrying these steps out.

Craft Scabbing.

Despite the fact that the various waterfront craft unions were affiliated together in Federations or Marine Councils from time to time, craft rivalry continued on the Frisco Waterfront and at times broke out into open hostility. Under these conditions the life of the central affiliate body was of short duration.

One of the earliest domestic squabbles we can record was in October 1887 when the Steamship men's Union was expelled from the federated trades and Labor Council for "underbidding" (craft scabbing) in a jurisdictional fight. It readmitted the F. T. and L. C. two years later, but again withdrew in 1890 and organized the City Front Labor Council which finally amalgamated with the F. T. and L. C. a year later.

The successor to the City Frant Labor Council was formed in 1901. The life of this central affiliafe body was as short-lived as its predecessors. In 1902 slumbering rivelry broke out afresh. Without warning the Longshoremen's Convention changed the name of the Union to the International Longshore Marine Transport Workers' Ass'n. This alarmed the officials of the I.S.U. who feared the absorbtion of their union and incidentaly their pie card jobs. The fight was carried into several conventions of the A.F.of L. before the longshoremen were finally forced to resume their old craft union title.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Of all the craft union officials who opposed industrial unity, Andy Feruseth of the I.S.U. was probably one of the most bitter. Under such "leadership" the I.S.U. refused to support the 1916 longshore strike and later the 1919 strike when they withdrew from the Waterfront Federation which also went out of existence.

Frank Words From the Rank and File

Waterfront Worker,
Fellow Stevedores:

The "Blue Book" is going to hell fast from now on, thanks to the "Waterfront Worker". In the Waterfront Worker if I recollect correctly, I read that if we would organize into a union of our own we could easily make the shipowner and stevedore contractor give us a nice Christmas present instead of giving them one more this coming Christmas.

June 23 the "Daily News" comes out with the news about the national industrial recovery act, telling how a worker has the right under that act to choose his own union.

A guy by the name of Lee Holman also read the same in the News, and takes advantage of it by getting himself connected with the I.L.A. in Tacoma, Washington, the secretary of the Tacoma, I.L.A. Mr. Bjorglund put Mr. Lee Holman wise how to go about it.

Monday, June 26, 1933 down comes Mr. Lee Holman, selling organized labor for 50c apiece. Pretty good! Who has been putting the spirit in us that we want to organize? No one but the Waterfront Worker. I take off my hat to your paper, because it is sincere and stands only for us workers.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

On everybody's lips is who is Holman? Some say he was in the Charity and Barter Rackets until he found out there was not much in it. According to what I hear on the water front his reputation is not very good. Well, we'll see.

When we get right down to business and start electing our officials for the new union, we should attend those meetings and elect only those who are at present working on the Frisco water front. No one else should be trusted, as even our own kind may turn crooked, but it is up to us to look out for that. I am sure the Waterfront Worker is going to be of great help to us in this way.

This letter is written by a hard working stevedore. I am not affiliated with any other outfit but the Blue Book, which I was forced to join in order to eat. I have signed the I.L.A. petition and have donated 50c. I am out to break the Blue Book with the rest of my 3000 fellow stevedores who have done likewise, but it must be strictly a stevedore's union run by us and not by some expert or wise guy, who is just trying to get rich quick like Mr. Stein from the Blue Book.

chance to win, he would tell you. But on the other hand, if you were to ask him what time a ship will arrive, he will tell you he does not know. So therefore, you are compelled under these deplorable conditions to hang around for needless hours where otherwise if they, Jack Maloney and his retinue, would inform us as to what time the ship will arrive, we could eliminate this tedious waiting in suspense. As they have no regard for us, we need not expect any change unless we do the changing. So we should do a little more thinking and then some action.

The Cattle Market

From a correspondent.

Cushion Foot Olsen at pier 40 McCormick S.S. Co. was out the other day to hire two men. There were some sixty stevedores there and he milled through them for some time before he could make a choice. Play Time on 41

At pier41 ShirmerStevedoring Co: a crowd of parasites were in the warf playing imitation golf with a coconut shell. George Schirmer seemed to be the lead off men, and they were amusing themselves while the stevedores were dragging heavy loads from one ton up across the dock and sweating blood. Humpty Dumpty Humphries was buzzing around like a fly in a bottle and stepped like one who the whole existence of the universe depended upon. Joe Ferrara, the walker, with his big mustachio, which reminds one of handle bars ona bicyele, had his hat on the back of his head and was racing from one end of the dock to the other trying for more speed. The wharf is literally plastered with signs of Safety first, which is only a blind for investigators seeking information in regards the many accidents which occur there. Let a stevedore try to take heed of the signs and he will soon find the gate.

Flatfoot the Ambitious

From our correspondent.

When Flatfoot Olsen of McCormick S.S.Co. has not work for his gang, he jumps in one of the other gangs and takes a stevedore's place, keeping you stevedores outside the gate that much longer. He believes if he could get enough overtime with his single-track brain, he would not be long in attaining the status of Ford, Rockefeller, Schawb, and et-al, in a financial way. He is like his ilk all over this front, lording it over the men in his gang with a puerile notion that he is a supermen. If he had the foresight to look beyond his nose he could see numerous self-imagined supermen paving the sidewalks.

Mustachio Joe in a Panic

We must not forget Mustachio Joe Ferrara, of pier 41. The other day there was a man distributing handbills advertizing some restorant close by. Mustachio Joe came outside the dock and ogled him for a while and then started circling around him. The Bill peddler could not make him out and Scandal ??

The above is more then scandal otherwise it would have never reached this page, included in these scandal items are some of the most burning grievances onthe Waterfront.

Looking them over we see: The unlimited power of the gang boss to choose according to his own taste and without least consideration for the men.

The ridiculous spectacle of the walls plastered with safety first signs alongside mad and killing speed up.

Keeping hundreds of men tied to the gate.

ON THE SPOT

Sapping the B.B. Treasury

Thirty Thousand odd bucks is quite a fair amount of "dough" especially when viewed in the light of a stevedore's wages and the years of toil and sweat that it takes to earn that much. We are referring to the B. B. treasury, every cent of which has been dearly earned.

Now there has come a change on the Front. The B. B. must go and "Red" will no longer be able to collect dues as of old. But what of the treasury that still remains, even though the membership is gone? Do you think Stein will turn it back to the stevedores and reimburse the membership? Not likely, No ! Mr. Stein & Co. will sit tight as long as they have ten members, as provided by the constitution, and will sap the treasury until there is not a cent left. At the rate of wages they are paid it ought to last them about five or six years.

What can the stevedores do about it? Taking it to court would be useless, and from the legal angle of the constitution things are pretty tight. According to Sec.7, Art. 17, "The funds or property. . . . shall not be divided among the members, except by unanimous consent of all the members present at an advertised meeting; but shall remain the property of the Association as long as there are ten (10) members willing to continue it."

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Well, it takes eight members in good standing to call a special meeting. What do you think are the chances of getting some of that "dough" for the stevedores?

B. B. Society Notes

Red has been on a "vacation". He'll soon have another and a long one, too.

Stein & Co. are very busy now-a-days; pulling strings to save the racket. It's no use. It wont be long now.

News From Other Ports

Everett. A form of equal distribution of work is applied in this port where working conditions are among the best on the Pacific Coast. Last month every stevedore made the $55 maximum wage. This limit which was set to prevent the bosses' pets from hogging all the work and to prevent blacklisting, is not favored by the Fink Hall or Stevedoring Companies who have done everything possible to break it. As in Portland the I.L.A. has gone out of existence. The only organization remaining to back the grievance board being a stevedore's social club.

Seattle. New labor saving machinery in the form of the high piling lift truck has been adopted on the Admiral Line docks, displacing sixty men.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

It is reported that similar measures have been adopted on the Admiral Docks in other ports.

Philadelphia. The I. L. A. is putting on its seventh annual button drive and Polly Baker, the local organizer, is up to his old tricks. Every morning he is to be seen on the waterfront accompanied by his bodyguard, which includes his right hand thug, Krouzberger, who has been expelled at least five different times from the I. L. A. Polly no longer does his flagging (pulling a man off the job) personally since a stevedore bent a lead pipe around his dome. Despite all of this not many new dollar buttons are bo be seen on the front.

Brooklyn, N.Y. Vigorous protest took place on Pier 18 against the job racket of Mr. Martino, boss stevedore for Castellano Bros., Stevedoring Co. Martino is also the bootlegger who sells wine to the longshoremen's barding houses owned by the ILA. delegates, Patsy and Comardo. Naturally since the jobs go from the boardinghouses, the stevedore who buys the most wine gets the most work. This is why the longshoremen gathered on the dock and raised hell.

Stockton. Stockton has a channel to the sea which was completed a short while ago. Commodities, fruit, canned and fresh, grains, barley, rice, beans and other cargoes will be loaded at Stockton, thereby cutting into the bay district's shipping.

Waterfront Worker Calls Meeting In Eagles Hall

Despite the most vicious slander and the ridiculous and lying accusation that the Waterfront Worker was the same as the B. B., about one hundred stevedores attended the first open meeting called by the Waterfront Worker in co-operation with the Marine Workers Industrial Union to hear a report on the new National Industrial Recovery Act and its relation to the present organizational move on the Front.

"Don't got to this meeting", Holman and Colburg told the stevedores, and in regular A.F. of L. fashion brought forward the "red" scare. "It's the Communists, and if you go there it will mean strike. We can get the old scale for you without fighting."

The Stevedores were urged to beware of wild promises made that wages and conditions would be improved under the National Industrial Recovery Act. As an example, the new code for the textile industries set the basic wage at $12 a week in the north and $11 a week in the south. In the same way the longshoremen would not receive a cent increase under the new act unless they were sufficiently organized under a militant program to enforce demands.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

It was pointed out that many stevedores have been "sold" on the idea of getting a few officials to do their fighting, but this will not solve the problem. Stevedores should beware of those leaders who promise the world. Anything may be better than the B.B., but it was pointed out that the only way to be sure that this new I.L.A. would not be another B.B. masquerading under a different name, was to take no chances, but to organize fighting groups within the I?L.A. itself, to elect honest officials and to put forward a militant program in the interest of the rank and file and in this way prevent any clique control.

Some Aspects of the "New Deal".

The National Industrial Recovery Act with its high promises has succeeded in building more false hopes and illusions in the mind of the workers then any other scheme so far offered to solve the crises.

Practice has already has shown the lie of these promises. In the textile and needle industry where codes have been fixed the wages now are set at $12 in textile and $15 in the needle industries. It is important to note that $22 was the average in the needle industry before the setting of code. In California in the needle industry minimum wage law for women calls for $16. The code reduced the scale to $13.20. The code has just started to work and we already have those examples.

What more can be expected can be gleaned from reports in the S.F. Examiner of July 13. "At his (Roosevelt's) direction Hugh Johnson is studying the possibility of a blanket code establishing a 35 hour week and $14 minimum wage for all industries". In figures this means 40c an hour (inflation money at that). "Johnson called a hearing Wednesday on a code for ship-builders providing a 40 hour week and a wage scale of 35c and 40c an hour. With the dollar have dropped about 25% these wages are low indeed. On the Waterfront a wage raise of 20c would make the wages even as compared with the value of the dollar a few months ago.

Another provision that has been hailed far and wide is recognition of workers representatives by the arbitration board. However only representatives are accepted who are willing to accept these starvation codes. The few codes quoted above, been carried through with the approval and help of the A.F. of L.

It can be seen already that this Act as an Anti-working class measure. We must organize not only for conference table but for the protection of our standards of living with action.

Merchant and Navy Sailors Haul Down Hitler Flag.

Olympia Wash. German S.S. Portland raised a Nazi flag while lying at Olympia dock, next to the frigate "Constitution". Stevedores joined by sailors from the old "ironsides" from the S.S. Lewis Luchenbach and the Danish motorship "Amerika" they pulled it down. The flag was not flown again.

Mr. Del Guercio: I would like to call the Court's attention to what appears on page 6 of this Waterfront Worker. It reads as follows:

"As in the past the Marine Workers Industrial Union has given us their cooperation and help in issuing this paper.

"The next issue of the Waterfront Worker will contain the report of the Unity Convention being held in New York July 16, 17 & 18th."

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Do you know Walter Lambert, Mr. Diner?

A. I do.

Q. Do you know him as a member of the Communist Party? A. I do.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. Do you know what position he occupies or occupied in the Communist Party?

A. I think he was at that time District Secretary.

Q. District Secretary. "At that time" what do you mean? During the 1934 strike?

A. During my presence in the Party.

Q. During the time that you were a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. Diner, are you familiar with the premises of 121 Haight Street, San Francisco?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. What is that place? [874]

A. It is the headquarters of the Communist Party.

Q. Headquarters of the Communist Party. Did you ever hold title to that property?

A. I did.

Q. When?

A. I don't remember the exact year.

Q. Well, did you purchase the property?

A. I did.

Q. Would you tell us how you purchased it?

A. Bought it.

Q. Well, for yourself? A. No.

Q. For whom?

A. For the Communist Party.

Q. And through whom did you purchase the property? How did you do it? Will you tell us all of the transaction concerning that, the purchase of that property.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. Before we purchased the property we had an office—I say "we" because I was a member at that time.

Q. A member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes; that is why I use the name "we". (Continuing) ——at 37 Grove Street, and right after the general strike this place was supposed to be vacated; the Party got orders to move. And we looked around for some other quarters which we couldn't find. Finally this place was for sale. It was [875] owned by the Young Hebrew Association. And I was told to fish around, so to speak, to find out what it could be bought for, and I went to the man that was the Trustee, part of the Trustee, one of the Trustees, rather, of that property. His office was at Sutter Street someplace. I went in there and found out all particulars about it and came back and reported. There and then it was decided that I am to purchase that place in my name; that was the transaction.

Q. Well, now, who told you to do these things?

A. Mr. Darcy.

Q. Sam Darcy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He was then the district organizer of the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. And who gave you the money with which to purchase the property?

A. Well, the money was brought by Mr. Gallagher to me.

Q. Mr. who?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. Mr. Gallagher, Leo Gallagher.

Q. Is that an attorney from Los Angeles?

A. Yes.

Q. He gave you the money to purchase this property? A. Yes, yes.

Q. And you understood that you were purchasing it for [876] whom?

A. For the Communist Party.

Q. You weren't purchasing it for Leo Gallagher? A. No.

Q. But he gave you the money?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was the title to the property given in your name? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you execute any instrument to either Leo Gallagher or to the Communist Party regarding this property to the effect that you were holding it either for Leo Gallagher or the Communist Party? A. Oh, no, no.

Q. You had both the legal and equitable title to the property? A. That is right.

Q. Were there any other persons named on the instrument as being owners of the property?

A. Well, afterwards two more came into the picture; I didn't know them.

Q. You didn't know them?

A. Not at all.

Q. Well, did you give the two others an interest in the property? Did you execute some kind of an instrument [877] transferring——

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. (Interposing) I was told to do it.

Q. You were told to do it by whom?

A. Mr. Darcy.

Q. Sam Darcy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How much money did you pay for this property?

A. I don't remember the number; it is a few thousand dollars.

Q. A few thousand dollars, Did you give a receipt to Mr. Gallagher for the money that he gave you? A. No.

Q. Just handed you the money?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. Gallagher, do you know him as an attorney for the ILD in Los Angeles?

A. I do.

Q. That is the ILD, the International Labor Defense? A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will show you what appears to be a contract to purchase certain property dated San Francisco, California, May 21, 1935, and ask you if you recognize that?

A. (Examining document) Yes, I do.

Q. What is that?

A. My signature is there. [878]

Q. Your signature. You are the Sam Diner mentioned therein? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And this shows that you paid $500.00 down. Did you put a deposit as indicated on this instrument of $500.00? A. I did.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. To secure the sale of the property?

A. I don't remember the amount, but I did.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer this in evidence, if your Honor please, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: Received without objection.

Mr. Del Guercio: And I ask that a photostat be substituted.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 206.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. How long did you hold that property in your name, Mr. Diner? For how long a period?

A. Not very long, just months.

Q. Months? A. Months.

Q. Then, what did you do with it?

A. I was told to assign the property to somebody else.

Q. Who told you to do that? [879]

A. Mr. Gallagher.

Q. Mr. —? A. Gallagher.

Q. Leo Gallagher? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And to whom did he tell you to assign it?

A. He brought three people to the office; that is all I know.

Q. Do you know the names of the people?

A. No, I don't.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. And did you assign——

A. (Interposing) I did.

Q. (Continuing) ——your interest and your title, whatever interest you had in this property to these three people? A. That is true.

Q. You executed an instrument?

A. What?

Q. You executed an instrument?

A. No; just signed it.

Q. You signed it? A. That is right.

Presiding Inspector: That is what he means.

The Witness: Yes, I signed an instrument, that is right, a release.

By Mr. Del Guercio: [880]

Q. Did your wife also have an interest? Was she shown as having an interest in this property?

A. No; she signed over all the community rights to me at the purchasing time.

Q. And did she give a release to Leo Gallagher also, or to anybody else? A. I don't think so.

Q. But she did execute a release to you?

A. To me.

Q. Did you ask her to do it?

A. No; I was told to do it.

Q. Who told you to do that?

A. Mr. Gallagher.

Q. Do you know, Mr. Diner, whether or not the International Labor Defense had its offices at 121 Haight Street during the 1934 strike?

A. I don't know.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. You testified, Mr. Diner, that you had about —that you handled, rather, about—I don't remember the exact amount—but about $10,000 during the time that you were Secretary-Treasurer of the Emergency Defense Committee during the 1934 strike.

Now, how much of that money did you put up as bail?

A. Oh, most of it, I guess, with the exception of some [881] money left.

Q. And what became of that bail money?

A. I don't know.

Q. Well, did you get it back? A. No.

Q. Did anybody get it back?

A. All the receipts made out from the bail clerk was made to my name.

Q. When you deposited bail you mean you——

A. (Interposing) Whether I deposited or somebody else deposited it. Now, not all the time did I go bail out people; I gave the money to somebody else and a receipt was made out in my name. So, after it was all through, I endorsed those receipts, and whoever got the money, I don't know.

Q. Well, to whom did you endorse?

A. To the ILD.

Q. To the ILD? A. Yes, sir.

Q. To any particular person?

A. Well——

Q. (Interposing) In the ILD?

A. Well, Elaine Black was the Secretary.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. Well, did you assign these receipts to Elaine Black?

A. Not in her name. I just endorsed it, my signature, and anybody can collect the money if the endorsement is [882] correct.

Q. Well, did you receive any of that money from Elaine Black or from anybody?

A. I was not supposed to receive any; I was all through with the money.

Q. No, I mean—perhaps, you don't understand my question.

Did you receive any of that money that you put up for these various bails there, to bail out various people? Did you receive any of that money?

A. From who?

Q. From the ILD or from Elaine Black?

A. No.

Q. Well, who told you to assign those receipts to the ILD? A. The Party.

Q. By "the Party" you mean what?

A. Darcy.

Q. Sam Darcy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Sam Darcy who was then the district organizer of the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He told you to assign those receipts to the ILD? A. Yes. [883]

Q. Mr. Diner, you say you left the Party in 1936?

A. Either in '36 or '37; I don't remember the date.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. How did you terminate your connection with the Communist Party? A. I was expelled.

Q. For what? Why were you expelled? What caused your expulsion?

A. It would take four days if I tell you what caused it.

Q. We don't want to take four days, but can you state briefly just what caused your expulsion from the Communist Party?

A. Well, for the last two years prior to the expulsion the Party and I didn't agree in various policies and actions in the Union. By the way, I want to state at that time I was organizer for the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, a paid officer, and my business was to secure jobs for workers irrespective of where they are affiliated, or who they are affiliated with, and from then on there were rifts between the Party and myself, and the various members that belonged to the union or Party members began to disagree on policies and action, as far as I am concerned. Several times I was called to the test to state my position in the union now, why I changed my entire point of view regarding the situation and workers, obtaining jobs and securing their livelihood, and from then on we began to quarrel quite often, and when Sam Darcy left the city and [884] somebody else took it over, Schneiderman, from then on we began to disagree entirely on policy.

Q. You mean after Schneiderman appeared?

A. After Sam Darcy left.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. And Schneiderman appeared as the district organizer? A. Yes. [885]

Q. Why did you continue with the Communist Party during the time that you were having these differences?

A. Well, I was waiting to be thrown out.

Q. You were waiting to be thrown out?

A. Yes.

Q. You say that most of the differences were caused because of your action in your trade union?

A. I was a better union man than a member of the Communist Party.

Q. And was that what caused your rift with the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. In what way were you a better union man than a Communist?

A. I will explain that a little bit more.

In my office I had a chart, as big as the background here (indicating), and it was divided into the amount of sections that existed in the industry—operator, presser, cutter, finisher, helper, whatever it was—and if anyone came up to ask for a job, an operator came up and asked for a job, I looked at the chart and saw that he was next to get a job and was way below; and I told him that he is the sixth one on the list to get a job. That is what happened.

Q. Let me see if you make this clear. A Communist would come to your office looking for a job—— [886]

A. (Interposing) I didn't say that. I will come to that later. I say any worker who came to town and asked for a job as an operator, I will say, I looked at the chart and saw that in order for him to be eligible to get a job he has to come next——

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. (Interposing) He has to wait until his turn comes?

A. Yes. But sometimes I got a note from the headquarters of the Communist Party to put that person to work.

Q. Would you do it?

A. I refused, told him when he was the next to come he would get a job. I said, "I am working for the Union now."

That is the beginning of the trouble and that is what happened.

Q. For how long a period did this continue?

A. This continued until I was out of the Party.

Q. Were you given a hearing by the Communist Party? A. Oh, yes.

Q. When was that?

A. Well, in the industry where you are a member there is existing a Fraction, organized by the members of the Communist Party from the particular Union that you are a member of. That Fraction meets once a week.

Q. This Fraction is composed only of members of the Communist Party?

A. Yes; within the industry. [887]

Q. Within that particular Union?

A. Correct.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. And not open to anyone else?

A. No. At that Fraction meeting you discussed problems concerning the Union, how members of the Communist Party should proceed and act. There I was brought on the table that I am not acting as a Communist. By the way, I was not present at those meetings—I was not present at the end of those meetings but at the beginning I was—later on I refused to come to the Fraction meeting. When I was absent at that meeting somebody preferred charges that I am not a good member of the Communist Party, and I don't act within the framework basically of the Communist Party activity in the Union.

I was called to the Disciplinary Committee on Labor Day, 1936 or 1937—I don't remember—and there was a committee to question me about the various rumors and accusations.

By the way, the organizer of the Fraction meeting was present to present their case.

They analyzed the arguments, and they told me at that time that there is no room for expulsion, but they warned me if it happened again that I will be expelled.

Q. You mean they told you there was no ground for your expulsion? A. No.

Q. You mean that is what they did tell you?

[888]

A. Yes.

Q. Were you told to be a better Communist than a trade union man? A. I was.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. What did they mean by that, to be a better Communist than a trade union man?

A. It means a lot of things.

Q. Does it mean that you cannot be a good trade union man and a Communist at the same time?

A. Personally, I don't think so.

Q. You mean you cannot be a good trade union man and a Communist at the same time?

A. You cannot.

Q. You can't.

A. To the best of my ability I was trying to and it didn't work.

Q. What happened after that, after you were advised by this Disciplinary Committee to be a better Communist than a trade union man?

A. What happened?

Q. What happened after that?

A. After that?

Q. Yes.

A. After that I was expelled; two weeks after that.

Q. Were you officially expelled and notified of it? [889] A. No.

Q. How do you know that you were expelled?

A. A friend of mine met me on the street and said "Did you see the Western Worker this morning?"

I said "Not yet."

Q. Did you say the Western Worker?

A. Yes. I said "Not yet."

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

He took me up to his room and showed me a little clipping at the bottom of the paper that I was temporarily expelled until I will be proven otherwise.

Q. Were you advised to that effect?

A. No; no, not at all.

Q. Were you told that you could appeal from that decision? A. Oh, yes.

Q. By whom?

A. Well, I was told by various people in the Party headquarters, I mean, higher-ups. I don't recollect their names. I did talk to Foster here once.

Q. Foster?

A. William Z. Foster, and I talked to Earl Browder when he was here.

Q. When did you talk to Foster and Earl Browder?

A. Regarding the situation that the Party claims I am not a good Party member and a good union man.

Q. When did you talk to Earl Browder and Foster? [890]

A. I talked to Browder after the expulsion.

Q. After the expulsion? A. Yes.

Q. What did Earl Browder advise you to do, if anything?

A. Well, he says I can appeal, and they offered me to pay transportation to go down to New York to meet with the Central Committee about this question of mine.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. Did you take up the offer?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Why?

A. I wasn't interested any more.

Mr. Del Guercio: May we have a recess?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

Presiding Inspector: We will resume.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Just one more question, Mr. Diner. Referring back to this Communist Party Convention at Fresno, California, was that convention of the Communist Party in any sense of the word a purely union matter, trade union matter?

A. No; it was a Party matter.

Q. It was a Communist Party Convention?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Del Guercio: That is all. You may cross examine.

Mr. Grossman: Your Honor, we wish to ask for a postpone- [891] ment of the cross examination of Mr. Diner for the reasons we stated before.

I would like to state to your Honor that we definitely did not anticipate, or know about, or even hear any rumors about the testimony of this man, so we made no preparation whatsoever. We think this falls within the discussion that was had at various times before with respect to our being caught unawares. We think that a reasonable time for preparation would be about two days. We, therefore, request that we be permitted until Friday to cross examine Mr. Diner.

Presiding Inspector: I think you can proceed to some extent. We won't pass on the question of whether you must conclude the cross examination at this time. But there are a lot of matters that have been covered here that fall within the knowledge of your client that you must know all about.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I be heard?

Presiding Officer: I do not think it is necesarsary.

Mr. Del Guercio: All right.

Presiding Inspector: Proceed.

Cross Examination

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Diner, you have been a bit indefinite about the time when you were expelled from the Communist Party? A. What?

Q. I say you have been a bit indefinite about the time [892] when you were expelled from the Communist Party.

Mr. Myron: Now, just a minute, your Honor. That wasn't the question. He didn't say he was——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Well, that is getting a start. He hasn't asked the question yet. Go ahead.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. As I recall your testimony, the best you could do was to say it was some time in 1936 or some time in 1937. I would like to have you give some attention to that and see if you can fix the time more definitely with relation to any event, for example.

A. Well, the event was right after Labor Day.

Q. But is there any way that you can determine whether it was more likely in 1936 than '37, or vice versa? A. No, I think it is in 1937.

Q. Was there anything happening in the union at the time you were expelled, or before that time or soon after, that would give you some inkling as to the year in which it took place?

A. No.

Q. At the time you were expelled were you a member of the union still?

A. I was Business Representative of the union.

Q. That is of the ILDWU, is that correct? [893]

A. Right.

Q. For how long after you were expelled did you remain, did you hold that position in the union?

A. A few weeks.

Q. Then, by determining when you left that position in the union it would be possible to determine which year you were expelled from the Communist Party? A. I think it was in 1937.

Q. And what were the circumstances surrounding your leaving your position with the union?

A. There was no circumstances at all.

Q. Did your term expire? A. No.

Q. Had you been elected to that office you held?

A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. May I have the name of that office again, please?

A. Business Representative of the union, International Ladies' Garment Workers Union.

Q. All right. Did you discontinue holding that position at the end of a term or in the middle of, or during a term?

A. Well, it was towards the end of the term.

Q. Well, but was it the end or just toward the end of the term?

A. Towards the end of the term. [894]

Q. All right. Did you leave that office because of some action of the union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You are sure of that, aren't you?

A. Definitely.

Q. All right. What were the circumstances that surround your leaving that office?

A. There was no circumstances at all.

Q. Well, tell me how it happened?

A. I just happened.

Q. What do you mean? The union just threw you out or what?

A. Oh, no; I am still carrying a union card.

Q. Mr. Diner, you know better than we do why you——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Just a minute. That is argumentative, if your Honor please. Know better than who does?

Presiding Inspector: Well—

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Diner, do you know why you discontinued being——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing). Go ahead. I think it is merely the form of counsel's question.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Diner, do you or do you not know why you dis- [895] continued holding that position with your union?

A. Well, if you want to know I am going to tell you.

Q. The question is, Mr. Diner, do you know?

A. I have to say more than "No" or "Yes".

Q. You mean you can't answer "Yes" or "No", whether you know?

A. Unless I elaborate the situation broader than you want me.

Q. All right, elaborate.

A. Somebody's ears might ring when I say that, but I can't help it.

In 1936 Sam Darcy was wanted by the law and he was out of the country. I received various communications from Mr. Darcy from abroad sent to New York and resent to me.

By the way, this I am revealing I have never said up 'till now, before the agents, even. The counsel forces me to say that and I am saying it.

Q. Just one moment before you continue, Mr. Diner.

Mr. Del Guercio: Now, just a minute. Don't interrupt the witness. He is answering the question.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Presiding Inspector: I have got to hear what counsel is saying. Go ahead.

Mr. Grossman: I have a right to make a statement.

Presiding Inspector: What is it you wanted to say [896]

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Now, you recall, Mr. Diner, what the question was. It dealt with why you left your position. Now, this is an answer that you say must be made in order to explain why you left your position.

A. Definitely.

Mr. Grossman: All right.

Presiding Inspector: In the union?

The Witness: In the union.

Mr. Grossman: All right, continue.

Presiding Inspector: All right, go ahead.

The Witness: I received one letter from Norway telling me that I should try to find possible means to squash that indictment that the State of California had against Mr. Darcy. He mentioned names who to go to and I did go.

When the Party got wind of the situation I was called before the Party Committee and they asked me to turn over the letter to them because they wanted to compliment Mr. Sam Darcy for sending mail to me and telling me what to do. I refused to turn over those letters to them and I also refused to talk about the question altogether.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Besides being the district organizer from the Communist Party I had a brief friendship deep in my heart for Mr. Sam Darcy, and I just kept it for myself, with one more person in this community, because he told me to consult with that [897] particular person. The reason I don't mention that name is because I don't want to involve anyone that was misled just like anybody else on this question.

I proceeded with the various instructions that Mr. Darcy gave me and it began to look favorable, and about—and I answered the letter right away, that I am doing everything possible on the question mentioned. I didn't tell him what or when, in the mail. About two months later I received another letter from Paris telling me a certain initial, and I knew what the initial was, to go and see whether the thing could not be straightened out. And he also mentioned the very same person as he mentioned in the first letter, and I should try to raise funds to see whether it isn't possible to squash the entire thing.

The attorney involved is dead now and I refuse to mention his name at present. This is the name, the initial that Mr. Darcy gave me instructions to talk. The reason he gave that name, because that particular person done things in the past such—similar to things like that, trying to straighten matters out that should come before the law and didn't.

I said before that outside of being district organizer I had a brief friendship towards Mr. Darcy, and if God himself would come to me and tell me not to do it I would do it anyhow. Now, that is the truth.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

I went out to various sources trying to collect money, [898] borrowed money, and I paid some of the money back myself for two years in order to make the debts that I borrowed to squash that thing.

I went to that attorney and I said, "How much?" Now, that is speaking plain language; how much. He said, "A thousand dollars." Well, I had previous transactions with that person and he took my word for it that the thousand dollars would be paid after the job is done. I gave him $300.00 as a retaining fee to see that this case should not come to trial.

And I went to a friend of mine here in town, a manufacturer, that previously I worked for him, and that might be important to mention. I had lived once in Vacaville and one morning I came to work and I didn't whistle. I used to whistle when I worked. That is a song, perhaps, they wrote about that. And I was happy all the time when I worked, and that morning when I came into work I didn't whistle and I didn't sing and I didn't work. So after 5:00 o'clock he wanted to know is anything wrong with me, called me into the office, and I said, "Well, it is a private matter." "Is anybody sick?" I said, "No." Then, finally he wanted to know what was the matter. I told him that the mortgage at the French American Bank is due the following morning of $820.00 and they will foreclose my little home in Vacaville and I don't feel happy about it. That man called his book- [899] keeper and he wrote out a check in my name for $820.00. That was in 1924.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Ever since he was a friend; I don't consider him as a boss; I considered him as a friend and I worked for him for many, many years after.

As I said before, I was trying to raise that thousand dollars very bad. I raised the $300.00. I went to this particular man and I told him I needed a loan. He said, "Well, I had a bad season. How much is it?" I says, "As much as you can spare" and he made out a check to me, S. Diner, for $50.00.

What is this all about? I will tell you what, if the defense attorney wants to know. I was caught between the devil and the deep sea. At the International Union offices I was a rat, a Communist, a disrupter, trying to organize the workers for the Communist Party instead of for the union. At the union I was a renegade—at the Party I was a renegade, not trying to organize the workers on the matters that they told me to organize. And by the way, I was elected Business Representative, despite the International officers; they were against me from the beginning until the end. They knew my affiliation.

Once we had a convention here in town and Mr. Dubinsky called me in his hotel and said; "Sam, you are a fine guy, you are a capable person. I will take you to New York. You are wasting your time here." I said, "No, this is my place. [900] I started something here and I am going to finish it." He said, "Tell me, are you a member of the Communist Party?" I said, "Yes." Well, that is at least more than anybody else answered, and he didn't like that.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

And they were trying to find every means of avenue to get something on me in order to oust me out of the office.

We had a joint relations committee established in our union, Mr. Cargar. He was the original director of the NRA.

The Reporter: Spell that name, please.

The Witness: I don't know.

Mr. Cargar was a stooge for the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union against me. Why was he a stooge? Why were they so determined to get me out of the office? That telephone in my office was never idle, and in all the other offices there was extensions. They listend to it. On day Gallagher called me; one day Hanoff called me; one day this guy called me; the next day somebody else, and they knew that I am not attending to my business. They had all those things ready for in case of an explosion, but the workers were for me. The workers knew that I am a member of the Communist Party. I had stated so in the open meeting that I am a member of the Communist Party, but I am also a worker; I am a member of the industry. And the workers were the ones that kept the morale going, as far as I am concerned. That Cargar, his function was to look to the payroll and report to me whether a [901] worker was underpaid according to the minimum wage scale established in that industry. His records—his function was, as I said, to look over every payroll, and there he found a payroll made out, a check to Sam Diner for $50.00. Now, we got him. Instead to come to me and ask me that question he wrote a letter back to Dubinsky that "I have just got the fellow where you want him. I have a check made out to Mr. Sam Diner for $50.00."

In other words, they pretended it to be a bribe or a graft, $50.00. So Dubinsky instructed the office here to have a trial, and before the trial took place the party called me and they said, "We know that you did not take $50.00 bribe." And by the way, that manufacturer is the most peaceful person in the entire industry, never had a strike, a small concern, very small, and never had a trial, never had a strike, never had any difficulty with that particular man. There was no reason for him to give a bribe. The Party knew it and before the trial took place they called me. They said, "Sam, you are shielding something. What is it?" I said, "Nothing. I did not take it as a bribe. If I wanted to take the $50.00 as a bribe I would certainly not take a check made out to Sam Diner; I am smarter than that."

So it is an obvious case that this thing is private thing and it is between me and the man that I took $50.00 from, but they knew deep in their hearts that I am shielding something [902] that I will not reveal.

During the time of the trial Walter Lambert's brother and somebody else came out to my home and asked me for the letter that Sam wrote, the last letter, because they wanted to prefer charges against Sam Darcy. And by the way, Sam Darcy was expelled as a member of the Central Committee at the very same time, but in order to substantialize their argument I should turn over the letter. And I showed the letter to Mr. Schneider—Schneiderman, the present district organizer. I showed him the letter and he promised me, on his word of honor—I was there at the office—that he will read the letter and give it to me back, and he kept his word for once and he gave me the letter back, and a few days after the very same committee came out and said to me, "Give us the letter because we want to prefer charges against Sam Darcy for writing you a letter of that sort, not to us." Their vanity was touched, and I refused to give the letter.

When the Party told me again I was doing wrong I still refused to submit the truth of the matter. It was not a question of lying. I had no motive in it. I had nothing to gain. But it was a question of shielding a friend. That is all I did.

This was a major issue, and the Union and the Party at that time they united themselves to convict me as unbecoming an officer in the Union until such time that I will be able to prove worthy of the situation when the Party will take me back and I will be able to run for office again. [903]

That is your answer.

Q. I still don't have an answer. Do you mean that——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) You have your answer. I object to that statement of counsel.

Mr. Grossman: The record will speak for itself. I tried to find out how he left his office and he still hasn't told me.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I insist that he has.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Must I assume that Mr. Dubinsky framed you so this Union threw you out from that office?

A. I didn't say that.

Q. Then how did you happen to leave the office? Did you resign?

A. No.

Q. How did you get out?

A. I said a minute ago that I was tried and found not competent enough to be a business representative.

Q. By whom were you tried?

A. By a committee of the Union.

Q. Was it elected in the usual way?

A. No; it was appointed.

Q. Was it elected in the way that the Constitution and rules of that Union provide?

Mr. Del Guercio: The witness has said that it was appointed and wasn't elected. [904]

Presiding Inspector: I don't know—I suppose we would have to go into the rules if you insist on that.

Mr. Grossman: I want to know whether this witness admits or not that the rules and the Constitution, and everything governing that Union were followed and complied with, and whether his being removed from that office was legal in every way, or whether he is attacking the method used.

Presiding Inspector: Don't you think that is pretty far afield?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Mr. Grossman: Far afield? Wasn't this man thrown out of his position in the Union?

Mr. Del Guercio: He hasn't testified to that.

Mr. Gladstein: If your Honor please—

Presiding Inspector: Just a moment! One counsel at a time. Sit down, please, Mr. Gladstein.

Talking to you, Mr. Grossman, I say that this is far afield of what we are considering here. It may be very important in Union matters, but I don't see that it has much relevancy. I will exclude that question until you produce the rules.

Mr. Grossman: I will state this as to the relevancy of this line of inquiry.

Presiding Inspector: Never mind the relevancy now. I exclude it on the form of your question.

Mr. Grossman: I will withdraw that question. But you raised a doubt as to its relevancy. [905]

Presiding Inspector: But that is persuasive merely. It doesn't seem to have the effect.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Will you please itemize for us everything the Union did immediately before your being removed from that position with reference to it?

A. Itemize what?

Q. Pardon? A. Itemize what?

Q. All the actions of the Union with reference to your being removed from your position in the Union.

Presiding Inspector: Just a moment. You mean the steps which were taken?

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. The President of the Union appointed a committee at an executive session, at the regular executive session of the Union, not mentioning what the matter was at all. He said, "You and you, and you, are going to be a committee tomorrow night." I even didn't know what they were talking about.

The following day when the committee is supposed to take part in discussing the problem I was called in. They said, "This is the charge against you: That you took $50 bribe from Mr. So and so, and here is the check."

That was the entire procedure, appointed by the President of the Union a Committee to suit him, or best qualified, and [906] that was the end.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Was the hearing held at the same time that you were presented with the charges?

A. What do you mean? Of course the hearing was held.

Q. At the same time? A. Yes.

Q. Immediately following the time that you were presented with the charges?

A. I was not presented with any charges until the hearing took place.

Q. Were you presented with the charges before the hearing took place. A. No.

Q. Were you presented with the charges after the hearing took place? A. No.

Q. Then when, with relation to the hearing, were you presented with the charges?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment. I object to the question. The witness has already answered that he was presented with the charges during the hearing.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it. Go ahead.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. When, with relation to the hearing, were you presented [907] with the charges, Mr. Diner?

A. At the time the hearing took place. Up to that time I didn't have no knowledge of what they were cooking there.

Q. Had the hearing started at the time you were presented with the charges?

A. The charges were presented during the time of the hearing.

Q. Was any evidence produced at the hearing before you were presented with the charges?

A. No.

Q. Was there evidence produced at the hearing?

A. Yes.

Q. Did this committee make any finding or recommendation with reference to you? A. Yes.

Q. What was their finding or recommendation?

A. The finding was nothing, until the first Vice President of the International called a mass meeting and he said, "Despite your decision he is going to be out," and this is on the record.

Q. What was the name of that man?

A. Mr. Fineberg.

Q. It is your testimony, is it, that this committee that was appointed by the President of the Union made no finding whatsoever with respect to you?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. They found reprimanding me of borrowing money from a [908] manufacturer that we have contractual relationship with, and it wasn't ethical.

I agreed that it wasn't ethical.

But when this decision was rendered and the wolves saw they can't get me out, Mr. Feinberg called a special meeting, spoke for two hours, which I was present at, and this is the remarks he made: "Despite of your defending Diner, you keep Diner and we will take the charter."

That is what his remarks were.

Then I stood up and told the members that some day they will find out the truth; that the charter is more important than Sam Diner, and I walked out from the hall.

The following day I went up to the Union and they gave me a working card to go to work, and I went to work in a factory.

Q. Was any action taken with reference to you at that specially called meeting at which Mr. Feinberg spoke? A. I told you.

Q. Was any action taken, Mr. Diner?

A. I don't know what you call "action."

Q. Was any motion passed with reference to you?

A. No motion was made. I told you that Mr. Feinberg made that statement.

After that I stood up and pleaded with the workers because—let me tell you another thing: I was asked if I would [909] not come up at that meeting and plead with the workers to be passive in the situation, or otherwise something would have happened. I wanted to avoid that happening.

Q. Is it your testimony, Mr. Diner, that at this meeting that we are referring to, no motion was passed, no resolution was passed, no action was taken by the membership there with reference to you as a member of the Union, or as a holder of this office in the Union?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment. Counsel is purporting to state what the testimony is. There has been no such testimony here.

Presiding Inspector: I think I will allow it. This is his interpretation of it.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you want the question read back by the reporter?

A. By anybody; I don't care.

Presiding Inspector: Read the question, Mr. Reporter.

(The question referred to was read by the Reporter as above recorded.)

Presiding Inspector: I think this means—and correct me if I am wrong—you mean formal action?

Mr. Grossman: Of course.

Presiding Inspector: It might be action considered by no objection being taken.

Mr. Grossman: I mean by the membership; the membership [910] has various ways of acting. I think Mr. Diner, as an official of the Union for some time, would recognize what I mean by the distinction between action of the membership as such and by some individuals.

Presiding Inspector: That wasn't what I meant.

Mr. Grossman: I mean formal action by the membership.

Presiding Inspector: Was there a vote taken?

The witness: Let me go back——

Presiding Inspector: Was there a vote taken?

The Witness: There was no vote taken.

Presiding Inspector: Was there any opposition to Mr. Feinberg's statement?

The Witness: That is why I want to go back for just a paragraph.

Presiding Inspector: "Yes" or "No"—was there any opposition to Mr. Feinberg's statement?

The Witness: Quite a number of oppositions.

Presiding Inspector: That answers the question.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. To your knowledge, Mr. Diner, after this hearing that we have discussed, did the local union to which you belonged, or the International union to which you belonged, take any action to remove you from your position in the Union?

A. I seems that I made it clear, but I am going to make it clearer for you. [911]

Q. First, just answer that question "Yes" or "No".

A. Well, I can't answer it "Yes" or "No". I must talk about it.

Q. All right—talk.

A. When Mr. Feinberg made up his mind that at any cost this thing must go through; the devil itself couldn't stop it. That is the way people work in the Union, or any other organization.

Well, the Union, to me, was very dear. I helped build that Union since 1910, and to me it meant life and death that that Union should go to pieces on account of my ownself.

When Mr. Feinberg came up and prepared his speech to talk to the vast majority of the people there, when he made a definite stand that the charter will be taken away, that there was only one alternative left for the workers to do, either keep Sam Diner, or he takes the charter, that was a serious remark.

I felt it was my duty, and I didn't speak up, because Mr. Feinberg was still an officer, and I felt that it should not be my position to try to break the thing that I helped build. You don't break up a home when you build it yourself.

But finally I stood up and pleaded with the workers, because I knew what was organizing in that hall, and I was trying to the utmost to prevent bloodshed, if you please. That is a strong word, but that is the truth. I went up, took my coat off, and I spoke, as little as I understand, as much as I know. I [912] pleaded with the workers to calm down; that the decision of a superior officer must be law; that some day or another the truth of the matter will come out; but at this time I am willing to submit to the desire of the black reactionary forces. That was my word. I urged the people to accept the recommendation of Mr. Feinberg. No vote was taken in the hall. The hall walked out. They didn't wait until the meeting adjourned. Downstairs we had to call the police to stop fights.

That is all. No vote was taken. They gained their objective and I gained mine.

Q. Is it your statement, Mr. Diner, that Mr. Dubinsky and Mr. Feinberg had made up their minds that they were going to remove you from your position as business agent irrespective of whether or not you had done anything which would justify removal from that position, and that they seized on this opportunity to do so?

A. I think you know better than that. However, you are an attorney and I am going to answer you.

Whatever and whenever people of that sort don't want you nobody can save you. You are out. That is just a question of time. I was in there in the office not to the liking of them.

I want to quote another instance here while we are talking about it——

Presiding Inspector: I think you had better not until you are asked about it.

Go ahead. [913]

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. In your reference to people of "that sort" did you refer to Dubinsky and Feinberg, was that the group you were talking about?

A. I referred to Dubinsky, Sam Darcy, or anyone connected with an organization that is determined to gain their objective.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. All right. Now, here is the problem, Mr. Diner, and I would like to have you give the best answer you can as to which alternative is correct. I am concerned with whether you were expelled or removed from your position in the Union——

A. (Interposing) I answered that.

Q. (Continuing) Just a moment. I have two alternatives I am going to state and I would like to have you tell me whether either are correct.

I am concerned with whether or not you were removed from your position in the Union because the membership was convinced that you had acted in a way a Union official should not act—that is one alternative—or whether you were removed from your position in the Union, though you had done nothing wrong as an officer, solely because Dubinsky and Feinberg insisted on it? Is either of those alternatives correct and, if so, which one?

Presiding Inspector: Doesn't this merely call for the operation of his mind?

Mr. Grossman: He has a great deal of information, your [914] Honor, upon which he can base an answer from his personal knowledge. If he is able to state that it was the position of the membership that they should not have acted, he can know that of his own knowledge.

Presiding Inspector: I don't know whether he can. He can have an idea about it and an opinion.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Mr. Grossman: If it is based on facts I am willing to hear it.

I would like to know whether this man admits that he acted, or the membership considered he acted in a way that was not proper for a Union member, or for a Union official to act, or whether he claims he was merely framed by Dubinsky and Feinberg and that his conduct was not something of importance to the Union.

Presiding Inspector: Do you want his opinion or his own actions?

Mr. Grossman: I want his opinion as to what transpired in the Union and the expressions by the membership on the one hand, and by Dubinsky on the other.

Presiding Inspector: If you can answer it, go ahead.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I be heard on that?

Presiding Inspector: You may.

Mr. Del Guercio: The witness has already given an account of what has occurred. Now counsel is asking for the same thing all over again. He has given everything that he knows concerning [915] that situation.

Presiding Inspector: That may be so, but at the same time he wants to know, from the position of the Union, as this witness knows it as a member of the Union, whether that was an expulsion or not. Is that really what you are getting at?

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the question as being in the alternative.

Mr. Grossman: I have a right to ask the question in that way.

Presiding Inspector: Do you want to frame your question again?

Mr. Grossman: Is there an objection to it? I would rather have it read if there is no objection.

Mr. Del Guercio: There is an objection.

Presiding Inspector: There is an objection.

Read the question, Mr. Reporter.

(The record was read by the reporter as follows:

"Q. All right. Now, here is the problem, Mr. Diner, and I would like to have you give the best answer you can as to which alternative is correct. I am concerned with whether you were expelled or removed from your position in the Union——

"A. (interposing) I answered that.

"Q. (continuing) Just a moment. I have two alternatives I am going to state and I would like to have you tell [916] me whether either are correct.

"I am concerned with whether or not you were removed from your position in the Union because the membership was convinced that you had acted in a way a Union official should not act—that is one alternative—or whether you were removed from your position in the Union, though you had done nothing wrong as an officer, solely because Dubinsky and Feinberg insisted on it? Is either of those alternatives correct and, if so, which one?")

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Is either of those alternatives correct?

Presiding Inspector: That is a difficult question for me to understand, at least, but if the witness understands it he can answer.

The Witness: I do understand it.

Presiding Inspector: Answer it.

The Witness: I can answer it, too.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. The first question is whether either of those alternatives is correct.

A. You asked a question and I can answer it by——

Q. (By Mr. Grossman) Just a minute. First, answer if either of those alternatives is correct.

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Just a moment. He is answering the question. [917]

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. First, I would like an answer to the question as to whether either of those alternatives is correct. Answer the question "Yes" or "No."

Presiding Inspector: You have asked more than that.

Mr. Grossman: I asked first whether either is correct.

Presiding Inspector: Put one question at a time. Strike all that question and start over again.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Was it correct that the membership of this local union of which you were an officer removed you from that office because they were convinced that you had acted in such a way as a member and official of a trade union should not act; is that correct? A. No.

Q. Is it correct that you were removed from your office in your local union despite the fact that you had done nothing wrong in that office solely because Dubinsky and Feinberg insisted you should be so removed? A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right, that is all on that.

Do you happen to know of your own knowledge whether any action was taken by the local union formally to remove you from your position?

A. No. [918]

Q. In the union? A. No.

Presiding Inspector: You mean you don't know, or no action was taken?

The Witness: No action was taken while I was there.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you happen to know whether any formal action was taken by the International Union or the Executive Board of the International Union to remove you or suspend you from that position?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At what meeting or by what individual was this action taken?

A. Let me talk now. You asked me a question: I have to answer it; I have to talk about it, now. May I?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead.

The Witness: We have to go back into a little history here. When the Needle Trade Workers Industrial Union decided that there is no more room for their existence, that we have to penetrate again into the A. F. of L. unions, we dissolved that Needle Trade Workers Industrial Union, and we rebuild and we dissolve at just a snap of the finger. Then, I was the last one to enter that union. The union decided—the A. F. of L. Union decided they don't want me there, and I don't blame them. The workers, however, wanted me there. And the workers from the A. F. of L. Union, mind you, went to [919] the General Executive Board through mail, or otherwise, and told them that I have a certain amount of influence among the cloak makers, that it would be better to rebuild the union with my presence than without my presence. They can't keep me out of the industry despite the fact that the Needle Trade Workers Industrial Union dissolves itself, but I am still a member of the industry and they can't deprive me of making a living, so the best thing to do is to take him in, and I went in; they took me in.

Two months later a district convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union took place, was supposed to take place, rather, and delegates were supposed to be elected, and the workers nominated me as a delegate and I got 99-9/10 per cent of votes for that delegation.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. How many voted?

A. A few hundred. And the ones that were prior before I came in, die-hards of the International, so to speak, I mean the old timers,—never mind—they were defeated, and you know what happened. Mr. Feinberg flew from New York to come to a meeting and deprive the workers of their votes saying that Sam Diner cannot be a delegate to this convention, and despite of the fact that the people voted so unanimously I was not seated. That is your answer.

Mr. Grossman: I submit, your Honor, that that is in no [920] way an answer to my question.

Presiding Inspector: I told you I didn't understand the question and I don't understand the answer.

Mr. Grossman: If the question could be read I think that would be clear it is not in any sense an answer.

Presiding Inspector: Well, you can press the witness.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. The question was—and I will repeat it—whether any action was taken by the International Union or any of its officers to remove you from your office as Business Agent in the local union?

A. First of all——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Well, now——

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

The Witness: (Interposing) No.

Presiding Inspector: That is an answer.

The Witness: No.

Mr. Grossman: All right. You could have saved us a lot of time if we had that before.

Your Honor, do you want to adjourn?

Presiding Inspector: I thought, perhaps, we might finish with this witness.

Mr. Grossman: I don't think we can.

Presiding Inspector: Very well, then, we will adjourn until 2:00 o'clock.

(Whereupon at 12:30 p.m., a recess was taken until 2:00 o'clock of the same day.) [921]

After Recess
2:00 O'Clock P. M.

Mr. Grossman: Ready, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

SAM DINER

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Cross Examination (Resumed)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Diner, how long before you were removed from your position as Business Agent did this transaction concerning the $50.00 take place—rather, the loan of the $50.00 took place how long before you were removed from your position as Business Agent?

A. Oh, I think about a month or so; maybe five weeks. I don't remember the date.

Q. At least it was a short time?

A. Well, if you call a month or so a short time; yes.

Q. It wouldn't have been as long as a year?

A. Oh, no; no.

Q. And your best guess is a month to five weeks, something like that?

A. I wouldn't say definitely, but it was a short time. It was during the time that I was Business Agent and I wasn't on for a full term, so it couldn't have been a year. [922]

Q. During what term were you Business Agent?

A. I think during 1937, or 1936; something like that.

Q. For how long were you Business Agent?

A. Oh, for about nine or ten months to the best of my recollection.

Q. It wasn't over a year?

A. I don't remember. I don't think so; I don't remember anyhow.

Q. Were they one year terms? A. No; no.

Q. How long was the term for that you were elected for?

A. You get elected every year; every election.

Q. Were you re-elected for a second year?

A. Well, first I was in for a short time, if I remember, not elected at all. I was put in there and then, a short time before the election, and then I was officially elected.

Q. Who put you in?

A. Who put me in? The workers.

Q. Well, wasn't there any official action taken?

A. No. That doesn't go like that. It goes—the Business Agent prior to me was elevated to another place, a fellow named White. Then they combed around for a person to take over the office, and the workers got together and proposed me, even without my knowledge of it, and when they got sort of a favorable answer they asked me whether I would accept it. [923] By the way, before I accepted I consulted with the Party and they told me to accept the offer.

Q. How long did you serve before the election took place?

A. I don't remember; a short time.

Q. Then the total time you served as Business Agent was a short time before the election and less than a whole term after the election?

A. Correct.

Q. Now, could you state again, as well as you can spell it, the name of this man who discovered from the books of the company information on this $50.00 loan? A. Cargar.

Q. Could you spell it as well as you can?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Now, it was your testimony, was it, that as part of his authority under the NRA he was enabled to examine the books of the employer and in so examining the books he found this information?

A. His business was to examine the payroll of the workers and in that payroll he found my name written out, "S. Diner, $50.00."

Q. Well, where did he get his authorization to do that? From the NRA?

A. No; by mutual consent from the Manufacturers Association [924] and the Union which I was responsible for drawing up a contract to that effect.

Q. Well, what did that have to do with the NRA?

A. Well, I said before he was an officer in the NRA, to refresh your memory who he is.

Q. Oh, I see. Now, this transaction involving the $50.00 took place about how long after you contacted the attorney with reference to getting the indictment——

A. (Interposing) It was at the same time.

Q. About the same time?

A. About the same time, I mean a month or two or three before; it was within a short time; I mean, it didn't go into years; it went into months. To be exact, how many days or how many weeks I really don't remember.

Q. Now, Mr. Diner, you stated that you at present have a business at San Rafael?

A. I have had it for eleven years.

Q. And what is the name of that business?

A. Marin Smart Shop.

Q. Marin Smart Shop. Does anyone else own part of that business or is it owned entirely by you?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. Owned by my wife originally, and that remained; she opened the business while I was working.

Q. During the time that you were business agent of the Union she was running this—she owned and ran this shop, is [925] that right? A. Correct.

Q. For how long a period of time have you been working in this shop?

A. Up until the end of 1937.

Q. You mean beginning then?

A. (No response.)

Q. In the shop in San Rafael, for how long a time have you been working there?

A. Since 1937.

Q. Since you left——

A. (Interposing) Left the shop. Which shop? The city, any shop that I worked.

Q. The time when you went to work in the shop in San Rafael was how long after you were removed from your position as Business Agent?

A. I was removed before.

Q. How much time was there between your removal as Business Agent and your going to work in this shop in San Rafael?

A. You mean what shop?

Q. The shop you now own.

A. My place, huh?

Q. The shop you now own?

A. It is not a shop; it is a store. [926]

Q. I beg your pardon; the store. A. Yes.

Q. How much time between your going to work in this store in San Rafael and your removal as Business Agent?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. Oh, about three or four months.

Q. Have you had any other employment—withdraw that. After you were removed as Business Agent did you go to work in the industry?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you work for one or several employers?

A. For two.

Q. And you worked for those two a total of three, four months, something like that?

A. Something like that, yes.

Q. Yes. After that time did you have any employment except employment in this store in San Rafael? A. No.

Q. Did you have any income except income from that store in San Rafael?

A. Did I have what?

Q. Any income except income from that store in San Rafael? A. No.

Q. And since that time when you first went to work in this store in San Rafael you have worked continuously there? [927] A. Correct.

Q. Up to and including today?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. Diner, have you ever used any other names? A. Never.

Q. Are you a citizen of the United States?

A. I am.

Q. By birth or by naturalization?

A. By naturalization.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. When were you naturalized?

A. In 1916.

Q. And where were you naturalized?

A. In Oakland.

Q. Have you ever been convicted of any crime?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever been charged with any felony?

A. Yes.

Q. When was that?

A. It was during the strike in Oakland.

Q. Were there any other occasions when you were charged with a felony? A. No.

Q. Did this occasion grow out of the strike?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you acquitted on this occasion? [928]

A. I was.

Q. Within the last five years have you ever been on relief or WPA? A. Never.

Q. When was the first time that any representative of the FBI spoke to you about your information on Harry Bridges, or about testifying in this case?

A. Oh, about two or three months ago.

Q. Where did it take place?

A. They came into my establishment and asked my name, and showed their credentials, who they are.

Q. Do you remember the names of those men?

A. Yes. Devereaux and Hopton.

The Reporter: Spell them, please?

Mr. Del Guercio: D-e-v-e-r-e-a-u-x—H-o-p-t-o-n.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. That was the first time that you discussed with any representative of the FBI what you knew about Harry Bridges?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. I didn't discuss it with them. I made a date with them at their office.

Q. And did you go through with the appointment that you made? A. I did.

Q. At your store? A. I did.

Q. And when did this appointment take place? [929]

A. I don't know when; within the last three months.

Q. How long after they came to your store?

A. A couple of days afterward.

Q. At that time did you tell them what you knew about Harry Bridges?

A. I didn't tell them; they asked me questions and I answered them.

Q. In answering the questions did you tell them all you knew about Harry Bridges?

A. All that I knew about Harry Bridges.

Q. At that time did you sign any statement?

A. I did.

Q. At any other time have you had a conference with the agents of the FBI at which you told them what you knew about Harry Bridges?

A. Well, I had about two or three of them, that is, the same thing continuing. We didn't finish at one time. It took about three meetings, I guess.

Q. The statement was not signed then at this first meeting, is that correct? A. No, sir.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. I was signed at the end of these several meetings? A. Yes.

Q. How many different statements did you sign?

A. Only one statement I signed. [930]

Q. In that statement did you make in substance all the statements about Harry Bridges that you have made here today? A. Exactly.

Q. Did you ever speak to any representative of the Immigration and Naturalization Service concerning what you know about Harry Bridges?

A. No, I did not.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, please. I don't believe that he knows who are the representatives of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, if your Honor please.

Mr. Grossman: His answer is "No."

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, do you know whether I am a representative of the Immigration and Naturalization Service?

The Witness: I don't know.

Presiding Inspector: Of course the answer means "No" as far as his information lies.

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Have you spoken to any other representative of the Government concerning what you know about Harry Bridges, except those that you have named?

A. I did not.

Q. Have you ever spoken to any representative of the State Government, or of any City Government, with reference to [931] what you know about Harry Bridges? A. I did not.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. Or have you discussed with any representative of the Federal Government, outside of those that you have named, what you know about Harry Bridges? A. No, I did not.

Q. At these conferences with the representatives of the FBI was anyone else present except those persons that you have specifically named?

A. No.

Presiding Inspector: Do you mean that absolutely as you asked it, clerks or stenographers?

Mr. Grossman: I was assuming he was including clerks or stenographers.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Excluding anyone who was making notes of what transpired there, there was no one else present, is that right? A. No; just three of us.

Q. But there was a stenographer taking down notes, was there? A. No.

Q. One of these men, one of these two men you have named took down notes?

A. Yes: At the time of the completion of the thing the stenographer was there. [932]

Q. Have you ever discussed what you know about Harry Bridges with any representative of the Dies Committee? A. No, sir.

Q. Have you ever testified before any Governmental Committee as to what you know about Harry Bridges? A. No, I did not.

Mr. Grossman: It will take about a minute reading a statement that has just been handed to me, your Honor. I haven't had a chance to go over it.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Diner, was the man from whom you borrowed the $50.00 an official at that time of the Cloak & Suit Manufacturers Association?

A. No.

Q. Was he just prior to that time?

A. No.

Q. Was he immediately after that time?

A. After that time?

Q. Yes. A. I don't know. [933]

Q. Are you sure of that?

A. Yes, I am sure.

Q. What did you say, Mr. Diner, was the name of that defense committee or defense organization of which you were Treasurer?

A. The Civil Liberties Right.

Q. Civil Liberties what?

A. The Civil Liberties Defense Committee.

Q. And how long were you Treasurer of that organization? A. A short time.

Q. About how long?

A. Oh, maybe a couple of months or so.

Q. Not longer than that?

A. I don't think so.

Q. What were the circumstances surrounding your leaving that position of Treasurer of that organization? A. Circumstances?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. Yes. A. I don't know.

Q. Well, what happened?

A. There was no money; everything was on paper; and all the paper was assigned to the proper station.

Q. No, I mean what happened? How did you happen to leave? [934]

A. The Committee gave itself up.

Q. You mean the Committee was disbanded?

A. Yes, sir; gave up the office and the show was over.

Q. You were Treasurer, then, until the Committee disbanded, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. During the time that you were Treasurer of that Committee, or after you left the position of Treasurer of that Committee was any charge made, to your knowledge, to the effect that you had either used for your own purpose or failed to return, or embezzled any of the money of that Committee? A. No siree.

Q. You are sure no such charge was ever brought to your attention?

A. Definitely, definitely not.

Q. Was your signature sufficient to withdraw money from the funds of that Committee, or was it arranged that several people had——

A. (Interposing). My signature was sufficient.

Q. This would be for the entire time that you were Treasurer of this Committee?

A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

Q. When you left that job as Treasurer of that Committee did you account for all the funds that had come into your [935] possession as Treasurer of that Committee?

A. Accounted and signed by the district committee of the Communist Party.

Q. And when you left that job you had turned over to some successor or some person all of the funds that had been given to you as Treasurer of that Committee, or you had explained their being spent, is that correct?

A. There was no funds; everything on paper, bail put up for people pending trial, when the Committee disbanded itself.

Q. Was there any question when you left as Treasurer of that Committee whether there was any shortage in the funds of that Committee?

A. No, no such question was brought up because the money was there.

Q. Were books kept by that Committee?

A. Books kept by the Communist Party, not by that Committee.

Q. Did you keep any books?

A. No, sir.

Q. You mean to say, then, that you have no record of the money that you had received?

A. The Party had the records; the Party put in a Secretary of their own. I was only Treasurer, not Secretary.

Q. Then, it is your testimony that you had nothing to do with the keeping of records of financial transactions while [936] you were Treasurer?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. No, sir.

Q. You did nothing more than sign checks, is that correct?

A. If I was told to sign the check.

Q. That is correct, but you had nothing to do more with the financial details except to sign checks?

A. Tried to see that the treasury should always be full; that was my duty, too.

Q. Did you have anything to do with obtaining money for the use of this Committee?

A. Obtaining money?

Q. Yes. A. Not exactly.

Q. Well, did you obtain any money for this Committee? A. Yes, I did.

Q. What the total sum that you obtained?

A. Thousands of dollars.

Q. It was obtained, was it, as loans and gifts?

A. I always received an order to go to this and that person, that there would be money waiting for me, and I did so. I didn't know those people from Adams.

Q. And did you give receipts to those people from whom you obtained money?

A. You bet; the receipts was made out before I went [937] for money, not from me, but from the office.

Q. You mean you didn't sign any of the receipts? A. No, sir.

Q. Now, when charges were brought against you in your local union with respect to this $50.00 did you make any explanation at all in the local union as to this $50.00?

A. First of all there was no charges made by the local union.

Q. I said in the local union.

A. Charges were made by individual people.

Q. In the local union, was the question.

A. It was never brought charges in the local union.

Q. At the time some charges were brought by someone, Mr. Diner, who had something to do with the local union, did you make any explanation to that union or to the trial committee with respect to the $50.00?

A. I couldn't make no explanation because I had to shield something.

Q. Did you——

A. (Interposing): So I couldn't tell the truth.

Q. Did you or did you not?

A. I answered that.

Q. Will you please answer it directly. Did you make any explanation?

A. No, I did not. [938]

Q. Did you ever make any explanation to the membership of the union either formally at a meeting or informally as to the $50.00?

A. Well, I don't know. Formally I never made any statement.

Q. Informally, did you?

A. Perhaps, I did.

Q. What explanation did you make?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. I don't remember the explanation; a flimsy one.

Q. It was not the true one?

A. It was not the truth.

Q. While you were Business Agent of this union did you have anything to do with the store owned by your wife in San Rafael?

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, if your Honor please, I object to that line of questioning. It is not relevant; immaterial; already gone into.

Presiding Inspector: I don't understand it, the point of it, but I will receive it.

Mr. Grossman: I will be more specific.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you have anything to do with the business of the store in San Rafael? For example, did you buy for the store? Did you sell in the store?

[939]

A. I was never home.

Q. Then; you had nothing to do whatsoever with the business transactions of that store in San Rafael—

A. Very little.

Q. Just a minute. Let me finish my whole question.

A. All right, pardon me.

Q. You had nothing to do with the business transactions of this store in San Rafael during the period that you were Business Agent of the union?

A. Very little.

Q. What was that little?

A. Sometimes, if I went in the morning to the office the wife told me to go up here and here and get this and this, so I went there, fulfilled the mission of your own wife.

Q. In other words, you were doing some buying, were you, of dresses?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you do anything for this store in San Rafael while you were Business Agent of the Union?

A. I said that if my wife told me that she was short of something, go up here and here and give this, and they shipped it.

Q. In other words, you were merely a messenger boy to transmit an order from your wife to the company, is that all? A. Yes, sir. [940]

Q. Were you ever criticized in your union for having anything to do with buying merchandise for this store in San Rafael at the same time that you Business Agent of the union?

A. They knew before they elected me Business Agent that he have a store, but I was never criticised. They knew I had a store.

Q. Do you mean that it was your store when you said you had a store?

A. My wife. Well, that is—it is in her name and is still in her name.

Q. But you considered it was your store at the time you were Business Agent, in the sense, at least, it was yours and your wife's?

A. She is my wife; it is my store too.

Q. As a matter of law it is possible for it to be her property and not yours.

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. No, it is mutual; I guess that is the way it should be.

Q. That was true during the entire time you were Business Agent? A. Yes, sir. [941]

Q. Is it possible for you to name these companies from whom, to whom you delivered these orders from your wife, and from whom you picked up or arranged for the picking up of merchandise—can you name those companies?

A. I can if I have to, but I refuse to answer that.

Q. On what basis do you refuse to answer?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I don't see the materiality of this. Does counsel think it a crime for a person to go into business with his wife?

Presiding Inspector: I don't know, but I think I will let him answer. You had better answer that.

The Witness: Sure—I can give a dozen.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Will you do so, please?

A. Yes—Jimmy Thompson, Hamburger Apparel and Seaman—that is about all.

The Reporter: Spell the last name, please.

The Witness: I don't know; you know.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Now, these companies that you have named employed members of your Union, isn't that correct?

A. They did not. They are jobbers.

Q. Did you deal as Business Agent of the Union with any of these companies that you have just named? A. With one.

Q. Which one? [942]

A. Jimmy Thompson.

Q. What was the nature of the relationship between the Union and Jimmy Thompson at the time you were Business Agent?

A. He had an outside shop.

Q. Did he have a contract with the Union?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did you negotiate with him in any way?

A. A correction—he did not have no contract. It was a sub-contract.

Q. Did he have any relationship with the Union?

A. He didn't sign any agreement. He obligated himself to give his work to a Union shop; that was his obligation.

Q. What kind of garments generally are sold in this store in San Rafael?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute. I don't think that is material. Counsel must be getting——

Presiding Inspector: Counsel seems to think it is of importance. Proceed.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Are the garments that are sold, and were sold during this period in the San Rafael store, generally the same garments that are produced by members of your local Union in San Francisco, the same general type?

(Testimony of Sam Diner.)

A. Every garment is produced by local unions, whether it is in San Francisco or New York.

Q. Within the jurisdiction of your local—in other [943] words, are the garments produced under the jurisdiction of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union?

A. Some garments are and some are not.

Q. Most of them are?

A. I wouldn't say most of them. Now they are. At that time we had a small establishment and we had merchandise that didn't have no label at all; there was no union at all.

Q. But produced by workers who were eligible to join your International Union?

A. Wouldn't be produced by anybody else.

Q. What is the answer, "Yes" or "No"?

A. Yes.

Mr. Grossman: Your Honor, we have no more question, but, as we indicated at the beginning, we didn't feel that we could make a complete examination because of the necessity of checking further and we, therefore, renew our request.

Presiding Inspector: If you have anything further to bring out call it to my attention hereafter. Mr. Diner will doubtless not be far away.

The Witness: If your Honor please, may I make a statement? I will be away for about two days.

Presiding Inspector: That will be all right.

Mr. Del Guercio: May the witness be excused?

Presiding Inspector: Ultimately; yes. If I think it is material, and counsel brings something to my attention, and I [944] think it is material, I shall ask you to bring back the witness.

Mr. Del Guercio: We are not required to keep him here at Government expense?

Presiding Inspector: You can release him and we will be back. We will trust him.

Mr. Grossman: That is all.

Presiding Inspector: That is true with witnesses generally.

Mr. Del Guercio: I am concerned with the expense.

Presiding Inspector: I don't think that is necessary at all. If we find there is something material that counsel wishes further to ask him why, you will use the usual way to bring him back.

Mr. Del Guercio: By subpoena by the defense.

Presiding Inspector: We will bring him back. You will come back?

The Witness: Sure I will.

Presiding Inspector: There will be no trouble about it at all.

(Witness temporarily excused.)

Mr. Del Guercio: It will take a minute to bring in the next witness.

Presiding Inspector: Stand up, raise your right hand, and be sworn. [945]

THOMAS LAURENCE

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What is your name??

A. Thomas Laurence—L-a-u-r-e-n-c-e.

Q. What is your place of residence?

A. 1249 West 58th Street, Los Angeles, California.

Q. Are you at present employed?

A. Yes. I am employed as a cutter for the Red Cross.

Mr. Grossman: May I have the answer read, please?

(The answer referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Have you ever previously given any testimony in connection with the Harry Bridges matter? A. No.

Q. Are you affiliated with any labor organization at the present time?

A. I am a member of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union.

Q. Where?

A. In Los Angeles, California.

Q. For how long a period of time have you been a member [946] of that Union?

A. For about eight years; since 1932.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Are you a member in good standing at the present time? A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever been a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. When did you join the Communist Party?

A. I joined the Communist Party in April of 1933.

Q. And for how long a period did you remain in the Communist Party?

A. For approximately two years.

Q. When did you leave the Communist Party?

A. About 1935; about the first of the year.

Q. State whether you were expelled or whether you left voluntarily?

A. I left voluntarily.

Q. While you were a member of the Communist Party were you given any tasks to perform for the Communist Party?

A. No, no specific tasks. I wasn't an officer or any functionary.

Q. You never were a functionary or an officer of the Communist Party? A. No.

Q. Were you connected with any particular unit within the Communist Party? [947]

A. Well, all Party members belong to a unit. I belonged to the trade union group within the Party.

Q. What do you mean "trade union group"?

A. Trade union Fraction.

Q. Was that of the union in which you were a member? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. There was a Communist unit within that Union?

A. Well, there was a Communist Fraction in that Union; yes.

Q. Composed entirely of members of the Communist Party?

A. Composed entirely of members of the Communist Party; yes.

Q. And you were a member of that unit?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the purpose of that Unit?

A. That was to take up all questions pertaining to the action and behavior, and the policies that the Party members were supposed to take up within the Union.

Q. Do you know the Alien here, Harry Bridges?

A. Yes.

Q. Where is he?

A. He sits right there. (Indicating).

Mr. Del Guercio: May the record show he has identified Harry Bridges?

Presiding Inspector: Yes. There is no question about [948] that, is there?

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. When did you first see the Alien, Harry Bridges?

A. The first I saw of him was pictures in the paper.

Q. When did you first see him physically?

A. The first time I saw him physically was at a meeting that we held in my home.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. At a meeting that was held in your home. Where was your home at that time?

A. At 1114 Bellevue Street.

Q. What city?

A. Los Angeles, California.

Q. And with whom were you living there?

A. I was living with my wife.

Q. And how long had you had that apartment up to that time?

A. A very short time; I would say a couple of months.

Q. When did this meeting occur in your apartment at the time you saw Bridges there?

A. This occurred during the time of the strike the waterfront strike in 1934.

Q. Could you be more specific than that?

A. No, I couldn't.

Q. Some time during the 1934 strike?

A. Some time during the 1934 strike.

Q. That was between May 9, 1934 and July 31, 1934? [949] A. Yes.

Q. Now, was your apartment ever used for Communist Party meetings?

A. Yes; my apartment was used for generally; Communist unit meetings and also it was used for meetings of the sub-section organizers.

Q. Well, now, what is the sub-section organizers?

A. That is a meeting that takes place weekly of all the organizers of the Communist units of a certain section.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Were you ever a member of such a section?

A. No, I wasn't an organizer of a unit, so I didn't belong to that.

Q. But they held meetings in your apartment?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you present at such meetings?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. And how frequently would the Communist Party hold section organizers' meeting in your apartment?

A. They would hold them, I say, about maybe once a month, the sub-section meetings, because they always wanted to vary them; they didn't want to hold them consecutively twice in the same place. They would try to find different meeting places all the time. There was a scarcity of meeting places so they oftentimes asked me to use my place.

Q. Was that the usual practice of the Communist Party [950] at the time to hold such meeting in different homes?

A. Yes; that was the usual practice.

Q. And who would ask you for the use of your apartment to hold such section organizers' meetings in?

A. Generally speaking, one of the section organizers would ask me.

Q. Can you give us the names of any persons who would ask you?

A. No, I couldn't recall right at the present.

Q. Do you know Elmer Hanoff. A. Yes.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Would he ever ask for the use of your apartment for such meetings?

A. No. Generally he wouldn't ask me. It would be some of the organizers, possibly the organizer of the unit that I belonged to, because he was in closer contact with me. [951]

Q. Now, this particular meeting at which you say you saw Bridges, who asked you for the use of the apartment?

A. One of the organizers of this sub-section that I belonged to asked me if they could have my house for a meeting of the Section Committee.

Q. Of the Section Committee? A. Yes.

Q. Of the Communist Party?

A. Of the Communist Party; yes, sir.

Q. And what did you say?

A. I said, "Yes."

Q. Well, do you know the name of this person? A. No, I can't recall the name.

Q. What else did he say in connection with the meeting?

A. Well, he—after he had asked me for the meeting and intimated it was going to be a Section meeting, he said to me they were going to have a meeting with Harry Bridges.

Q. Was anyone else present? How many were present when he made that statement to you?

A. There was nobody but this organizer and myself.

Q. And yourself. And did you consent to give them the use of your apartment for such a meeting? A. I did, yes.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. He told you specifically that it was to be a meet- [952] ing of the Section organizers of the Communist Party?

A. The Section Committee, that is, the top Section Committee.

Q. The top Section Committee of the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he say that you could be present?

A. No, he didn't.

Q. Did you give him the key to your apartment?

A. Well, generally the back door was open, and then when they go in they lock it; the lock the front door themselves.

Q. And when was this meeting to be held in your apartment?

A. Well, this meeting was held at night and it was held on a Thursday night.

Q. You say you weren't present at the meeting?

A. I was not present.

Q. Where were you that night?

A. Thursday night is the night they held the unit meeting. I was at a unit meeting upstairs in the same house on the third—or second floor it is.

Q. Now, you are distinguishing between the unit meeting of the Section Committee meeting?

A. Yes; this was just a common ordinary unit meeting of the Party members, rank and file.

Q. And you say you were attending such a meeting? [953] A. Yes.

Q. In whose apartment was that?

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

A. In the apartment of Frank Ryan, was the name of the man that lived there, and a fellow by the name of Harp, H-a-r-p; Elmer Harp, I believe is the name.

Q. Now, did you, during the time that the meeting was being held downstairs in your apartment, go down to your own apartment?

A. Yes, I and another fellow went down.

Q. Who was the other fellow?

A. I don't recall who the other fellow was.

Q. What did you do?

A. Well, we looked in the window.

Q. You looked in the window. Were the curtains down?

A. Yes, they were down most of the way; just probably about three or four inches from the bottom.

Q. Why did you look in the window?

A. Well, we all wanted to take a look at Harry Bridges.

Q. Did you see him? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who else did you see in there?

A. Well, I can remember two of them that were there. I remember seeing Lawrence Ross and a man by the name of [954] Meyer Baylin.

Q. Was Lawrence Ross a member of any union?

A. No.

Q. Was Meyer Baylin a member of any union?

A. Meyer Baylin at times worked in the office of the Needle Trades Industrial Union, but I don't believe as a member; he never was a Needle Trades worker.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Did you know Lawrence Ross to be a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes, he was one; he was one of the Section leaders of the Party.

Q. Did you know Meyer Baylin to be a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes, he was also a member of the top Section of the Communist Party in this Section.

Q. Did you see anyone else in the room?

A. There were others, a couple of others, but I don't recall who they were.

Q. Was Pop Hanoff there?

A. I don't recall whether Pop Hanoff was there or not.

Q. How many were there all together? How many did you see, rather, while you were peeking?

A. I can't recall whether there were five or six. I know it was not a large meeting.

Q. Could there have been more than six?

A. I am positive there weren't more than six.

[955]

Q. Five. A. Might have been five, yes.

Q. What were they doing when you saw them?

A. They were sitting talking; I didn't hear them.

Q. What part of the room, or in what room?

A. Well, the house has—the house I was living in, or the apartment has three rooms. It has a kitchen, bedroom and living room. The living room is right in the middle and they were in the living room; that was the only room that had chairs.

Q. Where was the window from which you were peeking?

A. There was windows all around. You could look in from the bedroom, into the living room, and you could look straight in, and you could look in from the kitchen window.

Q. Why did you leave the Communist Party, Mr. Laurence?

A. I lost complete confidence in the leaders of the district of this Communist Party.

Q. Were any charges ever made against you?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever been a labor spy?

A. No.

Q. A so-called labor spy? A. No.

Q. Have you ever been an informer?

A. No. [956]

Q. Have you ever been arrested? A. No.

Q. Have you ever been on relief?

A. I was on relief, I think, about a week or two.

Q. When was that?

A. I think that was in either '34 or '35; I can't remember just when.

Q. And where was that?

A. That was in Los Angeles.

Q. Did you ever write any articles about Bridges at any time?

A. I wrote an article for the publication of The Justice.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. The Justice. What is The Justice? A Magazine?

A. The Justice is the trade paper of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union.

Q. What was your articles about?

A. It was answering Harry Bridges on charges that he had charged the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union with sabotaging the CIO.

Q. You mean Bridges had made that charge?

A. Yes.

Q. And you replied to it?

A. I replied to it.

Q. What was your reply substantially, briefly?

[957]

Mr. Gladstein: Just a minute.

May we interrupt to suggest that the best evidence would be the article itself?

Mr. Del Guercio: He wrote the article. He ought to know, I guess.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, I suppose the article itself would be the best evidence.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, and moreover, may I ask again that your Honor admonish counsel to address remarks to the Court and not across the table. I simply raised the objection to the question on the grounds——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) The admonition isn't necessary.

Presiding Inspector: Well, now, I will rule on this, if necessary.

I think you may go on, Mr. Del Guercio.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Do you have a copy of that article?

A. Yes, I have a copy, but I haven't a copy of The Justice, no. I have a copy of a Socialist paper that the same article was taken from.

Q. Is it the same article?

A. Substantially the same.

Q. Do you have it with you?

A. Yes, I have. [958]

Q. May I see it?

A. Yes. (Handing document to Mr. Del Guercio)

Mr. Del Guercio: May I ask the Court's indulgence for a moment until I look it over?

Presiding Inspector: Certainly. We will take a very short recess.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. At the time you wrote this article for The Justice what was your position in the union?

A. Business Agent.

Presiding Inspector: Did he answer?

The Reporter: Yes, sir; Business Agent.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Have you written any other articles?

A. No.

Q. About Bridges? A. No.

Q. Have you ever been arrested, Mr. Laurence?

A. No.

Q. At any time? A. No.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Anywhere? A. No.

Mr. Del Guercio: You may cross examine. [959]

Mr. Gladstein: If your Honor please, in connection with this witness, and the cross examination, may we have the same understanding which, I think, your Honor expressed this morning, that is to say, that we will proceed with the cross examination of this witness on such matters as we are prepared to proceed with at the present time?

Presiding Inspector: It seems we covered the whole field here.

Mr. Del Guercio: Does counsel state he has no information concerning this particular meeting, that you are unprepared in that respect?

May I ask that question of counsel?

Presiding Inspector: He hasn't said that. I won't let you interrogate counsel.

Mr. Grossman: May I say something?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Grossman: I say this only because this question has been raised. If Mr. Del Guercio intends to imply by his question——

Presiding Inspector: I don't care what he intends to imply.

Mr. Grossman: Just so there won't be any——

Presiding Inspector: You need not fear anything in that regard. Of course, the same thing will apply to Mr. Del Guercio's remarks.

Mr. Grossman: I want to state for the record, your Honor, [960] that we are not stating here that we are totally unprepared for this witness as for the last witness. We do not want it to appear that we are misrepresenting the facts. We are partially prepared for this witness.

Possibly that answers the question.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead and see how it develops.

Cross Examination

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. May I see that article, Mr. Laurence, please?

A. (Producing newspaper or publication).

Q. Will you find it for me, please?

A. (Indicating).

Q. Now, Mr. Laurence, I think you said that in 1934 you were living with your wife at 1118 Bellevue? A. 1114, I believe it was.

Q. And you had been living there a very short time? A. That is correct.

Q. Was there anybody else in your family besides your wife? A. No.

Q. Just you and her? A. That is all.

Q. And what is her name, please?

A. Catherine.

Q. Do you still live at that address? [961]

A. No, I don't.

Q. What address do you live at now?

A. 1249 West 58th Street.

Q. With your wife?

A. Yes. I am married again.

Q. Pardon? A. Not with the same wife.

Q. You have since become divorced and remarried? A. I have; yes.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. When were you divorced from Mrs. Catherine Laurence?

A. I was divorced last fall; this last fall.

Q. Last fall? A. Yes.

Q. That would be in the fall of 1940?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, this house on 1114 Bellevue, what sort of a house was it, how big a house?

A. It was a four-family flat, two flats below the street, more or less of a basement at.

Q. And do I understand that you and your wife rented that house?

A. We rented the apartment on one side.

Q. You rented one of the apartments?

A. Yes.

Q. You didn't rent the whole house and sub-let a part of [962] it? A. Oh, no.

Q. I think you mentioned that there were other people who lived in that house? A. Yes.

Q. In other apartments? A. Yes.

Q. Would you name all those people whom you can remember now?

A. The only people I know were the people in the apartment where we had the other meeting—Ryan and Elmer Harp.

Q. Those are the only two names you can remember? A. That is the only two.

Q. Were they living in separate apartments or in the same apartment, those two that you named?

A. Those two were living in the same apartments.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Do you recall which apartment?

A. Well, let me see—I know exactly which apartment it was in.

Q. Can you describe it?

A. Well, I can describe the type of house. It is a frame structure, a brown building, with four family flats, two on one side and two on the other. It is a square house and it faced Bellevue Street. Bellevue came into Sunset; and Bellevue and another street, Beaudry, met there, and this house was sitting right where those two streets came together.

[963]

Q. In which of those flats were you and your wife living?

A. I was living at the bottom on this side (indicating) in the basement flat.

Presiding Inspector: Right hand side as you looked at the building from the street?

The Witness: If you look——

Presiding Inspector: From Bellevue.

The Witness: From Bellevue it would be on the left.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Looking at it from Bellevue it would be on the left as you entered the house? A. Yes.

Q. And from the same position, looking from the same position, how would you describe the apartment in which Mr. Ryan and Mr. Harp lived?

A. Well, it was all in the same order—it was a bed room, a living room and a kitchen. And upstairs where they lived there was a long stairs up the back, and they had sort of a porch on the outside.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Was there apartment directly above yours?

A. No, not directly above. They were on the other side of the house.

Q. Well, if you were looking from Bellevue you would say that they occupied the apartment to your right? A. Yes.

Q. In contradistinction to the apartment that you [964] occupied, which was to the left looking from that same position, is that right?

A. Just one moment. In order to enter my apartment you couldn't enter it from the front because we were in the basement apartment and that had a side entrance. But the apartment that they lived in faced exactly toward the front, toward Bellevue, and it was on the right hand side; but to go to my apartment you had to go down a step on the side of the house because it was in the basement.

Q. Well, if you were to take a line and divide the house in two lengthwise; in other words, a line dividing the apartments on one side from the apartments on the other, would it be correct to say that the apartment occupied by you would be to one side of that line, whereas the apartment occupied by Mr. Harp and Mr. Ryan would be on the side?

A. Correct.

Q. And your apartment would be what you call the basement, is that right?

A. Yes; and theirs the top.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Theirs would be on the top floor?

A. Yes; top floor.

Q. When were you first contacted with respect to giving testimony in this case?

A. I didn't understand the question.

Mr. Gladstein: Read it, please.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as [965] above recorded.)

A. I should say that was about five or six months ago.

Q. By whom, please?

A. By an agent for the FBI.

Q. Do you recall his name?

A. Yes. His name was Williams.

Q. I didn't hear that. A. Williams.

Q. Was he alone or did he have someone else with him? A. He was alone.

Q. Where were you at the time that he made this contact with you?

A. I was at my place on West 58th Street.

Q. You mean at your home? A. Yes.

Q. This was in the evening, was it?

A. Yes; it was in the ning.

Q. Did he tell you how he happened to come to you?

A. I don't recall. I believe he found my address through the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union. That is all I can remember.

Q. Did he at that time ask you for information concerning Harry Bridges?

A. He asked me in this manner: He told me

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

who he was, and he asked me what I knew. Do you want what I said to him? [966]

Q. Well, did you tell him what you knew?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell him substantially the things you have testified here to today? A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell him that you saw Mr. Bridges in this apartment by looking through the window?

A. Yes.

Q. That is, the window of your house?

A. Yes.

Q. And that this occurred in the evening?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell him what time in the evening it was?

A. I don't recall whether I told him the time or not.

Q. Did you tell him that it happened, and you have stated, during the waterfront strike?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell him whether it happened during any particular part of that strike, that is to say, before or after the general strike, or during the general strike?

A. I can't recall that I said at any special time.

Q. Do you now remember whether this incident to which you testified, do you place before the general strike, or after the general strike, or during the general strike?

A. During the general strike—what do you mean, do you [967] mean by general strike that was here in San Francisco?

Q. Yes.

A. No, I can't recall. I know it was some time during the waterfront strike, but I can't recall whether it was during the general strike or before or after, or how.

Q. You know that the general strike occurred during the period of the waterfront strike, don't you? A. Yes.

Q. That the waterfront strike started before and lasted until after the general strike? A. Yes.

Q. But you are unable to say whether this incident that you have described, you would place during the general strike, or immediately before, or immediately after? A. No, I couldn't say.

Q. Is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Presiding Inspector: You have asked that four times and got the same answer each time. Can't we hurry this along?

Mr. Gladstein: If I may say so, it is obviously important to attempt to find out as specifically——

Presiding Inspector: It doesn't require four questions to get the same answer each time.

Mr. Gladstein: I am also interested in testing the recollection of the witness. [968]

Presiding Inspector: But you don't add anything—"Is this so?" "Am I right?" Just repeat it. The record will be interminable.

This isn't an admonition. It is merely a suggestion.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Was the first meeting with Mr. Williams, or at that first meeting, did you give him any written statement? A. I did not.

Q. Did you meet with him again thereafter?

A. I did.

Q. How long after the occasion that you have already talked about?

A. I think it was a matter of maybe two or three weeks; I am not positive.

Q. Where did the second meeting occur?

A. At the same place.

Q. Also in your home? A. In my home.

Q. Were there any others present besides yourself and Mr. Williams on the second occasion?

A. No.

Q. And there were none others present on the first occasion? A. No.

Q. What took place on the second occasion?

[969]

A. He took a written statement from me as to what I had told him.

Q. Did you write it out in your handwriting?

A. No. I think he wrote it out and I signed it.

Q. What was the procedure that was followed in this written statement, that is, did you dictate for him to write it out, or did you——

A. Substantially, yes: I dictated it for him to write out. He asked about it and I said, "This is the way."

Q. Did you then read it? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Did you sign it? A. Yes.

Q. And he took it with him? A. Yes.

Q. Did you receive a copy of it?

A. No, not that I recall.

Q. Did you request a copy?

A. I did not.

Q. Since that second occasion have you discussed the question of your testimony in this case with anybody else?

A. Yes. I discussed it with—you mean this signed statement?

Q. Well, the contents of the statement.

A. Why, I discussed it with Ryan.

Q. With whom? [970] A. Frank Ryan.

Q. When did you discuss it with him?

A. Well, immediately afterwards.

Q. Immediately after what?

A. After a few days, a few days after I had talked to the investigator. I had named him, Ryan, as being one of the men at those meetings.

Q. Well, then, would you say that you first spoke to Ryan immediately after, or a few days after the first occasion of your meeting with Williams, or after the second occasion?

A. After the second occasion.

Q. That is, after you had given a signed statement? A. Yes.

Q. And where did you see Ryan?

A. I met him where he works, down near where he works.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Did you work at the same place, or did you at that time? A. No, I didn't.

Q. Was it at Mr. Williams' suggestion that you went to see Mr. Ryan? A. No.

Q. It was your own idea? A. Yes.

Q. Did you discuss with Mr. Ryan the fact that you had given a statement? [971] A. Yes.

Q. Did you request him to give a statement?

A. No. I told him he could give his own.

Q. Did you discuss with him——

A. (Interposing) The only discussion I had with Ryan was that I told him I had a meeting with the investigator and that I had told him, the investigator, that he was at that meeting. That is the only discussion I had with him. [972]

Q. That you had told the investigator who was at the meeting?

A. That Ryan was at a certain meeting that I named, in his apartment.

Q. I see. Have you seen Mr. Ryan since that time? A. On several occasions, yes.

Q. Have you discussed this question of testifying—— A. (Interposing): No.

Q. (Continuing): ——in the Bridges case with him? A. No.

Q. Have you ever asked him to be a witness in the case? A. No.

Q. Did you discuss with him on any of the occasions that you have seen Mr. Ryan this incident of looking through the window? A. No.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Did you ask him whether he recalled any such incident? A. I did not.

Q. Now, Mr. Laurence, I haven't had a chance to read this entire article which you handed me, but I want to ask you some questions about it so that it can be identified in the record.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, please.

May I ask if that is going to be offered in evidence? [973]

Presiding Inspector: I don't know.

Mr. Del Guercio: If he is going to ask any questions about it——

Mr. Gladstein (Interposing): I don't know either. I think it ought to be identified as long as I am going to ask——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): All right, you may have it marked for identification.

(The document referred to was marked Alien's Exhibit No. 5 for identification.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Would it be correct to say, Mr. Laurence, that for some time you have been opposed in your views as to appropriate trade union policies or program, to what you consider the policies or program of Mr. Bridges?

A. I have been opposed, yes.

Q. And your opposition would date from when, would you say, beginning when?

A. My opposition would date from the advent of the CIO in 1937.

Q. What makes you date it as of that time?

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

A. What makes me date it as of that time?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, that would require some explanation.

Q. Well, I get the impression that you imply disagreement [974] with the idea of the CIO. Would that be a correct impression?

A. No, that would not be a correct impression.

Q. Well, would you explain why you put it as of that time?

A. I misunderstood you. At that time in 1937 I disagreed with the policies, as you stated, followed by Bridges at that time, but I did not have any objections—the fact of the matter is I believed very much in the CIO movement.

Q. Well, then, you would say that some time in 1937—— A. (Interposing): Yes.

Q. (Continuing): You became opposed in your mind to the policies that Mr. Bridges was following in his union, or in the trade union movement, is that correct? A. (No response.)

Mr. Gladstein: Would you read the question?

Presiding Inspector: Don't you think we ought to know what those policies are if you are going to ask those definitely?

Mr. Gladstein: First I want to get the general answer.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, I know.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, I will go into that.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to the form of the question. We ought to go into the policies first.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Presiding Inspector: No, I will allow that; that is, heretofore you have asked whether he was opposed to what he [975] understood the policies were. Now, you have asked it directly, and yet you haven't shown what those policies are.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I will get into those, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Well, how can he—he can't testify to that except what he——

Mr. Gladstein (Interposing): Considers.

Presiding Inspector: Considers it.

Mr. Gladstein: That was an inadvertence on my part. I left it out of the second question.

Presiding Inspector: You changed your question.

Mr. Gladstein: I am sorry, your Honor; I didn't mean to. I will reframe the question.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, very well.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I simply want to get this, Mr. Laurence: Is it true that during some time in 1937 you became, in your own mind, strongly opposed to the union policies and program which you considered Mr. Bridges was following? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute—all right.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, would you name some of the policies or portions of the program which you considered that he was following to which you felt opposed?

A. In order for me to answer that question, in 1937 was [976] the time that Bridges was appointed as Regional Director of the CIO, and at the time that he was appointed Regional Director of the CIO, and before Bridges waws appointed as Regional Director of the CIO, there was a CIO group functioning in the City of Los Angeles, and this group was an anti-Communist group. They didn't want the Communists to get control of the—it was not—it was only a professional organizational committee, you might say, meeting in the halls of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, and my opposition came at the time that Bridges was appointed Regional Director, and at that time the whole policy of the Communists changed and they began to flock into the CIO movement by whatever manner or means they could devise to get into it. And when the first election was held for the CIO Industrial Council that was the time, or shortly—about that, that was about the time that this change took place within the Communist Party and the labor movement, because prior to that, very prior to that, I distinctly remember that they were hollering, they were shouting and stating to the members, stating at the meetings to stay in the American Federation of Labor. And Jordan, who was then an organizer for the ART, told me a month and a half before Bridges was appointed that he was going to be appointed, and I noticed from that time on this terrible influx from the Party members all over the city into the CIO movement.

Q. In Los Angeles? [977]

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

A. In Los Angeles, with an attempt to capture control of the local CIO movement.

That was the date and the time that my opposition started to, which you are now asking me, the policies of Bridges, what he stood for.

Q. Well, I was asking you for those policies followed by Mr. Bridges, or which you considered that he was following, or those portions of the trade union program which you felt that he was following to which you were opposed. Do you feel that you have answered that question?

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, if your Honor please, I think the witness has answered that question.

Presiding Inspector: Well, if he has anything further to say he may say it.

Mr. Del Guercio: He has indicated that Mr. Bridges was following the Communist Party line.

Presiding Inspector: We quite understand it, Mr. Del Guercio, but if there is anything further he may state it.

Mr. Gladstein: Do you want the question read?

The Witness: What is that?

Mr. Gladstein: Do you want the question read?

The Witness: The question that you asked me?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, the present question.

The Witness: Yes, read it, please.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

A. I will add this much further, and I stated this [978] also to the investigator: That as far as anybody connected on the Pacific Coast with the labor movement and in the trade union movement there was never any doubt about the policies that Bridges was following as far back as 1934, from the general strike, that he was following a policy outlined by the Communist Party in 1934 and was through 1937. As far as we were concerned we knew where Bridges stood, by that I mean, any man that was directly concerned in connection with the CIO movement or the A. F. of L. movement knew that the policies of Bridges were those that were laid down by the Communist Party and followed by the Communist Party.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, will you please state, Mr. Laurence, what specific examples you can remember of Mr. Bridges following the Communist Party policy between 1934 and 1937, as you have put it?

A. The objectives of the Communist Party between those dates, that I can remember, was the organizations that they were endorsing; the movement in Spain, the League for Peace and Democracy; the movement in Spain and the boycotts, Nazi boycotts of the anti-Nazi League. All these things were introduced into the trade union of the CIO by the Communists. The fact of the matter was they absorbed the first three months of the CIO Industrial Council with meetings absolutely foreign to trade union questions. We were discussing nothing [979] but aid to China, aid to Spain, peace and democracy, and all other questions unrelated absolutely to regular, trade union policies.

Q. Well, am I to understand, Mr. Laurence, that a part of your opposition, then, to Mr. Bridges would be based upon what you considered his support for the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League in the trade unions?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, he never mentioned a word about the "Hollywood Anti-Nazi League."

Mr. Gladstein: Let us go back to the answer. I thought I heard him say anti-Nazi League.

Presiding Inspector: I think he did.

Mr. Grossman: It happens that is the correct name. We might as well have the record state the correct name.

Presiding Inspector: I don't know anything about it. I will take judicial notice of it.

Mr. Gladstein: I think I can clear it up.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. When you say "anti-Nazi League", Mr. Laurence, were you referring to the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League?

A. I was thinking of that.

Mr. Gladstein: Would you now read the question that I asked?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

A. No, because to put the question in such a manner, [980] I couldn't answer that question in the way you have asked it. I have no objection whether Bridges as an individual, or any other individual backs the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League, but the main thing that I pointed out was this: That they brought all of these questions into the trade union movement at the expense of the basic functions of the trade union movement.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. When you say "they" you mean the Communists? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And am I to conclude, then, that when Bridges supported the activities of the anti-Nazi League that indicated to you that he was following the Communist policy?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, if your Honor please. He is only limiting it to one organization. The witness stated a number of organizations.

Mr. Gladstein: I will prove the others but I cannot go to all of them at the same time, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Has he said that?

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking him.

A. I answered you when I said that as far as any person connected with the trade union movement on the Pacific Coast and the position of Bridges as being a Communist was taken for a matter of granted; they all knew it, that he followed the Communists all the way down the line.

By Mr. Gladstein: [981]

Q. For example, you mean on such things?

A. Now, I don't state because one organization he supported, that he was wrong in supporting it

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. No, but you gave us an example of the Anti-Nazi League, is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Another one I think you said was aid to China, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In other words,——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): Supporting them in the trade unions.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, that is what I mean.

Presiding Inspector: That is what you mean.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Is that correct, Mr. Laurence?

A. I said supporting them in the trade unions.

Q. Yes.

A. At the expense of the basic functions for which a trade union is organized.

Q. All right. Now, let's see if we have this clear. In other words——

Mr. Del Guercio (Interposing): The witness has stated what it is, your Honor. I don't think it is necessary for counsel to recapitulate. [982]

Presiding Inspector: I am going to hear him. Go ahead.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. In other words, if I may summarize, Mr. Laurence, so we can have this clear, your position of disagreement with Mr. Bridges is that you feel that policies such as bringing into the trade unions the question of support for the Anti-Nazi League or for boycotting goods to Japan, or matters of that sort——.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Your Honor, I can't concentrate on asking a question while counsel——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): I think you are doing very well, Mr. Galdstein. Go right along.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you, your Honor, but counsel is making a——

Mr. Del Guercio (Interposing): I am ready for an objection.

Mr. Gladstein: I have no objection to objections being made to my questions.

Presiding Inspector: Now, do you want to start the question over again?

Mr. Gladstein: I think I would like to.

Presiding Inspector: All right, go ahead.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I am using in this question, Mr. Laurence,—so that you won't feel that I am trying to confine you in any way, I am using the Anti-Nazi League and an aid to China as [983] an example only.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Examples that you yourself gave.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But you can consider—and I want the record to show that I am not attempting to confine you to these two but simply to make the question short. A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. Now, your position is, is it, that your opposition to Bridges is that he supported activities in the trade union movement on behalf of the Anti-Nazi League, or the question of aid to China which you felt was at the expense of the basic functions of the trade unions; would that be correct? A. I would add to it——

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. (Interposing): Well, would it be correct as far as it goes? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, do you want to add something?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Please do.

A. Because that don't consist of all of my objections.

Q. All right, add to it.

A. If you had read the article you would have seen there Bridges behaviour with the union here in the City of [984] San Francisco, the Office Workers Union, upon which protests were made, that the charter was yanked and taken away from them, and the part that Bridges played in that charter was also an objection.

Q. Well, then, let's see, another point of difference between you and Mr. Bridges is that you felt that he was wrong on the question of a revision of the charter dealing with an Office Workers Union in San Francisco, is that correct?

A. Yes, and an attack upon the——

Q. (Interposing): I didn't hear the answer.

A. Yes, I said, "Yes", and an attack upon the ILGWU as sabotaging the CIO.

Q. Now, on this question of the Office Workers—you mentioned the ILGWU also; we will get to that in a moment. A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. But for a moment let's confine ourselves to the Office Workers Union of San Francisco. Am I correct in saying that your testimony is that part of your opposition to Bridges is that you felt he had no right, and you believed that he did do this, to yank or jerk or rescind the charter of the Office Workers? A. Yes, but may I add yet——

Q. Certainly.

A. That also this: That in the position that he took in their support he also supported the Communists in their packing of meetings, in their fraud in elections, see, and in [985] their booing and their tactics. He supported by his presence of paper unions fraudulently conducted elections, booing and general tactics practiced by the Communists in the trade union movement of which he, I have never known, never criticized.

Q. Now, do you know of your own knowledge, as a matter of fact, whether Harry Bridges ever did rescind or cause the rescision of a charter of the Office Workers Union?

A. I only read it.

Q. Where did you read it?

A. I can't recall. I also heard it from the lips of one of the workers in the office of the—in the San Francisco ILGWU office.

Q. Did you, perhaps, read it in the Socialist Call? A. I did not.

Q. You are sure of that?

A. No; I got it from one of the girls in the office, I said, that worked in the office of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union here in Los Angeles.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Who was the girl?

A. I don't know her name.

Q. Now, you mentioned "fraudulent elections."

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you, of your own knowledge, know any fraudulent elections to which Mr. Bridges was a party?

A. I didn't say Mr. Bridges was a party. I said the [986] Communists conducted fraudulent elections which he has never condemned; he has supported them.

Q. Is it your statement that Mr. Bridges has supported fraudulent elections in the unions?

A. I said he supported—he has never condemned; he has by omission of his criticism absolutely supported them.

Q. Would you give some illustrations?

A. Yes, I will give the illustrations. In the CIO, when the first election was carried on my wife was a member of the organizing committee of the Western Union employees. The man who was the head of the organizing drive was a man by the name of C. H. Jordan; I think that is the name; Chester Jordan. When the election took place, my wife—I was a delegate from my union with the right to vote. When I got to the meeting that night there were two delegates, two delegates from this union that was only in the process of organizing, and my wife had been to every meeting and never heard of anybody that was even elected or appointed as a delegate to vote at that election.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. To vote from what union?

A. To vote for the Secretary of the CIO Industrial Council.

Q. Where?

A. That was in Los Angeles, and she also challenged that vote. [987]

Q. What was this vote? Was it an election in the council for council offices?

A. Yes, it was an election for the council Secretary.

Q. When was it held?

A. It was held in 1937.

Q. All right, proceed, Mr. Laurence.

A. Huh?

Q. Proceed. Have you finished?

A. Then I said, I stated that they sent delegates. This is one instance which concerned my wife that I know specifically about that she challenged, made an open statement at this meeting that there was never any delegates elected.

Q. Elected from what union?

A. There was never yet any union; there was only an organizing committee.

Q. Organizing committee in what field?

A. In the communications field of the Western Union.

Q. All right. Well, what was the name of the organizing committee?

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

A. The Western Union Organizing Committee; I imagine that was all you could call it. A few workers got together out of the Western Union and tried to organize that plant.

Q. They formed an organizing committee?

A. They formed an organizing committee.

Q. They sent delegates to the council? [988]

A. They never sent any delegates because there was nobody ever knew—there was just two delegates appeared there.

Q. I see. Were there other organizing committees in Los Angeles at the time?

A. Other organizing committees?

Q. Any other organizing committees in other fields? A. I imagine there were.

Q. What did Mr. Bridges have to do with that election?

A. Have to do with that election?

Q. Yes.

A. The only charge against Mr. Bridges at that election is this, and this is another one: That when that election took place the longshoremen were the last people to come into this CIO Industrial Council in Los Angeles, and the direct charges made, and I have a copy of the thing at home, by the Trade Union Conference was that Bridges came down on the night they were going to have an election and talked so long that they had to postpone the election so they could bring the longshoremen in to swing the vote for the Communist Party the next week.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. That is what you base the statement that you made on? A. Yes.

Q. I didn't hear the answer.

A. I said, "Yes." What statement are you talking [989] about now?

Q. The same that you made concerning Bridges' connection with this.

A. That is Bridges' connection with the CIO Council.

Q. Have you anything to add to that?

A. I can't recall at the minute.

Q. Well, now, this election in the council, was there an election at all? A. Yes, there was.

Q. Who participated in it? Delegates to the council? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How were these delegates chosen by the various unions?

A. Generally speaking, they were elected, or appointed, in some unions appointed.

Q. Were you a delegate, for example?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. How were you selected?

A. Appointed by the joint board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union.

Q. Similar methods were used, I take it, in other unions? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Elected or selected, is that right?

A. Yes, sir. [990]

Q. Was there anything wrong, to your knowledge, with the selection or election of longshore delegates to that council election?

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

A. No, no, there was nothing wrong about it, only the purpose for which it was done. You see, there were two men running for the office of Secretary.

Q. Yes.

A. And Jordan was connected with the Maritime Industry at one time.

Q. Who was the other man?

A. William Busick. [991]

Q. And who was Jordan?

A. Jordan was a member of the Maritime Union and would invariably get the votes of the longshoremen members.

Q. And am I to understand then that your opposition to Bridges with respect to that incident is that you feel that he supported Jordan and you thought that improper? A. No. You are——

Mr. Del Guercio (Interposing): Just a minute. The witness said he thought Mr. Bridges supported the Communist Party policy.

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: I think the witness is able to take care of himself.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Isn't this true, Mr. Laurence, that all that happened in connection with that election is that the election was postponed for a week in order to permit the seating of delegates from the longshoremen? A. Not to my understanding.

Q. Was there a postponement of one week?

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

A. There was a postponement because Bridges talked so long that they weren't able to hold an election.

Q. Did he or did he not in his talk ask for the postponement in order to enable the seating of delegates to take place from the longshore union? [992]

A. I don't know.

Q. You do know, do you not, that the longshore delegates were actually seated thereafter?

A. Yes.

Q. And did participate in the election?

A. Yes.

Q. And you don't claim that there was anything wrong in the way in which the longshore delegates were chosen, do you?

A. I don't know anything about how the longshore delegates were chosen.

Q. Now, were you present the night that you say Bridges made this long talk?

A. I was not.

Q. You weren't present?

A. I was not.

Q. What you have been testifying to is hearsay, is that right? A. Absolutely.

Q. You don't know actually what he said?

A. No, don't.

Q. You don't know what purpose he gave to the group when he expressed himself on this question of the delay?

A. There is a statement put out by the Los Angeles Trade Union Conference, the part that

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

split, withdrew from the CIO Council, that contains the identical statement, identical charge. [993]

Presiding Inspector: Just a moment. Mr. Gladstein, am I wrong in thinking that this whole examination simply relates to what this witness thought was the attitude of Mr. Bridges to which he was opposed? You are not using this as original evidence of what did take place?

Mr. Gladstein: Your statement is correct; that is right.

Presiding Inspector: I wanted to understand that.

Mr. Gladstein: I want to bring out those things which are points of disagreement.

Presiding Inspector: The understanding of this witness?

Mr. Gladstein: Naturally, they would be based on that unless there is some objective concerning which there could be no dispute.

Presiding Inspector: We haven't heard anything of that kind, excepting in relation to this one meeting.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You mentioned the Los Angeles Trade Union Conference. What was that?

A. That was a group that withdrew from the Los Angeles Industrial Council of the CIO because of this domination by the Communists.

Q. Did they ever return?

A. Some of them returned; yes.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Which ones did and which ones did not, according to your best recollection? [994]

A. The rubber workers returned, some of the representatives of the automobile workers returned. At present I can't recall any more.

Q. Let me put it this way; Can you think of any groups that were in that Trade Union Conference that have not returned to the CIO Council? A. Groups?

Q. Yes—Unions.

A. I don't know—my Union has been out of the CIO for several years.

Q. That is the ILGWU? A. Yes.

Q. Can you think of any other union, besides that one, which has not returned to the CIO since this incident you have been describing?

A. I don't know; I couldn't positively state. I know this: That many of those groups, unions that were in that Conference, were forced to return through pressure of their International office officials.

Q. You say that some of the groups went back to the CIO only because of the pressure that was put on them from the International?

A. Yes.

Q. Was this pressure put on after the facts, the facts contained in the charges made by the Trade Union Conference, were [995] brought to the attention of the various International officers?

A. After the facts?

Q. Well, now, I will put it this way—that was rather complicated. I understood you to say that when this group, the Los Angeles Trade Union Conference withdrew from the Los Angeles Council it set up charges which it made public?

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

A. Oh, yes.

Q. Some time thereafter, with the exception of the ILGWU, the rest of the Unions, as far as you know, returned to the CIO Council? A. Yes.

Q. Now, before the return of the various Unions to the CIO Council you said that pressure was exerted by the International Officials in the cases of some local unions in order to get them to come back, is that correct? A. Yes.

Q. Now, before that pressure was exerted do you know if it is a fact that these charges made by the Los Angeles Trade Union Conference were brought to the attention of the International officials of the various International Unions whose locals had gone out with this Los Angeles Trade Union Conference? A. Yes.

Q. Those facts had been brought before the officials? A. Yes.

Q. And despite that the International Officials ordered [996] the local unions to return to the Council, is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now, can you think of any other points of disagreement, Mr. Laurence, that you feel that you have had with Mr. Bridges on Trade Union policies, or matters since 1934? A. No.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. You have stated all that you can remember at the present time?

A. At the present time I can't recall any other incidents.

Q. Now, Mr. Laurence, do you remember whether you felt opposition in your mind to the policies you considered Mr. Bridges was following in connection with the Ford strike down in Los Angeles, or San Pedro, rather?

Mr. Del Guercio: Is that contained in the article, may I ask, if your Honor please?

Mr. Gladstein: The city is not mentioned so far as I know.

Mr. Del Guercio: Why not tell the witness that is what is in the article, or introduce the article in evidence?

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw the question and put it another way.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you recall a strike in Long Beach at the Ford plant? A. I do.

Q. Do you remember when that happened?

A. Approximately at the time I was in the CIO Council, at [997] that time.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you felt in disagreement, that is, you were in disagreement with Mr. Bridges as to his policies in connection with that Ford strike?

A. Are you referring to the article where Bridges has told the workers to go back to work?

Q. Yes. I will show that part of the article to you so it will be fresh in your mind. It is the paragraph that stands out in bold print. Do you want to read it? (Referring to article indicated).

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

A. Yes; I remember the incident.

Q. What was that incident, please?

A. Well, I wasn't there at this meeting. I only know what the delegates that were at the meeting reported to the CIO Industrial Council, and what was reported to me by CIO members. I can't attend every meeting. The statement was that Bridges had told the workers to go back to work if they had to go back on their bellies. And some of the longshoremen delegates told me in Long Beach that after that meeting, in which Mr. Bridges was booed, he went over to the longshoremen and changed directly about.

Q. Have you finished your answer?

A. Yes.

Q. Isn't it a fact that Mr. Bridges was opposed to that strike for reasons which he made public?

[998]

A. I don't know.

Q. Isn't it a fact that one of the reasons he was opposed to that strike was because he felt there was no possibility of winning it?

A. From my knowledge, any time the Communists do not control or lead a Union, they are not interested in whether the strike is ever won or not. They had rather see it lost, and be able to discredit the leadership that is leading that strike.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Mr. Gladstein: Would you read the question again, please?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Mr. Myron: He is asking the witness to read Mr. Bridges' mind.

Presiding Inspector: I know, but all these questions, although they are directed as to Mr. Bridges' actions, or his doings, or this thoughts, are only, as explained by Mr. Gladstein, the idea of this witness about them. They have no value as proof of Mr. Bridges' actions.

Mr. Gladstein: That is right.

Presiding Inspector: He is only testing, in other words, the attitude of this witness as bearing upon his own credibility. That is the foundation of this testimony.

Mr. Myron: That attitude in every respect is predicated on the witness' knowledge that Mr. Bridges was following the [999] Communist Party line.

Presiding Inspector: That is what his idea is.

Mr. Myron: Those questions don't include that.

Presiding Inspector: He made that quite clear.

Mr. Gladstein: Would you like to have the question re-read, Mr. Laurence? I would like to have you answer it directly if you can?

The Witness: What is the question?

Mr. Gladstein: Read the last question, please.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

A. I am not interested in what Bridges might have said for public consumption. My thoughts on the matter are from the point of view that I have seen the workers in any unions where there is a leadership that may be opposed to the Communists or Mr. Bridges.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you know that Bridges had stated that he was opposed to this strike at the Ford plant in Long Beach because there wasn't any possibility of winning it? A. Did I know that?

Q. Yes. A. No.

Q. Did you know that some of the persons who were out on that strike have not been able to get back on their jobs since [1000] that time?

A. I don't know anything about the circumstances of it.

Q. Did you know at the time that you wrote this article in June of 1938 that this particular local union of workers had gone on record supporting and endorsing the advice that Bridges had given in connection with that strike?

A. I don't know. May I ask you a question: Was it the same leadership that was out on strike at that time?

Q. If you want to ask the question you will have to come down here.

A. You are implying in your question——

Presiding Inspector: No, no, no. He is asking for information, I think.

The Witness: He is implying——

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Presiding Inspector: No, no. You are a witness here and you cannot argue it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Concerning this article, Mr. Laurence, it would be fair to say, would it not, that at least as to a part of the contents of this article which you wrote, you were relying on hearsay information, information that was brought to you?

A. Yes. I relied on information from other members of the Industrial Union Council.

Q. But whether that information was obtained by you first-hand from your own experience or knowledge, or whether it was [1001] obtained simply by hearsay, would it be correct to say that you believed to be correct all of the things that you stated in that article? A. Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: If your Honor please, under the circumstances I think perhaps, especially since the Government has requested it, that that article ought to go into evidence.

Presiding Inspector: Very well.

Mr. Del Guercio: As Alien's Exhibit.

Mr. Gladstein: We have no objection to it.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The publication referred to was received in evidence and marked Alien's Exhibit No. 5.)

Presiding Inspector: We will suspend at this point, but I would like to see counsel for a moment in chambers.

Tomorrow morning at 10:00 o'clock.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

(Whereupon, at 4:05 P.M. an adjournment was taken until Thursday, April 17, 1941, at 10:00 A. M.) [1002]

Court Room 276,
Federal Building,
San Francisco, California,

April 17, 1941.

Met, pursuant to adjournment, at 10:00 A.M. [1003]

PROCEEDINGS

Presiding Inspector: We are ready to resume, Mr. Del Guercio. Call your witness.

Mr. Del Guercio: Mr. Laurence is here for further cross examination.

Presiding Inspector: You may proceed with the cross examination.

THOMAS LAURENCE

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Cross Examination (Resumed)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. Laurence, yesterday I think you said that you were employed as a cutter at the Red Cross? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Is that in Los Angeles? A. Yes.

Q. How long have you been employed there?

A. I started just a week ago.

Q. I didn't hear that.

A. I just started a week ago.

Q. Immediately prior to that where were you employed?

A. I was employed by the Rosamond Cloak and Suit Company as a cutter.

Q. Was there a period of unemployment between those two [1004] employments?

A. There was.

Q. For how long was that period?

A. I should say about two months and a half.

Q. Were you on relief during that period?

A. I was not.

Q. How long did you work for the Rosamond Company? A. Approximately three months.

Q. In what capacity were you employed there?

A. As a cutter.

Q. And before that where were you employed?

A. Before that I wasn't employed steady at any place. In fact, for the past two years I haven't worked steady at any place.

Q. Have you ever been employed to give reports on union activities?

A. Employed to give reports to whom?

Q. On union activities? A. To whom?

Q. Anybody? A. No.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Q. Have you ever given such reports?

A. To whom?

Q. To anybody? A. On union activities?

[1005]

Q. Yes.

A. I don't understand what you mean.

Q. Do you know a man by the name of Captain Hynes? A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever given him reports on labor activities? A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever given him reports of any kind? A. No, sir.

Q. Have you ever given reports to anyone?

A. No.

Presiding Inspector: Outside of the labor unions themselves, you mean? He may have given reports within the labor unions.

Mr. Gladstein: I mean outside of the labor movement.

The Witness: Outside of the labor movement, I made no reports to no one.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I believe you said you were Business Agent of your union at one time.

A. For a year and a half.

Q. What union was that?

A. International Ladies' Garment Workers Unions.

Q. Was it a local union?

A. Well, it was a local in Los Angeles, yes.

Q. What local was it?

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

A. I was employed by the Joint Board, not by a local. [1006]

Q. Well, then, you were a Business Agent employed by the Joint Board of the ILGWU?

A. Correct.

Q. Was your employment confined to duties connected with any particular local union?

A. My employment was connected with Local 96 and Local 84.

Q. Both in Los Angeles? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you receive that employment by virtue of appointment or election?

A. I was appointed.

Q. For how long a period?

A. I was appointed for the expiration of the term of the other Business Agent that went out.

Q. And how long was that unexpired term to which you were appointed?

A. That was about—well, the elections had been postponed in the union when I went into office; it was about a year.

Q. But the elections were postponed?

A. About six months or a year. Due to internal strife in the organization elections were postponed.

Q. Well, originally when you were first appointed how long did you understand that you were to serve? [1007]

A. Until the next election.

Q. Was there any particular period from that time for the next election to be held?

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence:)

A. Yes, there was.

Q. How long until it was to be held?

A. I believe it was about a year and a half.

Q. So that your testimony is that you were appointed to an unexpired term of a year and a half? A. That is correct.

Q. You filled out that term?

A. I left before the elections; I resigned my position.

Q. You resigned your job? A. I did.

Q. By the way, what time of the evening did you look through the window of your apartment?

A. I don't exactly know the specific time but I imagine that it was around between 7:30 and 8:00.

Q. That is as close as you can put it?

A. That is as close as I can put it.

Q. Do you believe in overthrowing the Government by force and violence?

A. I have never believed in it.

Q. Yesterday you were telling about some of the differences which existed between you and the policies which you considered Mr. Bridges followed. Did you feel pretty strongly [1008] about those differences, Mr. Laurence?

A. Yes, I would say I do.

Q. And always have?

A. Always have, did you say?

Q. Yes.

A. I named you the period of time when I

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

violently disagreed with the policies that were followed by the Communists.

Q. Would it be fair to say that you feel that the policies Mr. Bridges was following were destructive of the trade union movement?

A. Yes, a menace to the trade union movement.

Q. Do you still feel that way?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And to the CIO? A. No, I don't.

Q. No; I mean do you still feel that the policies Mr. Bridges was following——

A. (Interposing) Are a menace to the CIO?

Q. Yes. A. Yes, sir.

Q. You do? A. Yes, sir.

Q. The Los Angeles Trade Union conference concerning which you gave testimony yesterday, I think you said that you were an individual who was a part of that? [1009] A. I was.

Presiding Inspector: Keep your voice up, if you can, Mr. Laurence.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. As a matter of fact, it was in connection with that, was it not, that you wrote this letter to the magazine, The Justice? A. Yes, sir.

[1010]

Q. Now, after that article of yours appeared in the periodical, The Justice, isn't it true that you were taken to task in the CIO Industrial Union Council in Los Angeles and that a letter was authorized written by that Council repudiating your article? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Thomas Laurence.)

Mr. Gladstein: I think that is all, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Anything further with this witness?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes. I have a few questions, your Honor.

Redirect Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Have you ever harbored any personal animosity towards the Alien, Bridges, here?

A. No.

Q. Do you have any now? A. I do not.

Q. Have you ever had?

A. I have never had.

Q. Do you have any personal grievance against Bridges?

A. No; I have no personal grievance whatsoever against him.

Q. Have you had any contacts with him at all during the period of time you have testified? [1011]

A. No personal contacts; no.

Mr. Del Guercio: That is all.

Presiding Inspector: That is all.

Mr. Del Guercio: May the witness be excused?

Presiding Inspector: Yes; you may be excused.

(Witness excused.)

Presiding Inspector: Call your next witness.

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Raise your right hand and be sworn.

FRANK RYAN

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What is your name? A. Frank Ryan.

Q. And where do you live?

A. 1118 Bellevue.

Q. What City? A. Los Angeles.

Q. Are you employed at the present time?

A. Yes.

Q. What is your employment?

A. I am a cutter and pattern maker at the Belle Sports [1012] Wear.

Q. Where were you born?

A. In the State of Arizona.

Q. Are you married? A. Yes.

Q. Do you have any children? A. Yes.

Q. Are you a member of any union at the present time, labor union?

A. Not at the present time; no.

Q. Have you ever been?

A. I have been—the ILGWU.

Q. Where? A. In Los Angeles.

Q. Have you ever been a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. When?

A. During the period from 1933 to 1936.

Q. Where did you join the Communist Party?

A. In Los Angeles.

Q. How did you come to join the Communist Party?

(Testimony of Frank Ryan.)

A. Well, I joined the Communist Party shortly after the Garment Workers General strike, the dress strike, in Los Angeles.

Q. Why did you join the Communist Party? [1013]

A. I felt at that time that their program would benefit the conditions of the workers, that is, it would help in raising the conditions of the workers generally.

Q. Why did you leave the Communist Party?

A. Because I felt the reverse was true, that instead of benefitting the members of unions their policies were detrimental in organizing workers into the unions.

Q. You say your present address is 1114 Bellevue Avenue? A. 1118 Bellevue.

Q. How long have you lived there?

A. I have just been there for the last couple of weeks.

Q. Did you ever live at 1114 Bellevue Avenue, Los Angeles?

A. I lived at 1118 Bellevue Avenue, Los Angeles.

Q. Do you know Mr. Thomas Laurence?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Did you ever live in the same apartment building that he lived in? A. Yes.

Q. Where was that? A. 1118 Bellevue.

Q. And what apartment did you occupy with respect to Laurence's apartment?

A. He lived downstairs in the basement and I lived upstairs on the second floor. [1014]

(Testimony of Frank Ryan.)

Q. During what period of time was it that you lived in this apartment?

A. I lived there during a period from 1934 to 1936.

Q. Was that during part of the time that you were a member of the Communist Party?

A. That is correct.

Presiding Inspector: What is the witness' name, Mr. Reporter?

The Reporter: Frank Ryan.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Were any meetings of the Communist Party held at your apartment during the time that you lived there? A. Yes; unit meetings.

Q. Unit meetings? A. Yes.

Q. How often would such unit meetings be held in your apartment?

A. I imagine two or three times.

Q. Two or three times?

A. During the period; yes.

Q. During the entire period? A. Yes.

Q. Would Mr. Laurence attend such meetings in your apartment?

A. He attended at one time I was present, or two times; [1015] yes.

Q. Did you ever attend Communist Party meetings in Mr. Laurence's apartment?

A. Meetings of the same nature, unit meetings; yes.

Q. Were you living in that apartment during the time of the 1934 San Francisco strike?

(Testimony of Frank Ryan.)

A. Yes; I lived there at that time.

Q. Do you recall a particular meeting of the Communist Party held in your apartment at any time during the San Francisco strike in 1934?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Do you recall if Mr. Laurence ever told you that there had been a meeting of the Communist Party in Mr. Laurence's apartment at any time during the 1934 strike? A. No.

Q. Who lived in the apartment with you at 1118 Bellevue Avenue?

A. Herman Harp and later on, George Smith.

Q. Have you ever seen the Alien here, Mr. Bridges?

A. No, only at a mass meeting in Los Angeles for the district.

Q. Did you ever hear of any meeting having been held in Mr. Laurence's apartment at which Mr. Bridges was present?

Mr. Grossman: If your Honor please, we object——

Presiding Inspector: This isn't evidence; it is whether [1015] he ever heard of it.

Mr. Grossman: Still, I am going to object to it as hearsay.

Presiding Inspector: Of course it is hearsay. It isn't of any importance except to identify an occasion, if it does.

Mr. Grossman: It is still hearsay to identify the occasion.

Presiding Inspector: You would probably find some fault if this evidence wasn't produced. I will receive it. At least, an argument would be made on failure to produce it.

(Testimony of Frank Ryan.)

The Witness: Repeat the question.

Mr. Del Guercio: Read the question, Mr. Reporter.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. I was told by Mr. Laurence——

Presiding Inspector: "Yes" or "No"—that is all.

The Witness: "Yes" or "No"?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

A. Yes, I heard there was a meeting being held there.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Who told you? A. Laurence.

Q. Thomas Laurence? A. Yes.

Q. When did he tell you? [1017]

Mr. Grossman: I am going to object to that as hearsay.

Presiding Inspector: I will receive it. It isn't any proof that it occurred, or very slight.

A. One evening there was a meeting in our apartment and Laurence told me early in this meeting privately that there was to be a meeting in his apartment downstairs at which Harry Bridges was to be present. [1018]

(Testimony of Frank Ryan.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Did Mr. Laurence mention if anybody else was to be present at that meeting?

A. No, he did not.

Q. Did he tell you what kind of a meeting was to be held downstairs in this apartment?

A. I can't recall.

Q. How many people were present in your apartment at this time?

A. I would say seven, six or seven people.

Q. Were you subpoenaed to appear as a witness in this proceeding? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when were you subpoenaed?

A. Last Tuesday or Wednesday.

Q. Tuesday or Wednesday of when? This week?

A. No; last week.

Q. Of last week. And where were you subpoenaed? Where was the subpoena served upon you?

A. At my shop, the shop I work at, in the hall in front of the shop.

Q. After the subpoena had been served upon you did anybody approach you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who? A. Margolis. [1019]

Q. Mr. Margolis. What is his full name?

A. I don't know. He introduced himself as Margolis, a lawyer for the Bridges defense here.

Q. And where did he approach you?

A. Downstairs in front of my building.

Q. At Los Angeles? A. Los Angeles.

Q. What did he say to you?

(Testimony of Frank Ryan.)

A. He asked me in regards to the Bridges case. It seems he had heard that I would either—I was either to testify, or had been contacted in some manner.

Q. Did he ask you if you had been subpoenaed?

A. I don't know whether he used those terms or not; I told him I had been.

Q. You told him you had been. Now, when did you tell him you had been subpoenaed?

A. What?

Q. When did you tell him you had been subpoenaed?

A. Well, this was Monday of this week, Monday noon.

Q. Oh! Did you tell him at the beginning of the conversation you had with Mr. Margolis or during the conversation?

A. At the beginning, I believe.

Q. At the beginning. And what did he say then?

A. He asked me if I would be willing to make the same statement to him, or the same answers to the questions that I had to the person who had interviewed me in this case, the agent. [1020]

Q. Did Mr. Margolis tell you who he was, whom he was representing? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whom did he say he was representing?

A. He said he was representing the Harry Bridges defense, in so far as I can recall.

Q. Did he say that he was an attorney?

A. Yes, he did.

(Testimony of Frank Ryan.)

Q. And did you make a statement to Mr. Margolis? A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did he write it down? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where?

A. We walked around the corner there on—about a block away into a small restaurant and sat down in the booth and I told him in substance the same thing that I have testified here.

Q. And what did he ask you? Did you have any further conversation with him?

A. None except that either I or he inferred that I didn't have much to contribute in this case. Stated—perhaps, it was myself—and I said I didn't know whether I would even be called to testify.

Q. Did he say if he had contacted any other persons? A. No, he didn't.

Q. Did he ask you if you had been threatened by the [1021] FBI agents?

A. He asked me if this was a complete voluntary statement of mine to the FBI, yes, if there had been any question of threats or intimidation.

Q. And what did you reply?

A. I told him "No," there had not been.

Q. Did he ask you to sign the statement?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. What did you say?

A. Well, I refused to sign because it was questions and answers and it was written in pencil and I didn't feel that I wanted to obligate myself in any way to such a statement.

Mr. Del Guercio: You may cross examine.

(Testimony of Frank Ryan.)

Mr. Grossman: May we have a couple of minutes, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Certainly.

Mr. Del Guercio: What?

Presiding Inspector: They want a couple of minutes.

Cross Examination

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Ryan, when you spoke to Mr. Margolis did you tell him that Laurence had told you that the meeting at which Bridges was to be was a trade union meeting?

A. I told Mr. Margolis that as far as I could recollect [1022] I didn't know whether it was to be a trade union meeting or not, that is, I couldn't tell what type of meeting this was supposed to be, that is, whether it was a trade union meeting or it was not from Mr. Laurence's remarks.

Mr. Grossman: That is all, no more questions.

Mr. Del Guercio: May the witness be excused?

Presiding Inspector: Yes, I guess so. You are excused.

(Witness excused.)

Mr. Del Guercio: We have another witness coming up.

Presiding Inspector: I beg your pardon?

Mr. Del Guercio: We have another witness.

Presiding Inspector: You will call him right away, will you?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes, we will call him right now.

Presiding Inspector: Raise your right hand.

MAURICE J. CANNALONGA

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What is your name?

A. Maurice J. Cannalonga.

The Reporter: Spell it, please.

The Witness: M-a-u-r-i-c-e C-a-n-n-a-l-o-n-g-a.

Mr. Del Guercio: Speak a little louder.

The Witness: I can't; my throat is on the bum.

[1023]

Presiding Inspector: Do the best you can. We all have that trouble now and then.

The witness is evidently very hoarse.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Where do you live, Mr. Cannalonga?

A. Seattle, Washington.

Q. And what is your present occupation?

A. I was electrician on a ship.

Q. Are you a member of any union at the present time? A. The Marine Firemen's Union.

Q. Marine Firemen's Union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that an affiliate of the CIO?

A. No, it is independent.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. An independent union. And how long have you been a member of such union?

A. Since '34.

Q. Are you a member in that union at the present time? A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever previously testified in any case involving Mr. Bridges? A. No.

Q. Have you ever been a member of any other union other than the one you just stated?

A. No. [1024]

Q. Have you ever been a member of the Communist Party, Mr. Cannalonga? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Del Guercio: Your answer is what?

Presiding Inspector: "Yes," he said.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. And when did you join the Communist Party?

A. Oh, I believe, the latter part of '35 or the early part of '36, somewheres in that time. [1025]

Q. The latter part of 1935 or the early part of 1936? A. Yes; somewhere around there.

Q. And where did you join? A. Seattle.

Q. In Seattle, Washington? A. Yes.

Q. Why did you join the Communist Party at that time?

A. Well, I thought the workers would get a better break through the leadership of the Communist Party.

Mr. Del Guercio: What is that—I didn't hear.

Presiding Inspector: He said he thought the workers would get a better break through the leadership of the Communist Party.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Isn't that what you said?

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What made you feel that the workers would get a better break by joining the Communist Party?

A. Well, it was just because of the capitalist system, and the troubles that we went through in 1934, getting battered around, trying to make better conditions for ourselves, and so forth and so on.

Q. Well, did anyone ask you to join the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. Who? [1026] A. Walter Stack.

Q. Walter Stack—S-t-a-c-k? A. Yes.

Q. How long did you remain a member of the Communist Party?

A. Until about July of 1937.

Q. Then what happened?

A. Well, I quit.

Q. You quit it? A. Yes.

Q. Voluntarily? A. Oh, yes.

Q. You were not expelled? A. No.

Q. Where were you at the time you left the Communist Party?

A. I was ashore and then I shipped out.

Q. Under what name did you join the Communist Party?

A. I joined under my own name, and then was advised to, or took the Party name, "M. J. Cann."

Q. Is that your true name?

A. What is that, sir?

Q. Is that your true name, M. J. Cann?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. That was my initials. I was told to use a phony name. Instead of putting in a phony name I cut off some of the [1027] letters off my own name.

Q. Who told you to use a phony name?

A. Well, when I joined it was the policy of not using your own name.

Q. It was whose policy?

A. The Party's policy.

Q. What Party, the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you given a membership book?

A. Yes.

Q. And in what name was your membership book? A. M. J. Cann.

Q. You say Walter Stack induced you to join the Communist Party, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. What arguments did he use, if any, in getting you to join?

A. He used quite a few arguments.

Q. What were some of them?

A. Well, some of them was that the Communist Party was the leader of the workers in the country and by joining the Party it would build up the unions and give leadership to the members in the union.

Q. Did he say anything else?

A. Well, he mentioned quite a few things. I don't quite [1028] recall them now.

Q. Did he say anything in regard to Harry Bridges? A. Yes, he mentioned Bridges.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. What did he say about Bridges?

A. He said that he was a member.

Q. Member of what? A. Of the Party.

Q. What Party?

A. Of the Communist Party.

Q. And he told you that at the time?

A. Yes.

Q. That is, at the time he asked your to join the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. During the time that you were a member of the Communist Party were you given any duties to perform by the Communist Party?

A. Yes. I was given routine waterfront work to do, such as contacting ships and getting new members to come into the Party, and build up the Party.

Q. Do you know why they gave you that particular assignment?

A. Yes; to build up the Party.

Q. To build up the Party. Were you popular there at the waterfront at that time? [1029]

A. Yes.

Q. And did you do what they asked you to do?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you get men to join the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. How many, would you say?

A. Oh, ten or fifteen; somewhere in that neighborhood.

Q. Do you know what the program of the Communist Party was at that time regarding the building up of Maritime Labor Unions?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. Yes. Eventually they figured on the world revolution and by having leadership in the Unions, and strikes and so forth, it would create a class conscience of the workers and they, in turn, would be benefitted for the coming world revolution.

Q. And who told you this, Mr. Cannalonga?

A. The Party books, and so forth.

Q. Who did you work with as a waterfront organizer? A. Stack.

Q. Anyone else?

A. There were quite a few, but I don't quite recall now.

Q. Did you ever work along with Morris Rappaport and Harry Jackson? A. Oh, yes.

Q. Who was Morris Rappaport?

A. He was Section Organizer. [1030]

Q. Of what? A. District Organizer.

Q. Of What? A. Of the Communist Party.

Q. When you use the term "Party" you mean the Communist Party? A. Oh, yes; sure.

Q. Who was Harry Jackson?

A. Well, he had the Union end of it, sort of a labor advisor—I don't know what you would call him.

Q. Was he a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Q. Was Morris Rapport a union man?

A. No.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Was Jackson a union man? A. No.

Q. Did you have any office from which to carry out your work as waterfront organizer for the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. Where were your offices?

A. It was in the Eitel Building first, and then we moved upstairs over the public market, in Seattle, at Pike Street, the corner of Pike and First Streets.

The Reporter: How do you spell the name of that building?

The Witness: E-i-t-e-l. [1031]

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Why did they give you an office, Mr. Cannalonga?

A. Well, we had the Red Beacon—we put out a waterfront paper, mimeographed, and we collected dues from the different units.

Q. You put out a waterfront paper?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the name of the waterfront paper? A. The Red Beacon.

Q. The Red Beacon? A. Yes.

Q. Did you have anything to do with this paper?

A. Yes. I helped make it up, edited it, and put out different assignments to the different Party members, articles and so forth.

Q. Well, did you have any other duties besides doing the things that you have said for the Red Beacon and waterfront organizing?

A. Well, contacting the different organizations, waterfront units.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Were you being paid for doing that by the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. What? A. Yes.

Q. How much were you being paid? [1032]

A. About $6.00 a week.

Q. Were you doing any other kind of work?

A. No.

Q. That is, during that period of time?

A. No; I was on full duty.

Q. How were you able to support yourself on $6.00 a week?

A. Well, I was living with friends. I didn't have to worry about board and room.

Q. Were you continuously employed by the Communist Party in those functions during that time?

A. I don't know whether you would call that employed or not. It was voluntary.

Q. While you occupied these offices in the Eitel Building on First Avenue and Pike Street, did you have custody of any membership cards?

A. Yes.

Q. How many? A. All of them.

Q. All of them? A. On the waterfront.

Q. All of the membership cards of the waterfront Communist? A. Yes; for Seattle.

Q. For Seattle? A. Yes.

Q. And did you have a membership card, Communist Party [1033] membership card for Phil Poth? A. I don't know.

Q. Do you know Phil Poth?

A. I don't recall him.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Did you have a membership card for Ernie Fox? A. Yes.

Q. Did you have one for John Ryan Davis?

A. Who?

Q. John Ryan Davis? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know Bruce Hannon

A. No, I don't recall him.

Q. Do you know Burt Nelson?

A. I don't believe I do; I can't recall.

Q. Do you know the Alien, Harry Bridges?

A. Yes.

Q. Where is he?

A. Right there (indicating) with a striped tie.

Mr. Del Guercio: May the record show the witness has identified the Alien, Mr. Bridges?

Presiding Inspector: The record may so show, yes, and that he is wearing a striped tie.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. During your membership in the Communist Party did you ever have occasion to meet Harry Bridges?

A. Yes. I was on the Firemen's Negotiating Committee in [1034] the fall of 1935 or 1936.

Q. In the fall of 1936?

A. Yes; just previous to the 1936-1937 strike when we were trying to meet with the ship owners for a better agreement.

Q. And where did you meet Harry Bridges at that time? A. Well, at various places.

Q. Well, can you recall any specific meeting that occurred during 1936 in which Harry Bridges was present?

A. Oh, yes. There was half a dozen—practically every day.

Q. You would meet with Mr. Bridges every day, practically?

A. Well, during that time, you see, we were negotiating for a new contract.

Q. Negotiating with whom?

A. With the shipowners.

Q. And what was Bridges doing?

A. He was with the longshoremen and we would all go up in the same building.

Q. These meetings that you had with Bridges at that time were not Communist meetings, were they?

A. No, they wasn't Party meetings.

Q. Did you ever attend a Communist Party meeting with Harry Bridges?

A. No, I can't say that I have.

Q. Did you ever attend a meeting with Harry Bridges in which all persons present were members of the Communist Party? [1035]

A. Well, I couldn't say that all persons were Communists.

Q. Well, tell me some of those meetings that you had.

A. Well, the Federation was meeting as a whole, all the fellows on the Negotiating Committee, and we would meet and discuss things as we went along. The shipowners would only meet one group at a time, and we would meet and discuss the headway

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

we had made. And then there was a few informal meetings where a bunch of us got together and discussed—oh, I don't know what you would call it—the action that had been taken during the day. I recall one instance when the sailors had decided to go on their own and some small group of us met together and decided to go back in the organization and report——

Q. (Interposing) What?

A. (Continuing) ——decided to go back to our own organization and report that the sailors were going to break away from the Federation group, and we were going on our own. [1036]

Q. Well, Mr. Cannalonga, do you remember the time that the Maritime Federation of the Pacific Coast called a strike in 1936?

A. Well, I was in Portland when it was called.

Q. What?

A. I was in Portland when it was called.

Q. You were in Portland when it was called. Now, shortly before the strike was called did you attend any meeting in San Francisco?

A. Yes, I attended dozens of them.

Q. Well, did you attend any Communist Party meetings in San Francisco? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was that?

A. Well, some were in private homes and some were at a little—well, mostly all in private homes.

Q. Mostly in private homes? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well, how did you get down from Portland

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

to San Francisco at that time, that is, shortly before this——

A. (Interposing) Well, it was an assignment to get down to Frisco. It was a Party decision that I go to Frisco and they were going to build me up again so I could run for office.

Q. By the "Party" you mean the Communist Party? [1037] A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who spoke for the Communist Party? Who told you to go down to San Francisco?

A. It was the decision of, well, Rapport and Jackson.

Q. Rapport and Jackson? A. Yes, sir.

Q. They told you to go down to San Francisco and try to build yourself up among the rank and file there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That you were to run for Business Agent, did you say? A. Yes, of Portland.

Q. Business Agent for what?

A. Portland for the Marine Firemen.

Q. Marine Firemen? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you did come down to San Francisco?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And why did they want you to run for Business Agent of the Marine Firemen's Union?

A. Well, so they could get control of the Portland Local.

Q. Get control of the Portland office?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Get the control for whom?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. The Party. [1038]

Q. For the Communist Party?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when did you arrive in San Francisco?

A. Oh, I don't recall the date.

Q. Well, with regard to the 1936 strike when did you arrive?

A. Oh, about a month before the strike.

Q. About a month before the strike?

A. Yes.

Q. Did anybody come down with you?

A. No; I come down on a ship.

Q. You came down on a ship? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you met by anyone in San Francisco upon your arrival?

A. No; I was told to contact some of the Party members in Frisco.

Q. Did you contact any Communist Party members in San Francisco? A. Yes.

Q. Whom?

A. Oh, I don't recall his name now.

Q. Well, let me ask you this question, Mr. Cannalonga: Did you meet Walter Stack in San Francisco? A. No; he was up in Seattle.

Q. He was up in Seattle at that time? [1039]

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well, did you attend any meeting there in San Francisco after your arrival? A. Oh, yes.

Q. And where did you attend the meeting?

A. Mostly in private homes.

Q. Some private home. And who took you to this private home?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. I was driven out to a couple of places by automobile.

Q. But you don't know the place, the particular places you went? A. No.

Q. And who was present at those meetings, at the first meeting?

A. Well, the first meeting, all Communist Party members.

Q. Well, who were some of them?

A. Oh, I don't recall any of their names. There were so many meetings and people that I have met that I would have to be a master mind to remember the names.

Q. Well, was William Schneiderman present?

A. Yes, he was present at one of the meetings.

Q. Was Walter Stack present at any of the meetings?

A. Yes, later on, not when I first got down.

Q. Well, Mr. Cannalonga, did you talk to me about this case before today? [1040].

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you tell me about your being willing to appear here and testify?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Well, were you willing to appear to testify?

A. Against the Party, yes.

Q. What? A. Against the Party, yes.

Q. Against the Party. How about against Harry Bridges?

A. Well, I don't know what there is to testify against him.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Well, did you tell me that you were afraid to testify because you would lose your job among the longshoremen? A. No.

Q. Along the waterfront? A. No.

Presiding Inspector: He says "No."

By Mr. Del Guercio:.

Q. Did you tell me that after you testified here you would have to go away from the Coast, that you would have to go inland? A. No.

Q. What? A. I don't remember.

Presiding Inspector: He says "No." [1041]

The Witness: I don't remember.

Presiding Inspector: Now, he says he doesn't remember.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You do remember talking to me, don't you?

A. Yes, I remember talking to you. There was a telegram——

Q. (Interposing) There was a what?

A. A telegram come down on a ship and I saw—I don't know his name—a couple of men.

Q. Well, when did you talk to me?

A. That was last week.

Q. Last week. And where was it? Where did you talk to me? A. The Elks Club.

Q. In the Elks Club. And who was present?

A. You and about three others. Three others.

Q. You said you didn't tell me you were afraid to testify because if you did you would lose all your friends and you wouldn't be able to get a job here on the Pacific Coast?

A. Well, not in those words.

Q. Well, what did you say?

A. Oh, I don't quite remember what I said.

Q. Didn't you say that you would have to go to the East somewhere, that you wouldn't be able to get a job?

A. No; I said that I would go back East for a while, yes. [1042]

Q. Yes. Well, didn't you tell me at the time I talked to you that you had seen Harry Bridges in Communist Party meetings?

A. Well, I have seen him in meetings where there was a lot of Communists, yes. I have said that.

Q. Well, what meetings were they that you saw Harry Bridges at Communists meetings?

A. Well, one of them was—oh, there was a bunch of us from the waterfront that were Party members, Schneiderman, and there was a couple of longshoremen there, and Harry, but I don't know—it was in a private home.

Q. Well, when did that occur?

A. That occurred during the—just before—while we were negotiating.

Q. Well, let me ask you, has anybody contacted you since I talked to you? A. No.

Q. Are you sure? A. Positive.

Q. Did you make a statement to any FBI agents?

A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. When did you make such a statement?

A. Right after I got out of the hospital.

Q. Did you sign it?

A. I believe I did. [1043]

Q. Was it made voluntarily?

A. Yes and no.

Q. What do you mean "Yes and no?"

A. Just what I said.

Q. Well, now, was it made voluntarily?

A. (No response).

Q. Were you threatened? A. Well——

Presiding Inspector: You can answer these questions; answer them.

The Witness: Yes, I am trying to answer them.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, answer them straight. Were you threatened?

The Witness: I don't know.

Presiding Inspector: If you were, say so.

The Witness: No, I don't believe I was.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Well, you don't believe you were. Do you know if you were threatened or not?

A. No, I was not threatened.

Q. Well, then, you were not threatened by the FBI men? A. No.

Q. Were you threatened by anyone?

A. No.

Q. Well, why do you hesitate about saying——

A. (Interposing) I am trying to recall this stuff. [1044]

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Well, where did these men talk to you?

A. They took me up in the FBI headquarters in a room, oh, one of the side rooms, office room, with a screen around the window. I don't know what room it was.

Q. And you made a statement to them?

A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I have the statement.

(The statement was handed to Mr. Del Guercio.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, Mr. Cannalonga,—if the Court please, will you give me a little latitude in this? I believe this is a hostile witness. This has taken me by surprise here.

Presiding Inspector: We will see whether he is.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You state positively—you understand you are under oath, do you not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. (Continuing) ——nobody has contacted you since I talked to you? A. No.

Q. Well, how many statements did you make to the FBI men?

A. I believe there was two of them.

Q. You are sure it was only two?

A. Yes, I believe so; I am not sure. [1045]

Q. And did you sign them?

A. Yes, I signed them.

Q. You read them over? A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Did you make true statements to the FBI men?

A. Well, to the closest of my ability I thought I did.

Q. Well, would you say they were true, everything you told them? A. I believe so.

Presiding Inspector: Could you hear the witness?

Mr. Gladstein: Very good, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Speak a little louder, if you can.

The Witness: I am trying to.

Presiding Inspector: Well, do you think if you stood back a little bit, Mr. Del Guercio, that would induce him to speak a little louder?

Mr. Del Guercio: Surely I will do that.

Presiding Inspector: It is a matter of habit frequently witnesses lowering their voice, you know.

Mr. Del Guercio: Surely.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Do you remember the dates upon which you made the statements to the FBI men?

A. Yes. I got off the branch—I believe it was [1046] September—and I went to the hospital with a hip out of joint, and when I got out of the hospital—oh, I think it was the latter part of September or October, somewheres around there.

Q. And at that time were you shown a photograph of Bruce Hannon? A. I believe so.

Q. And did you identify that photograph?

A. If I knew him?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Yes. Did you identify that photograph? Did you say you knew him?

A. Yes, if I see the photograph again I——

Q. (Interposing) Well, did you say whether or not you knew him when you were shown the photograph? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You said you did know him?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then, you do know Bruce Hannon?

A. I believe I do.

Q. Well, why did you testify here previously that you didn't know Bruce Hannon?

A. I didn't recall him at the time.

Q. And were you asked if you knew whether or not Bruce Hannon was a member of the Communist Party? A. I think I was asked that.

Q. And what did you say? [1047]

A. I believe I said he was.

Q. Well, didn't you say that you knew that he was both a member of the Young Communist League as well as the Longshoremen's Unit of the Communist Party at Seattle for the years 1936 and '37?

A. I believe I said that.

Q. Was that the truth? A. I—yes.

Q. Well, when I asked you here a moment ago as to whether or not you knew Bruce Hannon why did you say that you didn't know him?

A. I told you I didn't recall him at the time.

Q. That what?

A. I told you I didn't recall him at the time.

Q. At what time?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. When you asked me. See, you just freshened my memory then.

Q. Oh, I am refreshing your memory now?

A. Yes.

Q. And didn't you also say that you frequently met Bruce Hannon and that you visited him at the offices of the Young Communist League in the Eitel Building? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Does that refresh your memory some more now? A. Yes.

Q. Well, now, I will ask you: Do you know Bruce Hannon [1048] to be a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your answer is what? A. Yes.

Presiding Inspector: He said, "Yes."

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Did you make a statement to the FBI men and did you tell me, when I talked to you, that you attended a fraction meeting at the Gowman Hotel at Seattle, Washington, during May or March of 1937 shortly after the 1937 strike?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that correct? A. Yes.

Q. Is that true? A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell the FBI men and did you tell me that there were present at that meeting Morris Rapport? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Al Bristol? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Harry Jackson? A. Yes.

Q. Harry Bridges? A. Yes.

Q. Henry Schmidt? [1049] A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Matt Meehan? A. Yes.

Q. Bruce Hannon? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Burt Nelson? A. Burt Nelson?

Q. Yes. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Ernie Fox A. Yes, sir.

Q. Harry Pilcher? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And yourself? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Edward F. Fisher? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Laddie Hope, Everett W. Hope?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well, is it true that all those persons were present at that meeting? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you knew them all to be members of the Communist Party?

A. Well, no. Like I stated I wasn't sure of one or [1050] two of them. Nobody has ever saw Bridges' Party book.

Q. Well, do you believe Mr. Bridges to be a member of the Communist Party?

A. Oh, I thought so, yes.

Q. Do you still think so? A. I don't know.

Q. Well, when did you change your mind?

A. Well, I haven't been in a Party for quite a while now and I don't know.

Q. Well, did you tell me when I talked to you that you didn't believe that Bridges was a member of the Communist Party?

A. I says in my own mind I had no doubt that he was but I was not sure.

Q. At this particular meeting here in the Gowman Hotel who invited you to attend that meeting?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. Jackson.

Q. Harry Jackson. Was he a union man?

A. No.

Q. Why did you attend the meeting in the Gowman Hotel?

A. Because I was waterfront section organizer.

Q. As waterfront section organizer of the Communist Party Harry Jackson told you to attend this meeting in the Gowman Hotel?

A. Yes, sir. [1051]

Q. And you went there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you saw all these men that I have just mentioned?

A. Yes, sir, and a few more besides.

Q. Let's take them one by one. You knew that Morris Rapport was a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew that Al Bristol was a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You know that Harry Jackson was a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew that Henry Schmidt was a member of the Communist Party?

A. I was not sure of Schmidt.

Q. What?

A. No, I have never seen his Party book so I wouldn't say he was.

Q. Well, did you ever see Rapport's Party book?

A. Yes, I have seen Rapport's Party book.

Q. Did you ever see Bristol's Party book?

A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. And you saw Jackson's Party book?

A. Yes, sir. [1052]

Q. You never saw Schmidt's Party book?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever see Matt Meehan's Party book?

A. No.

Q. Do you know him to be a member of the Communist Party? A. I believe he was.

Q. And you know Bruce Hannon was a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, he was.

Q. No doubt about that, is there?

A. I don't believe, no.

Q. And Burt Nelson?

A. Yes, he was, I believe.

Q. And Ernie Fox? A. Yes.

Q. And Harry Pilcher? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And yourself; you knew that you were a member of the Communist Party? A. Oh, yes.

Q. Didn't you? A. Yes.

Q. And Fisher? A. Yes. [1053]

Q. And Hope? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well, who was present, then, at that meeting that you thought was not a member of the Communist Party, that you didn't believe to be a member of the Communist Party?

A. Well, would you ask me that question again?

Presiding Inspector: Read the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

The Witness: Well, I thought all of them were.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You thought all of them were?

A. Yes sir, but I couldn't prove it.

Q. You believed all were members. And what was discussed at this meeting? What was the purpose of this meeting?

A. Well, they were having—that was the time that they were going to—the CIO—the unions were to go into the CIO and break away from the A. F. of L.

Q. Well, what would a man like Morris Rapport have to do with shifting these unions from the A. F. of L. to the CIO?

A. Well, the Party always—the Party lines always followed industrial type of organization instead of a craft type.

Q. Well, why would Morris Rapport be present at such a meeting to discuss shifting the A. F. of L. Unions to the CIO? Was he a member of any union? [1054] A. No.

Q. Jackson was not, you have testified.

A. What?

Q. Jackson was not? A. No.

Q. Al Bristol was not? A. No.

Q. Well, Mr. Canpalonga, was this a Communist Party meeting to discuss the Communist Party policy of shifting the A. F. of L. Unions into the CIO?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you say "Yes"? A. Yes.

Q. You are sure of that? A. Oh, yes.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. No question in your mind at all?

A. No.

Q. And you recall now, don't you, that you attended this meeting on a Sunday morning in May 1937 during the 30th annual convention of the Longshoremen's Association?

A. Yes, yes, it was about then.

Presiding Inspector: Do you hear the witness?

The Reporter: Yes, sir.

Presiding Inspector: Very good, but just keep your voice [1055] up as much as you can.

Mr. Gladstein: May I have the last question and answer read, please?

(The question and answer referred to were read by the reporter.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. And you are sure that Bridges was present?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. No question in your mind about that?

A. No question.

Q. Did Bridges speak at this meeting?

A. Yes, he was talking.

Q. Well, were they any others present than those I have mentioned?

A. Yes, there was quite a few more present.

Q. How many all together, about?

A. Well, oh, there was about—I would say about 25.

Q. About 25? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did Bridges talk about?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. Oh, he was talking about the policy of the A. F. of L. and how the A. F. of L. was trying to force themselves on to the longshoremen on the Pacific Coast, force Ryan, and that the CIO, under the leadership of Lewis, was the right organization to be in, it was an industrial type, and that they [1056] would get away from Ryan's domination of the Pacific Coast, words to that effect.

Q. Now, who was he talking to?

A. To the whole bunch of us.

Q. Was he making a speech or was it just a general discussion? A. General discussion.

Q. No speech-making at that meeting?

A. Oh, no.

Q. Nobody made any speeches, did they?

A. No, nobody made speeches.

Q. Did Morris Rapport talk? A. Yes.

Q. He got into the discussion? A. Yes.

Q. Did Harry Jackson? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, didn't you attend another meeting in San Francisco about October 1938 at which Mr. Bridges was present? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And where was that?

A. Some private home.

Q. Some private home? [1057]

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And who was present at that meeting?

A. Oh, Stack and Schneiderman and quite a few others.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. William Schneidermann, is that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And who was William Schneiderman?

A. He is—he was the district organizer for the south and here, for California.

Q. For the Communist Party?

A. For the Communist Party, yes.

Q. Was he a union man?

A. I don't know; I don't think so.

Q. Did he belong to any union?

A. No, I don't believe so.

Q. Walter Stack, you say was there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Bridges there? A. Yes.

Q. And was Sam Telford there?

A. Yes, I think so.

Q. Was Henry Schmidt there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Dave Saunders there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was Brown there? [1058]

A. I believe so.

Q. And Pyle? A. I believe so.

Q. Now, all these names that I have mentioned, did you know them to be members of the Communist Party? A. Some of them, yes. [1059]

Q. Who didn't you know to be members of the Communist Party of those that I have mentioned?

A. Well, I can't say the fellows were members if I didn't actually see their books.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. At the time you attended this meeting did you know that it was a Communist Party meeting?

A. Oh, yes; it was a Fraction meeting.

Q. How did you know that? A. I was told.

Q. By whom? A. Stack.

Q. He told you to attend? A. Yes.

Q. And you were attending then a Communist Party meeting? A. I suppose so.

Q. Well, was there any doubt in your mind?

A. Well, you know the policy of the Party was at times to have leading figures, non-Communist Party members attend some of their Fraction meetings.

Q. Who was the non-Communist there that was attending that meeting?

A. Like I say, fellows I have been told were Communists, but as far as I am concerned how can I tell?

Q. Did you believe that Bridges was attending that meeting as a non-Communist member? [1060]

A. No, I don't think so.

Q. What capacity was he attending that meeting?

A. I assumed he was a Party member; I was assuming all this.

Q. You knew that Sam Telford was a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. And how about Henry Schmidt—I believe you testified you didn't know whether he was a member of the Communist Party? A. No.

Q. How about Dave Saunders?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. Yes, he was a member.

Q. Brown?

A. Well, I couldn't say he was "Yes" or "No." I thought he was. I assumed it.

Q. And Pyle?

A. The same thing with Pyle.

Q. And what was discussed at this meeting?

A. Oh, negotiations of the contract and the sailors were jamming up things.

Q. Negotiations of the contract between whom?

A. The waterfront unions and the steamship operators.

Q. What was Schneiderman doing at such a meeting where they were negotiating for a contract?

A. He was giving his experience. [1061]

Q. Giving his what?

A. Giving the Party line.

Q. Giving the Party line—the Communist Party line? A. Yes.

Q. Who was he giving that to?

A. He discussed the Party line in regard to contracts.

Q. For the benefit of all those that were at that meeting? A. Yes.

Q. For the benefit of this alien here, Bridges?

A. I believe so.

Q. Was there some discussion there concerning the Sailors Union of the Pacific?

A. Yes.

Q. What discussion was there about that?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. Well, they were breaking away from the Federation and jamming up—they wanted to go on their own in regard to signing a contract with the shipowners.

Q. Who was talking about the Sailors Union of the Pacific? A. Saunders.

Q. Saunders? A. Yes.

Q. Was he a member of the Sailors Union of the Pacific? A. Yes.

Q. Did Schneiderman participate in that discussion? A. Yes.

Q. Was he a member of the Sailors Union of the Pacific? [1062] A. No.

Q. What did he say about the Sailors Union of the Pacific?

A. Well, he was saying, explaining the harm it would do by breaking up the Federation.

Q. Did he say if the Communist Party wanted that to happen? A. No.

Q. What did he say.

A. Well, you see, in those discussions they never mentioned the Communist Party.

Q. Did Bridges speak at that meeting?

A. I believe he did.

Q. When I say "speak"—he didn't make a speech, did he? A. No.

Q. He discussed, like the other members there discussed, various questions that would come up?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he go in there to ask questions—did Bridges ask any questions of anybody?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. No, I don't believe so.

Q. Did he ask for any assistance or help?

A. No, I don't think so.

Q. You don't think so. Do you know if he did?

A. No, offhand I couldn't say for the simple reason that it has been quite a while ago and little details like that [1063] a fellow can't remember.

Q. Now, do you know that Bruce Hannon took a trip to New York as a delegate to the American Youth Congress? A. Yes.

Q. When was that?

A. That was, I believe, in '37.

Q. In what? A. 1937.

Q. How do you know that he was a delegate to the American Youth Congress?

A. Well, there was a meeting of one of the, I think it was the YCL.

Q. YCL—is that the Young Communist League?

A. Yes.

Q. What was Bruce Hannon's connection with the YCL?

A. Well, he was taking an active interest in it and it was a party assignment.

Mr. Del Guercio: May we have a short recess at this time?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

Presiding Inspector: You may resume.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, you testified this morning that you were Editor of the Red Beacon, is that correct?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. Yes.

Q. Under whose direction were you working while you were [1064] Editor of the Beacon?

A. Communist Party.

Q. And who in particular in the Communist Party. A. Jackson and Rapport.

Q. Morris Rapport, is that it?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, these statements that you made to the FBI men, I believe you testified you made up two of them on separate dates, is that correct?

A. I think so.

Q. You are sure you didn't make three?

A. It might have been three.

Q. Did you make one in your own handwriting?

A. Yes.

Q. You signed them? A. Yes.

Q. Now, during the time that you made these statements to the FBI men I believe you testified you weren't threatened? A. No.

Q. Coerced? A. No.

Q. Were you induced or were you promised anything? A. No.

Q. You made them voluntarily?

A. Yes. [1065]

Q. Is there any question about that?

A. No.

Q. Did you make one of those statements on October 9, 1940? A. About that time.

Q. And one on October 8, 1940?

A. About that time.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. And one in your own handwriting on November 5, 1940? A. Yes; about that time.

Q. And did you tell the truth in those statements? A. To the best of my knowledge.

Q. Are you telling the truth now?

A. I believe I am.

Q. You believe you are? Do you know if you are telling the truth or not?

A. Well, to the best of my knowledge; yes, sir.

Q. Now, were you contacted by any officer of the United States during the last hearing, the Landis hearing, in the Bridges case? A. Yes.

Q. By whom?

A. A fellow from the Immigration Service in Seattle—I don't recall his name. Maybe you know it.

Q. Was it Boyd? A. Boyd; yes.

Q. John B. Boyd? [1066] A. Yes.

Q. Where were you contacted?

A. As I was going to the public out-patient station in Seattle.

Q. When was that?

A. That was quite a while ago.

Q. How long ago, about?

A. About a year ago or so.

Q. What did he say to you?

A. He asked my name and——

Q. (Interposing): Before you go into that, was there anybody else present? A. Yes.

Q. Who? A. The Marine doctor.

Q. The Marine doctor?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. Yes. He got me in the waiting room, reception room.

Q. Was there anybody but Mr. Boyd present?

A. No; he was alone.

Q. And you were alone?

A. No. I had a friend with me.

Q. What was his name?

A. I don't recall at the time; some fellow off of a ship. He was waiting to go to see the Doctor too.

Q. What was said there? [1067]

A. Boyd came in—somebody pointed me out to him—evidently somebody pointed and told him who I was—and he came in the out-patient station and asked if my name was Cannalonga and I said "Yes." It was in regard to the Bridges deportation case.

Q. What did he ask you in regard to the Bridges case?

A. He asked me if I knew Bridges and I said "Yes." And then he asked would I appear against him. I believe that is what it was.

Q. What did you say? A. I said "No."

Q. Did he ask you if you knew that Bridges had been at any Communist Party meetings?

A. Yes; he asked me that.

Q. What did you say?

A. I told him I didn't think so; words to that effect.

Q. Was that the truth?

A. Well, I thought—I don't know.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Well, now, do you know whether it was the 4th or not when he asked you if you knew whether Bridges had ever attended any Communist Party meetings? A. I said "No."

Q. Why did you say "No"?

A. Because Bridges had never been in any out-and-out Communist meeting; what I mean, a regular Communist meeting called by the Communist Party. [1068]

Q. Have you every been in any meeting called straight by the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. Which ones? A. Quite a few of them.

Q. Where?

A. In Seattle and up and down the coast.

Q. What else did your tell Boyd?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Did you have more than one conversation with Boyd?

A. Well, he told me to report down to his office.

Q. How long after the first conversation?

A. That same day.

Q. Did you go to his office?

A. Yes. After the Doctor got through looking me over I went down to his office and Johnny Davis was in his office.

Q. Was in whose office?

A. Boyd's office. Davis was the one that told Boyd who I was when I got off the ship.

Then Boyd asked me if I wanted to appear as a witness against Bridges. And I said "No."

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Did he ask you why you didn't want to appear as a witness against Bridges?

A. I don't believe he did.

Q. Did you tell him why you didn't want to appear as a witness against Bridges? [1069]

A. I don't quite recall.

Q. Do you know if you gave any reason why you didn't want to appear as a witness against Bridges?

A. I gave him a couple of reasons.

Q. What were those reasons?

A. I though it was a phony set-up.

Q. You thought it was a phony set-up?

A. Yes.

Q. What do you mean by that?

A. Well, the way Johnny Davis told me in the office there, that I could come down here at Government expense, and so on and so forth, and see the World's Fair, made it sound like, appear as though he was trying to bribe me, or something.

Q. You mean Johnny Davis? A. Yes.

Q. Did Boyd tell you that?

A. No. Then I got sore and I said "The hell"——

Q. Is that the reason why you said you had no information about Bridges? A. Yes.

Q. That wasn't true, was it, when you said you had no information about Bridges?

A. Well, I suppose not.

Q. Is that all that occurred at that time?

A. Well, then, after I got through speaking with

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Boyd [1070] I went up and saw Matt Meehan and I made a statement to Matt.

Q. Immediately after you left Boyd?

A. Yes.

Q. You went over to see Mat Meehan?

A. Yes.

Q. Was Matt Meehan a particular friend of yours?

A. I have known him through meetings and so forth.

Q. Was he a particular friend of yours at that time? A. Yes.

Q. And you went to see him? A. Yes.

Q. That is, after you left Boyd's office?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you do?

A. I talked to him and told him about Boyd wanting me to go down as a witness, and I turned him down, and so he called in his secretary and asked me to make a statement, and I made a statement and signed it.

Q. Who was his secretary?

A. I believe the name is in that statement.

Q. Was it Grace Corbin?

A. Yes; Grace Corbin.

Q. And did you know Grace Corbin to be a member of the Communist Party?

A. I had seen her at different meetings; yes.

[1071]

Q. You saw her at different meetings?

A. Yes.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. You knew she was a member of the Communist Party? A. I assumed it; yes.

Q. You went up to that office and made a statement? A. Yes.

Q. Who asked you to make the statement?

A. Nobody.

Q. Did you go up and say, "I have a statement to make?" A. No; no.

Q. Tell me what happened?

A. Matt asked me to make a statement, after I had told him what Boyd wanted me to do; and he says, "Well, you had better make out a statement. We will call Grace in." So I made out a statement.

Q. Did you make it out, or did Matt Meehan make it out? A. Both of us made it out.

Q. Did you write in out?

A. No; she took shorthand.

Q. Who, Grace Corbin? A. Yes.

Q. Grace Corbin—do you know if she is still living? A. I don't know.

Q. After the statement was made out what was done? A. I signed it and left. [1072]

Q. Who asked you to sign it? A. Matt.

Q. Who? A. Matt Meehan.

Q. Did he say what he was going to do with it?

A. No.

Q. He didn't tell you what he was going to do with it?

A. Yes. He said that they might use it in the trial, and they might not.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. What did Matt Meehan have to do with the Bridges trial?

A. He is Secretary of the Longshoremen's Union.

Q. What did Grace Corbin have to do with the Bridges trial? A. She was his secretary.

Q. And he was going to give it to whom?

A. I believe to the defense lawyers.

Q. Is that why you went to Matt Meehan?

A. No. I was sore at Boyd.

Q. You were sore at Boyd for what Johnny Davis had said? A. Yes.

Q. Are you in the habit of being sore at people because of what somebody else said?

A. Well——

Q. You were furnished with a copy of that statement you [1073] made to Matt Meehan?

A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I believe you have the original of this. (Handing copy of statement to defense counsel.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. This John Ryan Davis, do you know him to be a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Q. I will show you here what purports to be a copy of a statement headed——

A. (Interposing): Can I read it?

Q. (Continuing): ——"Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga, August 18, 1939," and I will ask you if that is a copy of the statement you made to Matt Meehan at that time?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. (Referring to statement): Yes.

Q. It is? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: Received without objection.

(The statement referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 207.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I would like to read this, if your Honor please. I want to ask the witness questions based on it.

Presiding Inspector: Very well. I do not know what real point there is to it. [1074]

Mr. Del Guercio: To show the attitude of this witness, if your Honor please, not only at that time but at this time.

Presiding Inspector: He is your witness. If you want to read it, go ahead.

Mr. Del Guercio: I won't read it all, but I want to ask concerning certain statements made in this document.

Presiding Inspector: Of course, you open up the field to a long cross examination on this, but go ahead and read it all if you want to.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You state, among other things, in this:

"Davis and Boyd took me into Boyd's private office then and tried to get me to admit that I had seen Harry Bridges at a Communist Party meeting. I told them, 'No,' that all the time I was in the party I had never seen Bridges at a Party meeting."

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Is that correct? A. Yes.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you had seen Bridges at a Party meeting?

A. Well, it is like I say—you know there are Party meetings and there are Party meetings. Now, an out-and-out Party meeting is where they have a Party plenum, where they make decisions for actions and so forth, that had been handed down—like the plenum they had in regard to the Seventh World [1075] Congress of the Comintern, decisions were made and those were analyzed by the Party members, and then brought back to the units, and through these different decisions they were being worked into the unions; like there was one especially against War and Fascism. That was at the time when the Party made decisions to fight War and Fascism, Nazism, Fascism and Japanese aggression in China.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Boyd, at the time he talked to you, on either of the two occasions that he talked to you, of these meetings that you have testified to today? A. No.

Q. Now, there appears on the back of this statement here in some handwriting this statement:

"When I made this statement I was under the impression that Mr. Boyd, through Johnny Davis, was trying to buy me off. So I gave a copy of this statement to Matt Meehan on his suggestion after I had told him about Boyd and Davis contacting me as I have related in this statement."

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

And then it is signed "Maurice J. Cannalonga." Is that in your handwriting? A. It is.

Q. When did you put that on there?

A. I put that on in November—later on I put it on up in the office.

Presiding Inspector: So in one sense, Mr. Cannalonga— [1076] let me see if I understand you, and if I don't you can correct me—in one sense you wouldn't call a unit meeting or a fraction meeting a Party meeting?

The Witness: Yes, you would.

Presiding Inspector: You would?

The Witness: Yes. You see, then, in another sense they have other meetings that they call rank-and-file meetings.

Presiding Inspector: In one sense you would call those Party meetings and in another sense you wouldn't, is that what you mean, or are they also Party meetings?

The Witness: Yes, they are; unit and Fraction meetings.

Presiding Inspector: They are Party meetings?

The Witness: Yes, Party meetings. Then sometimes they will have a Fraction meeting of different unions where it is dominated by Communists, and they will have outsiders.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Presiding Inspector: You wouldn't call that a Party meeting?

The Witness: No. That is where the catch is and it is pretty hard to separate them.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. This meeting at the Gowman Hotel that you have testified about, didn't you testify that Harry Jackson told you it was to be a meeting of the Communist Party?

A. It was a Party Fraction meeting.

Q. It was?

A. Yes. But then you see a lot of Fraction meetings [1077] they will have militant people in there and we can't say absolutely they are Communists. You don't know, you never see their book, and you just assume that they are Communists at some of those meetings.

Q. But what did Harry Jackson tell you about this particular meeting?

A. He said it was a Party Fraction meeting.

Q. A Party Fraction meeting?

A. Correct.

Q. He told you to attend that meeting as a Party Fraction meeting? A. Yes.

Q. And that is how you attended it?

A. Yes.

Q. How about this other meeting at this home here in San Francisco? A. The same way.

Q. He told you that was to be a Communist Party Fraction meeting? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. And not any other kind of a meeting?

A. No. But I don't know what he told the others.

Q. I am not asking you what he told the others. Have you ever been arrested?

A. No—yes, I was once for being "stiff".

Presiding Inspector: Well, I think— [1078]

The Witness (Interposing): Well, he asked if I had ever been arrested and if I had said "No." he might refer to that.

Presiding Inspector: Let's not argue about it.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Have you ever been on relief? A. No.

Q. Your work has always been on the waterfront, hasn't it? A. Yes.

Q. Do you ship in and out?

A. Oh, I have shipped as Foremaster, A.B., oiler, watertender, Junior Engineer, Electrician—about everything there is on a ship.

Q. While you were a member of the Communist Party did you participate in Communist demonstrations? A. Yes.

Q. How many of them?

A. Quite a few of them.

Q. Did you participate in any fights, riots?

A. Yes.

Q. How many of those?

A. Oh, a few of them.

Q. Where did you participate in them?

A. In Seattle.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Anywhere else? [1079] A. No.

Q. Were you ever arrested in connection with any such demonstrations? A. No, sir.

Q. You always got away? A. Yes.

Q. What? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: You may cross examine. [1080]

Mr. Grossman: Your Honor, we feel that we have a right to examine every statement taken by the FBI or the Government which was used in an effort to impeach their own witness. Now, we have no way of knowing——

Presiding Inspector: I don't see that they have impeached their own witness.

Mr. Grossman: I certainly got that impression.

Presiding Inspector: They offered it for refreshment of recollection, those questions.

Mr. Grossman: I think even Mr. Del Guercio talked about surprise and raised the—— Presiding Inspector: He did, but I couldn't see that he was hostile in any way. I think he was a reluctant witness, but I didn't see hostility.

Mr. Grossman: You say, then, we have no right to examine any of those?

Presiding Inspector: I don't say that, but I wouldn't put it on that basis.

Mr. Grossman: We make the request that the use of these statements to the extent that they were used by the Government justifies our right to examine those statements.

Presiding Inspector: Well, did you show the witness any statements?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Mr. Del Guercio: No, your Honor. [1081]

Presiding Inspector: You read from some. Did you read from any of those?

Mr. Del Guercio: No sir, I did not.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I couldn't quite tell. You held it in your hand. I couldn't quite tell whether you were reading or not.

Mr. Del Guercio: I had several of them. What I was reading from was my own brief.

Presiding Inspector: Well, that would not be interesting. Of course, if you were reading from a statement, then, you should show it to the other side.

Mr. Del Guercio: I realize that, if the Court please, but I was not reading from the statements. I was reading from my own brief.

Mr. Grossman: I have the idea—I may be wrong—the important point is whether the witness is given the impression, by the action of counsel, that counsel is using a verbatim copy of what he said. Now, I think very clearly this witness was given the impression that Mr. Del Guercio, whether he was using a brief in which these were copied or not, was nevertheless given the impression that Mr. Del Guercio was referring to his statement. That being the basis of it, I think we are entitled to it.

Presiding Inspector: I couldn't quite tell myself.

Mr. Grossman: I think that lays the basis nevertheless [1082] for us to examine these.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Presiding Inspector: Did you understand you were being asked from the statements that you yourself made?

The Witness: No.

Presiding Inspector: He says he didn't so understand it.

I think you can examine him and see. Proceed.

Mr. Grossman: What was your statement?

Presiding Inspector: I said I think you can go along and we will see about it.

Mr .Grossman: Oh!

Cross Examination

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Cannalonga, with reference to these meetings that you have been testifying to your memory is not very clear, is it?

A. Will you repeat that?

Q. Is your memory very clear about the details of these meetings that you have been testifying about?

A. Well, no, it is not very clear, I will——

Q. (Interposing): Do you consider that you have a good, a very good or a bad memory? Can you describe for us what you consider to be the quality of your memory?

A. Well, as far as names and dates I have got a poor memory, but faces, if I see a face once I will always remember [1083] it, so——

Q. Would you say that you would be able to name from memory most of the persons who were at a meeting two or three years before if there were 10 or 12 or 15 or 20 people at that meeting?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Camalonga.)

A. I couldn't name—I could name some of them, yes, and you know, it is like anything else, you take the fellows that do more talking than others and you have more contacts with, you remember them better, you know, it is only natural, and others that you may see once or twice, then, it is vague.

Q. Would you be able to remember two or three years before the place or the time at which a meeting had taken place?

A. Yes, I can remember the places all right and the approximate time.

Q. You can. And if I asked you about a particular meeting two or three years ago that took place in the City of Seattle do you think you could pretty well remember where that meeting was and when it was? A. I believe so.

Q. You consider your memory pretty good on that? A. I think so.

Q. When was the first time that any representative of the FBI spoke to you about Harry Bridges? A. That was in November. [1084]

Q. Of last year?

A. October; no, I shipped in November.

Q. Of last year? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And how much time was there between the meeting that you have been talking about in the Gowman Hotel and the time that the FBI spoke to you for the first time?

A. About three years.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. About three years?

A. Two and a half years it would be.

Q. At the time the FBI spoke to you, or one of their men spoke to you for the first time, do you have a clear recollection of that meeting in the Gowman Hotel?

A. A fairly clear recollection, yes.

Q. Now, I would like to know, Mr. Cannalonga, exactly what was the approach that was made with reference to that meeting by the representatives of the FBI? Now, for example, did the representative of the FBI say to you, "Mr. Cannalonga, we know you were at a meeting at the Gowman Hotel," or did he say that in substance?

Mr. Myron: Just a moment. There is no evidence he said either one of those things. Why doesn't he ask him what the FBI said?

Mr. Grossman: This is cross examination.

Presiding Inspector: This is cross examination.

Mr. Myron: That is leading the witness. [1085]

Presiding Inspector: You can do that on cross examination.

Mr. Grossman: I can do that on cross examination.

Presiding Inspector: I will take it.

The Witness: Will you repeat that?

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did a representative of the——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) What was the last remark of counsel, your Honor?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Presiding Inspector: Just a moment, I didn't hear it.

Mr. Grossman: I will repeat it. Did you wish to hear it, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: No, if it is in the record. What was the remark?

(The testimony referred to was read by the reporter.)

Presiding Inspector: You haven't any right to deceive him.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did he say in substance to you that "We know, Mr. Cannalonga, you were at the meeting at the Gowman Hotel?"

A. What does that word "substance" mean?

Q. I mean, I may not be right in the words but have I got the general principles correct, or the general information, or meaning correct?

A. Yes, sir. [1086]

Q. In other words, he claimed to know about the meeting in the Gowman Hotel before you told him anything about it, is that right?

A. Well, I——

Mr. Myron: I object to that, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Well, is that so, or isn't it?

Mr. Myron: If he is going to make an offer that is so, that is all right, it is not objectionable, but it is certainly deceiving the witness.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Mr. Grossman: How am I deceiving the witness?

Presiding Inspector: We will ask him; we will allow that.

Did he say that? Did he give you the impression that he knew about the meeting before he asked you what happened there, if you can remember that?

The Witness: Now, let's see. (Pause). Read that question again, will you?

Presiding Inspector: Read counsel's question.

Mr. Grossman: I will ask it again.

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you get the impression from the representative of the FBI that he knew, or thought he knew something about the meeting at the Gowman Hotel before you mentioned it or talked to him about it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. He gave you the impression also, did [1087] he not, that he knew or thought he knew some of the people that were present at that meeting?

Mr. Myron: I object to that, your Honor, the form of the question.

Mr. Grossman: This is cross examination.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it.

A. Yes.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. All right. How many names did he name,

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

or persons that he claimed were at that meeting at the Gowman Hotel? A. Oh, four or five.

Q. Are you sure that is all? A. Yes, sir.

Q. He named Bridges, didn't he, as one of those?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In other words, to summarize, before you mentioned the meeting at the Gowman Hotel the first time you were contacted by a representative of the FBI. He said to you, "Cannalonga—" — in substance "Cannalonga, you attended a meeting at the Gowman Hotel which was a Communist meeting at which Harry Bridges was present?" Did he do that in substance?

Presiding Inspector: Well, now, that is no question.

Mr. Myron: I object.

Mr. Grossman: I recognize I added an element of being a Communist meeting but I submit I nevertheless have a right [1088] to ask a question which is leading and get an answer to it.

Presiding Inspector: I have ruled with you on that, but I don't think that I quite understand the full purport of that question.

Mr. Grossman: All right, I will ask it gain.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Is it true, Mr. Cannalonga, that before you gave any information to this FBI man that first contacted you, he told you in substance—I may not have the words right—but in substance——

A. Yes, O.K.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. That you, Cannalonga, had attended a meeting at the Gowman Hotel at which Bridges was present?

A. Well, he named—oh, he named a couple of others and then Bridges.

Q. All right, he named Bridges as one of those that he named? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he also stated to you, did he not, that it was a Communist meeting? A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. He stated, did he not, that Rapport had been present at that meeting?

A. He did.

Q. And he stated did he not, that Bristol had been present at that meeting? [1089]

A. I believe so.

Q. And he stated, did he not, that Jackson had been present at that meeting? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he stated, did he not, that Nelson had been present at that meeting?

A. No, I don't recall that.

Q. I see. Your answer is that you don't recall whether he mentioned Nelson?

A. I am not quite clear.

Presiding Inspector: Do you understand he is not asking you what happened. He is asking you if the man told you these things?

The Witness: Yes, if he told me; I get the drift all right.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. As to Nelson, you don't know if he mentioned Nelson's name or not, is that correct?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he state that Hannon had been at that meeting?

A. I—no; he named some of the lesser lights. I am not quite sure.

Q. Fisher? Did he name Fisher?

A. He named Laddie Hope. [1090]

Q. He named Laddie Hope. Now, how about Fisher? A. I think he did.

Q. How about Pilcher? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he name Schmidt?

A. I am not sure.

Q. Did he name Meehan?

A. Well, I wouldn't swear to that either.

Q. Did he name Fox? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he state to you where he had gotten that information that enabled him to name these names?

A. No.

Q. Did he give you any indication; did he give you any general statement indicating where he had gotten it from? A. No.

Q. Did he state to you that he had talked to someone who was at that meeting that had given him the information? A. No.

Q. Now, Mr. Cannalonga, I am concerned with the way in which he gave you this information. When he gave you this information or stated these facts, what he said about these facts, about this meeting, he stated them in a way that gave you the impression, did he not, that he believed that to have taken place, the way he described it? In other words, he was not—— [1091]

A. (Interposing) Yes.

Presiding Inspector: The answer is "Yes".

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. He didn't give you the impression that he was just fishing around with no information. He gave you the impression he knew what he was talking about? A. Yes, uh-huh.

Q. Now, how many men were there the first time that talked to you, FBI men?

A. Two of them.

Q. Two. Did both of them participate in the questioning, or only one?

A. No, both of them.

Q. Did one of them seem to better informed than the other? A. Well——

Q. In other words, did one of them take the lead in the questioning or——

A. (Interposing) No; they kind of shifted. One would ask questions for a while and telling me different things that I knew had happened, and another one would do the same thing.

Q. Now, these men gave you the impression, did they not, that they knew a lot about you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did they talk to you about your union activities? [1092] A. Uh-huh.

Q. And they gave the impression that they had some pretty good information about what you had been doing for the last few years?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. Well, well, I don't know how to answer that one; that is—will you ask me that one again?

Q. Yes. In other words, they gave you the impression that they knew what you had been doing the last few years, your general activities?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. They checked up on you very carefully before they talked to you? A. I believe so.

Q. That is the impression you got anyhow, wasn't it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How far back did they seem to have gone in checking up on you? Can you think of the earliest date that they seemed to know something about you?

Mr. Myron: All these are objectionable.

A. I don't recall.

Presiding Inspector: Pretty remote, aren't they?

Mr. Del Guercio: We are not objecting to it, of course, but that doesn't mean——

Mr. Grossman: (Interposing) I will connect it up. I don't think I have to explain to counsel the reason for any [1093] particular question.

Presiding Inspector: I don't understand it myself, but you may go on.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. For example, did they seem to know about your life for the last year, or did they seem to know about five or ten or twenty years of your life?

A. Well, I——

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. (Interposing) You didn't get any impression on that? A. No.

Q. But they did seem to have checked up on you pretty thoroughly before they——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Well, if your Honor please, the witness has just testified——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) He has already answered that.

Mr. Grossman: I may lead him on cross examination.

Presiding Inspector: He has answered it just the way you wanted him to answer it.

Mr. Grossman: I was just referring to a comment of counsel.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Now, this information they had about you, was it solely in connection with your trade union activities or did [1094] some of it deal with your personal activities?

A. Well, I couldn't say off-hand.

Q. Did they seem to know, for example, the places where you had lived?

A. Well, I couldn't say that. They didn't—I don't believe they mentioned the exact places that I had lived, no, because, you know, I have been—you know, after all a guy going to sea he don't stay in one place very long, and I have left home and been away ten years at a crack and sometimes only a couple of months, so that is the only way I can answer that one.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Did they seem to know that you were not then a member of the Communist Party.

A. What was that again?

Q. Did they seem to know that you were not then a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they seem to know at what time your connection with the Communist Party was severed?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did they seem to know why that—or how that connection was severed? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did they seem to know about your views with respect [1095] to the Communist Party?

A. I don't get that.

Q. Did they seem to know what you thought of the Communist Party? A. No.

Q. Were they wrong? I mean, did they express any wrong views about what you thought of the Communist Party or did they express none at all?

A. They didn't express any, I don't believe.

Q. Can you think of anything else about which they seemed to be well informed concerning you?

A. Well, I—no, I don't recall. They seemed to have a general idea of what I had been doing, you know, so forth and so on, not right down to small details, but you know, a general idea as though they knew what they were talking about.

Q. They knew, of course, that you had been talking to Boyd before? A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. And they knew, of course, what you had told Boyd? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did they discuss with you your previous conversation with Boyd? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did that take place—I mean, did they discuss that conversation with Boyd before they went into the dis- [1096] cussion of these meetings?

A. Huh?

Q. What did they discuss with you first, your previous discussions with Boyd, or did they discuss the meetings with you first? Do you understand what I mean? A. No, I don't.

Q. When they first met you did they start talking about what you had said to Boyd?

A. Oh, no, no.

Q. When did they discuss your conversation with Boyd, at the beginning of this interview or in the middle or the end or what?

A. I don't recall when it was. It was while they were interviewing me.

Q. I see. Mr. Cannalonga, have you been shipping rather steadily as a fireman since the time that you were in the Communist Party?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And exactly, Mr. Cannalonga, what is your attitude toward the Communist Party at the present time?

A. My attitude at the present time?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, I think they are sure wrong in the whole setup on the Coast, for one thing, and some of the moves they have made, going to bat with Hitler and Japan, I think that was [1097] pretty lousy, and that Finnish adventure was another one.

Q. You feel you disagree pretty strongly with the Communist Party?

A. Well, I don't know what you mean by strong. I disagree with——

Q. (Interposing) There is no doubt in your mind that you disagree with them?

A. Yes, with their policy now.

Q. What are your present views, Mr. Cannalonga, about the policies of Bridges in the unions on the Pacific Coast? Do you agree with him or disagree with him?

A. Well, to be frank, I haven't been following any of that stuff.

Q. Well, the last time you did follow it and formed any opinions, was it in agreement or disagreement with the policies of Harry Bridges in the maritime unions on the Pacific Coast?

A. In agreement.

Q. In agreement? A. Yes, that is it.

Q. In other words, the last time you had any opinion on Bridges it was quite different than your opinion on the Communist Party, is that right?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, he didn't testify to that.

Presiding Inspector: I don't see that it is of any use, [1098] comparing the two.

The Witness: Will you repeat that?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Presiding Inspector: I suggest you withdraw that question.

Mr. Grossman: All right, I will withdraw it.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you consider that the Communist Party is a harmful influence among the maritime unions on the Pacific Coast? A. (No response).

Q. Put it this way: Do you believe that the policies of the Communist Party are good or bad for the maritime unions on the Pacific Coast?

A. Bad.

Q. Bad. Now, isn't it true, then, Mr. Cannalonga, that if you think the policies of the Communist Party on the Pacific Coast are bad for the maritime unions, and you think the policies of Bridges are good, you don't think Bridges is carrying out Communist Party policy in the maritime unions on the Pacific Coast?

Mr. Goodwin: A compound question.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Is that right, Mr. Cannalonga?

A. Let's get that straight.

Q. All right. You testified that you felt that the position—that the policy of the Communist Party is bad for [1099] the maritime unions on the Pacific Coast. You stated, however, that you think that you agree with——

A. (Interposing) Wait a minute now. Let's get—I said the policy of the Party, yes, but when I was in the Party I thought the policy of the Party was O.K.; don't forget that.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. That is right.

A. All right, now, O.K.

Q. All right, I am talking about now. At the present time you feel that the policy of the Communist Party is bad for the maritime unions?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the present time you agree, or, at least, the last time you formed any opinion you agreed with the policy of Bridges for the Maritime unions on the Pacific Coast?

A. Well, I haven't seen——

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, before you answer.

First of all it is a compound question. Secondly there is no testimony there as to during what period of time he agreed with Bridges' policy.

Presiding Inspector: It isn't useful unless you define what these policies are.

Mr. Del Guercio: What the policies are.

Presiding Inspector: It won't make any impression. I don't know what the policies you are referring to of Bridges are. [1100]

Mr. Grossman: All right.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Cannalonga, you stated that the last time you formed——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Just a moment. He has stated, of course, generally that he is in agreement with the policies of Mr. Bridges.

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Presiding Inspector: And he has also stated as to certain policies, at least, of the Communist Party he is not in sympathy with those.

Mr. Grossman: All right.

Presiding Inspector: Now, do you get——

The Witness: (Interposing) I can give an example.

Mr. Grossman: I will ask for it. Just a moment.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Now, Mr. Cannalonga, give me some examples, then, of the policies of the Communist Party at the present time in the maritime unions with which you disagree and which you think are harmful. A. Of the Communist Party?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, you just got through asking me about the policy of Bridges. Now, you say——

Q. (Interposing) We have changed because there is some [1101] objection.

A. You have shifted now?

Q. Yes. Now, I want some examples of the position of the Communist Party in the maritime unions which you think are harmful to the maritime unions on the Pacific Coast.

A. Well, I tell you I haven't been—see, I have been gone from the Coast here since last November, almost six months. We made a trip to Australia and back. And as far as the policy of the unions, you know, it fluctuates, it swings, and it is never the same, so I haven't been ashore yet. I haven't even had time to go ashore and get a good heat on, so how am I going to find out the policies of the Communist Party? You see? You get the drift now, don't you?

Q. I understand.

A. O.K. as long as you get the drift.

Q. But the last time you were ashore and formed any opinion about the policies of the Communist Party what generally of those policies did you think harmful to the maritime unions on the Pacific Coast?

A. Well, well,—they—let's see. That is a tough one, too.

Q. All right, let me put it this way: The last time you formed an opinion on it that opinion was that the policy Harry Bridges was carrying out in the maritime unions on the Pacific Coast met with your approval? [1102]

Mr. Del Guercio: Does the witness know what that question means?

Mr. Grossman: I will make it a little more simple.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. The last time you thought—I am not making it today—you said you hadn't thought about it much recently. The last time you had any opinion on it your opinion was, Mr. Cannalonga, that Harry Bridges policies in the maritime unions were correct and had your approval. Is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that right? A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. And at the same time that you had this opinion on Harry Bridges your opinion was that the Communist Party policies were bad for the unions on the Pacific Coast, is that right?

A. Yes, some of them.

Q. All right. Now, let's return to the——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Just a minute, please. I didn't get the answer to that last question.

The Witness: I said, "Yes, some of them."

Mr. Del Guercio: Some of them.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Let's return to the first time that the representatives of the FBI spoke to you, Mr. Cannalonga. You referred [1103] to a meeting at the Gowman Hotel and referred to the fact that the FBI men came to the meeting with you with certain information about that meeting.

Now, isn't it true that they had certain information about other meetings that they stated you had attended?

Mr. Myron: I object to that, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I am not sure that I caught all of the words in that question.

Mr. Grossman: Will you read it back?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't know if that is the question or not, the "FBI men came to the meeting with you." There is no evidence here of anything——

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I think the witness can understand that now it is read.

Do you undestand that question?

Mr. Grossman: He has answered it, I think, your Honor. He has answered the question.

The Witness: You said the meetings they spoke of?

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Yes; they knew about other meetings besides the Gowman? A. Yes, sir.

Presiding Inspector: They seemed to know about other meetings besides the Gowman? [1104]

The Witness: Yes, sure.

Q. Now, you have been testifying about a meeting in San Francisco that you state Schneiderman was present at that you attended. The FBI knew about this meeting also, didn't they, or at least they seemed to before you told them anything about it?

A. I didn't get that.

Presiding Inspector: Did you know that?

The Witness: What is the question again?

Presiding Inspector: Read the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. That is a pretty tough thing to answer.

Presiding Inspector: Let me simplify it for you. The question is this: If these men seemed to know about the meeting in San Francisco before you told them anything about it?

A. That was the impression I got.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Wasn't it true, Mr. Cannalonga, that they were pretty positive about this meeting in San Francisco too; in other words, they described the meeting to you in such a way as to give the impression they were certain that it had taken place?

A. I don't quite remember. You know, damn it all, there was a lot of stuff happened, and it was so long ago, and you try to think about it, and you only make a donkey out of yourself trying to answer some of these questions. [105]

Q. I recognize the difficulty. But this is true, isn't it, Mr. Connalonga: That the general impression that these representatives of the FBI gave you was that when they talked about a meeting they gave you the impression that they were positive a meeting had taken place, and that they were positive that certain people had been there—wasn't that the general impression you got out of this interview?

A. Yes; yes.

Q. In other words, generally speaking, this is what happened, isn't it, at this first interview—this is only true in substance, and I won't have the words or the order correct: But in substance, they said to you, "Cannalonga, you were at this Communist meeting, and you were at that Communist meeting, and certain people were there," naming them, "and you were at this meeting, and certain other people were there," naming them, and they gave you the dates, or the approximate dates of the meetings and they gave you the places or the approximate places of these meetings, isn't that correct and generally speaking?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the question in that form.

Presiding Inspector: I think it is a rather complicated question.

Mr. Grossman: I think he understands it.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Wasn't that generally true? [1106]

Presiding Inspector: Was that generally true?

A. Yes.

Presiding Inspector: They gave you the impression that they knew about these meetings that you have testified to here?

The Witness: That is the impression I got.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. And when I say they knew about it, I mean they had definite information as to where and when it was, as well as who were there, isn't that right—they seemed to know, or claimed to know where the meetings were, approximately where, and approximately when, isn't that right?

A. Yes; something on that order.

Presiding Inspector: Are you trying to get into the record a hearsay statement as proof of it?

Mr. Grossman: No.

Presiding Inspector: I suppose it has some such possible implication.

Mr. Grossman: I don't think so.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

We will take a recess until 2:00 o'clock.

(Whereupon, at 12:30 P. M., a recess was taken until 2:00 P. M. of the same day.) [1107]

After Recess 2:00 o'Clock P. M.

Presiding Inspector: You may resume.

MAURICE J. CANNALONGA

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Cross Examination (Resumed)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Cannalonga, where were you born?

A. Massachusetts.

Q. How long have you lived in Seattle, or Portland, or thereabouts?

A. Since, oh, '29-'30.

Q. How long have you been working as a fireman, or similar positions on ships?

A. Well, ever since I was a punk kid.

Q. Referring to this Los Angeles meeting that you talked about, Mr. Cannalonga——

A. (Interposing) What meeting?

Q. The San Francisco meeting that we talked about—you stated that the FBI agents at the first meeting with you had seemed to know, or stated, at least, as if they did know, certain things about this meeting before you told them anything about it.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Wasn't one of those things they told you about the meeting the fact that Bridges was there, or supposed to have been [1108] there?

A. I don't quite recall.

Q. Well, they told you that meeting—before you said anything—they told you that meeting was a Communist meeting, didn't they, the San Francisco meeting? A. I believe so.

Q. Now, during this time, that is, during this first meeting you had with the FBI men, didn't they give you the impression, or try to give you the impression that these facts, or supposed facts that they gave you, were actual facts and they could prove them and force you to admit them whether you wanted to or not?

A. Will you say that again?

Q. During this meeting didn't the FBI men say to you, generally, "These are the facts and we can force you to admit them because we can prove them by someonce else?"

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, if your Honor please. I object to the form of the question—"Didn't they generally tell you these facts."

Presiding Inspector: That means in substance. I take it that means in substance. With that correction I will allow the question.

A. In other words, you mean that they knew about this meeting, and so forth, and that they were in a position to prove it, is that what you mean?

[1109]

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Didn't they give you that impression?

A. Well, let me see—well, I couldn't say "yes" and I couldn't say "no" to that one. You see, they knew about the meeting, and so forth, you see, and I got the impression that they,—my impressions were that they knew all about it and that I was there.

Q. Didn't they give you the impression that regardless of what you said about this meeting they were prepared to prove that this, or those meetings took place as they stated they did?

Presiding Inspector: Of course, that will open the door to what was said.

Mr. Gladstein: I beg your pardon?

Presiding Inspector: That opens the door to another long part, a long correcting examination, because it is a very doubtful matter.

Mr. Grossman: I am assuming that it is open already, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I know, but I mean to say practically open.

Mr. Grossman: Well, I can't help it.

Presiding Inspector: All right, go ahead. Well, I will ask a question, then.

Did they say anything about what they could or couldn't prove, in those words?

The Witness: No [1110]

Presiding Inspector: They didn't talk about proof?

The Witness: No.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Presiding Inspector: But you got certain impressions from them?

The Witness: Yes, my impressions were that they knew what the score was and able to——

Presiding Inspector: All right. Now, go ahead.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. They gave you the impression, Mr. Cannalonga, that regardless of what you did or said they could prove the correctness of the facts that they gave you about these meetings or the alleged facts?

A. Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Although the question of proof was, or was it talked about?

The Witness: No, no question of proof.

Presiding Inspector: But you got that impression?

The Witness: Yes, that is the impression I got. You know, you sit around talking, guys talking about things that happen.

Presiding Inspector: That is what I understand from the answers to your question.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Now, during this first conference, Mr. Cannalonga, did these FBI men talk to you about your cooperation with the [1111] Government or with the FBI? Did they discuss that general question at all?

A. I don't get that. You mean——

Q. Put it this way, then: Didn't they say to you, "Mr. Cannalonga, you are dealing with the United States Government. You had better cooperate because we are the United States Government?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. No, not words in that effect.

Q. All right. What generally were the words that they used?

A. Well, that they were—that it was a Government agency and that they already knew about all these meetings and so forth and you know, that is the impression that I got.

Q. Did you get the impression that being a Government agency they had certain power over you?

A. Well, nobody has got any power over me, for that matter. If I want to do anything I will do it and suffer the consequences.

Q. Well, did you get the impression that they were trying to let you know they had power over you?

A. Well, I don't get your drift.

Q. All right, we will ask it a little differently. How did they bring up this question of their representing the Government? How did it come into the conversation? Did they raise it or did you raise it? Who brought it up first. [1112]

A. Oh, let's see now. I believe I did at first, and they said that they were the FBI Government agency and that their record was 100 per cent in regards to grabbing criminals and so forth.

Q. They told you that the FBI had a 100 per cent record for convictions, is that what they told you?

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, now, just a minute, if your Honor please. I object to that line of questioning and the manner in which counsel is asking it.

Is the FBI on trial here, or this Alien here on trial?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Presiding Inspector: Neither of them are on trial, as I understand it.

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, what are we trying to discover here?

Presiding Inspector: We are having an investigation as to whether the Alien is subject to deportation under the statutes of the United States.

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, that is what I thought.

Presiding Inspector: That is what we are here for.

Go on, Mr. Grossman.

Mr. Grossman: May we have an answer to the question, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Read the question. I think it is repetition but I am not sure.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.) [1113]

The Witness: Well, words to that effect, and I got some more on that question.

Presiding Inspector: The witness wants to answer further then, Mr. Grossman.

Mr. Grossman: All right, I have no objection.

The Witness: Will you read that part again, back, please?

The Reporter: Your answer?

The Witness: Yes.

(The last question and answer were read by the reporter as above recorded.)

The Witness: (Continuing) And that they didn't need stool pigeons and criminals to convict anybody.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did they make any statement as to the attitude of the FBI, or the policy of the FBI, or the Government toward Communists now or in the future?

A. No.

Q. Did they make any statements with reference to your former Communist Party membership, as to whether or not that would expose you to any punishment, present or future? A. No.

Q. Did they make any statement at all as to how the Government, or the FBI, was going to deal with present or past members of the Communist Party?

A. No. [1114]

Q. How many different meetings or conferences did you have with representatives of the FBI?

A. Well, three in Seattle and one in Frisco—four.

Q. Where was the first one?

A. Seattle.

Q. Where in Seattle?

A. Up in their office.

Q. And there were present just two men at that first meeting, is that right? A. Yes.

Q. Where was the second one held?

A. The same place.

Q. Was anyone different present at the second meeting? A. No.

Q. Where was the third one held?

A. Same place.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Was anyone different present at that meeting?

A. Yes.

Q. Who different was present?

A. Another fellow.

Q. Do you know his name?

A. I don't recall his name, no.

Maybe he (indicating Mr. Del Guercio) can give it to you over there.

Presiding Inspector: Is he in the court room?

[1115]

The Witness: No.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you see the other gentleman in the court room?

A. No; he is not here.

Mr. Del Guercio: I believe he was looking at me.

Presiding Inspector: No. He said maybe you could tell who it was.

Mr. Del Guercio: Did you say I was present?

The Witness: I said maybe you know his name. I don't know it.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Cannalonga, I have been asking you a series of questions on this cross examination with respect to things that the FBI agents said about these meetings and in general I was directing my questions to the first meeting only. Would your answers be any different if I asked you these same questions as to the second, third and fourth meetings? In other words, to refresh your memory, I asked you questions about what the FBI men had said about the Government and its policy and dealing with Communists and ex-Communists, and so on. Did they say anything different along those lines in the second, third or fourth meetings than they said in the first meeting?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Presiding Inspector: Just a minute. Do not answer yet.

Mr. Del Guercio: First, I want to object to the question. I do not think it is a question at all. It is something counsel [1116] is relating.

Presiding Inspector: I think perhaps it will expedite the hearing. You won't have to go over each meeting then.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. You understood the question, didn't you?

A. No. There has been so much interruption that I don't understand.

Presiding Inspector: The question, in general, is as to the matters that you have testified to, would there be anything else which you would add as to the other meetings, or would substantially the same answers be given if you were asked the same questions with reference to the other meetings?

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you think of anything substantial that would differentiate your answers so you would have to answer my questions differently? A. No.

Q. That is, with reference to the second, third and fourth meetings? A. No.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Do you have any close relatives who are employed by the Government. A. No.

Q. You have described certain meetings with representatives of the FBI. Have you had any other meetings whatsoever [1117] with any representatives of the Government, or of any police department, or of any state or city government, concerning what you know about Harry Bridges? A. No.

Q. These four meetings or conferences, represent every time you discussed with any representative of the Government what you know about Harry Bridges? A. Correct.

Mr. Grossman: No more questions.

Presiding Inspector: Mr. Del Guercio, the witness is yours.

Redirect Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Did you understand all of the questions that counsel here has asked you?

A. I think I have a fair drift of them.

Q. Did you understand the words that he used?

A. Some of them, no.

Q. Now, to go back to the first contact you had with the FBI men, I believe that took place about October 8, 1940, there in Seattle, is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Where were you at the time that the officers contacted you?

A. Down at the Immigration Building. [1118]

Q. Immigration Building? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what time of day was that?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. What time?

Q. Yes. A. That was in the morning.

Q. In the morning. You went up there voluntarily?

A. No. I was told to go up there.

Q. Did you go up there with anyone?

A. No. I had a fellow drive me down.

Q. Who drove you?

A. A friend of mine.

Q. Did this friend of yours go up to the offices with you? A. No.

Q. What was the first thing that was said to you by the officers?

A. Well, they asked my name and——

Q. (Interposing) Did you give them your name? A. Oh, yes.

Q. What else did they ask you?

A. How long I had been going to sea; sort of a personal history.

Q. That was the very first thing they asked you?

A. Yes. [1119]

Q. They didn't ask you anything else?

A. They asked me if I had been a member of the Communist Party.

Q. Did you tell them? A. Yes.

Q. Did they tell you that they knew you had been a member of the Communist Party before you answered that? A. I believe they did.

Q. What did they say?

A. They said that—I don't know, quite recall all of it.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Well, you have told the defense counsel here that these officers knew that you were a member of the Communist Party, is that right?

A. That I had been a member of the Communist Party; yes.

Q. That you had been a member?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they tell you that?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. Right away?

A. No, not right away; after a while.

Q. How long afterwards?

A. Well, I couldn't say how long. It was, you know, that same morning.

Q. And when did they ask you about this Gowman Hotel meeting—how long had they been talking to you before they [1120] mentioned anything about the Gowman Hotel meeting?

A. I don't remember whether it was the first day or the second day.

Q. You don't know whether it was the first or second day? A. No, sir.

Q. If I gave you a little time could you recollect as to when they asked you about it, whether it was the first day or the second day?

A. I believe it was the second day.

Q. Then you misunderstood counsel's question when you said that the officers told you that they knew, at the first meeting that you had with them, that you had been at the Gowman Hotel meeting? A. Yes; oh, yes.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Did you misunderstand them?

A. Yes.

Q. You didn't mean to imply that, did you?

A. No.

Q. The first day that the officers talked to you did they mention anything about the Gowman Hotel meeting? A. No, I don't believe they did.

Q. Not a word? A. I don't believe so.

Q. You are sure about that? [1121]

A. Quite.

Q. Isn't it a fact, Mr. Cannalonga, that——

Mr. Grossman: (Interposing) May I make an objection? It seems this is still counsel's witness and I think he is cross examining his own witness with this kind of questioning.

Mr. Del Guercio: You opened it up.

Presiding Inspector: I think that is so, but I will allow him to suggest these things to refresh his recollection.

Mr. Grossman: The form of the question is leading on cross examination form.

Presiding Inspector: He may do that to some extent after he has exhausted his recollection.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Isn't it a fact that the FBI men didn't know anything about the Gowman Hotel meeting until you had told them about it? A. No.

Q. You are sure about that?

A. I am not sure about that.

Q. You are not sure? A. No, sir.

Q. Isn't it a fact also that the FBI men did not know anything about this San Francisco meeting until you had told them about it?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. About the Frisco meeting?

Q. Yes. [1122]

A. No; I believe they mentioned it.

Q. Did the FBI men ask you if you had been in any Communist Party meetings with Mr. Bridges in Seattle? A. Yes.

Q. What was your answer to that?

A. "Yes."

Q. That you had been? A. Yes.

Q. The statements that you made to these FBI men, I believe you testified on direct here that you had read them before you signed them?

A. Yes.

Q. You did read them? A. Yes.

Q. And did you understand their contents?

A. I believe I did.

Q. You signed them?

A. Yes, I believe I did.

Q. You signed a statement on the first day that you saw the FBI man? A. Yes.

Q. Did you make any corrections before you signed the statement? A. Yes. [1123]

Q. I will show you what purports to be a signed statement dated October 8, 1940, at Seattle, Washington, signed "Maurice J. Cannalonga" in the presence of John L. Madala and Abraham Dickstein, and I will ask you to read it.

A. (Examining document). Read it? Well, that is sure——

A. (Interposing) Yes, that is it.

Q. Is this the statement that you signed?

A. Yes, that is it.

Q. Is that your signature? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: Do you suppose there would be any objection if I read it for him?

Presiding Inspector: You better offer it, then.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer it in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: Received without objection.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 208.)

Presiding Inspector: You may read it after the reporter has marked it.

Mr. Del Guercio: (Reading) "October 8, 1940. Seattle, Washington.

"I, Maurice Joseph Cannalonga do hereby make the follow- [1124] ing signed statement to A. Dickstein and John L. Madala who have identif d themselves to me as special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice. No threats or promises have been made to me and I am making this statement entirely voluntary and of my own free will.

"I was born on May 3, 1910 at Webster, Massachusetts. I am single. At present I reside at 3003 East 115th Street, Seattle, Washington.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

"I have only been arrested one time in my life and that was in 1929 while at San Diego, California."

The Witness: San Pedro.

Mr. Del Guercio: At what?

The Witness: San Pedro.

Mr. Del Guercio: San Pedro, California, I beg your pardon.

"I was arrested by the Police Department there for drunkenness and was charged with vagrancy. I was sentenced to serve thirty days in jail.

"I shipped out to sea for the first time in 1923 and have been a seaman practically ever since that time. During 1925 and 1926 for a period of approximately one and one-half years I worked in the garage of the Acme Transportation Company in Webster, Massachusetts." And that has been corrected there "and Corbi Boat and Shoe Factory."

"Thereafter, for a period of almost a year during 1927 [1125] I worked as a seaman for the United States Coast Guard at New London, Connecticut. In addition to these two jobs I worked as a seaman for various steamship companies both on the East and West Coast.

"The only time I ever appeared as a witness in any civil or criminal litigation was in 1937 at Seattle, Washington. This was either in the Superior Court or Federal Court, I do not remember which. I testified as an expert witness for the plaintiff in the case of Golden versus McCormick

Steamship Company, wherein Seaman Golden sued the McCormick Steamship Company for damages of a personal injury sustained by him while he worked on one of that company's ships. I have been a member of the Pacific Coast Marine Firemen, Oilers, Watertenders and Wiper's Association, an independent union, since June 4, 1934. I am still a member in good standing of that Union and at no time did I ever engage in 'scabbing' nor was I ever affiliated with any other craft or industrial union.

"I have made my home on the West Coast ever since 1929 spending most of this time in Seattle, Washington. For a while I lived and worked out of San Pedro, California, Portland, Oregon, and San Francisco, California. In 1932 I was cited for bravery for my work in connection with the rescue of several people who were ship-wrecked near the Anktipmack Islands in the Pacific Ocean." [1126]

Is that right?

The Witness: Anktipmack.

Mr. Del Guercio: (Reading) "As a citation for this rescue I received a Congressional Medal, a medal from Lloyds of London, a medal from the New York Beneficiary Life Saving Association and a silver plaque from the American Mail Lines. John Ryan Davis, another seaman was a member of the same crew that made this rescue and he likewise received the tokens above mentioned.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

"I joined the Communist Party of the United States of America in Seattle, Washington in the middle of 1936. Although I was willing to be enrolled under my correct name the Party, nevertheless, had me enroll under the name of M. J. Cann. Walter J. Stack was the person who approached and interested me in joining the Party and he was the one who signed my application. I recall that this application was signed in one of the restaurants along the waterfront. I still have my membership book which will evidence my membership in the Party. One of Stack's main talking points in getting me to join the Communist Party was that Harry Bridges was also a member of the Party. I remained in the Party until the middle of 1937 when I quit because I could see that the Communist Party was detrimental to honest trade union movements and that the Party was using the labor unions to further their aims. I also quit because I disagreed with many of their tactics and their attitude. [1127]

"I first met Harry Bridges at San Francisco, California in 1934 during the 1934 general strike. At that time I was a representative of the Marine Firemans Union on the negotiating committee. Harry Bridges was likewise a member of this negotiating committee, he representing the Longshoreman group. This negotiating committee met several times with the Federal Conciliatory Board at San Francisco which Board was headed by Mr. McGrady and Senator Wagner.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

"I might state that during 1934 and 1935 before I became a member of the Communist Party, it was common knowledge along the waterfront that Harry Bridges was a member of the Communist Party, however, I did not come to know for a fact that he was a member until after I joined the Party in 1936, after which I sat in on several top-fraction Communist meetings with him.

Shortly after I became a member of the Communist Party at Seattle, Washington, and principally through the efforts of Walter J. Stack because I was well versed in labor problems and carried a lot of weight with the rank and file in the Marine Firemens Union, I was elected by the Party as the waterfront organizer of the Communist Party in Seattle, Washington. This election, which was cut and dried took place at a waterfront section plenum which was held in the O.G.T.U. Hall in Seattle about two months after I became a member. [1128] Some of the Party members whom I now recall attending this plenum were:

"John Ryan Davis
"Morris Rapport
"Harry Jackson
"Whitey Baxter
"Reva Baxter
"Phil Poth
"Ernie Fox
"Eugene Dennett
"(And many others)

"At that time the Party program was to build up labor unions and control them which was the dictate of the Seventh International Congress of the Communist Party. The Party also at that time was making a drive within the organization to get the leaders of the various trade unions into the Party, the Party feeling this action would require numerical rank and file strength which is needed to carry on the class revolution which is the Party's main objective in this country.

"As the waterfront organizer of the Party I was supposed to work along with Morris Rapport and Harry Jackson in my organizational work. After I became organizer the Party established me in a private office in the Eitel Building in Seattle and gave me a Secretary to assist me in my work. I do not recall the name of this Secretary but she was a young girl who at the time had an official position in the Camp Fire Girls."

There is a notation here "This is Elizabeth Boggs."

"I understand that she later quit this association or [1129] was expelled from it. The Party sometime later moved my office to the Market Building located at 1st Avenue and Pike Street on the second floor and we moved to this office at the same time that the Young Communists League moved its offices there. During the time I was the waterfront organizer of the Communist Party I met with Morris Rapport or Harry Jackson almost every day either at the Communist Party headquarters offices in Seattle or in my office.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

"I did not receive any salary from the Communist Party while I was engaged in waterfront organizational work but did receive from them money for my meals. This money came out of the waterfront section funds of the Party. These funds were collected from the Secretaries of the various waterfront units of the Party and they consisted of dues, contributions and other forms of revenue. After my secretary and I would take out money which we had to use in connection with the work out of my office, the remainder of this money was given to Miss Harriet Ames who was the Secretary of Morris Rapport, he being the District Secretary of the Communist Party for District No. 12.

"At the time I became waterfront organizer of the Communist Party I was given a list of the Party members of the Waterfront Section which list included both the members true and Party names. Because of this I can competently say that the following persons were members of the Communist Party [1130] connected with the Waterfront Section in Seattle at that time; Phil Poth, Ernie Fox, John Ryan Davis, Bruce Hannon, Burt Nelson, Walter Stack.

"During the time I was a member of the Communist Party I attended either four or five top fraction and Communist meetings at which Harry Bridges was also present. All of these meetings took place right around and during the 1936-7 Maritime Strike on the West Coast. The first top fraction meeting which I definitely recall that I attended at which Harry Bridges was also present took place shortly prior to the beginning of the 1936-7 strike. This meeting took place in a private home in San Francisco, California. I was taken to this place by Walter Stack in an automobile and inasmuch as I only visited this place once I do not have any information as to where it is located or whose home it was. Other Party members that were present at this top fraction meeting were the following: William Schneidermann, California District Organizer of the C.P.A.; Harry Bridges, representing the I.L.A.; Walter Stack, representing the Firemens Union; Henry Schmidt, representing the I.L.A.; Eugene Dietrick, representing the I.L.A.; Sam Telford, representing the Sailor's Union; David Saunders, representing the Sailor's Union; and Brown, representing the A.R.T.A. and Pyle of A.R.T.A." added.

"In addition to the above mentioned Party members there were several others whose identity I do not now recall. The purpose [1131] of this top fraction meeting was to discuss the Party's policy in connection with the activities along the waterfront that was to bring about the 1936-7 strike. I recall that the Sailor's Union at that time wanted to remove itself from the Maritime Federation of the Pacific and wanted to negotiate for themselves. The Party did not want this and they thought it would be a better policy to negotiate as a group rather than as individual unions. The purpose of this meeting was to attempt to bring the Sailor's

Union into the fold and cooperate. I recall that Harry Bridges spoke at this top fraction meeting principally on union matters and policy which were identical with the Party's policy at that time.

"Just prior to the 1936-7 general strike the Party sent me to San Francisco for the purpose of building myself up among the rank and file as the Party wanted me to run for Business Agent of the Marine Firemens Union in Portland, Oregon. This was part of the move to gain control of the various Maritime Unions along the West Coast. I subsequently did run for Business Agent of the Portland Branch of the Marine Firemens Union but lost out.

"When the 1936-7 strike was started I was sent to Portland, Oregon to carry on the waterfront strike activities at that place. Walter Stack was sent to San Francisco to take my place on negotiation committee. I recall that after the 1936-7 strike, while in Portland, Oregon, Morris Rapport, drove Bruce Hannon, Ernie Fox, Ed Fisher of the Sailor's Union and Burt [1132] Nelson to San Francisco, California, where we attended a meeting in some private home. I recall that we drove all night on this trip. This meeting was attended by all of the top fraction leaders of the Communist Party on the West Coast. Other Communists who were present at this meeting that I now recall were: Sam Telford, Dave Saunders, Walter Stack, Henry Schmidt and William Schneidermann. I do not know for certain now whether

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Harry Bridges was also in attendance at this Communist meeting. My recollection, however, is that he was. There were, of course, many other members of the Communist Party present at this gathering. I recall that Morris Rapport made a report on the gains of the Party in the way of strength and prestige.

"The 1936 strike ended around the latter part of February, 1937. I was in Portland during all of this strike and lived in a small hotel which is situated over the union hall. This hotel was the strike headquarters of the Marine Firemens Union.

"Another top fraction meeting which I recall I attended and at which Harry Bridges was also present took place sometime during the month of March, 1937, in the private dining room of the Gowman Hotel in Seattle, Washington. Present at this meeting besides Harry Bridges and myself were the following known Communists: Morris Rapport, Al Bristol, Harry Jackson, Eugene Dietrick, Henry Schmidt, Matt Meehan, [1133] Bruce Hannon, Burt Nelson, Ernie Fox, Harry Pilcher, Ed Fisher and Laddie Hope.

"In addition to the above party members there were many others who were likewise present and whose names I do not now recall. The purpose of this meeting was to discuss the coastwise policy of shifting from the A. F. of L. to the C. I. O. The Party decided on this move because it is their belief that militant unions which they advocate, are organized more on an industrial basis instead of a craft basis.

"I recall that Harry Bridges made quite a talk at this top fraction meeting and strongly urged all of the Maritime Unions to break away from the A. F. of L. and affiliate themselves with the C. I. O. It was also discussed at this meeting the ways and means of accomplishing this shift which was to be by propaganda in that direction.

"In addition to those top fraction meetings which I have discussed above I also attended one or two other such meetings with Harry Bridges. One of these I recall took place in a private home in Seattle at which only six members were present and one or two in San Francisco. I do not now recall the details or circumstances of these meetings.

"During the time I was a member of the Communist Party I attended one of their schools which was designed to teach its members the Party's line to every day problems of the [1134] unions. Whitey Baxter was the principal teacher at this school which lasted three weeks. I recall that Baxter expounded the doctrines of Stalin, Karl Marx and Engells, in connection with the union problems. The school was held in the O.G.T.U. Hall in Seattle. From what I learned in the school I can competently state that the activities and policy employed by Harry Bridges and other leaders of the various Maritime Unions along the Pacific Coast were in conformity with the Party's line in this regard. I have had several private conversations with Harry

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Bridges regarding policies in connection with union affairs and from these conversations I can state that Bridges' ideas and activities were in the direction of the Party's program as to these same things.

"At the top fraction meeting at the Gowman Hotel in Seattle I recalled there was quite an argument between Harry Bridges and Morris Rapport in connection with the discussion of the Maritime Unions transferring from the A. F. of L. to the C. I. O. At one point Harry Bridges told Morris Rapport that he was 'crazy'.

"I know for a fact that Bruce Hannon is or was a member of the Communist Party during 1936 and 1937 because of the fact that I saw him pay dues to his unit secretary who was Burt Nelson's wife. I also attended unit meetings with him, some of which were held at his home in the Magnolia Bluff section of Seattle. [1135]

"I have read the foregoing statement which consists of six typewritten pages and it is true to the best of my knowledge and recollection." [1136]

Mr. Grossman: At this time I wonder if we could be notified what effect the introduction of this statement has? Obviously, it is not evidence of the things that it purports to say. At the same time, I gather from the introduction of it that it is not used as impeachment of this witness.

We did not object to it because we don't object to it going in, but we still would like to know what, if any, effect, so far as evidentiary value is concerned, can be given to it.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Presiding Inspector: Do you move to strike it out?

Mr. Grossman: We don't want it stricken out, but we would still like to know what effect its introduction has.

Presiding Inspector: We will give it whatever effect it seems logical to have. We cannot tell yet what effect it will have.

You did not object to it, and you didn't ask to confine it in any way, and you don't now.

Mr. Grossman: We don't want to restrict counsel, when we have no objection to it going in, but we would like to know if it is to be considered as evidence of something, and what it is, because we may have an answer to whatever it may be. We cannot conceive, your Honor, of what it could be evidence of; certainly not of the facts, because it is clearly hearsay and there is no basis for the introduction of it for impeachment purposes, because I don't think there is a basis laid for that and I don't think it could be used for that. [1137] There may be some other basis for it, which we cannot see, and that is why I am asking the question.

Presiding Inspector: We will take it and consider it on any logical basis. I don't know what that is now. I have merely heard it read rapidly. I haven't even had the advantage of reading it as counsel has.

Go ahead.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You have heard me read this statement. Is that a correct statement that you made to the FBI agents at that time?

A. Well, when I made the statement, you see, they made notes and came in with it typewritten later on, and then I signed it. But that wasn't typed as I——

Q. (Interposing): I didn't say it was typed. But is that a correct statement of what you told them?

A. Well, in a sense, yes; in another sense, no.

Q. In what sense is it and in what sense isn't it?

A. Well, just like I said early in the morning I can never prove—like it says there, "Top Fraction," and I said "a Fraction meeting". Well, you see, a Top Fraction meeting and a Fraction meeting in the Party sense of the word is two different animals.

Q. Did they show you this statement and did you read it over before you signed it?

A. Yes, I read it over and signed it; correct.

[1138]

Q. Did you make corrections as you went along?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. How many corrections did you make on the first page?

A. Well, I will count them—like "bootlegging" here.

Q. You struck that out? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. You made that correction as to "bootlegging"?

A. Yes. Then I added this on, "The boot and shoe company," and down here (indicating) there is some misspelling.

Q. You made that correction? A. Yes.

Q. So in all you made three corrections on the first page? A. Yes.

Q. In your own handwriting? A. Yes.

Q. And on the second page how many corrections did you make? A. Two.

Q. And on the third page how many corrections did you make? A. Three.

Q. And on the fourth page how many corrections did you make? A. Seven.

Q. Seven corrections? [1139] A. Yes.

Q. And on the fifth page how many did you make? A. Two.

Q. Three, isn't it?

A. [illegible]

Q. [illegible]ons on the fifth page?

A. [illegible]

Q. [illegible] the sixth page there are no corrections at all, is that correct? A. Yes.

Q. You made another statement to the FBI agents, did you not, the following day?

A. Yes.

(The statement referred to was passed to defense counsel.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I didn't give the reason for putting these in here because I didn't think it was necessary.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Presiding Inspector: It isn't. We will hear that when the case is finally presented.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You know how to read, don't you?

A. Yes.

Q. You read English, don't you? A. Yes.

Q. How far in school did you go?

A. One year of—let me see—one year of High.

Q. One year of High? [1140]

A. Not quite; just part of it.

Q. Where, in the east? A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will show you a statement here, consisting of three pages, dated Seattle, Washington, June 9, 1940, and ask if you made this statement, and if you signed it and initialed it on each page.

A. (Examining statement): Yes.

Q. Did the FBI agents ask you anything else other than what was contained in this statement the second day you appeared before them?

A. No.

Q. You are sure about that?

A. I believe so.

Q. What is that? A. I believe so.

Mr. Grossman: May we have the last three or four questions and answers read, please?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

(That portion of the record referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You mean they didn't ask you anything but what is contained in this statement the second day?

A. (No answer.)

Q. Let me show you what the statement is before you [1141] answer, to refresh your memory.

A. (Examining statement.)

Q. Have you read it? A. Yes.

Q. Is that a true statement of what you made that day? A. Yes; it pretty well covers it.

Q. Did they ask you anything else that day other than what is contained in this statement?

A. Well, I don't recall that.

Q. Did they ask you anything about the meeting at the Gowman Hotel at which Harry Bridges was present? A. No, I don't think so.

Q. Did they ask you anything about the meeting in San Francisco at which Harry Bridges was present? A. No, I don't believe so.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, if your Honor please. I don't think it is necessary to read it.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received without objection.

(The statement referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 209.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You made a third statement to the FBI agents, didn't you? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Is this it? [1142]

A. (Examining statement): Yes.

Q. Is that all in your own handwriting?

A. No, it is not.

Q. Did you sign it? A. I did.

Q. Who wrote this?

A. This guy here (indicating).

Q. Pointing to the name "James A. Robey," Special Agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Did you read it over before you signed it?

A. Yes.

Q. Are the matters contained therein true?

A. Yes, I believe so.

Mr. Grossman: I wonder if we could have the last four or five questions and answers read, and I wonder if counsel could step back from in front of the witness. The witness is just talking to him.

Presiding Inspector: Certainly, you may have the questions and answers read.

(That portion of the record referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. Yes.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. "Yes" to what, it is true?

A. There was a question you asked me, he read, and that was my answer. [1143]

Q. All the matters contained in this statement are true? A. I believe so; yes.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. You believe so—do you know they aren't true?

Presiding Inspector: He said "Yes".

Mr. Del Guercio: This is a short one, if your Honor please, and I would like to read it.

Presiding Inspector: Very well.

Mr. Del Guercio: (Reading):

"I, Maurice Joseph Cannalonga, make the following statement to James A. Robey, who has identified himself as a Special Agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. I make this statement freely and voluntarily and no promises of reward or threats have been made to me.

"In regard to the statement furnished by me to Special Agents A. Dickstein and John L. Madala on October 8, 1940 regarding a top fraction meeting of the Communist Party held at the Gowman Hotel, Seattle, Wash. sometime during the month of March, 1937, I now definitely recall that this meeting was not held in March but was held sometime during the month of May, 1937, while the I.L.A. convention was being held in Seattle. The reason I definitely recall this meeting was held in May is because of the discussion which took place, of changing from the A. F. of L. and going over to the C. I. O. Also organizational work in the Gulf to be carried on by the [1144] Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union.

"In regard to Eugene Dietrich being present at the top fraction meeting held at the Gowman Hotel in May, 1937, to the best of my recollection he was there but it is entirely possible that he was not present because of the lapse of time between then and now, it is somewhat hazy in my memory as to him, due to the great number of meetings I attended at the time. However, I am positive that the others mentioned in my previous statement were present, as well as Harry Bridges.

"I have read the above statement consisting of two pages and have subscribed my name to same certifying that the information contained therein is true and correct."

I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received without objection.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 210.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. This indicates that at the first meeting with the FBI men you told them that the meeting at the Gowman Hotel in Seattle, Washington, was some time in the month of March, is that right?

A. I believe so.

Q. March 1937? A. Yes. [1145]

Q. And in this statement here you recollected that it wasn't in March, but it was in May of 1937, is that right? A. Yes.

Q. Did anybody put the date "March, 1937" in your mouth at the first meeting you had with the FBI men? A. No.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Who gave the date of March 1937?

A. I believe I did.

Q. You did? A. Yes.

Q. Did the FBI men say that there was a meeting at the Gowman Hotel in March 1937 at the first meeting? A. No, I don't believe they did.

Q. You told them that first?

A. I believe so.

Q. And you didn't get any impression, did you, that they told you the date was March 1937?

A. No.

Q. Now, isn't it a fact that you were the first one to mention the Gowman Hotel at any time?

A. No; they mentioned it.

Q. What?

A. I believe they mentioned it first.

Q. They mentioned it first? A. Yes.

Q. Who suggested—why did you change the date to May [1146] 1937 at the second meeting with the FBI men?

A. Because there was a mistake in the month.

Q. Who caught the mistake, you or the FBI men? A. I don't recall now.

Q. Did the FBI men say you must have made a mistake, that it was in May instead of March, or did you volunteer that?

A. Will you ask me that question again?

Q. In the first statement you said that this meeting at the Gowman Hotel was in March 1937.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. I believe I did.

Q. And in the second statement you said it wasn't in March 1937, but it was in May 1937.

A. Yes.

Q. Did anybody suggest to you that you should change the date from March to May 1937?

A. Well, I was called up and they asked me to make that statement.

Q. Did anybody ask you to state that the correct date was May 1937, or words to that effect, or did you remember it yourself?

A. Oh, they called me up and asked me if I had made a mistake in the month, and I told them I didn't think I had, and then they said to think, and finally it was May, after we talked a while.

Q. Who suggested that it was May, if anybody suggested it? [1147]

A. Nobody suggested it. I recalled it myself.

Q. You recalled it yourself? A. Yes.

Q. The FBI men didn't say it was in May, did they? A. No.

Q. You are sure about that? A. Yes.

Q. Positive? A. Positive.

Q. Now, Mr. Cannalonga, you remember talking to me in the Elks Club, don't you, last week some time? A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell me that you were afraid that Harry Bridges and the Communist Party would have a goon squad after you if you testified in this hearing? A. No.

Q. You don't remember telling me that?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. No.

Q. Do you remember telling me that was the reason why you didn't want to testify here?

A. No; I don't recall it.

Q. Who else was present besides myself when I was talking to you?

A. Oh, there were couple of others.

Q. Do you see them here? A. Yes. [1148]

Q. Who are they?

A. One is the man there (indicating) with the blue suit on.

Q. Mr. Weeks? A. Yes.

Q. Anyone else—do you see the other one in the room?

A. I don't see him; no, he is not in here.

Q. Do you remember my telling you that nobody would beat you up, that we would give you all the protection you needed?

A. Yes, you made a statement to that effect.

Q. When did I make that statement?

A. Oh, up at the Elks Club.

Q. Why did I make the statement; what occurred just before that? When did I make the statement that nobody would beat you up, and that we would give you every protection you needed?

A. Oh, it was just—I don't recall—it was just a general discussion on the whole set-up, as far as I remember, in regards to the way things worked out on the waterfront, and so on and so forth; just a general discussion. That is all it was.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. And can you recall now whether or not you did tell me you were afraid you would be beaten up?

A. No, I never said I was afraid of being beaten up. If I am not mistaken, the statement I made to you was that I thought [1149] that after this was all over for quite a while, fellows in sympathy with Bridges, there would be personal beefs amongst myself and a lot of fellows, but just personal matters as to their attitude. There was no mention about beef squads or goons, or what-have-you, as far as I can remember.

Mr. Del Guercio: That is all. [1150]

Presiding Inspector: Do you want to ask anything further, Mr. Grossman?

Mr. Grossman: Oh, yes. Shall we adjourn now for our recess?

Presiding Inspector: Would you like to?

Mr. Grossman: Might as well.

Presiding Inspector: Very well.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

Mr. Grossman: Mr. Gladstein is going to continue in place of me, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Very well.

Recross Examination

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. Cannalonga, at the time that the first statement was taken from you on October 8, 1940, I think you said that there were two agents of the FBI there, is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Was there a stenographer present?

A. No.

Q. Did one of the agents take notes while you were talking? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Could you see whether those notes were in shorthand? A. I never noticed.

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please, may I interrupt [1151] here? Are we going to allow two cross examinations?

Presiding Inspector: We don't usually, but they asked permission. I don't know that you heard it, but Mr. Gladstein asked permission.

Mr. Del Guercio: And the Court granted it?

Presiding Inspector: That they might continue. Of course, that isn't the usual way, but you may go ahead, Mr. Gladstein.

Mr. Gladstein: What was the last question and answer?

(The last question and answer were read by the reporter.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you remember Mr. Dickstein and Mr. Madala, the two agents?

A. What they looked like, you mean?

Q. Yes. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember which one was taking the notes? A. I think Madala.

Q. Did you notice what sort of notes he was taking?

A. I believe he had one of those yellow pads.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. How long did it take for this discussion to take place during which the notes were made?

A. Well, from their office—the first time I met them I told them that—see, I just came out of the hospital. I had a hip out of joint and I was taking treatments from a doctor. [1153]

Q. Were you in pain at that time?

A. Yes, he was giving me shots and treatments and so I asked them if we couldn't find a better place to go than in that office; those chairs, I couldn't sit. If I sat down any length of time, you know, on a hard seat—so he suggested we go up to his hotel room.

Q. Did you do that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What hotel was it?

A. I believe it was the Roosevelt in Seattle.

Q. And how long were you in the hotel room?

A. Well, we went down and had dinner and went back up again and I think I had an appointment with the doctor at three that afternoon, at three or four o'clock, three o'clock, I believe, the first day I had to go up to the doctor, Dr. Buckner in Seattle.

Q. Well, what time of the day was it when you first saw these FBI agents that day?

A. In the morning.

Q. About what time?

A. Oh, about ten o'clock.

Q. Did you go to the doctor at three o'clock?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long were you there?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. Oh, I was in there about from a half hour to three- [1154] quarters of an hour.

Q. Did they go with you? A. No.

Q. Did you have an appointment to come back and meet them again after you got through with the doctor? A. The next day.

Q. So you were with them from about ten o'clock in the morning until three in the afternoon?

A. I believe so.

Q. And you had lunch with them that day?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You spent most of that time in the hotel?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The reason was because you complained about the pain, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Presiding Inspector: Do you still feel some pain in your hip?

The Witness: Yes sir, once in a while.

Presiding Inspector: Would you feel better if you took this other chair?

The Witness: No, I am all right. I have killed most of the day; it comes back every so often.

Presiding Inspector: Very well.

The Witness has spoken of it to me before that he felt some discomfort at that time. [1155]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, then, you say the next day you saw them, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then, it was the second day on which a statement was prepared, is that right?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. No; the second day I signed the first statement and then the second statement was made that day.

Q. All right. Well, in other words, the very first day that you saw them, the day in which you spent part of the time in the hotel, the hotel room of one of the FBI agents, on that day no statement was actually signed? A. No.

Q. They just took a lot of notes, is that right?

A. I believe some of the discussion was held, I believe so.

Q. On the following day you met them they had a typewritten statement all prepared?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is the statement which you signed?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, that statement which you signed, that first one, that contains the language of the FBI agents, not yourself, doesn't it?

A. Well—— [1156]

Q. Doesn't it? A. I presume so.

Q. Well, I will read you the first sentence.

"I, Maurice Joseph Cannalonga do hereby make the following signed statement to A. Dickstein and John L. Madala who have identified themselves to me as Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice."

That is the first sentence. You didn't tell that to them, did you? A. No.

Q. That is their own language, isn't it?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was put in the statement by them, isn't that correct? A. Correct.

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please, that is obvious. I don't think he need question the witness on that.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, I think it is obvious too, but I will allow it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, the next sentence——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Of course, I have in mind, Mr. Gladstein, that you are not trying this to a Jury; we all know a little about language. [1157]

Mr. Gladstein: I understand, your Honor, but, of course——

Presiding Inspector: Particularly, I think even the prefect knows a little something about the English language.

Mr. Gladstein: The purpose of this line of questioning——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Oh, go ahead, I understand.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, the next sentence, Mr. Cannalonga, reads as follows:

"No threats or promises have been made to me and I am making this statement entirely voluntary and of my own free will."

That was also their language, not yours, wasn't it?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. Well, that is standard, ain't it, on all statements?

Q. You didn't tell them to put that in?

A. No.

Q. They put that in and you saw it there?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, I want to read this paragraph to you, Mr. Cannalonga. Please listen carefully.

"I joined the Communist Party of the United States of America in Seattle, Washington in the middle of 1936. Although I was willing to be enrolled under my correct name the Party, nevertheless, had me enroll under the name of M. J. Cann. Walter J. Stack was the person who approached and interested me [1158] in joining the Party and he was the one who signed my application. I recall that this application was signed in one of the restaurants along the waterfront. I still have my membership book which will evidence my membership in the Party. One of Stack's main talking points in getting me to join the Communist Party was that Harry Bridges was also a member of the Party. I remained in the Party until the middle of 1937 when I quit because I could see that the Communist Party was detrimental to honest trade union movements and that the Party was using the labor unions to further their aims. I also quit because I disagreed with many of their tactics and their attitude."

Now, does that paragraph contain your language or their language.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

In a sense my language.

Q. In a sense yours and in a sense theirs?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that correct? A. Correct.

Q. Could you pick out the parts of that paragraph which represent your language?

A. Well, I will have to read it.

Q. Well, I will hand it to you. It is a paragraph on top of page 2.

A. (Examining document).

Q. You can read it to yourself, if you want, Mr. [1159] Cannalonga, and then when you are ready simply testify as to what parts——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Will counsel get off the witness chair there?

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. (Continuing) ——and then you can testify as to what parts of the paragraph are yours and what part represents the language of the FBI Agents. A. Well——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Well, I will exclude that.

The Witness: That would be harder than hell.

Presiding Inspector: I will exclude that. It is impossible for a witness to do that. You can ask him any word, whether he used that word or not, but to let him read it and then say this and that.

The Witness: It would be pretty hard. After all——

Presiding Inspector: Just a moment. Let me talk here. I have some right here in the court.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

To have him pick out and you will ask him "Well, is that your language?" It won't advance anything.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, could I put it this way:

Q. Mr. Cannalonga, would it be correct to say that you would not be able to go through that paragraph and pick out those parts which represent what you told them and those parts which represent their language with exactness? [1160]

Presiding Inspector: He has not said that.

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking that question.

Presiding Inspector: No one can pick out whether an ordinary T or an A and an I or a W were the language of one person or the language of another.

Mr. Gladstein: I am not interested in particular words but in the statements that are contained in the paragraph.

Presiding Inspector: Isn't it all one sentence, or nearly so?

Mr. Gladstein: No, there are a number of sentences involved.

The Witness: I will give you a fair example.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please——

Presiding Inspector: Wait, let's see what the witness has to say. Let's get along; we have had this so many times and usually it makes no impression on jurors. Now, I don't know what impression it will make on me.

The Witness: You see, in a general sense that is the whole thing in a nutshell, see, only like myself, when I made that statement I says, I joined the Party, you know, left the Communists out, because when you speak of the Party it is the Communist Party.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. All right. Am I to understand then——

A. (Interposing) I joined the Communist Party then. [1161]

Q. Wait a minute. Am I to understand that you told them——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Why don't you permit the witness to go on?

The Witness: Yes, I joined the Party.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Am I to understand, Mr. Cannalonga, that you said, "I joined the Party" and the way they put it in "I joined the Communist Party of the United States?"

A. No, I take that back; pardon me. I said I joined the Communist Party. I see; this is at the start.

Q. What did you say?

A. But after that, the Party, after the first statement. He says, "What Party?" I said, "The Communist Party." See I told him, "I joined the Party". He said, "What Party?" I said, "The Communist Party," see.

Q. All right, after that what happened?

A. Well, that is what I mean, and after that every time I referred to a "Party" he would ask me "What Party"? I would tell him "Communist Party."

Presiding Inspector: I think we may take it that this is in general the language of the person who prepared the statement and not in the literal words of the person, except that that person accepted them by having read it over, corrected it [1162] and signed it.

Now, what difference does it make? If I ask for information as to what he said, whether he said evidenced or proved, whether he said recall or remember or think, how do those things add anything?

Mr. Gladstein: Well, if I remember correctly, your Honor, Mr. Del Guercio himself raised the question of language during the redirect examination.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I am trying to raise it because I don't want to waste too much time on the immaterial points. I think there are a great many material points here.

Mr. Del Guercio: Maybe, I could hurry it along. We are willing to stipulate what the Court just said as to what the statement contains. I have no reason for saying that those were his words, or that I say that they were his words.

Presiding Inspector: No, I understand, Mr. Del Guercio.

The Witness: I thought that was understood.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, Mr. Cannalonga, in this statement there is a reference to the meeting at the Gowman Hotel.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

As I understood your testimony earlier today, when the FBI agents were talking to you what they said amounted to this: They said, "Now, we know that you were present at the Gowman Hotel at such and such a meeting, that there were certain people there including Harry Bridges." [1163]

That was my understanding of your testimony. Would that be correct? A. Let's see—yes.

Q. Now, did they also tell you that they knew that it was in March, 1937? A. No.

Q. Where did you get March, 1937?

A. Oh, I made a mistake in giving the months because at that time in March I had been in a different meeting and got them confused. I had been in a different meeting and got them confused in months.

Mr. Gladstein: May I have the answer?

(The answer referred to was read by the Reporter.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, at the time you gave the second statement to the FBI agents did you go up to them voluntarily or at their request?

A. They asked me to go up.

Q. All right. When they asked you to go up did they tell you what they wanted you for?

A. No.

Q. What?

A. No, not until I got up there.

Q. Well, when you got up there didn't they tell you what they wanted you for? [1164]

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. Oh, yes.

Q. All right. Didn't they tell you "Now, we think you made a mistake on the date of that Gowman Hotel——"

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please——

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw that. I think inadvertently I said "second statement". I mean the third.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. The one in November, 1940, that was the third statement, wasn't it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, on the occasion when they called you up to their office that time—do you remember that? Do you have that in mind?

A. Yes, I have a recollection of it.

Q. All right. At that time didn't they tell you they wanted you up there because they said you had made a mistake in your previous statement?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, there is no such testimony in the record.

Presiding Inspector: He is asking him whether they did say that.

A. Well, I don't quite recollect. I know he talked to me for a while and wrote that out and asked me if that was correct and I glanced through it and I said "Yes." [1165]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. This third meeting, you didn't call them up for it, did you? A. No.

Q. They called you? A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Do you remember which person it was who called you? A. No, I don't remember.

Q. Do you know whether it was Mr. Roby or Mr. Dickstein? A. I don't recall.

Q. But it was one of them?

A. Yes; it was only a few minutes.

Q. And over the phone they said to you—what was it they said to you?

A. Well, "Come up to the office; we want to see you."

Q. Did they say why they had to see you?

A. No.

Q. Didn't they say they wanted to see you concerning a statement? A. No.

Q. Well, where did they tell you about the statement? When you got up there?

A. When I got up there, I think. You see, it is still hazy as the devil, you know, because it was only a couple of [1166] minutes (as I recall it, a few minutes, and I shipped—I was trying to get my gear collected to go in a rush and I didn't give it much——

Q. (Interposing) Well, how did this question of the third statement come up? Didn't they say to you something like this: "Now, you made a mistake on the question of the date on that Gowman Hotel meeting?" Didn't they say something like that to you?

A. Well, no, not in — they didn't say — they asked me to—oh, I don't remember the exact—it was words to the effect that I had better think back in regards to that Gowman Hotel meeting and that the dates was not right, or something like that.

Q. That is what they said to you?

A. On that line.

Q. And after that discussion took place, then, the statement was written up in which it was said that that meeting took place in May rather than in March, is that right? A. Yes, yes.

Q. Is that right?

Presiding Inspector: He said "Yes."

A. Yes, sir.

Presiding Inspector: I didn't know if you could hear it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. And on the question of Eugene Dietrick, did that [1167] question come up in the same way as the question of the date on which the Gowman Hotel meeting took place? Did they raise that question with you, too, to think it over as to whether you had made a mistake?

A. I don't recall. At the time, it is like I say, everything was in a turmoil.

Q. Well, you didn't go up there and talk to them about Dietrick on this occasion of the third statement, did you? You didn't mention Dietrick first, did you? A. No.

Q. They mentioned it, didn't they?

A. I believe so.

Q. All right. Now, didn't they say to you "We want you to think about whether or not Dietrick was in there. Maybe you made a mistake", something of that sort. Didn't they say something like that? A. Yes, something like that.

Q. As a result of your discussion regarding Dietrick, after they made this suggestion, then, you signed the third statement in which there is some different language concerning Dietrick, isn't that correct? A. Correct.

Q. Now, you said a moment ago, answering me, that you were in a turmoil. What did you mean?

A. Well, you know when a guy ships he—anybody that [1168] went to sea knows—after being on a beach, and I was still taking doctor's treatments, and I wanted to get out of town because he was not doing me any good.

Q. That was on the day of the third statement?

A. That was the fifth, wasn't it?

Q. November 5th.

A. Yes, that is the day I shipped.

Q. You were due to ship out?

A. I already made a job; I shipped as an electrician on the Clevdon.

Q. Were you in a hurry to ship out, get on the ship?

A. Yes, sure. Who wouldn't be after being on the beach a couple of months? [1169]

Q. You were also slightly in pain, is that right?

A. Yes; still under a doctor's care.

Q. While you were with the FBI agents on November 5, 1940, were you nervous in any way?

A. Well, I don't get what you mean by "nervous".

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. You know what it means, don't you, to be nervous? A. No, I don't.

Q. All right. Now, in your third statement, the one on November 5, 1940—by the way, did you read it very carefully before you signed it?

A. Well, what do you mean, carefully?

Q. Well, did you read the statement carefully so that you felt sure it was correct or not?

A. Well, I read the statement.

Q. Were you satisfied with it?

A. I believe so.

Q. In that you make this statement, or this statement is made and you subsequently signed it:

"In regard to the statement furnished by me to Special Agents A. Diekstein and John L. Madaka on October 8, 1940 regarding a top fraction meeting of the Communist Party held at the Gowman Hotel, Seattle, Washington, some time during the month of March, 1937, I now definitely recall that this meeting was not held in March, but was held some time during the month of May, 1937, while the I.L.A. convention was being held in [1170] Seattle. The reason I definitely recall this meeting was held in May is because of the discussion which took place of changing from the A. F. of L. and going over to the C.I.O."

Was that the reason in your own mind that made you feel that you had made a mistake on the date as between March and May? A. Yes.

Q. That was the reason? A. I believe so.

Q. Well, now, in the first statement you were referring to the same meeting, which you said then was in March, 1937, and you said:

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

"The purpose of this meeting was to discuss the coastwise policy of shifting from the A. F. of L. to the C.I.O."

That was the same subject, wasn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. How does it happen that you say that the question of shifting from A. F. of L. to the C.I.O. helped you to decide whether it was in March or in May when you give the same reason in both these statements?

Presiding Inspector: Let me see these statements, please.

(The statements referred to were passed to the Presiding Inspector.)

Mr. Gladstein: It may be that the question should be reframed. I don't know whether it is too long or not.

Well, I will withdraw the question and put it another way. [1171]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. At the time you made the first statement in October, 1940, Mr. Cannalonga——

Presiding Inspector: Your question didn't quite correctly state it.

Mr. Gladstein: I withdrew the question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. At the time you made the first statement to the FBI agents——

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Presiding Inspector: I didn't mean, in the statement I made, there was any intention.

Mr. Gladstein: I understand.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. (Continuing) ——you knew then, didn't you, that there had been a question in 1937 of shift- in the Gowman Hotel, is that right? A. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. You knew that, didn't you? A. Yes.

Q. And in your statement you said that that was the purpose, as a matter of fact, of the meeting in the Gowman Hotel, is that right? A. Yes.

Q. And did that fact, the fact that you were talking in that meeting at the Gowman Hotel about the A. F. of L. to CIO affiliation, is that what led you to fix the meeting at that [1172] time and place?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment.

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw the question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. At the time you gave the first statement to the FBI did you remember the Gowman Hotel meeting as a meeting where this question was discussed of changing from the A. F. of L. to the CIO?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that the outstanding thing you remembered about the meeting? A. Yes.

Q. Now, in your November 5th statement you also go on, where you are making the correction about the Gowman Hotel meeting, and you say:

"Also organizational work in the Gulf to be carried on by the Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union."

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Maybe, to make that clear to you, I had better go back and read again the sentence that goes just before it. Do you want me to do that?

A. I don't care.

Q. All right. In that sentence you say:

"The reason I definitely recall this meeting was held in May is because of the discussion which took place of changing from the A. F. of L. and going over to the C.I.O." [1173]

Then it goes on and says:

"Also organizational work in the Gulf to be carried on by the Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union."

Now, didn't you know, when you made the statement on October 8, 1940, the first statement, about the organizational work in the Gulf, that it was carried on by the Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union? A. Yes.

Q. Didn't you have that in mind at the time?

A. No.

Q. What? A. I didn't get that question.

Q. Well, was that question of organizational work in the Gulf to be carried on by the Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union, was that discussed at the Gowman Hotel meeting? A. Yes.

Q. It was? A. Yes.

Q. Didn't you know that on October 8, 1940?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute. The witness doesn't know the date, October 8th. I suggest that counsel tell him it is the date of the first statement.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

I don't think the witness knows that.

Presiding Inspector: I don't know. Have you the dates of these statements definitely in your mind? [1174]

The Witness: Yes, I have now.

Presiding Inspector: I just asked the witness —you may not have heard it—whether he had the dates of these statements definitely in mind.

Mr. Gladstein: Does he?

Presiding Inspector: He says now he has.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. The first one, so there will be no mistake, was dated October 8, 1940. A. Yes.

Q. The next one, not quite a month later, is dated November 5, 1940, the next one we are talking about, which is the third statement—I am only talk- about the first and the third. A. Yes.

Q. Now, let me see if I have this correct. At the time that you gave the first statement in October 1940, you knew about the discussion at the Gowman Hotel of the change of affiliation from the A. F. of L. to the CIO on the part of the Longshoreement, correct? A. Yes.

Q. And you also at that time knew about the organizational work in the Gulf to be carried on by the Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union, correct? A. Correct.

Q. What happened between October 8 and November 5 on [1175] either one of those two things, that is, the question of affiliation change, or the question of work in the Gulf, that made you feel that you had made a mistake in your first statement when you put the Gowman Hotel meeting in March? Do you understand that?

A. No. I must be dense or something.

Mr. Gladstein: Read the question.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment. If the Court please, I think, in fairness to the witness, he should be told that in his first statement on October 8th he did not state that the reason he believed the meeting was held in March was that some organizational work was going on in the Gulf. I think the witness is confused as to that.

Presiding Inspector: Counsel suggests that in the first statement there is no reason given as to why he thought it was in March. Is that correct?

Mr. Gladstein: There was discussion, but no statement that it is a reason.

Presiding Inspector: That is, a reason for the date?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Counsel suggests that you assumed that in your question, or he takes it that you assumed that was the reason it was given as March.

Mr. Gladstein: I did not want to do that.

Presiding Inspector: An objection was made to it on that [1176] ground. I simply call that to your attention.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Let me put it this way: Referring to this part of your statement in November, the one that says, "Also organizational work in the Gulf to be carried on by the Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union," that is one of the reasons you assigned, you gave, in your statement, for changing the month from March to May, do you remember that? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Between October 8th and November 5th, 1940, who told you that organizational work in the Gulf to be carried on by the Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union took place in May of 1937, rather than in March?

Presiding Inspector: If anyone.

A. No one.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, what made you change your view—withdraw that. How do you know that organizational work was carried on in the Gulf in March of 1937? A. It wasn't.

Q. How did you know that it was carried on in May of 1937?

A. You mean organizational work was carried on?

Q. Yes, in the Gulf by the Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union. How did you know it was carried on in May 1937? A. It wasn't. [1177]

Q. How do you know that it was discussed in that month?

A. Let me see—wasn't that just prior to the ILA convention in Seattle that year?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Mr. Gladstein: Read the question, please.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Presiding Inspector: Can you answer that?

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. How did you know that?

Mr. Myron: Wasn't there an answer to the question?

Presiding Inspector: There was no answer to the question. I think he was thinking aloud.

Mr. Gladstein: I think so.

Mr. Myron: I wonder if we couldn't have the answer read? I didn't hear it. I thought he made some answer but I didn't hear what it was.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Let me put it this way: ——

Mr. Myron: (Interposing) Just a minute. May we have the answer, whatever it was? I would like to find out what it was.

Presiding Inspector: Read the answer.

(The answer referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Mr. Gladstein: It was not an answer.

Presiding Inspector: I think he was thinking aloud. [1178]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Let's get at it this way: ——

Presiding Inspector: He doesn't state it definitely as his reason.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Isn't it correct that the FBI Agents told you that organizational work in the Gulf to be carried on by the Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union was discussed in May of 1937—isn't that how you came to know it? A. I don't think so.

Q. How do you think you did come to know it?

A. Oh, by refreshing my memory.

Q. With what did you refresh your memory, do you recall? A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you remember any occasion for refreshing your memory on this matter except in the discussion that you had with the FBI agents in November 1940? A. I don't know.

Q. That is the only time, that is, when you were talking with them in November, 1940, that this question came up of refreshing your memory, isn't that right?

A. I wouldn't swear to it. After all, Christ, that was six or seven months ago.

Q. But in November, 1940, when you were talking to them, the FBI Agents, did you think of this question of organizational work in the Gulf, or did they think of it and express it? [1179]

Mr. Del Guercio: He already answered that question two or three times.

Presiding Inspector: I think he has, but I think I will let him answer it once more.

Mr. Gladstein: Read the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Mr. Gladstein: That is in the alternative. I will withdraw it and put it another way.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Isn't it a fact that in this discussion in November, 1940, the FBI Agents brought up this question of organization work in the Gulf?

Presiding Inspector: Is it or isn't it a fact—if you can answer it?

The Witness: To be frank, my memory is too damn vague about it.

Presiding Inspector: You are not sure?

The Witness: I am not sure. If I say "Yes" or "No" I am just making——

Presiding Inspector: The witness says he is not sure.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Is it possible they did, is that right?

A. I am not sure.

Q. Now, you said, I think you said this, that in the November 5, 1940 meeting with the FBI Agents they raised the [1180] question of Eugene Dietrich being present at these meetings, that you talked about in your first statement, is that correct?

Mr. Myron: Are you asking a question or stating that is in evidence?

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I am asking you, didn't they do that?

A. Yes; they raised the question in regard to Dietrich.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. Do you remember how they raised it, and in what form they raised it, what they said?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Let me ask you whether they said this—I am simply trying to refresh your recollection—did they say something like this: "Cannalonga, you must be wrong about Dietrich having been at those meetings, because Dietrich is not a Communist." Did they say anything like that?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment——

Presiding Inspector: I will allow that. It calls for your recollection as to whether or not they said that, if you can remember.

A. Let me see—no, they didn't put it in that sense of words.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you remember what Dietrich said at any of these meetings? A. Who? [1181]

Mr. Gladstein: Read the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. Dietrich? No, I don't.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you remember what any particular person said at any of those meetings?

A. No; not every word or phrase.

Q. When, in 1934, did you join the Marine Firemen's Union? A. In San Francisco.

Q. I said when?

A. Right at the start of the strike, 1934 strike.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. After the start of the strike or before?

A. Right during the strike, at the start.

Q. You said right at the start. Does that mean a little after it began or a little before?

A. A little after it began.

Q. How long afterward?

A. The strike was called on the 30th of May, I believe; somewhere around that time, and I joined in June.

Mr. Del Guercio: Wasn't any limitation placed on this brief cross examination, or are we going into all kinds of matters?

Presiding Inspector: I think up to the present it has been rather devoted to these statements. [1182]

Mr. Gladstein: It has.

Mr. Del Guercio: But now counsel is going into other matters, for instance, the Marine Firemen's Union.

Mr. Gladstein: This is a matter that properly should have been taken up on cross examination, and not on recross, but was overlooked, and we would like to ask the Court's indulgence.

Presiding Inspector: Let us hear the next question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you remember what ship you were going out on?

A. Yes; President Pierce, San Pedro.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow a little latitude along this line. I think this is to fix dates, isn't it?

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Mr. Gladstein: Correct.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You say, or I think you said you just got back from a trip? A. Now?

Q. Yes. A: Yes; I had to quit.

Q. When did you get into San Francisco, into port?

A. San Francisco—oh, it was on Thursday.

Q. Thursday of last week? A. Last week.

Q. What ship did you come in on?

A. The Clevdon.

Q. How long had you been on that ship? [1183]

A. Since November 5th.

Q. That is, November 5, 1940? A. Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Is that ship now in harbor?

The Witness: No. It is up in Portland.

Presiding Inspector: You signed off?

The Witness: Yes; I quit. I was electrician on it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Were you at the Marine Hospital when you were laid up with your hip? A. Now?

Q. No. When you had your hip difficulty?

A. I was yes. Then they didn't think anything was wrong with my hip. But then I went to a private doctor and he took an X-ray and found the hip had been out of joint and that, in turn, had caused sciatica, and it pinched the sciatic nerve, and I was losing some of the fluid around the joint.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Q. How long a period did you work doing Communist Party work, as you indicated before?

A. Until, oh, about June, 1937.

Q. All together how long would that be?

A. July 1937—wait a minute—about a year and some odd months.

Q. And that would begin right after you first became a Communist Party member?

A. Yes. [1184]

Q. And it continued throughout all the time that you were a Communist Party member?

Mr. Del Guercio: Are you going to permit him to go all over this again?

Presiding Inspector: I will allow this. It will be very brief, I think.

The Witness: What is the question again?

Mr. Gladstein: Read the question.

Presiding Inspector: Did you do Party work all the time you were a Party member? A. Yes.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. That is, Party work for which you were being paid $6.00 a week? A. Oh, no; no.

Q. I want the period of time when you were doing nothing but Party work and getting $6.00 a week.

A. I don't remember. It was off and on. I would make a trip out to catch up my debts, pay the bills I owed, and then I would come ashore, and then I would make another trip, and so on, would come ashore and go into active party work again.

Q. During any of that time, or at any other time, have you ever been on relief or WPA?

A. No.

Presiding Inspector: He said he hadn't. [1185]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you remember Mr. Del Guercio was asking you questions a little while ago along this line, and that you gave testimony that you thought you might have some arguments with some people on the waterfront because of giving testimony here, do you remember that? A. Yes.

Q. Isn't it true, Mr. Cannalonga, that the reason you said that, and felt that——

A. (Interposing) Wait a minute. Don't get me wrong. You see, like I told him, there is no beef squad involved at all. Just like I said, it was just personal, because a lot of guys feel that I did the wrong thing, and so forth and so on, and it is, will be personal beefs.

Q. It is because you know that a lot of the men feel that Bridges has been for a long time persecuted by shipowners, isn't that correct?

A. Yes; correct.

Q. And that the first deportation hearing was a part of that whole thing, is that the way they feel?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment.

Presiding Inspector: I don't think we can go into that. It doesn't make any difference what the people think about the proceedings.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Mr. Gladstein: That was brought out by Mr. Del Guercio. [1186]

Mr. Del Guercio: No.

Presiding Inspector: Not along that line.

Mr. Gladstein: It was brought out on this basis: That Mr. Del Guercio tried to give a certain impression here in his questions, and the witness has answered that the reason he made such statements to Mr. Del Guercio was not that he felt any personal fear, but because he recognized a certain attitude among the workmen on the waterfront, and this attitude which was not clearly set forth in the record, is the one that I am trying to bring out, and that is an attitude about which I would like to have certain testimony.

Presiding Inspector: Very well. Answer the question.

The Witness: What is the question.

Mr. Gladstein: I will reframe it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Isn't it true that the reason you told that to Mr. Del Guercio was because you know that on the waterfront the men have felt, and do feel, that the attempt to deport Harry Bridges now, and at every previous time, has been an employer-inspired attempt?

Mr. Goodwin: I object to that.

Presiding Inspector: I will take it. Go ahead. You may answer the question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Is that what the men feel? [1187]

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

A. You want the attitude of the men on the waterfront?

Presiding Inspector: Just a moment. You mean in general, or that there are people who feel that?

Mr. Gladstein: Union men.

Presiding Inspector: In general?

Mr. Gladstein: Generally.

Presiding Inspector: All right. Is that the general impression, he asked you?

A. The general impression on the waterfront is that he is being persecuted and the first trial——

Mr. Goodwin: (Interposing) I want to intervene to this extent. He is asking him about the efforts to deport Harry Bridges; he is asking him whether that originates with the shipowners on the waterfront. How can he know that? How is that proper cross examination? If they wish to put in a defense of that kind, which is not a defense, that is a part of their own case, is it not?

Presiding Inspector: He is trying to get an explanation of why he said that there were people who might attack him physically if he testified here, which was brought out by Mr. Del Guercio, and he is simply asking for an explanation of that statement. I think I will allow it.

Mr. Goodwin: How does this have anything to do——

Presiding Inspector: I don't know, but Mr. Del Guercio evidently thought it did because he asked him if he didn't feel [1188] that he was in danger, if the testified, of physical attack. Now, he didn't use that language—that is my explanation of it—but that was the basis of it.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Mr. Goodwin: But what has that to do with the question——

Presiding Inspector: I don't know.

Mr. Goodwin: (Continuing) ——of whether the people on the waterfront, the shipowners, inspired this proceeding?

Presiding Inspector: He is asking, as I understand it, why he answered that he was in danger physically of some personal attack. That is all there is about it.

Mr. Goodwin: How can that be connected with the motive for bringing the hearing?

Presiding Inspector: I don't know. It may. Let us see what the witness says.

Mr. Gladstein: Could we have the last question and answer read?

The Witness: Can I answer that now?

Presiding Inspector: Read the question and answer.

(The question and answer referred to were read by the reporter as above recorded.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. And the feeling is that Bridges is being persecuted by the shipowners, isn't that right?

A. Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: That is all. [1189]

Presiding Inspector: Anything further?

Mr. Del Guercio: No.

(Testimony of Maurice J. Cannalonga.)

Presiding Inspector: You are excused.

(Witness excused.)

Presiding Inspector: We will adjourn until tomorrow morning at 10:00 o'clock.

(Whereupon, at 4:20 P. M., an adjournment was taken to Friday, April 18, 1941, at 10:00 A. M. [1190]

Court Room 276,
Federal Building,
San Francisco, California,

April 18, 1941.

Met, pursuant to adjournment, at 10:00 A. M. [1191]

PROCEEDINGS

Presiding Inspector: Call your witness, Mr. Del Guercio.

Mr. Del Guercio: The witness is here, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Raise your right hand.

DANIEL B. BLACK

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What is your name?

(Testimony of Daniel B. Black.)

A. Daniel B. Black.

Q. And your occupation, Mr. Black?

A. Assistant Cashier in the Post Office.

Q. How long have you been so employed?

A. In the Post Office?

Q. Yes. A. 26 years.

Q. 26 years. Were you employed in the Post Office during 1934? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what capacity?

A. Box Clerk; renting boxes.

Q. Renting boxes. A subpoena was issued to you to product certain records of the Post Office Box Rentals. Did you do so? [1192]

A. I refuse to do so until I see the Judge.

(Passing book of regulations to the Presiding Inspector.)

Presiding Inspector: I will direct you to testify.

The Witness: All right. Yes, sir, I have the records here.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You have the records here? A. Yes.

Presiding Inspector: It may appear that the witness exhibited to me, as the Presiding Inspector, the regulation in respect to the witness refusing to testify. The regulation says, in substance, that he shall not testify unless directed to by the Court which, I assume, means the presiding magistrate here.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. May I see the records?

(Testimony of Daniel B. Black.)

A. (Producing records.)

Q. Mr. Black, you have handed to me an application for a post office box dated February 6, 1934, submitted by one Harry Glickshon; character of business, sales of waterfront papers; business address, 118 Day Street, residence 118 Day Street; and showing that he was assigned box No. 1158. Did you take that application? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was that box number assigned to Harry Glickshon as [1193] shown on that paper?

A. Immediately, as soon as he paid his money, that day.

Q. And for how long a period was that Post Office Box rented? A. Until June, 1936.

Q. June 30, 1936 it expired?

A. It was not renewed.

Q. It was not renewed and it was carried in that name throughout that entire period?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't know what the regulations of the Post Office Department are relative to releasing these documents.

Presiding Inspector: It is a public document, I suppose.

Mr. Del Guercio: It is a public document. I don't believe it is necessary to enter it in the record unless counsel wants to see it, I will show it to him.

Mr. Gladstein: I would like to see it anyway whether you intend to introduce it or not.

(The document referred to was handed to Mr. Gladstein.)

(Testimony of Daniel B. Black.)

Mr. Gladstein: Was there another document besides this one?

Mr. Del Guercio: No.

Presiding Inspector: The practice in New York is to describe a public document definitely, not to mark it, but give it a number and to receive it in evidence. [1194]

Mr. Del Guercio: I believe I have described one of them, the application. It is headed "Application for Post Office Box", dated February 6, 1934, and it starts off with:

"The undersigned hereby applies for the use of a box in the Post Office and agrees to comply with the postal regulation and rules relative to the renting and use of Post Office boxes."

Presiding Inspector: Is that signed?

Mr. Del Guercio: That is signed by the applicant, Harry Glickshon, G-l-i-c-k-s-h-o-n, who gives his business as sales of waterfront papers, business address 118 Day Street, residence address 118 Day Street, and who gives as references Leon D. Klein, K-l-e-i-n, and after that appears some letters "OOL", residing at 1306 Fillmore Street, and Herman Mann, M-a-n-n, residing at 1147 Lyon, L-y-o-n Street, and on the bottom of this appears that he has been assigned box No. 1158, and then appears the stamped signature of William H. McCarthy, Acting Postmaster.

Presiding Inspector: Very well. Do you offer it?

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, I will offer it.

(Testimony of Daniel B. Black.)

Presiding Inspector: It may be received. It need not be marked but you may give it a number. If you consider it of enough importance you may have it photostated.

Mr. Del Guercio: I believe we will ask that we be permitted to photostat that.

Presiding Inspector: The Postmaster will allow you to do that. [1195]

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 211.)

Mr. Del Guercio: The next document I have is what appears to be a ledger sheet headed "Box Rent and Key Deposit Register," Serial No. T6133-6602, the number of keys to box 3, box No. 1158, date lock changed 4/1/33 to box No. 1159. Immediately below that appears this entry "March 31, 1934, Glickshon" G-l-i-c-k-s-h-o-n, Harry, box date rented, rented on 2/6/34, amount paid 1.80. Then in another column under the heading "Deposited" appears the date 2/6/34 and the amount 20 cents.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, Mr. Black, you say that this person Harry Glickshon rented that box until 1936. Wherein on this document does it appear that he rented that box continuously from 2/6/34 to 1936?

A. (Indicating) Here is the March quarter, June quarter, September quarter——

Q. (Interposing) Will you speak up?

(Testimony of Daniel B. Black.)

A. The boxes are rented by the quarter and the rents are payable quarterly. The rent of $3.00 a full quarter was paid for the June quarter, September and December quarters '34, the full year of '35, and the quarters of March and June '36. That will be until June 30, '36 the box was held and it was rented on February 6, '34. The key was turned in on July 1, '36, the date after the quarter was up and the rent was due. [1196]

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this document in evidence.

Presiding Inspector: The same procedure is to be followed. You have seen it, Mr. Gladstein?

Mr. Del Guercio: I will show it to him.

Presiding Inspector: It will be received in evidence and it may be given a number, but not marked.

(The document referred to was received in evidence as Government's Exhibit No. 212.)

Presiding Inspector: It may be photostated.

Mr. Del Guercio: You may cross examine.

Cross Examination

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. Black, after the very first payment, that is, the payment when the box was first purchased, would it be possible to tell from the records, or from your memory, who made the subsequent payments?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Gladstein: That is all.

(Testimony of Daniel B. Black.)

Mr. Del Guercio: That is all, Mr. Black.

Presiding Inspector: Give the documents back to the witness. They will have to be kept in the possession of the Post Office Department here.

You are excused.

(Witness excused.)

Presiding Inspector: Call your next witness.

[1197]

Mr. Del Guercio: Take the stand.

Presiding Inspector: Raise your right hand.

AMOS FLOYD KELLEY

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What is your name?

A. Amos Floyd Kelley—K-e-l-l-e-y.

Q. Where do you live, Mr. Kelley?

A. Seattle.

Q. Seattle, Washington? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. Hotel keeper.

Q. Hotel keeper. For how long a period have you been a hotel keeper?

A. Since about 1921.

Q. And at what hotel?

A. Since 1934 I was in the Atwood Hotel in Seattle.

Q. The Atwood Hotel in Seattle?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And as hotel keeper did you keep a hotel register? A. Yes, sir.

Q. I show you what appears to be a register for Saturday, [1198] May 1, 1937, and ask you if that is the hotel register for the Hotel Atwood, of Seattle, Washington, for that day.

A. (Examining register) Yes, sir.

Q. Does the name of Harry Bridges appear on that register? A. It does.

Q. What does it show?

A. It shows that he had File No. 5665, and registered as H. R. Bridges, of San Francisco, and I put him in Room 121. I roomed him myself.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Q. How long did he remain at that hotel, if you know?

A. I couldn't say off-hand without my reference book.

Q. Is this your reference book?

A. (Examining book) Yes.

Q. Can you tell me the page here, so I can show it to counsel?

A. (Examining reference book) Right here. It was 5/2 to 5/23.

Q. 5/2 to 5/23.

A. Yes; that is May 2 to May 23.

Q. What year? A. 1937.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this register in evidence, if your Honor please, as Government's Exhibit next in order. I ask that we be permitted to withdraw this and substitute a photostatic copy. [1190]

Presiding Inspector: That will be permitted. It will be received and marked.

(The register referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 213.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I also offer the page in this reference book for the year 1937, which the witness has identified in evidence, and ask we be permitted to photostat that particular page and substitute it for the original.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Presiding Inspector: It may be received and that practice may be followed.

(The sheet from reference book referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 214.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, Mr. Kelley, do you recognize the Harry Bridges that you registered at that hotel?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And as indicated by the records?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where is he?

A. Right there. (Indicating)

Mr. Del Guercio: May the record show that he has identified the Alien?

Presiding Inspector: It may show it.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Did you have a conversation with the Alien there [1200] at the hotel at the time he registered?

A. I did.

Q. Or any time afterwards?

A. I don't recall any particular conversation at the time he registered. I did a short while after that.

Q. Where was that? A. In room 305.

Q. That is the room in which he was registered?

A. No, sir.

Q. In what room was that?

A. He was registered in 121.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Q. And what was in room 305, whose room was that? A. Dutch Dietrich.

Q. And who was present?

A. Dutch Dietrich, myself and Mr. Bridges.

Q. And you say that that was the same day that Bridges had registered? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the conversation you had with the Alien?

A. I told Mr. Dietrich that I would like to meet Harry Bridges, that I had heard so much about him, so he had a room there and when Harry came in, evidently he invited Harry over to his room to have a drink; and Dietrich called me on the phone and asked me to come up and have a drink with them.

So I went up to have a drink with them. Harry was lying on [1201] the bed and Dutch was acting as bartender, Dutch Dietrich.

After we had had a few drinks, not to exceed three, and were discussing several different issues, Dutch Dietrich commented to Dutch—or to Bridges, that "Harry, you are one of the swellest guys I have ever known if it wasn't for that Commie outfit that you belong to."

Q. What did the Alien say to that?

A. He said, "That is all right. You will see the time that you are damned glad to belong to our outfit."

Q. What did you understand the "Commie" outfit to be?

A. I later asked Dietrich what he meant by that,

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

and he says "It is the Communists. Didn't you know that Bridges belongs to that outfit?"

I said, "No. How would I know it?"

Q. Now, Mr. Kelley, I will show you another, what purports to be a hotel register for the day 8/5/37, a Thursday, and ask you if that is the register of the Hotel Atwood, your Hotel Atwood, at Seattle? A. (Examining register) Yes, sir.

Q. Does the name of Harry Bridges appear on that register?

A. Yes, sir. He registered under the name of "H. Bridges, San Francisco," and my son registered him in.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer this in evidence, if your Honor please, as Government's Exhibit next in order. I ask [1202] that we be permitted to make photostats of it and substitute it for the original.

Presiding Inspector: It will be received and that practice will be followed.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 215.)

Mr. Del Guercio: You may cross examine.

Cross Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Kelley, when was the first time you were contacted by any representative of the Government with respect to being a witness in this case?

A. I would say about three or four months ago.

Q. By whom were you contacted?

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

A. By an FBI man; I don't recall the name.

Q. Where were you contacted?

A. At my home.

Q. What did he say to you when he first approached you?

A. The exact conversation I am not positive of, but he asked me if I recalled having a conversation with Mr. Bridges, and anyone else in the Atwood Hotel, at any particular time, and I told him I recalled this incident I just described.

Q. Then what did he say?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment, if your Honor please. I will have to object to this line of questioning. It isn't [1203] cross examination. It isn't on anything material to the issue in this case. We are not trying the FBI. This is a proceeding here to determine whether the Alien, Harry Bridges, is subject to deportation.

Presiding Inspector: We are not trying the FBI, but I think I will receive it. It may have some bearing on the credibility of the witness. That, I suppose, is the purpose of the cross examination.

Mr. Del Guercio: If it is——

Mr. Grossman: (Interposing) I don't know what the FBI man said. Apparently Mr. Del Guercio don't want me to find out.

Mr. Del Guercio: No, no.

Mr. Grossman: It may be relevant, what the FBI man said and what Mr. Kelley said.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. What did he say?

A. He asked if I would be willing to volunteer the knowledge as evidence in a deportation proceeding.

Q. What did you say?

A. I advised him that I had no other alternative if I was subpoenaed.

Q. Did he refresh your memory very much about this incident? A. No, he did not.

Q. Do you remember the incident at the time you talked to [1203-A] the FBI man as well as you remember it now? A. I do.

Q. Will you repeat again how much he described the incident before he asked you about it?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute. I object to that.

Presiding Inspector: If he described it at all. He testified he didn't.

Mr. Grossman: To some extent he did.

Presiding Inspector: You don't want him to repeat it.

Mr. Grossman: Yes, to be sure I have it correct.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. How much did he describe it before he asked you about it?

A. There was hardly a description at all, except that a certain conversation was to have been carried on at the Atwood Hotel, and if I remembered what the nature of the conversation was.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Q. Did he tell between whom this conversation was? A. No.

Q. Is it your testimony that the FBI man came to you and said, "Was there a certain conversation at"—what hotel? A. Atwood Hotel.

Q. (Continuing) ——"at the Atwood Hotel," and in reply to that question you gave him the information that you just testified to?

A. Yes, sir. [1203-B]

Q. You are sure that that is all he said in describing the conversation?

A. Not every word he said, no, but it was practically the thing that he meant; he wanted to know what I knew in regard to the matter.

Q. Did he mention that the conversation held with Harry Bridges, that is, involved Harry Bridges?

A. He asked me if it occurred, and if it was with Harry Bridges.

Q. Did he mention Harry Bridges before or after you answered him?

Presiding Inspector: Well, wasn't this testimony that he asked him whether he had a conversation with Harry Bridges?

Mr. Grossman: I asked him to give me all the details that the FBI man gave him. He didn't put in the element of Harry Bridges, according to his previous answer.

Presiding Inspector: You may be right about that.

Mr. Grossman: I am sure of it; I am positive of it.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Presiding Inspector: Mr. Reporter, go back to the question and answer where the witness mentioned the first time what the FBI man said to him.

(The question and answer referred to were read by the reporter as follows:

"Q What did he say to you when he first approached you?

"A The exact conversation I am not positive of, but he [1203-C] asked me if I recalled having a conversation with Mr. Bridges, and anyone else in the Atwood Hotel, at any particular time, and I told him I recalled this incident I just described.")

Presiding Inspector: You see, Bridges' name was mentioned at the start. That is the first thing that was said.

Do not deceive the witness.

Mr. Grossman: May we have the second question read, the one I asked after that?

Presiding Inspector: But he already said he remembered the matter with Harry Bridges.

Mr. Grossman: May I have the second one read?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Grossman: I think he changed it in the second one. I asked a second question to get it positive.

Presiding Inspector: What?

Mr. Grossman: I asked a second question to confirm it.

Presiding Inspector: It didn't need any conformation. You had a direct statement.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Mr. Grossman: I would like to have it read.

Presiding Inspector: Go back and read the first question and answer previously read and then continue on.

(The reporter read that portion of the record referred to as recorded above.)

Presiding Inspector: That is enough. He already told you that was the very first thing he said. Go ahead and ask the next question. [1204]

Mr. Grossman: If your Honor please——

Presiding Inspector: No argument. Ask the next question. [1205]

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you ever discuss this conversation prior to the time that FBI man came to see you?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, with whom?

Mr. Grossman: With anyone.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I will exclude that; it is too indefinite. Refresh his recollection if you want to.

Mr. Grossman: Your Honor, I don't know——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) You can't ask whether he discussed it with Mr. James, Mr. Jones, Mr. Robinson. What difference does it make?

Mr. Grossman: It depends on who Mr. James, Mr. Jones and Mr. Robinson are.

Presiding Inspector: You must ask him some identifying question. You don't want to ask whether he discussed it with his wife, the children, all that sort of thing; we would never end.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Mr. Grossman: Your Honor, it will take me twenty questions to cover the subject if——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) No, it won't because I won't allow twenty questions. Now, ask him some question so that we can make some progress.

Mr. Grossman: All right.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you ever discuss this conversation before the [1206] FBI man spoke to you with any representative of the FBI, any other representative of the FBI?

A. I don't recall of ever——

Q. (Interposing) Did you ever discuss this before the FBI man talked to you with any other representative of the Government?

A. Not that I can recall.

Q. Did you ever discuss this conversation before the FBI man talked to you with any official of any union? A. Not that I recall.

Q. Did you ever discuss this before the FBI man talked to you with any representative of the Police Department?

A. Not that I can recall.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it. Go ahead. Soon he will have twenty questions.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you ever discuss this before the FBI man talked to you with Mr. Bonham of the Immigration and Naturalization Service?

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

A. I don't recall it.

Q. Did you ever discuss this before the FBI man talked to you with any employee or representative of the Immigration and Naturalization Service? [1207]

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I think it is getting close to the twenty questions.

Presiding Inspector: Well, that may be. Go ahead.

A. I don't recall.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you ever discuss this before the FBI man talked to you with any member of a union?

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, he has already asked that, if your Honor please, and I object to it on the ground that it has been asked and answered.

Presiding Inspector: Well, do you expect a different answer?

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead and answer it.

A. I don't recall any such discussions.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Between the time that you say you heard this conversation and the time that the FBI man talked to you did anything happen that refreshed your memory on this conversation?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that, your Honor.

A. Yes, there was. Many things happened between the time——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I will al-

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

low it. It is to refresh anything that occurred to refresh his recollection, and he said, "Yes." [1208]

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. What is the answer?

A. The day the convention retired in Seattle one of the Business Agents for one of the unions in California—I don't recall the town—had quite a long conversation with me in the lobby of the hotel in regards to "Kelley, you watch the newspaper in Portland and see what we do to that goon squad tomorrow when we go through." And that recalled to my attention the conversation that was carried on in room 305 between Bridges and myself.

Q. Anything else?

A. And I did notice in the paper where there were two or three of the goon squad put in the hospital after these boys had went through.

Q. And you associated Bridges with the goon squad, did you? A. No sir, I did not.

Q. Then, how did this refresh your recollection?

A. Because of the conversation that was carried on between this other Business Agent and myself.

Q. What is the relationship between a goon squad and Bridges?

A. The activities of a goon squad and the activities of Communism has a little the same relationship in appearance. [1209]

Q. Well, did you associate Bridges with Communism as a result of that conversation you say you heard?

A. No, I recalled the conversation when this man brought up that subject.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Q. Now, let me get this straight. The conversation you have been relating, an impression might have been given to you from the conversations that you related that Bridges was associated with Communism, with the Communist Party, is that correct?

A. I didn't get that question.

Q. Did you get an impression——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Let the reporter read the question.

Presiding Inspector: Let the reporter read the question.

Mr. Grossman: Will you read it, please?

Presiding Inspector: Do you want to withdraw it?

Mr. Grossman: No.

Presiding Inspector: Read the question, then.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

The Witness: I still don't get the question.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. All right. Did you get the impression from this conversation which involved Dietrich and Bridges, that Bridges was connected with the Communist Party?

A. You mean the conversation that was in the room [1210] between Bridges, myself and Dietrich?

Q. That is correct.

A. I did get that impression.

Q. All right. Then, if that conversation was recalled to you by this discussion on goon squad activities was it because you associated Bridges with goon squad activities?

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Presiding Inspector: Did he say that, that it was recalled to him?

Mr. Grossman: He said the conversation on goon squad activities recalled this, or refreshed his recollection.

Presiding Inspector: I didn't so understand it. Did he use the word "recall"?

Mr. Grossman: Refreshed.

Presiding Inspector: You asked him whether there was anything that occurred between there that impressed his memory?

Mr. Grossman: Refreshed, I think was the word I used.

Presiding Inspector: Refreshed? Maybe you did.

Mr. Grossman: I am pretty sure I did.

Presiding Inspector: We will assume you did.

Mr. Grossman: All right.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did it refresh your memory because you associated Bridges with the Communist Party and both with goon squads?

A. I couldn't say it refreshed my memory. It did impress, reminded me of the conversation, yes, when I heard this [1211] man make those comments.

Q. Now, what else can you remember about this conversation that took place in Dietrich's room?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to that. He has already asked him that. The witness has given all of the conversation.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it.

Mr. Grossman: I don't believe I have asked him that.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Will you state anything else——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Well, you are entitled to ask if there is anything else.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Will you state anything else that you can remember that transpired in that room when Dietrich and Bridges and you were present.

A. Yes, there was a conversation pertaining to revolvers.

Q. What was that conversation?

A. Dutch Dietrich showed me his .38 or—I think it was a .38—it was a little black bull dog—and asked me my opinion as to the best gun, his type or the type that Harry Bridges was supposed to have had, something along that line.

Q. You mean Dietrich said that Bridges was supposed to have had a certain type of gun? [1212]

A. In fact, if I recall the situation, Mr. Dietrich brought both guns to me like this, "Kelley, which do you think is the best gun?"

Q. Well, you say, "If I recall the situation." Do you recall that two guns were brought?

A. That is right; I am of the opinion that they were, yes.

Q. All right. Did Dietrich say one was his and one was Bridges'?

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

A. He didn't say that one was his and one was Bridges. I stood right there and seen it, heard the conversation between him and Bridges, and all of the converation pertaining to everything they talked about.

Q. Well, what happened that caused you to associate one of those guns with Bridges?

A. Dietrich asked me which one I thought was the best gun.

Q. Well, who told you that one of those guns was associated with Bridges, if any one?

A. I seen him reach over to Bridges and pick it up?

Q. You mean Bridges was carrying one of those guns?

A. Bridges had one of those guns.

Q. What kind of a gun was Bridges carrying?

A. I don't recall the make or anything about it. It was a small revolver, apparently about a .32.

[1213]

Q. What was the discussion about these guns?

A. What would be the discussion with any three men that had had a few drinks and one of them was trying to brag his gun up and the other one was trying to brag his gun up, and I was a neutral party sitting back observing what was going on?

Q. Is that all you can remember about the guns?

A. That is all.

Q. Do you recall anything else that transpired during that meeting, or at that time?

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

A. No, I do not.

Q. Can you think of anything else that refreshed your recollection of that meeting between the time that it transpired and the time that the FBI man spoke to you first? A. No, I do not.

Q. You cannot? A. No.

Q. Do you know how the FBI heard that you might have some information on Bridges?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object.

A. They never informed me as to that.

Mr. Del Guercio: That has been gone over and over and over again.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it. They may have told him.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. What is your answer? [1214]

A. They never informed me, advised me how they were informed as to what I knew. I never asked.

Q. Did anyone advise you? A. No.

Q. Have you any idea, then, from any information you have as to how the FBI found out you had, or might have some information on Bridges?

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, if your Honor please, why not ask——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I don't think that is very material.

Mr. Grossman: Your Honor, may I state this:

Presiding Inspector: Of course, it may have been from Dietrich; we don't know.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Mr. Grossman: Well, the significant thing is that Dietrich testified at the last hearing and didn't mention this incident. That is why——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) That isn't in evidence at all.

Presiding Inspector: We can't hear that. I will exclude that and order it be stricken out of the record. You must not repeat things of that kind.

Mr. Del Guercio: I ask that counsel be——

Mr. Grossman: (Interposing) Your Honor, that is the [1215] reason I am pressing this point.

Presiding Inspector: Well, we don't know anything about Dietrich. We don't know whether—he may not have said anything about it. What difference does that make?

Mr. Grossman: Well, your Honor——

Presiding Inspector: It doesn't make any difference so far as this case has gone now and I don't see how you can ask this present question, but if you want it, I will let you have it.

Mr. Grossman: Will you try to answer the question?

Presiding Inspector: Of course, you must remember that I have no knowledge of anything that occurred in this other proceeding.

Mr. Grossman: Well, your Honor, this much is true: I have a certain obligation to you to show the relevancy of the questions. That is why I mentioned this about Dietrich. Because of that; I think I am entitled to go further and, more intensively into this question of how the FBI found out about it.

Presiding Inspector: I don't think so, but I will let you have it. Go ahead. I am ruling against my judgment on this. Go ahead.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Have you any idea, Mr. Kelley, as to how the FBI found out that you might have some information dealing with [1216] Mr. Bridges?

A. I have no idea how they—only my own conclusion.

Q. Well, I want to know whether you have any facts, or anything like that?

A. No, I have no facts.

Q. That gives you a basis for knowing——

A. (Interposing) No, I have no facts.

Q. What time of day was this incident you have been referring to in Dietrich's room?

A. I couldn't place an exact time but I believe it was shortly after 3:00 o'clock. I used to go to work at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Q. You say shortly before or shortly after?

A. I said shortly after; you heard me.

Q. Had you had any drinks before this incident took place? A. No, sir.

Q. Of your own knowledge how many drinks did Dietrich have?

A. I don't know. They were drinking before I went up.

Q. Do you know how long before you went up they were drinking? A. No, I do not.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Q. How many drinks did you see Dietrich take?

A. I believe it was two while I was there, or three, not [1217] over three.

Q. When you say three, what do you mean, three ordinary drinks, ordinary size?

A. Right.

Q. He was not drinking with a wine bottle or anything like that? A. No.

Q. How many drinks did Bridges have, to your knowledge?

A. I believe I only seen him——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) That last remark of counsel, if your Honor please, ought to be stricken from the record.

Presiding Inspector: Well, let it stand. I think it is a good thing to have in the record. Go ahead.

The Witness: I believe Harry only had one that I recall.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. What was the impression you got from that conversation, that Bridges and Dietrich were on very good terms? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it a jolly affair, if you understand what I mean by that expression?

A. He impressed me as being—they both impressed me as being very close friends. [1218]

Q. Were they acting in a jolly fashion?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you get the impression that this statement of Dietrich was, however, a very serious statement or a joking, jolly statement?

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

A. At the time I never even gave it a second thought because I had no occasion of take it serious and I paid no attention to it.

Q. Did you pay any more attention to the answer than you did to the question, or were they—you treated them both alike?

A. That is right.

Q. You paid no particular attention to either of them?

A. Other than in the hotel business you naturally observe everything that goes on.

Q. After this occasion did you ever have a telephone conversation with Harry Bridges?

A. Did I ever have a telephone conversation with Harry Bridges?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't recall any such conversation.

Q. Did you ever write a letter to Harry Bridges?

A. I am not positive. I think that I did at one time, I think.

Q. About what?

A. I don't recall. It was pertaining to business, I [1219] think.

Q. Did you ever have any trouble with unions after this occasion?

A. Who wouldn't if they employ people?

Q. Well, it may be usual for you but the question still is, did you have, Mr. Kelley? Will you please answer the question? Did you have any trouble with unions after this occasion?

A. What do you define as trouble?

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Q. Strikes or threatened strikes?

A. Strikes or threatened strikes?

Q. Or picketing or threatened picketing?

A. I had about three or four—about a week ago I had a run-in with a Business Agent for the Cleaners Union.

Q. How long ago? A. About aweek ago.

Q. Any other?

A. Any other run-ins?

Q. Any other trouble with unions as I have defined it?

A. Oh, I had several arguments, several times I had arguments with them where I felt they were stepping on my toes.

Q. Did you ever get in touch with Harry Bridges to help you out in your difficulties with unions?

A. Harry Bridges to help me out? [1220]

Q. Yes, that is right. Did you? A. No.

Q. What was the answer, please? A. No.

Q. You are sure of that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why do you say you might have written to Harry Bridges? What would you have had to write Harry Bridges about?

A. Well, for instance, if I thought I could create business by writing to any individual it was a practice of mine to do so.

Q. Then, you would say if you wrote to Harry Bridges, or if you might have written to Harry Bridges it would have been on the question of his sending you or getting you business and on no other question?

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, the witness says that is his best recollection.

Presiding Inspector: I know. I will take that into consideration. I will allow this question.

Mr. Grossman: Would you read back the question, please, Miss Reporter?

Mr. Del Guercio: If you have the letter I suggest it be shown to the witness.

If your Honor please, that would be the most logical thing [1221] to do.

Presiding Inspector: This is cross examination. I will allow it. To your best recollection.

Mr. Grossman: I am sorry, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: His best recollection. You want his best recollection.

A. I do not recall of ever writing to him at this moment.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you recall anything arising that—withdraw that.

Did you ever have anything to do with trying to organize a CIO union among hotel employees?

A. Did I ever have any——

Q. Anything directly or indirectly to do with such a thing?

A. I was a—one of a group of small hotel operators who made an effort—we made some effort to transfer—to start, which I compelled my employees to join, a Local 6 union, to obtain them 25 members to obtain a charter.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Q. Local 6, CIO?

A. No, it was an A. F. of L., then after they had obtained a charter I attended an association meeting, a hotel association meeting in the Olympic Hotel whereby a foundation was laid to sign the hotels up with the union, and I stuck up for the [1222] union to the extent that they threatened to throw me out of the hotel association meeting because I stuck up for them. In later negotiations, the Business Agent of Local 6, who happened to have a record as——

Q. (Interposing) Do you consider this is an answer to my question about the CIO?

A. You are asking me, aren't you?

Q. Do you consider this an answer to my question as to whether you had anything to do in organizing the CIO Union?

A. Yes, I am giving you my answer.

Q. All right.

A. They signed the contract with the association compelling me to pay greater wages than a thousand-room hotel, which naturally created friction among all independent hotel operators. And at that time there was an effort to bring the union over CIO and the union itself was in favor of going CIO because of the strife they were having within themselves within their own ranks.

Q. What did you have to do with that?

A. What did I have to do with it?

Q. Yes. You have given a picture of what happened but you haven't told what part you played.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, that remark of counsel should be stricken as to what he thinks he has been told. This is for the Court, I understand, not for counsel's benefit. [1223]

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: Or is it for his benefit?

Presiding Inspector: I don't quite understand the question.

Mr. Grossman: Your Honor, my question obviously didn't call for whether there was an A. F. of L. Union, whether it had any membership or not. I asked him whether he directly or indirectly had anything to do with organizing the CIO union. That is what I am repeating.

A. There was not a CIO union organized; there was not a CIO union organized.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you directly or indirectly do anything to try to organize a CIO union among hotel employees?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to that as already having been asked and answered.

Presiding Inspector: I don't know whether it has ben answered. I will take it. He says there was no CIO union organized but he has left it open as to whether there was any attempt to organize.

The Witness: Yes, there was.

Presiding Inspector: Now, did you have anything to do with it?

The Witness: I attended meetings with other

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

hotel members and some fellow was organizer there that was going to act as [1224] organizer to switch them over, or something, to straighten them out.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Now, do you remember getting in touch with Harry Bridges to help you organize a CIO union among hotel employees? A. No.

Q. Would you say that you did not do so?

A. I would say I don't recall it if I did.

Q. Do you recall Harry Bridges refusing to help you organize a CIO union among hotel employees?

Presiding Inspector: Just a moment. Are you referring to writings? Wouldn't it be easier——

Mr. Grossman: (Interposing) I am not certain.

Presiding Inspector: You are not certain.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, they made the motion here a little while ago of going through all these things down here, trying, I don't know for what purpose——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) That doesn't impress anyone. We will let Mr. Grossman go ahead.

Mr. Grossman: I am not saying there may not be documents in writing on this subject, but obviously being compelled to cross examine without a chance to prepare, we can't have everything here that might—we can't have the entire files of Mr. Bridges here. [1225]

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead.

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you have any conversations with Mr. Bridges respecting his aiding you to organize a CIO union among hotel employees?

A. I don't recall any conversation.

Q. Would you say that you did not either orally or in writing ask Harry Bridges to help you organize, or help anyone organize a CIO union among hotel employees?

A. I would say I don't recall any such effort.

Q. Would you state that you did not go up to the office of the CIO in Seattle and discuss this question of the CIO organizing hotel employees with Harry Bridges?

A. I don't recall any such discussion.

Q. Would you say——

A. (Interposing) In fact, Mr. Bridges was an A. F. of L. representative at that time, if you just remind yourself of it.

Q. At which time are we now?

A. May the second.

Q. Of what year? A. 1937.

Q. Is that the time that this question of CIO organization among hotel employees came up?

A. Approximately at that time; it was in the near vicinity, [1226] time, yes.

Q. I still want an answer to my question, Mr. Kelley, which is: Will you state that you did not discuss with Mr. Bridges at the CIO office in Seattle the question of helping you organize a CIO union among hotel employees?

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

A. I answered that once, that I don't recall any such conversation or efforts.

Q. The second question was: Would you state that it did not take place?

Presiding Inspector: If you can recall?

A. I do not recall any such effort.

Presiding Inspector: Have you any recollection on the subject?

The Witness: No.

Presiding Inspector: Whether it did or didn't?

The Witness: No, I have no knowledge.

Presiding Inspector: You can't go further than that. He doesn't remember one way or the other.

Mr. Grossman: All right.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you recall being informed in any way by Harry Bridges that he would not help you form a CIO union among hotel employees in Seattle?

A. Harry Bridges never informed me any such answers.

Q. Can you be more specific as to when this question [1227] was being discussed of the CIO union among hotel employees? You have stated it was about May, 1937. Can you be more specific?

A. No, I can't.

Q. Over how long a period did it extend?

A. I have no recollection of that myself.

Q. Can you state for how long a period you yourself were interested in the organization of hotel employees in the CIO union? A. How long?

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

Q. For how long a period you personally were interested in——

A. (Interposing) I was interested in anything to keep from being forced out of business by a bunch of radicals, and at all times was in that position, and at all times was in favor of a thousand unions to split up and take the dictatorial policy away from any radical.

Q. When you say "a bunch of radicals" you mean the unions in Seattle that had jurisdiction over the employees of the hotels?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, he has not indicated any such thing. He means Communists, from what I gather.

Mr. Grossman: Are you testifying, Mr. Del Guercio, [1228] or is Mr. Kelley testifying?

Presiding Inspector: Neither of you are in order. Now, go ahead with the examination.

Mr. Grossman: I submit my question as proper, your Honor.

A. I mean this: In 1932 Jess Bradley ran for United States Senator on the Communist ticket in Bellingham, Washington. He declared himself with an affidavit he was a member of the Communist Party. He comes down to my hotel. He said, "Your maid can vac this room; she can't vac this one; she can vac this one; she can't vac the hall; she can do this; she can't do that." That is what I call dictatorial Communistic methods. [1229]

(Testimony of Amos Floyd Kelley.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. And what union did this gentleman represent? A. Local 6, A. F. of L.

Q. Was it Local 6 of the Building Service International? A. Yes.

Q. Of the A. F. of L.? A. Yes.

Q. Did you have a woman partner in May of 1937? A. A woman partner?

Q. Yes. A. My legitimate wife, is all.

Q. Was she your partner—in other words, did she participate with you in the ownership of this hotel?

A. She lived there in the hotel and we both worked together in operating it.

Q. Did she ever tell you that she had discussed with Harry Bridges the question of organizing the employees of the hotels into the CIO?

A. No. She never advised me of that. If she had I would have told her to keep her nose out of the hotel business.

Presiding Inspector: Don't volunteer.

Mr. Grossman: No more questions.

Mr. Del Guercio: No more questions.

If your Honor please, may we have a short recess?

Presiding Inspector: Yes. [1230]

Mr. Del Guercio: May the witness be excused?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

(Witness excused.)

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

Presiding Inspector: Has the last witness gone?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: He has gone?

Mr. Del Guercio: Do you want him back?

Presiding Inspector: Yes; for just a moment.

Mr. Del Guercio: We will see if we can get him.

(Whereupon a search was made for the witness.)

Mr. Del Guercio: He is here, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Take the stand again, Mr. Kelley, please.

AMOS FLOYD KELLEY

recalled as a witness on behalf of the Government; having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Presiding Inspector: Now, Mr. Grossman, in view of your later examination about how the Government might have known of these matters, I am going to allow you to ask a broad question, which I thought was immaterial so far as it bore on what was then before me. So you may ask him if he recalls whether he ever discussed with anybody this matter. This is in view of what subsequently came out.

Mr. Grossman: I understand. [1231]

Cross Examination (Resumed)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Kelley, between the time that this incident took place in Mr. Dietrich's room, and the time that you first spoke to an FBI man about it, did you discuss it with anyone at all?

A. No, I don't recall any discussion.

Mr. Grossman: That is all.

Presiding Inspector: That is all.

(Witness excused.)

Mr. Del Guercio: We will have another witness in just a moment.

Presiding Inspector: Very well.

Raise your right hand.

DAWN LOVELACE

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Presiding Inspector: Give your name to the reporter.

The Witness: Dawn Lovelace—D-a-w-n L-o-v-e-l-a-c-e.

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Where do you live, Mrs. Lovelace?

A. Portland, Oregon.

Q. Are you married? A. I am a widow.

Q. What was your husband's name? [1232]

A. Richard Lovelace—Roby Lovelace. He was known as Richard Lovelace.

Q. When did he die, Mrs. Lovelace?

A. He died March 13th.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. This year? A. Last March 13th.

Q. Do you have any occupation at the present time?

A. Yes. At the present time I am working as a writer on the Oregon Writers' Project.

Q. Is that a WPA Project? A. Yes, it is.

Q. Do you have any children?

A. I have one.

Q. Mrs. Lovelace, were you ever a member of the Communist Party? A. I was.

Q. When did you join the Communist Party?

A. In May 1935.

Q. May 1935? A. Yes.

Q. For how long a period did you remain in the Communist Party?

A. For about six months. I dropped out, I believe, it was in October 1925.

Q. What were you doing at the time you joined the Communist Party? [1233]

A. Mainly I was working as a volunteer unpaid reporter and editorial writer with the Voice of Action.

Q. The Voice of Action? A. Yes.

Q. Where was that?

A. It was published in Seattle.

Q. By whom were you employed?

A. Well, I was requested to take this assignment by Lowell Wakefield.

Q. Who is Lowell Wakefield?

A. He was at that time the editor in chief of the Voice of Action.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Was he also a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, he was.

Q. At that time? A. Yes, he was.

Q. You knew that of your own knowledge?

A. Yes.

Q. Was your husband also a member of the Communist Party at that time?

A. He was, and had been for some time prior to my joining.

Q. Do you know for how long a period of time your husband had been a member of the Communist Party?

A. He joined, I believe it was, in July of 1932.

Q. For how long a period did he remain in the Communist [1234] Party?

A. He left the Communist Party in January, 1939; either December 1938 or January 1939.

Q. Has your husband ever been in the armed forces of the United States?

A. Yes; prior to the World War and during the World War.

Q. Did he serve overseas? A. He did.

Q. Was he wounded?

A. He was, and on more than one occasion.

Q. You say you were employed as a reporter on the Voice of Action just prior to the time you joined the Communist Party?

A. It was quite simultaneous. When Mr. Wakefield asked me if I would take over the work as Chairman of the Portland Bureau of the Voice of Action, it was suggested then that I join the Party.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. And did you continue your connections with the Voice of Action after you joined the Communist Party? A. I did.

Q. During all the time that you remained a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. And did you learn, during that period of time, that is while you were a member of the Communist Party, as to who controlled the Voice of Action? [1235]

A. I did; in fact, I was well aware of it before I joined the Communist Party.

Q. Who does control it, or who did at that time?

A. The District Committee of the Communist Party.

Q. Who was on the District Committee of the Communist Party at that time?

A. Lowell Wakefield was one of the members, and Morris Rapport.

Q. Morris Rapport? A. Yes.

Q. During the time that you were a member of the Communist Party were you given any assignments by the District Committee of the Communist Party, or any other persons connected with the Communist Party?

A. I was, on frequent occasions. In fact, all of the material was approved or censored by the Communist Party. Of course, my orders came either directly from Mr. Lowell Wakefield, or from the Managing Editor, who was also a member of the Communist Party to my knowledge.

Q. Who was the Managing Editor?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. James Couer.

The Reporter: Spell it, please.

The Witness: I believe it is C-o-u-e-r. He wrote under the name of Garland Andrews.

By Mr. Del Guercio: [1236]

Q. Did you do any work for the International Labor Defense?

A. Considerably. I wrote publicity, did some organizing work. Much of this was previous to my assignment as Editor of the Portland Bureau of the Voice of Action.

Q. Where did you do this work for the ILD?

A. Mainly in Portland, Oregon. Some of my assignments carried me to Salem.

Q. And under whom did you work with the International Labor Defense?

A. Part of the time under the direction of Irvin Goodman.

Q. Was he a member of the Communist Party also?

A. I wouldn't know as to that. I am sure he wasn't a member at that time.

Q. You said part of the time you worked under Goodman's direction. Under whom did you work the other part of the time?

A. Well, there were various people in charge of the International Labor Defense activities in Portland. Violet Olsen was one, and Mary Todd, part of the time. There was nothing static about the work.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Did you contribute articles, news articles, to the Voice of Action?

A. I did, quite consistently.

Q. Have you contributed articles to any other magazines or papers?

A. So far as left wing, or Communist dominated papers are [1237] concerned, I have contributed news articles and feature articles to the Daily Worker, Sunday Worker, New Masses; and I have also contributed as a free lance writer to Forum Magazine, New Republic, Common Sense.

Q. Did you ever contribute any articles to the Western Worker?

A. Yes, I did. In fact, much of the copy that was [illegible] for the Voice of Action was also written t[illegible]e Western Worker.

Q. Who controlled the Western Worker at the time you wrote those articles?

A. It was the official Party Publication.

Q. By "Party" you mean what?

A. Communist Party.

Q. Mrs. Lovelace, where did you reside during the year 1935?

A. At 1515 Southwest Jefferson Street.

Q. And for how long a period were you residing at that address?

A. We had been living there for about two years. I believe it was October 1935 that we moved to another place.

Q. To go back a little, when you joined the Communist Party did you join under your true name?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. Yes, I believe I did.

Q. Did you try to conceal your membership in the Communist Party? [1238]

A. No, sir, I never did.

Q. Did all of your friends, and every one you knew, know that you were a member of the Communist Party?

A. They did, those who were at all concerned about it, and were aware of it.

Q. Did your husband conceal his membership in the Communist Party? A. No, he did not.

Q. All of his friends with whom he came in contact knew that he was a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes, sir. He had no reason, or made no attempt to conceal it.

Q. Were you living at 1515 Southwest Jefferson Street, Portland, Oregon, on or about August 16, 1935? A. I was.

Q. Do you know of any particular event that occurred on or about that date at your apartment, or home?

A. It was—I wouldn't be quite sure that it was the night of August 16th, but it was during the week of August 16th, that one evening Mr. Bridges came to our apartment.

Q. You say "Mr. Bridges." Do you recognize him here in the court room? A. I do.

Q. Who is he?

A. He is the gentleman (indicating) in the gray suit there.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Mr. Del Guercio: May the record show the witness has iden- [1239] tified the Alien?

Presiding Inspector: Yes, in a gray suit, sitting at the end of the table. Mr. Bridges doesn't question the identification, or his counsel.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Go on, Mrs. Lovelace, and relate what occurred?

A. It was an unanticipated visit. There was no invitation extended. Mr. Bridges was accompanied by Hugh Adams, a longshoreman whom I knew.

Q. What?

A. A longshoreman whom I knew—whom we knew, rather.

There were with him, I believe, two other gentlemen, as I recall it, and I remember very little about them except one of them, his name was Starr.

Q. Was your husband at home at that time?

A. He was.

Q. What happened when the Alien, here, appeared at your home?

A. Well, Mr. Hugh Adams made the introduction. I was rather surprised, and I believe made some comment about the inadvisability of Mr. Bridges being at our apartment.

Q. Just what comment did you make, and to whom did you make it?

A. I made it to Hugh Adams.

Q. What did you say?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. Well, as I recall, Hugh Adams asked for Matt Meehan, [1240] said they were looking for Matt Meehan.

I raised the question as to why they would be looking for Matt Meehan at our apartment. It seemed very illogical.

Q. What did they say to that?

A. There was no response as I recall. It was casual conversation.

I then rebuked Hugh Adams for suggesting or for having Mr. Bridges come to our apartment.

Q. Why did you rebuke him?

A. Because I felt that it placed Mr. Bridges, his reputation, in jeopardy because our reputation as Communists was rather open.

Q. You rebuked him because you didn't want it known that Bridges was associating with Communists?

A. Yes. I felt at that time it was unwise.

Q. Why did you think it was unwise?

Mr. Gladstein: That is calling for a conclusion.

Mr. Del Guercio: It was her state of mind at the time. It is part of the res gestate. She said she made a remark and rebuked him for bringing Harry Bridges there because he was known as a Communist.

Presiding Inspector: Let's exhaust her recollection first as to what was said.

Was anything said along that line as to why you thought it unwise, or why you rebuked him?

The Witness: I may have made some explanation; I don't [1241] recall. I think such things were rather understood.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What did you have in mind when you made that remark?

Mr. Gladstein: I renew the same objection.

Presiding Inspector: I think it is of doubtful materiality.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will withdraw the question.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Was any reply made to your remark?

A. I don't recall that there was.

Q. What happened thereafter? Did they remain in your apartment?

A. Yes. They came into the apartment and we sat down. I believe Harry Bridges sat down on a chair. I believe the other two gentlemen sat on a couch or davenport.

Q. And your husband was there also?

A. Yes; my husband was there.

Q. Did your husband go out at any time?

A. He did later in the evening to learn if James Murphy was home.

Q. If James Murphy was home?

A. Yes. We were living in an apartment house. James Murphy lived on the top floor of the apartment house. We lived on the first floor.

Q. Well, who is James Murphy?

A. James Murphy at that time was the Section Organizer [1242] of the Communist Party.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. And who asked your husband to see if James Murphy was home?

A. I don't recall just how that question arose, except that it was agreeable that my husband should ask for James Murphy.

Q. But in any event, the Alien here was present during that time?

A. Yes, he was, and he was perfectly agreeable to——,

Q. (Interposing): To having your husband go out and find Mr. Murphy?

A. Yes; yes, sir.

Q. Did anything else happen at that time?

A. Well, when Mr. Bridges came to the apartment I had been working, as I recall it, either writing some releases for the Voice of Action, or drawing resolutions, or something. I have forgotten just what it was; I was working with a great deal of—I had been involved in a great deal of activity during that week. That was during the Oregon State Federation of Labor convention, and a part of my assignment was to cover the State Federation of Labor Convention for the Voice of Action. Another part of my work was to assist delegates, Party contact delegates in the State Federation of Labor Convention in drawing resolutions on issues which——

Q. (Interposing): You mean Communist Party delegates? [1243]

A. Some of them, I believe, were members of the Communist Party, although I have no definite way of knowing.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Yes. And did you have any further conversation with Mr. Bridges there at your home?

A. Yes. Hugh Adams had a copy of their resolution which had been submitted in the State Federation of Labor Convention dealing with the farmer—the question of a farmer-labor policy, a third party movement, as they were dissatisfied with this particular resolution and wanted another resolution drawn, and that was one of the things that were discussed in the course of the evening.

I wrote a resolution to be submitted to the State Federation of Labor Convention endorsing the farmer-labor party.

Q. Did Mr. Bridges ask you to do anything for him?

A. Yes, Mr. Bridges made some comment about the typewriter. He said that he had some notes, some material that he wanted typed. He took a sheaf of notes from his pocket and for a considerable period of time dictated from these notes. As I recall, the notes had to do with a conference, a Maritime Conference in Washington, D. C.

Q. Did he say that he had just returned from such a conference?

A. Yes, he spoke quite a bit about the conference and the experiences in the conference, and the notes from which he [1244] dictated had to do with that.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Did your husband come back from James Murphy after he went out to look for him?

A. He returned from James Murphy's apartment very shortly and said that James was not in and, I believe, he left word for him to—for James Murphy to come to our apartment when he returned.

Q. And did James Murphy come to your apartment at any time during the time that Bridges was there?

A. Yes, I believe it was around midnight. I think Esther Murphy, James Murphy's wife, rapped on the door first to see what was wanted. She left and then James Murphy came down.

Q. And what occurred after James Murphy came to your apartment?

A. Well, it was quite apparent that James Murphy and Harry Bridges were acquainted, no introductions were necessary. They greeted each other and we then sat down and Harry—Harry Bridges had mentioned earlier in the evening that he had a question bothering him. He had to send a telegram, I believe, to San Francisco, outlining some—a course of action relative to some longshoremen ILA procedure, and earlier in the evening he had expressed, well, the desire, the wish to confer with somebody about the content of the telegram, what advice or direction he should give in the wire. [1245]

Q. Is that why he asked for James Murphy?

A. Well, that was the reason given for asking for Matt Meehan, and James Murphy seemed to be an agreeable substitute for Matt Meehan. That, at least, was the apparent content of the conversations. And Bridges and James Murphy and my husband discussed the course of action to be advised in this telegram.

Q. By "this course of action" you mean that the Alien here had come to your apartment not knowing what instructions you wanted to send to this representative down here in San Francisco and so was discussing the matter over with your husband and with James Murphy ?

A. I believe that to be true.

Q. And were you in on all of the discussions that went on about that matter?

A. I was present; much of that time I was busy typing this material.

Q. Well, did they come to any conclusion?

A. Yes, they did.

Q. What happened when they did?

A. As they left Harry Bridges remarked that, well, he would send the wire.

Q. Did he ask you to send the wire?

A. No, he did not.

Q. Now, by that time had you finished with what he had dictated to you? [1246]

A. Yes, I had.

Q. And what did you do? How many copies of Bridges' dictation did you make?

A. I don't recall exactly. He asked that an original and two or three carbons be made and I asked him if I might have, for my use, one carbon of the material.

Q. What did Mr. Bridges say when you asked him about that?

A. It was perfectly—it was agreeable to him; he didn't object.

Q. And did you keep a copy of the notes?

A. I did, for some time.

Q. And then what happened to them?

A. Well, oh, two or three months later I know in the course of this period I had written an article for The Nation dealing with the maritime situation on the West Coast. It was—the article was purchased and accepted but not published, incidentally, and I don't recall just how long afterwards it was, I had this material, this document or copy in an envelope with some other material. In the meantime my interest had—well, I had become rather indifferent to the whole matter. And a young man came to the apartment—I don't even recall whether we were living in that apartment or whether we had moved to a different apartment, but I think we were still in the same one—and this young man without—oh, he introduced himself casually, but I didn't [1247] pay enough attention to get his name, said that he wanted that material, that the San Francisco longshoremen wanted it. He said they had told him at the Workers Book Shop—that was pretty much a Communist Party headquarters—how to locate me, and he said that they wanted the material, and I was indifferent to it and so I turned it over to him.

Q. Do you know or did Mr. Bridges tell you to whom he was going to send that wire in San Francisco?

A. Well, Mr. Bridges told me directly very little.

Q. Did you hear him say to whom he was going to send that wire?

A. I believe it was to Henry Schmidt, but as I say, it is a belief.

Q. Now, you spoke about preparing some resolution to be proposed at the convention for the farmer-labor party. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did the Alien here participate in the discussions on the preparation of that resolution?

A. Yes, he participated in the discussion, made suggestions as to content and phrasing, very helpful suggestions.

Q. Do you know Matt Meehan, Mrs. Lovelace?

A. I do.

Q. Do you know him to be a member of the Communist Party?

A. No, I can't say that I do, I believe that he is [1248] either—he has either been a member or has been very close to the Communist Party but I have no definite knowledge of his party membership.

Q. Hugh Adams, the person that accompanied Bridges at the time that he appeared at your apartment, did you know him before?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. Yes, I had known Hugh Adams for some weeks.

Q. Was he a member of the Communist Party at that time? A. Yes, he was.

Q. You knew that?

A. I had never seen him in a Party meeting.

Q. But you knew him to be a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know Ted Starr, you say the other person that might have been there?

A. I had never seen him before and I have never seen him since.

Q. Now, Mrs. Lovelace, did any agents of the Government contact your husband during his lifetime in your presence?

A. Two agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation visited us in our home in my presence.

Q. And do you know, or were you present—strike that, please. [1249]

Do you know if your husband made a statement to the FBI Agents? A. He did.

Q. Do you know if he signed that statement?

A. He did. I was present when he signed it.

Q. And did you read that statement that your husband had made? A. Yes, I did.

Q. In your husband's presence?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you saw him sign it? A. Yes.

(Mr. Del Guercio handed document to counsel.)

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. One question, please, Mrs. Lovelace. You testified that——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): Now, counsel are giving attention to the statement.

Mr. Del Guercio: Would you mind listening to this, please, first?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. (Continuing): ——that the Alien here, Mr. Bridges, was discussing with Mr. Murphy and your husband as to what instructions he should include in this telegram that he was [1250] to send to Henry Schmidt. Was your husband a member of the Maritime Union? A. He was not.

Q. Did he have any connection with it at all?

A. No.

Q. Was Mr. Murphy connected with the Maritime Union? A. No.

Q. Did he have any connection with it at all?

A. None whatsoever, except he was a section organizer of the Communist Party.

Q. Was he a union man?

A. He had previously belonged to one of the Red trade unions but he was not at that time.

Q. A member of any union? A. No.

Q. CIO or A. F. of L. or otherwise?

A. No.

Q. Or an independent union?

A. None whatsoever.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. And your husband was not a member of any union? A. No.

Mr. Del Guercio: Are you through with it, counsel?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mrs. Lovelace, I show you an eleven-page statement [1251] dated Portland, Oregon, September 12, 1940, signed by R. L. Lovelace, witnessed by J. W. Coulter, Special Agent, Federal Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice, and J. A. Robey, R-o-b-e-y, Special Agent, Federal Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice, and "Witness" R. L. Lovelace, and ask you if that is the statement you saw your husband sign and that you read before he signed it? A. (Examining document.)

Mr. Gladstein: Is the question whether she saw it signed, Mr. Del Guercio?. Is that the question?

Presiding Inspector: No, he implies that; he assumes that in the question.

Mr. Gladstein: He is asking her now whether this is the document?

Presiding Inspector: Yes, it is a question for identification.

Mr. Gladstein: I see.

The Witness: That is the statement.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. That is the statement? A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Is that your signature on the bottom of page eleven under "Witness?"

A. (Examining document): No; that is my husband's. [1252]

Q. I am only asking for information; I don't know. Is that your husband's signature?

A. That is my husband's signature?

Q. Do you recognize your husband's signature here also following the word "Signed"?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And does your husband's signature appear on each sheet of this paper?

A. (Examining document): It does.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer it in evidence, if your Honor please, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Mrs. King: I object, if your Honor please, on a number of grounds. In the first place the statement is not sworn to; it is merely a signed statement. In the second place, and most importantly, if this statement is introduced in evidence there is no opportunity given for the cross examination of the man who made it, and in the case of Gonzales against Zurbrick, 45 Fed. 2nd 934 which is a case from the Circuit Court of Appeals of the Sixth Circuit, the Court there stated, citing authorities "The right to cross examine even in deportation proceedings is a constitutional one."

It seems to me for this reason the fact that this is mere hearsay, that it is not a sworn statement, that we would be seriously handicapped if we were not given an opportunity [1253] to cross examine the maker of this statement which is now unfortunately impossible. This statement should not be admitted in evidence.

Presiding Inspector: Let's have a little more information as to how this statement was taken. This witness seems to have been present and to know all about it.

Mr. Del Guercio: She testified, I believe, your Honor, to——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Well, I mean in a little more detail.

Mr. Del Guercio: (Continning) ——the making of the statement.

Presiding Inspector: I will ask the questions.

Mr. Del Guercio: Very well.

Presiding Inspector: Were your present when there was this interview between your husband and the FBI Agents?

The Witness: No, I was not present at the time the interview was had. I believe the discussion extended over a period of two or three days.

Presiding Inspector: Was this statement then brought back to your house in a typewritten form?

The Witness: It was.

Presiding Inspector: And what happened, then, after it was brought back?

The Witness: My husband took this statement and read [1254] it carefully and showed it to me. I read it enough to be sure of the contents and he then, in my presence, signed the statement and signed each page of it.

Presiding Inspector: Is the content of the statement known to you now?

The Witness: It is.

Presiding Inspector: And do you know of the factual background, that is, do you know whether it is true, what is in the statement, of your own knowledge?

The Witness: I do.

Mr. Del Guercio: Now, I may say, if the Court please, that in the rules you are familiar with, where the witness is not available an ex parte statement is admissible.

Presiding Inspector: I know.

Mr. Del Guercio: In deportation proceedings.

Presiding Inspector: You may examine the witness about this statement, cross examine before it is introduced, if you wish to, or would you prefer to stand on your objection?

Mr. Gladstein: Well, one moment, your Honor.

(Discussion off the record.)

Mr. Gladstein: Could we ask this, your Honor: If this statement is admitted in evidence is it admitted as testimony of Mr. Lovelace or testimony of Mrs. Lovelace?

Presiding Inspector: Well, of course. I have thought of [1255] that, and as the statement goes in, if it does go in, I suppose it is taken as the statement of Mr. Lovelace.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Mr. Gladstein: Therefore, it would be his testimony.

Presiding Inspector: What?

Mr. Gladstein: Therefore, it would be his testimony, would it not?

Presiding Inspector: It would be a statement. You could call it that if you wish to. Of course, the man is deceased.

Mr. Gladstein: I understand that.

Presiding Inspector: And it doesn't gain any importance on that ground, but it is impossible to call the witness. I say, the fact of his death doesn't make it any more important, but it does somewhat affect the admissibility in a proceeding of this kind and while, of course, cross examination is the rule there are certain exceptions to that and I am inclined to admit this statement as a statement of this man who signed it.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, if it is to be admitted as his statement, or as his testimony, there would be no point in our cross examining Mrs. Lovelace concerning that statement since it is not going in as her statement.

Presiding Inspector: Well, there might be; I don't know; I will give you that privilege. [1256]

Mr. Gladstein: In any event, we would prefer not to do that now if the admission of the document is on the ground you stated.

Presiding Inspector: I will receive the statement at this time and I will allow you subsequently to move to strike it out and present brief on the matter.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

Presiding Inspector: But for the time being I will receive it.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 216.) [1257]

Presiding Inspector: Will you read it?

Mr. Del Guercio: I will read it, if your Honor please.

This is dated "Portland, Oregon, September 12, 1940.

"I, Richard Laverne Lovelace, wish to make the following voluntary statement to J. A. Robey, and J. W. Coulter whom I know to be Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, U. S. Department of Justice. I was born at Elkhead, Oregon October 10, 1898 and attended school in Douglas County, Oregon and later highschool at Grangeville, Idaho where I graduated in 1916.

"I joined the National Guard in 1915. I was discharged from the active list in January 1917 and was inducted into active service on April 6, 1917 of the Idaho National Guard. The Idaho National Guard became the 116th Engineers of the 41st Division and I went to France with the armed forces in October of 1917. After landing at France, I was transferred to Company C, 2nd Engineers, a regular army organization and remained in France for the duration of the war, returning to this country in June 1919 where I was discharged July 6, 1919 at Fort DA Russell, Cheyenne, Wyoming.

"While in the armed forces in France, I was wounded and hospitalized October 5, 1918, Base 1, Vichy, France.

"I presently reside at 1515 S. W. Jefferson Street, Portland, Oregon with my wife Dawn and daughter Romaine who is 2½ years old. [1258]

"After my return from France, I was hospitalized on several occasions in the Veterans Administration Facility and held various employment up to June 1932 at which time I joined the Portland Section of the Communist Party, remaining a member in good standing until January 1939.

"During my membership in the Communist Party I was assigned to various activities in Oregon and at Washington, D. C. When I first became a member of the party in Portland, I was assigned the task of organizing a Portland Post of the Workers Ex-Service men's League, a Veterans Front Organization which had been organized at New York in 1930 under the direction and control of the Communist Party. I subsequently participated in defense activities on behalf of the party through the International Labor Defense. In April 1933 at the direction of the Section Bureau of the Portland Section of the Communist Party, I organized a United Front Conference of all Veterans Organizations which was held during the same month in the labor temple auditorium at Portland, Oregon. The purpose of this conference as stated in the call was to oppose the Economy Act which had recently been enacted. In addition to the stated purpose of the call, the question of payment of bonus and relief for all unemployed was raised and accepted by the conference. The conference also voted to support a Rank and File Convention which had been called for [1259] May, 1933 at Washington, D. C. by the Veterans National Liaison Committee, a committee composed of 5 members, two of whom were members of the New York District of the Communist Party.

"A member of the Communist Party, Portland, was sent to this aforementioned conference to give greetings in the name of the Portland Section of the Communist Party. I was delegated by the conference to organize a delegation of Rank and File Veterans to proceed to Washington, D. C. to participate in the convention which had been called there for May. Late in April, I left Portland with approximately 100 Veterans and proceeded to Washington, D. C. Stop overs were made at Spokane, Bismarck, N. D., Minneapolis, Minnesota, and Chicago, Illinois. At all stop overs, the Contingent was quartered and maintained their headquarters in halls either maintained by, or under the control of the Communist Party. In each of the cities mentioned, I contacted the leading officials of the Communist Party for the purpose of securing this support in raising finances, securing food, etc. for the furtherance of the trip to Washington. The Contingents arrived in Washington early in May and subsequently participated in the Rank and File Convention which maintained headquarters at Fort Hunt, Virginia.

"On my arrival in Washington, I reported to the Veterans National Liaison Committee at the Maryland Building, 14th and H Streets, Washington, D. C. The Maryland Building headquarters [1260] were in charge of George Brady, Edward Williams, Al Sellers, Harold Hickerson, and Emanuel Levin, the last two named being members of the Communist Party. Approximately 3,000 veterans were quartered in tents at Fort Hunt, Virginia, all tents and equipment being provided by the U. S. Government at the direction of the President of the United States.

"When the forces were organized to run the camp at Fort Hunt, I was made chairman of the camp executive committee. In the meantime Israel Amter and James Ford, members of the Central Committee of the Communist Party U.S.A. had arrived in Washington and at their direction I was attempting to make contact with all the Communist Party members quartered at Fort Hunt. I subsequently contacted approximately 30 members and organized them into what was known as a camp fraction. Later, at the direction of Amter I brought several of these members into Washington and held a conference lasting one entire evening where the policies of the party relative to the Rank and File Convention were discussed. It was stressed at this conference it was necessary for us to raise the level of our anti war activity, in the convention. Later, at the direct command of Mater I placed a resolution against war to the convention which was rejected by that body in its closing session. Also in the closing session I was elected to a National Committee to carry on the work of the convention and subsequently at a general meeting of this National Committee [1261] was elected to an Executive Committee, and at a later meeting the Executive Committee, was elected to a resident committee to remain in Washington, D. C. during the coming year, and at the first meeting of the resident committee was elected Treasurer. I remained in Washington D. C. until early in November 1933 at which time I was relieved of further duties on my own committee at my own request due to the illness of my wife and myself.

"During my stay in Washington, I not only participated in the activities of the Committee of which I was a member, but participated in the activity of the local section of the Communist Party and also served as a member of the National Arrangements Committee in organizing the first American Congress against war and Fascism which was held in New York in the autumn of 1933. Shortly after the end of the convention I received a letter from the Secretariat of the Central Committee of the Communist Party in New York enclosing a money order which directed me to come to New York immediately. On my arrival in New York I contacted Emanuel Levin and after a night spent preparing a detailed analysis of the Rank and File Convention on the following day appeared with Levin before the political bureau of the central committee of the Communist Party. The people present at this political bureau meeting were Robert Miner, Ella Reeves Bloor, Israel Amter, James Ford, Jack Stachel, Alex Bittelman, and Max Bedacht, also someone who was introduced only under the name of Brown whom I understand to be the repre- [1262] sentative of the Communist International.

"After making our report which occupied approximately two hours, and which was accepted by the political bureau, I was ordered to return to Washington, D. C. to resume my duties with the Veterans Rank and File Committee. After my return to Portland in November of 1933 I became active through the Veterans Rank and File group in the unemployed organizations, and at the direction of the Section Committee of the Communist Party, worked to bring about a Federation of all the various unemployed groups in Multnomah County.

"Sometime in December, a convention was held composed of delegates of all the unemployed groups located in Multnomah County, at which time the Multnomah County Federation of unemployed was formed. I presided as Chairman of the convention and was elected with two other party members—Dirk DeJong and William Webber to the Executive Committee of the Unemployed Federation. I also was elected Vice President at the same convention.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

I continued my work with the Multnomah County Federation of the Unemployed until the summer of 1934, always working in collaboration and under the direction of the Section Bureau of the Portland Section of the Communist Party. The Party fraction on the executive committee composed of DeJong, Webber and myself, met frequently to formulate the policies for the executive committee. From time to time general [1263] fraction meetings were held at which all members of the Communist Party who were members of the Federation were present. The purpose of these meetings was to discuss the policies of the Communist Party toward the unemployed Federation and to organize the necessary tactical maneuvers to bring these policies in force. In the early summer of 1934 at the instruction of the Section Bureau of the Portland Section of the Communist Party, I resigned from my place in the unemployed Federation in order to assume the task of building a local branch of the American League against war and Fascism. After approximately 2 months organizational work, sometime in August 1934 a convention was held in the Pythian Temple at Portland, Oregon composed of delegates from Trade Unions, Unemployed Organizations, Civic bodies, and the Communist Party. I prepared and presented the Manifesto which opened the convention.

"One of the high lights of this convention was the occurrence of the soldier in Uniform in the 7th Infantry, Vancouver Barracks, who appeared on the platform and made a speech in favor of establishing a branch of the American League against war and fascism and stressed the need of more intensive work among the armed forces in the fight against war and fascism. At the closing session, a branch of the American League against War and Fascism was established in Portland and I became a member of its executive committee. [1264]

"One other Communist and several close sympathizers of the party were elected to the executive committee. At the same time, the American League against War and Fascism played an active roll in supporting the waterfront strike which had broken out during the summer of 1934. Various arrests were made among Communist Party members on charge of criminal syndicalism. The American League members packed the court room at the preliminary hearing in the demonstration of the support of the defendants.

"I continued my activity with the American League until the Spring of 1935 at which time, at the direction of the Section Bureau of the Communist Party I returned to work among Veterans.

"At the May convention of the Portland Section of the Communist Party, I was elected to the Section Committee of the Communist Party, and subsequently was elected by the Section Committee to the Section Bureau. I continued my activity in the Rank and File Veterans Organization and assisted through this Veterans Organization, which was an affiliate of the Oregon Workers Alliance, an organization of unemployed, in building a national wide demonstration against the proposed schedule of hours and wage payments proposed on WPA. This demonstration was held Plaza Park, Portland, August 17, and was followed by a parade through the Streets of Portland. Approximately 10,000 people participated [1265] in the demonstration. This demonstration was a part of nation wide demonstration held on that same day by the Workers Alliance. In all instances the Communist Party participated in formulating the plans for the demonstrations, supplied the ideas and slogans, and did everything possible to make them a success.

"I continued my work in the Workers Alliance through the Veterans Grouping during 1935 but following out the policies of the United Front against War and Fascism as outlined by the 7th World Congress of the Communist International held in Moscow, Russia 1935. I began the disintegration of the Veterans Grouping by persuading the members they should join either the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars or Disabled American Veterans of the World War to do work inside those organizations.

"On November 15, 1935 I was employed as a Senior Research Assistant by the Federal Writers Project, Works Projects Administration. My classification was subsequently changed to that of Senior writer and I was entrusted by the Section Committee of the Communist Party with a task of organizing a local of the American Federation of Government Employees on the Federal Cultural Projects and white collar projects of the WPA.

"At the Spring convention 1936 of the Portland Section of the Communist Party I was elected to the Executive Committee and in turn elected to the Section Bureau of the Party. At the outbreak of the Spanish Civil War in the summer of 1936 I was [1266] instructed to secure all the support possible from the people employed on my project and other projects with which I had contact in the matter of financial donations and in support of the Spanish Loyalists and Recruits to go to Spain. In October of 1936 we were successful in forming a local of the American Federation of Government Employees. Acting under the instructions of the Communist Party, this local immediately became a recruiting ground and a source of financial support for the Spanish Loyalists. I continued my activity along with the other Communists who were members of the American Federation of Government Employees Local in supporting the committee for industrial organization and opposing their expulsion from the American Federation of Labor until the Spring of 1937 at which time we were refused a permanent charter by the Grand Lodge of the United Federation of Government Employees. The central task which occupied the attention of the union in the Spring and summer of 1936 was the removal of the State Director of the Writers and Historical Records Survey Project—Alfred Powers. The Union at this time had grown to a membership of approximately 200.

"After being refused the charter by the Grand Lodge of the American Federation of Government Employees on the instructions of the Section Bureau of the Communist Party, the Communist Fraction in the Executive Committee proposed that the organization affiliate the Oregon Workers Alliance. The first effort toward affiliation of membership was rejected and the union [1267] functioned as an independent organization for about 4 months during which period an intensive educational campaign was carried on in behalf of the Workers Alliance. At the end of approximately 4 months period a referendum on affiliation of the Workers Alliance was accepted by a large majority of the membership.

"In July 1937 I was dropped from the Writers Project under quota reduction and approximately two weeks later was returned to work as Senior Research Assistant on the survey of Federal Archives, where I continued my employment until March 1, 1939 at which time I resigned to enter the Veterans Bureau Hospital for a heart complication.

"During 1938 when the Communist Party naturally and logically was intensifying its support for the Spanish Loyalist, I began to have increasing difficulties relative to my ideas and disagreements with the policies of the Communist Party. To all intents and purposes, the party was attempting to use the Union of which I was a member solely as a recruiting ground and as a fund raising organization for what was termed the Spanish Loyalist Cause and this was leading to disintegration of the union. I opposed this policy and was severely censured on various occasions. Due to the development in the International situation and the policy of the party shifting, to all intents and purposes, it became in the main an instrument for carrying out the policy of the foreign office of the Soviet [1268] Union. I discontinued paying dues and attending membership meetings of the party in November 1938. In January 1939 I received notice by mail that charges had been preferred against me before the control commission of the Multnomah County Section of the Communist Party and that I was to appear to answer these charges. Subsequently, sometime in January, I was notified of my expulsion from the party and some thirty days later, which is the period allowed for appeal to the district committee of the Communist Party, and which appeal I failed to make, I was notified of my final expulsion.

"During my approximate 7 years which I spent in the Communist Party, USA, all literature, all speeches of party functionaries, and all discussions at party conventions conclusively prove that the Communist Party of the U.S. is a subsidiary of the Communist International with headquarters at Moscow USSR. The Communist International, without question, in the final analysis, is the governing body of all of the various National Sections of the Communist Party. The American Party has been affiliated to the Communist International since its organization in 1919. One or more representatives of the Communist International have constantly been maintained in the United States at the expense of the Communist International. These representatives are entrusted with the task of advising the Central Committee of the Communist Party, USA relative to such political policies as that body may formulate. This [1269] representative is also empowered to modify and change such policies as he might believe were not in accord with the current policies of the Communist International. The Communist Party of the USA designates as its highest body the National Convention which in past years was held at infrequent intervals, but which of late years has met annually, usually in New York City. Between Conventions, the National Committee which is elected at each National Convention, is designated as the highest body of the Party. However, to all effects and purposes, the political Bureau which is elected by the National Committee and all of whose members reside in New York, carry on and direct all of the political policies of the party. In addition to this Political Bureau, from the members of the Central Committee, there is elected a control commission which also reside in New York and passes on matters pertaining to party discipline. The Communist Party of the USA has been sub-divided into districts. These districts may comprise one State or more. At the head of each district there is a district committee composed of party members who have attended the yearly district convention as delegates, and who are elected by the delegates at the district convention. The district committee in turn elects a district bureau, which is usually composed of members residing at or near district headquarters. The district committee also elects district organizers. However, this district organizer must be acceptable to [1270] the National Committee, or briefly, to the political bureau of the central committee and in turn of course to the representative of the Communist International.

"The district is again subdivided into States. At the head of each State Committee would be a chairman, an executive Secretary who had been elected at a State Convention composed of various delegates from the county sections located within that State. However, again, a chairman or executive Secretary could only be elected who had been approved by the District Organizer. Next is what is termed the Basic Organization of the party which is the Unit or Branch. The Unit or Branch is composed of party members working in a particular shop, factory, industry, or located in a particular section of a city, town or country side. At the head of each Branch or Unit would be a chairman, secretary and organizer. These officers of the Branch or Unit could only be elected if they had been approved of in advance by the county executive committee or county committee.

"Many times Branches or Units are divided into smaller groups known as squads or cells. The purpose of the squad or cell would be the grouping together of all party members who are working together in a particular shop, factory, Union, or unemployed organization. The party also has an organizational form composed of fractions. The fraction is in many instances a duplication of the squad or cell. In other words, a fraction is composed of all the members located in any one particular [1271] union, mass organization, etc. The fractions do not formulate policies. Fraction Secretaries receive instructions relating to all matters of political policy from the Secretary or County Executive Committee. The fraction Secretary in turn passes these instructions on to the members of the fraction and the tactical and organizational work of the fractions is outlined accordingly.

"A top fraction meeting would be a meeting comprised of all of the fraction secretaries of the various fractions located in any particular industry or engaged in any particular strike or other form of struggle.

"From time to time world congresses representing all the National Secretaries of the Communist Party have been held in Moscow USSR. This Congress is composed of delegates elected from all of the various sections of the Communist International. The number of delegates each National Section may have is predicated on the paid up membership of that section."

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Presiding Inspector: I think we will stop here. We will recess until two o'clock.

(Whereupon, at 12:35 P.M., a recess was taken until 2:00 P.M. of the same day.) [1272]

After Recess

Presiding Inspector: You may proceed.

DAWN LOVELACE

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Direct Examination (Resumed)

Presiding Inspector: Mr. Del Guercio, I believe you were reading a document. Proceed.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will continue the reading. I believe I left off on page 8.

"It is my understanding, and I am sure the understanding of every Communist Party member who attended conventions, listened to speeches by the various leading functionaries of the party, and read the literature of the party, that the principal aim and object of the Communist Party, USA is the overthrow of the Capitalistic system and the establishment of what is termed Dictatorship of the proletariat for the purpose of building what is termed Socialism in the United States of America. While the Communist Party of the USA does not openly state this as a purpose on all occasions or is not ostensibly engaged in this particular task at all times this is the stated reason for building mass Communist Party for fighting for better conditions such as shorter hours, higher wages, more relief to the unemployed, and all of the other demands raised in the various strug- [1273] gles organized by or under the leadership of the Communist Party. These demands are what are termed temporary demands or aims, and they are brought forward solely for the purpose of increasing the membership of the Communist Party and establishing the Communist Party as the leader of the working class and its allies. The contention of the Communist Party, USA, and the Communist International as well, is that in all capitalistic societies there is a class struggle constantly widening in scope and that the historical role of all sections of the Communist Party is to revolve that class struggle by the over throw of capitalism and the establishment of socialism. I have never heard it contended in any literature or by any speaker of the Communist Party that this could be accomplished by any other means than by force and violence. While the Communist Party does not hesitate to use the ballot in order to get before the electroate of the country in order to bring forward its program and its temporary demands, this is regarded as only a make-shift at the best, and further is only another means of building the influence and membership of the Communist Party.

"The Communist Party is prepared whenever necessary to use either legal or illegal means to gain its ends. In the event a member of the Communist party is required to make a statement under oath in court or otherwise, whether in his own defense or in defense of some other member of the Communist Party, he is instructed that he is to pay no attention to requirements of the [1274] oath and make such statements as will best further the interests of the Communist Party.

"The Communist Party, USA, does not believe that revolution in the United States is imminent. It feels that the United States is a stronghold of world capitalism and has a good deal of ability to survive for a long period of time. It does believe, however, with the continual sharpening of contradictions within the capital structure of the country, that in the event of war over a long period of time, that if the Communist Party has placed itself securely in the leadership of, and in dominance over, the main strata of workers and particularly those in heavy industries, and also has made a considerable penetration into the armed forces of the country, that it would be possible due to the disillusionment of people at war to bring about the early overthrow of the American System of Government.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

"The main or concentration points of the Communists in securing membership is first in what is termed the heavy industries, particularly that of transportation and in this particular period, also the various armed forces, such as the regular army, Navy, National Guard, Citizens' Military Training Camps, etc.

"To the best of my recollection, I was first introduced to Harry Bridges near the corner of 3rd and Alder Streets in Portland, Oregon by Harry L. Gross, Attorney at Law, now deceased. Fur- [1275] ther, to the best of my recollection, this introduction took place some time in the Autum of 1934.

"Although in the following months I had occasion to read about Harry Bridges in the Press many times, to hear about him many times through party channels, I had no further direct contact with him until August 16, 1935 at which time he came to my apartment at 1515 S. W. Jefferson Street in Portland, Oregon in the company of Hugh Adams, member of the Waterfront Unit of the Portland Section of the Communist Party. Two other people were with Bridges and Adams, both, according to my understanding, members of the Maritime Federation in San Francisco. One was introduced to me under the name of Starr.

The other's name I have forgotten.

"Bridges at this time had just returned by airplane from Washington, DC where he had appeared as a witness before the Maritime Commission hearing, and was enroute to his home in San Francisco. The announced purpose of the call of Bridges and Adams to my apartment was that they were seeking James A. Murphy, then Section Organizer, Portland Section of the Communist Party. Murphy was a resident of the same apartment house where I lived. They had been unable to locate Murphy due to the fact he was away from home at the time of their call. They remained during the remainder of the evening in my apartment waiting for Murphy's return, the time merely being occupied by Bridges dictating his report on the Maritime hearings to Dawn [1276] Lovelace, my wife.

Shortly after midnight, Murphy arrived and almost immediately a discussion was entered into in which we all participated relative to the current situation on the waterfront in San Francisco. While I can not remember the details of this conversation, it hinged around the fact that Bridges believed that the waterfront employers in San Francisco were going to attempt to lock out the waterfront workers. A discussion was held around the position of the Communist Party toward this problem, and finally as a result of the discussion, some time early in the morning, Bridges and Murphy went out presumably to send a telegram to Henry Schmidt, President of the Longshoremen&s local in San Francisco outlining the tactics that the longshoremen were to pursue in order to prevent the waterfront employers from locking them out.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

"I think it could be safely assumed that it was taken for granted that all of the people present in my apartment at the previously mentioned meeting were members of the Communist Party.

"Sometime subsequent to the meeting with Bridges in my apartment, James Murphy, Section Organizer, Portland Section, Communist Party informed me in private discussion that it was wise for all party members to stay away from Bridges; that he was too hot and the employers were after him and it might help the employers get him.

"I only had occasion to see Bridges twice after the meeting [1277] in my apartment—one time to pass him on 3rd Street near Salmon in Portland, Oregon, and to just say "Hello" and go on by; the other time was to listen to him present his side of a controversy in the Auditorium of the Labor Temple in Portland, Oregon.

"In addition to the foregoing, without any concrete evidence, such as attending a party meeting which had been called for a specific purpose, or seeing a membership book issued to Harry Bridges under his own name or alias, I was so firmly convinced due to the closeness with which Bridges worked with the party due to the manner in which his attitude and work was approved by the party, that had Bridges appeared at the most secret meeting of any grouping of the Communist Party wherein I was serving as door keeper and asked for admission, I would have unhesitatingly admitted him to that meeting.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

"I have dictated this statement of my own volition without any coercion and without any promise of remuneration, monetary award, or other inducement.

(Signed) R. L. LOVELACE." [1278]

Mr. Del Guercio: Your Honor, I understand that this is being introduced, of course, as the statement of Mr. R. L. Lovelace, deceased.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I have here—they have just been laid on the desk—photostatic copies of the Post Office rental.

Do you want to see them?

Mr. Gladstein: The same ones that you had reference to this morning?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: Weren't there several other pages, Mr. Del Guercio?

Mr. Del Guercio: There were several pages underneath the first one, but they haven't furnished those and I don't know whether I asked for them. I don't recall at this time whether I did or not. I don't believe they are important, in any event, unless you want them.

Mr. Gladstein: No; I simply wanted to ask if this was the complete set of documents to which you have reference and which the record shows were introduced.

Mr. Grossman: This is all you intended to introduce?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I am willing to stipulate this is all we had reference to.

Presiding Inspector: Anything further from the witness?

Direct Examination (Resumed)

By Mr. Del Guercio: [1279]

Q. Mrs. Lovelace, while serving on the Voice of Action did you receive any special instructions from Lowell Wakefield regarding particularly building the Maritime Federation of the Pacific under Bridges' leadership? A. Yes, I did.

Q. And what were those instructions?

A. During that summer the Voice of Action, the Portland Bureau of the Voice of Action was located in the McKay Building in Portland, and in the next office the American Radio Telegraphers Association was located, the Portland Local. And during the course of building and consolidating the Maritime Federation I was instructed to cultivate and win the confidence of the Secretary of the American Radio Telegraphers Association in order to break down his resistance to Harry Bridges—he had been quite an opponent of Harry Bridges—to break it down in order to win his support for the Bridges' Presidency of the Maritime Federation.

Q. And who gave you those instructions?

A. Lowell Wakefield and James Couer.

Q. I believe you have previously testified that Lowell Wakefield was a member of the Communist Party at that time? A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Was on the District Committee of the Communist Party, is that correct?

A. Yes, he was, that is true. [1280]

Q. And that Mr. Couer was also a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, he was.

Q. Have you ever been arrested, Mrs. Lovelace?

A. I have on one occasion.

Q. On one occasion. When was that?

A. In 19—in November 1933.

Q. And what for?

A. I believe the charge was—first was disorderly conduct and then changed to obstructing traffic. It was in the course of an unemployed demonstration. That was shortly after we returned from Washington, D. C., when Mr. Lovelace——

Q. (Interposing) Shortly after you and your husband returned from Washington, D. C.?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you ever been on relief, Mrs. Lovelace?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. For what period of time?

A. In Portland from—well, we were certified for relief, in order to be on WPA. We were on relief much of the time we were participating in this activity.

Q. And you are now the sole support of yourself and your child? A. I am.

Q. And you are working on what sort of a Project? [1281] A. Writers' Project.

Q. Writers' Project?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. Yes. I believe that I will receive a pension, however, as a result of my husband's death.

Q. A pension as a widow of a world war veteran?

A. As a widow of a world war veteran who died as a result of injuries received while in active service.

Q. It hasn't come through yet? A. No.

Mr. Del Guercio: You may cross examine.

Presiding Inspector: Just a minute. I would like to ask a few questions.

What is your education?

The Witness: High School and some University Extension.

Presiding Inspector: And can you tell us in substance what you said to the men in your house in remonstrance against his bringing Mr. Bridges there? Try to put yourself back to the time and tell us what you said if you can.

The Witness: Well, we were standing at the door, as I recall it, and I turned to Hugh Adams and asked him why he brought Bridges to our apartment. As I recall, I made some rather elliptical reference to the fact that we were pretty well labeled.

Presiding Inspector: Referring to being known as Communists?

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: And to this you don't remember that [1282] he made any reply?

The Witness: No, I don't. I think he smiled.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Presiding Inspector: You may object to this if you wish.

Mr. Gladstein: We have no objection.

Presiding Inspector: What was the reason that you made this remark of remonstrance?

The Witness: Well, because I felt that for Harry Bridges to be seen at our apartment, had other people dropped in at our apartment at the same time, it would have placed his reputation and his work in jeopardy.

Presiding Inspector: If I am not right about this you correct me—you thought at the time it wasn't well for him to be known as associating with Communists?

The Witness: Yes. That is true. As a matter of fact, your Honor, James Murphy, and other leading members of the Communist Party, had warned us not to associate with Mr. Bridges, particularly in public. That same condition applied to various Communists and leaders in trade union work.

Presiding Inspector: I asked about your knowledge of the circumstances recited in your husband's statement. Of course, some of those occurred elsewhere, and when you said that you knew about them you didn't refer to those, but you were referring to those that happened right about you; or else that you knew them from what your husband had told you?

The Witness: Indirectly—I was with my husband all of [1283] the time.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Presiding Inspector: You were? Did you go to Washington with him?

The Witness: I was with him in Washington, D. C.

Presiding Inspector: I think I have asked questions which left matters somewhat hanging, and I have tried to merely elucidate them.

Mr. Gladstein: We have no objection to that.

Cross Examination

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mrs. Lovelace, proceeding from where Judge Sears left off, would it be correct to say that despite yourself being ill at ease and rebuking Mr. Adams, that Mr. Bridges seemed to feel at ease?

A. Yes, I believe Mr. Bridges was at ease.

Q. Now, is there anything that enables you to fix the date when this incident occurred?

A. Yes; the fact that it was during the week of the 1935 Oregon State Federation of Labor Convention, and immediately preceding the demonstration of August 17, 1935.

Q. Do you recall what time in the evening Mr. Bridges came to your apartment?

A. I believe it was between 8:00 and 9:00.

Q. Do you remember what you were doing before you answered the door?

A. I was writing. [1284]

Q. You weren't typing, but were writing?

A. I was composing on the typewriter.

Q. Do you remember what you were composing?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. I don't remember exactly, but no doubt it was copy for the Voice of Action, Western Worker and Daily Worker.

Q. Now, after Mr. Bridges and Mr. Adams had come to the apartment, did Mr. Adams tell you what they had come for?

A. He asked for Matt Meehan. He said they were looking for Matt Meehan. Part of my rebuke was wondering why they should be looking for Matt Meehan in our apartment. There was no reason for it.

Q. Did he mention that Mr. Bridges had a desire to have some typing done, some notes?

A. He didn't mention it at the time. In fact, mention of the typing came in an off-hand way later.

Q. How late did Mr. Bridges stay there?

A. Until after midnight. It was quite late, in fact. As I recall, my husband objected to the lateness of the hour, and Mr. Bridges made some remark about, "You ought to see the way we do it in San Francisco. We sit up all night."

Q. When you say your husband objected, at what point did he object?

A. He wanted to go to bed.

Q. I didn't ask why. At what point did he do that? A. Oh, shortly before they left.

Q. Were you still typing Mr. Bridges' notes up at that [1285] time?

A. Possibly not. I think I was through with that. I am not sure, but I think I made an extra copy.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Was it a long report?

A. It was quite long; yes.

Q. That is the one you made for Mr. Bridges?

A. Yes.

Q. And did he dictate it or did he have notes composed, or what?

A. He had notes from which he was reading and I think he used the notes to refresh his memory and dictated.

Q. Did you take his dictation directly on the typewriter? A. Yes, I did.

Q. How long a report, according to your best recollection, was this when it was completed?

A. I think there were about four pages single space typing.

Q. Do you remember anything about the subject matter of the report?

A. Just vaguely. It had to do with a meeting with O'Grady, I believe, in Washington, D. C.

Q. Mr. O'Grady?

A. Yes. Much of the conversation during the evening had dealt with that meeting, and also with the District Committee Meeting, the ILA District Executive Committee Meeting.

Q. International Longshoremen's Association?

[1286]

A. Yes.

Q. It covered Union affairs, is that right?

A. Yes.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. That is, the Longshoremen's Union?

A. Yes.

Q. A few moments ago you said, I believe, in answer to one of Judge Sears' questions, that one of the reasons that you gave this rebuke to Mr. Adams was that at some prior time Mr. Murphy had warned you and your husband to not associate with Mr. Bridges? A. Yes; that is true.

Q. Were you with your husband at the time this warning was given by Mr. Murphy?

A. It was also passed on to me.

Q. I say, were you with your husband at the time Mr. Murphy gave that warning?

A. No, I don't believe I was with him at the time of any definite instructions.

Q. Was it passed on to you by your husband?

A. It was passed on to me by my husband and by others.

Q. This was prior to the time that Mr. Adams and Mr. Bridges came to your house?

A. Yes; and afterwards.

Q. Can you name all of the people who were present in your apartment immediately after Mr. Bridges and Mr. Adams arrived? [1287]

A. My husband, Richard Lovelace, and myself, Hugh Adams and Harry Bridges, and this fellow Starr and one person whom I don't remember.

Q. Later in the evening I think you said Mr. Murphy came in? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he walk in uninvited or did someone go to seek him?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. My husband went to locate him and found him not at home and left a note.

Q. Do you recall at all how the question of Mr. Murphy came into being invited to come to your party came up?

A. No, I don't recall exactly. It arose spontaneously. There was no incident to fix it in my mind.

Q. You don't recall who suggested it?

A. No.

Q. When would you say with respect to the time when Mr. Bridges left, that is, with respect to when he left, how long before that did Mr. Murphy come into your apartment?

A. I think it must have been as late as 1:30 or 2:00 o'clock before they left, and it was around midnight that James Murphy came in.

Q. When you say "before they left", referring to "they" do you refer to Mr. Adams, Mr. Starr, Mr. Bridges and the other man who was with him?

[1288]

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, I am not sure just what your testimony on this was. Is it your testimony that Mr. Bridges was receiving instructions of any kind from your husband and from Mr. Murphy on this question of the telegram to send to San Francisco?

A. No, that was not my testimony; I wouldn't say that. Mr. Bridges was conferring with Mr. Murphy and with my husband participating, in the question of the content of this telegram.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Do you remember what the subject matter of the telegram was?

A. I don't remember exactly, no.

Q. Are you sure that it was to be addressed to Mr. Schmidt?

A. I couldn't be too dogmatic about that; I think it was: the same Schmidt entered the conversation.

Q. At that time your husband was a member of a trade Union? A. No, he was not.

Q. Had he ever held a trade union position?

A. What is that?

Q. Had he ever held a trade union position of any kind?

A. Well, not within recent years. He had earlier when he was working for the—I believe the Southern Pacific. I think he was an officer in the Railway Clerks. [1289]

Q. How long prior to 1935 was that?

A. Oh, that must have been in the twenties; it was before I knew him.

Q. You said that Mr. Adams was a member of the Communist Party. Do you know that of your own knowledge?

A. Yes, I know it of my own knowledge.

Q. What is that knowledge?

A. The knowledge is the method of working with him, the fact that I was told by the Communist functionary in charge of trade union work on the waterfront that Hugh Adams would be the contact, Hugh Adams relationship between me and the ILA activities.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Now, what was this method of working that you have mentioned?

A. That is rather a general question.

Q. Well, you referred to—you used the expression—you said in answer to my question as to what constituted your knowledge, you said "My method of working with Mr. Adams." I think that is the expression you used. What did you mean by that expression?

A. Do you want a specific instance?

Q. Well, can you answer it generally first? If you can't, you might say so.

A. Well, for instance, I would receive information to [1290] be reported in The Voice of Action from Hugh Adams.

Q. To be reported in The Voice of what?

A. Yes, The Voice of Action, this paper that I was associated with.

Q. Yes. You would receive information from Mr. Adams?

A. Yes, relative to union activities.

Q. Yes.

A. And he formed the original or the initial contact with Matt Meehan, introduced me to Matt Meehan.

Q. Who was Matt Meehan at that time?

A. Matt Meehan was a member of the Executive Board of the ILA. I don't recall just what position. Oh, he was a dispatcher, that is right.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Is that a position of importance?

A. What is that?

Q. Was it a position of importance?

A. Considerably.

Q. That is, was he both dispatcher and on the Executive Board, or was he on the Executive Board by virtue of being a dispatcher, do you know?

A. I couldn't say as to that. I only know he was a dispatcher.

Q. When you say the ILA do you mean what was known as the Pacific Coast District of the ILA? Do you know?

A. Well, I suppose the Portland Local was a part of the [1291] Pacific Coast District.

Q. Do you know whether Mr. Meehan at that time was a district officer, that is, a district officer by virtue of that dispatcher's position?

A. No, I don't believe he was.

Q. You said that you don't recall how the question of Mr. Murphy came up, when it did Mr. Bridges seemed to be agreeable. Do you remember anything that was said in that connection?

A. No, I don't remember anything of any moment. The question of Mr. Murphy, as I say, came up spontaneously. There was no discussion about it particularly.

Q. Do you recall anything that was discussed prior to the mention of Mr. Murphy being made?

A. Yes, there was considerable discussion of Mr. Bridges' experiences in Washington, his relationship with what constituted the opposition to his policy in the Maritime Unions, and one comment that Mr. Bridges made was that while he was on the East Coast he noticed that—I don't recall that he even used the term Communist Party—I don't believe he did—but that they sent YCL—Young Communist League girls out on the waterfront to contact longshoremen and seamen, and he spoke of it—made the comment with considerable disgust. [1292]

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Would it be correct to say that he was discussing in an off-hand or social manner his recent experiences in the East? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, just before the close of the direct examination Mr. Del Guercio asked you about some instructions that you had received with respect to breaking down, through the medium of The Voice of Action, certain opposition to Mr. Bridges in the Maritime Federation. A. Yes, sir. [1293]

Q. I didn't get the names of the people, or the name of the person who gave you those instructions. Do you care to repeat those?

Mr. Del Guercio: Do you want the reporter——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) It is shorter to simply ask it now.

Presiding Inspector: It is repetition but it is all right.

A. Lowell Wakefield and James Couer both instructed me.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. When did this occur?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. Oh, it occurred over a period of time. It was—you understand that these things don't occur in static meetings or formal meetings.

Q. Well, beginning—

A. Well, it occurred as soon as it was discovered that we were next door to the ARTA crowd.

Q. Well, when was that? A. How is that?

Q. When was that?

A. It must have been in May. I think we took The Voice of Action office—established The Voice of Action office in May of 1935. [1294]

Q. That is in May of 1935? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then, would you say that your first instructions with respect to attempting, through the medium of The Voice of Action, to break down opposition to Mr. Bridges in the Maritime Federation of the Pacific came in May 1935 or shortly thereafter?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was the person in the ARTA with whom you were supposed or for whom you were supposed to do some work?

The Witness: Your Honor, I hesitate to answer that. Could I explain the circumstances?

Presiding Inspector: Yes, I have no objection to your explaining.

The Witness: This Secretary of the ARTA has been very ill. I don't know him to be still alive, and his wife, however, is still alive, and if it isn't necessary I would rather not mention their names.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, exactly what were you supposed to do with this person anyway?

A. Oh, talk matters over with him, win his friendship and confidence, and previously he had been very outspoken in his resentment of Harry Bridges. One remark he made was [1295] that the Maritime Federation was just a tail to Bridges' kite, and another remark that he made was that he was afraid that the Federal Government, if the Maritime Federation continued, that the Federal Government would take over the Merchant Marine, and I don't know how much validity there was to his opinion but his opposition to Harry Bridges was based on such a concept.

Q. Do you recall whether he mentioned to you—I will withdraw that.

First of all, these remarks that you attribute to him, they were made to you, were they?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Incidentally, the ARTA you are referring to, that is the American Radio Telegraphers Association?

A. Yes, that is true. I believe it has since expanded and became the American Communications Association.

Q. Now, you say you received instructions to—you used the phrase "work on him": is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you proceeded to do so?

A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. It was in the course of that that this gentleman made such remarks to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And so these conversations with him would have [1296] occurred in or shortly after May, 1935; correct?

A. Yes, that is about right. I hadn't met this gentleman prior to May, 1935.

Q. Now, this person in the ARTA on whom you were working, did he occupy an important position?

A. He was Secretary of the Local.

Q. That is the Local of the ARTA?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he hold a position in the Federation?

A. Yes, he was a member of the Columbia River District Council, Executive Committee.

Q. That is, he would be an important person in the Maritime Federation?

A. Yes. The understanding that I received was that he pretty much swung the balance of power in the Columbia River District Council.

Q. Did he express to you any particular issues on which he was in disagreement with Mr. Bridges?

A. No, except the Maritime Federation generally. I don't recall any specific issues that he discussed with me; he may have.

Q. When you say "generally" what do you mean?

A. He objected to the idea of a Maritime Federation.

Q. Oh! And would it be correct to say that his [1297] opposition, his outspoken opposition made to you of Mr. Bridges in connection with the Federation was that he charged that the Federation was under the domination of the Mr. Bridges?

A. That was that, and he was also suspicious of Communists.

Q. Was The Voice of Action pretty generally known as a Communist paper?

A. Well, I see no reason why it could fool people.

Q. I think you said you were pretty open in your Communist views? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Despite those facts you were assigned to work on a man who was suspicious of Communists, is that correct? A. That is true.

Q. And this man from the ARTA, would it be correct to say that he was a man upon whom Bridges did not have any influence?

A. Yes, I gathered that he didn't listen to Harry Bridges a great deal at first. I also gathered that he became quite a follower of Harry Bridges afterwards.

Q. Later on? A. Yes, sir.

Q. But at that time he was not?

A. No. [1298]

Q. Would you say that his change toward Harry Bridges was due in any part to your work with him?

A. I believe so. We became quite good friends.

Q. Are you a citizen, Mrs. Lovelace?

A. I am.

Q. By birth or naturalization?

A. By birth.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Now, I think you said you were present when Mr. Lovelace signed the statement that Mr. Del Guercio had you read today? A. I was.

Q. Either at that time, or before or after, did you make any statement of a similar character?

A. Yes; I made a statement afterwards.

Q. Afterwards?

A. In fact, Mr. Robey and Mr. Coulter were present in my apartment at my invitation.

Q. How long afterward would you say?

A. A short time afterward, two or three days.

Q. So your statement came after you had read your husband's statement?

A. Yes; but we had discussed the matter at great length before.

Q. Before he had made his statement?

A. We always worked together. [1299]

Q. Did you agree pretty much in your recollections as you had discussed this thing, as to what had happened the night Mr. Bridges came to your apartment?

A. We agreed on the basic facts because basic facts are basic facts. We disagreed on some of the details. I think you will notice some disparity between my husband's statement and my testimony. The question of Matt Meehan was one point of disagreement.

Q. Would it be correct to say that the first time that you saw agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in connection with this case was on one or more of the occasions when they were obtaining a statement from your husband?

A. Yes, that is true.

Q. And subsequently you saw FBI Agents in connection with the taking of your statement?

A. Yes, that is true.

Q. After they had taken your statement did you have occasion to see FBI Agents any more after that?

A. Oh, yes, on occasions; particularly at the time of my husband's illness, death.

Q. Any other occasion?

A. Yes. I think Mr. Robey and Mr. Coulter—I think I visited them on the two or three occasions in the course of their visits to Portland, in the course of their investigation.

Q. Could you briefly define, or refer to the various [1300] separate occasions on which you met with FBI Agents, either at your home, or at their offices, or anywhere else—could you simply say, "The first time was this," briefly, and "The next time was this," and so on?

A. Well, the first time was when I turned my statement—after their visit to my apartment—when I turned my statement over to them.

Another occasion was when they asked if it would be possible to fix the date more specifically. We visited them one evening, both myself and my husband.

Q. Did you make another statement on that occasion? A. No.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. You made only one statement?

A. One statement.

Q. When was the next time?

A. I don't recall that I saw Mr. Robey and Mr. Coulter at all after that.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, may I object to this line of questioning? I don't think it is important or of any value how many times the FBI Agents visited her unless they have something in back of their mind.

Presiding Inspector: They probably have. I will take it. This is cross examination.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. On any of the occasions when you met with FBI Agents, [1301] Mrs. Lovelace, were there any people present, outside of yourself, your husband, and the Agents? A. No.

Q. On any occasion?

A. No, I don't believe so.

Q. Was it possible there might have been someone and you don't recall it?

A. I am quite sure we never met with them when anybody else was present.

Q. Was any other person present, to your best recollection at any time on any of these occasions?

A. No.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, that has been asked and answered.

Presiding Inspector: I think she has answered that. She has answered again now.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Could you state how many times in all you spoke with FBI Agents concerning your testimony in this case?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that. That has been asked and answered before.

Presiding Inspector: If you can answer anything further you may do so, if you recall.

A. No more than four. I don't believe there were that many. [1302]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Give it some thought, if you will, and see if you can remember.

Presiding Inspector: I didn't hear that.

Mr. Gladstein: First she said four, and then she said she thought, didn't believe it was that many. I wanted her to give it some thought.

The Witness: I said it was no more than four.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You think it was four? A. Yes.

Q. Would you describe the first one?

A. The first meeting?

Q. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that. It has already been done.

Presiding Inspector: I thought she had answered that.

Mr. Gladstein: I don't think so. She has described the first occasion.

Mr. Del Guercio: The record will show she has.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Presiding Inspector: You mean when she talked over the statement first?

Mr. Gladstein: The record is not clear as to where the first occasion was, and who the people were, or even when it occurred. [1303]

Presiding Inspector: If you can answer you may.

A. The first occasion I met FBI Agents was in my apartment in my home.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. When was that?

A. That was, I believe, in September, and they came at my invitation relayed by my husband.

Q. That is, you asked your husband to invite them?

A. Yes. As long as my husband had given a statement to the FBI, why it was agreeable with me that I should corroborate his statement.

Q. What was the next time?

A. That was on Thursday night; and on Saturday morning I went to the local field office of the FBI and saw Mr. Robey and Mr. Coulter and turned over to them a typewritten statement.

Q. You typed it up? A. Yes, I did.

Q. At your house? A. Yes.

Q. And you turned it over to them?

A. I did.

Q. Did you sign it in their presence?

A. I did.

Q. Was anybody else present besides yourself and the Agents?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. My husband was present part of the time.

[1304]

Q. And no one else?

A. No one else.

Q. Now, that constitutes what, the first or the second time when you actually saw the FBI agents?

A. The second time.

Q. When was the third time?

A. Oh, there was one occasion when we met informally in Manning's, Manning's Coffee Shop. Mr. Coulter came in with my husband, and a group of us were having coffee there.

Q. Do you remember who was in the group?

A. I don't think that is material.

Q. You do recall, but you don't want to name them?

A. I see no reason for involving people who are not——.

Q. (Interposing) Did these people who were in the group participate at all in the discussion?

A. Oh, we discussed various phases of life around us.

Q. Oh, no—I mean the discussion with the FBI agents.

A. It wasn't a formal discussion.

Q. Was it an informal discussion of the Bridges case?

A. The Bridges case entered into it; yes.

Q. Now, who were the people who were in that group?

A. How is that?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Who were the people who were in that group, please?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please——

Presiding Inspector: I think you may answer.

Mr. Del Guercio: She said there was no discussion about [1305] the Bridges case.

Presiding Inspector: She said the Bridges matter entered into the discussion, as I understand it.

The Witness: Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will withdraw my objection.

Presiding Inspector: She said the Bridges matter entered into the discussion and that is why she may give the names if she can.

A. Mr. Foss, Ed Foss, happened into Manning's when we were sitting there.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Who else?

A. My husband, myself, and Mr. Coulter.

Q. Who else was in the group to which Mr. Coulter and your husband came?

A. That is all there was.

Q. Well, I understood you to say that you were in Manning's with a group of people, and that Mr. Coulter and Mr. Lovelace happened into Manning's and saw you and this group of people, isn't that correct?

A. I had been with a group of people; I don't know whether you know Manning's in Portland or not. It is sort of a place where people sit down and somebody will drop in and talk a while and then somebody will leave.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. When you said "group" did you mean that word to refer [1306] only to Mr. Foss?

A. Well, I think we just about filled a booth. I think that those of us present constituted a group.

Q. This was before Mr. Coulter and Mr. Lovelace came in the restaurant, wasn't it?

A. No, I don't believe—I had been with some people and I believe Mr. Lovelace, my husband, and Mr. Coulter came in and sat down at the booth with me. Later Ed Foss came in.

Q. Well, which is the group that was discussing the Bridges case?

A. We discussed it informally.

Q. When you say "we" to whom do you refer?

A. We people that I just named.

Q. All right. When was the next time that you spoke to any FBI Agent concerning your statement, or testimony in the Bridges case?

A. I believe the next time was when we discussed the matter of whether or not we could fix the date definitely.

Q. Where did that occur?

A. In the FBI office.

Q. And who was present on that occasion?

A. My husband, myself, Mr. Robey and Mr. Coulter.

Q. Anybody else? A. Nobody else.

Q. Has there been any occasion since that time when you spoke to any FBI agent concerning your testimony, or your state- [1307] ment, or anybody else's testimony in this case?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. No, I don't believe so, except in the course of preparation to come down to San Francisco.

Q. Do you mean since you came to San Francisco or before?

A. Before I came to San Francisco. It was after I had been served with a subpoena.

Q. Where were you served with a subpoena?

A. At home.

Q. What took place on that occasion?

A. Not very much. An agent of the Immigration Department, whom I had never met before, came to the Apartment and told me he had a subpoena for me, and that is about all.

Q. That is all that happened then?

A. Yes.

Q. I was asking you whether there was any occasion, after the one that you described where you were asked to come to the FBI offices and think about the question of specifying the date, I was asking whether subsequent to that there was any occasion on which you discussed your statement, or your testimony, or anybody else's testimony in this case?

Presiding Inspector: Whatever occurred, you don't want to infer that you made an accurate statement about what occurred, but that was merely for identification?

Mr. Gladstein: For identification. I am not doing any [1308] testifying.

Presiding Inspector: You made certain statements in there as to what occurred.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Mr. Gladstein: Let me clear it up.

Presiding Inspector: That is merely for identification.

Mr. Gladstein: That is right.

Presiding Inspector: There was some discussion about the date, and they asked if you could fix it more definitely. Did you have any further conversation with Government agents or agencies?

The Witness: Yes. I had some conversations with Mr. King, of the FBI, in Portland.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Was this after the time when you were asked to come up to the FBI office and go over the question of specifying the exact date?

A. Yes.

Q. By the way, could you possibly fix the date of that occasion when you were asked to go to the FBI office in connection with this date?

A. No, I don't believe I could.

Q. Any idea at all?

A. There is nothing to fix the date by.

Q. Since that time you say you discussed the matter with Mr. King?

A. Not the Bridges case; no. [1309]

Q. Well, what did you discuss?

Mr. Del Guercio: Now if the Court please, she said she didn't discuss the Bridges case. Certainly counsel don't want to go into any other matter she may have discussed.

Presiding Inspector: No.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. All I want, Mrs. Lovelace, is the occasions on which you discussed with any representatives of the Government, or anybody else who may have been present, either your statement to the FBI in this case or the testimony that you were to give in this case, or the testimony or statement of anybody else to be given in this case. You understand the question, don't you?

A. Yes, I understand it. I believe you have it.

Q. And you mentioned Mr. King. Is that one of the occasions?

A. We didn't discuss the Bridges case as such, no.

Q. Why did you mention Mr. King then?

A. Because I saw Mr. King before I came down here to receive instructions from him as to how I should conduct myself, about transportation—just routine procedure.

Q. Is he the last person you saw representing the Government in connection with this case before coming down here? A. Yes.

Q. Let me take you back for a moment to the time when you were in Manning's. You say Mr. Foss dropped in and sat [1310] down and had coffee with you, Mr. Coulter, and your husband, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Is Mr. Foss a friend of yours?

A. I met him during the election campaign last year, November 1940, October or November.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Was he a friend of your husband's?

A. He was a political friend, of course, of the democratic election campaign.

Q. And since you met him has he been a friend of yours? A. Yes; casually.

Q. Were any introductions made on this occasion at Manning's? A. Yes.

Q. Who introduced whom?

A. I believe my husband introduced Mr. Coulter and Mr. Foss, and they then didn't recall that I had already met Mr. Foss and asked if we were acquainted. I had met Mr. Foss just once before.

Q. Did Mr. Lovelace introduce Mr. Coulter as a representative of the FBI?

A. No, I don't believe so. We were having a cup of coffee and nobody was on official business.

Q. Do you know what he said in making the introduction?

A. I think he said "Mr. Coulter, meet Mr. Foss," or words [1311] to that effect.

Q. Have you ever talked to Mr. Adams about the testimony to be given in this case?

A. Yes, I have; rather, Mr. Adams talked to me.

Q. On how many occasions did you have such a discussion? A. Once.

Q. Where did it occur?

A. Partly in my apartment, and partly in Manning's Restaurant.

Q. Was anybody else present in either of those places on the occasion of this discussion?

A. Mr. Adams came to my apartment to tell me, or to tell us, rather, he was looking for both me and my husband—my husband didn't happen to be home at the time—and he wanted to know, that is, he told me he had been approached by two Agents of the FBI, and he said that he had given them a statement and he wanted us to back him up.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Back him up on the statement?

A. Yes.

Q. You mean to verify the contents?

A. Yes. And I told him that it was impossible for me to do so; that I saw no reason why I should commit perjury, or involve myself in something for the sake of something I didn't believe in.

Mr. Del Guercio: I didn't get the last answer to that. May I have the reporter read it, please?

Presiding Inspector: Read it, Mr. Reporter.

[1312]

(The answer referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, I don't quite understand. I will ask that——

Presiding Inspector: Go back and read a number of questions and answers previous to the last answer.

(That portion of the record referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Mr. Gladstein: On the occasion that you made that remark to Mr. Adams had he shown you his statement to the FBI?

A. No. He told me he had made one. He told me he had made a statement. I suggested that he wanted to see both my husband and me, and I suggested we talk down town—I had an appointment to meet my husband in Manning's—and I suggested we walk down town and see him. I informed Mr. Adams that I couldn't back up his statement; that I didn't feel justified in it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, how did you know on that occasion what was in the statement?

A. Because Mr. Adams told me.

Q. Told you what?

A. What his statement—the content of his statement. [1313]

Q. Did you ever actually see the statement?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Where did you see it?

A. In the FBI office.

Q. When was that?

A. When I went out with Mr. Adams.

Q. When was that?

A. I went with Mr. Adams to Mr. Robey and Mr. Coulter.

Q. Why didn't you mention this visit with Mr. Adams to the FBI offices before when I was asking you for all the occasions?

A. You won't believe this: It hadn't occurred to me.

Q. All right. Tell us what happened at the time that you and Mr. Adams were in the offices of the FBI?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. Well, I told Mr. Robey and Mr. Coulter that I understood that Mr. Adams had made a statement.

Q. You told them that?

A. Yes, sir. I think Mr. Adams opened the conversation and—oh, I don't recall just how the conversation developed, but the content of it was—the general content was that Mr. Adams' statement was in error.

Q. Who made that statement?

A. How is that?

Q. Who made that statement that his statement was in error? [1314]

A. I don't recall that anybody made it specifically.

Presiding Inspector: She said that is her present interpretation of it.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

The Witness: Mr. Adams admitted his statement was in error.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did he change it? A. Yes, he did.

Q. In his own hand?

A. Well, he didn't change it in writing; he simply negated it.

Q. Was another statement made for him?

A. What is that?

Q. Was another statement made for him?

A. I don't know whether it was or not. I didn't inquire into it; I don't know what happened after that.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Did he mention how he happened to be wrong?

A. You mean why he happened to be wrong or——

Q. Well, did he mention first of all in what respects the statement he had given was wrong?

A. His statement was wrong in the period, both the year and the date. I believe he had Bridges' visit to our apartment in 1937. The purpose of the visit, what occurred at the visit, all were in variance with the facts, with the [1315] facts.

Q. Did he say that?

A. Well, he admitted as much, yes.

Q. When you say "he admitted as much"——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Oh, I think her answer is perfectly clear.

Just read the question and answer.

(The question and answer referred to were read by the reporter.)

Presiding Inspector: Now, that is her statement as to not what he said, but what she now says.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I want to ask you this: Are you now saying that Mr. Adams on this occasion, when you and Mr. Adams and the two FBI Agents were present at the FBI offices, that Mr. Adams admitted that his statement previously given to the FBI was wrong in the particulars that you mentioned?

Presiding Inspector: Now, are you asking her as to what she said, or are you asking her as to what she now testifies to?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking her now whether Mr. Adams did say these things.

Presiding Inspector: I didn't so understand your question. I may be wrong about it. How does the question start? [1316]

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

Presiding Inspector: You see, you are asking her——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) I will withdraw that part of the question "Are you now saying."

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Is it your testimony on the occasion referred to in the last question, Mrs. Lovelace, Mr. Adams, in your presence, admitted the statement he had previously given to the FBI was wrong in the particulars that you have testified? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Namely, date, purpose of visit to your house and what took place on the occasion of that visit?

A. Yes, that is true.

Q. And what, if anything, was done after he made this admission?

A. I don't recall that anything was done.

Q. Was he asked by the FBI to make corrections in the statement?

A. I don't know. I don't know any more about the relationship of Hugh Adams.

Presiding Inspector: He means on that occasion.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

The Witness: No, they didn't on that occasion.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you and Mr. Adams leave together on that occasion?

A. No, Mr. Adams left separately. [1317]

Q. Before or after you?

A. He left before I did.

Q. Now, on the day—I think you said that Mr. Adams in his statement had said that it was in 1937? A. Yes, I believe so.

Q. Do you remember what month in 1937?

Presiding Inspector: Do you mean what he said?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: How is that material as to what Mr. Adams said?

Mr. Gladstein: Well, if your Honor wishes me to disclose this I will have to.

Presiding Inspector: I would like to have you disclose the point of that. Mr. Adams isn't a witness.

Mr. Gladstein: That may be true, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Are you anticipating that he may be a witness?

Mr. Gladstein: I don't know. The Government may call him.

Presiding Inspector: Well, is that what you are anticipating?

Mr. Gladstein: No. As a matter of fact, this is simply for the purpose of examination in order to bring out matters involving credibility. [1318]

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Presiding Inspector: Well, I don't see how it affects her credibility as to what Mr. Adams did or did not say. You couldn't in any way contradict her on that. If you want it you may have it, but I don't see that it is material.

Mr. Gladstein: May I have the question?

Presiding Inspector: You may, yes. Read the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

Presiding Inspector: That means what month in 1937 he said it was?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

A. No, I don't remember.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Was the statement read to you, the statement of Mr. Adams read to you at that time?

A. It was shown to me.

Q. Well, you read it, did you?

A. Yes, briefly.

Q. What is that?

A. I read it briefly. I didn't study it or memorize it.

Q. Well, did you, as you were reading it, notice these errors?

A. I noticed the discrepancies, yes, the discrepancies.

Q. Did you remark upon them?

A. Yes, sir. [1319]

Q. Were there any other discrepancies, as you call it, other than those you have mentioned which you remarked upon?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. Yes, there were various discrepancies. I said that—I don't recall whether this was in the statement or in conversation—but he seemed to think that some woman was with him and Harry Bridges at the time they came to our apartment, which was definitely not true, and about the only thing in his statement that was true was that we had some sandwiches and coffee. I believe that was true.

Q. Well, you don't mean that you had sandwiches and coffee at the FBI offices?

A. No, I mean the night of——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Counsel knows that the witness meant.

Presiding Inspector: That is perfectly clear.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You meant at your house?

Presiding Inspector: That was perfectly clear.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you remember when that was served?

A. No, I don't. Usually when we have visitors at our apartment we have a cup of coffee, if they desire it.

Presiding Inspector: We will take a short recess.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

Mr. Gladstein: Ready, your Honor? [1320]

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Just a few more questions, Mrs. Lovelace.

Now, on the occasion which you and Mr. Adams were in the FBI office and you were reading his statement and remarking about those things which you claimed were wrong, did you claim that his statement was wrong with respect to whether, at the time Mr. Bridges was in your house, the discussion included conversation concerning the position of the Communist Party toward the problem being discussed?

The Witness: Will you read the question? What was that question again?

Presiding Inspector: Read it.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the question as being too vague, uncertain. I can't understand it.

Mr. Gladstein: I will ask the witness.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you understand the question, Mrs. Lovelace? A. No, I don't believe I do.

Mr. Gladstein: I will reframe it.

Presiding Inspector: It is a little complicated.

Mr. Gladstein: I will reframe it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Let me call your attention now to this occasion when you were in the office of the FBI and Mr. Adams was there [1321] and, as you have stated, you read through his statement and you commented on certain things in that statement of Mr. Adams which you said were wrong.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was one of those things in the statement this question of whether or not on the evening that Mr. Bridges was in your house a discussion took place concerning the Communist Party policy toward the problem then being discussed?

Presiding Inspector: Now, isn't that a double question? Aren't you asking first what was in the statement and second whether it was correct?

Mr. Gladstein: Well, then, I will divide it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. First of all, was there anything in Mr. Adams' statement as to whether or not Communism, or the Communist Party policy was discussed?

Presiding Inspector: Now, you are asking for the contents of a writing which you evidently have before you.

Mr. Gladstein: We do not have. I don't have that. The only exhibit I have is the one that the Government introduced.

Presiding Inspector: Very well.

Mr. Gladstein: That is Mr. Lovelace's. [1322]

Presiding Inspector: Is it very material as to what was in the statement of another man?

Mr. Gladstein: Well, yes.

Presiding Inspector: How is that material?

Mr. Gladstein: Well in the first place——

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Another man who is not a witness, unless you want to introduce it as your evidence?

Mr. Gladstein: No; we don't have that statement, but let me say that it is apparent——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I didn't think you wanted that.

Mr. Gladstein: It is apparent, your Honor, that a Mr. Adams made a statement concerning this same incident that was testified to by Mrs. Lovelace.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: That this statement was made to the FBI.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: This statement is, according to the present witness' testimony, inconsistent with her version of what took place on the night that Harry Bridges came to her house.

Presiding Inspector: Yes. Well, you brought this all up. This is original testimony, isn't it?

[1323]

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, but let me conclude, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: Now, the position, as we see it, is this: Either Mr. Adams will be produced by the FBI—that we do not know—I mean by the Government in this case. I don't know whether they intend to produce him or not but if they do produce him, then, it is obviously material for us, through this witness, or in any way in the case, to bring out anything that has taken place raising questions concerning statements by a witness to be produced.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Presiding Inspector: I know, but we can't assume he is going to be produced here. They may not think he is a credible witness.

Mr. Gladstein: All right, either that, either they produce him, or if they do not produce him, then, the question arises as to the failure or refusal to present testimony available to them.

Presiding Inspector: Oh, no.

Mr. Gladstein: Approaching a question of suppression.

Presiding Inspector: Oh, no, not at all; not on a statement. The rule doesn't go that far. Why don't you produce it? He is just as open to you as he is to them.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, as a matter of fact, this question comes out now through this witness.

Presiding Inspector: I know, but you have brought it [1324] out.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: It doesn't come out on any real cross examination. It is an original matter that you are bringing out, something about a statement of Mr. Adams.

Mr. Gladstein: What has come out, your Honor, is that the Federal Bureau of Investigation obtained——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I know.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

You don't have to repeat what has come out. I think I have listened to the testimony. But I think it is far removed from ordinary cross examination.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I have only a few questions on this particular topic that I would like to conclude with. I think that they are certainly material on the basis that I mentioned.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I think that is not a proper basis, but I will let you have them. All right, go ahead.

Mr. Gladstein: You don't have to go back. I think I have in mind the question I was asking.

Presiding Inspector: Ask it over again. First ask what is in the statement.

Mr. Gladstein: That is right, the statement of Mr. Adams.

Presiding Inspector: If she can remember.

[1325]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you recall whether there was in that statement anything with respect to whether Communism, or the Communist Party policy was discussed at your apartment on the evening when Mr. Bridges was there?

A. I believe there was a negative statement in regard to that. I believe there was a denial that the Communist Party, or Communist Party policy had been discussed.

Q. Now, do you recall whether in the statement——

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Now, wouldn't it have been proper for you to ask her directly if that was not a negative? Now, you have asked her something that was not the case, according to her testimony. Do you claim there was this statement, that that policy——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) I haven't seen the statement, your Honor. I asked the question whether there was any.

Presiding Inspector: But you led her as though you knew what was in it.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I am merely asking the witness whether there was mention made in the statement of Mr. Adams of this subject matter.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, but that wasn't as I understood it. It may be.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, would you read the question? [1326]

Presiding Inspector: Oh, it isn't necessary. She has already stated.

Mr. Gladstein: All right, your Honor. Well, let's see if I have this straight.

Presiding Inspector: She stated there was a negative statement to that effect.

Mr. Gladstein: That is, that there was a statement——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I think we understand the answer.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Was there also, or was there in the statement that Mr. Adams made any mention of the manner in which James Murphy happened to come into your apartment that evening?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Presiding Inspector: If you can remember.

A. I don't remember. I don't recall that he mentioned James Murphy. The statement was very brief and inaccurate.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, let's go back for just a moment to the time when Mr. Bridges was in your apartment. From the time that he came in until the time that he left finally did he leave your apartment at any time? A. No, I don't believe so.

Q. And when he left I think you said that he left with Mr. Starr, the man, the unknown man who came with him, [1327] and with Mr. Adams, is that correct?

A. I believe that is correct. It seems to me that somebody left earlier.

Q. Well, your husband didn't leave earlier, did he? I mean, your husband stayed in your apartment? Would that be correct?

A. Yes, my husband stayed in the apartment.

Q. Did Mr. Murphy leave earlier?

A. I was trying to recall. No, I believe it is correct that they left together.

Q. Did Mr. Murphy go up to his apartment earlier or at the same time?

A. Yes, about the same time. They left at the conclusion of the discussion.

Q. You mentioned on direct examination that for a period of time you have been on relief, Mrs.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Lovelace. Would you give me the dates, beginning when and ending when?

A. Oh, I believe around 1933, '32 or '33.

Q. In what city? A. Portland.

Q. And continuing until when?

A. Well, the work on WPA means certifications, certified WPA employment. When my husband went to the hospital two years ago I was employed on the Federal Theatre Project.

Q. Well, then, you were on straight relief in 1932 and [1328] 1933 and then on WPA after that?

A. No; WPA started in 1935.

Q. In 1935?

A. Yes, sir. My husband was drawing partial disability compensation as a disabled veteran.

Q. Yes. Is it correct, then, you were on relief from 1932 until 1935? A. Yes, I believe so.

Q. And then from 1935 you were on WPA, the Writers Project in Portland?

A. Either the Writers Project—part of the time the theatre project. Previous to my husband going to the hospital a little over two years ago I had been doing some volunteer publicity work for the theatre project.

Q. Could you approximate the time in 1935 when you first went on WPA?

A. It was late in 1935; I don't recall the exact time.

Q. How late in the year?

A. About November, I think.

Q. Now, how long all together did you work for The Voice of Action?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. Well, as a party member, as a Communist Party member I worked from May until, oh, about August or September. In the meantime I had asked for a leave of absence from party activity, Communist Party activity, in order to do some private [1329] writing, but I kept up a less stringent relationship with The Voice of Action than I had before, gradually tapered off.

Q. Until what date? A. What is that?

Q. Until what date?

A. I believe Christmas 1935 was my last contribution to The Voice of Action. They asked me if I would write a short story for the Christmas issue.

Q. Your association with that paper began where?

A. Oh, it began in 1933, I believe in reporting on defense work.

Q. Did you ever receive remuneration for your work on that paper? A. Never.

Q. When did your work on WPA cease?

A. When did my work on WPA cease?

Q. Yes, your job? A. It has not ceased.

Q. Oh, it has continued since the time when it began in 1935? A. Yes, sir.

Q. This all has been in Portland?

A. Yes, it has.

Q. Was your husband employed at any time since 1935? [1330] A. Since 1935?

Q. Yes.

A. He was employed on the Oregon Writers

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Project and on the Survey of Federal Archives. He was employed steadily until he went to the hospital, I believe it was in April, 1939.

Q. He was not in private employment during that period from 1935 on? A. No. [1331]

Presiding Inspector: Is there any explanation to make about the present work that you are doing, or the work you have done since 1935 in relation to WPA work?

The Witness: Yes. I think one of the defense counsel's questions was a little bit misleading, or confusing.

Presiding Inspector: Misleading or confusing to you?

The Witness: Yes. But I believe it has been clarified.

Presiding Inspector: It has been clarified?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. Gladstein: What was the question?

Presiding Inspector: She told me she thought there was some misunderstanding between you but she now says it has been clarified.

Mr. Gladstein: That is all.

Mr. Del Guercio: No more questions.

Presiding Inspector: I would like to ask one question. Is there any explanation in this Voice of Action as to the title of the newspaper. Does it say "Organ of Militant Labor" or anything of that kind?

The Witness: Yes, I believe it does. Also on the masthead is the phrase "Independent Labor

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Paper," or something like that. I have forgotten just exactly what it is.

Presiding Inspector: Is the Communist Party mentioned?

The Witness: No, not on the masthead. It is, mentioned in the columns of the paper, however.

Presiding Inspector: Just as it might be mentioned in [1332] the columns of any other newspaper?

The Witness: No. As a matter of fact, the Voice of Action was sometimes used as an organ for the statements of the District Committee of the Communist Party.

Presiding Inspector: Over the signature of the District Committee?

The Witness: Yes; under the by-line of the District Organizer, Morris Rapport.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I ask a question or two?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Redirect Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I have here a copy of the Voice of Action, the Friday, May 24, 1935 issue; and on the top of which appears, "The Northwest's Only Working Class Paper." And there is stamped in ink "Workers Book Shop, 64 Alder Street." Is that a copy of the Voice of Action by which you were employed? A. Yes.

Q. What is this address, "Workers Book Shop, 64 Alder Street?"

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. That was then the location of a place where they sold and distributed various pamphlets, the Daily Worker, the Voice of Action, and Western Worker.

Presiding Inspector: That you have already spoken of?

The Witness: Yes. [1333]

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Is that a Communist Party book shop?

A. The Communist Party controlled it; yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this copy of the Voice of Action in evidence.

Presiding Inspector: You don't offer it for anything contained in it?

Mr. Del Guercio: No, other than the stamp that is shown on here, "Workers' Book Shop, 64 Alder Street."

Presiding Inspector: I want to understand you. There is no article in it that you wish to have me consider?

Mr. Del Guercio: No; just the nature of the paper.

Presiding Inspector: Very well. We will receive it with that understanding. There is no objection to it?

Mr. Gladstein: No objection.

Presiding Inspector: I didn't want to have the whole matter put in evidence.

(The newspaper referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 217.)

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Mr. Del Guercio: May I have a moment, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mrs. Lovelace, I show you another copy of the Voice of Action for April 19, 1935; and ask you if that is a copy of the Voice of Action paper at the time you were employed by them? [1334]

A. (Examining paper): Yes, it is.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, if your Honor please, for a specific purpose. On page 4 of this paper appears a photograph of James Murphy, and an article apparently edited by him, reading: "Special news for the lumber workers, edited by James Murphy, Secretary, National Lumber Workers Union."

Presiding Inspector: There is no objection?

Mr. Gladstein: No objection.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The newspaper referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 218.)

Presiding Inspector: Is that all with this witness?

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I might have the witness identify Mr. Murphy's picture which appears on the sheet. Is that the same Murphy who was in your apartment at the time Mr. Bridges was up there (examining picture)?

A. It is.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Mr. Del Guercio: That is all, if your Honor please. May the witness be excused?

Presiding Inspector: Yes. You may be excused.

Mr. Grossman: Just a moment, before the witness is excused.

I would like to say that this witness was put on today [1333] and we started our cross examination immediately. Obviously, we have had too little time to conduct any investigation at all in Portland, the place where this witness resides, and it would certainly be most difficult, and would be unreasonable to expect us, assuming we desire more cross examination, to have her brought back from Portland, which would involve a great deal of expense. So I would like to make what I think is a reasonable suggestion: That she be kept available, at least in the immediate vicinity, so it doesn't mean bringing her back from Portland, until Monday morning, which isn't a long time, and in case we have any cross examination—any further cross examination, we will agree to be prepared by Monday morning for that, or to notify her the first thing Monday morning if we will not wish her any further. The only thing we can do is to ask; otherwise we will have to pay the expense of bringing her back from Portland.

Presiding Inspector: Any objection?

Mr. Del Guercio: That is not only unreasonable, but is unfair. Bearing in mind that these witnesses have a livelihood to make, and they have appeared here, and they have been inconvenienced by being required to appear here, certainly they should be permitted to go home as soon as their testimony is over and not be kept here any unreasonable length of time.

We have produced a witness here, and her testimony has been given, and she has been cross examined extensively and [1336] exhaustively. Now, certainly if they want her again at any other time they should subpoena her, at their expense, and pay for her transportation, and pay her, as the rules provide, for any loss of employment, etc.

She has testified on the stand that she has a child to take care of.

Presiding Inspector: Has she the child with her?

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't think she has; no.

Presiding Inspector: It is entirely uncertain whether you will want her.

Mr. Grossman: That is true.

Presiding Inspector: I think the likelihood is that you won't.

Mr. Grossman: I cannot say.

Presiding Inspector: Of course you can't.

Mr. Grossman: I cannot say since we have had no opportunity to investigate.

Presiding Inspector: You must have known about that.

Mr. Del Guercio: What is all this (indicating card file boxes on defense counsel table) in front of you, if they have had no time to investigate?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Presiding Inspector: I don't know. I was just beginning to wonder about that.

Mr. Del Guercio: It is practicing deceit.

Mr. Grossman: We are willing to state those occasions [1337] where we are generally or specifically prepared on particular witnesses and when we are not. I will give you my word as a counselor of this Court that we were not generally prepared or specifically prepared for this witness. If we had been we would not state that we were not; but we weren't and, therefore we had no opportunity to prepare at all, and we are being asked to meet what would probably be a very large expense to bring her back even for the smallest amount of additional cross examination.

Presiding Inspector: Hold her a few minutes and we will see.

(Witness temporarily excused.)

Presiding Inspector: Call your next witness.

Mr. Del Guercio: Will you take the stand, please? (Indicating.)

Presiding Inspector: Raise your right hand.

GEORGE B. VAN SYCKLE

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What is your name?

(Testimony of George B. Van Syckle.)

A. George B. Van Syckle——V-a-n S-y-c-k-l-e.

Q. Where do you reside, Mr. Van Syckle?

A. Berkeley. [1338]

Q. What is your occupation?

A. Adjuster.

Q. You are employed by whom?

A. The Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

Q. You are under subpoena to produce certain records of that company. Did you bring them?

A. I did.

Q. Do you have them with you?

A. I have.

Q. May I have them?

A. (Producing records.)

Q. How long have you been employed by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company?

A. By the Pacific Gas and Electric Company and its predecessor companies, twenty-nine years and three months.

Q. And were you so employed there during the year 1933?

A. In my present occupation as adjuster; yes.

Q. You have handed me an application for service dated San Francisco, California, 8/15/33, signature of applicant, Walter Lambert, tenant, for service at 3470-19th Street; name of applicant, Walter Lambert; occupied as halls; collection address, same; date service wanted 8/16/33; salesman, Ray J. Schinkel.

On the reverse side under "Occupation"—does that mean [1339] the occupation of the applicant for service? A. Right.

Q. There is shown "Manager"; firm, Workers Ex-Service Men's League; business address, 3470-19th Street; if account guaranteed, name and address of guarantor, Marie Kirk, 264 Peninsula.

And a second application for service dated 8/12/33, made by Walter R. Lambert; location, 3470-19th Street; name of applicant Walter R. Lambert; occupied as assembly rooms; collection address, same; date service wanted, 8/14/33.

On the back of this card appears this information:

"Occupation, not employed."

That is the occupation of the applicant?

A. That is right.

Q. "If account guaranteed, name and address of guarantor, Marie Kirk, 264 Peninsula Avenue."

Did you take these applications, Mr. Van Syckle?

A. I did not take them personally. They were prepared under my direction.

Q. Prepared under your direction?

A. Yes; and I verified the originals.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer these two applications in evidence, if your Honor please, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Mr. Gladstein: I don't know whether an appropriate [1340] foundation has been laid because we didn't hear the answers to the last two questions.

Presiding Inspector: He said that he didn't take these personally, but he verified them, and that they were taken under his direction.

(Testimony of George B. Van Syckle.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Were they verified at the time they were taken, or within a short time thereafter?

A. I verified them today.

Q. You are the custodian of these records?

A. I am.

Mr. Del Guercio: I think a proper foundation has been laid for the introduction of the documents.

Presiding Inspector: Do you want to ask any questions before they are received?

Mr. Grossman: Just a moment.

Presiding Inspector: We will receive them.

(The applications for service were received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 219.)

Mr. Del Guercio: May we be permitted to photostat these records and substitute copies for the originals, both front and back?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Can you tell from your records for how long a period the applicant for service here, Walter Lambert, actually got [1341] service at that address? A. I can.

Q. Will you tell us, please?

A. On the hall lighting, from August 17, 1933 to March 16, 1934.

(Testimony of George B. Van Syckle.)

On the assembly rooms, from August 15, 1933 to March 16, 1934.

Q. And were the bills for the service regularly paid? A. They were.

Q. And do your records show by whom they were paid? A. They do not.

Q. Does your record show to whom the bills were rendered? A. They do.

Q. And to whom were they rendered?

A. Walter Lambert.

Q. At what address?

A. 3470-19th Street, San Francisco.

Q. For the entire period of time that you have testified to?

A. For the entire period of time.

Mr. Del Guercio: You may cross examine.

Mr. Gladstein: We have no questions.

Presiding Inspector: That is all.

(Witness excused.) [1342]

Presiding Inspector: Next witness.

Mr. Del Guercio: We have no other witness today.

Presiding Inspector: I think you had better keep the other witness, Mrs. Lovelace, until Monday.

We will now take a recess until Monday morning at ten o'clock.

(Whereupon, at 4:00 P.M., an adjournment was taken to Monday, April 21, 1941, at 10:00 A.M.) [1343]

Court Room 276,
Federal Building,
San Francisco, California,

April 21, 1941.

Met, pursuant to adjournment, at 10:00 A.M.

[1344]

PROCEEDINGS

Presiding Inspector: You may proceed.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, we have Mrs. Lovelace here.

Presiding Inspector: Do you want to cross examine Mrs. Lovelace further?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead.

DAWN LOVELACE

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Cross Examination
(Resumed)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mrs. Lovelace, are you acquainted with Captain Keegan of the Portland Police Department?

A. Yes; I know Captain Keegan.

Q. How long have you known him?

A. Oh, I believe I met him last Armistice Day.

Q. Of last year? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Was your husband present at the same time?

A. I believe so. It was in the course of an Armistice Day parade.

Q. Do you know whether your husband knew Captain Keegan prior to that time? [1345]

A. Yes; through his membership in the American Legion Post.

Q. Since that date has there been any social relationship between yourself, your husband and Captain Keegan?

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, if your Honor please, I object to the question.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it. I don't know where it is leading.

A. Casually; yes, in the course of the American Legion activities.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. By that do you mean to imply that you visited his home or that he visited your home?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Have you ever made any reports to Captain Keegan? A. No, I have not.

Q. Have you ever supplied any information to him? A. No more than——

Mr. Del Guercio (Interposing): If your Honor please, "any information" supplied any individual——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): You mean in relation to the Communist Party or Mr.——

Mr. Gladstein: No. I will make it more definite, your Honor.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Presiding Inspector: Very well. [1346]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Have you ever supplied any information to him with respect to union activities of any kind?

A. I have not.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that.

Presiding Inspector: She has answered.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. To your knowledge did your husband make any reports or supply Captain Keegan with any information concerning labor or union activities?

A. I don't believe so——

Mr. Del Guercio (Interrupting): Just a moment!

A. (Continuing): ——but I have no way of knowing.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, if I were to ask the same questions that I have just asked you, the last three or four, and substitute the expression "Communist activities" for the expression "labor or trade union activities" would your answers to all the questions have been the same?

A. I would like to qualify that.

Q. You may.

A. In the few instances in which I have talked with Captain Keegan casually, we have discussed the various social problems which confronted everybody in every community. Whether or not that would be—could be construed as supplying [1347] information, it would be a matter of construction. There certainly has been no such relationship.

Q. No such relationship as what?

A. As an informant. And I believe Captain Keegan has enough respect for me that he wouldn't place me in such a position.

Q. Do you know Officer Brown of the Portland Police Department? A. I do.

Q. How long have you known him?

A. For about the same length of time.

Q. Did your husband to your knowledge know Officer Brown prior to the time when you became acquainted with him?

A. Yes. I believe they had known each other for years. I believe they were in the same company overseas.

Q. If I were to ask you the same questions with respect to Officer Brown and I have heretofore asked you concerning Captain Keegan——

Mr. Del Guercio (Interposing): Well, if your Honor please, I object to the form of the question. Is he going to ask her?

Mr. Gladstein: I will if Counsel insists. I was simply trying to save time.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it, in that form for the sake of expedition.

By Mr. Gladstein: [1348]

Q. Can your think of any question to which your answer would have been different in a substantial way, Mrs. Lovelace, if I were to ask you concerning Captain Brown, or Officer Brown, the same questions I asked you this morning concerning Captain Keegan?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. I would answer in the same manner with the same qualifications.

Q. Are you acquainted with Officer O'Dale?

A. Very casually.

Q. And to your knowledge was your husband acquainted with him?

A. He was also acquainted with him casually, I believe.

Q. If I were to ask the same questions with respect to Officer O'Dale that I have heretofore asked you concerning Captain Keegan would your answers be the same?

A. They would be substantially the same with the same qualifications.

Presiding Inspector: Of course, you are probably bound by these answers.

Mr. Gladstein: I beg your pardon?

Presiding Inspector: You are probably bound by these answers. I don't say that positively, but probably.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I think O'Dale is spelled——do you know how to spell it?

A. I believe it is O-D-a-l-e. Whether or not there is [1349] an apostrophe in the name, I don't know.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. Do you know a man named Lieutenant Mumpower?

A. I know him casually, too. I believe I met him—talked to him once, unless perhaps he spoke to me at my husband's funeral. [1350]

Q. He is also with the Portland Police Department? A. Yes, I believe so.

Q. All the men whose names we have mentioned this morning are of that department?

A. I believe so.

Mr. Del Guercio: How do you spell the last one?

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. How do you spell it?

A. M-u-m-p-o-w-e-r—just like it sounds.

Mr. Gladstein: I think that is correct.

The Witness: I wouldn't be sure.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. If I were to ask you the same questions with respect to yourself, and with respect to your husband, in reference to Lieutenant Mumpower that I have heretofore asked you concerning Captain Keegan, would your answers be substantially the same, and with the same qualifications?

A. There would be no qualifications whatsoever. I have had one casual conversation in the course of an introduction with Mumpower—whatever he is.

Q. Do you know Mario Bacon?

A. I know who he is. I have seen him once. The circumstances under which I saw him was the occasion when he came to our home to arrest my husband.

Q. Are you in a position to say whether your husband [1351] sustained toward Mr. Bacon a relationship similar to that which you have described him to have sustained toward Captain Keegan and the others mentioned this morning?

A. I know nothing about any relationship with Bacon. In fact, I would like to make it clear right now that I am not speaking for my husband and his relationship with people during the past year of his life.

Q. Are you acquainted with Mr. Raphael Bonham?

A. I never met Mr. Bonham.

Q. Are you acquainted with Mr. Norene?

A. I have never met Mr. Norene.

Q. Do you know who those gentlemen are?

A. I know they are connected with the Immigration Service.

Q. Do you know Major Laurence Milner?

A. Yes, I have known him for years.

Q. During the past two years what, if anything, has your relationship——when I say "your" I mean by it yours and your husband's, been toward Major Milner in a general way?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the question. Major Milner is not involved here.

Presiding Inspector: I will take it. I don't know what it is all about, but I will take it.

A. I haven't anything to conceal.

Mr. Gladstein: What? [1352]

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Presiding Inspector: She says she hasn't anything to conceal. Go ahead.

A. Major Milner is also a member of the Portland Post, No. 1, of the American Legion, and during the past two years our relationship has varied. I believe a two-year period covers it. In fact, there has been considerable of a variety of relationship between us during our association.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Within the past two years you have said that your relationship varied. Would you indicate a little more specifically what you meant by that?

A. Prior to my husband's repudiation of the Communist Party there was considerable strain and antagonism, I believe, between Major Milner and my husband and myself. After my husband's repudiation of the Communist Party, particularly after the Communist Party took the position which it did relative to the Moscow-Berlin non-aggression pact relative to the Finnish situation, relative to various other issues, my husband joined the American Legion, Post No. 1, Portland. He was invited to join.

After that Major Milner on occasion drove my husband home from the Post meetings. Occasionally he would drop in after he drove him home.

Since my husband's illness and death Major Milner and his wife have both been very kind and very loyal. [1353]

Q. During the past two years in which there existed this relationship that you have just described, Mrs. Lovelace, with Major Milner, can you state whether or not your husband gave information of any kind to Major Milner concerning Union activities?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the question—Union activities.

Presiding Inspector: If she knows. She can say "yes" or "no" if she knows.

A. No. My husband did not. In fact, Major Milner never suggested that he was seeking information relative to Union activities. In fact, it is my belief that Major Milner is not interested at the present time in Union or Communist or any other activities.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Would you say that the two of them did not discuss either Union activities or what we shall term Communist activities during the past two years to your knowledge?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the question. The witness has already answered the question.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it. I will hear it.

A. To say that we have not discussed such matters would be stupid.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You mean by that that you discussed——

[1354]

A. (Interposing): Communist activities, the position of the Unions relative to defense activities in a general way, just as the information which one reads in the newspapers, and which is a part of the life of every American.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. You mean your discussions have only been—— A. (Interposing): General.

Q. In a general way?

A. Yes; casual, the same as one discusses it with one's barber.

Q. What is the last time that your husband was a Union member?

A. I believe when he resigned from the Workers Alliance, if that could be called a Union.

Q. Would you date that, please?

A. It was about two years ago when he went to the hospital, when he had to resign from the Project because of going to the hospital; two years ago about now, I believe it was.

Q. And have you been a Union member?

A. Yes. I was a member of the Workers Alliance. I believe I paid one month's dues.

Q. Any other organization?

A. I have been a member of the American Newspaper Guild.

Q. During what period? [1355]

A. During, and for a brief time, for a short time, after my activities with the Voice of Action I was instructed to join the American Newspaper Guild by Lowell Wakefield, and other Communists under whose direction I worked.

Q. Would you date that, please?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. I don't know as I could recall the exact date. I believe it was in the Fall of 1935.

Q. For how long did you remain a member?

A. Seven or eight months; I believe my book had dues stamps for seven or eight months.

Q. Thereafter——

A. (Interposing): I simply dropped out. It was pointless for me to belong; and, furthermore, I thought it was injurious to the Union for people of my record to continue, particularly, a pointless affiliation with what could otherwise be a splendid Union.

Q. I asked you a few moments ago whether you knew Mr. Bonham or Mr. Norene, and you have already stated you did not. I did not ask you, but I would like to do so now, whether to your knowledge your husband was acquainted with Mr. Bonham?

A. I don't believe he was. I have never heard him mention Mr. Bonham except as a newspaper personality. [1356]

Q. How about Mr. Norene?

A. I don't believe he knew Mr. Norene either. I am quite sure that he knew neither.

Q. Last Friday, Mrs. Lovelace, the name of Frank Foss was mentioned. Do you recall in what connection?

A. Yes, it was mentioned in connection with a very pointless and meaningless, casual coffee shop, oh, encounter.

Q. Your husband knew Mr. Foss, of course?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. Yes. He knew him in relationship with democratic activities in the democratic party.

Q. Would you say that he knew him well?

A. I don't know what you mean by "well". No, we weren't socially close or socially related.

Q. Was the relation between them friendly?

A. Yes, certainly.

Q. How about the relationship at the present time; that is to say, are you and Mr. Foss friendly?

A. Casually. Since my husband's death Mr. Foss has dropped over to the apartment once, which was perfectly natural under the circumstances.

Q. Are you acquainted with John L. Leach?

A. Not at all. I have read his name in the newspapers but that's all.

Q. Do you know whether your husband was acquainted with him?

A. I'm quite sure he wasn't. [1357]

Mr. Gladstein: I think that is all, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: That is all. You don't want to ask for anything?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just one question, if your Honor please.

Redirect Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Gladstein here had asked you regarding your relations with Captain Keegan, Brown, O'Dale and Lieutenant Mumpower,—is that the name?

A. Mumpower, I believe it is.

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

Q. And Bacon. Did any of these gentlemen contact you recently here regarding your testimony that you would give on the stand?

A. Certainly not.

Q. I mean the officers that I named?

A. No, they have not. And I would——

Q. (Interposing) In any event——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Wait a minute! The witness wants to say something.

A. (Continuing) If it wouldn't be injecting something, I would like to make it clear right now that the only instructions or suggestions that I have received relative to my testimony has come from the Federal Bureau of Investigation Officers and the gentleman who served the subpoena, and the instructions [1358] were only to tell the truth.

Presiding Inspector: Well, that was what you testified to to some extent on Friday?

The Witness: I believe so. And I wanted to emphasize it.

Q. You made a remark here in reply to one of Counsel's questions regarding the Workers Alliance, as to whether or not you consider that a union. Do you consider the Workers Alliance a union? A. A union?

Q. Yes.

A. No, I do not. I don't consider it a union because I believe that its union status has been purely formal and rather fictional.

Q. The Workers Alliance is affiliated with the Communist Party, is it not?

(Testimony of Dawn Lovelace.)

A. No, it is one of the—"affiliated" is hardly the word. I believe it is a very flimsy front organization.

Mr. Del Guercio: That is all.

Mr. Gladstein: No questions.

Presiding Inspector: That is all.

Mr. Del Guercio: May the witness be excused, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Yes, you are excused.

(Witness excused.)

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I don't know [1359] whether I could make this remark or not, but we have held this witness over the weekend here for what appears to me a useless purpose.

Presiding Inspector: Of course, I can't say about that, and I don't know that it makes any difference. I held the witness. I will take full responsibility.

Mr. Del Guercio: We are calling the next witness.

NAT HONIG

called as a witness for the Government, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Will you state your name, please?

A. Yes. Nat Honig; N-a-t H-o-n-i-g.

Q. And where do you reside?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Seattle, Washington.

Q. What is your present employment?

A. I am a newspaper man at the Post-Intelligencer, Seattle.

Q. Are you employed full time?

A. Part time.

Q. What do you do? A. Copy reader.

Q. Copy reader. How long have you been employed in that capacity? [1360]

A. For the past three years.

Q. Have you ever been a member of any labor organization?

A. I am a member of the American Newspaper Guild and I have been since 1936.

Q. Have you ever been a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. When did you join the Communist Party?

A. In November, 1927.

Q. And under what name?

A. Under my name; Nat Honig.

Q. And how long did you remain a member of the Communist Party?

A. Until November, 1939.

Q. And what happened then?

A. I left the Communist Party.

Q. And you joined the Communist Party in New York. Did you remain there for any length of time thereafter?

A. Yes. I joined in 1927 and remained in the Communist Party in New York until May 1, 1934.

Q. Then where did you go?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Then I went to the Soviet Union.

Q. Who sent you to the Soviet Union?

A. The Communist Party.

Q. In what capacity?

A. Originally I was sent there as what they call a [1361] "Referant" to work in the Red International of Labor Unions. The duties of a Referant were to collect data, to furnish data to the Red International of Labor Unions on the American Trade Union movement.

Q. Trade Union movement? In the American Trade Union movement? A. Yes.

Q. And who paid your expenses?

A. The Communist Party of the United States.

Q. Who in the Communist Party gave you instructions to proceed to the Soviet Union?

A. What is that?

Q. Who in the Communist Party gave you instructions to proceed to the Soviet Union?

A. Well, it was a decision of the Central Committee of the Communist Party and actually the instructions came from Earl Browder.

Q. And how long did you remain in the Soviet Union as such?

A. Well, I arrived there approximately June 1, 1934 and remained—left there September 1, 1935.

Q. During the time that you were in Moscow did you continue your duties as a Referant?

A. I did for about three or four months and then I [1362] became the representative—the official representative of the American Communist Party to the Red International of Labor Unions.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Who made you the official representative of the Communist Party of the United States?

A. The Central Committee of the Communist Party of the United States.

Q. And it was communicated to you in what manner?

A. It was communicated to the officials of the Red International of Labor Unions and they, in turn, informed me.

Q. And as such what did you do?

A. As such it was my task there to assist in formulating policies to be carried out by the Communist Party of the United States in its trade union work and to meet with representatives from other Communist Parties from other countries both in the Communist International and in the Red International of Labor Unions; exchange experiences of the various trade union movements so that, for instance, say, from the experiences of the German trade union—the Party in the trade unions in Germany, we could get information on how to do our work in the American Communist Party.

Q. How was this done; that is, did you attend meetings?

A. Yes; mainly by attending meetings.

Q. Now, what kind of meetings were they and who were [1363] in attendance?

A. They were meetings of, of course, first, the officials of the Red International of Labor Unions, representatives of the Communist Party, International itself and the different representatives of the various Communist Parties from different countries.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Now; you speak of the "Red International of Labor Unions". What is that?

A. The Red International of Labor Unions—I don't believe it exists now, but at that time it was the world center for coordinating the work of the various Communist Parties in the trade union field. It was located in Moscow.

Q. And wha was its relation or connection, if any, with the Communist International?

A. It was a section of the Communist International.

Q. Well, was it controlled and dominated by the Communist International?

A. It was controlled by it, because whatever decisions were arrived at in the Red International of Labor Unions—that is, major decisions, decisions of importance—had to be O.K.'d by the Communist International.

Q. Where did you attend these meetings?

A. Well, some of them, of course, were in the headquarters of the Red International of Labor Unions. The address of that in Moscow was in a building called the "Palace of Labor", and others were held in the Comintern Building itself. [1364]

Q. Where was that?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. That was located on a street called Mokhavaia.

Q. How do you spell it?

A. M-o-k-h-a-v-a-i-a.

Q. How often would you attend these meetings at Moscow?

A. Well, the Red International of Labor Union meetings were held at least once a week. It was a regular practice to hold them at least once a week. Then when anything special came up, say, of an emergency nature in regard to a particularly important situation in the United States, they would be held more often. Meetings with the Communist International of we who were representatives of the R. I. L. U.—I will use those initials for "Red International of Labor Unions"—these meetings were held usually about twice a month.

Q. And you say that you remained in Moscow for how long a period?

A. Well, it was from June 1, 1934 to September 1, 1935. I guess that's about 15 or 16 months.

Q. And then you returned to the United States?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you do upon your return to the United States?

A. Well, for a short time I worked in the District apparatus of the Communist Party in New York City. That's just while waiting for my next actual assignment. Then I was sent to work on the Western Worker in San Francisco here, which was [1365] the official organ of the Communist Party for the Pacific Coast.

Q. Had you ever been on the staff of the Daily Worker in New York?

A. Yes, before—shortly after I joined the Communist Party in 1927 I assisted on the Daily Worker. I did reportorial work, make-up work, and various other duties.

Q. And then you say you came to the West Coast in connection with your work on the Western Worker?

A. Yes. I came specifically to work on the Western Worker.

Q. And what position did you hold on that paper?

A. When I first came I was Labor Editor, which means being in charge of all trade union news, all industrial news and so forth. Somewhat later I was made Managing Editor.

Q. Managing Editor of the Western Worker?

A. Of the Western Worker.

Q. And where was that paper published at that time?

A. At 121 Haight Street, San Francisco.

Q. And do you know whether that place was the headquarters of the Communist Party at that time? A. It was.

Q. It was? A. Yes. [1366]

Q. I believe you testified that the Western Worker was the western organ of the Communist Party?

A. For the Pacific Coast, yes, sir.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Was it owned and controlled by the Communist Party?

A. It was. I don't know actually what the—I forget now officially what the name is that was used for the publishing company, that was on the masthead, but actually it was an organ of the Communist Party.

Q. Did you write any pamphlets or books for the Communist Party?

A. Yes. I wrote three of them—two of them and then I assisted in writing a third one.

Q. You say you wrote three of them?

A. I wrote two and then I collaborated in writing a third.

Q. With whom did you collaborate?

A. With William Z. Foster.

Q. Who is he?

A. At the time I wrote the pamphlet he was the national secretary of the Trade Union Unity League, and a member of the Central Committee and the Political Bureau of the Communist Party.

Q. What was the first book you wrote?

A. I wrote two of them simultaneously and one was called "The Trade Union Unity League, Its Program, Policy and [1367] Structure"—words to that effect.

The other was called the "Trade Unions Under the NRA."

That might not be the exact title, but that was what it was in essence.

Q. Were you instructed to write these books?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes, I was.

Q. By whom?

A. By the Central Committee of the Communist Party.

Presiding Inspector: In this country?

The Witness: In the USA; yes.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Where were you when your wrote these?

A. In New York City.

Q. When?

A. I think it was in 1934; a few months, I believe, before I left for the Soviet Union. Perhaps it was late in 1933.

Q. And before the books were published were they edited by anyone? A. Yes, they were.

Q. By whom?

A. They were edited by Mr. Foster for one, and then they were edited by a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party, USA. I can't tell you exactly which member it was because it was the policy for any publication sponsored by the Party to be edited by some member of the Communist Party, and [1368] the author didn't particularly have to know which one edited it.

Q. Who published your book?

A. The Workers Library Publishers published both of these that I wrote.

Q. Did you submit them to the publishing house or to the Communist Party?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. I submitted them to the Central Committee of the Communist Party.

Q. How about the third book?

A. The third book was called "Industrial Unionism." That was published in, I believe, January, 1935, or very early in 1935, by the same concern. It was written in collaboration with Foster.

Presiding Inspector: Where were you at that time?

The Witness: In New York.

Presiding Inspector: I don't remember the date. Was this before or after you had been in Moscow?

The Witness. This third book was after I had returned home.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a book called "The Trade Union Unity League, affiliated to R.I.L.U., its Program, Structure, Methods and History," published by the Trade Union Unity League, 2 West 15th Street, New York, and ask you if you can identify that [1369] book?

A. (Examining book) Yes, I can identify it.

Q. Is that the book you wrote?

A. No, this was an earlier book. The one I wrote had the same title. It is mentioned in Foster's autobiography as being written by myself and Foster.

But this book was considered out of date and it was considered necessary by the Central Committee of the Party to write a new one, bring the program and policies of the Trade Union Unity League up to date.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

This new one was the one that I wrote.

Q. Is that why you wrote a new book because of—withdraw that. Are you familiar with this?

A. Yes, I am familiar with this because I used it, as a matter of fact, for a lot of source material for the one I wrote.

Q. Would you say you used that information as authority on some matters?

A. Very much so, on very many matters.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this book in evidence, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 220.)

By Mr. Del Guercio: [1370]

Q. Was this book published and distributed by the Communist Party?

A. This book was—I think this was published before my time. I am not sure; it is quite an old book. I don't remember just who it is published by.

Q. It says that it is published by the Trade Union Unity League.

A. Yes. This book was published by the Trade Union Unity League, 2 West 15th Street, itself, and not by the Communist controlled Workers Library Publishers, Inc.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Was the Trade Union Unity League controlled by the Communist Party?

A. Yes; completely.

Q. Could a writer publish any book without getting the consent of the Communist Party?

A. I can only state as to that, during the time that I was associated with the Trade Union Unity League as editor of "Labor Unity," no pamphlet or book could be published by the Trade Union Unity League until it was O. K.'d and edited by the Communist Party.

This particular book, I think, was published before I became editor of Labor Unity.

Q. Do you know about when it was published?

A. I think that was published, perhaps, in 1930; I wouldn't say definitely, though. [1371].

Q. Do you know when the Trade Union Unity League came into existence?

A. Yes; in 1929.

Q. And as a result of what, if you know?

A. Well, in the first place it was officially organized at a convention in Cleveland and the month, I think, was September or October—I wouldn't swear which—in 1929.

Do you want to know as to what purpose was behind this organization?

Q. Yes. Who called it and——

A. (Interposing) Oh yes. The decision to have that convention in the form of the Trade Union Unity League was made by the Central Committee of the Communist Party, at the suggestion of the

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Red International of Labor Unions, in Moscow, and the Communist Party, Central Committee, then informed the Executive Committee of the Trade Union Educational League, which was the predecessor of the Trade Union Unity League, that this convention in Cleveland was to be held for the purpose of forming a new trade union central organization, the Trade Union Unity League, or TUUL.

Q. Who attended this convention, if you know?

A. The convention was attended—I was not present at the convention and I can say who attended only from my knowledge as a member of the Daily Worker staff at the time, because I did handle labor news on the Daily Worker also. The [1372] convention was attended by the entire Executive Committee of the Trade Union Educational League, and among them were William Z. Foster, Jack Johnstone, William F. Dunn, and, I believe, Clarence Hathaway—I wouldn't say definitely as to that but I am pretty certain—and also Ben Gold, who was a leader of the Communist Party work in the Needle Trades Union.

Of course, in mentioning who attended this convention——

Q. (Interposing) I don't expect you to remember all of them.

A. You see, I am not talking as one who was present in mentioning them.

Q. The people that you have mentioned, they were what, so-called high functionaries in the Communist Party?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. The ones I mentioned, with the exception of Foster and Dunne, the others, and Johnstone, the others were officials or leaders in Trade Unions actually. Foster, Dunne, Hathaway, Johnstone, were officials in the Communist Party.

Q. And when you say "officials in the trade unions," do you mean that they were Communist Party member officials of trade unions?

A. They were officials in the trade unions who, at the same time, were members of the Communist Party, USA.

Mr. Del Guercio: I would like to read a few excerpts from this book here to show the nature of the trade unions.

Presiding Inspector: Very well. [1373]

Mr. Del Guercio: Reading at the bottom of page 28.

"Revolutionary Goal.

"The new unionism sets itself a revolutionary goal. It points out the disaster of the capitalists owning the industries and operating them for their own profit. It advocates that only by overthrow of the present system of capitalist ownership and exploitation and the establishment of a working class society in which production will be carried on, not for private profit, but for the social good, —can the workers improve their conditions and emancipate themselves. The American working class must follow the path beaten out by the Russian workers. Capitalism cannot furnish an improved standard of living for the workers. The workers have nothing to expect from capitalism but low wages, long hours, unemployment, speed-up, gradual worsening conditions, and war. They must aim at its overthrow.

"The capitalist system is doomed. It cannot overcome its own inherent contradictions. The disparity between the mounting capitalist production of commodities and the growing inability of the markets under capitalism to absorb them, makes eventually for the shut-down of industry, mass unemployment, sharper and sharper economic crises, greater and greater class struggles, devastating world wars, and the eventual mobilization of the working class for the revolutionary overthrow of the capitalist system."

And again on page 31: [1374]

"For the New Labor Union Center: The T.U.U.L.

"The national center of the revolutionary industrial movement in the United States is the Trade Union Unity League, organized in Cleveland, August 31st, 1929. The T.U.U.L. coordinates and binds all the revolutionary union forces into one united organization. It leads and directs the general struggle of the new union movement. It is the American section of the Red International of Labor Unions."

And again on page 35:

"Against Imperialist War and for Defense of the Soviet Union.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

"The Trade Union Unity League fights militantly against the impending capitalist war and for the defense of the Soviet Union. Its slogan is: 'Not a man, not a cent, not a gun for Imperialist War.' It seeks to mobilize the great masses of workers against war by organizing strikes, demonstrations, etc., in conjunction with all militant organizations fighting against war. In the event of an Imperialist War it will mobilize the workers to struggle against American imperialism and to transform this war into a class war against the capitalist system itself."

And at the bottom of page 45:

"The T.U.U.L. affiliates itself with the Red International of Labor Unions. It joins hands with the militant workers of the World for international trade union unity. Under the leadership of the R.I.L.U., it takes its place, shoulder to shoulder [1375] with the revolutionary workers in the Soviet Union, in China, in Europe, in all countries in the world proletarian struggle against imperialism."

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, Mr. Honig, I will show you a pamphlet called "The Trade-Union Unity League Today, its Structure, Policy, Program and Growth," by Nathaniel Honig. Is that the book you wrote?

A. (Examining book) Yes.

Q. Under instructions of the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that published by the Communist Party?

A. That was published by the Workers Library

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Publishers, I believe, and that was the official publishing house of the Communist Party.

Q. Was this pamphlet distributed by the Communist Party?

A. It was distributed at Communist Party Units, in the Communist Party Fractions,—Fractions are Communist Party groups within the trade unions—and Communist Party book stores.

Q. Does this contain the accepted policies, doctrines and practices of the Community Party in connection with trade union matters?

A. Yes, it does. It was officially O.K.'d by the Central Committee of the Communist Party before it could be [1376] published.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this pamphlet in evidence, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 221.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I would like to read several passages from this pamphlet, if your Honor please.

On page 12, at the bottom of page 12:

"The Trade Union Unity League fights militantly against the imperialist war plans, and pledges the utmost struggle in defense of the Soviet Union, the beacon-light for workers in all countries. It not only participates in demonstrative actions against imperialist war, but its policy is to build the anti-war base in the factories, especially in those industries which are war industries."

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Then further on page 13:

"The Trade Union Unity League is not a political organization. It leads the economic struggles of the workers. But it is based on the policy of class against class, and T.U.U.L. unions have come out in support of the revolutionary political class struggles led by the Communist Party, because this Party believes in the class struggle."

And again on page 14.

"The T.U.U.L. points out to the workers the disaster of [1377] the capitalists owning the industries and operating them for their own profits. It leads the workers for their economic demands; but points out to them that only by the overthrow of the capitalist system of exploitation of the workers and by the establishment of a system, where production will be carried on not for private profit but for the social good, will the American workers, and workers in all capitalist countries, completely and finally free themselves from low wages, unemployment, long hours, the speed-up, lowering of conditions in all ways, and war. In Germany and Austria the futility of trying to overthrow the system of exploitation of the workers merely through parliamentary means has been shown."

And again on the last page:

"The perspective of the Trade Union Unity League is for increasing strike struggles."

And then skipping a few lines:

"The rising movement for independent unions

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

must receive the serious attention of the T.U.U.L.; a flexible policy must be adopted towards the building of these unions; the policy of unity with them is paramount. These policies will lead to a powerful revolutionary trade union movement." [1378]

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, Mr. Honig, I will show you another book entitled "The Trade Unions Since the NRA", by "Nat Honig", and ask you if that is one of the books you wrote? A. Yes.

Q. And was this also distributed and circulated by the Communist Party?

A. Yes, it was. It was sold in the Communist Party book stores to the Communist Party units and so forth.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It will be received.

(The book referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 222.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a pamphlet here called "The Little Red Library, No. 1, Trade Unions in America" by W. Z. Foster, J. P. Cannon and E. R. Browder, published by the Trade Union Educational League, by the Daily Worker Publishing Company, 1113 West Washington Boulevard, Chicago, and ask you if you can identify that booklet?

A. I can identify it. Although it was published before I became a member of the Communist Party, it continued to circulate for a few months after I was a member and then it was withdrawn because J. P. Cannon had been expelled from the [1379] Party for differences with the Party. He had been expelled, and, therefore, it was withdrawn.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. But you say it was circulated by the Communist Party and found its way into Party channels.

Q. And does it contain in its pages the practices, policies and aims of the Communist Party in connection with trade unions matters?

A. Up to the time it was circulated and during the time.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The pamphlet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 223.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You testified that you were made Editor-in-Chief, I believe, of the Labor Unity Magazine?

A. Yes.

Q. Is this a copy of the Labor Unity Magazine?

A. Yes, that is.

Q. Do you recognize that particular issue?

A. Yes.

Q. On the back of the cover of this book appears this: "Voice of militant labor, labor unity, published monthly by the Trade Union Unity League, Wm. Z. Foster, Secretary". [1380]

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes sir, he was.

Q. Is that the William Z. Foster who was at the head of the Communist Party at one time?

A. He was National Chairman of the Communist Party, yes; not at that particular time. Later he was. He had other titles then.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It will be received.

(The magazine referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 224.)

Mr. Del Guercio: May we have a short recess?

Presiding Inspector: Yes, certainly.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

Mr. Del Guercio: May I proceed?

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Honig, I show you the May, 1934 issue of the Communist Magazine, and ask you if you are familiar with this particular issue?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. Do you know that this is the official magazine of the Communist Party?

A. It is the official theoretical organ of the Communist Party. [1381]

Q. Published monthly by the Communist Party of the United States? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer this in evidence, your Honor, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The magazine referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 225.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I want to read from the bottom of page 467 of this book:

"Tasks of the Party in the trade-union work.

"1(a) Mobilize the entire Party membership for revolutionary trade-union work; (b) for the carrying through of the program of concentration to root the Party in the most important factories, establish trade union organization, for the building of the oppositions in the first place in the most important industries, stimulate, develop and lead the struggle of the workers. Enroll every Party member eligible into the trade unions on the basis of a thorough enlightenment of the membership as to reasons for our emphasis on work in the factories and trade unions. This was fully explained in the Open Letter, which stated that unless the Party established its roots among the decisive sections of the industrial proletariat it cannot become a mass Communist Party. The discussion must be brought into every Party nucleus, into every trade-union [1382] fraction. The Party leadership must not only convince the Party as to the correctness and urgency of carrying through the Open Letter, but also help the membership to carry through the tasks. Every district, section, nucleus, and especially shop nucleus, must work out its plan of work on the basis of the policy of concentration, assign the most experienced and developed comrades for leadership in the trade-union work. Steps are to be taken to build the trained trade-union fractions and assure their guidance through the Party Committee. The Central Committee, the District Committee and all leading Party Organizations must assume responsibilities for the carrying through of these tasks and the work in the trade unions which is the task of the entire Party. In raising before the Party work in factories and trade-unions as the central task, care must be taken to overcome the opportunist conception of trade-union work. Our trade-union work is not an end in itself—the trade unions are for the Communists a bridge to the masses. As part of our Communist work in the factories, the Party nuclei in the factories must receive the greatest attention from the leading committees. They must receive the greatest guidance and support in building the union in the shop, the shop committee, the publication of a Party factory paper, building the circulation of the Daily Worker, recruiting into the Party."

By Mr. Del Guercio: [1383]

Q. Is that the policy of the Communist Party regarding trade union work, what I have just read?

A. It was at that time.

Q. At that time, that it was just a bridge, not an end in itself; is that correct? A. Yes.

Q. And that is the policy of the Communist Party with relation to trade union matters as you understood it at that time?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. It was, yes. It was in all that period that I was a member of the Communist Party.

Q. And you were a member of the Communist Party from 1929——

A. (Interposing) '27.

Q. '27 to 1939? A. '39, yes.

Q. I will show you a pamphlet here called "The Platform of Struggle for Urgent Needs of Toilers, Election Platform of the Communist Party, New York State, 1934," issued by the Election Campaign Committee, Communist Party, New York State, 799 Broadway, N. Y. C., and ask you if you are familiar with this pamphlet?

A. Yes, I recognize it.

Q. Was that distributed and circulated by the Communist Party? [1384]

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, your Honor, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It will be received.

(The pamphlet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 226.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Distributed during the time you were a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. And during the time it was published?

A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I want to read just one small paragraph here appearing on page 8 of this pamphlet:

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

"The first acts of a revolutionary workers' Government would be to open up the warehouses and distribute among all the working people the enormous surplus of stores of food and clothing."

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you another issue of "The Communist" for May, 1938, and ask you if you are familiar with that particular issue?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. And this was published by the Communist Party of the United States? A. Yes. [1385]

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this book in evidence, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: It will be received without objection.

(The book referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 227.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I want to call the Court's attention, please, to what appears on the back of the cover of this magazine. Among other things, the following appears:

"Read more about Marxism and Leninism, in hundreds of books, pamphlets and magazines for sale at these book stores and literature distributing centers".

Below that appears, among other addresses, this: "San Francisco: 170 Golden Gate Avenue; 1609 O'Farrell Street; 121 Haight Street; 15 Embarcadero."

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you two other booklets, Mr. Honig. One is entitled "15 Years of the Communist International", and the other "Organizational Problems of the Communist Party" by A. A. Zhdanov, the second one published by the Workers Library Publishers, and I will ask you if you are familiar with these two booklets?

A. Yes. This "15 Years of Communist International" has no publishing date, and I believe it was published in [1386] 1935; about that time anyway. The other one I am familiar with.

Q. Were both of these booklets circulated and distributed by the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Q. During the time you were a member of it?

A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer them in evidence in order shown the witness.

Presiding Inspector: They will be received.

(The booklets referred to were received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibits Nos. 228 and 229.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Honig, I will show you what purports to be a membership book in the Communist Party of the U. S. A., section of the Communist International, membership book No. 2799, in the name of one N. Miller signed by Alex Noral, signature of the District Organizer, and the Party seal appearing thereon, and ask you if you are familiar with such membership books?

A. I don't know the person whose name appears therein. I never met him. But I do know—I can say this: That the membership book I myself possessed in the Communist Party was identical as far as its——

Q. (Interposing) Identical in every respect with regard [1387] to the printed matter thereon?

A. Yes. And membership books that I have handled myself as a member of the Communist Party units were identical.

Q. Can you state, then, of your own knowledge that this book was an official membership of the Communist Party during that period of time?

A. Well, in every appearance it seems to me to be.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer it in evidence, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: It will be received.

(The membership book referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 230.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I ask that a photostatic copy be substituted therefor.

Presiding Inspector: It may be done. [1388]

Mr. Del Guercio: I would like to read a few portions from pages of his membership book appearing on the printed portion of it. On page 14 there appears this:

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

"The discussion on basic Party questions or general Party lines can be carried on by the members only until the Central Committee has decided them. After a decision has been adopted at the Congress of the Comintern, the Party convention, or by the leading Party Committee, it must be carried out unconditionally, even if some of the members or some of the local organizations are not in agreement with the decision."

And then again on an un-numbered page, the third page from the back under "Party Discipline" this appears:

"1. The strictest Party discipline is the most solemn duty of all Party members and all Party organizations. The decisions of the CI and the Party convention, of the CC and of all leading committees of the Party, must be promptly carried out. Discussion of questions over which there have been differences must not continue after the decision has been made."

Presiding Inspector: The date of that membership card?

Mr. Del Guercio: 1938, I believe.

The Witness: 1933, 1934, I believe it was.

Mr. Del Guercio: 1932—just a minute.

Presiding Inspector: The same kind has been used during the entire time you were a member?

The Witness: No. [1389]

Mr. Del Guercio: This was issued on January 16, 1933.

Presiding Inspector: Some change has been made?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

The Witness: Slight changes were made every few years in the printed matter and the cover changed color.

Presiding Inspector: Was there any change in substance?

The Witness: Not in essential substance; no.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Honig, I will show you a book called "What is Communism", by Earl Browder, General Secretary, Communist Party of the USA, published by the Workers Library Publishers, and ask you if you are familiar with that book?

A. (Examining book) Yes.

Q. Have you read it? A. Yes, I have.

Q. And was it published, distributed and circulated during the time you were a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. What is the publication date?

A. Oh, I think it was in 1933, or 1934. There were several editions of it.

Q. This shows 1936, is that correct?

A. There were quite a few editions of it. Yes.

Q. Does this contain the accepted doctrines, practices and teachings of the Communist Party?

A. Yes. That was written by the Secretary of the [1390] Communist Party.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, if your Honor please, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

(The book referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 231.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I want to read, if your Honor please, from page 129 of this book:

"If bourgeois property is to be maintained under the present conditions of capitalist crisis, then the ruling class says there must be the destruction of surplus goods and productive forces accompanied by the most brutal suppression of the suffering masses. If the productive forces and accumulated wealth of society are to be preserved and further developed, the property rights of the capitalists and the institutions by which they are maintained must be abolished, and the exploiting minority and its agents suppressed. Thus, some form of violence is unavoidable. There is no possible choice between violence and non-violence. The only choice is between the two sides of the class struggle."

Presiding Inspector: You heard that word, French word, bourgeois? (French pronunciation)

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: What do you understand is meant by "bourgeois"? [1391]

A. What the Communist Party means by it is the capitalist class; tse upper section of the capitalist class.

Presiding Inspector: That would be the aristocracy, wouldn't it?

The Witness: Well, not in the real——

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: Bourgeoisie were the people who conducted the French revolution?

The Witness: They were the people who laid the groundwork for the rise of the bourgeoisie as a class.

Presiding Inspector: They were the bourgeoisie themselves?

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Now, is a man who works with his hands and saves his money, and buys his home, a member of the bourgeoisie?

The Witness: No; the Communist Party wouldn't classify him as such.

Presiding Inspector: Why not?

The Witness: A man who works with his hands —you mean works for somebody else?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

The Witness: No; he would be called a member of the proletariat.

Presiding Inspector: Well, take a public official, who works with his head, the Mayor of a city, is he a member of the [1392] bourgeoisie?

The Witness: It depends on what else he did. If he is just a public official and made his living——

Presiding Inspector: He never did anything else but serve the state since he got out of high school.

The Witness: He would be considered a member of the petty bourgeoisie. These are the people who, according to the Communist definition, who possess some slight amount of property, who don't toil with their hands, in factories, mill or smelter, and in this case, he would be classified as a member of the white collar class, which is lumped in with the petty bourgeoisie.

Presiding Inspector: They were to be destroyed too?

The Witness: No. In their publications they don't say they are to be destroyed. They are to be won over in proletarian eyes.

Presiding Inspector: But the other bourgeoisie are not to be won over at all, they are to be destroyed?

The Witness: No. They are to be destroyed.

Presiding Inspector: What about a newspaper editor?

The Witness: It depends on what kind of a paper he edits.

Presiding Inspector: He does the same sort of work in either case.

The Witness: Well, if he edits the Peoples World he is not to be destroyed; he would probably be helping in the destruction. [1393]

Presiding Inspector: If he edits, say, the New York Tribune he is to be destroyed?

The Witness: He probably would be.

Presiding Inspector: And by "destroyed" you really mean it, don't you; that is, you mean this is to be a forcible revolution?

The Witness: If they caught up with him, yes; if they didn't skip the country in time to get away.

Presiding Inspector: You don't mean any theoretical, political success by parliamentary, democratic methods?

The Witness: No.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: That is out?

The Witness: That is not the final program.

Presiding Inspector: When this revolution is to come about, of course, it is to be determined by the Central authority?

The Witness: It is to be determined, first of all, by probably the Communist International in Moscow—not probably; there is no question it would be—and then the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the United States would be told that they considered the time ripe for a revolutionary situation, for a revolutionary uprising.

Presiding Inspector: Part of the direct action?

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: That was so during all the time that you were in the Party? [1394]

The Witness: Yes; but they didn't scorn indirect action either.

Presiding Inspector: Do the best they could with it?

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: I wanted to understand these words of large content.

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes, sir.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Honig, I will show you another copy of The Communist, for July, 1929, and ask if you are familiar with this particular issue?

A. (Examining magazine) Yes. I looked at the contents to refresh myself to see if I remember the articles. I am familiar with it.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. This was published, of course, as indicated on the cover here, by the Communist Party of the USA? A. Yes.

Q. And sold, of course, as a magazine?

A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The magazine referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 232.) [1395]

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Has there ever been any question during the time you were a member of the Communist Party that The Communist Magazine was not what it purports to be, one of the organs of the Communist Party of the U.S.A.?

A. No; never any question about it.

Mr. Del Guercio: I would like to read from page 357 and continuing on page 358 and 359 of this magazine:

"'When Communists urge strikes and crippling of industry in time of war we are accused of trying to bring about the defeat of 'our own' government. To that charge we plead guilty. That is precisely our aim. A government engaged in warfare is weaker than at other times in spite of the fact that its savage repressions make it appear strong to the superficial observer. At such a moment an organized drive to stop the production of war supplies, to cripple the transportation system may result in creating such difficulties that the imperialist forces may be defeated.

"But it is not sufficient in our drive against imperialist war merely to concentrate upon the war industries. We must be able to reach the masses in the armed forces of the nation with revolutionary agitation and propaganda calculated to cause defections and mutiny in the ranks.

"We do not indulge in the social-democratic twaddle about disarmament. We will not tell the soldiers in the army to throw [1396] away their guns and run home. We tell them to hold their guns in their hands and use them against their own capitalist oppressors. When faced with an imperialist war as an accomplished fact we must be able to popularize definite revolutionary slogans among the armed forces. In case of a war between imperialist nations we raise the slogan of fraternization with the soldiers of the opposing army, refusal to obey commands of officers, mutinies, and other forms of disruptive work. In case of a war against the Soviet Union our main slogan will be different. We will then urge the soldiers in the imperialist armies to desert the army and with their guns and as much ammunition as they can get, go over to the side of the Red Army against the imperialistic forces.

"While the capitalists prepare for another imperialist war, we prepare to utilize the difficulties for capitalism arising out of such a war in order to initiate the next stage of the world revolution.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

"We realize that such a conflict requires careful preparation under the leadership of a determined Bolshevik party. Turning an imperialist war between nations into a civil war against capitalism is not a simple matter, it is not a game for dilletantes to play. It requires the most highly developed revolutionary strategy and an ability to estimate the relative forces involved in the struggle as well as the precise moment for the launching of the insurrection. [1397]

"When a revolutionary situation is developing, as a result of war or from any other cause, the Party of the proletariat must lead a direct attack against the capitalist state. The slogans put forth must be of such a nature as to guide the movement in its development, which will take the form at first of mass strikes and armed demonstrations. In that stage there arises the question of arming of the working class and disarming the capitalist class. Finally the highest form of struggle is reached wherein it culminates in the general strike and a merging of large sections of the military forces and the workers for armed insurrection against the capitalist state power."

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Honig, has the Communist Party ever deviated from the doctrines and precepts outlined in the article that I have just read?

A. All the time that I was a member of it those aims were retained.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Now, Mr. Honig, you said that upon your return from the Soviet Union you were used by the Communist Party in trade union activities, is that a correct statement of what you said?

A. Not exactly. I said that prior to going to the Soviet Union—as a matter of fact, because I had done trade union work I was sent to the Soviet Union, because I had been Editor of Labor Unity, the Communist Party trade union magazine. On my return, for a short time, for a month or so, I [1398] worked in the District office, in the New York District of the Communist Party. Then a few months after that I was sent out to San Francisco to be a member of the staff of the Western Worker, which is the predecessor of the Peoples World.

Q. And then it was before you went to Russia that you were Editor-in-Chief of Labor Unity?

A. Yes.

Q. You testified, I believe, that the Trade Union Unity League was created or was conceived, rather, the idea of forming the Trade Union Unity League was conceived by the Communist International?

A. Yes.

Q. And the Communist Party in the United States was ordered to hold a convention in 1929?

A. Yes—not to hold a convention under the name of the Communist Party—but ordered to organize one.

Q. To organize one? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know why the Communist International wanted to form the Trade Union Unity League?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes, sir. The idea was this, briefly speaking: Prior to that the work of the Communist Party in trade unions had been concentrated in the American Federation of Labor Unions with the object of splitting them up, breaking them up, and this was best exemplified by William Z. Foster's famous phrase, "to bore from within." Also with the objective, of course, [1399] of recruiting Communist Party members within the American Federation of Labor.

But by 1929 the American Federation of Labor had expelled many, many Communist Party members and, unfortunately, I think many who weren't, but who perhaps were thought to be. But they had expelled many, many Communist Party members to the point that these Communists had no trade union organization for themselves, those who had been expelled. One reason for the formation of the T.U.U.L. was to find a trade union organization for the Communists who had been expelled from the A. F. of L. to belong to.

Another reason was that in many industries, such as the steel industry, and similar heavy industries, textile, the American Federation of Labor had not done any organization whatsoever. These were industries that the Communist Party wanted to gain a foothold in as they considered them very essential for the aims of the Communist Party in which to have a Communist nuclei. It could not be done in the American Federation of Labor because the A. F. of L. had not organized in these industries to any extent, so the Communist Party wanted to set up unions in these fields, to have an organization through which to work for its aims in these particular unorganized industries.

Then, of course, I think the chief reason for the formation was that it was felt in Moscow, in the Communist Inter- [1400] national and in the Red International of Labor Unions, that a situation was rapidly occurring where the formation of unions with a direct revolutionary goal would be essential because, as you know, the Wall Street crash occurred in 1929, and unemployment started to increase, plants began to shut down, and they felt that now with this discontent, that this discontent would mount among the working class, and that was a good opportunity to form revolutionary unions to channelize that discontent. [1401]

Q. And they were not forming those unions as one of these exhibits you have just read indicates, "As a means in itself"?

A. No. They were formed with a definite revolutionary goal.

Q. And the Trade Union Unity League was what? What was its function and how did it operate? That is, what did it do?

A. The Trade Union Unity League was supposed to be an equivalent of the American Federation of Labor, a direct rival in the sense of the

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. F. of L. being a central organization for all A. F. of L. international unions. In the same way the Communist Party hoped to make the Trade Union Unity League a national central trade organization to which "Red," as they were called—Red trade unions in each industry would be affiliated.

Q. Did it issue charters to the various——

A. (Interposing) It issued charters to unions which it had set up.

Q. What are some of the so-called unions that belong to the Trade Union Unity League?

A. There was National Textile Workers Union, National Miners Union, Marine Workers Industrial Union, Needle Trade [1402] Workers Industrial Union, Shoe and Leather Workers Industrial Union, Steel and Metal Workers Industrial Union. I imagine those covered the main fields. National Miners Union—I don't know that I have mentioned that. Later on, the Auto Workers Union. That is not the present CIO Auto Workers Union, but that was a Red trade union.

Q. You mentioned the Marine Workers Industrial Union? A. Yes.

Q. Is there a question of its being a Red union, as you stated?

A. Well, it was affiliated directly with the Trade Union Unity League, all of whose National Executive Board members were members of the Communist Party and in most cases members of the Central Committee of the Communist Party. And in all the time that I worked as Editor of Labor

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Unity and, incidentaly, as such I was a member of the National Executive Board of the TUUL—and all that time there were no leading officials, particularly no national leading officials of the Marine Workers Industrial Union who were not members of the Communist Party and generally leading members of the Communist Party.

Q. Oh, you were on the governing board of the TUUL?

A. Yes. As Editor of the Labor Unity under its constitution I was automatically a member of the National [1403] Executive Board.

Q. And how does this National Executive Board function with relation to the TUUL and the Marine Workers Industrial Union?

A. It was made up of all the national officers of the TUUL itself, of all the international presidents of the Red trade unions which had been set up, myself as Editor of the official organ, and a few other Communist Party members who were leading officials in these Red trade unions. It would meet generally at least once a week, consider the problems of each union or at least those unions that had any important problems that particular week, make decisions, then consult with members of the Central Committee of the Communist Party on what decisions they made; and then, if it was O.K.'d by the Central Committee of the Communist Party, they were transmitted as decisions to be followed out absolutely by the various unions affiliated with the TUUL.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Why was it necessary to consult the officials of the Communist Party or Central Committee of the Communist Party?

A. It was the Trade Union Unity League had been set up in the first place by the Central Committee of the Communist Party for the chief purpose of carrying out Communist Party work, and the Communist Party aims among the workers.

Q. Would you say, then, that it was a creature of the Communist Party, the Trade Union Unity League? [1404]

A. Yes, of course, in the first place it was a creature of the Communist International and the Red International of Labor Unions.

Q. And it was completely dominated and controlled by the Communist Party?

A. There was never any doubt of that in my mind in all the time that I was closely connected with it.

Q. Was there any doubt in anybody else's mind; that is, who was on the Executive Board?

A. Not on the Executive Board, no.

Q. Was there any member of the Executive Board who was not a member of the Communist Party?

A. I cannot recall a single one, and I believe I knew every one of them in the period that I was Editor of the Labor Unity.

Q. Who were some of the members of the Executive Board?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. They were not necessarily at the same time members, but in the time that I was.

Q. Yes.

A. But they were also members of the Executive Board. Well, of course, there was William Z. Foster.

Q. There is no question about him being a member of the Communist Party?

A. No, because he ran openly as Communist Candidate for President of the United States several times. Then there was [1405] James W. Ford.

Q. Who was he?

A. He was the leader in Negro Communist Party work among the Negroes. He was a member of the National Executive Committee throughout the period that I was on it.

Q. Was there any question about his being a member of the Communist Party?

A. No, because he ran for Vice-Presidential Candidate of the United States.

Q. On the Communist ticket?

A. Yes. There was Jack Johnstone.

Q. Was there any question about his being a member of the Communist Party?

A. Not to me or to any of us other members of the Executive Board. We knew he was because we also met with him in district committee meetings. And a man by the name of John Schmies.

Q. How do you spell that?

A. S-c-h-m-i-e-s, who when I was Editor of Labor Unity was Assistant Secretary of the Trade

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Union Unity League and later was sent to Detroit to do work among the auto workers for the Communist Party, and who later on became District—I think even before that, and then again later became a district official for the Communist Party in the Detroit district. So [2406] there was no doubt about him and his political affiliation.

Then there was, Ben Gold who became President of the Needle Trade Workers Industrial Union which was set up as a TUUL Union. There was——

Q. (Interposing) Is there any question about his being a member of the Communist Party?

A. No, if memory serves we right, he too had run as a Communist Candidate in New York State or New York City elections. I don't remember exactly. There was a man named Potash. I don't remember his first name.

Q. Potash?

A. P-o-t-a-s-h. Who was one of the officials of the Needle Trade Workers Industrial Union, was a member of the Communist Party. I knew that, that he was.

Well, there was Frank Borich, who was President of the International Miners Union. B-o-r-i-c-h. And Ann Burlak, who became President of the National Textile Workers Union, which was set up by the Trade Union Unity League.

Q. Is there any question about those two being members of the Communist Party?

A. No, no. When I say "there was no question", I mean among all of us who were members of the National Executive Board of the TUUL. There were numerous others.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. But you have given the most important ones? [1407]

A. I think I have. I may have omitted some.

Q. Yes. Well, I will show you now a magazine here called "The Communist International", published by the Workers—no, "The Communist International, Organ of the Executive Committee of the Communist International," published by the "Workers Library Publishers, P. O. Box 148, Sta. D. New York City", the June 20, 1934 issue, and I will ask you if you are familiar with this particular publication? A. Yes, I am.

Q. And this magazine is, as indicated on the cover here, the organ of the Executive Committee of the Communist International? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, Your Honor, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It will be received without objection.

(The magazine referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 233.)

Mr. Del Guercio: And I would like to read from page 392 of this publication, as follows:

"In marine, while the Marine Workers' Industrial Union has led a number of successful strikes among the seamen, the opposition work among the longshoremen in the A. F. of L. is very weak, particularly in the Atlantic and Gulf Ports. In the strike struggles on the Pacific Coast, it was possible, [1408] by combining opposition work in the A. F. of L. together with the independent activity of the Marine Workers Industrial Union and its correct approach to the united front, to exert some influence on the longshoremen's struggles in San Francisco, and to play an important role in spreading the strike to the seamen".

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a magazine here called the "Party Organizer", dated August, 1931, issued by the Central Committee Communist Party, U.S.A., and ask you if you are familiar with this particular booklet? A. Yes, I am.

Q. And is it as it indicates issued by the Central Committee of the Communist Party, U.S.A.?

A. Yes.

Q. Distributed by them? A. Yes.

Q. Circulated by them? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this booklet in evidence, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 234.) [1409]

Mr. Del Guercio: I want to call the Court's attention to the last page of this book. It is a dictionary of abbreviations for all of the abbreviations used.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Is this the abbreviations used for the various organizations connected or affiliated with the Communist Party?

A. Yes, they are. Some of them are organizations set up by the Communist Party but not openly Communist Party creations.

Mr. Del Guercio: And among those listed, if your Honor please, to which I would like to call the Court's attention, is the Marine Workers' Industrial Union, given the abbreviation "MWIU".

Presiding Inspector: Does that fall within the class you mentioned?

The Witness: Yes. You mean as organizations not supposed to be known openly as Communist?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. How about the ILD? A. The same.

Q. The International Labor Defense?

A. The International Labor Defense. [1410]

Presiding Inspector: But that is not so of the TUUL?

The Witness: Yes, that is openly as far as the membership of various TUUL Unions were concerned. They were not supposed to know, and many of them didn't know, that they were being controlled by the Communist Party.

Presiding Inspector: Didn't it in one of its books says, "affiliate" of the Red International?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

The Witness: Yes. But the Red International of Labor Unions wasn't also openly advertised as a section of the Communist International?

Presiding Inspector: In Moscow?

The Witness: Yes, in Moscow.

Presiding Inspector: They had front institutions in Moscow, too?

The Witness: Oh, yes.

Presiding Inspector: What would be the reason for making it an affiliate of Moscow, a trade union institution, if it was not to be Communist?

The Witness: Well, naturally they wanted to set up the world center of the Red trade union work all over the world. They wanted to set it up as near as possible to the Communist International itself, so that decisions of the Communist International could be transmitted as rapidly as possible. Another reason was that it was extremely difficult for any international [1411] organization with the title "Red" in it or which is known or suspected of being a Communist International Organization to gain a haven in any other country but the Soviet Union. And I believe those are the two chief reasons.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. This William Z. Foster was the National Secretary of the Trade Union Unity League, was he not? A. Yes, he was.

Q. Did everybody know that he was a Communist?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes, because, as I mentioned, he had run as Presidential Candidate of the Communist Party.

Q. There was no effort, like there was in some of these other front organizations, to conceal the identity of the Trade Union Unity League, was there?

A. There was. There was lots of effort in that direction. The idea was that the Trade Union Unity League was to appear simply as an ordinary trade union central organization, just as the A. F. of L. was, and in the literature, however, circulated among party members themselves, among Communist Party members themselves, there was very little—there was a great deal of looseness in describing the TUUL. They would constantly couple up the name of the Communist Party with the Trade Union Unity League and they would refer to them as the "Red Trade Unions", and this became a regular habit. Then when anybody questioned that and would ask "Well, how is it you call them Red Trade [1412] Unions"? They would say, "Well, the term 'Red' simply means unions with simply a militant attitude and policy. It doesn't necessarily mean 'Communist'".

Q. But every member of the Communist Party knew the connections between these various unions, like Marine Workers Industrial Union, to the TUUL and it, in turn, with the Red International of Labor Unions, and in turn, with the Communist International?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Any member of the Communist Party who attended the meetings, or even once in a blue moon or read one Communist periodical once in a blue moon understood that.

Q. I will show you a pamphlet here called the "Party Organizer" for April, 1934, issued by the Central Committee, Communist Party, U.S.A., and ask you if you are familiar with this particular pamphlet or magazine? A. Yes, I am.

Q. Was this, as the book indicates, as the pamphlet indicates, issued by the Central Executive Committee of the Communist Party, U.S.A.?

A. Yes.

Q. Was it distributed——

A. (Interposing) Yes.

Q. (Continuing) ——by the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer this in evidence, if your Honor please. [1413]

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The pamphlet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 235.).

Mr. Del Guercio: And I would like to call the Court's attention particularly to pages 26, 27 and 28 of this pamphlet, an article by "X. Y., A Communist Soldier", "Work in the Armed Forces".

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you another issue—August, 1934,—of the "Party Organizer" and ask you if you are familiar with that? A. Yes, I am.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. And is that also issued by the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the U.S.A.?

A. Yes.

Q. And distributed? A. Yes.

Q. And circulated by the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It will be received without objection.

(The pamphlet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 236.) [1414]

Mr. Del Guercio: And I would like to read from page 1 of this booklet, your Honor, under the title "Two Lessons from the San Francisco General Strike", beginning with the third paragraph:

"The answer to this question is clear. The longshoremen took the control of their strike from the hands of the labor bureaucracy and placed it in the hands of a rank-and-file leadership, which firmly resisted all of the efforts of the fakers and the Government to betray it. The masses in Toledo and Milwaukee and Minneapolis were in motion, the Party played a role in all of these strikes, the workers adopted our slogans and attempted to carry them out, but were defeated by the strategy and the tactics of the bosses and the bureaucrats. Why could this occur? Was it because the workers in Toledo and Milwaukee and Minneapolis were less militant, or less determined, than the longshoremen in San Francisco? No, the answer lies in the fact that in these places the Party was working from without. We did not have a firm base among the workers. But in San Francisco the Party had carried out a policy of concentration among the longshoremen, who are a decisive section of the working class, and had built a strong opposition movement within the reformist union. Consequently when the labor leaders appeared before the workers with their betrayal policy, there was a strong organized group within the union, which was able to expose their maneuvers and defeat [1415] them."

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I show you another pamphlet here called "Out of a Job," by Earl Browder, "Order from Workers Library Publishers, Inc.," and ask you if you are familiar with this? A. Yes, I am.

Q. Is this pamphlet published, circulated and distributed by the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. During the time that you were a member?

A. Yes, it was.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, your Honor, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It will be received without objection.

(The pamphlet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 237.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I would like to read a paragraph from page 20 of this book under the heading "The Final Solution for Unemployment".

"From what has been said, it is clear that unemployment, which is the foundation upon which the capitalist class has built its entire system, can only be finally abolished by the abolition of capitalism. And capitalism can only be abolished [1416] by the working class, organizing its power in strong, fighting trade unions, under the leadership of the Communist Party, and overthrowing the state power of the capitalist class to replace it with the workers' government—the dictatorship of the proletariat, the rule of the propertyless people".

By Mr. Del Guerrio:

Q. I will show you three documents here, the first being the February, 1934 issue of "The Communist" published monthly by the Communist Party of the United States; the second one, a booklet called "The Way Out, a Program for American Labor, Manifesto and Principal Resolutions Adopted by the Eighth Convention of the Communist Party of the U.S.A. Published by the Workers Library Publishers, May, 1934"; and the third, a booklet called "Why a Worker's Daily Press?" by C. A. Hathaway and Sam Don, "Daily Worker, Central Organ Communist Party, U.S.A., Section of the Communist International", and ask you if you are familiar with these three documents?

A. Yes, I am. [1417]

Q. Referring to the first one, The Communist, for February, 1934, is it, as it is indicated, the publication of the Communist Party of the U.S.A.?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes.

Q. And distributed and circulated by the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. And are the other two documents published, distributed and circulated by the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer these three documents in evidence in the order shown the witness.

Presiding Inspector: They may be received.

(The three pamphlets referred to were received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibits 238, 239 and 240.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, Mr. Honig, I will show you a pamphlet here called "Little Brothers of the Big Labor Fakers," by Wm. Z. Foster, published by the Trade Union Unity League, 2 West 15th Street, New York, and ask you if you are familiar with that?

A. (Examining pamphlet) Yes, I am.

Q. Who distributed this pamphlet, if you know?

A. That was distributed through the Trade Union Unity League itself, and it was on sale at the Communist Party book stores—at least I know it was in the New York book stores of the Communist Party. It was sold at Communist Party [1418] units.

Q. Did the Communist Party distribute it, or assist in its distribution?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Assisted in its distribution.

Q. And was this, like the other pamphlets, edited by the high officials of the Communist Party before it was published?

A. Well, that probably didn't have to be because it was written by Foster himself, who was one of the high officials, so that I can't say definitely whether he had to submit it to anybody, but I doubt it.

Q. Was this made available to everybody that wanted to purchase it?

A. To every member of a Trade Union Unity League Union, or to every member of the Communist Party; yes.

Q. And also, you say, to every member of the particular trade union under the T.U.U.L.?

A. All unions under the T.U.U.L.; yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

(The phamphlet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 241.)

Presiding Inspector: When was it published?

The Witness: 1931.

Mr. Del Guercio: It has a report of William Foster's [1419] speech made on May 10, 1931. It must have been published some time after that date. The pamphlet does not contain a publication date.

I would like to read from page 3 of this booklet:

"The Trade Union Unity League is the American Section of the Red International of Labor Unions. It is composed of industrial unions, organized minorities in the reformist organizations and unemployed councils."

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

And further down on the same page:

"The T.U.U.L. is based on the class struggle."

And again on page 4:

"The T.U.U.L. is a revolutionary union; it fights for the overthrow of capitalism and the establishment of a workers' and farmers' government. On its fight for partial demands, the T.U.U.L. bases its program of organization, education, and struggle of the workers for final emancipation.

"To broaden and intensify its general struggle, the T.U.U.L. makes united front movement with the Comunist Party, with the workers in A. F. of L. unions and other proletarian organizations and with unorganized workers."

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, Mr. Honig, you say this was made available to all these unions under the T.U.U.L.?

A. Yes.

Q. And to all members of it? [1420]

A. Yes. By "being made available" I mean, of course, it was distributed in the unions and there offered for sale to all members.

Q. Whether the members were members of the Communist Party or not?

A. Yes; in the case of T.U.U.L. unions, whether they were or not members of the Party.

Presiding Inspector: I notice there that parts of the reformist unions were admitted to membership. Would they be the Communist Fraction?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

The Witness: By "reformist unions" they meant the American Federation of Labor unions.

Presiding Inspector: Would they be accepted into the T.U.U.L.?

The Witness: They wouldn't apply. They were very——

Presiding Inspector: What does that refer to?

The Witness: Reformist unions — to minorities, Communist minorities working within those reformist unions.

Presiding Inspector: It isn't mentioned in quite that way.

Mr. Del Guercio: They put it this way:

"to broaden and intensify its general struggle, the T.U.U.L. makes united front movements with the Communist Party; with the workers in A. F. of L. unions and other proletarian organizations, and with unorganized workers." [1421]

Presiding Inspector: But the membership, what does it say that consists of? You read it a few moments ago.

Mr Del Guercio: From this same book?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: It says here:

"The T.U.U.L. is based on the class struggle. It opposes the whole class collaboration line of the American Federation of Labor, including union-management-cooperation, arbitration, the no-strike policy, support of the capitalist parties, etc."

Presiding Inspector: Let me see that pamphlet, please. That isn't what I referred to.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

(Government's Exhibit No. 241 was passed to the Presiding Inspector.)

Presiding Inspector: In the very first sentence it says:

"The Trade Union Unity League is the American Section of the Red International of Labor Unions."

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: The second sentence reads:

"It is composed of industrial unions, organized minorities in the reformist organizations and unemployed councils."

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: What does it mean by "organized minorities in the reformist organizations?" [1422]

The Witness: It means Communist Party members who still remain in certain A. F. of L. Unions to "bore from within."

Presiding Inspector: What other witnesses have called the Communist Fractions in those unions?

The Witness: Yes; they would be Communist Fractions in those Unions.

Presiding Inspector: I don't want to mislead you, if that isn't it.

The Witness: No, no; that is what it was.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you a pamphlet called "4 Fighting Years, a Short History of the Marine Workers Industrial Union," issued by the Marine Workers

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Industrial Union, 2 Stone Street, New York City, and on the back of this appears this:

"Where to join. Headquarters of M.W.I.U."

And, among other addresses, is given "San Francisco, California, Third Floor, 437 Market Street."

I will ask you if you can identify this?

A. (Examining pamphlet) Yes. I can't recall the date of publication of it, but I do definitely recall its circulation among Communist Party members.

Q. Who distributed, who caused its circulation and distribution?

A. Well, of course, it was published by the Marine Workers Industrial Union itself, and the Communist Party members [1423] of the Marine Workers Industrial Union would have it distributed among Communist Party members in other unions and Communist Party units themselves, and also would send a batch of them to each book store of the Communist Party.

Q. And they would be sold and distributed to these Communist Party book stores?

A. Yes. I have seen it in the New York Communist Party book stores.

Q. This article appears to be written by Roy B. Hudson, National Secretary? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know Roy B. Hudson?

A. Yes. He is a member also—I should have mentioned him—of the National Executive Board of the Trade Union Unity League. He was National Secretary of the Marine Workers Industrial

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Union, either that or National President—I forget the exact title used—but he was the chief of it.

Q. Is there any question about him being a member of the Communist Party?

A. No; no because I knew him as a member of the Central Executive Committee of the Communist Party and a member of the Political Bureau of the Communist Party.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, if your Honor please, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: Received. [1424]

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 242.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I show you a booklet called "The Point Gorda Strike," published by the Marine Workers Industrial Union, 140 Broad Street, New York City, and ask you if you are familiar with that booklet?

A. (Examining booklet.) Yes. I am familiar with this because it is based on an article, the same title of which appeared in the Labor Unity, when I was made Editor of it. It is an elaboration on the same thing, made into a pamphlet.

Q. Who caused that booklet to be distributed?

A. It was decided by the Central Committee of the Communist Party that it would be a good idea to take this article, "The Point Gorda Strike," and make a pamphlet out of it. It was suggested to the Trade Union Unity League executive board which, in turn, passed the suggestion on to the Marine Workers Industrial Union, and so it was done.

Q. So your testimony is that it was distributed, or caused to be distributed by the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received. [1425]

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 243.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I would like to call the Court's attention to the first page of this on which is contained the Marine Workers Industrial Union's preamble—I won't take the time to read it.

On the back of this, on the back cover under "Where to join, Headquarters of the M.W.I.U.", among other addresses, is shown "San Francisco, 78 Clay Street"

Presiding Inspector: We will recess until 2:00 o'clock.

(Whereupon, at 12:30 P. M. a recess was taken until 2:00 o'clock P. M. of the same day.) [1426]

After Recess

2:00 o'Clock P. M.

Presiding Inspector: You may proceed, Mr. Del Guercio.

NAT HONIG

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Direct Examination (Resumed)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Honig, I am going to hand you a certain number of Government Exhibits here, the first one being Government's Exhibit No. 114, and ask you to look at it and tell me if you can identify it.

A. (Examining exhibit) Yes; from the table of contents.

Q. Are you familiar with the International Press Correspondence? A. Yes.

Q. What is that?

A. It is a publication printed in several languages, which reports the news of Communist Parties, rather, not the news, but the progress, and growth of the Communist Parties in all countries.

The English edition, while I was in the Party, was published in London and I think in one period anyway it would be also reprinted in New York.

[1427]

Then there was a French edition a Chinese edition and a Spanish edition, published in the chief cities of each of these respective countries, except the Chinese edition, which, I think, was published in Moscow.

At that time there was an original Russion edition, which was translated into all these languages, but it was published in Moscow.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. And was it distributed the circulated during the time that you were in the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Q. I will show you Government's Exhibit No. 91 and ask you if you can identify that?

A. (Examining exhibit) Yes; this is the Communist Manifesto, by Marx and Engels. I am familiar with it. There were many other editions that were printed and published by the Communist Party.

Q. And was this circulated and distributed by the Communist Party during the time that you were in the Communist Party? A. Yes, it was.

Q. I will show you Government's Exhibit No. 92, "The Communist International", and ask you if you are familiar with it?

A. Yes, I am familiar with it.

Q. I believe that is "The Communist International" by V. I. Lenin? [1428] A. Yes.

Q. Was this book circulated and distributed by the Communist Party during the time you were in the Party?

A. Yes. It was published by the International Publishers, which was one of the publishing houses of the Communist Party.

Q. I will next show you Government's Exhibit No. 93, "The Function of the Communist International" by V. I. Lenin, and ask you if that book was distributed and circulated by the Communist Party during the time you were in the Party?

A. Yes.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. I will next show you Government' Exhibit 94, "Thesis and Statutes of the Communist International", and ask you if that book was distributed and circulated by the Communist Party during the time you were in the Communist Party?

A. No. This was published in 1920 or '21. It is the Thesis of a Congress held in 1920 and it was long before I was a member of the Communist Party. I have seen copies of it in possession of Communists. I haven't seen it distributed and sold by the Communist Party during my period of membership.

Q. Did you ever see it in the Communist Library or book shops, Communist bookshops?

A. No. I have merely seen it in the individual possession.

Q. In the possession of individual members of the Communist Party? [1429] A. Yes.

Q. I show you Government's Exhibit 95, "Program of the Communist International", and ask you if that book was distributed and circulated by the Communist Party during the time that you were a member?

A. Yes, this was. This is familiar.

Q. I next show you Government's Exhibit 102, "Platform of the Class Strugle," and ask you if that book was distributed and circulated by the Communist Party during the time that you were a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes; for a short time after I was, then it was withdrawn from circulation.

Q. I will show you Government's Exhibit 105,

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

"Left Wing Communism", by N. Lenin, and ask you if that was circulated and distributed by the Communist Party during the time that you were a member?

A. I have never seen this particular edition of it. The same work, "Left Wing Communism" by Lenin, I have seen other editions published later on, but not this particular edition of it.

Q. Did it contain substantially the same matters contained in that book?

A. I can't tell because I haven't read this particular one. I can't tell.

Q. I will show you Government's Exhibit 106, "Imperialism [1430] and Imperialist War", and ask you if that book was circulated and distributed by the Communist Party during the time that you were a member? A. Yes, this was.

Q. Next I will show you Government's Exhibit 107, "Struggle Against Imperialists and Tasks of the Communists", and ask you if that book was circulated and distributed by the Communist Party during the time that you were a member?

A. Yes, this was.

Q. Next, Government's Exhibit 101 "On the Road to Bolshevism".

A. "Bolshevization", yes.

Q. Was that book circulated and distributed by the Communist Party during the time that you were a member? A. Yes, it was.

Q. And next I will show you Government's Exhibit 115, another copy of "The International Press Correspondence", and ask you if the "International Press Correspondence" was still in effect during the time that you were a member of the Communist Party and still printing such pamphlet?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes.

Q. Next, Government's Exhibit 116, "Why Every Worker Should Join the Communist Party". Was that pamphlet circulated and distributed by the Communist Party during the time that you [1431] were a member? A. Yes.

Q. The next one is Government's Exhibit 140, "Democracy or Fascism", and ask you if that booklet was distributed and circulated by the Communist Party during the time that you were a member? A. Yes, this was.

Q. And the last is "The Communist", August 16 issue, and ask you if you can identify that particular issue? A. Yes, I can.

Q. And that magazine contains the accepted doctrines, teachings and practices of the Communist Party for that period?

A. Yes; that was the official organ of the Communist Party.

Q. Now, in these books that you have identified, Mr. Honig, do they contain the accepted practices and teachings of the Communist Party during the period of time you were a member of that Party?

A. Yes; those that I have identified, do.

Q. Do you know, Mr. Honig, what the aims, objectives and purposes of the Communist Party were during the time that you were a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes, I believe I do. [1432]

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Do you also know what the teachings of the Communist Party were during that period of time?

A. Yes.

Q. What were the aims, objectives and teachings of the Communist Party during the period of time that you were a member of the Party?

A. The basic aim of the Communist Party of the United States, in the period that I was a member—I won't presume to place them in their order of importance necessarily, but as they come to me.

One was for the overthrow of the democratic system of Government, as we know it in the United States, and a substitution for that of a dictatorship of one party, the Communist Party.

Q. How were they to accomplish that end?

A. The accepted writings advocated, if necessary, that would be done by use of force and violence. In many of the writings it was stated that it was believed that it would be necessary to do so.

Q. Well, was there any doubt that force and violence would be used?

A. Well, it wasn't a question of whether there was any doubt; it was just, as far as the Communist Party leaders were concerned, I suppose—I don't suppose—I know from the discussions with them that they would prefer, if they [1433] could accomplish their aim without a hardship or difficulty they could avoid, they would prefer it that way naturally; if they couldn't, the teachings were to accomplish that aim by whatever means were necessary, or whatever means they thought necessary.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Including the use of force and violence?

A. Yes.

Q. What other objectives did they have?

A. That was their main and definite and final objective.

Q. What was their objective regarding the trade unions?

A. Their objective regarding trade unions was either to utilize existing trade unions, such as the American Federation of Labor Unions, later on the CIO Unions when they came into being, or at various times to create unions in order to obtain a foothold in industries, particularly the basic industries, the heavy industries, such as steel, various mining industries, marine, textile, to obtain a foothold in these industries, and to set up nuclei groups of Communists in these industries to that when the time was considered right for a seizure of power by the Communist Party that they could already have the Communist Party groups in these industries, very active in these basic industries and, as a result, could move immediately to seize these industries. [1434]

Q. Are you familiar with the doctrine or practice of hypocrisy and deceit practiced by the Communist Party?

A. Well, in the various writings of accepted teachers of the Communist Party, such as Lenin and Stalin, and particularly in one book by Lenin, "Left Wing Communism"—I believe it is "Left Wing Communism"—I am practically certain of that—it is definitely stated, set forth, what methods the Communists can and must use, if necessary to accomplish these aims.

I cannot give exact quotations—that is difficult to do—but it is stated there that Communists should not hesitate to resort to subterfuge, deception, and several more words meaning the same thing, to achieve these aims.

Q. Do they use trickery and terrorism to accomplish their aims?

A. From my experience in the Communist Party, for a long time very little of what you might call terrorism was used. Later on, I think—I don't think but I know—from my own experiences that terrorism not of a major scale or anything, but what I would call individual petty terrorism, was resorted to against those, particularly in unions who were hostile to the Communist aims.

Presiding Inspector: You are talking about this country?

The Witness: I am talking about this country all the time; yes. [1435]

Since I left the Communist Party, particularly in my experience, I can tell you, and I assure you I know, they have resorted to an attempt at terrorism against me myself in Seattle.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Do you know if the membership of the Communist Party were instructed as to how they should conduct themselves in Courts if they were ever called to testify in the Courts of this country?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes. They would be told, when a Communist Party member was brought in Court in some case or other, they were told in certain cases it might be necessary to conceal, in many cases, conceal the fact that they were Communist Party members; except in cases where it was pretty well known that they were Communist Party members, they were generally to deny it. Such as, if a man might have run for some office, some public office on the Communist Party ticket, it would be very little use of him to deny in Court that he was a member of the Communist Party. But otherwise, generally, it was an accepted practice.

Q. You mean it was an accepted practice to deny membership in the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Q. Even when asked under oath?

A. Yes. I would say it this way: That over a period of time that I was a member of the Communist Party that was the [1436] practice.

Q. And would they be instructed to falsely testify under oath regarding other matters touching the Communist Party?

A. I can't say that I ever heard any Communist being instructed to testify falsely under oath regarding other matters. I do know in many, many cases in Court of people, Communists that I knew, and from reading the testimony that they gave they did testify falsely, but I cannot say that they were instructed by the Communist Party to do that. I didn't hear such instructions given.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Now, Mr. Honig, do you know Harry Bridges?

A. Yes. I have met him at Communist Party meetings here in San Francisco.

Q. Now, do you know where he is? Do you see him here in the Court room?

A. Yes. Oh, yes.

Q. Where is he?

A. That's Harry Bridges (Indicating).

Q. Did you know him during the period of time that you were in the Communist Party?

A. I knew him—the major part of the period that I was on the Western Worker here I knew Harry Bridges.

Q. Is he a member of the Communist Party, Mr. Bridges?

A. He was a member of the Communist Party at all the period that I was here in San Francisco on the Western [1437] Worker.

Q. Was he a member of the Marine Workers Industrial Union?

A. I can't state that he was from my own knowledge, that is, from seeing him in the Marine Industrial Workers Union, because the Marine Industrial Workers Union had been abandoned by the Communist Party by the time I had arrived in San Francisco to work on the Western Worker. But in leading Communist Party circles in the East, such as in the Trade Union Unity League, later on when he became known through the 1934 strike it was stated openly between the Communist Party members and leading positions in the TUUL that Harry Bridges had been a member of the Marine Workers Industrial Union.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Well, now, you testified this morning that you had attended numerous meetings of the Red International of Labor Unions in Moscow, Russia; is that right? A. Yes.

Q. Was the name of Bridges ever brought up in these meetings?

A. Yes. After the—during the 1934 strike in San Francisco and for a considerable period afterwards, at many of the meetings of the R.I.L.U., the Red International of Labor Unions, the work of the Communist Party in the marine industry was naturally discussed as a very important item [1438] on their agenda. The role of Harry Bridges, the part that he was playing in the waterfront—on the waterfront here on the West Coast was naturally very much discussed and very often.

Q. And he was referred to in these meetings?

A. In the early part of the 1934 strike at meetings that I attended in the R.I.L.U. there was considerable—not "doubt". They didn't know yet definitely whether Bridges was a party member, a Communist Party member. There are at some of the meetings that I attended. That is, the Russian people who were leaders of the R.I.L.U. didn't know definitely that he was. Very shortly afterwards, though, through American Communist Party members who came there, through communications that they received regarding the activities on the waterfront in San Francisco, they knew definitely that he was a member of the Communist Party and they referred to him as such at many of these meetings and discussions.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. They knew definitely that Harry Bridges was a member of the Communist Party?

A. Well, they felt that they knew it definitely because they had received word of this through what they regarded as authorized and qualified people, leaders of the American Communist Party.

Q. Who were some of those leaders of the American Communist Party? [1439]

A. Well, at various times while——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) Could we interrupt at this point to point out that the witness is being asked not merely for hearsay but hearsay upon hearsay, and we think an objection lies to the testimony that he has given. We move to strike that testimony on that ground and we object to the line of questioning that Mr. Del Guercio is now pursuing on that point.

Presiding Inspector: I will rule on any particular question.

Mr. Gladstein: Well,——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I don't think that I will strike it out. You have allowed it to go in. If you had taken advantage of hearing it, we will let it stand in the record. But if this last question you object to, I will rule on that.

Mr. Gladstein: I want directly the objection to go to the last two or three questions. It was impossible to tell simply from the form of the question——

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Oh, no. You could have told very well from the form of the question.

Mr. Gladstein: Does your Honor mean that just because we didn't make an objection fifteen seconds or thirty seconds ago——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) No—certainly I [1440] do. No, not thirty seconds. It is longer than thirty seconds.

Mr. Gladstein: I want the record to show——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) You have allowed this testimony to go in without objection. I can't very well strike it out upon the ground that it is hearsay.

Mr. Gladstein: We will now make this request, if your Honor please. I can't be specific. I think it was the last three questions and answers.

Presiding Inspector: We will hear not the answers, but we will hear the last question and see what that is.

Mr. Gladstein: Could we have the last three or four questions read?

Presiding Inspector: If you would like to have them read, yes. I can't allow testimony to be received and then, if you don't like it, move to strike it out.

(The questions and answers referred to, were read by the reporter, as follows:

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

"Q. And he was referred to in these meetings?

"A. In the early part of the 1934 strike at meetings that I attended in the R.I.L.U. there was considerable—not "doubt". They didn't know yet definitely whether Bridges was a party member, a Communist Party member. These are at some of meetings that I attended. That is, the Russian people who [1441] were leaders of the R.I.L.U. didn't know definitely that he was. Very shortly afterwards, though, through American Communist Party members who came there, through communications that they received regarding the activities on the waterfront in San Francisco, they knew definitely that he was a member of the Communist Party and they referred to him as such at many of these meetings and discussions.

"Q. They knew definitely that Harry Bridges was a member of the Communist Party?

"A. Well, they felt that they knew it definitely because they had received word of this through what they regarded as authorized and qualified people, leaders of the American Communist Party.

"Q. Who were some of those leaders of the American Communist Party?

"A. Well, at various times while——")

Mr. Gladstein: May I point out that I was mistaken when I called this "double hearsay". It is actually "triple hearsay" that is being called for.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: The question is, Who were some of the leaders?

Mr. Gladstein: Previous to that.

Presiding Inspector: Well, you let that go.

Mr. Gladstein: We still make our motion to strike.

Presiding Inspector: You have your motion. At the same [1442] time I will deny it. Of course, that doesn't imply that any weight will be given to it.

Mr. Gladstein: I understand that. But so that the record may be clear and so that we don't waive any legal rights on the matter, I wish the record to now show that with respect to the hearsay testimony that was given to the last—in order to be safe on this matter—to the last half dozen questions before I made my objection, I move the Court for leave to have those answers set aside for the purpose of enabling me to object to the questions upon the ground that those questions call for hearsay.

Presiding Inspector: Well, now, how far back do you want to go?

Mr. Gladstein: I think the last six questions will certainly do it, and I mention "six" simply because I think that will cover it. I can't be specific because I didn't keep count of them. But I am talking about now the double and triple hearsay that was asked for, and given by the witness.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: Well, I don't know what you mean by "double" and "triple" hearsay.

Mr. Gladstein: Here's one question, for example, where he is asked and here is what he said. He says that somebody who came from the United States told somebody else in Russia who told him or from whom he heard that—Then he goes on and states.

[1443]

Now, in other words, it comes to this witness from Party A who obtained it from Party B, all unknown people, of course. So that, therefore, we have this witness testifying after he gets this from two other people. That is, there is the process of it starting from somebody who was either in the United States or left the United States and then it goes to a second party and now to a third person, namely, the witness. That's what I call "triple hearsay."

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, Counsel's statement is incorrect. The witness hasn't testified to that. The witness has testified that he attended certain meetings of high Communist officials in Russia; that certain representatives of the Communist Party in the United States appeared there before the meetings and in his presence stated that they knew of their own knowledge that Harry Bridges was a member of the Communist Party.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I didn't quite get that, but that may be what he intended to testify to. I will strike out those answers and let you ask them again. If the people came there and said that, that is another thing. I didn't so understand it.

We will strike out as far back as you read, the questions and answers. Now, I will let you ask them again.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, Mr. Honig, you testified that you attended certain metings of the Red International of Labor Unions in [1444] Moscow, is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. At any time during these meetings in Moscow, Russia was the name of Harry Bridges discussed? A. Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: We will object to that as calling for hearsay, being immaterial.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it. Go ahead now.

A. (Continuing) Yes. At quite a number of such meetings at which I was present as representative of the United States Communist Party to the the R.I.L.U., the name of Bridges was mentioned.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, who were at the meetings when the name of Bridges was discussed?

A. Well, there were the usual people who would attend these meetings regularly; representatives of various Communist Parties from practically every important nation in the world. I can mention some names, if you want me to. I mean, some of the delegates, from other countries.

Q. Yes, do that.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Well, for instance, from France there was a man named Monmousseau. From Germany there was a man named Heckert—Fritz Heckert. He was the German representative to the Red International of Labor Unions. From China a [1445] delegate was named Li Li Sen. Those are three different names. From—well, some of the Russians, for instance, a man named Kutnik, who was my immediate superior in the Red International of Labor Unions.

Q. Were there any representatives of the Communist International there?

A. At some of these meetings there were. For instance, at various meetings there was a man Kuusinen, who was the leading official of the Communist International and he attended some of those meetings of the R.I.L.U. at which the name of Bridges was referred to.

Q. Were those meetings official meetings of the Red International of Labor Unions? A. Yes.

Q. Who called them?

A. The head of the Red International of Labor Unions; the General Secretary, Losofsky.

Q. And what was the purpose of these meetings?

A. The purpose of these meetings was to discuss the work of the various Communist Parties in the different countries in the trade union field.

Q. And who brought up the name of Harry Bridges?

A. Various times Losofsky himself, the General Secretary, would refer to Harry Bridges as carrying out the program of the Communist Party in the maritime industry. Losofsky, the General [1446] Secretary.

Mr. Grossman: Your Honor, the witness has not stated that Mr. Losofsky did not know this of his own knowledge. It is quite obvious that Mr. Losofsky is giving hearsay, unless Mr. Del Guercio can lay a basis for indicating that he knew of it of his own knowledge.

Presiding Inspector: I don't think there is anything objectionable in the particular answer given.

Mr. Grossman: I am objecting to it as hearsay, your Honor, on the basis that it is quite obvious from the context that this is hearsay from Losofsky.

Presiding Inspector: He only spoke on a general subject. We haven't got what he stated.

Mr. Grossman: We might as well make our objection at this time before we get in the information that would be obvious hearsay.

Presiding Inspector: I am not so sure that this is the time to make it. I have excluded it at the present time. You may make it at the propert time.

Will you read the answer, Mr. Reporter?

(The answer referred to was read by the reporter.) [1447]

Presiding Inspector: That is only his general comment on what he may have read in the newspaper, or anything. It doesn't amount to anything.

Mr. Grossman: Still, it is hearsay

Presiding Inspector: No. It is no objection to say it is hearsay. I think the objection should be that it is not relevant or material.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Gladstein: We made that objection previously and we make it again.

Presiding Inspector: I didn't hear that. I heard about the second, third and fourth class hearsay. That is what the objection was. I will let that stand.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Would official reports from the Communist Party of the United States be the subject of discussions at these meetings?

A. Yes, they would.

Q. And who would read those official reports?

A. Who would read them?

Q. Yes.

A. They would be read by Losofsky himself. They would be sent to him directly from the Communist Party of the United States.

Q. And that was in the regular course of business in these meetings?

A. Yes. I would see many of these reports also. They [1448] would be shown to me.

Q. And would the name of Harry Bridges be in any of these reports?

A. The name of Harry Bridges was in some of them that I saw.

Q. That you saw yourself? A. Yes.

Q. And what was said about Harry Bridges in these official reports received from the Communist Party of the United States?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Gladstein: Obviously this not only calls for hearsay, but it calls also for something that is not the best evidence; it is calling for a statement as to what is in writing.

Presiding Inspector: We would have to have it more fully described. I doubt very much whether you will gain anything by this line of questioning or not.

Mr. Del Guercio: These were official reports of the Communist Party.

Presiding Inspector: But we haven't the reports, we don't know who made them, and we don't know when they were made, we don't know where they came from, what body.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I ask the witness further questions along this line?

Presiding Inspector: Certainly.

By Del Guercio: [1449]

Q. Where would these reports come from, Mr. Honig, in which Bridges' name was mentioned?

A. They would be reports signed by Earl Browder, General Secretary of the Communist Party of the U.S.A., by Jack Stachel, who at that time was head of the Trade Union Commission of the Communist Party of the U.S.A. I think practically all those reports, as far as I can remember, were under the signatures of those two.

Q. And they were official communications from the Communist Party of the United States to the Comintern, or Red International of Labor Unions?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes; to the Red International of Labor Unions specifically.

Q. You said you saw two or three of these reports?

A. Yes; I saw some of these reports.

Q. And the name of Harry Bridges was mentioned in those reports? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How was Bridges referred to in those reports?

Mr. Gladstien: I again object on the ground that it calls for hearsay.

Presiding Inspector: That is true, it is hearsay. I suppose they want to show that he was called by some particular title which is prevalent among people belonging to that institution. Isn't that what you are objecting to? [1450]

Mr. Gladstein: I assume that is what Mr. Del Guercio is trying to prove. But we raise again this question of the impossibility of cross examining this witness, and I say this without any intention to reflect——

Presiding Inspector: I know it is impossible to examine on it.

Mr. Gladstein: What could prevent the witness from saying that he had seen this, that and the other in a document which obviously is not accessible to us?

Presiding Inspector: Nothing.

Mr. Gladstein: What would prevent him from doing that?

Presiding Inspector: Nothing.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Gladstein: Therefore, the impossibility of cross examining on that particular phase is what makes this objection that we now press of great weight and of great value, and is why we make the objection.

Presiding Inspector: From a legal standpoint and according to the technical rules of common law, it is, of course, objectionable. There is no doubt about that. The question is this: Shouldn't we take it in this administrative investigation?

Mr. Gladstein: We have tried, in an effort to expedite the hearing, not to object to various kinds of hearsay that were requested by Mr. Del Guercio. We haven't made objections to all the hearsay he has asked for. This kind of hearsay is [1451] precisely the sort that it would be impossible for us to attempt to rebut, and it would be impossible to cross examine the present witness on, because all he would have to do is to sit there and say over and over again he says he saw this particular reference in a document which is impossible for us to ever get, and which, according to what he says, he saw somewhere outside the territorial limits of the U.S.A.

Mr. Del Guercio: It isn't impossible, your Honor. If the defense wants to they can call Earl Browder here. The witness testified that Earl Browder submitted such a report. We will issue a subpoena for them if they want to get Earl Browder here to testify for the defense. He mentioned the name of Bridges in that report so it isn't that impossible.

Presiding Inspector. That is all right. We will hear Mr. Gladstein now.

Mr. Gladstein: If Mr. Del Guercio raises the point as to whether the best way of proving Mr. Earl Browder wrote a report which contains mention of Mr. Bridges, if he thinks that is the way of doing it then I imagine it would be up to him to call Mr. Browder, and not up to the defense, because the legal objection we make still has merit. His suggestion that there is a stronger way of attempting to prove the point that he is trying to prove, that is something for him to overcome, and for us, because the burden is on him to establish what he is trying to establish. [1452]

Presiding Inspector: This witness has given the general reputation of Mr. Bridges, as a member of the Communist Party, among those whom he knew. I doubt whether you are going to gain anything by specific reference of this kind.

Mr. Del Guercio: Permit me to ask a few questions along that line and I will see.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Was Mr. Bridges referred to as "Comrade Bridges" in any of these meetings by representatives of the Communist Party of the United States?

Mr. Gladstein: We make the same objection.

Presiding Inspector: I will exclude that.

Mr. Del Guercio: What?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: I will exclude that.

Now, you are asking for a particular occasion on which somebody in an official meeting used the name of "Comrade." I don't think that names amount to anything.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Was Harry Bridges recognized as a member of the Communist Party——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) I object to that not only as——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interrupting) Wait until I finish my question. [1453]

Presiding Inspector: Let him finish his question.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. (Continuing) ——recognized as a member of the Communist Party in these official meetings of the Red International of Labor Unions at Moscow?

Mr. Gladstein: I object to the question as calling for the opinion and conclusion of the witness, as well as hearsay.

Presiding Inspector: I think perhaps that is so. But the calls for the witness' statement as to what was the general reputation, among those people, as to whether Mr. Bridges was a member of the Communist Party. Despite the fact that it may be of slight importance I will take it.

You may enter your objection.

Mr. Gladstein: We simply want to make the objection that it calls for the opinion and conclusion of the witness.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: Not the opinion; there is no opinion here.

Mr. Gladstein: I think it does, because it is asking this witness whether Mr. Bridges was recognized——

Presiding Inspector: I have excluded that question, but I have made a suggestion of another one.

Mr. Gladstein: I see.

Presiding Inspector: The question that I suggest, and I don't know whether Mr. Del Guercio will accept it or not, is [1454] that he may ask whether he knows what the reputation in respect to Mr. Bridges' membership in the Communist Party was among Communist officials. If he says "Yes" I will let him say what it was.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will withdraw the last question and ask you another one.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. You have testified, I believe, that Harry Bridges was discussed in these meetings?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know Bridges' reputation among those people that were present at these meetings at the time that Bridges was discussed as a member of the Communist Party?

Mr. Gladstein: Just one moment.

Presiding Inspector: "Yes" or "No."

Mr. Gladstein: First, we object to the question on the ground that it calls for reputation testimony, and on the ground that it calls for hearsay, and on the ground that it calls for the opinion of this witness.

Presiding Inspector: It doesn't call for opinion.

Mr. Gladstein: And on the further ground that no appropriate foundation has been laid for the opinion being called for in the question.

Presiding Inspector: I don't think it calls for an opinion. It is a question of whether he knows his general repu- [1455] tation in this respect among those people. That is all the question is.

"Yes" or "No"—do you know?

A. Yes.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What was that?

Mr. Gladstein: Same objection.

Presiding Inspector: It is all repetition. It is already in the record. I will allow it. It went in without objection earlier. This is only confined to a particular group. That is all.

Mr. Gladstein: I understand, but in view of what you previously said I thought the safest way and easiest way was to enter an objection to the particular question since you previously announced that you would rule on objections to specific questions.

Presiding Inspector: Yes; but long before that occurred it was testified by this witness that Mr. Bridges was generally recognized as a member of the Communist Party. This is only an amplification, that is, as to whether he was generally recognized and what his reputation was in that respect among this influential group.

I do not think it is of the greatest importance.

Go ahead.

Mr. Del Guercio: I think the witness went further. He [1456] has testified that he knows Harry Bridges is a member of the Communist Party.

Presiding Inspector: That may be.

You may answer.

A. Yes. His reputation among the leading officials of the Red International of Labor Unions was that of being an active member of the Communist Party, leading member of the Communist Party in the waterfront work and the work among Maritime Unions.

Presiding Inspector: That answers the question.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I believe that you testified early this morning that after your return from Russia you went to New York, and after remaining there for a few months you came to the West Coast and became associated with the Western Worker?

A. Yes.

Q. What name did you use while you were associated with the Western Worker?

A. Well, as a pen name for articles which I wrote, I used the name "Nat Davis"; that is for articles I wrote for the Western Worker.

Q. How long did you use that name—when did you first begin using it?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. When I went to the Red International of Labor Unions in Moscow they asked to see my passport. On the passport was [1457] my right name, Nat Honig. They said "You cannot use your right name here. You will have to use an assumed name."

Well, I said I hadn't thought of that, but I suppose I could if I thought of it.

They said, "We will think of a name for you." And they thought of the one "Nat Davis." They said "That will be your name here." That was where I first used that name. It was wished on me in this case.

Q. And what was your work on the Western Worker, what was the nature of it?

A. In the first place, I should say roughly, five or six months, four or five months, I was labor editor, which meant that I was in charge of all trade union news, news of trade union activity, strikes, and so forth, labor disputes.

I was in charge of a labor page—they had a complete labor page—which I myself organized for the Western Worker.

Then later on I was managing editor—not editor-in-chief, but managing editor.

Q. And as such did you attend, purely Communist Party meetings?

A. Yes; all sorts of Communist Party meetings.

Q. How would you attend these meetings, that is, who would request you to attend the meetings?

A. Well, of course, it depends on which type of meeting you are referring to. [1458]

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. How many types of meetings are there?

A. Each Communist Party member was a member of his unit. That is the lowest, the smallest section of the Communist Party. Well, I attended such unit meetings.

Then there were various Section Committee meetings, meetings of the leading bodies of the Sections, which are territorial divisions of the Communist Party. I attended such meetings here in San Francisco.

Then there were District Committee meetings, to which I was invited to attend many times.

Then there were meetings of the Trade Union Section of the Communist Party, called by the Trade Union Director, so to speak, and I attended many of these.

Then there were what were called Top Fraction meetings of the Maritime Industry.

A Top Fraction consists of those Communist Party members who are leading officials, or the most active Communists within a certain industry or a certain Union.

The Top Fraction meetings that I attended in San Francisco of the Communist Party for the Maritime Industry would be attended by Communist Party members who held leading official positions in the waterfront Unions or unions connected with the waterfront in some way; and they would be attended also by a few who were members of such unions and who were Communist Party members, and who may not have been actually officials of [1459] those Unions, but, nevertheless, were doing leading work for the Party, very important work for the Party in those unions. And, in addition to them, certain of the leading Communist Party District officials would attend and, perhaps, occasionally some of the County officials here in San Francisco County would also attend.

I, myself, attended, particularly in the period of the 1936 and 1937 strike, at the invitation and request of the Communist Party District, located here at that time at 121 Eighth Street, because as labor editor of the Western Worker it was felt, as they told me, that I should attend these meetings and get the background for the stories on labor events that I would be writing up, particularly on the strike at that time, for the Western Worker.

Q. You described five meetings, types of meetings—the Unit meeting, Section meeting, District meeting, Trade Union Unity League meeting——

A. (Interposing) No, no. At that time there was no Trade Union Unity League. They were not Trade Union Unity League meetings, but being so called by the men in charge of all trade union work for the Communist Party of the District.

Q. And then the Top Fraction meetings?

A. Yes; of the Maritime Industry.

Q. Of the Maritime Industry? A. Yes.

[1460]

Q. How many such Top Fraction meetings of the Maritime Industry did you attend during that period of time, that is, in 1936 and 1937?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. You say how many of them?

Q. Yes.

A. I couldn't say exactly during the period of the 1936-1937 strike, which lasted, I think, from about, I guess, October or November, perhaps September, 1936, to February 1937, but there was at least one such Top Fraction meeting held each week, generally on a Sunday evening. I don't think I missed more than maybe two or three of such meetings for one reason or another.

So that while I cannot figure out off-hand exactly how many, I did attend practically every one of them during that period of the 1936-1937 strike.

Q. Where would these meetings be held?

A. They would be held at the homes of various more or less obscure members of the Communist Party—the more obscure they were the better it was thought to be—because there would be more protection for these meetings and the more secret they would be.

Q. And who would give you the address of the various meetings?

A. Often they would be given to me by Walter Lambert, who was the man in charge of Trade Union work for the Communist Party in the California District. [1461]

Sometimes it would be given to me by William Schneiderman, the District Secretary of the Communist Party for this District.

Occasionally it would be given to me by Schneiderman's Secretary.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. And what would he say to you, if anything, when he gave you the address at which the meeting was to be held?

A. I would be told, and I made it a general practice, and I believe all the people who attended were told and made it a practice, I know I did, if the address was given to me on a slip of paper, of memorizing it promptly and tearing it up; and then when I got to the place, to the address, promptly forgetting the address itself; or else, if I was told the address I would simply memorize it myself and then when I came to the meeting place I would forget it.

I would never be told the name, at least practically never, the name of the party who owned the apartment, or the home at which the meeting was to be held, and I wasn't particularly interested in that. All I wanted was the address so I could get there.

Q. Now, was Walter Lambert connected with any union during that period of time?

A. To the best of my memory, or recollection, is that he was no official of any union. I know he was a member, I think, of some American Federation of Labor Union, but I can't [1462] remember which one it was.

Q. But he was an official of the Communist Party?

A. He was an official of the District of the Communist Party.

Q. Was Schneiderman, Bill Schneiderman, a member of any union?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. I don't believe he was. I think, I know that he had been a member of the Cleaners and Dyers Union at one time, but I can't say whether he was at that time.

Q. But he was the District Secretary of the Communist Party?

A. District Secretary of the Communist Party; yes.

Q. Now, did you ever see the Alien here in any of those meetings?

A. I saw Harry Bridges present at a good many of these meetings. In fact, during the 1936-1937 strike period, except on those occasions when he was out of town when he would leave town, perhaps, to address a meeting in some other city on the West Coast, he would be present at all these meetings. Those are the only ones I didn't see him at.

Mr. Gladstein: What is the last sentence in that answer?

(The sentence referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What do you mean "Those were the only occasions you didn't see him at?" [1463]

A. I say, except the meetings held at a time when Bridges was out of town, I saw him at all the meetings held in the period of the 1936-1937 waterfront strike. In other words, the only ones that he missed that I was present at were those held when he was out of town.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. You are talking about the Top Fraction meetings held in private homes here? A. Yes.

Q. Top Fraction meetings of the Communist Party?

A. Yes; of the Communist Party for the Maritime Industry.

Q. These meetings were only attended by members of the Communist Party?

A. They can only be attended by members of the Communist Party.

Q. What was the purpose of these meetings?

A. To work out the day-to-day tactics and strategy to be pursued in the course of the 1936-1937 waterfront strike on the Coast, and particularly for the San Francisco and Bay area.

Q. To work out whose strategy and tactics?

A. The strategy that the Communist Party desired its members in these unions to follow and try to get the workers in these various branches of the Maritime Industry to follow. [1464]

Q. And would a high functionary of the Communist Party be present at every one of these meetings?

A. At every one of these meetings there would be at least one such functionary of the Communist Party.

Q. And who were some of those functionaries that were present during the time that Harry Bridges was present?

A. Very often it would be Walter Lambert; very often William Schneidermann; sometimes Betty

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Gannett, who was what they called "Agitprop," Agitation and Propaganda Director for the district; sometimes Frank Spector, who I believe had the title of Organizational Director for the Communist Party for this district at that time; sometimes all of them; sometimes a combination of them, but at least one of them would be present at every such meeting.

Q. And why would such a high functionary of the Communist Party be present?

A. Because these meetings were held for the purpose of working out the Communist Party strategy, the day-to-day strategy and tactics for the waterfront, and a leading official, a member of the highest body of the Communist Party for the district, would have to be there to see that the strategy, the tactics worked out would be in line with what the Communist Party desired.

Q. In how many of such meetings—I mean by "such meetings" top fraction meetings—was Bridges present? [1464-a]

A. I couldn't off-hand tell you how many.

Q. Approximately.

A. I could name a minimum number that I know that I was present at and Harry Bridges was present at at the same time. I would say ten, an arbitrary number, and it is a very arbitrary number.

Q. Would you say there were more than ten such meetings?

A. Yes. It is arbitrary in the sense that there were more than ten. I'm trying to be conservative.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Well, how many would you venture—we want your best recollection, of course. How many such meetings did you attend all together during the 1936-37 strike?

A. I could best answer that by figuring out the number of weeks that that strike lasted.

Q. All right, let's do that. The strike began when? In December of 1936, I believe you said.

A. I believe I said November or December. I can't tell you the exact month. But——

Q. (Interposing) Well, assuming that the strike was called in December——

A. (Interposing) Let us assume it was called in November, just for the purpose of a rough figuring out.

Q. And when did the strike end?

A. It ended in February. [1465]

Q. February, 1937? A. '37.

Q. Now, that would be December, January, February?

A. Well, approximately three months, anyway.

Q. Twelve or thirteen weeks. Would that be correct?

A. Yes, I think that would be correct.

Q. All right. In those twelve or thirteen weeks how many meetings did you have?

A. There would be a minimum of thirteen meetings, figuring on the basis of thirteen weeks; one week anyway. Sometimes it would be more than one.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. And at how many such meetings did you see Harry Bridges?

A. Well, again I would say ten anyway, being conservative.

Q. In any of those top fraction meetings at which Harry Bridges was present was the strategy or practices of the Communist Party as set down by either the national headquarters of the Communist Party or the Communist International discussed?

A. Specifically at one meeting, one of the top fraction meetings—I can't remember the exact date—that was held, a change of policy in respect to affiliation of Longshoremen's Union was discussed. This was not during the strike itself. This was one of the later meetings at which Harry Bridges was [1466] present and I was present. And the idea then, the new policy, was to be for the Longshoremen's Union to be affiliated with the CIO, and it was discussed there that this was a policy that had been adopted—that is, transmitted to the Communist Party here at San Francisco from the Central Committee of the Communist Party in New York.

Q. Now, did Harry Bridges participate in the discussions at these various meetings?

A. Yes.

Q. During the strike?

A. Yes. He spoke at these meetings.

Q. What would be the nature of his participation, if you know?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Well, in general he would discuss methods that he thought, as he saw them, might be used in strategy in carrying out the work of the Communist Party on the waterfront here in San Francisco and other ports along the Coast, among other things. Then they would discuss the attitude of certain other union officials who were non-Communists towards the Communist Party, towards Bridges; along that line.

Q. Now, were decisions reached in these meetings?

A. Decisions on day-to-day policy, yes. Major decisions, as far as basic policy was concerned, such as change of policy or change of important policy, would come from the Central Committee in New York. [1467]

Q. And what would be the effect of the decisions reached in these various meetings on all the persons, Communist Party members who attended the meeting?

A. Obedience in carrying out such decisions was mandatory.

Q. Was mandatory? A. Yes.

Q. And it would be mandatory upon Bridges to carry it out also?

A. Yes. As a Communist Party member it would be mandatory upon him to do so.

Q. How many other meetings in which Harry Bridges was present did you attend?

A. No other type of Communist Party meeting.

Q. No other type of Communist Party meeting?

A. Was he present at.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Well, did you attend any Communist Party meetings in which Harry Bridges was present after the 1936 strike?

A. Oh, yes. These top fraction meetings continued after that for some time. They perhaps weren't held regularly every week. For a while they were, and an attempt was made to keep them up from that period. But since the major struggle had ended, had been settled it wasn't felt the need to hold them quite as often. But I think they might average from then on once every two weeks. It doesn't mean that they were held every two weeks, but if you struck an average it would [1468] amount to that.

Q. And it was the same type of top fraction meetings of the Communist Party?

A. The same type.

Q. And attended only by Communist Party members?

A. Only by Communist Party members.

Q. And in how many such meetings was Harry Bridges present that you were present at?

A. Do you mean subsequent to the strike?

Q. Subsequent to the 1936-37 strike.

A. He wasn't always present at these meetings after the strike; more occasionally this time. And again I would have to strike a pretty rough average because I can't remember exactly how many. I would say at least half a dozen anyway.

Q. A half a dozen? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. And that in addition to the ten that you have just testified to? A. Yes.

Q. Would there also be present high functionaries of the Communist Party who were not officials of labor unions? A. At least one.

Q. And Bridges would participate in such meetings?

A. Yes. That is, he would talk and take part in the [1469] discussions.

Q. Were there any top fraction meetings of the Communist Party before the 1936 strike that you attended in which Harry Bridges was present?

A. No, not before then.

Q. So, then, you would state that you attended roughly about sixteen top fraction Communist meetings in which Harry Bridges was present and participated?

A. Yes. I would say that is a minimum figure.

Q. That is the minimum? That is the most conservative figure you would say? A. Yes.

Q. There probably would be more than sixteen such meetings?

Presiding Inspector: Oh, Mr. Del Guercio, what is the use?

Mr. Del Guercio: All right. I will withdraw the question.

Presiding Inspector: Just to change the tone of voice, I will ask a question or two.

Were these meetings formal meetings?

The Witness: Yes, formal meetings.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: Was there a presiding officer?

The Witness: Yes, there was a Chairman.

Presiding Inspector: And people addressed the Chair? [1470]

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: What do they call the Chairman?

The Witness: Oh, "Comrade Chairman".

Presiding Inspector: "Comrade Chairman". Did you have a Comrade Secretary?

The Witness: Yes. There would be a comrade who would take notes on what had been discussed.

Presiding Inspector: Sometimes would you pass resolutions?

The Witness: No.

Presiding Inspector: And sometimes express the sense of the meeting?

The Witness: No. They wouldn't pass resolutions at those meetings. They would decide there on what resolutions they thought ought to be passed in the unions.

Presiding Inspector: Oh, yes, yes, they would express the sense of the members there present as to what ought to be done?

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Was Bridges ever chosen as Chairman in any of these meetings?

A. I can't say definitely that he was. I can only say this about the Chairman: He wasn't a permanent Chairman; at each meeting they would try to get somebody to act as Chairman. Generally everybody would be reluctant to do so because, [1471] if you are in the Chair, you don't get as much of a chance to talk. So they would have quite a time trying to get one.

Presiding Inspector: It depends on who the Chairman is?

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: It is universal in those meetings to speak of various persons present by a Party name? They call you "Comrade Davis"?

The Witness: It depends. Sometimes.

Presiding Inspector: They would call you "Mr. Davis"?

The Witness: No, they wouldn't use the word "mister". That was bourgeois. But sometimes they would call a man by his first name. They would say "Harry" to Harry Bridges, or they would call Schneidermann "Bill". Sometimes they would say "Comrade Bridges", "Comrade Schneidermann".

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. As Managing Editor of the Western Worker were you required to write up the Communist Party policy regarding trade union activities?

A. Yes. Many times—at least I would say several times—I would write articles regarding Communist Party policy in trade unions under the name of Nat Davis.

Mr. Del Guercio: May we have a short recess?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: Yes. We will take a short recess.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

[1472]

Presiding Inspector: Resume, Mr. Del Guercio.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Honig, who were some of the other men, other than Harry Bridges who attended these top fraction meetings that you described?

A. I will try to kind of group them by the unions they came from. That would be the easiest way, I think. From the Longshoremen's Union there were Henry Schmidt——

Q. (Interposing) Now, just a minute! Henry Schmidt, do you see him in this Court room?

A. Yes. He's the second man from this end standing against the wall (Indicating).

Q. Is he standing near the officer there?

A. Yes.

Q. The man right next to the officer?

A. At least from here it looks like him to me.

Q. Is there any question that that is the Henry Schmidt?

A. Well, from here, as far as my eyes can see, it looks like him to me.

Q. Is he a member of the Communist Party?

A. He was at that time.

Q. What are some of the others?

A. Also from the Longshoremen's——

Q. (Interposing) Who?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Also from the Longshoremen was John Schomacker. [1473]

Q. How do you spell that?

A. I believe it is S-c-h-o-m-a-c-k-e-r, or perhaps it has an "e" after that "o". I never knew exactly. And there was "Bebe" Jones. I imagine you spell that "B-e-b-e" Jones. That was the name we knew him by.

Q. Were Schomacker and Jones members of the Communist Party?

A. Yes. They attended the Communist Party top fraction meetings, and Harry Bridges also from the Longshoremen.

Q. And was he a member of the Communist—I believe you have already testified that he was a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. And who else?

A. Also from the Longshoremen there was a man named Halling, but I don't remember his first name.

Q. So I don't need to ask you this question again, all these names that you are going to give are members of the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Q. All right.

A. Then from the Marine Cooks and Stewards was Revels Cayton, and he would attend these meetings pretty regularly.

Q. Yes.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. From the Sailor's Union of the Pacific was a man named Al Quittenden. [1474]

Q. Al What?

A. Al Quittenden; Q-u-i-t-t-e-n-d-e-n. Perhaps it was "d-o-n". And Dave Saunders, who occasionally would be at those meetings. They were from the Sailor's Union. I don't believe that they were there officially representing these unions. They were Communists who were extremely active or had leading posts in these unions.

Q. I see.

A. From the Warehousemen's Union, which was part of the Longshoremen's Union, a section of it, were Archie Brown occasionally and Lou Goldblatt.

Q. The Brown also referred to is Zack Brown?

A. No. This is Archie Brown.

Q. Archie Brown?

A. From the American Radio Telegraphists Association were Roy Pyle, Mervin Rathbone, and this Z. Brown. Whether it was "Zack" or "Zeke" I forget. I think it was "Zack". Brown was not only from the ARTA, the American Radio Telegraphists Association, but he was an official of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific in the Bay area at that time. And also, of course, were—I guess I have mentioned some of the leading officials of the Communist Party who would attend those meetings.

Q. Will you state them again?

A. Well, William Schneidermann, Frank Spector. [1475]

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. What was William Schneidermann?

A. He was District Secretary.

Q. Of the Communist Party? A. Yes.

Q. And what was Frank Spector?

A. He was a member of the District Executive Committee and, I believe, if memory serves me right, Organizational Secretary for the district for the Party at that time, anyway.

Q. Do you know if Frank Spector had been made a subject of deportation proceedings or had been ordered deported as a member of the Communist Party?

A. No, I don't know that. And Betty Gannett, who was what they called Agitprop Director.

Q. Did you ever see Elmer Hanoff in any of these meetings?

A. Yes, he occasionally attended.

Q. Who was Elmer Hanoff?

A. He was a member of the District Executive Committee of the Communist Party. I believe he became severely ill later and was unable to attend these meetings any longer, but I may be wrong as to the time he became ill. He did attend some of these meetings.

Q. How about Sam Telford?

A. Sam Telford occasionally did. He was there as an official of the Communist Party Waterfront Section. [1476]

Q. Now, Mr. Honig, do you know George Wilson?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. I don't know him socially. I have seen him, met him, spoken to him.

Q. Do you know the Goerge Wilson I mean? I mean the George Wilson that is Chairman of the Harry Bridges Defense Committee, so-called, defense committee?

A. I have heard that he is chairman of that. I have just read that he is.

Q. Do you know him to be a member of the Communist Party?

A. I don't know him from having met with him at any Communist Party meetings, and while I was in San Francisco I can almost definitely state that he was not a member of the Communist Party. But from members of the Communist Party still in the Communist Party in San Francisco and some in the American Newspaper Guild in other cities who still—I still have contact with—I know that he is a member of the Communist Party.

Mr. Grossman: Just a moment! It is quite obvious, though the question does not call for hearsay, this witness has been answering it from hearsay. And I move, therefore, that the answer be stricken, obviously because there cannot be an answer from direct knowledge of the witness.

Presiding Inspector: I will strike out all remarks after his statement that he was quite sure at that time that he [1477] was not a member of the Communist Party.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Do you know George Wilson's reputation since that time?

Mr. Gladstein: I am going to make the same objection.

Presiding Inspector: Do you think that is material at this time?

Mr. Del Guercio: He is Chairman of the Defense Committee and he has been sitting in the Court room here.

Presiding Inspector: We are not trying the Defense Committee or anything of the kind. I think I will exclude it as too remote.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Do you know Estolv Ward? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know him to be a member of the Communist Party?

Mr. Gladstein: I object to that as immaterial.

Presiding Inspector: I don't know who he is. Was he at any of these meetings?

Mr. Del Guercio: I think later on we may bring in something about Estolv Ward. He wrote a book here on——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I think we had better postpone it until that time.

Mr. Del Guercio: We won't have this witness available. [1478]

Presiding Inspector: Unless you say that you are going to connect it up. If you say you are going to connect it up, I will take it.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Del Guercio: That is my present plan, to connect it up. We are laying a foundation for it now.

Presiding Inspector: Well, you don't yet say whether you are going to connect it up.

Mr. Del Guercio: I said we are going to connect it up, that Estolv Ward is a person who wrote a book on the "Persecution of Harry Bridges" or some such book.

Mr. Gladstein: I still make the objection.

Presiding Inspector: I don't think that would connect it up. I will exclude it.

Mr. Del Guercio: Very well, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Of course, you have defined the way you are going to connect it up, and I don't think that would be sufficient.

Mr. Del Guercio: I won't press it, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Very well.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Honig, in any of these meetings that you have described, Top Fraction meetings of the Communist Party, did Harry Bridges ever mention the name of Harry Lundeberg?

A. Oh, yes. He frequently did.

Q. And what did Bridges say about Harry Lundeberg?

A. Well, Bridges didn't like Lundeberg very much. [1479] Lundeberg was consistently opposed to Bridges. In Bridges' own words at these meetings, Lundeberg was fighting the Communist Party policy in the waterfront industries and sometimes

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Bridges would be very angry about—would express anger about Lundeberg's attitude, and he would say words which to me seemed to be more in hot-headedness. But he would say definitely that Lundeberg "ought to be dumped" and "We ought to see to it that he is dumped", and he would refer to others in the Sailor's Union who were what he would call "henchmen of Lundeberg".

Q. What do you mean when he used the word "dumped"?

A. Well, "dumped" is a term along the water-front which means "beaten up", perhaps seriously hurt. Beaten up with that general intention of seriously hurting someone.

Q. Who is Harry—well, never mind. Strike that out. Do you know Sam Darcy?

A. Yes, I know Sam Darcy.

Q. Who is Sam Darcy?

A. I don't know what his present position in the Communist Party is.

Q. I mean at the time you were a member?

A. But I knew it, and when I was a member of the Communist Party at various times he was District Organizer of the Communist Party—District Secretary for California.

Q. Here in San Francisco?

A. Yes, with headquarters here. Later on he was— [1480] I knew him before that when he was for a while a member of the Daily Worker's staff in New York. Later on I met him when he was a delegate to the Seventh World Congress of the Communist International in Moscow, held in 1935.

Q. Can you fix it more definite than that, the year 1935? The month?

A. You mean the month of the Congress?

Q. Yes.

A. I can. It began, I'm definitely sure, the last week in July of 1935 and lasted about a month.

Q. Perhaps this will refresh your memory, Mr. Honig. I am showing it to you for that purpose. I have here a copy of the International Correspondence, the Seventh World Congress of the Communist Party, a continuation of the discussion and report of the activities of the Executive Committee of the Communist International, Seventh Session. "Comrade Browder, U.S.A., as Chairman, opened the session", dated Moscow, July 28, 1935. Among other things there appears "Contents" and under the "5", "1. Comrade Darcy, U.S.A." and a page reference, I believe, to 1275. Does that refresh your recollection as to the time that you saw Sam Darcy in Moscow?

A. Yes, it does. And I recall this particular issue.

Q. Do you know if Sam Darcy made a speech on that occasion?

A. Yes. He made a report as a delegate from the [1481] American Communist Party.

Q. And do you know what in substance was—you heard the speech, didn't you?

A. Yes. I heard the speech.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. You were present there?

A. Yes, I was present.

Q. And what briefly was the subject of the speech?

Mr. Gladstein: That is objected to as immaterial, calling for hearsay.

Presiding Inspector: Now, wait!

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Wait! Does it relate to Mr. Bridges?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes, it relates to Mr. Bridges and we have already in evidence that Sam Darcy attended meetings with Harry Bridges here in the U.S.A.

Presiding Inspector: I will take it.

Is Mr. Darcy living?

The Witness: The last I heard of him he was.

Presiding Inspector: Is he around San Francisco?

The Witness: I couldn't say because I don't know.

Presiding Inspector: I will take it.

Mr. Del Guercio: What was the question?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.) [1482]

A. The subject of his speech was mainly on the Maritime—the work of the Communist Party in the Maritime industry of the West Coast, particularly referring to California.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Did Mr. Darcy mention anything about the activities of the Communist Party during the 1934 strike in San Francisco? A. Yes, he did.

Q. What did he say in that connection?

A. Of course I can't tell you exact words. The speech was a long one. It occurred some time ago. I can only tell you my recollection of the gist of it.

Q. Did Darcy's speech appear in any newspaper?

A. Excerpts from it appeared through an Associated Press dispatch which I recall definitely reading in the New York Times on the front page for July 31, 1935, and that's the only American daily newspaper that I recall any excerpts or any parts of his speech being printed.

Q. For the purpose of refreshing your memory I will show you a photostatic copy of a certain article appearing in the New York Times July 31, 1935, an article written by Harold Denny, "Special cable to the New York Times," bearing the date "Moscow, July 30." Does that article contain any abstracts from Darcy's speech as you heard it?

A. Well, I want to look at the abstracts they have here [1483] yes. (Reading abstracts.) Yes. I have only bothered to read here direct quotes. I haven't read the rest of the text, and the excerpts as they appear here may not be word for word—undoubtedly aren't word for word what he said.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

but in essence they are what I heard him say in that speech.

Q. Substantially what you heard? A. Yes.

Q. I will refer you particularly to the statement that appears in this article: "'Even as late as'" —this appears in quotes. "'Even as late as 1933, the sea transport workers on the west coast were not organized in trade unions,' said Mr. Darcy. 'We started persuading the workers not only to join the American Federation of Labor but to become its active leading members. A great number joined and eventually we were at the head of many thousands of workers. A strike committee was elected after the strike had been decided on and our comrades headed it. Nevertheless, the local trade union bureaucrats managed to become strike leaders and finally to betray it.'"

By Mr. Guercio:

Q. Did you hear Darcy say that?

A. Yes. The first sentence or so there may not be word for word, but the last two sentences there —I remember those particularly because they created a sort of a sensation and that stuck in my mind. Those last two sentences are, as far [1484] as I can recall, almost word for word what he did say.

Q. And to what strike was Sam Darcy referring?

A. He had been speaking in his speech of the 1934 strike—the 1934 general strike—prior to that in excerpts which are not printed in the Times, the speech that I heard him make, and this was a continuation of his reference to that strike. [1485]:

Q. During the 1934 strike here in San Francisco? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this article in evidence, if your Honor please, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received without objection.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 244.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Do you know who was at the head of the strike committee during the 1934 strike on the Pacific Coast here in San Francisco?

A. I wasn't here in 1934 so I couldn't testify as to that.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will withdraw the question. If counsel has no objection I move that the answer be stricken as I withdrew the question.

Mr. Galdstein: You have asked him other things earlier today that he didn't know.

Mr. Del Guercio: Let it stay in there.

Mr. Galdstein: We have no objection to the state of the record as it is.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Did Darcy say anything in his speech about a coming strike on the Pacific Coast? [1486]

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes. He predicted that there would be a general strike, another general strike along the waterfront in San Francisco in September of 1935.

Q. Did he say who would bring that about?

A. He said the Communist Party would head it, would prepare it and lead it.

Q. Now, Mr. Honig, what is your attitude toward trade unions?

A. My attitude toward trade unions is this: I would say that I inherited, through my father, an attitude of firm support and belief in trade unions. My father was very strict on the question. All of my family were trade union members and it was natural that as soon as I could possibly join a union in any trade that I was working at I would. In the newspaper industry there wasn't a union organized while I was working in it, until 1935, I believe, and then I joined the Newspaper Guild because of my belief in trade unions, in 1936 here in San Francisco.

My attitude toward trade unions is one of firm belief in them, firm belief for the necessity of trade unions, and for their value to those who work and for the industry as a whole.

Q. Have you ever testified before the Dies Committee? A. No.

Q. Have you ever testified before any governmental committee, Federal, State or otherwise?

[1487]

A. Not before any governmental committee.

Q. Now, Mr. Honig, do you know Matt Meehan?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. I have seen him on a number of occasions at public meetings.

Q. Do you know if he was a member of the Communist Party at any time during your membership?

A. I know from the fact that in Seattle for a time I was a member of the District Committee, of the Northwestern District of the Communist Party and I know that in meetings that I participated in he was referred to, and his work was referred to as a Communist in waterfront work.

Mr. Gladstein: I make the same objection and move that the answer go out.

Presiding Inspector: Strike it out. It is too remote.

Mr. Del Guercio: We are going to establish that Matt Meehan was a member of the Communist Party. We will have other witnesses here.

Presiding Inspector: Matt Meehan?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes. He was supposed to be at a certain meeting at which Bridges attended.

Presiding Inspector: He is one of the two that has been named?

Mr. Del Guercio: He has been heretofore named several times.

Presiding Inspector: What difference does it make? [1488]

Has anyone testified about his being a member of the Communist Party?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes; Mrs. Lovelace has.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: She testified he was a member of the Communist Party?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Then you don't need this, if you have direct proof someone referred to him as such. It don't help very much.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Why did you leave the Communist Party, Mr. Honig? A. Why or when?

Q. Why?

A. I left the Communist Party, in the first place, with the signing of the pact between Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia. I could see no longer any support for the claims of the Communist Party that it was opposed to Fascism. It was to me very much a complete reversal of everything that the Communist Party had taught me, and I had seen it teach other members, and it had had me teach other members, that it stood for, namely, a defense of democracy.

Particularly, in the two or three years previous to that the Communist Party had stated that it was going to change its policy, its attitude toward Democracy, and that really now, sincerely, it wanted to support Democracy,—a step which I, [1489] and many others I knew in the Communist Party, hailed.

With the signing of the pact with Hitler, particularly at a time when the democracies seemed to be almost certain to come to blows with Fascist Germany, to me it represented nothing but the fact that the Soviet Government was swinging the Communist Party closer into line with what the Fascists stood for.

Subsequent developments along that line convinced me all the more that that was true.

That was, by a long way, the deciding factor in making me leave the Communist Party.

Also I had become disillusioned with the leaders of the Communist Party more and more so for several years before that. But I had operated on the theory, and I had expressed it to other party members when I discussed it, that as long as I felt that I believed in the basic principles of the Party, and I felt I was a sincere Communist Party member, that there was no reason that I should condemn the Communist Party as a whole because of what I thought of the leaders of it, certain leaders, or maybe the majority. But I had seen them very closely, particularly in those recent years, and I had seen them at work, and in the trade unions, and I knew in my mind that they were opportunists; that they were not there mainly for the benefit of the membership of the trade unions, even though in some cases to maintain and strengthen their position [1490] they would have to do certain things to obtain some things for those members.

But experiences with Communist Party members who were leaders of trade unions convinced me that the leadership was opportunistic and, therefore, this represented another disillusionment in my mind as to the policy, as to the sincerity of the Communist Party leadership.

There a complete lack of democracy within the Communist Party itself was another thing that caused me to leave. There had been some semblance of it when I first entered the Party, and there had been the idea prevalent that there would be more and more democracy allowed; especially allowed members of the Communist Party in reaching decisions in elections on officials of the Communist Party. But it eventually developed to the contrary. In succeeding years any semblance of democracy in the Communist Party disappeared.

The thing, particularly along that line, that made me disillusioned with the party was that there was a constitution drawn up, a very beautiful document, full of high-sounding phrases about democracy, and the rank and file member of the Communist Party, his word being final, and the law and so forth, or words to that effect, and the man who decides the policy, but despite all that—for instance, when it was decided that a change in line of the Communist Party, or change in policy in its attitude toward the people's front, towards building a [1491] democratic front, was to be changed and done away with, the membership were not allowed to vote, but merely informed that there had been a change; that we were no longer going to say "three cheers for democracy," but on the other hand "down with democracy," and "We are going to call it a capitalist democracy"; whereas the day before it was real democracy we were fighting to preserve, and then the next day it was a capitalist democracy and down with it. No votes were taken among the party members, the membership was not consulted, but was told that it was a new policy and the members would have to obey it if they wanted to remain Communist Party members.

These were the major factors that made me leave the Communist Party.

Q. Mr. Honig, have you ever been charged with any crime?

A. Yes. I was arrested in Bayonne, New Jersey. I think it was in the year 1931. That was in connection with the distribution of the Communist Party Trade Union Unity League literature at a plant there, the Standard Oil Company. My arrest came about because I testified that two girls that were distributing, Young Communist League members who were distributing this literature, and were reputedly cluttering up the streets with it, I testified they were not littering up the streets. As a matter of fact, I had actually bought a copy of the paper they were selling there at the gates of this plant. [1492] I was charged with contempt of court and fined $15 in that case.

That is the only time I have been arrested, or charged with anything.

Q. Have you ever been charged with any other crime since then, and convicted? A. No.

Q. Did you recently have some trouble in connection with some books in Seattle?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes. In a book store in Seattle, I guess about three or four weeks ago, where I have bought many books, I was held—I wouldn't say "held"—I was taken down to the Police Station in Seattle in connection with some books that were taken from this place. I was not charged, I was not arrested, and the books that I had I paid for, and I was not arrested or charged in the case.

Q. Had you purchased books at that book store before? A. Yes; frequently.

Q. Are you a book collector?

A. Yes. I like books and I collect books.

Q. Have you had any other difficulties——

A. (Interposing): Difficulties—you mean in connection with the police?

Q. In connection with the law, I mean?

A. No.

Q. Have you received any threatening communications [1493] prior to your testifying here?

A. I have not received written threatening communications, but in the past two or three weeks, both at my place of work in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and at home, my wife and myself have received repeated numerous phone calls, threatening me. When I would answer the phone I would be told that I had better not make any move to say anything or do anything against anybody in the Communist Party.

In some cases later on they simply would be annoying, simply calling up at home, or at the office, and I would answer the telephone and say

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

"hello", or my wife would, and then they would hang up. There would be three, four, five or six of those things in a row so it didn't seem to be coincidence.

Q. Over how long a period did this happen?

A. Over a period of three weeks.

Q. That was after you made your statement to the FBI officers?

A. After I made my statement to the FBI officers in Seattle I received one such call only. It was before that most of them occurred.

Q. Are you married? A. Yes.

Q. Have you any children? A. One.

Q. How old is the child? [1494]

A. He is two years old; two years old tomorrow.

Q. Are you the sole support of your wife and child? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know Joe Ring?

A. Yes, I know a Joe Ring.

Q. Who is he?

A. Joe Ring was one of the men who attended these Top Fraction meetings that I have described of the Communist Party in the Maritime Industry in San Francisco. He was Bridges' bodyguard. He would follow Bridges about to protect Bridges.

Q. Was he also a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes; he could not have been present at these Top Fraction meetings unless he were.

Presiding Inspector: The name, please?

Mr. Del Guercio: Joe Ring—R-i-n-g.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Del Guercio: You may take the witness.

Mr. Gladstein: May we have a few seconds, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Cross Examination

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. Honig, you mentioned the book incident. You say you paid for the book?

A. No, I didn't say a book; I said some books.

Q. Some books? A. Yes. [1495]

Q. Did you pay for the books?

A. What did you say?

Q. Did you pay for the books?

A. Yes, I paid for them.

Q. Before or after the incident that you described when you were taken down to the police station?

A. After—in the police station.

Q. In the police station? A. Yes.

Q. Had you ever done anything like that before? A. No.

Q. Are you sure? A. Yes.

Q. On the day that happened weren't you advised that on the previous day you had taken some books for which you had not paid and that you were followed to your home by representatives of the store detectives in the store from which you took the books?

A. I was never advised anything about that. The only time I heard about such an event was in a paper published in Seattle, the Washington New Dealer, and I had been informed that the same version of it appeared, not to my very great surprise, in the Peoples World here in San Francisco.

As to being followed to my home on the day before, or the same day, I couldn't possibly have been followed to my home because I worked at the Post-Intelligencer on both those days. [1496]

When I came from my home to the city—incidentally, I hadn't been home but had been staying at somebody else's home because my wife was out of town—but call that temporary abode my home—when I came from there, which was outside the city limits, I didn't go back home until 12:30 or 1:00 in the morning because that was when my shift ended at my place of work. So I could not have been followed home on the day before because I didn't go home once I came to the city.

Q. At the time that you were taken to the police station around that time, were you told by any representative of the store that was involved that you had been trailed by store detectives the previous day.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to this line of testimony. It isn't proper cross examination.

Presiding Inspector: I will take it. It goes to his credibility.

By the way, you brought it out.

Mr. Del Guercio: What?

Presiding Inspector: You brought it out.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: Will you read the question, Mr. Reporter?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. No, I was not.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Or any prior day? [1497]

A. I was not told that I had been trailed.

Q. Did you have a conversation with representatives of the store on the day that you were taken to the police station?

A. Representatives of the store in which this occurred?

Q. Yes.

A. A conversation with reference to these particular books?

Q. Yes.

A. No; not with representatives of the store but of the store detective agency, or whatever it is called.

Q. You did have a conversation with them?

A. Yes.

Q. What did they say?

A. I don't remember their exact words. They said that two books that I had, they thought I was trying to take from the store.

I said, "I will pay for the books."

They told me, "No. We will have to get in touch with the police detective."

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

They sent for him and he came.

I asked them to take me to the place where I worked so that I could show the people, tell them, that my intentions, so far as they knew, was to pay for the books.

They said "No." They said that they couldn't do that; that they would have to call this police detective and see what he [1498] wanted to do.

He came and he said "We will go down and investigate this man and see if he has a record and see if there is anything against him."

So I was taken to the police station in Seattle. An investigation was made. They took my finger prints, recorded them. They found that there was no record and they gave me back the finger prints.

I paid this police detective for the books, which I had offered to do in the store, and I paid him there. He held the books for me and I came back and got them the next day from him.

I was not arrested and was not charged.

Q. Where did you make the offer to the store detective to pay for the books, inside the store or outside the store? A. Inside the store.

Q. Are you sure about that?

A. Absolutely; in an office, in one of the offices in the store.

Q. Had you gone out of the store before you were taken to the office of the store by the store detective?

A. I was at the — this particular store, called Frederick & Nelson, is a place where they sell magazines near the entrance to the store. I was there when I had the books. I was looking at the magazines. I was approached by these store detectives there. [1499]

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Did you have the books in your hand?

A. I had the books in my hand.

Q. Were you outside the store at the time?

A. When I was approached by them I was at this portion of the store where these magazines were.

Q. Were you leaving the store?

A. I was looking at the magazines.

Q. This is outside the doorway of the store, is it?

A. I would say it is part of the entrance to the store.

Q. Where are you now employed?

A. Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Q. How long have you occupied that position?

A. You didn't ask me what position so I can't answer.

Q. How long have you been employed with that newspaper?

A. I have been employed as part time copy reader for the past three years. This is now the third year.

Q. This is continuous employment with the Post-Intelligencer? A. I say part time.

Q. Are you now a part-time employee?

A. Yes.

Q. This would run back for the last three years?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. It extends back over the last three years, including this as one of the years.

Q. That is including 1941, you mean?

A. That is now—this is now the third year.

[1500]

Q. In other words, it would date back to about the beginning of 1939?

A. Yes; it would date back to the opening, start of the summer vacation period there in 1939.

Q. Just prior to that how were you earning a living?

A. Just prior to that I had been employed on the Writers Project, for a few months in Seattle.

Q. Will you give us the date of that employment?

A. The Writers Project—the exact date I can't recall, but I think it was between September 1938 and March 1939.

Q. While you were on the Writers Project were you on relief or a known relief employee?

A. No. I had been certified for relief before that.

Q. Were you a relief employee during this period that you were on the Writers Project?

A. Well, I was told that to work on the Project I would have to be certified as being eligible for relief, though I received no relief, no cash relief.

Q. Then you were known as a relief employee, is that right?

A. Well, I was never called that, but I assume that is the technical title for it.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Just prior to that, that is, we have gone back down to [1501] September, 1938——

A. (Interposing): Yes.

Q. (Continuing): ——how were you then gainfully employed if, at all?

A. For two months—oh, I guess, roughly between a period of June 1, 1938 and September—I wasn't employed at all for those two months.

Q. You were not employed? A. No.

Q. Were you on relief?

A. No. I applied for relief just for certification, so I could be employed on the Writers Project, but not for cash relief.

Q. Just prior to June, 1938, what were you doing?

A. I was Editor of the Timber Worker, the Official organ of the International Woodworkers of America.

Q. For how long?

A. From August, 1937 to June, 1938.

Mr. Gladstein: I notice it is after 4:00. Of course, we can't finish today.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead for about five minutes longer. We have had pretty long recesses.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. So, during any of the period from August, 1937, to [1502] date has your wife also been employed?

A. She was employed—of course, she wasn't my wife when I first came to the Timber Worker. We were married in May, 1938. From May, 1938—from that time, I guess—I mean, the period we were married, she perhaps was employed for a few weeks at the office of the International Woodworkers of America; specifically in the Timber Worker office. She had worked there before that, but that was before we were married.

Q. For a few weeks you say?

A. For a few weeks after we were married, yes. But she had worked there for a few months before we were married.

Q. And then I understand that she ceased working there, is that right? A. Yes.

Q. Has she had any employment since that time?

A. Oh, she has had a day's work when somebody would ask her to do some stenography from time to time.

Q. During the period when you were on relief, that is, when you were on the Writer's Project as a relief client,——

A. (Interposing): Yes.

Q. (Continuing): ——were you doing any work in private employment?

A. I got one leave of absence of two weeks with the agreement of the Writer's Project there to do some work on the Post-Intelligencer on the copy desk; and then another day—I can't remember the exact time—I think I got two day's leave of [1503] absence. I am not sure of that, though.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

But I am pretty sure it is so, for the same purpose.

Q. Your recollection is that on one occasion you got a leave of absence for two weeks to do some work on the copy desk of the Post-Intelligencer?

A. Yes.

Q. And that on another occasion you had a two-day leave of absence for the same purpose?

A. Yes. I am not absolutely sure of the second occasion, but I think it was so.

Q. That is your recollection? A. Yes.

Q. Are you sure of the first?

A. Absolutely.

Q. The work that you were doing for the Post-Intelligencer Post-Intelligencer, is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that remunerative? A. Oh, yes.

Q. Were you paid for that?

A. I was paid for that.

Q. Did you report those earnings to the WPA?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. And were deductions made from your WPA wages on account of those earnings? [1504]

A. No deductions were made. I simply didn't work at the Project for that period and received no wages for that period. There was a leave of absence from the Project without pay. That's the arrangement they had.

Q. Well, would it be correct to say during all the time that you were employed on the Writer's Project you did report to the official authorities of that Project all earnings in private employment that you during that period made? A. Yes.

Q. That is correct?

A. Such reports were submitted by every member working on the Project periodically. I reported whatever earnings I made.

Q. Have you mentioned all the arrests to which you have ever been subjected? A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever given false testimony under oath? A. No.

Q. I want to go back to this for just a moment. Since May, 1938, when you became married, is it correct that your wife's only employment has been for the few weeks, as you described it, in the Timber Worker's office? A. The only thing——

Mr. Del Guercio (Interposing): If your Honor please, the testimony is that she got occasional jobs. They were stenographic jobs. Now, Counsel knows that. [1505]

Mr. Gladstein: Oh, is it?

Presiding Inspector: He said that.

Mr. Gladstein: Oh, excuse me.

Q. Can you name any places where she has worked?

A. The Pacific Coast Labor Bureau. I think that's about the only place she got any other work. They would call her up to do some stenography when they wanted something gotten out in a hurry.

Q. During what period of time? Can you date it?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. I couldn't exactly, no. I could make a stab at that. I believe some of that work was in 1939, in January or February or March, a part of that work in all three of those months. It was sometimes two days' work, sometimes maybe three days', once perhaps a week or four days that week. Whenever they had to get out, oh, some long document pertaining to their particular work, they would call her.

Q. Well now, there is a rule, is there not, in connection with the Writer's Project that you are required to report to the authorities of the Writer's Project any earnings that you make in private employment?

A. Any earnings that I make in private employment.

Q. And you say that you complied with that rule at all times? A. Yes.

Q. Is there also a rule that you are required to report [1506] any earnings that your wife makes during the period that you are on the Writer's Project?

A. I knew of no such rule and I don't even recall whether, despite the fact that there wasn't to my knowledge any such rule—I think I may have mentioned it or told the person in charge there, but the only rule I know of is that periodically we would be given a slip which asked us and said that the rule was that you must report what outside earnings you yourself had made in that period. I know that I was never asked to report earnings that anybody else in my family or anybody connected with me had made. This is the only thing, and we were all given this at a regular period. I forgot how often. I think it was quarterly.

Q. You say, however, that you think you did make some report as to your wife's earnings to the Writer's Project?

A. I am pretty sure I mentioned it to the person in charge, because we were friendly and he had met my wife and he knew——

Q. (Interposing) When you say "mentioned" you don't mean——

A. (Interposing) Not in an official report, no. I didn't because I was never asked to make any report on anything but my own.

Q. The earnings, however, that you made in private employment you not only mentioned but you made a report—an [1507] official report—did you?

A. I made a written, signed report on that, yes, at regular intervals.

Mr. Gladstein: Does your Honor wish to convene? I was going to go to another subject matter.

Presiding Inspector: Very well. We had better recess until tomorrow morning.

(Whereupon, at 4:10 o'clock P.M., an adjournment was taken until Tuesday, April 22, 1941, at 10:00 o'clock A.M.) [1508]

Court Room 276,

PROCEEDINGS

Presiding Inspector: Call the witness back.

Mr. Gladstein: Are you ready, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

NAT HONIG

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Cross Examination (Resumed)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. Honig, do you remember the titles of the books that you took from this store, Frederick & Nelson?

A. Mr. Gladstein seems to be very eager——

Presiding Inspector: Don't argue. Answer the question.

The Witness: I wanted to go into——

Presiding Inspector: No, you don't go into anything. You are not conducting this proceeding. There are counsel here and I am presiding.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

The Witness: Excuse me.

Presiding Inspector: Answer the question "yes" or "no". Do you know the names of the books?

A. I don't recall the titles of the books you refer to off-hand.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, yesterday I believe we went back to the time that you went on the Writers Project. I believe you said that was in September of 1938?

[1510]

A. Yes, I believe I did.

Q. And just prior to that time I think you said for a couple of months you were unemployed from approximately June to September 1938, is that right? A. Yes.

Q. And then just prior to that, from a period dating from August 1937 until June 1938, you were with the Timber Worker?

A. Yes, approximately.

Q. Why did you leave the Timber Worker?

A. I believe I left the Timber Worker—I was dismissed from the Timber Worker at the orders of Mr. Pritchett, International President of the International Woodworkers of America.

Q. For what were you dismissed?

A. It is a detailed story. I will go into it the best way I can.

Q. Before you do that——

Presiding Inspector: You have asked it. Go ahead.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes. No reason was given, no official reason was given for what I was dismissed for. I had been a delegate to a Guild International Convention in Toronto, and when I returned I found I was called in by Mr. Orton, Vice President of the Timber Worker, and he said that due to the fact that we had numerous disagreements in discussing policies, and in what was to go into the paper, that they had found it advisable to replace [1511] me with somebody else.

I asked him, I reminded him that before I had left for the convention that I had told him I wanted to resign; and that he had taken me to Mr. Rapport's office and that they both had asked me not to resign; that they couldn't get anybody to replace me.

"Well," I said, "in that case I would be willing to date my resignation as of September 1st if they could get a man to replace me."

They said, "Suppose you just think it over. You go back to the Guild Convention and you think it over. But you find a man to take your place while you are at the Guild Convention in Toronto." This I did.

I went back. When I returned I found this man had been appointed to take my place by Pritchett and Orton. [1512]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Who was that man?

A. Louis Huber; H-u-b-e-r.

Q. Were you not dismissed for incompetency?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. No such reason was ever given to me, and, in point of fact, a letter was sent to the paper by John L. Lewis, the International President of the CIO, calling the paper the best union paper he had seen or one of the best union papers he had seen in any of the CIO Internationals, and that letter was actually reproduced and printed on the first page of the Timber Worker at Pritchett's request.

Q. Then it would be correct to say that you regarded the dismissal as entirely unjust and unfounded?

A. I would. I regarded it as so.

Q. Did you in connection with that threaten to "get" any of the people whom you regarded as responsible for the loss of your job? A. No.

Q. Did you ever make a statement that you would "get" any of those persons if it was the last thing you did?

A. I recall no such statement that I made.

Q. Would you say that you did or did not make it?

A. I did not make it, to the best of my memory.

Q. We are back now to August, 1937 at the time that you went on the Timber Worker. What was your employment just [1513] prior to that.

A. Well, just prior to that I was in Seattle for about a month. I had been sent for by Rapport, the District Secretary of the Communist Party, and he told me to come immediately; that I would be made Editor of the Timber Worker. When

I came he said that they had not been able to arrange a meeting of the Executive Board of the International Wood Workers of America and that they would have it any day, and that I would sit around and meanwhile the Communist Party would see that I had money to live on, and so forth. Well, that "any day" developed into about three weeks or a month before they finally got the Executive Board together to meet.

Q. How long?

A. Oh, it was about three weeks or so anyway, approximately. And when they did meet I was sent for by the Executive Board, which interviewed me, and then I was appointed by vote of the Executive Board to be Editor of the Timber Worker.

Q. Did you make a written application for the position? A. I believe I did.

Q. To the Timber Worker?

A. To the Timber Worker.

Q. All right. Now, just before you went——

A. (Interposing) To the International Woodworkers' Executive Board.

Q. Just before you went to Seattle, then, which as you say is about a month prior to the time that you got the job [1514] with the Timber Worker, where were you employed?

A. San Francisco, on the Western Worker.

Q. That would be, in other words, ending about June or July of 1937?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes. I think it was probably June; early in June.

Q. And how long had you been employed just before that continuously with the Western Worker?

A. Well, employed on a salary basis?

Q. Well, how long had you been employed, first of all?

A. I had been connected with the Western Worker since April, 1935.

Q. Continuously until June, 1937?

A. Yes, approximately June.

Q. Part of that time, you say, you were recompensed and in part you were not? A. Yes.

Q. Well, during what period were you paid for your work and during what period were you not paid for your work?

A. It would be impossible to give any regular period because a great deal of the time you might get enough money to have, say, a meal for one day, other times you might get $15.00 for that week, other times you might get $5.00, other times $10.00, many weeks nothing. And it wasn't a question of any long sustained period where you either got some money or either didn't get some money. [1515]

Q. During the period of your employment, whether you were recompensed or not, with the Western Worker did you do your work during all of that time in San Francisco?

A. Yes. Occasionally I would go out of town to cover some story.

Q. How far out of town would you go?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Well, for instance, once I went to Sacramento for a day or two to cover some conference. I forget which it was. That is one incident. Once I went down to Los Angeles to cover some conference down there. I forget what they were exactly.

Q. Did you ever go out of the State of California during that period April, 1935, to June, '37 when you were with the Western Worker?

A. No. I never left the State in all that period.

Q. At any time during your employment with the Western Worker were you on a regular salary? Let's put it this way, first of all:——

A. (Interposing). Yes.

Q. (Continuing) ——when you did get a salary, what did it come to?

A. It was supposed to be a salary of $10.00 per week. That was the understanding when I came there. They stated that. "Well, we pay the members of the staff $10.00 a week." The District Secretary, Schneidermann, told me this. [1516]

Q. All right. Could you strike an average, say, half of the time, a part of the time, or three quarters of the time that you were with the Western Worker that you received this weekly salary?

A. You mean an average, that would come to a ten dollars a week?

Q. Yes. A. Yes.

Q. Or whatever you were supposed to get. I understand from you that you were supposed to get $10.00 a week.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes. Well, I could only strike a pretty rough average.

Q. Your best judgment.

A. Yes, my best judgment. Oh, possibly somewhat less than half of the time; possibly a little more than that, but about that.

Q. About half of the time?

A. I would guess that, yes.

Q. During any of that period, Mr. Honig, were you on relief? A. Yes, in San Francisco.

Q. For how much of the period?

A. I don't remember the exact period. I think it was a question of perhaps anywhere from six weeks to two and a half, three months. But that, too, is a rough guess. That was, [1517] oh, five or six years ago.

Q. Were you on relief under your own name?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you make reports to the relief—withdraw that. A. Yes, you had to.

Q. Just a moment! During the time you were on relief were you receiving any money from the Western Worker?

A. No. We were told—I know I was—that in order to save the Communist Party paying your salary out of the Communist Party's own money, it would be possible and it would be good advice and a good idea to apply for relief and thus be able to have sustenance, money for sustenance. And we were also told—and this was told me by Schneidermann himself, the District Secretary,—that there were plenty of Party members, plenty of comrades in the relief set-up to see to it that there would be no difficulty in that.

Q. What difficulty are you talking about?

A. Well, the difficulty in the sense of this: That you wouldn't have to say that the Party had told you that they were going to discontinue paying you the money, your salary, for the period that you are on relief; and all you had to say was "Yes, you are working at the Western Worker, you are helping out voluntarily without salary", and to state that frankly; and that the chances are almost anybody that you struck, any visitor for the relief service, would understand that as soon as you [1518] mentioned that.

Q. That was Mr. Schneiderman who told you?

A. Yes; words to that effect.

Q. Now, at any time while you were on relief in San Francisco, and I am now talking about the period from April 1935 to June 1937, did you report to the relief authorities any earnings that you made while you were on the Western Worker?

A. I didn't make any earnings, at any of the time that I received relief, from the Western Worker.

Q. Is it your testimony then that you did not make any report of earnings to the relief authorities?

A. No. I wasn't requested to make a report of earnings, but had I been—I don't recall any request —had I been requested I would have stated the facts; that I was not earning any salary.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. First, let's get an answer to this: It is true that you did not make any report to the relief authorities of any earnings in private employment, or the Western Worker?

Presiding Inspector: He answered that question.

Mr. Gladstein: He has said that——

Presiding Inspector: He answered the question. Ask the next question. He has given a negative answer.

Mr. Gladstein: All right. If your Honor is satisfied that the record is that way it is all right.

Presiding Inspector: I have no doubt about it in my mind. [1519]

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I think you said yesterday that when you came to San Francisco to work on the Western Worker you were first assigned as Labor Editor?

A. Yes; as make-up man, Labor Editor—I wasn't given a title; I was given the work what is called on regular daily papers as News Editor.

Q. Your main function at that time was to act as Labor Editor?

A. Yes. I reported labor news.

Q. I think you said yesterday that you held that position for four or five months?

A. Yes; I held that position for, that is, solely that position, as far as titles around the office were concerned, solely that title for about four or five months; or perhaps it was six months. I don't remember exactly. But it was around that approximate period. But when I became Managing Editor I also continued to handle labor news for a period.

Q. When you became Managing Editor did some other person assume the title and duties of Labor Editor?

A. A little later I had to break in somebody to become Labor Editor, to handle that after I gave it up.

Q. Is it correct then that when you changed from Labor Editor to Managing Editor you broke in somebody else to take over [1520] the position of Labor Editor? A. Yes.

Q. How long was that breaking-in process?

A. Oh, I guess it would take about three weeks to a month. I had to take the person around to the Central Labor Council and show him the ropes on covering the Council, and various things of that sort.

Q. Thereafter that person became the Editor?

A. He was understood to be the Labor Editor.

Q. Was he?

A. He was, but he handled the labor news.

Q. And did he continue to handle the labor news as Labor Editor thereafter while you were with the Western Worker?

A. I believe practically the entire time thereafter he did.

Q. Yesterday Mr. Del Guercio asked you about the Trade Union Unity League and its connection with the Red International of Labor Unions. Were the two affiliated?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. The Trade Union Unity League was affiliated with the Red International of Labor Unions.

Q. Was it through that affiliation, or brought by reason of that affiliation, that you yesterday said the Red International of Labor Unions dominated and controlled the Trade Union Unity League?

A. Controlled, rather, decided its major policies; yes, [1521] sir.

Q. By virtue of that affiliation?

A. By virtue of that affiliation.

Q. During any of the time that you were connected with the Trade Union Unity League—withdraw that. First of all, would it be correct to say that your connection with the Trade Union Unity League continued until the time you came out to the West Coast?

A. No, no; that is not correct.

Q. When did it end?

A. It ended at the time I sailed for the Soviet Union.

Q. All right. Now, prior to that time—put it this way: Up to the time that your connection with the Trade Union Unity League ended——

A. (Interposing) Incidentally, I couldn't say that even then because in all in my period in the Soviet Union I still was connected with the Trade Union Unity League.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Let me ask first, when your connection with the Trade Union Unity League began?

A. In probably March 1930, I believe the first issue of Labor Unity, the official organ of the TUUL, that I got out was the issue dated March 30, or something like that, 1930.

A. And did your connection continue thereafter continuously until the time that you left for the Soviet Union, or shortly thereafter? [1522]

A. My connection as Editor of Labor Unity continued until the day I sailed for the Soviet Union.

Q. All right. During that period of time did disaffiliation occur between the Trade Union Unity League and the Red International of Labor Unions?

Presiding Inspector: I didn't get the word.

Mr. Gladstein: "Disaffiliation".

A. No formal disaffiliation occurred. It was decided, I believe, perhaps six months or eight months before I sailed for the Soviet Union, that we would drop from, for instance, the masthead of Labor Unity, it might have been before that, but some time much later after I became Editor of Labor Unity anyway, we would drop the line in the masthead of Labor Unity "Affiliated with the Red International of Labor Unions," and that in any future pamphlets or publications gotten out by the Trade Union Unity League, or sponsored by the Labor Unity, that any mention of that affiliation would be dropped; not denying it, but simply dropping any reference to it.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Then is that the only thing that happened that would indicate disaffiliation, or an effort at it?

Mr. Del Guercio: That isn't what the witness said would indicate disaffiliation.

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking him whether there is anything else that took place to indicate disaffiliation.

Presiding Inspector: His interpretation isn't of course, [1523] material. I think the witness understands what is asked.

A. There wasn't anything that actually occurred to indicate disaffiliation, because I remember the meeting of the—or, it was taken up at several meetings of the National Executive Board of the TUUL, where it was distinctly stressed they were still to be affiliated with the Red International of Trade Unions, and would continue to send representatives to the Red International of Trade Unions, but we were to simply drop reference to that in connection in any publications.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, then, your testimony would be that there was no disaffiliation?

A. My testimony is that there was no disaffiliation while I was Editor of Labor Unity.

Q. You say your name is Nat Honig?

A. Nat Honig is the name I am known by; yes.

Q. You are not Nathaniel Honig?

A. Nathan Honig, Nathaniel Honig, Nate Honig—they are the same; yes.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Were you editor of Labor Unity in October 1933? A. Yes.

Q. And I think, as you said, a member, by virtue of that position, of the Executive Board of the Trade Union Unity League? A. Yes. [1524]

Q. Do you remember testifying as a witness in a case entitled Chatham Shoe Company against Shoe Workers Industrial Union?

A. Yes, I testified in a—I don't remember the name of the case, but it was a shoe case.

Q. Do you remember that that trial took place before Mr. Justice Edward J. McGoldrick?

A. I don't remember the——

Presiding Inspector: McGoldrick—M-c-G-o-l-d-r-i-c-k.

Br. Gladstein: Thank you.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. That took place in October 1933, didn't it?

A. I think it did; I am not sure of the date.

Q. Isn't it true that in that case you appeared as a witness and you testified under oath in substance, that beginning with July 1, 1933, or approximately at that time, the Trade Union Unity League had discontinued and severed its affiliation with the Red International of Labor Unions?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, if your Honor please. It appears that counsel is reading from something and that the witness should see it.

Presiding Inspector: Show him the testimony.

Mr. Gladstein: I don't have the testimony.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

This is just a note of my own to refresh my recollection.

Presiding Inspector: You don't have to show him that. [1525] A. Yes——

Mr. Gladstein: You say "yes"?

Presiding Inspector: I don't think that was an answer to the question.

The Witness: I meant "yes", I am going to answer the question.

What I testified there——

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. (Interposing) No, no, no.

Presiding Inspector: He asked whether you did testify as he has suggested?

A. No, I did not testify in those words.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you testify to that in substance and effect?

A. No; not in that substance and effect.

Q. You are sure of that?

A. Yes. I remember distinctly what I testified when I was sent there to testify.

Q. Did you ever learn after your testimony in that case that the Department of Labor of the United States, in partial reliance, at least, upon your testimony in that case, made the determination that membership in the Trade Union Unity League was not a deportable offense in view of the disaffiliation that had occurred between the Trade Union Unity League and the Red International of Labor Unions? [1526]

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that. That is a conclusion of the attorney. There is no such ruling.

Presiding Inspector: I will exclude that. [1527]

Mr. Gladstein: It may be that the witness knows, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: He couldn't know.

Mr. Del Guercio: How could he know?

Mr. Gladstein: Suppose he says that he does know and was in a position to obtain information? He could have been notified personally, for all we know, and I understand from him——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Supposing he were notified? You mean officially by the Labor Department?

Mr. Gladstein: They might have. I don't know. It may be that he was.

Presiding Inspector: Ask him that, then.

Were you ever notified of any such decision? Yes or no.

The Witness: No.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. To your knowledge was the organization, that is, the Trade Union Unity League, ever notified of any such decision?

A. Not to my knowledge, no.

Presiding Inspector: I don't think it is material anyway.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, we think it is, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I think not. And what I think is of more importance just now. It may not be ultimately, but it is just now.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

By Mr. Gladstein: [1528]

Q. What did you testify to in that case?

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, if your Honor please, that is a broad question.

Presiding Inspector: Yes. I sustain the objection.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. What did you testify with reference to the question of disaffiliation between the Trade Union Unity League and the Red International of Labor Unions?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to that question.

Presiding Inspector: I sustain that objection.

Mr. Gladstein: May I be heard on that one?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: I have asked the witness whether he testified in substance and effect in a certain way concerning a particular subject. The witness says that he did not testify that way on that subject. I am now asking him how he did testify.

Presiding Inspector: Perhaps he didn't testify on that subject. Why don't you ask him that?

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I will ask him that question.

Presiding Inspector: Ask him first whether he testified on the subject of disassociation.

Mr. Del Guercio: If he wants to show inconsistent statements, I think the rule is that he should confront the [1529] witness——

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) There may be a record of them or not. This is an oral statement. If the trial wasn't printed it would probably be lost in the surge of time.

Mr. Del Guercio: Shouldn't that be determined first?

Presiding Inspector: Oh, I don't think so. This is a very collateral point.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I will ask you now, Mr. Honig——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Ask him whether he testified on the subject of "disaffiliation", if there is any such word.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I will ask you now in the case that we have been talking about, the Chatham Shoe case in 1933, you did testify on the question of disaffiliation of the Trade Union Unity League from the Red International of Labor Unions.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment! I object to that as having already been asked and answered.

Presiding Inspector: I think not.

Mr. Del Guercio: Two or three times.

Presiding Inspector: I think not. I will allow it.

A. I testified as to the relationship of the TUUL with the RILU. Yes, the question of disaffiliation or not disaffiliation would be part of what I testified about. [1530]

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. What in substance was your testimony on the question of disaffiliation?

A. I testified to the effect—I can't give exact words, of course, to—the effect, in substance, that the literature, the current literature of the Trade Union Unity League, literature then in use, did not show affiliation of the TUUL with the Red International of Labor Unions. That was the substance, to the best of my recollection.

Q. Well, did you intend by your testimony to give the impression that——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Certainly I object to that.

Mr. Gladstein: I haven't finished the question. I have a right to finish the question before we have the "jumping jack." If your Honor please, I would like to be able to finish the question.

Presiding Inspector: No, I don't think—it sounded as though you might have finished.

Mr. Gladstein: I don't think so.

Presiding Inspector: I don't see any reason to chastise Mr. Del Guercio for that. Go ahead and ask the rest of the question.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I say something, too?

Presiding Inspector: No, not until he has finished [1531] his question. Go ahead.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. Honig, in the testimony that you gave on the question of disaffiliation——

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Don't answer that.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. (Continuing) ——did you intend to give the impression that disaffiliation had occurred?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that upon the ground that——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I will allow that.

A. No, I merely intended to show as a factual—as a matter of fact that the literature, the current literature of the Trade Union Unity League did not refer to any such affiliation. That is, most of the literature then being used. At the same time I was shown literature that still was in circulation in the Trade Union Unity League relating to the program—this is to the best of my memory, it is quite a long time ago. I was shown literature, I believe, by the Court which still did refer to such affiliation with the RILU and I was asked if I could identify that as having been published by the TUUL or the Labor Unions, as the case may be, and I did so identify it. But I pointed out that this was not the literature, the latest literature showing the program, policy and so forth.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Is it correct, then, that you drew a distinction in [1532] your testimony between the literature of the Trade Union Unity League prior to a certain period in which there was mention of a connection or affiliation, on the one hand, and literature after that certain period in which there was no mention of any such affiliation?

A. No, not that kind of a distinction. The distinction I was trying, at least in my way, to draw there, was a distinction of date of publication of the literature. I was just simply trying to show that this literature was published later than that literature and that, therefore, this was more current.

Q. When did you leave the Communist Party?

A. November of 1939 is when I notified the leading members of my party unit that I was leaving.

Q. Could you briefly state the essence of your basic reason for leaving the Communist Party?

A. Yes. I thought I stated yesterday. I tried to in the best way I could, but I can do it again.

The first reason in my mind for making me leave was the signing of the Nazi-Soviet pact. That had been signed about a month and a half before or two months before that. I believe it was late in August of that year and I tried to figure the thing out; talked to other party members, tried to get their opinion, tried to see if it could jibe in any way with the principles that I believed in and with the ideals and princi- [1533] ples that I had in all my time in the Party believed that the Party stood for as far as Fascism was concerned. And I tried and I tried to see every side of the question. I talked to Party leaders, from Rapport down. I talked to ordinary rank-and-file Party members to get every kind of reaction, explanation and every facet of the question before I wanted to make up my mind, because I had been in the Party a long time and I didn't want to leave just overnight on a snap decision after I had been in it for a long time. But finally I couldn't see that the signing of that Pact and the consequent change in policy, being another change in policy in the American Party could be anything but a complete reversal of everything that I had stood for and thought the Party stood for in relationship to Fascism.

Q. Did you feel then that,——

A. (Interposing) That was one reason.

Q. Oh, all right. Was that the most important reason?

A. I would say that ——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) I think he gave all the reasons yesterday. They are on direct. Do we want to go over all that again?

Presiding Inspector: I suppose he has the right to go over them.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Was that the most important reason? [1534]

A. This and the next reason I am going to give, it was a tie between them for importance in my mind.

The next reason was that I felt, particularly in my experiences with Party members who are officials of the I. W. A., the International Woodworkers, that their role in the trade unions when they achieved leading positions was an opportunist role. This was something, too, that I thought for a long time. I can't say that it suddenly came to me. I can't say that I just suddenly became aware of that. It was something that began to disturb me quite a bit from almost the—well, I won't say from almost the day I began to serve as Editor of the Timber Worker, but pretty nearly that.

There were certain things that occurred that I couldn't understand a man, a Communist Party member, who subscribed to a supposedly program of leading the workers into more militant and progressive channels of struggle doing.

The thing that really was the pay-off for me there was the fact that while there were three thousand or so workers locked out in Portland—International Woodworkers' members—starving and we were collecting relief for them, well, men like Pritchett would take trips back East and spend several hundred dollars in expenses on that, and at times fly back, when it seemed to me that they could have saved a lot of that money and they could have achieved whatever they went there for with- [1535] out spending that much money.

Then there were other things, too: I mentioned, for instance, the disagreements I had in connection with what went into the Timber Worker. They were not disagreements on basic policy of the International Woodworkers or even the question of policy of the Communist Party in the trade unions so much.

The first thing that—there were disagreements on this: The first thing I tried to do when I became

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Editor of the Timber Worker was to establish as much space as possible for letters from the members of the unions so they could express themselves on anything they wanted. So I built that up to a two-page section out of eight pages.

Naturally, there were many members of the International Woodworkers that didn't agree with the International officials. They didn't like the Communist Party also. There were many who, quite a number who, did like the officials and did like the Communist Party.

Well, letters would come in for those rank-and-file pages. I called them "the voice of the rank-and-file"—from both sides and, as far as space permitted, tried to equalize them because the letters generally were equal in proportion.

I was criticised very severely, not first by Pritchett, who was the International President of the Union, but I was called to Morris Rapport's office, the District Organizer, or District Secretary of the Communist Party, and told that I [1536] was devoting too much space to letters which criticised the Communist Party and the officials of the International Woodworkers. I told him that these were the men who were paying for the paper; that we couldn't possibly refuse to print their letters; we had no right to. And, I said, 'So long as I am Editor, so long as I am permitted to remain Editor I am going to try to continue that policy."

The International Executive Board had endorsed that policy as far as the paper was concerned at successive meetings and they never had ordered me to not continue doing that.

Then another time what happened was this. Two Communist Party leaders—they were openly and admittedly Communist Party leaders—came to Seattle to make a talk. I forget the occasion. I think it was the anniversary of the Russian Revolution on November 7th. They were C. A. Hathaway and William F. Dunne. And the Communist Party had gotten the use of the Civic Auditorium, which is run by the City of Seattle. Later on the city officials denied the use, revoked the permit to use the auditorium for the Communist Party.

I was called to Rapport's office and I was told to make a "big issue" in the Timber Worker, which was a union paper and not the Communist Party organ. I agreed there should be something in the paper about it, and for that issue I wrote an article saying that in my opinion that, if the city-owned [1537] auditorium was denied to any political group, it could later be denied perhaps as a precedent to a union group. And I made it a question of that.

When the issue came out I was sent for by Rapport, Pritchett and Orton, the International Vice-President, who were in Rapport's office, and I was told that from the Communist Party point of view I had committed a grevious error and a blunder, and so forth and so on down the line. I was told that I should have made that a downright issue of the right of the Communist Party to use the civic auditorium and never mind the question of whether it be the Union's, or not, to make it a downright question of the civil liberties of the Communist Party. And I told them that I didn't want to do that because it was not a Communist Party newspaper. And from then on I noticed less and less cooperation from Prichett and Orton as far as writing articles for the paper, as far as assisting me in my work, which was the duties of the International officers.

These things led to my resignation, my telling them that I wanted to resign and the rest of what I told you before.

Q. Have you now stated all the basic or important or fundamental reasons why you left the Communist Party?

A. Those two and one more, and that is the complete lack of democracy in the Communist Party. There had been some democracy in earlier days among the rank-and-file members of the Party and in the Party units, but gradually the last three [1538] years I was in the Party that began to dwindle down to the point where it was non-existent.

For instance, no officials of the Communist Party were actually elected by the rank-and-file members before their assuming their positions. A slate would be submitted to a Communist Party Convention and then you were told to vote on that slate. You didn't have any other slate to vote on. It was like voting "Yes." And, as a matter of fact, at Communist Party Conventions that I attended, if you abstained from voting even, you were severely criticised because that meant that you had a mental reservation against the slate that the Party leadership wanted to be in those posts.

In the Party units particularly I noticed at the time of the singing of that Soviet-German pact, the thing was handed down to the Party members as an accomplished fact and you were told "You have to accept this as a policy now." And many Party members couldn't understand it and said "Well, only two days ago at meetings we were handed outlines for discussion on Democracy and how we should fight to defend Democracy, now we are told to forget Democracy, that it is an implement of the bourgeoisie and of the capitalists. There was no democratic determination of that policy by the Party membership.

Q. Have you now stated all the reasons why you left the Communist Party?

A. I think I have stated the basic reasons. [1539]

Q. Is it not a fact that you yourself believed in the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force and violence?

A. I had to believe that—yes, I did. I necessarily believed that in a major part of the time that I was in the Party as a Party member.

Q. You do now, don't you? A. I do not.

Q. When did you stop believing that?

A. I stopped believing that as far as my own mind was concerned, oh, perhaps a year and a half, two years before I left the Party. And, as a matter of fact, I discussed that with Party officials and I had told them that—I had told them that I was coming to think that such kind of action to achieve social change would not be necessary, and I pointed out to certain reforms being made by the National Administration. And they said—they pointed out "Well, you don't necessarily have to believe that. It's quite possible that in the United States"—this was not writings, this was in personal conversations with me—"It is quite possible in the United States and even probable that there wouldn't have to be force and violence, because all the rest of the world would have done so meanwhile, and all the rest of the thing would fall in our laps".

Well, that kind of sustained me, kept me in the Party for [1540] a while, plus the assurance of the leading members of the Communist Party.

Q. Then is it your testimony that from 1927 to approximately 1937 you did believe in the forcible and violent destruction of the Government of the United States?

A. I would put my belief in that period you mentioned in this way. What I believed was this: That——

Q. (Interposing) Can't you first answer the question "Yes" or "No" and then, if you want to qualify it, you can make as many qualifications as you like?

Mr. Del Guercio: The witness has indicated that he can't answer it "Yes" or "No".

Presiding Inspector: I think he can answer it. Let's see if he can answer it.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. (Continuing) I don't believe I can definitely say "Yes" or "No" on that question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. All right. If you can't say either "Yes" or "No", go ahead and speak.

A. What I believed from the day I joined the Communist Party, oh, for, say, the next nine or ten years was this: That the Communists could work as far as possible towards transition, towards socialization, in that quite possibly at some point when they got near the point, say, where the masses of people of the country were ready for a change in the system, [1541] for doing away with capitalism as a system, at that time they would be in such a great majority and indicate it so plainly that there might not be the necessity for any kind of struggle or violence.

I thought that there were maybe a 75 per cent chance that that could happen, and many Party leaders told me that. But I did believe this, however: That in case such a situation arose and the organization of the workers that were desirous of that change made it plain to those in control of capitalism that they wanted to achieve a system of socialization now, and if those in control of the capitalist organizations, the capital system as a whole, met them with violence then I did believe, and I sincerely believed that it would be necessary for the working class to resort to violence because they were being met with it.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. That is counter-violence after violence first used by some other side?

A. Yes. That was really in my belief. But, nevertheless, I must say openly that it was a belief in the use of violence to achieve that aim.

Q. During the period that you have held the beliefs that you have just described did you consider your beliefs to be consistent or inconsistent with the teachings and advocacies of the Communist Party?

A. I believed them to be largely consistent because, [1542] first of all, I had discussed these questions with leading members of the Communist Party, men like Foster, men like Stachel, who were members of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Party, and in cases even in some Communist writings it has been mentioned that in a country like the United States it might be possible that, well, the capitalists would have no fight left in them in this country because the capitalists in the other countries had been overcome. And I kind of rather like to choose to believe those statements rather than the contradictory statements on that subject appearing probably in the same work by men like Lenin and so forth. Perhaps it was just a matter of wishful thinking on my part.

Q. In what respect would you say that your present views on the subject we are now discussing are consistent or inconsistent with the views you held while you were in the Communist Party?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. You mean on the subject of violence?

Q. Yes.

A. In the use of violence. I believe now that it isn't—that it will not be necessary in order to achieve a better measure of social justice to use violence for, say, a change in—not—for a change in the way the Government operates and the way the entire system that we live under operates in respect to the people as a whole. [1543]

Q. Well, didn't you say a few moments ago that you believed that there was a 75 per cent chance—that is to say, while you were in the Communist Party you believed—that there would be no violence?

A. Yes, I said that when I was in the Communist Party for the first ten years or so. I understood your last question to refer to my beliefs now.

Q. Yes, your present belief.

A. Yes. At the present moment, yes.

Presiding Inspector: I think it is very clear. Go ahead.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, you gave some testimony yesterday about the Marine Workers Industrial Union.

A. Yes. [1544]

Q. You say that was an affiliate of the Trade Union Unity League? A. Yes, that was.

Q. The Marine Workers Industrial Union, I think you said, if I am not mistaken about that—don't feel that I am putting words in your mouth, and you can simply say so—that the Marine Workers Industrial Union was not openly known as affiliated in any way with any organization in Russia?

A. I don't think I said that. The best of my recollection is that my testimony was that it was not openly known as being affiliated with the Communist Party of the United States. Maybe I am wrong about that, but that is what I meant to say.

Q. But what you meant was that there was no open affiliation between the Marine Workers Industrial Union and the Communist Party?

A. Yes; as a matter of fact, no open connection of any kind.

Q. What about the connection of the Marine Workers Industrial Union with the Red International of Labor Unions? Was that an open one, say, take the period during the 1934 strike in San Francisco—what was the situation then?

A. That was an open connection up until the time, I believe you gave the date when you were speaking of my testimony in that Court in New York. Up to that time that was an open affiliation to the Red International of Trade Unions, through [1545] its affiliations with the TUUL. The affiliation of the Marine Workers Industrial Union with the TUUL was openly stated in the Marine Workers Industrial Union literature. In turn, the TUUL affiliation with the RILU was at that time also openly stated.

Q. Well, that period was some time in 1933, wasn't it?

(Testimony of Nat Honig)

A. If I remember right that period you mentioned, I think I agreed with that period; that it was up until then.

Q. What about after that period?

A. After that period the situation applied as I described later; that is, that it was decided that in all TUUL affiliates, and in connection with the TUUL itself, that as far as references in printed literature was concerned affiliation with the RILU, that would be removed from that literature; but that in all actuality such affiliation was not really done away with.

Q. Well, then, were efforts made after this period in October 1933 to openly show a disaffiliation?

A. The efforts that were made were these—it may actually mean what you are saying there—but the efforts actually made were these: Simply to remove any traces, not to deny, not to deny in the literature but I saw, anyway, or that I remember seeing off-hand, or at least there was a decision anyway—I can only speak on what the decision was at one of the meetings I attended of the TUUL Executive Board. The decision was not to make any efforts to deny in printed words [1546] that a disaffiliation had occurred between the TUUL and its affiliates, with the RILU; but simply in any new literature that was published from that time on not to refer to any such affiliation.

Q. Was there an effort——

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: Read the last answer, please, Mr. Reporter.

(The answer referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Presiding Inspector: Not to deny that a disaffiliation had occurred, is that what you mean?

The Witness: Yes. I would like to answer it a little more clearly. I guess it was rather mixed up there.

Presiding Inspector: I think it is.

The Witness: I would like to answer that with brevity. The decision made by the Trade Union Unity League Executive Board was to eliminate references in any new literature of the TUUL itself, or its affiliates, to the fact that the TUUL, or its affiliates, were connected in any way with the RILU; but not actually coming out in new literature and denying that. That was the decision made.

Presiding Inspector: Not to deny the affiliation?

The Witness: Yes; not to say in so many words that "We are not affiliated," but simply to revise the old literature.

Presiding Inspector: Say nothing about it?

[1547]

The Witness: Yes; that would sum it up.

Presiding Inspector: I think he has said it both ways now.

Mr. Gladstein: I think he has. It is a matter of taking one's choice.

Presiding Inspector: You said in the first statement, "Not to deny disaffiliation."

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

The Witness: Not to deny affiliation.

Presiding Inspector: That is what you meant?

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: I thought that was what you meant.

The Witness: I might have said it wrong, but that is what I meant.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, was the Marine Workers Industrial Union a bona fide trade union?

A. In form it was. It was a bona fide trade union in its structure and form; yes.

In answering that question I don't know if I can properly answer it without some kind of an accepted definition of what a bona fide trade union is.

Q. Put it this way: Did the Marine Workers Industrial Union attempt to organize workers in the Maritime Industry?

A. It did attempt to organize workers in the Maritime Industry.

Q. Did it organize any workers in the Maritime Industry? [1548]

A. Yes; it recruited members into its organization.

Q. Do you know at any period what its trade union membership was?

A. I can only state that roughly, because there would be varied claims made by various officials, by the MWIU. I know as an actual fact, as far as we who were members of the TUUL Executive

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Board, we knew without any hot air, and without trying to give an exaggerated impression for readers of our publication—I know as an actual fact, from our meetings, that the reports showed a maximum of maybe 3000 members or 4000 members at any one time in its first period of organization.

Later on there was one report made that it had got as many as 10,000 members, a thing never substantiated to my knowledge.

Q. Would you try to give us an approximate date as to the two periods you are talking about? You said in the first stages there were about 3000 members and then later on you said there were about 10,000.

A. I will try to give approximate dates. It is difficult, but I will try that; yes. I will do it this way. The Marine Workers Industrial Union was set up in 1933—I forget the month—and at the time it was set up it took into its organization and structure the entire Marine Workers Industrial League, which had been its predecessor. In that [1549] Marine Industrial League there were perhaps 2000 to 2500, maybe 3000, members. That in toto was taken over and became the Marine Workers Industrial Union. So that was actually my recollection of the initial membership in size. I think that was an actual membership.

Q. At what period did it achieve a membership of 10,000?

A. About a year later—this is also to the best of my recollection as to the date—about a year later it began to lead a series of strikes and struggles, and early in 1934—maybe late in 1933—for one thing it led a series of strikes on individual ships, and strike action on individual ships. It did achieve some gains in those strikes for the members, some elementary gains.

Q. What kind of gains are you referring to now?

A. Well, better, perhaps, better sleeping quarters on a particular ship; maybe better food, or something like that. These were the elementary things that they would have disputes about in that stage of the Marine Workers Industrial Union.

Q. Better wages?

A. I don't remember any occasion where wages were an issue, although they may have been.

Q. Shorter hours?

A. Shorter hours were a constant issue that was raised; the question of a three-watch system on a ship, which meant three watches a day, which meant an 8-hour day, or approximately [1550] so. But I don't know whether they actually made that a strike demand during that period.

Q. How about the manning scale? Do you know what I am referring to by that?

A. Yes. I think that was referred to. I know it was a part of the basic program of the Marine Workers Industrial Union, but I can't say definitely.

Q. What was a part of the basic program?

A. The question of wage scales generally was part of the basic program.

Q. I said "manning scale". Do you know what

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

I mean by "manning scale"? I mean the number of men that are on a ship that occupy the various classifications of work to be performed?

A. I don't recall that being made an issue.

Q. You don't recall one of the issues made by the MWIU was to increase the number of men employed on the ship?

A. That was not raised on the east coast or the gulf coast. I was not familiar with the west coast then.

Q. What about the question of the abolition of employers' hiring halls and the establishment of Union hiring halls—was that an issue?

A. That was part of the basic program. In any dispute they would have they would bring that up.

Q. Did the Marine Workers Industrial Union exercise or [1551] exert any real influence in the 1934 Maritime strike in San Francisco?

A. I can only say that from what was discussed at the Executive Board meetings of the Trade Union Unity League. I wasn't on the West coast and I couldn't testify to the actual situation. I wasn't here. But in discussions at which I was present, Executive Board meetings of the TUUL, it was reported, whenever the maritime situation was discussed, particularly, the west coast maritime situation, that the MWIU had been very influential in bringing the workers on the west coast, in the maritime industry, into a frame of mind where they felt that they should do something to obtain better conditions. That was discussed, and that their influence generally was there.

Q. A large influence?

A. The report said there was a large influence.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I want the record to show that we are not objecting to hearsay testimony.

Mr. Gladstein: What is that?

Presiding Inspector: He says he is not objecting to the hearsay testimony that you are introducing. Go ahead.

Mr. Gladstein: It would be unusual.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. Honig, have you ever sought from an International [1552] officer of the American Newspaper Guild, of which you are a member, or any other person, a fraudulent recommendation in order to assist you to secure employment? A. No.

Q. Have you ever asked anyone to give you a recommendation in which it was to be stated that you had worked on the New York World?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever worked on the New York World?

A. Never worked on the New York World, in my life.

Q. Have you ever asked anyone to give you a reference, or recommendation, in which you requested the statement to be made that you had worked on the New York Globe?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, does counsel want to make an offer of evidence?

Presiding Inspector: I don't know. I think I will allow it. This is cross examination.

A. No, I never did.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Have you ever worked on the New York Globe?

A. No. The New York Globe went out of existence, I guess, while I was still going to school.

Q. Have you ever asked anyone to give you a recommendation, or reference, in which it was to be stated, at your request, that you had worked for a St. Louis paper by the name of [1553] the Globe-Democrat? A. No.

Q. Have you ever worked for such a paper?

A. I never have been in St. Louis in my life.

Q. Well, then, you have never worked for such a paper? A. No.

Q. Have you ever asked anyone to give you a reference, or recommendation in order to enable you to secure a job and in which, at your request, it was to be stated that you had worked for the San Francisco Bulletin? A. No.

Q. Have you ever worked for the San Francisco Bulletin?

A. Never. You mean the Call-Bulletin, I assume.

Q. Did you ever ask Victor Pasche for a recommendation to enable you to get a job?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. I might possibly have written him a letter asking him to recommend me as to character, and so forth, yes; and as to my ability as a newspaper man.

Q. Who is Victor Pasche?

A. Victor Pasche is International Secretary-Treasurer—International Treasurer, I guess his title is, of the American Newspaper Guild.

The Reporter: How do you spell the name?

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you know how to spell his name? [1554]

A. I think I do. I think it is P-a-s-c-h-e.

Mr. Gladstein: Would your Honor object to taking the morning recess now?

Presiding Inspector: No.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

Presiding Inspector: Call back the witness.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. Honig, how many trips have you taken to the Soviet Union? A. Just one.

Q. During the time that you were there you were continuously there? That is, you didn't come back to the United States and then go back there again?

A. No; I never came back to the United States after I left, and then went back; no.

Q. Can you date the first time you ever met Harry Bridges? A. The exact date?

Q. Approximately?

A. The first time I saw Harry Bridges I guess was at the Central Labor Council. He was there as a delegate. He was simply speaking on the floor as a delegate. The date, I imagine, was about the first week I came here.

Q. When was that?

A. In April 1935, I guess. [1555]

Q. What is the date of the first Sunday night meeting that you were talking about yesterday?

A. I don't remember the exact date.

Q. Well, the approximate date?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to the question. What meeting? Was it a Top Fraction meeting? The witness testified to several kinds of meetings.

Presiding Inspector: I think he is now referring to a meeting at the Labor Council.

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw the question.

Presiding Inspector: Aren't you?

Mr. Gladstein: No. I will withdraw the question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You were talking yesterday about some top Fraction meetings that were held on Sunday nights.

A. Yes. I didn't say they were all on Sunday nights. I said generally they were held on Sunday nights.

Q. I want to direct your attention to those meetings. Give me the approximate date of the first of such meetings.

A. I am going to answer that to the best of my recollection as to the approximate date that it occurred. The first such meeting that I attended, at which I saw Harry Bridges present, occurred perhaps about two weeks or three weeks prior to the opening of the 1936 strike here. It was in the preparatory stage of that, and the discussion at that meeting was [1556] about the preparation for that possible strike.

Q. Am I to infer that you attended these meetings yourself prior to this date, but you did not see Harry Bridges there?

A. No. I can't recall whether at the very first meeting I attended Bridges was there or not.

Q. You don't know that?

A. No, I don't know that definitely.

Q. What was discussed at that first meeting?

A. The entire meeting, as all subsequent meetings, was taken up with discussions of the work along the waterfront, Communist Party work along the waterfront, and in the Maritime Union. That was a topic of discussion too.

Q. What was said in that connection, anything that you can remember?

Presiding Inspector: You are asking about a particular meeting?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes; the first meeting.

Presiding Inspector: Do you think that advances us very much? Here were a series of meetings, according to the testimony. Are you trying to test his recollection? I am asking merely for information. Ordinarily a person in a series of meetings won't remember what occurred at any particular meeting unless there was something distinct to call his attention to it. [1557]

Mr. Gladstein: I will put it in a general form.

Presiding Inspector: I think we would advance more.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. First, let me ask you this preliminary question: You don't know where any of these meetings were held, is that right? Or you can't state now?

A. No. I can't state for the reason that it was strict—a Party policy, promptly to forget, promptly to forget the number. As far as I was concerned, that was my instructions.

Q. You don't know now where those meetings were held, is that correct?

Presiding Inspector: The houses, you mean?

A. No. The exact street addresses, I don't remember.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. All right. Now tell us, if you will, some of these specific topics that were discussed at any of these meetings.

A. Well, there was only one general specific topic: always work on the waterfront in the Maritime Unions and maritime industry. There were, what you might call, sub-topics stemming out of that one general specific topic. And I can tell you, if you want, if you mean that, I can tell you what some of them were.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Give me anything that you can remember about any of those meetings.

A. O.K. For instance, not at one meeting but at [1558] many meetings the work of the Communist Party members in the Longshoremen's Union was discussed. The work, the topic, for instance, of how to go about recruiting new Communist Party members in the Longshoremen's Union would be a topic frequently. That would also be a topic in regard to several of the other unions that representatives, that is, members of those unions were present from at the meetings. That was a very frequent topic.

As I mentioned before, at the first meeting that I saw Harry Bridges at of those top fraction meetings, the preparation for the 1936 strike was one of the topics. I don't say that these were the first such top fraction meetings held. This was among the first that I attended and, for all I know, that topic may have been discussed before I started attending. But that was also a topic at subsequent meetings until the strike itself occurred.

Another topic that would be discussed was relationship with other unions, in the A. F. of L., for instance. A topic that would be discussed would be the various figures in the Central Labor Council, its officials, their attitude toward the strike, the waterfront unions, their attitude toward Harry Bridges, their political ideas, their ideas on running a trade union. That would be a frequent topic.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. All right. Now—excuse me.

A. Well, I could go on, I guess—— [1559]

Q. Go ahead.

A. (Continuing): ——and give you more, if you want them. In that connection the attitude on how to assail, how to criticize or how to attack any trade union officials, particularly in the A. F. of L., who didn't particularly agree with the Communist Party leadership in the trade unions; how to do that, how to do that most effectively was a topic frequently. Oh, there were numerous topics and those were some.

Q. Now, on the topic of the attitude of leading officials of the American Federation of Labor toward Harry Bridges, can you recall anything that was said in that connection?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment, if your Honor please! The witness testified regarding the attitude of the officials of other trade unions in the American Federation of Labor toward Communist Party policy.

Mr. Gladstein: I heard his testimony and one of the things that he said was that, he says, they discussed the attitude of American Federation of Labor officials toward Harry Bridges. I want to ask a question on that. I haven't forgotten the other things he said.

Presiding Inspector: I don't recall that particular point.

Mr. Gladstein: Will you take the answer?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: Yes, I will take the answer.

The Witness: Can I have the question again?

[1550]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Certainly. Do you want to hear the previous answer you gave, Mr. Honig?

A. No, no, no.

Q. Isn't it correct that you mentioned that one of the things discussed was the attitude of certain American Federation of Labor officials toward Harry Bridges?

A. Yes, particularly the Central Labor Council officials here.

Q. Yes. I thought you did. All right. Now, what was said? Anything said by anybody in that connection, can you remember?

A. Well, I can't quote specific word for word verbatim phrases, but I can give you the gist of what would be said—of what was said on occasion when these topics were discussed. For instance, the attitude of Vandeleur. I believe his name is Edward F. Vandeleur, who was then, I think, Secretary or President, I guess, of the Central Labor Council. He may have been Secretary. I think he was President. Towards the Longshoremen's Union as a whole, towards the Communist Party, towards what were called "militant trade union policies". That was discussed and, of course, it was generally agreed that Vandeleur's attitude was what they called "reactionary".

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

And then there would be discussed on how to overcome any influence that he might exert on the membership of the American [1561] Federation of Labor in San Francisco and in the State as a whole in spreading forth his opinions about the waterfront unions, about trade union policies and tactics and so forth.

The same would be discussed about, I remember MacLaughlin, the Teamster's Union official. I forget his first name. And about O'Connell, who was, I think, Secretary of the Central Labor Council at that time. Then the attitude of George Kidwell, who was a delegate to the Central Labor Council from the Bakery Wagon Drivers at the time. And it was regarded that he was generally liberal minded, progressive minded; that sometimes he would tend to agree with one side and other times with another side—with the other side. And John Shelley, also then a delegate of the Bakery Wagon Drivers, and more or less the same attitude was taken towards him and discussions—the same opinion expressed there. I can't say that those are the definite words, but that was the gist.

Q. All right. What decisions, if any, were made in these meetings with respect to Vandeleur?

A. Oh, simply—I don't know whether you could call them actual "decisions"; just a matter of coming to an agreement on what attitude, in turn, would be adopted on him and his influence. You may call them "decisions" if you want to. It was something commonly agreed on and accepted there, and as far as he was concerned, it was agreed that he should be called "reactionary", "phony" and what not and severely [1562] assailed, to the workers.

Q. You mean that the conclusion or decision as a result of the discussion on Vandeleur was that he was to be publicly assailed? A. Yes.

Q. Any other conclusion or decision?

A. I don't recall any other. That applies to O'Connell, I mentioned; MacLaughlin; more or less the same thing, the same type of decision was reached.

Q. Any other decision or conclusion arrived at with respect to O'Connell or MacLaughlin?

A. No; I just said that more or less the same decision was arrived at.

Q. What decision, if any, was arrived at with respect to Mr. Kidwell?

A. Oh, simply to try to—well, he was regarded as a liberal, who sometimes, well they would use the phrase about him that he would be "muddled"; sometimes in his efforts to be fair minded he would stroll over, he would give aid and comfort to the reactionaries maybe without meaning to do so. That would be discussed. And as far as any decision about him was concerned, I couldn't say definitely that you would call that a "decision" either. It is a matter of how to try to work with him, how to try to convince him that the side that the members there believed in was right.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Well then, is it correct that no conclusion or decision of any specific nature can be recalled by you with [1563] respect to Mr. Kidwell?

A. Not in regard to any kind of action; what you might call "definite action."

Q. To be taken?

A. To be taken about him. Perhaps it might be decided, well, to have Bridges or somebody else talk to the man and get his ideas and give, say, Bridges' ideas.

Q. Any decisions or conclusions that you can recall with respect to the attitude of Mr. Shelley?

A. Much the same as applied to Mr. Kidwell.

Q. And when do you date the making of these decisions with respect to Mr. Vandeleur, Mr. MacLaughlin and Mr. O'Connell?

A. I would say all through that 1936 and '37 strike. That was when they were particularly concerned with the actions and attitudes of these officials.

Q. This was a sort of running decision going throughout the meetings throughout this strike period?

A. I will tell you how they would come up. Somebody would say "Well, did you see what Vandeleur—the statement that Vandeleur made today in the Chronicle?" Or News, or whatever it was, the Examiner. And then they discussed that statement and how to answer that statement.

Q. When you talk about "statements" what kind of statements are you referring to?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Well, I couldn't say definitely whether it would [1564] be a statement officially made by Vandeleur in his position, that is, in his post, the office he held; or just maybe a personal statement by Vandeleur.

Q. Yes. But what would be the tenor of that statement?

A. Oh, quite often he would refer to what the Communist Party members regarded as progressive trade unions—he would refer to them as "Red", perhaps. I can't say that that was his definite words, but he would attack certain types of policy and action that the Communists regarded as progressive. He would regard it as reactionary in statements that he would issue, not merely in the strike, but generally all along that period that I was down here in regard to trade union work generally.

Q. Can you remember any particular statement that came up in these discussions that was made by Mr. Vandeleur attacking the waterfront unions or the strike conducted by them?

A. No, I can't.

Q. But there were some statements?

A. I am pretty sure there were. If they weren't statements, then it would be a question of attitude or something that he said on the floor of the Central Labor Council, which in itself is a statement too. This also I—I might have seemed to limit such discussions to that strike period, [1565] but in the period when the affiliation of the Longshoremen to the CIO took place, in that period and the period of the formulation of that policy, I think also at that time Vandeleur made attacks and these Teamster Officials issued statements attacking it both publicly and in the press, and I know definitely in the Labor Council. And then the same kind of discussion would go on with respect to how to answer that.

Q. When was that, Mr. Honig?

A. I can't tell you the exact date that the change took place now.

Q. Give us your best recollection.

A. To my best judgment it might have been shortly after the strike ended in February, 1936. But that's just an attempt to remember the date. It is not myself trying to be authentic as to that time.

Q. Could it have happened during the latter part of the strike?

A. It either happened then or shortly after the strike was over, in my recollection.

Q. Well, that is your best recollection, is it?

A. Yes.

Q. Was Mr. Bridges present at these meetings where this question of CIO affiliation was discussed?

A. He was present at some of them, yes. [1566]

Q. And that would include meetings during the strike and shortly thereafter? A. Yes.

Q. Now, what was the discussion of CIO affiliation?

A. The consensus of opinion was that it was favorable towards such affiliation at that time. I don't say that that was true through all meetings. Earlier there had been no agreement towards CIO affiliation and it was felt that it would be best to remain in the affiliation they had then. But when —I can say it this way: That discussions were held in the Trade Union Commission of the Communist Party for the California District regarding correspondence and instructions that had come from the Central Committee of the Party in New York on that question and following such discussions at the Communist Party trade union meetings then the thing was handed to this top fraction of the maritime industry for discussion.

Q. Is it your testimony, then, that the discussions in the top fraction meetings began as a result of instructions being sent from the Central Committee of the Communist Party on the question of CIO affiliation? A. Yes.

Q. What were those instructions?

A. I can't tell you the exact things.

Q. Well, the essence of them.

A. Well, the essence was that they had discussed this [1567] question in New York again at the National Trade Union Commission of the Communist Party, and they had discussed the various aspects of the question, and after long and frequent discussion had come to the conclusion that by this stage it would be better for the longshoremen on the West Coast to go into the CIO. That is, that it would be best for the Communists among the longshoremen to work for such a change-over.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Then, is it your testimony that in some of the meetings at the tail end of the strike and those which took place shortly after the end of the strike instructions were received by the top fraction to the effect that the members of the top fraction were to exert themselves to achieve the change of affiliation as soon as possible of the longshoremen to the CIO?

A. Well now, I am not trying to place the dates as specifically as you have made it there. I did say, as far as my recollection goes, I think it was in that period possibly towards the very end of the strike, towards the tail end of the strike, and in my opinion probably after the strike, and not so long after the strike. But I can't be more specific than that.

Q. According to your best recollection and judgment, the statement that was contained in my question would be a correct one; is that right?

A. Yes. I will tell you what I could—I could date it better this way: Well, let's see! No, I couldn't. I don't think I could be more specific on it than I am trying to. [1568] It may have been some months after the strike at that, but—(Pause).

Q. Well, you left San Francisco not very long after the strike ended, didn't you?

A. Yes. I left San Francisco in September—in June or maybe the first week of July. I forget exactly when.

Q. In 1937?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. By that time the affiliation——that change-over had occurred and had been in existence for a number of months anyway.

Q. So, therefore, these top fraction meeting discussions of the question of CIO affiliation would have happened, according to your best judgment, in and during the strike and immediately thereafter?

A. Yes. That's according to my best recollection. I would like to——

Q. (Interposing): I haven't asked you a question.

A. No. I am talking on the last question.

Q. You mean you haven't finished your last answer?

A. I am just adding something to my answer, if I may.

Q. Go ahead.

A. I would like to again stress that I can't recall that period specifically. That might have been even early in the strike or just prior to the strike sometime.

Presiding Inspector: You are not sure about the exact period? [1569]

The Witness: No.

Presiding Inspector: I think you have made that clear.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. When you added that, did you mean to indicate that because of this difficulty you have in re membering that it is possible that the question of instructions from New York for the Communists in the top fraction in San Francisco to exert efforts to bring the longshoremen into the CIO could have been discussed during the early stage of the 1936-37 strike and even a little bit before that strike began? Is that what you meant?

A. Yes, I think so. And I will tell you, it is this: This question of the CIO in all unions on the waterfront, as far as discussion in the Communist Party fractions were concerned, had come up from the very time of the actual formation of the CIO, which was at the end of 1935. So that that subject as a possibility came up at all Communist Party meetings in respect to trade unions long before the actual strat of that strike. So as a topic of possible affiliation with the CIO, I would say that that might have been started long before the beginning of the strike even, as a possibility.

Q. All right. Now, so those instructions—I want to talk about those for a minute. Is there any question in your mind that those instructions from the Central Committee of the Communist Party were that the longshoremen on the Pacific Coast [1570] were to go CIO? There is no doubt in your mind about that, is there?

A. The final instructions, yes, before the longshoremen actually did.

Q. And I think you said that those instructions were mandatory on Bridges?

A. As a Communist Party member.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Were they mandatory on Bridges?

A. As a Communist Party member all instructions from any leading body of the Communist Party were mandatory on him.

Q. All right.

A. I would also like to elaborate a word or so on that, too, on the answer that I just gave you, if it is all right. And that is this: That once a decision was arrived at by the Communist Party it was mandatory that it be accepted. There could be discussion as to the merits of that decision, but once a decision was adopted that was mandatory, absolutely.

Presiding Inspector: I think you have already said that.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. That is, a Communist Party member would have to follow that decision out?

A. Yes, when that was adopted as a decision

Q. Now, throughout these various meetings—let us take them in a group now, because you undoubtedly would have difficulty, I suppose, trying to think of them in terms [1571] of separate meetings. Can you recall any particular subject that Mr. Bridges discussed during any of those meetings?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I think that has already been asked and answered. He gave a list of the things that had been discussed.

Presiding Inspector: If he can remember anything else. I think that is so.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Gladstein: I didn't ask him anything about what Mr. Bridges is supposed to have discussed.

Presiding Inspector: No, no. I understand that. You want him to give anything else that he can remember that——

Mr. Gladstein (Interposing): No, that isn't it.

Presiding Inspector: Just read the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

Presiding Inspector: You want to know anything else that Mr. Bridges discussed.

Mr. Gladstein: I haven't asked him heretofore.

The Witness: Yes, I can.

Mr. Gladstein: I asked him before about topics that were discussed.

Presiding Inspector: Yes. I suppose they all consist——

Mr. Gladstein (Interposing): Now I am asking him for anything that he says that Mr. Bridges discussed.

Presiding Inspector: Including all you have been over?

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking him now any subject. [1572]

Presiding Inspector: Well, I don't understand. I asked you a simple question. Including what has already been gone over?

Mr. Gladstein: I don't know whether the witness will include it or exclude it. I want to know what he claims Mr. Bridges said.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: It doesn't require him to include it or exclude it. I am asking you whether you mean to go over, if Mr. Bridges took part in them, what you have just been over.

Mr. Gladstein: If he claims Mr. Bridges made statements regarding anything he talked about, I want to know those statements.

Presiding Inspector: Now, you want to hear in general anything that Mr. Bridges discussed or took part in the discussion, I suppose.

Mr. Gladstein: Whatever he said that this witness——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): In substance?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

A. Well, the topics that I have mentioned that were taken up at these meetings, I should think pretty nearly every one of them Mr. Bridges had something to say on them at one time or another. And here again I can't tell exact words. [1573] But if it were the topic, for instance, on how—what attitude to take towards—how to answer Vandeleur on a certain statement, he would participate, and, of course, he concurred with the rest of those present, that a certain statement was in his mind reactionary and that it should be shown to the workers to be reactionary. That would be in substance what he would say about it, not his exact words. I did mention before——

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. (Interposing): May I interrupt for just a moment? A. Yes.

Q. What you have just said, you can't actually remember any such thing? You are simply giving a conclusion on it, aren't you?

A. No, no. I mean to say that Bridges would take part in a discussion on some statement made by Vandeleur and Bridges would say—Bridges said not in these exact words, but the gist of it was that he concurred in what the others said there that Vandeleur's particular statement was in his mind reactionary and that it should be answered and that it should be shown to the workers as being reactionary.

Now, that's on one particular subject that I can remember he spoke about.

Q. Well, then, your testimony in regard to the Vandeleur question is that you remember nothing that Mr. Bridges contributed that stands out in your mind except that, you say, he concurred in discussion that took place on that subject? [1574]

A. And he agreed and he urged that an answer should be given.

Q. Was any disagreement expressed by Mr. Bridges on that question or any other that you can remember?

A. I don't recall any. He may—at meetings when Vandeleur was discussed he may have disagreed on just the exact wording, maybe, of a statement that was to be issued and answered of

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Vandeleur, but not on the idea that an answer should be issued to it.

Q. Can you recall any subject at all on which Mr. Bridges disagreed?

A. Yes. I can recall one subject that there was disagreement about definitely, and that was the question of, for instance, Lundeberg. I mentioned before here that Mr. Bridges was very bitter about Lundeberg and would in quite a huff state that he believed Lundeberg ought to be "dumped", and there were others there that didn't think that that would be a good thing to do, it would just create a series of "dumpings" and "counter-dumpings", and so forth, and they tried to point that out to Bridges. There was disagreement on that.

Q. Was a decision made on that?

A. No. There was no decision made to do any such thing.

Q. To do any what thing?

A. There was no decision ever made to do any "dumping". [1575]

Q. What was the decision made on the question?

A. Oh, the thing was just dropped, that's all.

Q. There was no decision made? A. No.

Q. The thing was just dropped? A. Yes.

Q. Any other subject on which you say Mr. Bridges disagreed?

A. I should say on almost any topic that came up, you might not call it "disagreement", he would just have a suggestion on the method as to how to do a particular thing and another one would have another suggestion, and the idea would be to make those suggestions jibe.

Q. Can you think of anything particular or specific?

A. Not specific, no; on almost any of the topics I have mentioned.

Q. All right. Now, can you think of any other topic that Mr. Bridges expressed himself on?

A. Oh, yes. I think he would express himself occasionally on a strike that perhaps some other union was having. The union had called, maybe, on the longshoremen, to give them financial assistance or something like that. It was one of these day-to-day problems; I mean, not one of these basic problems, but one of these things that would come up. And he would talk on to what extent he might think they ought to help that union, and he would say he thought they should help [1576] the union.

Q. Do you remember anything specific in that connection?

A. No. I do believe, though I won't say specifically, there were questions of agricultural strikes in other parts of the State that would occur from time to time and assistance—maybe financially—would be discussed to them.

Q. Well, do you remember anything that Bridges said?

A. Bridges would generally say that he thought that they ought to be helped by the longshoremen to the best of the longshoremen's ability.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Was that in agreement or disagreement with other opinions expressed?

A. No. I don't remember ever having been disagreement on a topic like that.

Q. So you remember nothing specific that Mr. Bridges said on that question of agricultural strikes?

A. No, not specific words; just except his opinion that they ought to be assisted.

Q. Now, you mentioned the Lundeberg issue. That stands out in your mind, does it?

A. That stands out.

Q. Is that the only thing that stands out in your mind where Mr. Bridges disagreed with the others at the meeting?

A. Yes, because that was about the only real case that [1577] I can remember where it was a question of a matter that would affect basic party strategy and, naturally, there was a great deal of calming down of Mr. Bridges by some of the others and there was a great effort to calm him down and tell him that "that is not the kind of thing that we can afford to do".

Q. On all other subjects—fundamental subjects—would you say that Bridges was substantially in agreement with all of the others present, outside of the little minor, tentative or temporary disagreements which were ironed out?

A. At all meetings that I attended substantially so, yes.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. That is, substantial agreement?

A. Yes.

Q. And the only fundamental thing on which you can recall any disagreement was the question of Lundeberg? A. Yes.

Q. And then Bridges was completely in accord with the others on the question of CIO affiliation, I take it?

A. Yes, substantially so.

Q. What decision or decisions were made during these meetings on the question of CIO affiliation?

A. The way it would be was this way: A representative of, say, the District Committee of the Party—maybe Schneidermann himself, District Secretary, perhaps——

Q. (Interposing) Could I interrupt just one second?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute! [1578]

Mr. Gladstein: I will give him an opportunity to answer that question.

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I realize that my question assumed something and I wanted to ask you, first of all, whether during these meetings that you are talking about any actual decision or conclusion was arrived at with respect to CIO affiliation on the part of the longshoremen?

A. I will put it this way: ——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Just a minute!

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

I suggest he answer—he was starting to answer the first question and he hasn't completed it yet. Now, Counsel has another question. I believe the witness should answer the first one.

Mr. Gladstein: It may be that the witness will say that there were no such conclusions or decisions. I don't know.

Presiding Inspector: Well, it is technical. I think I will let Mr. Gladstein go ahead.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you remember the last question?

A. Yes, I remember. I will answer that by saying that, rather than on basic policies such as the CIO affiliation question, rather than decisions being made there, it would be a question of ratification of proposals brought in. [1579]

Q. Well, in other words, would this be correct? That the top fraction meetings got instructions from the Central Committee in New York City that the longshoremen on the West Coast should go CIO; that this question or these instructions were discussed in the top fraction meetings and that the instructions were concurred in or endorsed or ratified?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute, please! I object to that, if your Honor please. That isn't what the witness testified to.

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking him now.

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, the witness testified just previously that these instructions were received at these fraction meetings and all that was discussed there was the method and means of carrying them out.

Presiding Inspector: I think the witness can take care of himself.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Were you about to answer "Yes"?

A. I will have to have it repeated.

Q. Don't you remember whether you were about to answer "Yes"? A. I don't recall that.

Q. Whether you were about to answer "Yes"?

A. I don't know.

Presiding Inspector: I don't think that that is a proper [1580] question. I know you don't think so, either.

Mr. Gladstein: Read the question, please.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter.)

The Witness: Substantially my answer would be "Yes", that they ratified that decision.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. On the question of CIO affiliation and before the ratification by the top fraction meetings, do you recall any statements or expression of position by Mr. Bridges? A. On that topic?

Q. Yes.

A. Not in so many words. All I can recall after that lapse of time was the general opinion he held on the subject as expressed by him. In words, what words he put it, I can't recall. And the reason for that is that my object in being at the top fraction meetings was simply to gather background material for immediate—in order to enable me better to write up trade union news stories for a paper that came out twice a week and only for that immediate purpose.

Q. Well now, you say you can't remember any words Mr. Bridges used, but you say you do remember a general opinion. What was Mr. Bridges' opinion as expressed in these meetings on this question of CIO affiliation?

A. To the best of my recollection, just prior to the [1581] time that the affiliation actually occurred, Mr. Bridges agreed that it should be done.

Q. Well, do you recall any disagreement during any of those meetings? A. On that subject?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't recall any important disagreement on whether it should or should not be done, no.

Q. All right. Do you remember whether Mr. Bridges urged that the change to CIO take place?

A. I couldn't say that. I can't remember that he definitely urged it.

Q. Do you recall whether he made any reports of any kind mentioning the name of John L. Lewis?

A. He has mentioned John L. Lewis many times. Everybody in those days mentioned John L. Lewis in one way or another, yes. And I know he did.

Q. Well, what did he say about John L. Lewis during these top fraction meetings?

A. Well, I do remember, I think—I can't say this in definite words—to the best of my recollection at earlier meetings of those top fraction meetings when Lewis was mentioned, he did refer to Lewis, Lewis' past record at times, and he said there were spots in Lewis' record that weren't too good as far as his attitude towards what was called "militant trade unionism" was concerned, and that he hoped that Lewis had [1582] changed now in his attitude towards "militant trade unionism". He did mention such words about Lewis himself. He wasn't talking about the CIO. Just talking about Lewis as a person.

Q. Substantially he would be pro-Lewis, is that right, with reservations?

A. I think he would be pro-Lewis in so far as Lewis gave as his aims now in the trade union movement.

Q. As of that time, you mean?

A. Yes. That is, the aims of industrial unionism.

Q. And Bridges would be pro-Lewis as of that time——

A. (Interposing) Yes.

Q. (Continuing) ——in—wait a minute! Wait a minute!

A. Oh, I am sorry.

Q. (Continuing) ——with respect to Bridges urging affiliation with the CIO, is that right?

A. I didn't say that he himself did the urging. I just told you, as I recall it, his opinion on whether that should be done or not. He didn't——

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. (Interposing) Well, he was in favor of it?

A. Yes. He concurred in the idea of it.

Presiding Inspector: Did the discussion include when it should be done or how it should be done?

The Witness: Well, as to how, of course, there was only one way it could be done: Just make application for a CIO charter to the International—to the central headquarters of the CIO back East.

[1583]

Presiding Inspector: Would there have to be a vote taken to do that?

The Witness: There would have to be later a vote of the membership of the particular union of the Longshoremen's Union.

Presiding Inspector: That is what I mean.

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Was that discussed?

The Witness: That was at times discussed later, yes.

Presiding Inspector: And when it should be done?

The Witness: Yes. I believe, yes, to my recollection, when it should be done.

Presiding Inspector: If you don't remember these things, just say so.

The Witness: To the best of my recollection, the question of when the question of endorsement by the longshoremen did come up.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you recall when it came up?

A. Do you mean at what meeting?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. At what approximate meeting. I am not asking you what specific meeting.

A. Oh, after there had been thorough agreement at the top fraction among the members there on the fact that—I mean, thorough understanding on the necessity and the basic reasons why this was being advocated by the Central Committee and the [1584] Trade Union Commission of the Party, after that had been thoroughly gone into and understood, then the next question that came up was how to get the majority of the longshoremen to favor such affiliation. And to my recollection it was thought—it was stated there that the sentiment of the longshoremen was for such affiliation anyway; that is, in San Francisco.

Presiding Inspector: I may not understand this, but the officers could make the application first and get ratification later? Is that the idea?

The Witness: I can't answer that absolutely correctly in a technical sense. I don't know whether the executive——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Then, don't try to.

The Witness: Yes, O.K. [1585]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You recall no decision which set a date of any kind?

A. I think—I don't mean I think—to the best of my recollection such a date for a vote on the question, or it might have been for it to come up at the next convention—I don't recall that exactly —such a date was discussed, such a time for such a ratification, but what that particular date or time was I can't recall.

Q. But you remember that during one or more of these Top Fraction meetings there was an agreement reached upon the setting of a date when the longshoremen were to either apply for a charter or attempt to go into the CIO?

A. To both apply for a charter and enter into the CIO; yes.

Q. Is that right? A. Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: Your Honor, I would like to turn the examination over at this point to Mr. Grossman, if that is permissible. I have not prepared on several topics and he has. I recognize this is within the discretion of the Court, but I ask your discretion in the matter.

Presiding Inspector: You are not going over the same matters?

Mr. Gladstein: No; not the same matters.

Presiding Inspector: Very well. I see no objection. [1586]

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. When did you for the first time discuss with any representative of the FBI the possibility of your testifying in this case?

A. Last November, I am pretty sure, of 1940, I was called up at my home, and I believe it was by Mr. Dickstein—D-i-c-k-s-t-e-i-n—I believe that is the spelling, and he asked me if I would come up to his office and see him about something. I said I didn't think so. I said, "I am busy."

He wanted to know if I could come up that day and I said I didn't think so; that I would be working all day.

Then he said, "Can you come up the next day?"

I said "No."

I was trying to dodge the idea of going up to the office. I was trying to put him off.

Well, I think he called—it was on a Wednesday or Thursday—and I said I couldn't go that day. And the following day, which I think was Friday, he said "How about Saturday?" Friday he called up and said "How about tomorrow? Can you come up and talk to us?"

I said, "Yes, I will come up and see what you want."

I went up to his office. I think it was in the Vance Building in Seattle. I am not sure of that, but I think it was.

He said that they had been told—he didn't tell me by whom—that I had been a member of the Communist Party [1587] for quite a while, but that now, particularly in the Newspaper Guild, I had been opposing Communist Party policies as applied to the Newspaper Guild itself, and he had heard all these things; and he also had heard that I knew whether Bridges was a Communist Party member or not. He asked me to tell him were these facts true.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

I said, "It is true that I have been a member of the Communist Party, and it is true that in the Newspaper Guild I had been on the side opposed to the Communist Party, as far as the Newspaper Guild itself was concerned, and work in the Guild."

"As for the third question," I said, "I have heard people say that Bridges is a Communist Party member, and I have heard people say he isn't. I am not going to say whether I know he is or not."

I don't recall whether I definitely said—I think I simply ignored the question.

Well, I was asked repeatedly, couldn't I in some way tell them just person to person whether I knew, as one person talking to another—this was in the FBI office—whether I knew whether I had attended Communist Party meetings with Bridges or not.

I said, "I am not prepared to talk on the subject with you."

"Well," they said, "won't you think it over?"

[1588]

I said, "I will think it over."

I went home. Then——

Q. (Interposing) Just a moment.

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interrupting) Just a moment. The witness is answering the question.

Mr. Grossman: I don't want him to go through five or six meetings. I want to confine it to a particular meeting.

Presiding Inspector: Let's go back and find out what the question was. I have forgotten it, it was so long ago.

(The question was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Presiding Inspector: It doesn't call for any discussion as to what was said at all.

The Witness: He asked for the time. Well, the answer is that it was in November of last year.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Who was present at the FBI office outside of Mr. Dickstein?

A. There were a lot of people in the suite of offices, but in the particular office that I was in there was Mr. Dickstein and Mr. Madala.

Q. During the entire questioning, or conversation between you and Mr. Dickstein and Mr. Madala, was there anyone else present?

A. Only people passing through the room on their way in and out. [1589]

Presiding Inspector: He means taking part in the conversation or discussion.

The Witness: Only the three of us, as far as I know.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Was there any stenographer present?

A. No; there was no stenographer present in my conversations with them.

Q. Did anyone among you three take notes as to what transpired?

A. No. I didn't, and I didn't see them take any.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. When Mr. Dickstein spoke to you on the telephone did he tell what he wanted to speak to you about?

A. No, he didn't mention specifically what. He just said he wanted me to come up and see him.

Q. Did he tell you enough to indicate they knew what he wanted to see you about?

A. No, he didn't.

Q. Did you know what he wanted to speak to you about? A. No, I didn't.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, the witness has answered that two or three times; that he didn't know, that the agent didn't tell him.

Mr. Grossman: I think it will appear that those were different questions.

Presiding Inspector: He has answered. Go ahead. [1590]

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Will you please tell us why you didn't want to go up to the FBI offices as Mr. Dickstein suggested?

A. Well, for one reason, it was this: That I had been active in the Newspaper Guild in Seattle, and in other cities, and I didn't know what the membership of the Newspaper Guild thought about the FBI as an organization. I knew what lots of them thought about various other types of agencies, but I didn't know what they thought about this one; that is, the majority of the people who were my friends in the Guild and with whom I worked. I didn't want to take any steps without knowing what they felt about this organization as a whole, the FBI.

Q. Was it your state of mind at the time that you were telephoned by Mr. Dickstein, that you thought he wanted to talk to you about some crime you had committed?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that. His state of mind at the time has nothing to do with the issues here. It isn't proper cross examination.

Presiding Inspector: I think that the last sentence contains an implication.

Mr. Grossman: There is no implication there.

Presiding Inspector: Let us hear the question. You listen closely to the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.) [1591]

Presiding Inspector: I reject that on the ground that it implies, assumes that he committed a crime.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Was your state of mind, at the time you were telephoned by Mr. Dickstein, that you thought he wanted to discuss with you the commission of a crime by anyone?

A. I didn't have the slightest idea what he wanted to discuss with me; so my state of mind was one of puzzlement.

Q. At the time Mr. Dickstein called was your state of mind that you thought Mr. Dickstein believed you had committed a crime?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, the witness has just answered that he had none; that it was one of puzzlement.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow you to press it.

A. No. I didn't think, I didn't know what he wanted to see me about; no.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Is it correct that the sole basis for your unwillingness to comply with Mr. Dickstein's request was the attitude that you thought other members of the Newspaper Guild might have if you went up to talk to the FBI?

A. No. I didn't say that was the sole basis, and that wasn't. There were other things perhaps equally important.

Q. Will you state the others, please?

A. Yes, as I recall them. One was that I still had a [1592] carry-over from the days when I was in the Party as hostile to dealing with any Government agencies. That is the thing that we had been taught to believe a Commuist Party member should not do, or that any worker or any union member should not do. I still had somewhat of that in my system, that is, a hang-over from that. Therefore, I didn't feel like going either for that reason.

Then, again, I felt that Mr. Dickstein was so vague. I perhaps could understand why he couldn't tell me on the telephone specifically what he wanted me for, but I felt that there was enough vagueness for me not to want to go to see anybody or something that I had no idea about. This, of course, was not a basic reason.

I think the two first ones were the main reasons.

Q. Can you explain why you changed your mind some time in that week when he first called you, between that time and Friday when he called you again, with reference to going down to the FBI office?

A. Why I changed my mind about seeing him?

Q. Yes.

A. I talked it over with my wife, and with Guild members. They all said, "What harm will it do to see what he wants to ask you, or what he wants to take up with you?"

I said, "Well, I still don't like the idea." But everybody I had spoken to had this opinion: That I might as [1593] well go and see him. So I went.

Q. When you discussed it with other people did you discuss the possibility that he wanted you to give him some information on the Bridges case or on Bridges? A. No, I didn't.

Q. Then when you discussed it with other people, and when you finally made a decision to go down to the FBI office, you still had no better idea than you had at first as to what the subject matter of this discussion was going to be at the FBI office? A. No, I didn't.

Q. How did this meeting end on Saturday? Was there some understanding as to future meetings?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. To the best of my recollection, the meeting ended on a note that I still—of course, I had been made acquainted with Mr. Dickstein's intentions. After learning those the meeting ended with my telling him that I could not comply with what he was requesting in any form whatsoever. That was the way I felt. I gave him reasons why I felt so.

I said, "As far as I am concerned that is my definite and final opinion on the matter, my definite and final feeling on it."

As far as I felt then it was my final feeling at that time.

He said, "Well, you still can think that over, and I wish [1594] you would. I will get in touch with you next week."

I said, "It will not be necessary for you to do that, but you can do it if you want to. You can call me up again."

That is the way that meeting ended.

Q. What did you tell Mr. Dickstein that you felt on that question?

A. I told Mr. Dickstein that I felt that, in the first place, there was a group of us, and a substantial group, in the American Newspaper Guild who were conducting a fight against certain people in the Newspaper Guild who were Communist Party members; a fight simply to remove a certain influence and hold that they had been having over this local of the Newspaper Guild; that I felt, for one thing, that to get involved in an other question that involved Communism in any way would distract from my activity and my taking part with my fellow-Newspaper Guild members in that fight against the Communist Party people in the Guild; and for that reason, as one reason, I didn't want to do that; that I didn't want to take part in any way in what he had requested me to do.

Another reason was that I said—also taking into account the feeling of my friends in the Newspaper Guild, I didn't know definitely what they thought of the FBI as an organization in relationship to labor; and that for all I knew they all would think, if I dealt with the FBI in any way, for that matter, even as far as going up to the office, as far I knew, if I dealt [1595] with the FBI in any way, maybe even those very people who were with me, and whom I was working with against the Communist Party control in the Newspaper Guild, maybe even those people will think that this would be an anti-labor thing to do. I wanted to find that out definitely, if the majority of those people involved with me in that struggle, you might call it, in the Newspaper Guild in Seattle, did not think it was anti-labor. I still hadn't found that out.

That was another reason.

These were the main reasons.

One more reason was this: I felt, as a newspaper man, that a newspaper man isn't it—it isn't a rule on any paper, it isn't a fixed rule, but more or less of a kind of a tradition, that a newspaper man should try not to be in the news; his job is to cover news and not to be in the news. I felt that to do what he asked me to do at that time would probably involve me as a subject to be mentioned in news dispatches and news stories.

That wasn't a very major reason, but it had sort of an influence on me.

Those are about the only reasons I think I gave as far as I remember.

Q. Did Mr. Dickstein tell you he wanted you to be a witness in the Bridges case?

A. Not at first. [1596]

Q. I mean in this Saturday meeting?

A. Yes; this is the Saturday meeting I am talking about. In fact, not at all at that Saturday meeting, as I recall it. He said——

Presiding Inspector: That answers the question.

A. No.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Can you explain why, if he didn't discuss you being a witness at the Bridges hearing, you raised the question of a reporter becoming part of the news?

A. Because I felt that to do so, what he did raise, what he did ask, would inevitably result in me becoming a witness in the case.

Q. I am concerned with your state of mind at the time. How did you feel that giving him any information would necessarily involve you in publicity?

A. Because the action he wanted me to take, rather, the request he made, for me to fulfill that, I felt, judging as a newspaper man, I would be bound to become involved in this particular case and it would lead to my becoming a witness in the case.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Did you tell Mr. Dickstein that you had any information concerning whether Bridges was a Communist?

A. No. I definitely avoided that at that meeting, and at all meetings with him, avoided letting him know whether I [1597] had any information as to my positive definite knowledge on Bridges' political affiliation or belief.

Q. You mean you succeeded, in this whole meeting, in avoiding answering the question as to whether you had any information concerning Bridges being a Communist?

A. Yes; with great difficulty.

Q. But you did succeed?

A. I did succeed.

Q. Did you succeed because Mr. Dickstein discontinued pressing the point, or because he was more concerned with other pionts?

A. I believe, as far as my recollection is concerned, that I succeeded because I kept making it understood to him that I had definitely made up my mind at this time, anyway, about the matter, about his request, and there wouldn't be any point in pressing me further on it. I can't tell how he figured it, but then he stopped pressing me on it.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Did he suggest any other ways in which you could cooperate with him, or help him, except by giving him the information he wanted on Bridges? A. Yes, he did.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: He has answered it.

Mr. Del Guercio: Does he mean matters involving this case, or some other matter? [1598]

Presiding Inspector: He answered it.

A. He did; about the Bridges case.

For one thing, he suggested that I tell him definitely, face to face, as one person talking to another, whether I knew Bridges as a Communist Party member. That was the first thing he did ask for. So I definitely said——

Presiding Inspector: The question is did he suggest any other way that you could assist him?

The Witness: Yes. That was one way, by telling him whether I knew, face to face——

Presiding Inspector: We have had that.

Any other?

The Witness: Yes. When I didn't prove willing to do that, he asked, I believe he did this, to the best of my recollection at that meeting, he asked would I be willing to sign an affidavit regarding anything I knew about Harry Bridges.

I told him, "No. If I refused your other request—this being a more important request—naturally I refuse this." And I did reject that request.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did he make any other requests?

A. I don't believe he did, except that I should think it over some more.

Q. Did you have another meeting with any representatives of the FBI? [1599]

A. I had another meeting with both Mr. Dickstein and Mr. Madala.

Q. How did this next meeting come about?

A. Well, it was Mr. Dickstein again who called me up at my home and asked me again to come up to the office and see him. I adopted the same practice of trying to dodge him, putting him off, telling him I was busy.

Finally, toward the end of the following week, I guess it was Thursday or Friday, after that Saturday meeting, again I said, "All right, I will go up this time and talk it over with you again, although I haven't changed my mind about the question."

I did go up.

Q. What happened at the second meeting—and it involved those two other men and yourself?

A. Yes.

Q. No one else?

A. No. I will say this: I was introduced—people would pass by with their work—and I was introduced, "Mr. so and so, meet Mr. Honig," and "Mr. so and so, meet Mr. Honig." That is all the conversation in that respect.

Q. No one else participated in the discussion?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. No; not at that meeting.

Q. And this next meeting was at the FBI offices, was it? A. That was at the FBI offices.

Q. What transpired at the second meeting?

[1600]

A. Substantially the same thing as at the Saturday meeting. Again I was asked if I would first say, man to man, did I know anything about Bridges, his political connections, and so forth. I rejected that request.

Then the same thing about the affidavit.

In addition, Mr. Dickstein, or Mr. Madala, or both, said, "Well, you know that you could be subpoenaed when a hearing occurs. We don't know definitely when it is going to be, but when it does occur you could be subpoenaed."

I said, "Well, I guess I could be, and if I were I would have to answer it," and I would. I said, "However, if I were you I would recognize the fact that I am not very willing to take part in this at all, and I request if you ever do want to subpoena me you please speak to me first and find out what frame of mind I have about the question."

That was more or less the substance of the conversation at the time.

Q. Did you again in the second meeting refuse to make any statement, oral or in writing, with respect to what you knew about Bridges being a Communist? A. Yes.

Presiding Inspector: You mean, when you said the second meeting, this was the third meeting?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Grossman: This was the second meeting.

The Witness: This is the second meeting. [1601]

Mr. Grossman: He was telephoned once.

A. I did refuse again.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Either in the first or second meeting, did either of these gentlemen make any arguments to you as to why you should comply with their requests?

A. Yes. They gave me the argument, they said, "Well, as a loyal American you should do it,"—arguments along that line; that I should cooperate with the Government in a request that they—they said, at least as a loyal American I should recognize—I am trying to get the exact words—I think they were these: At least as a loyal American I should recognize that I ought to not be unwilling to come up to the office of a division of my government, of the American government, and I ought not have an attitude of thinking they were, well something I might catch something from them—or words to that effect.

I said, "Well, I don't have that attitude. I come up now when you ask me to. But the other attitude I retain on the other subject."

Q. At either of those two meetings did he make any other argument, except those you have just stated, or did either of the men make any argument, except those stated?

A. I guess the only thing you could call an argument was that they said that they had learned I probably had been in a [1602] position to have known Bridges, and if I had, and if I continued to feel that way, they would probably subpoena me, and, therefore, I would have to tell it anyway, and so if I knew anything about Bridges why shouldn't I tell them.

That is about the sum and substance of it.

Q. Did you intend, during either the first meeting or the second, to give these FBI men the impression that you knew something concerning Bridges' Communist affiliations?

A. No. I intended, as far as I could, to give the impression that I knew nothing about it.

A. At either of these two meetings were you asked any questions about specific meetings, or places, which involved Bridges?

A. To the best of my memory all I said——

Presiding Inspector: No. Answer the question "Yes" or "No".

The Witness: I would like to hear the question again.

Presiding Inspector: Read the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. No; not about specific meetings.

Presiding Inspector: We will take a recess until 2:00 o'clock.

(Whereupon, at 12:35 P.M., a recess was taken until 2:00 P.M. of the same day.) [1603]

After Recess
2:00 O'Clock P.M.

Presiding Inspector: You may proceed.

NAT HONIG

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Cross Examination (Resumed)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Honig, on what note did the second meeting with the representatives of the FBI end?

A. The second meeting was in last November, and ended on this note: That I still was firm in my rejection of any request that I would in any way take part in the Bridges case.

Q. Did it end on the same note as the first meeting? A. Yes.

Q. Did either of the FBI men state that he wanted to get in touch with you in the future?

A. In respect to that the situation then was, after I left that second meeting——

Q. (Interposing). Before you left the second meeting.

A. Or before, I mean at the culmination of that second meeting, where it stood in respect to this angle was this: That they said that they expected there would be a hearing, oh, some time in March or April, and they said "Next Spring," I think that is what they said, and that they might subpoena me [1604] for that.

"Well," I said, "If you do intend to do that then I wish you would speak to me first and maybe I can convince you that you ought not do it, feeling the way I do about my wanting to take any part whatsoever in it."

They said, "Well, as that time draws near we will probably get in touch with you."

I said, "That is all right. You can get in touch with me any time you want to."

That is the way it ended up.

Q. At the first meeting did either of these FBI men talk about a hearing in this case?

A. At the first meeting in November?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes. They mentioned that it was going to be—that is, they hoped to have a hearing, or they were working towards that purpose.

Q. Was their expression concerning the meeting any different than the second—concerning the hearing any different in the second meeting than the first?

A. To the best of my memory, fundamentally there wasn't. They also expressed it in the sense that they were working towards that aim of having the hearing some time in the spring.

Q. When was the next time that you had any communication with the FBI after the second meeting? [1605]

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Oh, after that second meeting, oh, about ten days ago, or maybe——

Q. (Interposing) What happened ten days ago?

A. Well, again, ten or eleven days ago—I don't remember exactly—I think it was on a Thursday—I was again called up at my home by Mr. Dickstein and he said he wanted to see me again. Of course, this time I knew what it was about because then it had been divulged from last year in November. And "Well," I said, "I guess I could do it." He wanted to know if I could see him the next day, which was Friday, and I said, "No, I would be working that day" and I didn't think I would be working Saturday, so I would come down Safurday morning if it was all right with him. So we arranged to come down to the FBI office, which was now in the new Government Building in Seattle.

Q. This was after the hearing had started?

A. I don't remember exactly just when the hearing started. It wasn't any more than ten or eleven days ago, and if the hearing was on then it was after.

Q. Are you sure it wasn't more than two weeks ago? A. I am pretty sure it wasn't.

Q. With reference to the time when you had this trouble with the department store, was it before or after that time? A. It was after that time.

Q. How long after? [1606]

A. I think, oh, about a week approximately.

Q. All right. You went down to the office of the FBI? A. I went down there, yes.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. On a Saturday?

A. On a Saturday morning.

Q. And what happened?

A. They asked me——

Q. (Interposing) Who is "they"?

A. Well, Mr. Dickstein and Mr. Madala. They were there and they conducted me into one of the offices in that suite of offices there, and they asked me had I changed my mind or changed my attitude towards testifying in the Bridges case. And I thought it over in all this time. That was about the first thing they asked me, and I——

Q. (Interposing) And you replied what, if you replied?

A. I replied, Yes, that I had changed my mind.

Q. Then what happened?

A. Well then, they proceeded to ask me would I be willing to sign a statement regarding what I knew about Bridges, what I knew about the Communist Party itself, and the Trade Union Unity League, and so forth. And I said that I would.

Q. Who was present when you had this conversation?

A. First just Mr. Dickstein and Mr. Madala, and then later—I don't know just how much later—a stenographer.

Q. How long did the conversation last? [1607]

A. Well, I got there at eleven. I guess I left there about 1:30 or a quarter to two.

Q. Did you give a statement in front of the stenographer?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. Yes. To the best of my memory,—I did. I started to—wait! At this first time, no. I think that at this meeting I simply told them facts and they took notes on it, asked questions and then they took notes on it.

Q. Was the stenographer there when you gave them this information?

A. I believe at some time in the course of that there was; even at that first meeting there was. I am not certain of it, though, but I believe there was.

Q. Are you certain that the stenographer was there at some time during the conference?

A. During that first meeting?

Q. Saturday, when you first told them you were willing to testify?

A. I feel that there was, but I am not absolutely sure, at that meeting.

Presiding Inspector: By the "first meeting" you are referring to this recent one, this year?

The Witness: The first one this year; yes.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you give them in substance on that Saturday, all the information you have testified to here? [1608]

A. No, I didn't. I don't believe I was able to collate in my mind all the information I have testified to here at that first meeting with them.

Q. Well, now, after this meeting on Saturday, rather, at the end of this meeting on Saturday, what arrangements were made, if any, for seeing them again?

A. That meeting ended, to the best of my recollection, on the note that the information I had given them, and which had been then made into notes by Mr. Dickstein and Mr. Madala, one of them, or both—I don't recall which—that these notes would be made the basis of a statement, that is, transformed into a statement, and then I would meet with them, when they called me to meet with them again, and they would either get any additional facts on the question of Bridges and the Communist Party that I could remember, either do that or else they might have a statement all ready for me to sign then. That is the way I left them.

Q. Were the statements that you gave them in this third meeting any different in substance than what you have testified to here?

A. I haven't—which third meeting are you talking about?

Q. The third all together, which was the first of this year. A. I see what you mean.

Q. I will call it the third meeting. [1609]

A. Were they any different than what I testified to here?

Q. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't believe the witness understands. Do you mean a contradiction to what he has testified to today, or what?

Mr. Grossman: We will see.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I suggest the question, may it please the court, be asked in that manner.

Presiding Inspector: He means different in substance. A. To a certain extent.

Presiding Inspector: He has answered it; to a certain extent, he said.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you recall in what respect it was different?

A. It was not as complete as what I have stated here in that respect. That was the only respect in which it was different. That is, there were different incidents that I have mentioned here that at this first meeting this year with Mr. Madala and Mr. Dickstein that I had not recalled to the first meeting with them. I hadn't come prepared to make a long statement, and so forth.

Q. At any time after that, that is after the third meeting, or during the third meeting, did any representative of the FBI help you to add details, or fill in details? [1610] A. No.

Q. When did you see them again?

A. I think it was—this was Saturday—I think the next meeting I had with them was Tuesday of the following week, either that or on Monday; I don't recall which.

Q. What happened on the next occasion?

A. On this occasion I again met with them at the office there, and I believe it was on that occasion that they couldn't find a room available where there would be privacy to talk with. All of the desks, and so forth, were occupied. So they suggested I go over to the Olympic Hotel. We went into a room there—I don't know whether it was a room occupied by Mr. Madala as his residence at the time or what, but he was there, and Mr. Dickstein took me over there.

What occurred there was this: That certain details that I hadn't remembered at this previous meeting, the previous Saturday, I did remember; and they took notes on that. They said from the notes they took then, and the notes they had taken the preceding Saturday, they would have a statement prepared and the next time I met them they would ask me to sign that statement if it was what I said.

Q. This meeting in the Olympic Hotel was just a few days after the Saturday meeting, was it not?

A. Yes; just a few days.

Q. Did you see them the next Saturday? [1611]

A. The next what?

Q. The Saturday after the Olympic Hotel meeting, did you see them?

A. Yes. I saw Mr. Dickstein. That was the day I left Seattle to come down here—that was last Saturday—when Mr. Dickstein met me at the train and he came down here too with me.

Q. Did you sign a statement or affidavit on that Saturday after the Olympic Hotel meeting?

A. No; before that Saturday.

Q. How long before that Saturday?

A. Oh, I guess it was either Thursday or Friday.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. The statement had been prepared, hadn't it?

A. The statement, yes.

Q. When you met them? A. Yes.

Q. All told you signed how many statements or affidavits for the FBI? A. One.

Q. Between the second and the third meeting with the FBI you changed your mind about being willing to testify. What was the reason?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, that has been asked and answered. Are we going back over the same thing?

Presiding Inspector: I think I will allow it. [1612]

Mr. Grossman: It has never been asked and certainly it couldn't have been answered.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead. Don't argue.

A. The reason for this—in the first place, the doubts I had in my mind the previous year as to what the members of my own Newspaper Union in Seattle, the Newspaper Guild, would feel if I did testify or take any part in the Bridges case, that had been dissipated by the fact that on three different occasions requests by the Bridges defense, which was brought into our local, were decisively defeated, that being that the Guild furnish financial and other support to the Bridges Defense Committee. That dissipated my doubts on this question because it showed that the overwhelming majority of the membership would not disapprove of my being here at this hearing. That was one reason.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

The second reason was this: In discussing the FBI as an organization with different people I knew in the Guild, and otherwise, I did become convinced that it hadn't been an anti-labor organization; and certainly its activities, as far as I was acquainted with them, and as far as I could check on them through old newspaper files, and so forth, didn't show it had been. So that my testifying here would not mean that I was connecting myself in any way with an anti-labor group.

Those were the major reasons. [1613]

Q. Did you imply by your answer that you had made some check of the newspaper files with reference to the FBI between the second and the third meeting?

A. I believe I could say that between the second and the third meeting, to satisfy my own mind in case I were ever again contacted by anybody from the FBI—to satisfy my own mind I did look through newspaper files, to see if there was any reference to the FBI taking part in any anti-labor activity or acting in any anti-labor method.

Q. Have you ever talked to your employer with reference to whether or not you should testify against Harry Bridges? A. No, I haven't.

Q. When I say "your employer" I mean anyone to whom you are subordinate on the newspaper?

A. No. I haven't talked to them with reference to whether I should testify in this case or not.

Q. In your investigations with reference to the FBI did they include a check on the attitude of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, with reference to the FBI?

A. They didn't have to do that because I——

Q. (Interposing) Just a moment, please! The question is, Did they?

A. They did not. They did not. That is, not the parent body of the CIO.

Q. I am talking about the parent body? [1614]

A. No.

Q. Then you made no check in your analysis of the record of the FBI of the decisions or resolutions of the national body of the CIO, is that correct?

A. That's correct. I didn't make any newspaper check of that.

Q. Did you check before you made up your mind that you were willing to testify upon any action that might have been taken by the International Union of which you are and were a member?

A. I didn't check because I knew their attitude on it.

Q. And what was it at that time?

A. Well, the attitude of the International office, a letter had been sent out under the name of one of the officials urging our local to aid the Bridges Defense by one of the officials. So I knew the attitude of him as an International officer.

Q. Did you make any check as to the attitude of your International Union with respect to the FBI?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to this line of questioning. It is not relevant, it is immaterial, and has no—not even a remote connection with the issues involved in this case.

Presiding Inspector: I suppose counsel for the Alien claims that it affects the credibility of this witness.

Mr. Grossman: His state of mind. I don't merely have [1615] to accept the state of mind. I have a right to probe into the reasons he says motivated him to see if they are the real reasons, your Honor. And that is why I am going into it.

Presiding Inspector: Of course, you first bring them out yourself and then you bore into them.

Mr. Grossman: That's right. I can't bore into them without bringing them out.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I know. But if they were brought out by the other side, that would be so. Of course, you can go to a certain extent. Go ahead.

A. Well, in answer to that I made no check—before I can answer it, though, the term "International Union" is a broad one in my mind, too. I don't know whether you mean by that the entire International Union in respect to each local making it up or the International Executive Board of that Union.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. I mean any action taken either by the national Executive Body, which would be the Board, I guess, or conventions of the American Newspaper Guild.

A. On this case?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. Yes. On the FBI. The question deals with the FBI.

A. Oh, on the question of the FBI, yes. I didn't make any check because I was satisfied that I was familiar with the attitude of both the bodies that you mentioned. [1616]

Q. And what did you believe were those attitudes at that time?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that, if your Honor please. His beliefs have nothing to do with his credibility on a matter of that kind. Certainly that is a little far-fetched on his credibility.

Presiding Inspector: Pretty remote.

Mr. Grossman: I beg your pardon?

Presiding Inspector: Pretty remote?

Mr. Grossman: Well, your Honor, his state of mind is not remote and, as I say, I have a right to cross examine——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) His state of mind on irrelevant matter is remote.

Mr. Grossman: Well, he gave this as one of the reasons, your Honor, that he made certain investigations concerning the FBI and had reached certain conclusions. I am going to go into those investigations to see exactly what they were and whether he really made them, as he said, and whether they could have affected the conclusion he says he reached.

Mr. Del Guercio: In view of the statement of counsel——

Mr. Grossman: (Interposing) In other words,

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

I am not limited to having him state that he made certain investigations without being able to investigate whether he actually made them and what were the results of his making them.

Presiding Inspector: You are limited to his answers. [1617]

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: You can't contradict them.

Mr. Grossman: Well, I don't know whether these contradict his answers or not.

Presiding Inspector: Oh, I mean to say by other witnesses.

Mr. Grossman: Well, we haven't got into that this time. I am getting more detail at the present time.

Presiding Inspector: If you are laying a foundation for other production of other witnesses, I think it would be useless.

Mr. Grossman: We had better cross that bridge when we come to it.

Presiding Inspector: No, I warn you now.

Mr. Grossman: Yes, I understand.

Presiding Inspector: Then we will follow it as much as we can, the rule of common law, in that respect. Not absolutely, but quite generally.

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: But you may examine. I don't think he answered the last question.

Mr. Grossman: Will you read the question, Mr. Reporter?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. I believed that there was no such thing in my International Union, the Guild, as a unanimous attitude on the ques- [1618] tion of the FBI. And I knew for an actual fact that not only was there a question of different locals thinking differently but also within individual locals there would be difference of thought on the question.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. You detailed certain meetings you had with representatives of the FBI concerning your testifying in this case. Did you have any meetings or discussions or communications with any other representatives or agents of any governmental department or agency concerning this same subject?

A. You mean previous to my coming down to San Francisco with Mr. Dickstein when he took me down?

Q. Well, not only previous to that, but let us say in the last year?

A. Well, before my arrival here, no. Mr. Dickstein and Mr. Madala were the only ones with whom I dealt or met with on this. Since my arrival here, of course, I have talked to Mr. Connolly.

Q. Except for these people and before you came down to San Francisco, did you have any communication at all with any other representative of the Government concerning what you claim to know about Harry Bridges?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that, if your Honor please, it has already been asked and answered. He estified he hasn't.

Mr. Grossman: I think this is a more specific question [1619] than the last one.

Presiding Inspector: I think I will allow it.

A. No, I didn't.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you know Mr. Bonham?

A. I have never met him. I know who he is or have an idea who he is.

Q. Do you know Mr. Norene?

A. I have heard his name, but I have never met him.

Q. Mr. Honig, I am concerned some more with this investigation that you carried out between the second and the third conversations with the FBI men; this investigation as to the attitude of certain union groups toward the FBI, or, rather, the reputation of the FBI, I will put it that way. Did you investigate the attitude of any other trade union group except those you have mentioned with respect to the FBI?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: Oh, he can answer that "yes" or "no". Did you or didn't you?

A. I—will you repeat it?

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Except for those groups which have already been mentioned, did you investigate the attitude of any other trade union group toward the FBI?

A. Well, I didn't set out to investigate the attitude of [1620] trade union groups towards the FBI.

Q. Did you or didn't you?

A. But of the FBI toward trade unions.

Q. Would you answer that "yes" or "no", please? A. I would have to say "no".

Presiding Inspector: He has intimated that your question is wrong in the first instance.

Mr. Grossman: He has indicated merely——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I mean that your premise is wrong, that he did investigate the attitude of the Labor Unions to the FBI but only as correlative, I suppose.

Mr. Grossman: I think it will change in the next question.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you finish your answer that you were giving?

A. Yes. When I stated in the first place, or if I didn't make it clear I meant to say it, is I set out to investigate the attitude of the FBI through newspaper clippings toward the Unions, not the attitude of the Unions toward the FBI.

Q. Did you ever investigate the attitude of the Unions toward the FBI's attitude to them? In other words, their conclusion as to whether the FBI was anti-Union?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Presiding Inspector: You mean unions in general?

Mr. Grossman: Any union body. [1621]

Presiding Inspector: Well,——

A. (Interposing) As a by-product of this other investigation I would naturally look for any references to the FBI in respect to unions and strikes, and so I did keep an eye open for that too.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. All right. Can you tell us which union body's position towards the FBI you examined?

A. I didn't come across any reference in the clippings that I saw or in the newspaper files that I saw to any unions condemning the FBI. I must make it understood that I only went through the files of daily newspapers, not of union newspapers, because they weren't available to me.

Q. Well, I am concerned with whether, Mr. Honig, you made an attempt to get certain kinds of information and the kind I am concerned with now is the kind of information that would develop from trade union bodies passing resolutions or taking other action with respect to the FBI. Did you make any attempt to get that kind of information in your examination?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute!

Presiding Inspector: That is a very broad question, unless he knows more about it than I do. He has only said that he examined newspaper files, and if you mean anything outside of that, of course, you have already got an answer.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Grossman: Well, your Honor, he stated in reply to [1622] the last question—I don't think it is quite responsive, but he stated that it was the only kind of examination that he was able to make.

Presiding Inspector: That is the only thing that he did make.

Mr. Grossman: That is a different question. I want to know whether he——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Of course, he didn't make anything that he wasn't able to make.

Mr. Grossman: I beg your pardon?

Presiding Inspector: He didn't make any examinations or investigations that he wasn't able to make.

Mr. Grossman: Well, I want to see——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Do you want to ask him that, whether he made any examinations——

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. (Interposing) Did you make any——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Just a moment! Perhaps you had better listen. I said, Do you want me to ask him or you ask him whether he made any investigations which he said he wasn't able to make? Is that the point?

Mr. Grossman: No.

Presiding Inspector: Well, then go on to something else.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you make any investigation except looking at the [1623] newspapers in your attempt to find out the attitude of the FBI towards Unions?

A. No, except through personal conversations with individual members of the Guild to find out the typical Guild members' attitude towards it.

Presiding Inspector: That is your own Guild?

The Witness: Yes, my own Newspaper Guild.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Where were you born, Mr. Honig?

A. In New York City.

Q. Were your parents born in this country also?

A. No, they were not.

Q. Do you happen to know when they came to this country? A. Oh, ——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) If your Honor please, I object to that. I don't see any connection——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I will take it. I don't know where it is leading, if anywhere. You may answer.

A. (Continuing) I have an approximate idea. About 1881 or 1880; something like that.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. It is a long time ago?

A. A very long time ago. [1624]

Q. You mentioned, in your discussion of Top Fractions in San Francisco, Sunday night as a meeting time for many of these Top Fraction meetings. Do you recall any other night of the week on which these Top Fraction meetings—I think you said of the waterfront—took place?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment, your Honor. We didn't object when counsel changed during the cross examination.

Presiding Inspector: I am going to allow that. Go ahead.

Mr. Del Guercio: It was understood at that time that he wouldn't touch on matters that had been touched on by other counsel.

Presiding Inspector: I didn't understand.

Mr. Del Guercio: That was covered on cross examination by Mr. Gladstein.

Mr. Grossman: I think that is rather a petty objection for this reason: Mr. Gladstein noted that there was one question which hadn't been fully covered. I have at the most three questions on this and then I am through with this phase.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you recall any other night of the week on which these Top Fraction meetings of the waterfront groups took place, except Sunday?

A. No, I don't. I don't remember because it was so infrequent that they weren't held on Sunday. [1625]

Q. I see. During the time since you left your position as Editor of the Timber Worker have you ever received unemployment compensation?

A. Yes. I received unemployment compensation during every winter because then I have the status of a part time worker and when I work any week that I earn less than $15.00 I am entitled to a pro-rata amount of unemployment compensation.

Q. Then you work less at your present job during the winter? A. Yes; much less.

Q. I take it from your answer that you have, therefore, received unemployment compensation during several years?

A. Yes. My recollection is that I have been receiving it during the past winter, and the winter before, and I don't believe I did three winters ago; I am pretty sure of that. When I say "winter," I mean winter and spring; everything but the summer and fall actually.

Q. Mr. Honig, have you received anything whatsoever of value for testifying in this case?

A. No, I have not.

Q. Have you been promised anything whatsoever of value for testifying in this case?

A. The only thing that I have been told is that my fare and my expenses here as a witness will be covered.

Q. Outside of that, have you been promised any money, [1626] any employment, for testifying in this case? A. None at all.

Q. Have any threats been made against you which would be brought into effect if you did not testify in this case? In other words, has anyone told you that unless you testified certain things will be done, or certain things will be exposed?

A. No.

Q. During the last two or three years—withdraw that. During the period since you left the job with the Timber Worker have you generally agreed or disagreed with the trade union policies of Harry Bridges?

A. For that period after I was no longer connected with the Timber Worker, but still remained a member of the Communist Party, I generally agreed with him, if not in all, in most all of his policies. I say that because I believed he was—well, maybe I shouldn't explain why. Just to answer the question I will say that I did agree with him in many of them in that period that I remained in the Communist Party.

Q. After you left the Party did you agree or disagree generally with the trade union policies of Harry Bridges?

A. Generally I did, but that doesn't mean I did with all of them, or do today.

Q. Has there been any substantial change in your attitude toward his policies as time went on?

A. Yes, I think I should say "yes"; I think I should say "yes" to that question; since I left the Party, yes. [1627]

Q. What change has there been?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that question, if your Honor please. That has no connection at all with this case and is not proper cross examination, and doesn't go to the credibility of the witness.

Presiding Inspector: It may go to the question of bias. I think I will take it. It is a little remote. It may bear on the claim of bias. I will take it.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

"A. My change in attitude toward Harry Bridges' trade union policies—incidentally, I can only base my opinion toward his policies on what I have seen in the newspapers, and I admit that would naturally be a second hand interpretation. I have never discussed with him what his policies are. But from what I have seen of his actions described in the newspapers, and his policies at conventions, and so forth, in general his policies, my change has occurred in trying, as a man interested in the trade union movement, trying to analyze just where I felt he was changing in his trade union policies. In other words, I had begun to feel more and more in the last two or three years that Harry Bridges is following a certain type of policy followed by the Communist Party, that is, paralleling the Communist Party in the last two or three years—I say in the last two years—which leads away from the idea of labor unity, unity in the labor movement, that is, the CIO and the A. F. of L. becoming reunited. I have felt that [1628] Bridges has not any longer—this is my personal opinion—any longer during, or any longer is desirous of seeing such unity brought about.

That is the major change in my mind as far as my opinion of his policies are concerned in the trade union field.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Is it your conclusion, though, that Mr. Bridges is adopting a policy that is independent, or is the policy of the CIO National—do you have a conclusion on that?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

A. I understand what you mean. It is my conclusion that he is adopting a policy that is in harmony with some officials, national officials of the CIO as a central organization, and not in harmony with perhaps other officials, International officials—National officials and not International—Nationals officials of the CIO.

Q. Do you feel that the position of Mr. Bridges is in harmony, and with which you are now in disagreement, with the resolutions of the CIO conventions——

A. (Interposing) With the CIO?

Q. (Continuing) Just a minute—that his position is in harmony with the resolutions of the CIO conventions, and of the CIO Executive Board, National Executive Board?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that question.

Presiding Inspector: Doesn't that have to do with the determination of what those are? [1629]

Mr. Grossman: Not if he says they are in agreement, there is no necessity. I think that may be his answer.

Presiding Inspector: We will take a chance on it and see.

A. The only way I can answer that question is that I know, to my knowledge, there are a great, great many resolutions that have come out of CIO conventions, and the National Executive Board meetings, and perhaps Mr. Bridges policies are in line with some of those, and perhaps not with others; but I have to be asked about specific resolutions. Then I would rather like to see those resolutions before me before I could answer a question like that.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. You stated that your ways, that is, your views, yours and Mr. Bridges, have begun to part company. Can you give us some specific example of trade union positions or theories upon which you and Mr. Bridges now, or in the last year or so, have disagreed?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that question. The witness testified to no such thing, and there hasn't been any such falling apart. They were never together.

Presiding Inspector: I think he has testified to something that I think would be an answer to the question.

Mr. Del Guercio: Are we going all over the same thing again? [1630]

Presiding Inspector: Hasn't he said that Mr. Bridges favored a separatist attitude while he favored a general united attitude on the part of labor, the labor field?

Mr. Grossman: Yes, in general. I was asking for——

Presiding Inspector: That answers your question.

Mr. Grossman: Not specifically. In other words,

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

I would like to know if there are any specific issues which he can point out.

Presiding Inspector: "Issues" probably isn't the right word.

Mr. Grossman: I want some concrete things, concrete situations which arise, and resolutions, for example, where he and Mr. Bridges disagreed.

Presiding Inspector: The only thing you are interested in is the attitude of this witness' mind, isn't it?

Mr. Grossman: Correct.

Presiding Inspector: Haven't you got it?

Mr. Grossman: I don't think so because the particular situation——

Presiding Inspector: Can you particularize?

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead.

The Witness: Yes, I think I can.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it.

The Witness: I will try to in my own way. My answer will have to be something like this: I don't know personally [1631] what Mr. Bridges' individual attitude and policies are. I have never discussed them with him. I haven't seen him since I left California. I only know from what I have read what would happen in the newspapers at the ILWU Convention, for instance, which seemed to me to indicate what Mr. Bridges' belief was concerning trade union procedure or policy, tactical strategy. Of course, in reading that I knew what my opinion was on such a thing. Now, as to whether I differed with Mr. Bridges on that, it isn't a question—I couldn't answer that I differed personally, as a person would with Mr. Bridges, as an individual person on these things; but in trying to make a cold analysis of a particular theory of trade union practice, or of a particular action in carrying out trade union practice, I could say just cold objectively I didn't agree with maybe something Mr. Bridges was quoted as having said in a newspaper. At the same time I couldn't say definitely that what the newspaper quoted him as having said he actually did say.

Presiding Inspector: The witness has said he thinks he disagrees in the respect mentioned, but he hasn't sufficient information to tell what Mr. Bridges' attitude actually was objectively.

Mr. Grossman: I have one more minor question with respect to these Fraction meetings, Top Fraction meetings, that was left untouched, and that is the last question.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it. [1632]

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Honig, did these Top Fraction meetings that you described in San Francisco take place at the same time of the day usually?

A. Generally they were called, and it was the desire to have them start at the same time which, to the best of my recollection, would be 8:00 P. M. or 8:30. But naturally they would have to wait before they started until a sufficient number had arrived.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Q. They were always in the evenings, were they?

A. Nearly every one that I can remember were in the evening. There might have been one or two that were in the afternoon on Sunday, but I wouldn't state positively that is so.

Mr. Grossman: No more questions.

Presiding Inspector: Any further questions, Mr. Del Guercio?

Mr. Del Guercio: I have a few questions, if your Honor please.

Redirect Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Honig, was there any question in your mind, during the entire time that you were a member of the Communist Party, that the Communist Party did advocate and teach the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force and violence? [1633]

A. There was no question in my mind about that, about the fact that they did so advocate.

Q. Was there any question in your mind, during the time that you were a member of the Communist Party, that the Communist Party circulated and distributed literature advocating and teaching the overthrow of the Government by force and violence?

A. I knew that such literature was distributed by the Communist Party.

Q. Now, I believe you said something about 75 per cent—I don't exactly recall your testimony in that connection—but you used the term "75 per cent" when counsel asked you about the use of force and violence. Just what did you mean by that?

A. What I said, what I believe I said, and what I meant to say, was this: That I was telling that I had discussed with leaders of the Communist Party this question of whether force and violence would be necessary to achieve social change. I think I was asked what my attitude was when I was a member of the Communist Party, say, for the first years I was a member, and I replied this way: As far as my mind, attitude of mind was concerned, I felt 75 per cent—this is my personal mind—75 per cent were satisfied that such social change could be achieved without resort to force and violence, but about 25 per cent, in my mind, felt that it could not be done and to that extent I felt that if it couldn't be I would [1634] subscribe to the idea that force and violence would be necessary.

Q. Did any top leader, high functionary of the Communist Party, ever tell you, or ever say in your presence, that the Communist Party of the United States and any of its affiliated organizations, did not believe in or advocate, or teach the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force and violence?

A. No, no top party leader ever said that.

Presiding Inspector: Let me see if I understand this. You think it is your attitude that the chances are about three to one that the dictatorship of the proletariat could be put into effect by the consent of all the people?

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

The Witness: It was my attitude when I was a Party member, yes; but not now.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, you mentioned a Mr. Pritchett as being connected with the Timber Worker, or as being the President of the Union that controlled the Timber Worker. Was Mr. Pritchett a member of the Communist Party?

A. He was when I was.

Q. And you also mentioned a Mr. Orton. Is Mr. Orton, or was he a member of the Communist Party at that time?

Mr. Grossman: I object to the question as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. I think I am correct in saying that [1635] neither this witness, or anyone else, has put Mr. Orton in any of these meetings. If that is so the ground of relevancy that your Honor discussed before would not apply.

Mr. Del Guercio: It wasn't in connection with a meeting. It was in connection with his working on the Timber Worker.

Presiding Inspector: If he knows whether he is a member of the Communist Party I will allow him to answer, and leave it to you to cross examine as to the source.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What is your answer?

A. I know Mr. Orton was a member of the

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Communist Party when I was with the Timber Worker. [1636]

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. With reference to the discussions that took place at these top fraction meetings, in answer to one of Counsel's questions I believe you stated that instructions had been sent down from the Central Executive Committee of the Communist Party to the effect that the membership should strive to have all unions, particularly longshoremen, break away from the American Federation of Labor and affiliate with the CIO. It that correct?

A. Not exactly. But I was referring specifically and only to the longshoremen on the Pacific Coast, not all unions.

Q. Only to the longshoremen. And that such instructions had come from the Central Executive Committee of the Communist Party?

A. That the Communist Party members amongst the longshoremen on the West Coast should work toward that aim.

Q. And I believe you testified that the discussions along that line in these top fraction meetings were to ratify such action. What do you mean by that, by "ratify" the action that had already been taken by the Central Executive Committee of the Communist Party?

A. What I meant by that was this: That at Communist Party meetings of fractions and unions on major questions they weren't given the choice of either voting "Yes" or "No" or originating a certain basic major policy, but it would come [1637] already decided upon from the Central Committee of the Communist Party to this lower body, the fraction or the Party unit. It would be tossed in there as an accomplished fact and the unit or the fraction would understand that they had the right to talk about it and discuss how it should be put into application, but as far as voting as to whether that was the be the policy, the only thing that would be done about it, there would be a formal acceptance of it, a formal vote on ratifying something that had already been voted by the higher body of the Communist Party. If the unit, the Party unit or the Party fraction—I never heard of such a case happening all the time I was in the Party—but if it had rejected such a major policy or change of policy that came from the Central Committee of the Party, that wouldn't have invalidated that policy decided on by the Central Committee. It would have simply brought a man out from the Central Committee to that group to find out what was wrong, how such a situation could occur. I never heard of it occurring.

Q. Then you didn't mean that the action of the Central Committee in connection with that matter was ratified by these fraction meetings?

A. That was a term that would be used on any major policy that was discussed in a party membership meeting. Whether it was correctly used or not, in party terminology the word used was that the unit or the fraction would "ratify" a certain decision already made. [1638]

Q. During any of these meetings were persons present asked to give financial assistance to maintain the Western Worker?

A. Yes. That was incidentally a topic that occasionally came up at these top fraction meetings, the necessity to obtain financial support from Communist Party members for the Western Worker and, if possible, also from non-Communist Party members; that is, the Communist Party meetings would try to get such contributions from the others.

Q. Were contributions made for the Western Workers in such meetings? A. What is that?

Q. Were contributions made for the Western Worker in such meetings?

A. Oh, there were times at the top fraction meetings when they would all chip in and give something for it, or perhaps put up some money in order to buy a bundle of the Western Worker or to pay for a bundle of it to be distributed on the waterfront.

Q. The Western Worker at that time was the official organ of the Communist Party?

A. For the West Coast. [1639]

Q. Were any collections made at such meetings for the Communist Party?

A. Yes, in this sense there were: It was the desire of the Communist Party district office, District Committee, that longshoremen particularly, since they were earning higher wages than many other fields of work, should donate a certain amount, a certain, what was called "subsidy" towards paying the expenses of the Communist Party district office, and often the particular amount agreed upon by the individual member was handed to whatever representative of the District Committee was present at that particular top fraction meeting.

Q. Did you ever see Mr. Bridges here contribute either to the Western Worker or to the Communist Party at any of these meetings?

A. I won't say definitely that I did. I have seen others, but I won't say in that respect that I have seen Mr. Bridges do that.

Q. The name Pastch was brought out by Counsel here.

Mr. Gladstein: What?

Mr. Del Guercio: Pastch; P-a-s-t-c-h.

A. Oh, Pastch.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Victor Pastch. A. Yes.

Q. Who is he?

A. He's the International Treasurer—Secretary-[1640] Treasurer, I believe is the official title—of the American Newspaper Guild.

Q. Is he also a member of the Communist Party? A. To my knowledge he is, yes.

Q. Do you know Meyer Balen?

A. No, I don't believe I have ever met him. I have heard the name, but I don't believe I have met him.

(Testimony of Nat Honig.)

Mr. Del Guercio: That is all.

Mr. Gladstein: We have no further questions.

Presiding Inspector: You may leave the stand.

Mr. Del Guercio: May the witness be excused, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: I would like to have you hold him until the close of this session today. Then there is a matter which Mrs. King brought to my attention and I want to talk it over with Counsel for the Government before Mr. Honig is excused.

(Witness excused.)

Mr. Del Guercio: May we have a short recess?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

(Whereupon, a short recess was taken.)

Mr. Del Guercio: The next witness will be in shortly.

Presiding Inspector: Yes. Very well. [1641]

ROBERT PATRICK WILMOT

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What is your name?

A. Robert Patrick Wilmot.

Q. Where were you born, Mr. Wilmot?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. Butte, Montana.

Q. And what is your present occupation?

A. I am employed by the Woodworker, which is a paper published by the International Woodworkers of America, in Portland, Oregon.

Q. How long have you held such position?

A. I started in there, I believe, January 16.

Q. Have you ever been a member of the Communist Party, Mr. Wilmot? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you join the Communist Party?

A. Shortly after Christmas in 1927.

Q. And under what circumstances did you join?

A. Well, I was approached—I was then employed on the Writers' Project and I was approached by a Kenneth Fitzgerald in Portland, who several times solicited me to join. And I finally did. [1642]

Q. What was Kenneth Fitzgerald doing at that time?

A. He was employed as a supervisor on the Historical Records Survey, which was a contiguous project, you might say. We worked in together.

Q. That was a WPA Project?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was he a member of the Communist Party?

A. He was a former Candidate for office on the Communist ticket.

Q. Under what name did you join the Communist Party? A. W. P. Ayer.

Q. Why did you use the name of "W. P. Ayer"?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. Well, I was told not to use my right name and, frankly, it struck me a little funny at the time. So I used that name.

Q. Were you given any assignments by the Communist Party?

A. Well, my first assignment was to write publicity for the North American Committee to aid Spanish Democracy.

Q. The North American Committee to aid Spanish Democracy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who gave you such an assignment?

A. James Murphy, the Secretary of the Communist Party there in Portland.

Q. What else did James Murphy do besides being Secretary of the Communist Party at that time?

A. I wouldn't know that. [1643]

Q. Was he a member of any union?

A. I think he had been a member of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union when they were A. F. of L., and I believe that after they went CIO that he still paid his dues for a while, but he certainly wasn't working in the industry.

Q. Now, when Murphy gave you these instructions did he tell you anything else?

A. Well, he told me to keep my identity secret in there and not let anybody know I was a Communist.

Q. Did he tell you why you should conceal your identity as a Communist?

A. I was definitely instructed at that time to keep my identity concealed at all times.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Were you given any other assignments other than the one you have just mentioned?

A. Well, I—being a comparative newcomer, on several occasions I was sent out to, oh, rent halls and, for instance, some friends of the Soviet Union had a meeting there and they were having some difficulties with the School Board in getting permission to use one of the auditoriums there for a meeting at which Anna Louise Strong spoke, particularly. And I was sent up to make the application because of the fact that I was so recently in Portland that nobody knew that I was a Communist.

Q. Did you ever do any work for the Labor New Dealer? [1644]

A. Yes, sir. I was the Editor of the Labor New Dealer in Portland for about a year and two months.

Q. Who put you on the Labor New Dealer, if anyone?

A. Definitely the Communist Party. And I was approached at my house, asked to take over the job, by Fitzgerald and a longshoreman named Harry Pilcher, and the unit to which I belonged, which was composed of writers and artists, selected me to take over the job. And I had previously joined the Newspaper Guild and Pilcher and Fitzgerald came out to my house one night and asked me if I would take the job. And I said I would do so if they could get it for me, and they said that "It was in the bag."

Q. Was Harry Pilcher a member of the Communist Party at that time? A. Definitely.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. What were your duties as—did you say you were Managing Editor of the Labor New Dealer?

A. I was the entire staff as far as that was concerned.

Q. You were what?

A. I was the entire staff.

Q. You were the entire staff. A one-man paper?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And by whom were your wages to be paid, if any?

A. They were to be paid by the Industrial—I believe it was the Unity Council at that time, and the paper was to [1645] pay me on bundle order subscriptions, and as the money came in and also advertising, and we had no advertising man when we started. We soon got an advertising man and acquired a stenographer and acquired a business man, after which I never got paid.

Q. What were your wages when you did get paid?

A. Dick Sellers, the International Organizer for the Newspaper Guild, said that I was to be paid $30.00 a week every week. But I only got that for a couple of weeks.

Q. And then what did you get the rest of the time?

A. Oh, car fare and lunch money; maybe four or five dollars a week.

Q. And how many hours a day did you work?

A. Well, I worked, in order to support my family, I had to go back on WPA and I still got out the paper. I imagine that my average was about fifteen or sixteen hours a day for a year.

Q. Fifteen or sixteen hours a day?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the most you ever got for that was $30.00 a week? A. That's for——

Q. (Interposing): And you only got that for a few weeks? A. I believe three weeks.

Q. And the rest of the time you averaged how much? [1646]

A. Well, when I took time off on WPA I couldn't turn my time in there, so I think I had a grand average of about $16.00 a week in all that time.

Q. Now, during the time that you were editing this Labor New Dealer did you ever meet Harry Bridges? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recognize Harry Bridges?

A. Indeed.

Q. He is here in this Court room?

A. Right there (Indicating).

Q. When did you first meet Harry Bridges?

A. I believe that it was the week after the first issue of the paper came out. I went to work on the paper four days before the first of October, and the first issue came out the first day of October in 1937, and a week later Bridges attended a meeting of the Longshoremen's Union in Portland and Harry Pilcher took me over and got me in the meeting, and I met Harry Bridges on the stage of the Norse Hall in Portland shortly after the meeting adjourned.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. What kind of a meeting was that?

A. That was a meeting of the Longshoremen's Union.

Q. Longshoremen's Union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And who introduced you to Bridges?

A. Harry Pilcher. [1647]

Q. What did he say when he introduced him, if he said anything?

A. Well, he sidled up to Bridges and he said "This is the new editor of the paper wanting to meet you". And I shook hands with Mr. Bridges.

Q. Did Mr. Bridges say anything?

A. What is that?

Q. Did Mr. Bridges say anything?

A. Yes, he facetiously remarked "Is this one of those terrible Communists?" or something.

Q. Now, had Harry Pilcher told in introducing you to Bridges, had he told Bridges that you were a member of the Communist Party?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you meet Mr. Bridges any other time?

A. I believe Mr. Bridges was up in our office the next day after that longshore meeting, in which Pilcher and I and some other Communists went in the inner office and talked more about the paper. And I asked—I believe I asked Bridges what his idea on policy and so forth was on the thing, and we had quite a discussion there. And during that time that—

Q. (Interposing): Was Harry Bridges a member of that union that was putting out this paper?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. This paper was put out by ostensibly all the unions in Portland. The Communist control of it was kept entirely [1648] secret. It was backed in the beginning by the legitimate CIO Unions in that area.

Q. And was Harry Bridges connected with any of those unions in Portland?

A. Not in Portland.

Q. And did you have any conversation with Bridges at that time? A. Yes, I did.

Q. What was the conversation?

A. One thing came up, that I had been in Minneapolis, Minnesota during the Teamsters' strike and Pilcher remarked to Bridges in a laughing way that I had known Barney Mayes, at which time Mr. Bridges wanted to know whether I was a "Trotskyite" or not.

Q. And what did you say?

A. I said I definitely wasn't or I wouldn't have been where I was.

Q. Who was Barney Mayes?

A. Barney Mayes was—I wasn't asked whether I knew him—was a man who was—I believe he is an ex-convict that was in Minneapolis for some time at the same time that I was active around there. I never got to know him, but Mayes came out on the Coast before I got here and I believe achieved something of a reputation for being an anti-Communist before he got there, and I know that I heard people attribute [1649] the way he felt to the Stalin-Trotsky split in the Party. And that's just about all I could say about that, except that I know that he was at one time connected with the Dunne Brothers in Minneapolis.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. And because you had come from Minneapolis Bridges asked you if you were a Trotskyite? A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever meet Bridges again after that?

A. Yes, sir. I met him several times when he came through Portland, occasionally in the Longshoremen's office, I believe once; on another occasion in E. B. O'Grady's office. And Mr. O'Grady was at that time the Regional Director for the State of Oregon, and I sat in on some meetings at which Mr. Bridges had some discussions with men from the Columbia River District Council No. 5, which is the coordinating council for the Sawmill-Lumber and Sawmill Workers in that area. And I might say that Mr. Bridges also told me that we'd—as far as the paper was concerned, that we ought to get—use the paper to "get" a couple of people there, one named Donald Helmig, one named Alfred Hartung. These are a couple who were leading and still are leading an anti-Communist fight in Oregon. [1650]

Q. When Bridges said "We ought to get"—who did he mean by "we"?

A. The newspaper—Pilcher and Mowrey.

Q. No, no—perhaps you misunderstood the question. When Bridges said "We ought to get so and so on the paper," who did he mean by "we"?

A. It was merely a colloquial expression. I said,

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

"How do you think we ought to handle this paper?" Obviously, I knew who was calling the shots on it.

I said, "How do you think we ought to handle this? What should the policy be?"

He said, "We ought to use it to get these phonies in the lumber workers across the river."

Q. Did you believe that Bridges was a member of the Communist Party at that time?

A. That is how I understood it.

Q. Was there any question in your mind about his being a member of the Communist Party at that time? A. No doubt whatever.

Q. Did you ever attend any Communist Party meetings in which Bridges was present at any time?

A. I never sat in any meeting, with the exception of the one with the lumber workers, with Mr. Bridges where there was anyone else present besides Communists.

Q. Did you attend a meeting in the Lennox Hotel in [1651] Portland, Oregon, on or about April 1 or April 2, 1938, in the afternoon?

A. I did.

Q. What kind of a meeting was that?

A. Well, that was a Fraction meeting of the Top Fraction of Portland, of the Communist Party, which was called to discuss various issues.

Q. Who called the meeting?

A. Well, I was merely approached by Harry Pilcher and told to be there. I am not absolutely certain who called the meeting.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Did Harry Pilcher tell you what kind of meeting was to be held at the New Lennox Hotel?

A. Well, it wasn't necessary. He said, "We will have a Fraction meeting in the Lennox Hotel this afternoon."

Q. Did he say who would be there?

A. Yes. He mentioned that specifically; told me to go out and get a couple of Communist Members and have them there; that is, if I saw them to be sure and have them there.

Q. Did you get in touch with them?

A. I did.

Q. Who?

A. I got in touch with James Fantz, a Portland longshoreman, and I got in touch with Leo Hemingway, a warehouseman, a member of Local 1-28.

Q. And you took them to the New Lennox Hotel to that [1652] meeting?

A. Yes. We went up together.

Q. Who was there when you arrived?

A. Mr. Bridges was there when I first came in.

Q. Anyone else?

A. There were eight or nine people whom I was —I might say by this time I had been transferred into the Waterfront Branch of the Communist Party, and there were seven or eight members of that Waterfront Branch present when I got there.

Q. Waterfront Section, you mean, of the Communist Party?

A. Waterfront Branch. That was a branch which took in the longshoremen, the sailors, of which there were few, warehousemen and various other people that they might designate, such as the Marine Cooks and Stewards, and so on. I was Editor of the Labor New Dealer. That was where the news came from. The decisions of that branch was what made the news as far as I was concerned.

Q. You weren't a waterfront worker at that time, were you? A. No, sir.

Q. And you say—I don't believe you answered my question. Was it a waterfront section of the Communist Party?

A. Waterfront branch; yes.

Q. Waterfront branch of the Communist Party?

[1653]

A. Waterfront Section; yes.

Q. They were all members of the Communist Party?

A. There were some men there that I didn't know. But there were two men there that I didn't know, but the rest of them were.

Q. Now, when you arrived at the Lennox Hotel —by the way, what time of day did you arrive there?

A. Well, I had my lunch and it was early in the afternoon.

Q. Where did you go?

A. I didn't hear that.

Q. Where did you go when you went to the Lennox Hotel?

A. Where we went to—Mr. Bridges left, with one heavily built man. Joe Ring took us down into another room. I believe it was on the same floor and if I remember rightly it was on the fourth floor. We all sat around on the floor, and a couple of us were on the bed, and started to have this meeting.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Did you say Bridges left? A. Yes.

Q. What did he say, if anything, before he left?

A. He said that "Jo-Jo will tell you what to do."

Q. Who was "Jo-Jo"? A. Joe Ring.

Q. Who was Joe Ring? [1654]

A. Joe Ring was, as I understand, a San Francisco longshoreman at that time who had been identified to me by several people as Bridges' bodyguard.

Q. You named James Fantz and Leo Hemingway as being there, and Joe Ring. Were any others there?

A. Harry Pilcher, was there, Jack Mowrey, a Portland longshoreman and communist, was there. John Fantz, a brother of James, was there. John Fougerouse, now Secretary of the Portland Industrial Union Council, was there.

Q. Do you know if he is under deportation proceedings at the present time?

A. I heard that he was under deportation proceedings; but I heard he paid a fine and the case was dismissed.

Q. You have reference to a criminal proceeding, don't you? A. In Los Angeles; yes, sir.

Q. Was Tom Burns there?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. Thomas Burns was there.

Q. And what was discussed at this meeting?

A. Well, first of all—I will try and tell you.

Q. I will withdraw that question. Let me ask you this question first: Were all the persons that you have mentioned as being present at that meeting members of the Communist Party?

A. That was definitely a Party meeting; yes, sir.

Q. No question about that? [1655]

A. No sir.

Q. What was discussed at this meeting?

A. Well, Joe Ring appointed a Chariman first. He appointed James Fantz as Chairman. The whole matter under discussion was the matter of getting rid of Captain E. B. O'Grady, who was the CIO Regional Director for Portland, and his assistant, John Brost.

They decided that it would be easier to get rid of Brost first and let O'Grady stay for a while. By doing that they could get rid of O'Grady.

It happened that I made some objections to this because I said that the lumber workers whom I had to contact every week, as Editor of the paper, would go right square off the reservation if we did that, and kick over the applecart.

But Ring and Pilcher, and the rest of them, said that Brost was definitely going anyway and that I was to be his successor.

I brought up the point that I never had any organizational experience. They said "No, but you write the stuff we want written and we will help you organize."

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

I brought out the fact that John Brost was a friend of mine and I didn't like this sort of procedure. We had a terrific argument about it.

Finally I asked them if Bridges could get Brost and O'Grady removed and Ring just laughed and said, "Of course he [1656] can. That is what this meeting is called for."

So we talked it over for some time and we took a vote on it, on who would be Brost's successor. They all voted for me. I didn't vote for myself. They told me there was a $60.00 a week salary in connection with it, and everything.

I said "Yes, but I would only get it for about one week and then we would have five thousand loggers with calked boots on us."

Ring finally said, "I have told you what you are to do. By God, I want you to do what I have told you in this instance."

The final decision of this Fraction was that I was to go into Brost's place and Brost was to be removed as soon as possible. I believe Ring stated that he would be out within three weeks.

Q. After the meeting what did you do?

A. Some time during that 24 hours Ring and I talked to Bridges about my qualifications. I believe that was at the Roosevelt Hotel after the meeting.

I had worked all night the night before getting out, working on a sheet, and I don't remember exactly how we contacted Bridges. Anyway, he said Bridges would take care of it and that he would tell Bridges that I was to be the successor to John Brost.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Did you talk to Bridges at any time after that meeting about what had occurred there? [1657]

A. After that meeting?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes. There was an open meeting around the first—a closed meeting around the first of April, at which they were to iron out differences between the Lumber & Sawmill Workers and — the Longshoremen. This all went, I might say, definitely into the fight between the Communists and the anti-Communists on the Portland waterfront. It was at this meeting that I contacted Bridges again.

Q. Who went with you, if anyone?

A. Harry Jackson and Harry Pincher.

Q. Who was Harry Jackson?

A. Harry Jackson was at that time the trade union organizer for the whole west coast, I believe, of the Communist Party; at least that is the way he impressed himself on me because he called the shots so far as the trade union policies were concerned.

Q. Where did you go to see Bridges?

A. Up to the Roosevelt Hotel.

Q. When was that? A. At night.

Q. When was it, what month, year, date?

A. That was right around the first of April.

Q. After the meeting? A. Yes. [1658]

Q. What was said at that meeting?

A. Well, first of all, I think this is significant because I had been in some difficulties with the Party for not hewing to the line. In fact, I had been up in front of the Control Commission and they had asked me what I intended to do. One of the matters that we were discussing was the fact that some of the Portland Police were supposed to go over and raid the Communist headquarters and take some stuff out of there, or something. So Murphy told around, and he told me I would have to run a statement by the Communists in the Labor New Dealer, and which I declined to do: I said I wouldn't run such a statement. They made me run it.

So at that time, after I ran it, then I guess all was forgiven, or something. So this night after this closed meeting—Harry Jackson wasn't allowed in the meeting. People were supposed to have Union cards to get in there. It was in the Portland auditorium. He was outside waiting when Pilcher and I came out. He said, "I am going to take Bob up and bust him on Harry Bridges."

So we went over to the Roosevelt Hotel. Mr. Bridges talked to me at the time and said that I ought to behave myself, and said "We Communists have got to stick together. If we don't what sort of discipline will we have in our organization?"

So Pilcher then said that he didn't think they would have any more trouble with me; that I would behave myself. [1659]

I didn't stay there very long. I left.

Q. That statement that you referred to, that you ran in the Labor Herald, that was a statement made by whom?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. It was written, brought up to me in the Labor New Dealer Office by a fellow named Van Lydegraff—V-a-n L-y-d-e-g-r-a-f-f—and Clayton is his first name. He had been a Party functionary for several years. I believe at that time he was Chairman of the Control Commission of the Multnomah County Section of the Communist Party. He just brought the statement in and said, 'Well, here is a statement." [1660]

I didn't bother to argue it with him. I was going to carry it further than that. So I took the statement. So I took the statement to Murphy. That was the way it started.

Q. To go back to the time you and Harry Jackson and Pilcher were talking to Mr. Bridges, are you sure that Bridges said to you "We Communists must stick together," or words to that effect?

A. There wouldn't have been any point, the way Jackson brought me in there, if you understand that Jackson never worked out in the open anywhere. He is what you might call a hatchet man, and he comes down the line and gives the orders. And when he said "bust me on Harry Bridges" he meant he was going to impose upon me the trust of taking me into Bridges and his august presence. That is what it amounted to. He certainly never done anything like that before. Pilcher, or none of the rest of them, had ever made any bones about the fact that Bridges was a Communist. Jackson, I don't know whether he, what he was doing, whether he was trying me out, or what, but he wanted me definitely to get back on the reservation, as he put it.

I had asked him to let me quit and get out of the thing; that I didn't want to run the statement. They wouldn't do that. But they had all been in a placative mood.

Q. You said Bridges said to you, "We Communists must stick together?" [1661]

A. He said, 'Why didn't I behave myself. Maybe I would like to go to San Francisco and work on a good paper."

Q. Did he say "We Communists must stick together?"

A. Yes; he definitely did.

Q. Did he say anything about yielding to some kind of discipline?

A. He said—yes, he said "Everybody has to have discipline if we are going to have any organization of any kind." I believe he said, "I heard some bad reports about you." Then he said "We have got to all yield to discipline."

Jackson said he thought I would be all right.

Q. Concerning the writing of this statement of Van Lydegraff in the Labor Herald, did Bridges discuss with you the advisability of running that statement?

A. Yes. I exploded. I said, "I don't want to run it because"—I will tell you what happened just that time.

The Lumber Workers served notice on me that if I didn't get the Communist propaganda out of that paper that everyone of them were going to cancel their subscription to the paper. They did just about that time.

I went over and asked them, I said, "Give me a chance. The CIO should have a paper."

Right on the heels of that along comes this statement from Van Lydegraff.

Incidentally, after that I lost another thousand [1662] subscriptions after that statement appeared.

Q. What did Bridges say to you, if anything?

A. He said that he thought I ought to run it.

Q. Did he say why you should?

A. Not at that time; no.

Q. When did you run that statement of Van Lydegraff's?

A. That was run—I don't know when, but the files are available.

Q. Do you think it was about April 21, 1938, in the issue of the Labor New Dealer?

For the purpose of refreshing your memory I will show you a Portland, Oregon, Friday, April 22, 1938 issue of the Labor New Dealer, and will ask you if the statement you are talking about appears in that issue?

A. (Examining newspaper) No. This is entirely different. I remember this because this affected me so vitally. This is an entirely different incident. It has nothing to do with the Van Lydegraff statement.

I can tell you about this if you want.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Tell us about this then, if it has any connection with Bridges.

A. All right. This is a headline here which says, "Bridges in City Answers Blast of Carson, Keegan."

I was over making my paper up and I received a phone call—this would have been on this issue—that was right after that decision of the Supreme Court in Louisiana by the Judge [1663] who said that membership in the Communist Party was no basis for deportation.

So I was instructed by Bridges in our office, to write that editorial that is in there, and I was also instructed on those facts, and he said, "Now is our chance. The Communist Party is coming in the open around here. We have a chance now to answer —those things."

He told me everything to write that is in that statement about the Portland Red Squad there, and told me everything to write, the main outlines in this editorial.

I was also told, in fact every Communist in town was telling me what I should have in that editorial.

Q. The editorial that you have reference to, is that the one that appears at the top of the page here in this issue? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Headed "And Who Wants Harry Bridges Deported." A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say Harry Bridges told you to write that?

A. I was over in the office and they called up and told me to come over there. I had not written that at the time.

Bridges was then in E. B. O'Grady's office in the Guardian Building.

I didn't go over right away and they sent a Portland longshoreman over—I didn't know his name—to get me. [1664] So Bridges told me what should go in these two articles.

Q. Did he also tell you the heading of this article here, "And Who Wants Harry Bridges Deported?"

A. It was suggested by one of the boys; I don't remember which.

Q. And you say he suggested also that you write this other article that you referred to here under the heading "Bridges, in City Answers Blasts of Carson and Keegan?"

A. He said that Keegan, or the Portland Police force, and these fellows had been keeping 40 or 50, I think, stool pigeons around there waiting for his deportation charges to come up. I had no other facts on the matter than as he gave them to me.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, of your Honor please, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: Have you shown it to counsel?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Received without objection.

(The newspaper referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 245.)

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. When did you discontinue your relations with the Labor New Dealer, Mr. Wilmot?

A. I walked out there on the first of December, 1938; but they kept my name on the masthead for several months afterwards without my consent.

[1665]

Q. You walked out of there—what do you mean by that?

A. Well, right after the 1938 elections I submitted my resignation to the Communist Party, and James Murphy came around the next day, and said that he had torn up the resignation. I said that I still didn't want the paper anymore, and I gave them, I think, two weeks to get a successor. So they sent down to San Francisco and got a fellow by the name of Lee Coe—C-o-e—and as soon as he arrived, the very day he got there, I threw across the keys at him and walked out. [1666]

Q. You say you sent in your resignation also to the Communist Party?

A. Right after, yes; about, oh, I think along about the first of November, 1938.

Q. Have you ever been arrested, Mr. Wilmot?

A. Several times.

Q. For what?

A. Well, the last time I was arrested was during the goon round-up in Portland on and after-hours charge. I was carrying a lot of literature and what-not. I was released in the morning; never came to trial.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. What kind of literature were you carrying?

A. Well, I had some, oh, pamphlets of various sorts. I don't recall exactly now what they were.

Q. When was that? A. Sir?

Q. What year was that?

A. That was about February, 1937.

Q. Have you ever been convicted of any crime?

A. When I was a boy I drove an automobile while drunk, when I was about 17, and I got thirty days in the workhouse for that.

Q. What were you convicted of?

A. What is that?

Q. What were you convicted of? [1667]

A. Of driving while drunk.

Q. Driving while drunk? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you were a boy? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you ever been arrested at any other time and convicted?

A. No, sir. Well, I was picked up during some labor trouble in Minneapolis and released.

Q. You have a relief record, too, haven't you?

A. A relief record?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. Yes, sir; as long as your arm. I have got considerable of relief.

Q. You had that relief record when you went into the Communist Party?

A. Yes, sir. You see, I went on the Writer's Project from the relief rolls. I was on this transient relief and I always thought it was illegal, but they told me to go to work. And so I went to work. I mean, I thought there was some technicality that somebody slipped up, but I went on the Writer's Project. Then after I was there they took me off the relief status and promoted me to non-relief status.

Q. And you had that relief record when you met Mr. Bridges, didn't you? [1668]

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You had that criminal record when you met Bridges? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Del Guercio: You may cross examine.

Mr. Gladstein: I realize that there are ten minutes before the day is over, but your Honor suggested a conference.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, I did.

Mr. Gladstein: And we could not finish in ten minutes with the witness, and we would like permission for that reason to begin our cross examination in the morning.

Mr. Del Guercio: I think we could start, if your Honor please.

Mr. Gladstein: The reason I ask that, if we are going to have a conference and if it is going to take any time it will, of course, cut into the time we were planning to conduct the cross examination.

Presiding Inspector: The witness will have to stay over anyway.

Mr. Del Guercio: But just in the interest of time here, that is all.

Mr. Gladstein: We will agree to go ten minutes longer tomorrow and make that up, if that is satisfactory.

Presiding Inspector: All right. Tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

(Whereupon at 3:50 P. M. an adjournment was taken to Wednesday, April 23, 1941, at 10:00 A. M.) [1669]

Court Room 276,
Federal Building,
San Francisco, California,
April 23, 1941.

Met, pursuant to adjournment, at 10:00 A.M.

PROCEEDINGS

Presiding Inspector: You may proceed.

ROBERT PATRICK WILMOT

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Cross Examination

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Mr. Wilmot, I understood you to say, and the transcript reports you as having said, that you joined the Communist Party in 1927, is that correct?

A. No, sir. 1937, is what I said.

Q. The only thing that was wrong then was the year, and it would be also after Christmas?

A. Yes.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. After Christmas, that is, of 1937, is that the correct time that you joined the Communist Party?

A. To the best of my memory I joined right after Chirstmas in 1937.

Q. When did you leave the Communist Party?

A. I submitted my resignation to the Communist Party about the first of November 1938.

Q. Was that resignation accepted?

A. It was torn up.

Q. And was there any discussion with reference to your resignation between you and any members of the Communist [1671] Party?

A. James Murphy, the Secretary, came around and said, "Well, I tore up your resignation." He said, "I think you had better consider it and think it over."

Q. What did you say?

A. I said that I didn't intend to stay in.

Q. Did he then say he would accept the resignation? A. No, he did not.

Q. Did the Communist Party take any action either to accept your resignation or to expel you?

A. They expelled me in July, 1939.

Q. How do you fix the date?

A. What's that?

Q. How do you fix the date?

A. I have the expulsion here.

Q. May I see it, please? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. Wilmot, the second paragraph of the statement reads, as follows: "Because of non-payment of dues and failure to attend branch meetings you have been out of good standing for several months. The action to expel, however, follows the decision made in 1938 in which certain qualifications were placed upon your continued membership in the Party, qualifications by which you have failed to abide."

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Could you state, please, what those qualifications were, [1672] if any, that were placed upon your continued membership?

A. Well, I had been up several——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Just a moment! May I ask who signed that letter and is it on the letterhead of the Communist Party?

The Witness: Well, "Central Control Committee, Communist Party, signed by Harold C. Spring, Chairman."

Will you repeat your question, please?

Mr. Grossman: Will you read it, Mr. Reporter?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. Yes, I can state them. I had been up several times in front of disciplinary committees for fighting the Party line on various things where I thought they were wrong and had been brow-beaten by a bunch of fellows, and so forth; and twice I agreed to do things, as I stated yesterday, and those were the qualifications under which I was to continue in there. And I say, I hadn't paid dues for many months and under the constitution that was going at that time I was automatically out anyway when I got this expulsion and had been for several months.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. I still am not sure what the qualifications were. What is it that you were supposed to do or to continue doing in order to be allowed to remain in the Communist Party? [1673]

A. I was not supposed to criticize the leadership. I was not supposed to fight them in any way and I was supposed to abide by the decisions of the Editorial Board on the Labor New Dealer, of which I was the Editor.

Q. Was that all?

A. That's the—to my recollection, that's all I remember.

Q. Do you remember when those qualifications were imposed? A. No, I do not.

Q. Will you please describe the circumstances—with draw that. In your direct testimony you stated, I think in substance, that your Communist Party Unit selected you to act as Editor of the Labor New Dealer, is that correct?

A. That is correct; yes.

Q. Can you tell me more about how that came about? Do you know how the Unit happened to take this question up?

A. Yes. As I stated yesterday, I had been recruited into the Party by Kenneth Fitzgerald. He ran the Unit. They wanted him to take the paper first, but, as he stated, he didn't want to stick his neck out because he had been a former candidate for office, a Communist Party candidate, for office in Portland. It was a small unit, about seven people. Perhaps I was next to him, I was the only one that was qualified, knew enough about newspaper work, to take over the paper. That [1674] is how I was first selected there.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. How long after this discussion, the first discussion of this question in the unit, did you take over the job of editor of the Labor New Dealer?

A. Well, I should say about three weeks.

Q. Will you please explain, Mr. Wilmot, how you could have been selected for the job of Editor of the Labor New Dealer, and taken that job approximately three weeks after you were selected by your Unit of the Communist Party, when you joined the Communist Party after Christmas of 1937, and you became Editor of the Labor New Dealer in October of 1937?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the question, if your Honor please. It is long and confusing, and doesn't appear to be a question at all.

Mr. Grossman: The confusion is not in the question, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I think I will take it. Let us see if the dates are right.

Mr. Grossman: They are right from the transcript.

Presiding Inspector: You corrected the transcript in one way this morning.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you want to correct the date on which you became the Editor of the Labor New Dealer as being four days before October 1, 1937? Do you want to correct that date? [1675]

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. To the best of my memory—I am trying to refresh my memory a moment—I became Editor of it for the first issue of the Labor New Dealer that came out October first, or October 1, 1937.

Q. Do you want to correct that date?

A. No.

Q. Will you please answer the question, then?

A. I joined the Communist Party right after Christmas 1937. I was in all the time until I took the paper over.

Q. Didn't you become Editor of the paper at least two months before you joined the Communist Party? A. No.

Q. Do you contend that October 1, 1937 is late than a little bit after Christmas of 1937?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to that as argumentative.

Presiding Inspector: He is trying to correct his recollection. There is a mistake there somewhere.

A. Well, it had to be in 1936, then.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. What might have been in 1936?

A. When I joined the Communist Party.

Q. Are you testifying it was in 1936?

A. I frankly can't remember.

Q. Do you have any other explanation to make, Mr. Wilmot? [1676] A. I have not.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to that. Is there any evidence that counsel has as to the date he joined the Communist Party?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Mr. Grossman: Only his testimony.

Presiding Inspector: This is all proper, I think. People make mistakes in recollection of dates.

Mr. Grossman: And about recollection of other things taking place, too.

Presiding Inspector: Yes. All witnesses do that, are apt to do it. We haven't perfect memories, any of us.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. You are certain, are you——

Presiding Inspector: I notice that I made mistakes about the testimony that is given, and I also noticed that you have too.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. You are certain, are you, Mr. Wilmot, before you became Editor of the Labor New Dealer that this question was raised and a decision was made in your Communist Party Unit that you should become such an Editor? A. I am positive of that.

[1677]

Q. When did you arrive in Portland?

A. The first time?

Q. Yes. A. 1934.

Q. And did you leave Portland? A. I did.

Q. When?

A. I left about a month after I arrived here. I believe I arrived here the first of October or thereabouts, I went back to Los Angeles shortly before Christmas.

Q. You had come to Portland in '34 from Los Angeles then?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. I had come originally from Minneapolis to Los Angeles to Portland.

Q. How long had you been in Los Angeles before you came to Portland in '34?

A. Before I came to Portland in '34?

Q. Yes.

A. I was only there, I believe, two weeks.

Q. And how long were you in Los Angeles after leaving Portland in '34? A. All winter.

Q. Then did you return to Portland?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you remained there continuously?

A. That's right. No, I think in '36 I went back on a [1678] visit to St. Paul, Minnesota.

Q. When did you return to St. Paul, Minnesota? A. '36.

Q. I mean, what month, if you can remember?

A. In June.

Q. How long were you there?

A. About three weeks.

Q. And then did you return to Portland?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you remain continuously in Portland then after that?

A. I have never been out of Portland since then with the exception of minor trips; a couple of Party affairs in Seattle and down the Valley and so forth.

Q. Did you ever tell anyone that there were reasons why you could never return to Minneapolis?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to that. There is no foundation laid for it. There is no indication here, no evidence here——

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I think that you should give him some clew. This is a question right out of a clear sky.

Mr. Grossman: I can't at this time, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: Very well. I will exclude it at this time.

Mr. Grossman: I beg your pardon? [1679]

Presiding Inspector: I will exclude it at this time. Of course, if there is any reason why he shouldn't return, it is open to you to bring that out.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Is there any reason why you can not return or consider it undesirable for you to return to Minneapolis?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the form of the question, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I will take it.

A. Certainly not. I am thinking of going back there now.

Presiding Inspector: Now you may ask him if you wish to——

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. (Interposing) Did you ever tell——

Presiding Inspector: Ask it this way: Do you recall or do you have any recollection?

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you have any recollection of telling anyone that there are reasons why you could never return to Minneapolis?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. I believe I told people several times there were reasons why I didn't want to.

Q. But you never told anyone that there were reasons why you couldn't? A. No, sir.

Q. What were the reasons that you didn't want to? [1680] A. I didn't like the climate.

Q. Where were you during the 1936 maritime strike? A. I was in Portland.

Q. During the entire strike?

A. I don't recollect much about that strike. I didn't pay a lot of attention to it.

Q. What were you doing at that time?

A. Working on the WPA Writers' Project.

Q. During what periods were you on WPA?

A. During what periods?

Q. Yes.

A. I quit when I went back to Minneapolis in 1936 and then I wired and asked them if I could have the job back again. They said I could. So when I came back, I believe it was in July, I went right back on the WPA Writers' Project.

Q. July of 1936? A. Yes.

Q. And then you remained there for how long?

A. Until September of 1940.

Q. Continuously?

A. Well, with the exception of a week I took off to work on the Labor New Dealer at the beginning when I thought I was going to get paid.

Q. And outside of that week that you took off you worked continuously on WPA?

A. That's correct. [1681]

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Is that right? A. That's correct.

Q. Were you a relief or non-relief employee during this period?

A. I was a relief employee originally and about a week after I went on the paper, or two weeks I was promoted—taken off of relief status and put on as a non-relief supervisor.

Q. Did you during the time that you were working on the WPA or during part of that time edit the Labor New Dealer and also at the same time do your WPA job?

A. Yes, sir; in every case.

Q. Can you tell me how so far as time is concerned you reconciled these two jobs?

A. We had no requirements. At that time, we didn't have to keep regular office hours. We had a minimum. The ordinary writers—I was a re-write man. We had a minimum of 1900 words a week specified by WPA regulations, and I had to re-write about, oh, about 10,000 words a week and they didn't ask how many hours I took or anything so long as you did that at that time. Then later they specified that you should work six hours a day and you could work wherever you wanted to, and then later I had to get the Labor New Dealer out mostly at night because they put me on a job for a while where I had to stay in the WPA office and supervise some other [1682] people.

Q. Do you know whether there were any rules which forbade at that time your holding another job while you were employed on WPA?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. There were no rules. I also did publicity for various other things and I took it up with the boss and it was all right.

Q. He told you there were no WPA rules which would restrict your having another pay job while you were employed on WPA?

A. There were for the certified people. They were allowed under WPA regulations to make $50.00 a month in excess of their regular allowance, but as far as the non-certified people were concerned they could have made any amount that was possible.

Q. When you first joined the Communist Party what unit were you put into?

A. They called it a Cultural Unit. It was the unit of artists and writers, most of them WPA employees.

Q. And later you were put in what you called the Maritime or Waterfront Branch, is that correct, yes.

A. The Waterfront Branch, that is correct, yes.

Q. When was the first time you ever met Harry Bridges?

A. I believe about the second week in October, 1937.

Q. Were you then employed on the Labor New Dealer? [1683] A. I was.

Q. Where did you met him?

A. Norse Hall, Portland, on the stage.

Q. Which hall? Norse?

A. Norse Hall.

Q. Do you remember the day of the week?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. No, I do not.

Q. Was it at a regular meeting of the Portland Longshoremen's Union?

A. I believe that was a special meeting, if I remember rightly.

Q. What conversation did you have with Harry Bridges or did he have with you at that time?

A. Harry Pilcher introduced me to him as the Editor of the paper and Bridges said, as I stated yesterday, that "Is this one of those horrible Communists?" or "awful Communists". That may not be the exact word he used.

Q. Is that the entire conversation?

A. No. We discussed—I said at that time that I thought Mr. Bridges was a great labor leader and I told him how glad I was to meet him.

Q. You mean you don't think so now?

A. I certainly do not.

Q. At the time you went to work for the Labor New Dealer did Harry Pilcher have any connection with the paper? [1684]

A. Harry Pilcher got himself elected Chairman of the Editorial Board. It was a five-man board.

Q. For how long was he a member of that board?

A. He was a member of the Editorial Board until after I left the paper. [1685]

Q. During the entire time that you were on the paper Mr. Pilcher was one of the Editorial Board?

A. Right.

Q. Was he Chairman of the Editorial Board for the entire time? A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. When was the next time you met Harry Bridges?

A. I can't remember exactly. Every time that Bridges came to town I saw him.

Q. When was the next occasion that you remember the details of?

Mr. Del Guercio: What is the question?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. Well, I remember going up to the longshoremen's office on the 12th floor of the Guardian Building one time and listening to some idle conversation. I had no definite dealings with Mr. Bridges, but I was a [illegible] in my capacity as Editor of the paper.

Q. When was that?

A. That was—as I stated before, I don't remember when the next time was.

Q. Nothing significant happened there?

A. What?

Q. Nothing significant happened there? [1686]

A. Nothing significant happened, no.

Q. When was the next occasion you remember the details of?

A. I believe Mr. Bridges was in town about three times that winter, before the spring of 1938, possibly four times, and I saw him once in Captain E. B. O'Grady's office on the 7th floor of the Guardian Building.

Q. Do you remember any of the details of that?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. No, except that Captain O'Grady was telling him some of his troubles. I was in the outer office and the door was open.

Q. When was the next time?

A. I don't remember any of the meetings, specific dates, if you want that, throughout that winter.

Q. Take the next year. A. 1938?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, the month of April—that was very significant because it was during the month of April that I saw Bridges in the Lennox Hotel, early in the month of April. I don't remember the exact date on that. It was about the 20th of April when I saw him in the Roosevelt Hotel.

Q. Let us stick to the Lennox Hotel first.

A. All right.

Q. Can you fix the date with reference to any event? [1687]

A. I can't fix the date, exact date; no.

Q. Is there any way in which you would be able to fix the exact date if you checked the date of any event?

A. If I had a complete file of the Labor New Dealer I would be able to; yes.

Q. What would there be in the file that would give you the date?

A. Every time that Mr. Bridges came to town I was ordered to put something in the paper about him, or run his picture.

Q. By reading that article on Bridges being in town would you know which occasion was the one on which you saw him at the Lennox Hotel?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. I believe I would. I am not certain until I read them.

Q. Can you recall that there was something written in the Labor New Dealer concerning Mr. Bridges on the occasion when you saw him at the Lennox Hotel?

A. I don't believe there was anything in there at that time; that certainly wouldn't be written up in the paper.

Q. I didn't ask you whether the meeting at the Lennox Hotel was written up. I asked whether there was a story in the paper about him derived from that trip of his to Portland.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that. The meeting at the Lennox Hotel was certainly an event connecting him with Bridges.

Mr. Grossman: Is this an objection or some kind of a [1688] comment?

Presiding Inspector: I don't know. I will take it, though, if he can recall.

A. As I explained, I worked about 16 hours a day at that time and I had attended many meetings. Naturally, when I had anything to do with Bridges personally I remember those occasions. But I don't remember the exact words. I wrote thousands of words in that paper, and I can't remember everything that is in it.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Then your testimony is that it was in the early part of April?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. The best of my knowledge is that it was in the early part of April; yes.

Q. Can you be any more specific now than the early part of April?

A. I don't believe so; not unless I had the files of the paper.

Q. When you say the "early part" do you mean in the first ten days?

A. I should say about the 12th, somewhere around there.

Q. You say about the 12th?

A. I don't wish to be exact on that because I cannot. I know it was in April.

Q. All right. Now, will you describe the occasion, [1689] please, that you saw Mr. Bridges in the Lennox Hotel, with the introductory material that will explain how you happened to see him there?

A. Well, Pilcher told me there was going to be a meeting of the Top Fraction of the Communist Party in the Lennox Hotel.

Q. When, with reference to the time of the meeting, did he tell you about that?

A. He told me to come up whenever I could and get a couple of other fellows.

Q. Was it the same day that he told you about it? A. No.

Q. The day before?

A. Yes; the night before.

Q. Did he tell you when you should come up?

A. He stopped at my house and told me to be there the next day. I said, "What time?" He said "Be there around noon if you can." I went there shortly after noon.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Did he give you a room number?

A. No, he did not.

Q. You mean he merely said "Hotel Lennox"?

A. That is correct.

Q. All right. Did he give you the names of the people to bring to the meeting with you?

A. Jimmie Fantz—he told me to bring him if I saw him. In the meantime Fantz had been contacted by somebody, and Fantz [1690] had the room number, so I went up with him.

Q. Did you go up with anyone else besides Fantz? A. Leo Hemingway was along too.

Q. And you arrived at what time?

A. About one o'clock.

Q. And when you got to the room who was there?

A. Mowrey, Jack Mowrey, Howard Bodine, Charles Fantz, John Fougerouse; and there were some companions of Bridges there whom I did not know and to whom I was not introduced.

Q. Was Joe Ring there? A. Yes.

Q. Bridges was there? A. That is right.

Q. What happened after you got up to the room?

A. Mr. Bridges had his hat and coat on. He went out. He said to Pilcher, "Jo-Jo will tell you what to do."

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

I was standing behind Pilcher, that is how I heard. We went down the hall to another room.

Q. Before you go to that, how long after you arrived did Bridges leave? A. Right away.

Q. Then you went down the hall to another room? A. Correct.

Q. Do you know whose room it was?

A. No, I do not. The boys used the Lennox Hotel quite a lot. [1691]

Q. Do you know whose room it was that you went to first? A. I believe it was Joe Ring's.

Q. Do you know, or do you just believe?

A. I believe.

Q. What makes you believe that?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, he has just said he didn't know, but he believes it was Joe Ring's.

Mr. Grossman: I submit I have a right to know what the basis of his belief is.

Presiding Inspector: I think you can ask him if there is anything that recalls this to his mind. He is giving a faint recollection. He has already expressed himself to you.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. You had some basis, I assume, for that?

A. He took off his coat and hat, and hung them up, and changed his shirt while in there, so it should have been his room, I believe.

Q. When you say you believe, you mean you have some doubt about his changing his shirt, and so on?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. I am certain he changed his shirt before the afternoon was over. It might have been somebody else's shirt.

Q. All right. Then you went down to another room. What happened at this other room? First, who went to the other room, everybody except Bridges?

A. No. Bridges left with three men that I didn't know.

Q. With how many men? [1692]

A. I think it was three.

Q. And everyone else went to this other room?

A. Yes; all the Portland people went to the other room, with the exception of Joe Ring, and he was not from Portland.

Q. What transpired in this other room?

A. Ring appointed Fantz Chairman. There was a little by-play about that. We immediately started to discuss the general situation there, and the need was expressed by Ring, and the others, for getting rid of John Brost and Regional Director O'Grady.

Q. Did any of them quote Bridges as having any ideas or opinions on this question?

A. Yes.

Q. Who quoted him and what was said?

A. Well, Ring brought up the idea of his removal. I knew enough to believe that Mr. O'Grady was a pretty powerful fellow. He, Ring, said "Don't worry about that. Harry will take care of that."

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Did anyone express any opinion as to Bridges' ideas on removing either Brost or O'Grady? A. I didn't get that.

Q. Was any opinion expressed as to Bridges' views on removing Brost or O'Grady?

A. Yes. There was a general discussion on it all around on everybody's part. [1693]

Q. Who said what about Bridges' views on that subject?

A. Ring was the one that did the talking on that.

Q. Is that all Ring said on this question?

A. No, no. Ring talked on the question.

Q. I mean on the question of Bridges' views.

A. Bridges' views?

Q. Yes.

A. He said Bridges would take care of them; that they were as good as gotten.

Q. You got the implication that Bridges wanted to get rid of O'Grady and Brost?

A. That is not the implication; the implication was that we, as a Fraction, should arrive at a decision that O'Grady and Brost should go, and that Mr. Bridges would ratify that decision. That is what was brought out.

Q. You got the clear impression from what Joe Ring said that the decision of your Fraction would be accepted by Bridges and he would carry it out?

A. That is right.

Mr. Del Guercio: That isn't an impression that he got. The witness has testified that that is what Joe Ring said.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Mr. Grossman: I think the record speaks for itself and Mr. Del Guercio need not argue every time an answer is given.

Presiding Inspector: Let it stand. Go ahead.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you remember anything else that Joe Ring, or any- [1694] one else said, that specifically described Bridges' attitude on this general question?

A. Yes. There was something said about Bridges didn't want to put O'Grady on in the first place, but that he was forced on him. There was a great argument about just how——

Q. (Interposing) Before we get to the argument——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) If your Honor please, I object to this. The witness is answering the question and he hasn't completed it.

Mr. Grossman: If you will listen to the question you will see that it was not responsive.

Presiding Inspector: There is no need to argue.

Mr. Grossman: I don't think these interruptions will get us anywhere. It is obvious that the point where I stopped the witness was the beginning of the unresponsive answer to the question.

Presiding Inspector: Proceed.

Mr. Del Guercio: The Court should decide that.

Presiding Inspector: There is no need of arguing about this. I will overrule Mr. Del Guercio's objection and you may ask the next question.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Who said that?

A. Repeat the question.

Mr. Grossman: Read the last answer, Mr. Reporter.

(The answer was read by reporter as above recorded.) [1695]

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. I want to know who said that about Bridges not wanting to put on O'Grady? A. Joe Ring.

Q. And did he state who forced O'Grady on Bridges?

A. I am not positive of that. I believe he said Brophy did.

Q. All right. Then you had a discussion in that meeting. And what were the conclusions of your discussion, if any? A. Brost was to go.

Q. Was O'Grady to go?

A. O'Grady was to go.

Q. Were they to go at the same time?

A. No, they were not.

Q. In what order?

A. Brost was to go first.

Q. And O'Grady when?

A. As soon as they could arrange it.

Q. And what was required to be arranged between the time that Brost would go and O'Grady would go?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. I was supposed to get Brost's job.

Q. And who was to have O'Grady's job?

A. That was not decided.

Q. Was this done on the theory that there would still be men occupying the positions that Brost and O'Grady held, [1696-7-8] or was one of those positions to be eliminated?

A. Ring said that there had been some talk of eliminating the Regional Director's job; that there definitely would have to be someone in an organizational capacity to take the same job that Brost did.

Q. In other words, definitely you were to have Brost's job? A. That's correct.

Q. Now, was this decision absolutely definite, that you were to have it, or was it left up in the air in some way?

A. I stated that it was to be ratified by Bridges.

Q. But the meeting was operating, was it not, on the theory that any decision of this fraction was to be ratified by Bridges? A. That's right.

Q. All right. Then, so far as the fraction was concerned, it was a definite decision because they operated on the theory that anything they decided would be carried into effect by Bridges?

A. No. It was not a definite decision, because I balked on it. I didn't want Brost's job and Ring told me, he says, "You'll do what you are told". And I said, "Well, I will never fill Brost's job."

Q. Was it left on that note, that you were still re- [1699] fusing to take the job?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was that the reason why you went to see Bridges, to discuss the question of whether you should take the job?

A. I stated yesterday that I don't recall clearly the incidents after that. I believe that I saw Bridges with Ring up in the Longshoremen's Union, but I am not certain and I don't want to be quoted on that, the way we talked about that.

Q. So you don't recall definitely whether or not you ever did have a discussion with Bridges on the question of your taking Brost's job?

A. No. I can't state that. I don't care to say that.

Q. You remember, however, don't you, what your testimony was on that yesterday, that you referred to giving Bridges your qualifications yesterday?

A. I said I believed that Joe Ring and I saw Bridges within the next twenty-four hours and that Joe Ring spoke to him about it—was what I testified to yesterday.

Q. But your testimony now is that you are not sure whether that took place?

A. I am not certain. I am not absolutely certain.

Q. Do you think you did, though? A. Yes.

Q. Do you have any recollection, however vague, of what was said at this meeting?

A. Well, Ring said, "The kid here doesn't think we ought [1700] to fire Brost". That's what he said, to the best of my recollection.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Do you recall anything else that was said?

A. No.

Q. Do you recall what the conclusion, if any, of the meeting was? A. No.

Q. Do you recall whether Bridges expressed any sentiments on getting rid of Brost or accepting you?

A. I believe that Bridges used an expletive in connection with Mr. Brost.

Q. You got the impression that Mr. Bridges wanted to get rid of Brost, at least?

A. I had always had that impression for some time.

Q. When did you first get that impression?

A. Well, E. B. O'Grady had told me about a month before that he was afraid of Johnny's job, that Bridges was going to "get" him.

Q. Was that the first time you got the impression that Bridges wanted to "get" Brost out?

A. I believe so, yes.

Q. When was the next time you saw Harry Bridges?

A. I think that was around—I think that closed meeting was around the 20th of April. I am not positive of that exact date either. But there was a closed meeting at the auditorium, which was participated in by the Woodworkers [1701] and Longshoremen.

Q. Just a moment! Before you go on any further, how long was this occasion, the closed meeting, after the meeting in the Lennox Hotel?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. Well, I said that I didn't know the exact date of the meeting in the Lennox Hotel, but I thought it was about the 12th.

Q. Then you figure approximately a week?

A. Yes.

Q. Elapsed between the two meetings?

A. I believe so, yes.

Q. Are you more definite about the time between the two meetings than you are about the April 12th date?

Presiding Inspector: Do you think that helps, a comparison in his mind of that kind?

Mr. Grossman: It might. He might be very clear on the question of the week. It may be the same day of the week or something else that might make it clear in his memory.

Presiding Inspector: I think the general statement is that he isn't very clear about these dates.

Mr. Grossman: All right. We will abandon that question.

Presiding Inspector: It is rather difficult, you know, to——

Mr. Grossman: (Interposing) What is that?

Presiding Inspector: It is rather difficult, to compare [1702] degrees of vague recollection as to dates.

By Mr. Grossman:

A. All right, now. I interrupted you. You were going to discuss——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) It was merely suggestive. You understood that.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Now, did you see Bridges at this meeting at the auditorium? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it inside the meeting that you saw him?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have any discussion at the meeting with him?

A. Oh, no. He talked for about two hours and I just listened to the speech. That was all.

Q. After April when was the next time that you saw him? A. That very same night.

Q. That very same night? A. Yes.

Q. What were the circumstances that brought about the meeting?

A. Well, Harry Jackson took me up there along with Harry Pilcher to the Roosevelt Hotel.

Q. Where did you meet Harry Jackson? [1703]

A. At the auditorium, on the outside——

Q. (Interposing) After the meeting?

A. It was in the foyer after the meeting.

Q. Where did you meet Pilcher?

A. Pilcher was at the meeting, sitting right alongside me.

Q. Immediately after the meeting you left the auditorium to go up to see Bridges?

A. No. We stayed and talked. We talked to several people. I don't recall off-hand. All Communists. We had a little discussion there about—there was considerable—it was quite a "hot" meeting and we talked about it.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Was this an open meeting for the public?

A. It was a closed meeting.

Q. You are sure of that? A. I am sure.

Q. It was in the Portland Auditorium?

A. It was a very loose gate. It was technically closed, but lots of people who were not members of either organization were there.

Q. I see. All right. Then who apparently took the lead in taking you to a meeting with Harry Bridges? A. Harry Jackson.

Q. Jackson or Pilcher? A. Jackson.

Q. Where did you see Bridges? [1704]

A. In the Roosevelt Hotel.

Q. Do you happen to know whether it was Bridges' room in the Roosevelt Hotel?

A. I don't know whether it was or not. I couldn't be certain of that. I don't think it was. I think maybe it was perhaps Matt Meehan's room.

Q. Was Matt Meehan around?

A. No, he was not.

Q. When you got there was Bridges there?

A. Yes, he was.

Q. Who was present at this meeting?

A. Pilcher, Jackson, Bridges and myself.

Q. No one else? A. That's right.

Q. And about what time did you get there?

A. Well, I am not certain. It was late; about 11:00 o'clock, I believe.

Q. And how did the conversation start?

A. Well, I had—originally, as I stated yesterday, Jackson said that he was going to take me up there to "bust me on" Bridges, and we went up and Jackson told Bridges about the trouble that I was having with the paper. That very same day I said there had been a thousand subscriptions cancelled. And I believe that Bridges said "Well, get people out and sell them at the mill gates". These were sawmill men that [1705] CIO sawmill men that cancelled the paper on the ground that it was full of Communist propaganda. And Bridges said "Put them out at the sawmill gates and sell them."

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

So we discussed what could be done to keep the paper from going under, because we had no money or anything. I believe I asked Bridges if there wasn't some way that we could—yes, I did—if we couldn't get some financial support from the CIO. And he said, "No, that there wasn't any that he knew of."

Q. Is it correct that the first things you discussed were the paper and the loss of circulation and the getting of money for it and so forth?

A. That's right.

Q. Now, let us go back to the discussion that you had with Jackson before you were taken up there. You made some statement that Jackson had made as to why he was taking you up there. Will you repeat that, please? And tell me when it was made and who was present.

A. Harry Pilcher, Jackson and I were alone at the time.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. This was after the auditorium meeting?

A. That's right.

Q. But before you went up to Bridges?

A. That's right.

Q. What was all the conversation on that subject?

A. Well, Jackson was going up to see him, and he said, [1706] "Let's take Bob up and bust him on" Bridges". I don't know what that expression means. I know what I think it means.

Q. What do you think it means?

A. That means that I was going to be initiated into the inner circles.

Q. Let us return to the Roosevelt Hotel. Do you remember how the conversation got around to the question of you and the Communist Party? You said it started on the question of the paper. Do you remember how it got around to the question of you and the Communist Party?

A. Well, Jackson said that they had had considerable trouble with me, but he thought that I was going to be all right. And we hadn't discussed anything else. The whole thing was a Party discussion, what our reaction to it would be.

Q. What do you mean when you say "the whole thing" was a Party discussion?

A. Because when I walked into the room to talk with Bridges, with the trade union organizer for the Communist Party, we certainly were going to discuss things as they affected the Communist Party.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Is that your only basis for making that statement? A. Well, that's——

Q. (Interposing) Is it your only basis? [1707]

A. No. We even discussed—he even discussed what was going on in Seattle, but I didn't pay any attention to that. I believe I was reading a newspaper while he was talking about that.

Q. Are you giving that as a basis for your statement that it was a Party discussion?

A. I am giving it as a basis that it was a Party discussion, the fact that I told you that Jackson always kept himself as anonymous as possible and always never came out in the open anywhere.

Q. Am I correct in stating your testimony, then, that the reason you say it was a Party discussion was because Jackson was there because of who Jackson was? A. That's right.

Q. All right. Now, I am interested in all this discussion on the question with you and the Communist Party or Jackson's trouble with you. What else was said?

A. Well, Pilcher said that "Bob doesn't always follow the Party line, but" he said, "He's a good hard worker". I remember he said that. "He gets his paper out and does a lot of other work besides", and he says, "We'll straighten him out". A sort of paternal attitude he had about it.

Q. Did he ask Bridges to do anything with reference to you? A. No, he did not. [1708]

Q. Did he ask Bridges to lay down the line to you? A. No, he did not.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Did he ask Bridges to discipline you in any way?

A. No. Bridges then said—that was when Bridges said "Well, we Communists have got to stick together. We have got to have some discipline", and he said, "You have got to do what you are told or we won't have any organization at all".

Q. Was there any discussion at this meeting about this Communist Party statement that you said you were asked to put in the paper?

A. Yes.

Q. The statement hadn't actually been put in the paper, had it?

A. No. The idea was that I got a statement from them about every week. I was fighting the Party on the idea that they should not put Communist statements directly from the Party in that paper. And every week, why, there would be something that they would say that the Red Squad had prowled their office, and I don't know how much of it was true. I don't know whether the Red Squad had prowled their office or not. But I would get these statements to run. There was always a statement on tap and they would come up and put them in my mail box up there. And the general line was that I had refused to run-out-and-out Party stuff, Party statements, and that was [1709] discussed at that meeting. Pilcher said that he thought that I should run them and Bridges said he thought I should run the statements, too.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. In your direct testimony you referred to a particular statement, one that was brought out by a man named Van Lydegraf.

A. Yes. Every statement that was brought up there Van Lydegraf signed it.

Q. And you referred in your direct examination also to a particular statement about the Police Department of Portland ransacking or raiding or doing something with the Communist Party headquarters. Were there several statements on that, or was that a particular one?

A. There were three of them. They were in the Guardian Building and they maintained that they were called on every night and that somebody was having a dictaphone put in there. There were several statements. When I say "the" Van Lydegraf statement I mean that categorically.

Q. Let me refer you to your testimony on direct examination and see which statement, if any, you were referring to. "One of the matters that we were discussing was the fact that some of the Portland Police were supposed to go over and raid the Communist headquarters and take some stuff out of there or something. So Murphy told around and he told me that I would have to run a statement by the Communists in the Labor [1710] New Dealer, and which I declined to do. I said I wouldn't run such a statement. They made me run it." Now, does that refer to a particular statement?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. That refers to the one which finally appeared in the issue of the paper that is in evidence there.

Q. And did it appear before or after your meeting with Harry Bridges in the Roosevelt Hotel?

A. After my meeting with Bridges.

Q. Was it discussed at your meeting with Bridges at the Roosevelt Hotel?

A. The general policy of putting the Communists in the position where they could come out and protest in our paper against what they termed "Red Squad persecution and under cover agents" and so forth was discussed at that meeting. And it was a week later, I believe, or in the 28th issue—April 28th issue—I ran a statement. It's in that paper there.

Q. Do you remember whether this particular statement or this particular occurrence was discussed in your meeting with Bridges?

A. I believe that the raids in general were discussed and what my line on the paper should be in connection with writing them up. I was perfectly willing—I remember saying that I was perfectly willing to write them up myself, but I didn't want direct Party statements in there and I didn't want to quote anybody in the paper. I was willing to write [1711] it as a news story, in other words.

Q. And did Bridges express any opinion on this?

A. He said I ought to run it.

Q. He said you ought to run the Communist Party statement? A. That's right.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Was there much discussion on this question at that meeting with Bridges?

A. There was considerable. I said that—"What am I going to do if I haven't any circulation? I can't keep the paper going", and I said, "I think the paper is valuable to the CIO and it should be kept going, and Communist stuff—obvious sort of Communist stuff should be kept out of it". And Bridges said that he thought that a thing like that ought to be in there, and I believe he mentioned his difficulties with the Portland Red Squad.

Q. Was there anything else discussed at this meeting?

A. Bridges said that—he asked me, maybe I could go down to San Francisco and work on a "good paper", and I took that to mean the "Voice of the Federation". He didn't definitely state that. "If I behaved myself".

Q. Did he elaborate on "behaving yourself"?

A. No.

Q. When was the next time you saw Harry Bridges?

A. On the, I believe it was, the morning of the 28th— [1712] April 28th when that issue came out.

Q. The morning of the 28th? A. Yes.

Q. Was that the time when he discussed with you what would go in the paper? A. Yes.

Q. Was that the time when he told you what should go in the paper? A. Yes.

Q. Then you wrote the various articles that were involved during the time that you talked to Harry Bridges at the end of that day, is that correct?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. That's correct.

Q. Now, is it your testimony that Harry Bridges had called you to O'Grady's office to discuss this?

A. No, not to O'Grady's office. We went up to the Labor New Dealer office and talked, because naturally we wouldn't talk these things in O'Grady's office.

Q. I see. Why did you say "naturally" you wouldn't discuss this in O'Grady's office?

A. In E. B. O'Grady's office?

Q. Yes.

A. Because whenever Bridges would talk to me about a thing like that, or anyone else there, the Communist line would naturally creep in by inference, at least, and it was [1713] no secret to anybody up there that Bridges was going to "get" O'Grady and we certainly wouldn't discuss how we felt about O'Grady in O'Grady's office.

Q. You felt at that time that the editorial and the article appearing because of Bridges' instructions to you in the Labor New Dealer were the Communist line on the Bridges' case, is that it?

A. Definitely.

Q. Did you feel that such article and editorial could only be approved by Communists?

A. Well, the lumber workers didn't like it.

Q. Could you answer the question, please?

A. I believe so, that it could only be approved by Communists.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Yes. Or would only be approved by Communists?

A. I don't see what that had to do with it.

Q. You are the one that gave the answer, that you couldn't discuss this article or editorial in O'Grady's presence.

A. Bridges didn't care to discuss it. I had nothing to do with it.

Q. Did Bridges tell you that he didn't want to discuss this in O'Grady's office?

A, Naturally not. He said "I will meet you up in the Labor New Dealer office". That's why we went up there. [1714] We could have just as easily have gone down on the floor below.

Q. What was your basis for stating that Bridges didn't want to discuss this in O'Grady's office?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, the witness didn't say that Bridges said that.

Mr. Grossman: I didn't say that Bridges said that, Mr. Del Guercio, if you will listen.

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, address the Court.

Mr. Grossman: I asked what his basis was for stating that. He stated it all right, this witness did, and I want to know his basis for stating it.

A. Because when we got up there Bridges said in the office "Now is the time"—and very emphatic about it—"That the Communists have got to step out and get going, and they can show their face now after the Supreme Court decision in Louisiana". He said, "Now we can 'shoot the works' ". That is what he said. He wasn't going to say that in front of O'Grady.

Q. You interpreted the article and editorial that Bridges told you you had to run as the Communists showing their face in Portland?

A. I certainly do, when he talked about the Portland Red Squad in the one article and all the people who they were supposed to be keeping to testify against him.

Q. When was the next time you met Harry Bridges? [1715]

A. I have never met Bridges from that day to this.

Q. How long have you held your present position? A. Since January.

Q. By whom are you employed?

A. By the Columbia River District Council No. 5 of the International Woodworkers of America, CIO.

Q. Isn't this the group in the IWA that has been fighting Harry Bridges for some time?

A. They have been fighting the Communist Party, because they believe Harry Bridges to be at the bottom of it on the West Coast.

Q. Isn't that the group that has been trying to get the removal of Harry Bridges from his position with the CIO?

A. I have no definite knowledge as to that. I know that they are definitely against Harry Bridges, but I have never heard of any concerted move to get him out of the CIO on their part.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Isn't this the group that was condemned as an anti-labor force by the 1940 and 1941 conventions of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the question. If the witness knows, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Of course, that is so. [1716]

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

A. I believe the longshoremen—Bridges' longshoremen did condemn them, yes.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. In the 1940 and the 1941 conventions?

A. I am not certain of that. I think they did, yes.

Q. Is this the group that has severed or taken steps to sever its affiliation from the International Woodworkers of America?

A. They have certainly done it since I left Portland, if they have.

Q. Have they taken any steps to sever their affiliation from the International Woodworkers of America?

A. They have asked Philip Murray, the head of the CIO, to do something about their international officers who are Communists, yes.

Q. Have they taken any steps to stop payment of dues to their International Union?

A. They have their own organizing committee at the present time. [1717]

Q. Could you answer this question, please: Have they taken any steps to discontinue, or have they discontinued these payments of dues to their International Union? A. Per capita tax; yes.

Q. You, yourself, are very hostile to Harry Bridges, are you not? A. I am, indeed.

Q. And you, yourself, are convinced that these policies of Harry Bridges are very bad for the labor movement?

A. I believe Harry Bridges is the greatest enemy the labor movement has.

Q. When was the first time you spoke to any representative of the FBI about giving a statement concerning Harry Bridges, or testifying in this hearing?

A. Well, I believe it was—I am not certain of the date—but I think it was last November.

Q. And what were the circumstances surrounding this meeting?

A. Well, as I recall, I went to the door and there they were, about eleven o'clock one night.

Q. Who was there?

A. A Mr. Coulter and Mr. Robey.

Q. Did you discuss this question with them at that time? A. I did.

Q. How long did the discussion last? [1718]

A. I believe half an hour.

Q. What was the first thing they said to you?

A. They wanted to know if I knew Harry Bridges.

Q. Did they ask what you knew about Harry Bridges? A. Yes.

Q. What did you tell them?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. I told them substantially what I have testified to here.

Q. What happened at the end of the conversation? A. At the end of it?

Q. Yes. A. They left.

Q. Was any arrangement made as to future meeting?

A. Yes. I was to go up to the Federal Court House and make a statement.

Q. Had they taken notes of the conversation?

A. No.

Q. When were you to go up there?

A. I believe I had some publicity to write and they said I could come up whenever I got through with it. I think that was about three days later.

Q. And you did go up at that time?

A. Yes.

Q. And you did sign a statement at that time?

A. I didn't sign a statement at that time. [1719]

Q. You gave a statement?

A. I gave a statement.

Q. Was any arrangement made about your coming back again? A. No.

Q. Who was present at this meeting, the one at the FBI office?

A. Mr. Coulter, Mr. Robey and a stenographer.

Q. Did you subsequently sign that statement?

A. Subsequently signed it; yes.

Q. When?

A. I think that was about a week later.

Q. Pardon?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. I believe that was about a week later.

Q. When you signed it did you have any discussion with them?

A. We discussed the Portland weather and that is about all.

Q. Nothing substantial about the case or Mr. Bridges? A. No; not anything in addition.

Q. Does this represent all the conferences you have had with representatives of the FBI on Bridges or the Bridges case?

A. On Bridges and the Bridges case?

Q. Yes. [1720]

A. Yes; that is all the discussion I have had with the exception of here.

Q. Have you ever had any discussion with Captain Keegan on Bridges or the Bridges case?

A. On Captain Keegan?

Q. With Captain Keegan.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that as having nothing to do with the issues in this case, as to who he discussed the matter with.

Presiding Inspector: I don't know whether it has or not. I will let him answer.

A. I never discussed the Bridges case with Captain Keegan.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you know Captain Keegan personally?

A. I have met Captain Keegan once.

Q. Did you ever discuss what you know about Bridges, or what you thought you knew about

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Bridges, with Mr. Norene or Mr. Bonham, of the Immigration Service?

A. I have never seen either one.

Q. Have you ever discussed the question of Bridges with Captain O'Dale or Mr. O'Dale, of the Portland Police Department?

A. I never have.

Q. Or with Mr. Brown of the Portland Police Department? [1721] A. No.

Q. Or with Mr. Mumpower, of the Portland Police Department? A. No.

Q. Did you ever discuss what you knew, or thought you knew, about Bridges or the Bridges case with Mr. Foss, of the Portland Longshoremen?

A. I have talked to Ed Foss about it; yes.

Q. When was the last time?

A. I don't think we have said anything about Bridges for a couple of weeks.

Q. How many different discussions have you had with him about Bridges?

A. Foss is a personal friend of mine. When we were talking things over about the labor movement why Bridges usually comes into it.

Q. Did you ever discuss with him whether you should testify against Bridges?

A. No. He asked me whether I was going to testify, but I didn't discuss with him whether I should.

Q. Did you ever discuss with him your possibly testifying against Bridges before the FBI men came to see you? A. No, I did not.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. At the time that this meeting you referred to in the Lennox Hotel took place, what was Harry Bridges' position in [1722] the CIO?

A. Well, he was Director.

Q. Pacific Coast Director? A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever given any written statement or affidavit to any other person concerning what you know about Harry Bridges and his possible Communist affiliation? A. I never have.

Q. Do you know a person named H. Wilmot, of Santa Cruz, California? A. I do not.

Q. Have you ever lived in Santa Cruz, California? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you quit your position with the WPA, or was it severed in some other way?

A. The Communists had me kicked out of it.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you were removed from WPA because of habitual drunkenness?

A. It is not true; definitely not true.

Q. Isn't it a fact that the WPA records show you were removed from WPA for habitual drunkenness?

A. The records of WPA show I was suspended for drunkenness, after having worked there for four years.

Q. Isn't it a fact that Harry Bridges, in discussing your work as Editor of Labor New Dealer, said that you would have [1723] to stop drinking so much or you couldn't remain editor of Labor New Dealer?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. I don't remember Bridges saying that; no.

Q. At the present time do you not have a lawsuit pending against the Labor New Dealer for money you claim is due you? A. I do; yes.

Mr. Grossman: No more questions.

Presiding Inspector: Anything further, Mr. Del Guercio?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes; a few questions.

Redirect Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Was Brost subsequently removed from office after this meeting that you described?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you hear Harry Bridges say anything about the removal of Brost subsequent to that meeting?

A. After the meeting in the Lennox Hotel?

Q. Yes. A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did Bridges discuss the necessity of removing Brost at that closed meeting in the auditorium?

A. No, no.

Q. Did you ever hear Bridges say in any speech that he made that it was necessary "to let his good friend, Johnny Brost, go?" [1724]

A. I recollect something like that, but I don't remember the date of the occurrence. Yes, by golly, that night at the auditorium he did say that; that it was necessary to let his good friend, Johnny Brost, go.

Q. Brost was subsequently removed?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

A. Yes.

Q. How long after the Lenpox Hotel meeting?

A. I asked Brost himself the other day, and he couldn't remember the exact date; so I certainly can't.

Q. Do you have any personal animosity toward Harry Bridges? A. Yes, I have.

Q. What has he done to you?

A. He hasn't done anything to me.

Q. What do you mean by "personal animosity?"

A. Well, I have spent most of my life in the labor movement. I think that I could learn to hate Mr. Bridges on the basis of his last longshore constitution they put over, as far as I am concerned.

Q. Does that in any way affect your testimony that you have given here? A. No, sir.

Q. Have you told the truth as to what occurred?

A. I have as far as I have been able; yes.

Q. Have you distorted anything? [1725]

A. I don't believe so; no.

Q. Would your animosity toward Bridges affect your testimony?

A. No, sir, I don't believe so.

Q. Do you know whether it would or not?

A. I know it would not. I wouldn't testify to anything that I didn't think was so just because I dislike the man.

Q. Has he ever done anything personally to you? A. No; definitely not.

Q. Have you ever done anything to him?

A. No.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. What is the basis of this animosity?

A. Well, as I recall, when I came out from Minnesota I thought Harry Bridges was a great labor leader, and that was one of the reasons why I wanted to come to the Coast. After I saw Mr. Bridges in action I began to doubt him; but I still thought I would go down the line as far as I could. I thought perhaps he might be right and I might be wrong. Gradually, because of the things I saw happening in the CIO, and good men who just wanted to work messed up with all this Communistic stuff, and everything, I began to think that they would be better off if there had never been a Bridges, as far as the labor movement was concerned. I saw what happened to my friend, Ed Foss, a longshoreman, and to Jimmy Brost. And I have seen such things going on and on, and I came to believe [1726] absolutely that there was no democracy about this man, Bridges, and he was just another dictator; and I don't believe there is a place in this country for dictators.

Q. You just don't like him, is that it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say that doesn't affect your testimony in any way? A. No, sir.

Q. What you have told is the truth—I will repeat that again. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, I believe that you mentioned the April 28th issue of the paper. As a matter of fact, isn't it the April 22nd issue?

A. I haven't seen one of those until you handed it to me here yesterday. I was under the impression that was April 28th.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. The impression I have may be wrong, but I think you stated it was April 28th.

Presiding Inspector: I think he said April 28th. Didn't you say that?

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. This article (indicating) appears in the issue of Friday, April 22nd.

A. I haven't seen one of those since I left there, [1727] until yesterday when you showed it to me. I saw the date wrong, I guess.

Q. And I also note that this statement from Clayton Van Lydegraf appears on page 4 of this issue. Is that the statement that you have been testifying about?

A. (Examining statement) Yes; that is the statement.

Q. Have you been promised anything by anybody, any person, group, for appearing here to testify?

A. No, sir. I think I lost my job by coming down here, is what I think.

Q. Has any Government Agent offered you any reward for appearing here to testify?

A. No, sir.

Presiding Inspector: Do you want to ask anything further?

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Are you a member of the American Newspaper Guild? A. I am not.

Mr. Del Guercio: I have other questions.

Mr. Grossman: Excuse me.

Presiding Inspector: I thought you had finished.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Wilmot, can you fix the date you joined the Communist Party?

A. No, I really can't. I believe it was in January or February, 1936. [1728]

Q. In any event, you are certain it was before you obtained this position on the Labor New Dealer?

A. Yes; because I never would have gotten it otherwise.

Mr. Del Guercio: That is all.

Presiding Inspector: Anything further?

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

Recross Examination

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Were you a member of the American Newspaper Guild at any time the last year?

A. No.

Q. Are you a member of any union now?

A. Yes.

Q. Which one?

A. Shipyard Workers, CIO.

Q. When did you become a member of that union? A. About three weeks ago.

(Testimony of Robert Patrick Wilmot.)

Q. Are you working in the industry.

A. No.

Mr. Grossman: That is all.

Presiding Inspector: Anything further, Mr. Del Guercio?

Mr. Del Guercio: No.

Mr. Grossman: One more question, if I may.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

By Mr. Grossman: [1729]

Q. Is Ed Foss Secretary of that Union?

A. He is temporary Secretary, I believe. I don't know whether they elected any regular officers or not; I don't believe they have.

Mr. Grossman: That is all.

Presiding Inspector: That is all.

Mr. Del Guercio: May the witness be excused?

Presiding Inspector: Yes; certainly.

(Witness excused.)

Presiding Inspector: We will take a short recess.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

Presiding Inspector: All right, Mr. Del Guercio.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will call the next witness.

Presiding Inspector: Very well.

Mr. Del Guercio: This witness is a little hard of hearing, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: Can you hear me?

Mr. St. Clair (Witness): Yes—but louder.

Presiding Inspector: Stand and raise your right hand.

RICHARD A. ST. CLAIR

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Presiding Inspector: Your name and address?

The Witness: Richard A. St. Clair—S-t. C-l-a-i-r.

Presiding Inspector: Your address? [1730]

The Witness: I haven't my glasses. Here it is.

(A paper with the address "13812 Budlong Street, Garden, California," was handed to the reporter.)

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Speak a little louder, please.

A. I can understand you.

Q. Will you speak out loud, please, so everybody can understand you—louder than you have been speaking.

A. I can hear what you are saying now.

Q. Will you speak louder?

A. I will; yes.

Q. Louder than you are now?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So everybody can hear you?

A. All right.

Presiding Inspector: Shout so the man down there (indicating) will hear you.

The Witness: All right.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What is your name?

A. Richard A. St. Clair.

Q. Where do you live?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. Los Angeles.

Q. What is your occupation now? [1731]

A. General laborer.

Q. Who do you work for?

A. For Mr. Kerr.

Q. K-e-r-r?

A. K-e-r-r, I believe it is. That is the name on this (indicating).

Q. How old are you?

A. 51 the 29th day of April.

Q. Where were you born?

A. 1890, in Kansas City, Kansas.

Q. And have you ever been a member of the Communist Party? A. I have.

Q. Where did you join the Communist Party?

A. I joined the Communist Party in the city of San Francisco in 1934, March.

Q. Did anyone ask you to join?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who?

A. A man by the name of Lawrence, a member of the Party.

Q. Lawrence?

A. That is his first name. I don't recall his last name.

Q. What did he say when he asked you to join the Communist Party?

A. Well, at that time I had been unemployed, out of work, [1732] and the Workers Ex-Service Men's League had a vacant lot down on Howard Street, between Third and Fourth Streets, and the

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair)

Communist Party had control of this lot. I used to attend meetings there every day, mass meetings of the Communist Party, that the Communist Party conducted, and the Workers Ex-Service Men's League, and it was at that lot where I was approached and asked to join the Communist Party. I did by filling out the application blank presented to me. That was about the middle of February of 1934. It was about three or four weeks later that I was called, notified to come to the Communist Party headquarters at 37 Grove Street.

Q. Under what name did you join the Communist Party?

A. I first joined the Communist Party under my true name, Richard A. St. Clair.

Q. Did you ever use any other name while a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes. I once dropped out of the Communist Party and I was requested to rejoin the Communist Party a second time by Elmer Hanoff, and another Party member by the name of Voicht.

Q. When was that?

A. That was in 1935, about three months after I had dropped out of the Party the first time.

I did not immediately rejoin the Communist Party until about the middle of 1935 [1733]

I had taken part in aiding the Communist Party on the waterfront in the 1934 longshore strike.

Q. Wait a minute. When you first joined the Communist Party that was in 1934?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. When I first joined the Communist Party; yes, sir.

Q. What did you do, if you did anything, for the Communist Party?

A. Well, I spoke at the Howard Street lot, between Third and Fourth Streets, agitating among the workers to give their moral and undivided support in behalf of the ILA longshoremen who were out on strike at that time. We took up collections for them.

I also went down to the picket line, aided the longshoremen, and spoke at Pier 48. At that time they had a big mass demonstration there. Henry Schmidt and John Shoemaker were there, and they spoke, and at the conclusion of their speaking I spoke to the longshoremen.

At that time I was on picket duty, assigned to the job by Harry Stroud, who was chief Captain of pickets for the old Marine Workers Industrial Union.

Q. Was he a member of the Communist Party too?

A. He was a member of the Communist Party too.

Q. How do you spell his name?

A. S-t-r-o-u-d.

Q. You mentioned Henry Schmidt. Was he a member of the [1734] Communist Party?

A. Henry Schmidt is a member of the Communist Party; yes.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. You say when you joined the Communist Party you went to 37 Grove Street?

A. I did.

Q. Did you ever work at 37 Grove Street for the Communist Party?

A. Yes. I worked at 37 Grove Street for the Communist Party as a guard of their headquarters there.

Q. Who gave you a job as guard at 37 Grove Street?

A. Well, the Party had received information that soon there were going to be raids staged on the Communist Party. A member of the Communist Party Control Board by the name of Ed Harris, who was President of the A. F. of L. Machinists' Union, he was assigned the task to go around and visit all of the Communist Party Units on that particular Thursday night. We all had to take our papers, and everything out of our pockets, and lay them on the desk for Ed Harris to examine those papers, to see if we had the names or addresses of any of our party members, or anybody else, and he warned us not to carry the names of anybody around, or the addresses, because there soon was to be some raids staged against the Communists.

We followed those instructions.

Q. Now, how long did you work as guard at 37 Grove [1735] Street?

A. I was at 37 Grove Street for about three or four months as a guard.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Were there any other guards employed?

A. Yes; there were other guards there. Ed Harris instructed the organizer of each unit of the Communist Party in the City of San Francisco, for the membership to select one member from each unit to be sent up to the Communist Party headquarters at 37 Grove Street to act as a guard to protect their property against any raids that they expected to be staged at that time.

Q. How many such guards were there?

A. Well, they could only muster about four or five guards. The members of the Communist Party in the city were afraid to volunteer for guard service at Party headquarters and they had to depend upon the membership of the Marine Workers Industrial Union to send its members up there for patrol and guard duty. There were at least about 15 to 19 members of the Marine Workers Industrial Union that came up there to act as guards. [1736]

Q. That 37 Grove Street, that was the Communist party headquarters, was it not?

A. That was the Communist Party headquarters at that time; yes sir.

Q. Now, were you given any guns?

A. Yes, we were supplied with guns. But first we had no guns and had to depend on base ball bats, which was supplied by the Communist Party.

Q. Who gave you the guns?

A. Just a minute! I am arriving at that now. And we members in front of that place were not satisfied with the use of base ball bats, and I went to Sam Darcy and insisted that we be provided with guns. Sam Darcy did not have the money in his pocket at that time. He went to Jeff Goodman, who was book agent for the Communist Party, on the lower floor of 37 Grove Street and Sam Darcy says "How much will a gun cost?" I told him I thought it cost somewhere around $12.00. He said, "Jeff, let this fellow have $12.00 to get a gun with." So Jeff Goodman gave Sam Darcy $12.00. Sam Darcy hands the money to me and Bill Green was standing right there, and I asked Bill if he would accompany me down to the pawn shop to get the gun. He said "Yes". So he accompanied me down to the pawn shop and I selected the gun, which the salesman asked $12.50 for at that time. But I only had the $12.00. He says, "Well, I will let you have it for the $12.00."

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

[1737]

Q. What kind of a gun was that that you got?

A. 12-gauge automatic.

Q. Under what name did you buy it?

A. I bought that gun in the late part of 1934 at 77 Third Street.

Q. What name?

A. Richard S. St. Clair, but gave a false address.

Q. You gave a false address?

A. A false address, yes, sir.

Q. Who told you to give a false address?

A. Well, at the time I signed my name to that slip of paper there I come nearer putting down 37 Grove Street, but upon second thought I had better not. So I told to Bill Greene, I said, "Bill, what is that address where we left?" I though he might have supplied the address. "Well," the salesman said, "put down anything. It don't make any difference." So I put down a false address.

Q. Now, how long were you employed as a guard at 37 Grove Street?

A. Oh, about two or three months.

Q. Were you given any salary?

A. Given ten cents a day, and I took that ten cents to buy my breakfast with.

Q. Did you have any other employment during that time?

A. None. I had no employment at that time.

[1738].

Q. How were you able to live, exist on ten cents a day?

A. Well, at that time the City and County of San Francisco had a soup kitchen established on Ritch Street, and we would go down there at four o'clock in the evening—in the afternoon to get a lunch. But if we stayed at the shelter supplied by the City and County of San Francisco, we had beds there. But because of my being on duty at the Communist Party headquarters at night time I did not use that bed. But I know that that bed was kept vacant during my absence, and when I returned I re-occupied my same bed again.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. How many hours a day did you work as guard there at 37 Grove Street for ten cents a day?

A. Well, I put in all night long. I wasn't there in the afternoon, but returned to be there to take over after the office had closed.

Q. Do you remember when the Communist Party moved their headquarters from 37 Grove Street?

A. On or about June the 10th, 1935.

Q. And where did they go?

A. They moved from 37 Grove Street to 121 Haight Street.

Q. And did you go there to 121 Haight Street as a guard also?

A. I was employed by Elmer Hanoff to be a guard there [1739] at the Communist Party headquarters at 121 Haight Street.

Q. And for how long a period did you remain as guard at 121 Haight Street?

A. I was there from June the 10th, the very first that the Communist Party headquarters moved into there, up to about December the 1st; right around about that date.

Q. Did you have any gun there?

A. Yes. We had guns there.

Q. Did you have more than one?

A. We had more than the one that I had first purchased because I was given additional sum of money to go and buy another gun, and I bought a 12-gauge automatic, free shot, and this gun I purchased at a small sporting goods shop at Market and Gough Street near the corner. And I signed my name, a Party name of Burt Barrett. When I rejoined the Communist Party again the second time I went in under the name of "Burt Barrett".

Q. Who gave you the money to buy the second gun?

A. I went to Elmer Hanoff and insisted on having money to get another gun, and Elmer Hanoff instructed Catherine McKee to give me the money. And she gave me $9.00 and I went down to this sporting goods shop and bought the gun.

Q. Do you know Harry Bridges.

A. Yes. I do know Harry Bridges. He is siting in the chair right there (indicating).

Q. Is that him over there? [1740]

A. That's Harry Bridges, right there (indicating).

Q. Did you ever see him——

Presiding Inspector (interposing): You haven't any doubt about that, have you?

The Witness: What is that?

Presiding Inspector: You haven't any doubt about that?

The Witness: Oh, none at all. No sir. None at all.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Did you ever see him at 121 Haight Street?

A. Oh, yes. I have saw Harry Bridges at 121 Haight Street.

Q. How many times? A. Several times.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. On what occasion did you see him the first time? That is, when was that, about?

A. Well, the first time Harry Bridges came there he appeared by himself, the first time.

Q. Were you acting as guard then?

A. I was.

Q. Did he come to you?

A. He didn't come to me, no. He knows his ropes.

Q. He knows his what?

A. He knows the ropes. He didn't have to come to me.

Q. Did you let him in?

A. I didn't have to let him in. The doors is open to [1741] the public to go into the building.

Q. Do you know where he went?

A. He went to Schneidermann's office, Elmer Hanoff's office.

Q. Did you see him go up there?

A. I didn't see him go up there. I saw him after he was in the building.

Q. Do you know where Schneidermann's office is? A. I do.

Q. Where is it in that building?

A. I had access to every office in the building.

A. Do you know where Elmer Hanoff's office was? A. Yes, sir; I do.

Q. Did anybody but Communists occupy offices in that building?

A. They are all known Communists that occupy offices in that building and known to the public as Communists.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. When did he come there the next time?

A. Well, I couldn't give you the exact date because I want to explain it to you: That I had a confidential position and I knew that it was unsafe for me to carry names, addresses or anything around my person or in my possession there at Communist Party headquarters because my suit case and clothes had been rifled several times, and I knew then that some of the Communists executives were searching my effects to see if I possessed any information concerning any of the mem- [1742] bers or any of the activities of the Party. For that reason I could not keep dates there or persons at the Communist Party headquarters or anybody else, but I memorized it.

Q. Did any official of the Communist Party, Elmer Hanoff or Sam Darcy or Elaine Black or anyone else give you any instructions about Harry Bridges?

A. Well, I will tell you. At one particular time in May of 1936 Harry Bridges, Henry Schmidt and John Schomacker arrived at the Communist Party headquarters at 121 Haight Street. By the time of their arrival I was downstairs doing some work in the basement, but I left my work to make my rounds of the Communist Party headquarters, which was my duty to see if there was any strangers or anybody around in the building. And in performing my services there I went into the top floor on the third floor and I observed Harry Bridges, Henry Schmidt and John Schomacker of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union sitting at a table and Elmer Hanoff, Schneidermann, Walter Lambert and Lawrence Ross were all sitting down at a table with papers before them holding a conference.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Did you hear anything that was said?

A. Wait a minute! No. I did not hear anything that was said. After I recognized them I went back downstairs. And then after Harry Bridges—they had been there about two hours or two hours and a half, and after Harry Bridges then [1743] had left, after the meeting was over, I was downstairs at the foot of the stairway there, sitting in the chair for the purpose of keeping anyone from going upstairs to observe Harry Bridges, Henry Schmidt and John Schomacker. After the meeting was over they came downstairs from the top floor. Harry Bridges goes into the office of Henry Schneidermann; Henry Schmidt, John Schomacker goes into the office of Hanoff, and they were in there just about two or three minutes. Harry Bridges come out first and went on out of the building, to be followed a moment later by Henry Schmidt and a moment later by Schomacker, and after they had left I objected to Hanoff about Harry Bridges' presents at Communist Party headquarters.

Q. By "presents" you mean "presence"?

A. Yes. He said, "What's the matter?" I said, "Remember, Hanoff, there are about two guards there at this building," and I said, "Harry

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Bridges has time and again denied that he was a Communist," and I said, "If seeing eyes observed Harry Bridges, Henry Schmidt and Schomacker at this building and it becomes known to the public," I says, "There may be a raid on this building here and we two boys would get our heads busted open".

Hanoff says, "Bridges is all right. Bridges is all right. He is one of us."

I says "Do you mean by that that Harry Bridges is a [1744] Party member?", He says "Yes". He says "Keep your mouth shut". He says, "Don't say anything to no one about this".

I said, "Hell, no! I won't, Hanoff". I said "We should be proud to have a fellow like Harry Bridges in the Party."

Then I went on with my work and Hanoff went on in his office.

Q. You spoke about another guard. Who was the other guard?

A. The other guard was Gus Wilkie.

Q. Gus Wilkie?

A. Yes. I hope I am making it plain to everybody in this building, so there will not be any misunderstanding.

Q. Did you ever see Bridges at 121 Haight Street any other time?

A. Yes. He came there at the Communist Party headquarters. A mass meeting was going on there. It was open to the public. It was some kind of affair where they served meals and lunches. Harry Bridges come in there about ten o'clock at night and I was on duty at the door. I realized that Harry Bridges was coming into a place jammed with people, so I stopped him at the door. I said, "Harry, do you want to see somebody here? Walter Lambert?" He said, "Yes, I want to see Walter Lambert".

I said, "Wait until I get Lambert".

So Harry Bridges waited at the main doorway, the entrance to the auditorium. So I retired to the dining room [1745] and made contact with Walter Lambert. I said "Lambert, Harry Bridges is out there and wants to see you". Lambert come out right away to meet Harry Bridges. But I remained in the dining room and Walter Lambert returned to where I was at in the dining room, and he said "Let us upstairs, will you?"

So I went with Walter Lambert and opened the door. I let Harry Bridges and Walter Lambert go upstairs to the office. How long they had been up there I don't know, because when I started out to make my rounds at 11:00 o'clock at night upstairs the front door bars were all down, the door was open and anybody could walk in. The place was unguarded up there because both of us guards were down on the main auditorium.

Q. When was that?

A. That was in 1936.

Q. Do you remember the month?

A. I believe it was right around at about—I think it was sometime in March, I believe. I can't give exact dates.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Did you see him there any other time?

A. Oh, he has been there four or five times to my knowledge, but I paid no attention to him. He has been there five times that I know of, but I paid no attention to him.

Q. Had you been given any instructions about keeping anybody from that place, 121 Haight Street?

A. I was given instructions there to observe the faces of any people coming into that building there, and if I knew [1746] them to be strangers and they were nosing around, to inquire of their purpose there. If they were looking for someone in the office there it would be my place to direct them to the office. But after the building was closed, that was another thing. Anybody who attempted to force their way in there, we were to use firearms.

Q. After the building was closed could anybody but a Communist get into that place?

A. Nobody but a Communist could get into that place after the building was closed, and if we knew them to be a member of the Communist Party we would open the door and find out what their admission was.

Q. Did Harry Bridges ever try to get in there after the building was closed? A. No.

Q. What? A. No.

Q. Did you ever see him come in there?

A. Oh, I haven't seen him come in there, but I have seen him after he has been in the building.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. But you never saw him come in there after the building was closed?

A. No, except this one time that Harry Bridges called there that night, this Party affair. The main building was closed to the public, but the auditorium was the only part of the building that was open to the public except that I had to open the door to let Harry Bridges and Walter Lambert go up- [1747] stairs to his office. And that's the only time I ever saw Harry Bridges in the main part of the building after it was closed.

Q. There was nothing going on there at that time, was there?

A. Not at that time there was. He come to see him, but the following day Walter Lambert never showed up and he was absent from the place for about two weeks. The next morning after Harry Bridges called here, they were having some trouble on the San Pedro waterfront. I imagine that was where Harry Bridges and Walter Lambert went to.

Q. We don't want to know about that now. Did you ever see Bridges there at other times than the occasions you mentioned?

A. Oh, he could have been there several times without my knowledge. Yes, he could have, because there was other work to carry on in the building. That was a large building.

Q. How much were you getting at 121 Haight Street?

A. At 121 Haight Street I received the grand

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

sum of $5.00 a week, and compelled to pay all my own expenses out of that money: laundry, food and everything.

Q. Were you doing any other kind of work?

A. Anything to be done around there; cleaning up the building. [1748]

Q. No. I mean, anywhere else? Did you have any other income at that time?

A. No. No other income coming at that time. No, sir.

Q. Have you ever been arrested, Mr. St. Clair?

A. Oh, yes. I have been arrested for helping that boy there to carry on that labor movement, yes.

Q. How many times have you been arrested?

A. Well, I was arrested during the 1934 raids and I believe I spent something like 42 days in jail, and was one of those on that hunger strike. And I was also arrested again at the City Auditorium at the time of the American Federation of Labor holding their convention here in 1934. I was assigned the special job by Sam Darcy himself to distribute Communist labor leaflets to the delegates to the A. F. of L. Convention, and I was arrested at that time.

Q. Have you ever been a member of the Marine Workers Industrial Union?

A. I never have, no. But I have carried the buttons, been supplied with buttons bearing the Marine Workers Industrial Union.

Q. Who supplied them?

A. This here Harry Stroud.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Who is he? Is he a Communist Party member?

A. He is a member of the Communist Party. I spoke of him earlier at the beginning of the hearing. He is a member of the Communist Party and he supplied me with those Marine [1749] Worker's Industrial Union buttons to give me authority to go on the picket lines.

Q. All of these arrests, which you mentioned, were they in connection with Communist Party demonstrations?

A. Yes. These arrests were connected with the Communist Party demonstrations.

Q. Have you ever been convicted of any crime?

A. Not while I was a member of the Communist Party.

Q. At any time?

A. At any other time? I have been convicted of a crime.

Q. What? A. At Lakeport County.

Q. For what?

A. Well, at that time I had been employed some time in June. The old ILA under the leadership of Harry Bridges had purchased a camp up at Lower Lake, California, at Lakeport County and this camp was supposed to belong to the ILA. But, in fact, Communists run that camp there and I was recommended as a caretaker of that camp by a member of the Communist Party by the name of B. F. Rosenfeld. And we were engaged by a one Gus Brown. That is, that was supposed to be his name, but I doubt if it is his true name. Gus Brown.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. What were you arrested for?

A. At that time I just returned from burying my mother [1750] at Kansas City, Kansas and was re-assigned to the camp again in 1937. And we was arrested up there for being drunk, and there was some shooting down there that night and I called to the Sheriff in order to have a man arrested there who had a rifle in the rear end of my car, and he threatened to use it on Gus Wilkie. I called the Sheriff, but the Sheriff went to work and arrested all of us. I received 75 days.

Q. On what charge, do you know?

A. Disturbing the peace.

Q. Have you ever been arrested at any other time? A. I have been arrested for drunk.

Q. Have you ever been on relief?

A. I have been on relief; yes, sir.

Q. How many times and when?

A. I have been on relief off and on several times. Here in San Francisco when I wasn't on relief, why, I would be working at the Communist Party headquarters or I would be working on the WPA or the PWA.

Q. I believe I asked you this, Mr. St. Clair. How long did you work as a guard at 121 Haight Street?

A. I put in about a year and a half there all told.

Q. You started there when? A. What?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. You started working there as a guard when?

A. When the Communist Party first moved into the head- [1751] quarters there. I believe it was sometime in June.

Q. What year? A. 1935.

Q. And you stayed there, you say, about a year and a half?

A. About a year and a half all told I was there at the Communist Party headquarters.

Q. Until about 1936?

A. Yes. I was there in 1936, yes.

Q. Until the end of the year in 1936?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you quit?

A. I quit in the late part of June. Yes, I quit in the late part of June.

Q. '36 or '37? A. '36.

Mr. Del Guercio: '36. You may cross examine.

Presiding Inspector: You have the witness:

Cross Examination

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. St. Clair, can you hear me?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you hear me now? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have a pretty good memory, haven't you? [1752] A. How is that?

Q. You have a pretty good memory?

A. Pretty good.

Q. Pretty good for dates, too?

A. Well, not for dates; not up there at that place.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Good for faces?

A. Not altogether, because I couldn't keep the dates and I regret I can't supply them.

Q. You put the dates in your mind?

A. I couldn't keep the dates in my mind, but close enough to it to know as well as to know these men and what happened and what took place there.

Q. Now, you say you saw Harry Bridges up there only five times?

A. I have saw Harry Bridges four or five times.

Q. Could it be more than that?

A. It could have been more than that, yes, because I would be busy in other parts of the building.

Q. Could it be you saw him there maybe ten times?

A. Oh, I couldn't say I saw him there ten times.

Q. You couldn't say it?

A. No. Four or five times I said.

Q. When was the first time?

A. Well, the first time was 1935; in the late fall of 1935.

Q. Well, when is "the late fall?" What month would [1753] you say?

A. Well, I would say somewheres along about September; the late part of September, yes.

Q. Is there anything that happened at that time that helps you say September? Can you remember something that makes you able to say September?

A. Well, because of the strike troubles that happened there on the waterfront, and it was my impression that Harry Bridges was up there at that time to get some information and instructions.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. That is in September of 1935? A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now, that is the first time you saw him? A. That was the first time.

Q. Do you remember what time of day it was?

A. What time of day? Oh, no.

Q. Can you tell we whether it was in the morning or in the afternoon at night?

A. In the afternoon.

Q. In the afternoon?

A. But I can't tell you what time, just what time it was.

Q. In the middle of the afternoon?

A. It was some time in the afternoon.

Q. Do you remember whether it was a week day or a Sunday? [1754]

A. It was a week day, not a Sunday.

Q. You didn't work there on Sunday?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. Oh, you did?

A. Twenty-four hours a day. I lived there and slept there.

Q. Every day of the week?

A. Every day of the week I was there; yes, sir.

Q. All right. Well, where did you see him on that occasion? Where was he when you saw him?

A. Coming out of Hanoff's office.

Q. And where was that office?

A. Hanoff's, you come up the second floor, third door from the right as you get to the top of the stairway and then turn into Catherine McKee's office and then into Hanoff's.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. What were you doing there at the time?

A. I was a guard.

Q. You were acting as a guard?

A. "Acting"? I was not "acting" as a guard. I was a guard.

Q. You were the guard. Were your duties to be a guard twenty-four hours of the day and night?

A. Any and all hours of the day that it required it.

Q. Well, were your instructions to be a guard all through the day and the night? [1755]

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have any other duties?

A. Any other duties that was necessary to be done around there; janitor work, and I cleaned up their offices and the auditorium. And there was some more information. I was to go and help to build and reinforce the building, the doors and windows for protection against raids.

Q. Then you were a janitor also as well as a guard? A. Oh, everything.

Q. Did you have a regular routine? Do you understand what I mean?

A. No, we didn't have it, a regular routine. No, we didn't.

Q. You didn't do regular things at certain hours of the day? A. No.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. How often would you clean up the offices?

A. Every evening; sometimes I did not finish in the evening. I would do it in the morning.

Q. Anything else you would do there besides guard and janitor?

A. Yes. I would be sent out on missions for the Party.

Q. I see. How often would you be sent out?

A. Whenever it was necessary. I was sent out four or five times. [1756]

Q. Four or five times what? Every day or every week? A. Every day; week days.

Q. Every day? A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right. Now, at the first time that you saw Mr. Bridges was there anyone else there?

A. No, he was by himself at that time.

Q. He was alone?

A. At this time that I am speaking of that I first saw him there.

Q. Did you say something to him? A. No.

Q. Did he talk to you?

A. No, he didn't talk to me.

Q. No words at all? A. No words at all.

Q. All right. Where did he go?

A. Hanoff's office.

Q. He went into Hanoff's office?

A. Yes, sir. That's where he come from. I didn't see him go in. I saw him coming out.

Q. You saw him coming out?

A. That is right.

Q. Where did he go when he came out?

A. I saw him leave the building. [1757]

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. You saw him leave the building?

A. I saw him leave the building.

Q. Downstairs? A. Downstairs.

Q. Were the doors of that building open?

A. Open to the public.

Q. Anybody could walk in and out?

A. Anybody could walk in and out.

Q. Was there a sign on the outside of the building?

A. Yes. There was a sign there, but I don't believe there was any—no, there was no letters on it at that time.

Q. What was on the sign?

A. It was a sign on there that was there when they bought the building.

Q. I mean, at the time that you saw Harry Bridges there in September of 1935—that's the time I want to talk about—did they have a sign in front of the building then?

A. Wait just a moment! Well, I'll tell you. I can't say that they had a sign up there at that particular date because they have had several signs on the front and I have aided in putting them up.

Q. What kind of signs did you aid in putting up there?

A. Well, the signs—one sign was in 1935. I believe they had some kind of a union sign up there during the election campaign. [1758]

Q. Do you remember anything at all about that sign? Did it say what? "Communist Party" or something like that?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. No. No "Communist Party" on that sign at the time.

Q. Was there any sign on the building showing it was the Communist Party headquarters?

A. At a later date there was a sign put up on that building showing that it was the Communist Party headquarters and a Party member by the name of Fossey, he is supposed to be one of the charter members of the Communist Party, and he does much sign painting for the Communist Party even while he is on relief, and he was engaged to paint that sign. But he stated that he was too heavy for climbing up that scaffold there to paint that sign, and another Party member painted the sign.

Q. Was that right after the Communist Party went into those headquarters?

A. Oh, no. I guess the Communist Party had been in those headquarters almost a year before that sign was painted.

Q. Were the doors to the building open?

A. The doors to the building were open all hours of the day after beginning at 9:00 o'clock, when it was open to the public. But before that it was not open to the public.

Q. Was there any effort made, Mr. St. Clair, to hide the fact that this was the Communist Party headquarters?

A. No. There was no attempt made to hide the fact. They advertised that. [1759]

Q. They had what?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. They advertised that, yes.

Q. All right. That's the first time, September, 1935, that you saw Bridges? A. Yes.

Q. When is the next time?

A. Well, I can't give you exactly.

Q. Not exact. Your best judgment.

A. It was in the spring of 1936 when he was there again.

Q. What month?

A. I will say sometime in March. I will say it was sometime in March.

Q. Where did you see him?

A. I saw him coming down the stairway that particular time, because I had just come up from doing some work in the basement auditorium and I was coming up the steps and Harry Bridges was coming down.

Q. Did you see whose office he came out of?

A. No. I don't know whose office he came out of at that time.

Q. Who was he with?

A. He was by himself.

Q. Did you talk to him? A. No.

Q. Did he talk to you? A. No, sir. [1760]

Q. What did he do?

A. I don't know what he done. He went out of the building.

Q. That was the second time?

A. That was the second time.

Q. When was the next time that you saw him?

A. The next time I saw Harry Bridges there was in company with Henry Schmidt and John Schomacker.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. When was that?

A. Well, that was sometime in May, the early part of May, I believe, or the middle of May.

Q. Of what year? A. 1936.

Q. Let me go back for just a minute. The first time you saw Bridges, you recognized his face?

A. Oh, sure.

Q. You knew who he was?

A. I knew who he was.

Q. His picture has been in the papers lots, hasn't it?

A. The first time I ever saw Harry Bridges was sometime during the 1934 strike when he was supposed to make his appearance down there to make a report to the longshoremen, but he was late in reporting there and during that absence, why, Dave Fleck got up on the stand down there and began to [1761] speak to the strikers, asking for support from the ILD and financial support and support of lawyers for defending the workers who may be arrested, and that was the first time I ever saw Harry Bridges' face, when he later arrived there then to make an announcement to the longshoremen that they had made no headway there at the proceedings there before the shipowners, and they were just going back and forth.

Q. All right. Now, you say you saw him the third time now. What is the date of that again?

A. The third time is the time in May when he was accompanied with Henry Schmidt and John Schomacker.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Where did you see him?

A. I saw him on the top floor, the third floor of the Communist headquarters.

Q. In what part of the third floor?

A. The top floor.

Q. Well, I know, but was it in the office or corridor?

A. No, it was no office at all. It was a place that we had there to rent out to any groups associated with the Communist Party. If they wanted to have any affairs there or any meetings or anything of that kind, why, we would rent those rooms to them. This room that he was in at that time adjoined right on to my kitchen. Now, a section of that room has been taken and closed for a kitchen where I did my cooking.

Q. It was a sort of assembly room? [1762]

A. It was the same as a reception room.

Q. A reception room?

A. Yes. It would be rented for that purpose, and many times the Young Communists would hold meetings there.

Q. Were the doors closed?

A. The doors were closed at that time.

Q. What did you do?

A. I opened the doors because I was making my rounds of the building to see that everything was all right.

Q. Tell us what you did.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. I started to walk in there and I observed Harry Bridges, Henry Schmidt and John Schomacker and William Schneidermann, Walter Lambert and Lawrence Ross and Elmer Hanoff all sitting there at the table. So I went out the door.

[1763]

Q. Any others there?

A. There was nobody else upstairs.

Q. Were the doors locked?

A. No. If they were I possessed the keys to unlock them.

Q. Did you unlock any doors? A. No.

Q. How many doors were there to that room?

A. Well, I will tell you. Let me have a piece of paper, please. I will give you a demonstration on that so there won't be a mistake.

(Witness making sketch on piece of paper.)

Q. Are you ready—how many doors were there?

A. All right.

Q. How many doors?

A. Well, there is a large sliding door that takes up 12 foot, and I don't know whether you would call that one or six doors. There were, I would say, about six sections to that door. It slides back and forth. We will call that one piece because it is in one section, but there are about six sections to that door.

Q. That is one big door?

A. Yes. Here is a door, a large double door here. (Indicating on sketch).

Q. That is another large double door. [1764]

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. Yes. That is a large door. That is where Bridges entered this room (indicating on sketch.) Right here in this corner was a table. Harry Bridges was sitting here. Next to him was Henry Schmidt. Over here was John Schomacker. And sitting at this table was Elmer Hanoff, Schneiderman, Walter Lambert was here, and Lawrence Ross was here.

Q. That is the exact positions?

A. That is the exact positions they were sitting in. You have got it right; yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: Are you going to offer that sketch in evidence?

Mr. Gladstein: We will get to that later.

A. (Continuing) Here is a small door here that leads to the fire escape. That was bolted.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you talk to them? A. No.

Q. Did they talk to you?

A. No, no; nothing was said at all.

Q. You took a look at them and you left?

A. That is right.

Q. Now, will you tell me again where they were sitting so we can mark this—you mark it the way you want.

A. All right. This was a round table, now, mind you, [1765] that they were sitting at; a round table. It was in this corner right here.

Q. Who was sitting nearest to the corner?

A. Nearest to the corner was John Schomacker and Lawrence Ross.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. You are sure of that?

A. I am sure of it; positive.

Q. Put them in there.

A. Lawrence Ross right here.

Q. Let's mark that. A. All right.

Mr. Del Guercio: He is marking it.

Mr. Gladstein: It doesn't mean anything unless a man is put there. Do you want to come over and watch this?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: He is putting a mark on it, but nobody knows what the mark means, "Lawrence Ross."

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Where was Ross sitting?

A. Ross was sitting at this table.

Mr. Del Guercio: Put on "R" there.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Is that right?

A. That is right. Right here is where John Schomacker was sitting. [1766]

Q. Which one?

A. Sitting right here on the right.

Q. Here? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Put an "S" there.

A. All right. Here sat Henry Schmidt.

Q. Henry Schmidt? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Put "Sch" there.

A. Yes. Right here was Harry Bridges.

Q. You are sure of that?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. I am sure of it; yes, sir.

Q. He was sitting right there?

A. Sitting right here; at this place right here.

Q. Who was he next to?

A. Wait a minute—this was a straight bench that all three of these boys were sitting on. It was up against the wall. It was a round table with a straight bench of about 7 feet long, maybe 8 feet long.

Q. They were all sitting on the bench?

A. Ross was sitting on a short bench at this end. Waiter Lambert, Schneiderman and Hanoff were sitting in chairs.

Q. How many benches were they sitting on?

A. Two benches.

Q. Who was sitting on the one bench? [1767]

A. Lawrence Ross.

Q. All by himself? A. Yes.

Q. And all the others were sitting on the other bench?

A. Not all of the others. Harry Bridges, Henry Schmidt and John Schomacker were sitting on the same bench.

Q. Wait a minute. Listen to me.

A. I am listening.

Q. You say Lawrence Ross was sitting on a bench? A. To himself; yes.

Q. All by himself on that bench? A. Yes.

Q. All right. Then you say that Bridges, Schmidt and Schomacker were sitting on another bench? A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Where were the others sitting?

A. The others were sitting on chairs at the side. Elmer Hanoff was sitting next to Harry Bridges. Isn't that right, Harry?

Presiding Inspector: Just answer the questions.

The Witness: I am speaking the truth here; these are facts.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. "H" stands for Hanoff, is that right?

A. Right; right here next to Harry Bridges. Right [1768] here sat Schneiderman.

Q. Schneiderman—we will put "Schn" for him.

A. Right. Here is Walter Lambert.

Q. We will put "L" for Walter Lambert. Put Bridges in there?

A. He is sitting right up here.

Q. Draw a line there and put "B" there.

A. Yes. I will put my glasses on.

Q. Is that right?

A. That is correct: Harry Bridges right here, Schmidt there, Schomacker there, Lawrence Ross here, Walter Lambert here, Schneiderman here, Hanoff here.

Q. Is that exactly the way they were sitting?

A. That is the truth.

Q. Did you take a good look at Bridges?

A. Did I take a look at him? I recognized him because I knew him.

Q. Did you take a good look at him?

A. I didn't take a good look; no.

Q. You recognized him?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. I certainly recognized him; that is correct.

Q. Did you notice anything unusual about him?

A. Well, yes, I did. I recognized something unusual about his appearance there.

Q. What was it? [1769]

A. Because of the fact that he has often made denials to the public and to labor as a whole, that he was a Communist and accusing them of dragging out the red herring.

Q. This struck you as unusual?

A. Yes, sir. After they left the building and the meeting, I complained to Elmer Hanoff about Bridges appearing there at the Party headquarters.

Q. At that time you complained to Elmer Hanoff?

A. At that particular time I complained to him; yes.

Q. What did you say to Elmer Hanoff?

A. I said that I objected, and didn't like to have Harry Bridges coming around there to the Party headquarters.

He said, "Why?"

I said, "Because Harry Bridges has too often denied that he is a member of the Party." And I said, "If Bridges is seen coming in and out of here, and that becomes known to the public, there may be a raid here on the place because there are only two of us guards here to protect this property." It was a big building to be protected.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Elmer Hanoff says, "Bridges is all right; Bridges is all right. He is one of us."

I said to Hanoff, I said, "What do you mean, that Bridges is a Party member?"

He said, "Yes. Keep your mouth shut; keep your mouth shut; say nothing to no one about it."

[1770]

Then I said "Hell, no." I says, "We will be glad to have Harry Bridges as a member of the Party."

Q. Is that what you said?

A. That is what I said at that time; yes.

Q. Now, did you see Bridges leave the building that day?

A. Yes, sir, I saw Harry Bridges leave the building that day.

Q. Where were you when you saw him?

A. I was sitting in a chair down at the head of the stairway on the second floor for the purpose of keeping Party members, or anyone else, from going upstairs and observing Bridges' presence in the building.

Q. In other words, who told you to go down there and guard the door, anybody?

A. Nobody; nobody. I used my head.

Q. You used your own head? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You didn't want anybody to see Bridges in that building? A. No.

Q. Is that right? A. That is right.

Q. How long did you sit there guarding the door?

A. I was there every bit of two hours. I had been [1771] sitting down on the steps right there. They had some kind of a pad down on the stairs. It felt cool to me so I went to Catherine McKee's office and got a chair and got out there in front of the stairway and sat on that chair and waited until after the meeting was over. I was there two hours or two hours and a half.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. What floor was that?

A. The second floor that I was sitting on; just in front of Catherine McKee's office.

Q. What time of day was it?

A. That was in the afternoon; it was about 2:30 or 3:00 o'clock when Harry Bridges and them came down.

Q. When they came down? A. Yes.

Q. How long had they been upstairs?

A. For two hours, or two hours and a half, as I estimated it. I had begun to get tired occupying the position there, but I decided that I would stay and stick it out.

Q. All right. A. It was my duty.

Q. Yes. When they started coming down did you see them?

A. Oh, yes. I was there at the head of the stairway. That is what I have been telling you.

Q. Tell us what you said? [1772]

A. After the meeting was over Elmer Hanoff was the first down.

Q. You are sure he was the first one down?

A. I know he was because he stopped and pointed me out to the rest of the boys there.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. What did he say?

A. I don't know what he said.

Q. You saw him point you out?

A. Yes; to them.

Q. To the rest of them?

A. To the rest of those. Behind Elmer Hanoff was Harry Bridges, Henry Schmidt, John Schomacker, Schneiderman, Lawrence Ross, Walter Lambert and——

Q. (Interposing): You remember he pointed at you?

A. Yes. I happened to look up because I moved my chair out of the way to give them the right of way to come down. I was looking up and saw Hanoff point me out to them. What he said I don't know.

Q. Then what happened?

A. Then Hanoff goes to his office, and Henry Schmidt and John Schomacker—I mean, Harry Bridges and Schneiderman, goes into his office, and Henry Schmidt and John Schomacker goes into Elmer Hanoff's office. The first one to come out from those two offices was Harry Bridges who came out of Schneiderman's office and he left the building. Then a moment [1773] later Henry Schmidt comes out, and about the same time Schomacker comes out. They left singly, but where they went to or in which direction I don't know.

Q. How long were Bridges, Schomacker and Schmidt in these private offices, do you remember?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. Oh, about two minutes; maybe three minutes.

Q. And then who was the first one to come down the stairs? A. Harry Bridges.

Q. He came down all by himself?

A. Out of Schneiderman's office, and went downstairs by himself.

Q. Did he say anything to you? A. No.

Q. Did you say anything to him?

A. No; I had no reason to.

Q. You didn't tell him that he shouldn't be coming in this building? A. No.

Q. You told that to Hanoff?

A. Yes; that is correct.

Q. How soon afterward did you tell that to Hanoff?

A. Right away—just as soon as he was out of the building—I told Hanoff right on the threshold of the door, the entrance to Catherine McKee's office.

[1774]

Q. Your went up to talk to him?

A. You bet I did.

Q. When was the next time you saw Harry Bridges?

A. I saw Harry Bridges again when he came up there one night when we were having a public affair in the auditorium. This was about ten o'clock at night. I was on duty there at the main entrance of that auditorium when Harry Bridges came in. I realized that he was walking into a crowd of people so I stopped him and asked who he wanted, if he wanted to see somebody.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

He said, "Yes; I want to see Walter Lambert."

I told him to wait at the doorway and I would go get Walter Lambert. I went through the crowd and found Walter Lambert and told him Bridges wanted to see him.

Walter Lambert left right away and I remained in the dining room.

Finally, Walter Lambert came back to me and says, "Let Bridges upstairs in the office."

So I went back to where Harry Bridges was at the doorway at the main entrance, and I took a key and unlocked a door there and let Harry Bridges in and told him to go up to the office.

Q. What door did you unlock?

A. I unlocked the side door from the main building down into the auditorium. [1775]

Q. The front doors were open?

A. The front doors to the auditorium were open.

Q. Were people going in and out?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Bridges came up to those doors?

A. Yes; and started to walk in where the crowd was, but I stopped him.

Q. That is when you told him he should not go in there, is that right?

A. I didn't tell him he shouldn't go in.

Q. You asked whether he wanted to see somebody? A. Correct.

Q. That is the fourth time you saw him?

A. Yes; about the fourth time.

Q. How long was he with Lambert that time?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. Well, now, just a moment. I can't say how long he was with Lambert. But about eleven o'clock that night I went upstairs to make my rounds, while the crowd was downstairs, and when I got back on the main floor I observed the doors were opened, not bolted, and the stairway bars were down and the doors were wide open. I thought that was funny that Lambert would do that and not advise me that he had to go out the front doors.

Q. Who went out the front doors?

A. Lambert and Bridges. [1776]

Q. Somebody told you that?

A. Somebody told me that—I know it.

Q. You saw it?

A. I didn't see it, but I know that was the only way they could get out because I locked it.

Q. They walked out together?

A. Yes. Just a moment. While I am on that point let me say this: From the outside of that building, there at the main entrance, nobody can gain access to that building without smashing the doors down. But from the inside you can readily gain access to the street entrance without having to break it down; just uncouple and lift the bars out, That is what they did to get out.

I didn't see Walter Lambert then again for about two weeks. He would come to and go from work, and would leave the front part of the building without coming downstairs, and advising me what he had done. I imagine there must have been some rush about that, that they had to leave quick.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

The following day I did read in the paper where they had some labor trouble on the San Pedro waterfront. At that time Walter Lambert was gone for about two weeks.

Q. When was that? A. That was in 1936.

Q. What part of 1936?

A. I believe it was right around in April, I believe. [1777]

Q. April of 1936?

A. I believe it was.

Q. All right. When was the fifth time you saw Mr. Bridges?

A. I couldn't say anything about the fifth time because I did not keep an actual count of the number of times I have seen Bridges there. But I will say that I have seen Harry Bridges there four or five different times.

Q. Do you remember any other time, except those you have told us about here this morning?

A. That is correct.

Q. Do you remember any others?

A. No, I don't remember any others.

Q. You don't remember——

A. (Interposing): If I did I would make it known it right here.

Q. But you don't remember right now of any others? A. No.

Mr. Gladstein: I suppose we ought to offer this sketch in evidence. We don't have any objection to it.

The Witness: You want to use that again?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Mr. Gladstein: Do you want to make a change in it?

The Witness: No. If you are going to use it I want to put my initials on it. I distrust you.

Presiding Inspector: Put your initial on it.

[1778]

Mr. Gladstein: We will offer it in evidence.

Presiding Inspector: Mark it as Alien's Exhibit next in order.

(The sketch referred to was received in evidence and marked Alien's Exhibit No. 6.)

Presiding Inspector: We will recess until 2:00 P.M.

(Whereupon, at 12:35 P.M. a recess was taken until 2:00 P.M. of the same day.)

[1779]

After Recess—2:00 O'clock P.M.

Mr. Gladstein: Are you ready, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

RICHARD A. ST. CLAIR

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Cross Examination
(Resumed)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. St. Clair——

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. (Interposing) Sir?

Q. Can you hear me now? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You remember the day that you walked into this room and you saw Mr. Bridges, and these other men? A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember that day?

A. I remember all the details in that room; yes.

Q. From what room did you come into it?

A. I came up the stairs there and the first thing I did was to go into that room and I looked around and saw Harry Bridges—

Can you folks back there hear me?

Q. As long as I can hear you and the reporter here that is all that is necessary.

Mr. Del Guercio: I would like to hear you too.

[1780]

Mr. Gladstein: Speak loud so everybody can hear you.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You say you were coming upstairs?

A. I was coming upstairs.

Q. All right.

A. I was coming upstairs to inspect the building to see if everything was all right.

Q. What time of the day was that?

A. That was in the afternoon right around about, oh, I would say one o'clock.

Q. And you say that was in May, May of 1936?

A. 1936; that is correct.

Q. Do you remember what part of May that was, the tail end of May, or the beginning of May, or the middle of May—do you remember that?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. Well, I would say it was right around about the middle of May; I am pretty sure it was because about two or three weeks later after that a high ranking California State official called at the Communist Party headquarters and I thought there was something in the air.

Q. So you would fix it, your best judgment is about the middle of May, 1936?

A. That is correct.

Q. All right. Now, you came up the stairs here and you were going to inspect, is that right? [1781]

A. Henry Schomacker and——

Q. (Interposing): No, no. You were going to make some inspection?

A. I was on my rounds making an inspection in the building.

Q. What time was that, now?

A. Right around one o'clock.

Q. In the afternoon?

A. In the afternoon.

Q. And was the building open that day?

A. The building was open to the public that day. That is correct.

Q. All right. And did you go into this room?

A. I entered that room.

Q. What door did you use?

A. I used that first door as you get to the head of the stairway going into that room occupied by Bridges.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. How would you describe that door? Which of the three doors? You remember you said there were three doors. There was a great big one sliding panel. That was one, is that correct?

A. I stated there was a large door consisting of six two by eight panels.

Q. Is that the door?

A. That is a series of doors there.

Q. That is a series of doors? [1782]

A. Yes, sir; panels.

Q. Is that the one you used?

A. No, sir. That one was closed. I used the first door, the nearest to the steps after you got to the top of the landing, and that would be right in front of the stairway.

Q. All right. How do you describe that door? You see, you have mentioned several doors. How would you describe that?

A. At the time that I entered that door, that was a double door unless it has been changed since.

Q. At that time that was a double door?

A. It was a double door.

Q. All right. Now tell us what you did when you went in the room?

A. I opened that door. The doors were closed at that time and I opened the doors and started to go in there, and I just got inside of the door when I noticed something to my left. I looked over there and I recognized Harry Bridges, Henry Schmidt and John Schomacker, Elmer Hanoff, William Schneiderman, Walter Lambert and Lawrence Ross sitting at the table. They all had paper out there before them and pencils in their hands. I knew that wasn't necessary for me to carry on my inspection any further, so I went back downstairs and——

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. (Interposing): Wait just a minute!

Mr. Del Guercio: Let the witness finish.

Mr. Gladstein: I simply want to know what he did while [1783] he was in the room.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You say you went back downstairs. You meant you left the room?

A. I left the room and retreated back down the stairway the same way I came.

Q. By what door did you leave the room? The same door? A. The same door.

Q. In other words, you opened the door and you looked in and you saw these people and you walked out again?

A. I turned around and walked out. That is correct.

Q. Did I say it correct?

A. I say it is correct.

Q. You say you saw Bridges there?

A. Absolutely. I wasn't mistaken. I'd known him as if he was a member of my faimily. I have seen his face so many times.

Q. He didn't have a hat on? A. What?

Q. He didn't have a hat on?

A. I wouldn't say whether he had a hat on or had a hat off. I know Elmer Hanoff never had no hat on. I know Schneiderman had no hat on, but I didn't study Bridges and Schmidt to know whether they had their hats on.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Did you see if Bridges had working clothes on? [4784]

A. No. I haven't seen Bridges in working clothes since he became the boss of the waterfront.

Q. You haven't seen him in working clothes?

A. Except on parade days when they were parading up Market Street.

Q. Did you notice him that time?

A. I never noticed him closely.

Q. Did you notice him at all?

A. No. He never had working clothes on there especially that day he was there, because I remember it now. When he came back out of Schneiderman's office when he was coming down the stairway, that is clear to me now.

Q. You remember seeing him then?

A. I saw him then, but he didn't have any working clothes on.

Q. What did he have on?

A. He was dressed up. It might have been a brown suit on, I think he had at one time.

Q. You think it was a brown suit?

A. I believe it was a brown suit at that time, I believe.

Q. Did he have a hat?

A. I didn't pay any attention about that, whether he had a hat on or not now.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Did you notice anything else about him?

[1785]

A. Not at that particular time.

Q. Did you notice anything else about him when you were in the room?

A. I noticed they were busy engaged there.

Q. No, about Mr. Bridges. Did you notice anything else about Mr. Bridges?

A. Never noticed anything else about him, no.

Q. Did you see Schomacker leave that day?

A. I saw Schomacker leave that day, too.

Q. How was he dressed?

A. Well, he was dressed pretty rough, in his work clothes.

Q. You are sure he was in work clothes?

A. Oh, yes. I am sure of that. He had work clothes on that day.

Q. Did he have a hat?

A. Well, now, I don't know whether he had a hat on or not. Now, I don't know.

Q. You are not sure about that?

A. I wouldn't say that. You are trying to make a picture out of it, or something like that, but I am telling the truth before this Court of what I observed. Whether he had a hat on or not, I don't know.

Presiding Inspector: If you don't remember any of the details, just say so. [1786]

The Witness: All right.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. St. Clair, did you see Mr. Schmidt leave that day?

A. I saw Mr. Schmidt leave that day, too.

Q. How was he dressed?

A. He was dressed—I don't think he was dressed up with his suit on. I don't think he was. He never had a coat on; I am sure of that.

Q. You are sure he didn't have a coat on?

A. I am sure Henry Schmidt didn't have a coat on.

Q. In other words, he was just wearing a shirt?

A. That is right.

Q. Do you recall the color of the shirt?

A. No.

Q. You don't remember that? A. No.

Q. Well, now, the first time you saw Bridges at 121 Haight Street, do you recall whether he had work clothes on at that time?

A. I wouldn't say whether he had working clothes on at that time or not. I don't recall about that first time, just how he was dressed at that time. But I know Harry Bridges, and I did not think it was absolutely necessary to go to work and give that man the once over, because the Party don't approve of that. [1787]

Q. Don't approve of it?

A. They don't approve of them doing that, giving anybody a searching look, unless you happen to be a stranger there at the Party headquarters, and then you observe them, and inquire what they want, and what their business is there.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Did you ever see Harry Bridges at 37 Grove Street? A. No.

Q. Never did?

A. No. I saw one other longshoreman there, a leader.

Q. I am asking about Mr. Bridges.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute. What was the answer?

Presiding Inspector: He said he saw another longshoreman there, a leader.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You didn't see Mr. Bridges there?

A. Not at 37 Grove Street.

Presiding Inspector: I think that has been answered twice now.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, you mentioned another janitor who was working there today.

Mr. Del Guercio: He didn't.

A. There was another man working there.

Mr. Del Guercio: Not a janitor. He mentioned a guard.

The Witness: That is correct. [1788]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did he do janitor service?

A. No, he did other work around there. I did the janitor service.

Q. What is the other man's name?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. Gus Wilkie.

Q. How do you spell that?

A. Well, I don't know—W-i-l-c-k-i-e, I believe it is, or W-i-l-e-k-e—I don't know.

Q. Did the two of you work there about the same time?

A. Yes; both worked there at the same time.

Q. You began there at the same time?

A. Began at the same time.

Q. Who left first, you or him?

A. I was—who left first?

Q. Who left first? A. I left first.

Q. When did you leave?

A. I left there about the early part of December, I believe.

Q. What year?

A. 1935; and returned again some time in January, about the latter part of January.

Q. The next month?

A. December—January. [1789]

Q. You were away for a month or two?

A. I was away for four or five weeks when they insisted that I return.

Q. When you came back, how long did you stay there after that?

A. I stayed there until the latter part of June.

Q. What year? A. 1936.

Q. Then you left?

A. I left; went to the WPA.

Q. You did not go back to work at 121 Haight Street after that? A. Not after that I never.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. And was Wilkie working at 121 Haight Street when you left that place for good?

A. The first time?

Q. For good?

A. No, no; he was not working there at that time.

Q. You mean he left his employment there before you did? A. He was let off.

Q. Before you left?

A. Before I went to work the second time there.

Q. Did he ever work at 121 Haight Street while you were working there the second time? [1790]

A. No.

Q. Now, but he began to work there in 1935 about the same time you did? A. Same time.

Q. Did you ever talk to him about these visits of Bridges there? A. No.

Q. Never did?

A. No. I told him, I said, "Did you see Harry Bridges here this afternoon?" "No,"—he didn't see him there that afternoon.

Q. Well, when did you tell him that?

A. The same day Harry Bridges was there.

Q. You say he was there a number of times, which one?

A. This special time that Harry Bridges and Henry Schmidt and John Schomacker were there.

Q. You remember that?

A. Oh, yes, I remember that. That was when I complained about him coming there.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. You remember telling Wilkie about that?

A. Yes. I told Wilkie at that time, I asked him if he saw Harry Bridges there, and Schmidt and Schomacker. He said he didn't see them.

Q. Did you speak to Wilkie before that time about the other visits that Bridges had made? [1791]

A. No.

Q. Did you speak to Wilkie later on about the later visits that Bridges made?

A. No, I never spoke to him about that. How I come to speak to him at that time was I made it plain to him that I went to Elmer Hanoff and complained about Harry Bridges coming there.

Q. You told Wilkie you had this conversation with Hanoff? A. That is correct.

Q. Who was Hanoff at that time?

A. Hanoff was one of the leading executives of the Communist Party for District 13, comprised of California, Arizona and Nevada.

Q. And who was Lambert?

A. Lambert, he was Pacific Coast, Communist Party Pacific Coast State Labor Director for this district.

Q. And who was Schneiderman?

A. Schneiderman was a ranking official of the Communist Party for District 13.

Q. And who was Ross?

A. Ross, he was San Francisco County organizer for the Communist Party.

Q. And those are the people that you mentioned that were in that room that day? [1792]

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. That is right. They were leading executives of the Communist Party for District 13.

Q. Now, you say that you joined the Communist Party, when was it?

A. In 1934; the late part of March.

Q. And you remained a member until when?

A. What?

Q. Until what date?

A. Until a few days after the general election of 1934.

Q. That is in the fall, the late fall?

A. That is right. I resigned and sent my membership book in through the mails and had marked on the back of the book "resigned". I hope you are able to produce that here and back me up in my statement. It was in my own handwriting. It was on the book that I resigned.

Q. You told them you didn't want to stay in the Communist Party any longer?

A. I didn't tell them that. I liked the Communist Party at that time.

Q. But you resigned?

A. I resigned; yes.

Q. How long did you stay resigned?

A. I stayed resigned until about September of 1935 when I re-joined again.

Q. Did you join again?

A. Yes; by request. Elmer Hanoff and Johnny Voicht. [1793] I kept putting it off because I didn't want to go through a series of distributing leaflets, running around the city picking up or taking subscriptions to the Western Worker, going from house to house, door to door, distributing leaflets, and such as that, backing up the labor movement, going around to program meetings put on by the Communist Party throughout the State, selling tickets, and such as that.

Q. What part of September, 1935, did you join again, do you remember?

A. Yes. I was on guard duty at the Communist Party headquarters at the time I joined the Party the second time. Elmer Hanoff said, "Hell, I thought you was a member of the Communist Party."

I said, "No. I thought you knew all about it. I explained it to you down on Market Street when I met you."

Q. What part of the month of September, 1935, did you join again, do you remember?

A. Let me see. This might have been some time in August, because my Party book was handed to me by John Morgan, who was District organizer for the Mission District.

Q. When was it handed to you?

A. It was handed to me there at the Party headquarters in the hallway.

Q. When?

A. October of 1936. I think that is right. Wait a [1794] minute,—just a moment and I will get it right—1935 is correct.

Q. October of 1935? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. That was when you became a Party member again? A. Yes.

Q. How long did you remain a member after that?

A. Until about the 20th day of December, 1936, when I turned my book in. The Party was holding meetings at the Workers' Alliance Hall where they held their meetings at that time. They had a special meeting going on there on Thursday night and I turned my book in there.

Q. Did you resign again then?

A. I left the Party again, resigned, yes; but remained a sympathizer of the Party.

Q. Did you join the Communist Party again after that date? A. No.

Q. How many times have you been arrested in your life?

A. Well, I have been—here in California?

Q. Anywhere?

A. Anywhere—let me see. I might overlook one or two, but there is nothing wrong about it. I have been arrested for drunkenness.

Q. How many times were you arrested for drunkenness?

A. About three times I was arrested for drunkenness. [1795]

Q. Three? A. Three.

Q. All right. What else were you arrested for?

A. For my labor activities here in San Francisco.

Q. What else?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. And arrested up in Lower Lake, California.

Q. Where?

A. Lower Lake, California; up there where the children's camp is. Harry Bridges has something to do with it, and the Communist Party.

Q. When was that? A. 1937.

Q. What were you arrested for?

A. Do you want me to go into that now?

Q. Well,——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Yes, go ahead.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. What was the charge against you?

A. Disturbing the peace.

Q. Is that what you were found guilty of?

A. That is what I was found guilty of.

Q. Disturbing the peace? A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember the city in which the trial took place? [1796]

A. Lower Lake, California.

Q. Is that the name of the city?

A. "City"? It is a little town, a little hamlet.

Q. You came up before a judge of some kind, didn't you?

A. Lakeport County. That was before Lakeport County. That is the County seat.

Q. So your trial was in the County seat, was it?

A. That is correct.

Q. And that would be in the City of Lakeport?

A. That's right.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. And that was sometime in 1937?

A. I believe my trial or hearing was held, in, I believe,—I guess it was in January. They had the hearing there, I believe, Lakeport and it was before the Justice of the Peace. My trial was held there at Lower Lake, California, before the Justice of the Peace; not in Lakeport County, but that is where I served my sentence; Lakeport County.

Q. What was the town where the Justice of the Peace tried you, do you remember?

A. Lower Lake.

Q. All right. And how far away is that from Lakeport? A. Right there in the city.

Q. Have you ever been arrested for anything else?

A. I have been arrested here in San Francisco for carrying out Sam Darcy's instructions. [1797]

Q. Well, you mentioned that a little while ago.

A. Well, you asked me any time and I thought you wanted to go through that again.

Q. I want to know what else you have been arrested for, if you ever have.

A. I have been arrested here during the 1934 Longshoremen's Strike, too.

Q. What for?

A. For carrying on agitation, demonstrating on behalf of the longshoremen.

Q. Have you ever been arrested for anything else?

A. No; not that I can recall, to be honest with you.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. What is the first time you were ever arrested?

A. Back about 1912 or '15; about 1915 or '16, I guess.

Q. Where was that?

A. Kansas City, Kansas.

Q. What were you arrested for?

A. Drunks.

Q. How many times there?

A. Once. Once I was arrested there. Yes, once.

Q. All right. What is the next time you were arrested?

A. By God! come to think of it right now, Los Angeles. I had overlooked that.

Q. When was that?

A. And it was an illegal arrest at that time.

[1798]

Q. When was it?

A. I believe in 1929, I believe.

Q. Well then,——

A. (Interposing) 1927 or 1929.

Q. You were never arrested between the time that you left Kansas City—let me ask you this: Did you leave Kansas City in 1915?

A. I left Kansas City in 1921; come here to California.

Q. Now, you were arrested only once in Kansas City, is that right?

A. That is to the best of my honest recollection.

Q. And then you left Kansas City in 1921 and came to California? A. Yes.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. And the very next time that you were arrested was in Los Angeles?

A. Yes, yes. That's correct.

Q. And that was in what year?

A. And that was in 1927 or 1929. And that was an illegal arrest.

Q. You had no arrests between, say, 1912 or 1915 clear up to 1927 or 1929; is that right?

A. Excepting—no other arrests excepting what I had mentioned to you, to my honest recollection. [1799]

Q. Between this period from nineteen——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I don't believe he hears that.

Mr. Gladstein: What?

Presiding Inspector: I don't believe he hears that.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Between 1915 and 1927 were you ever arrested?

A. 1915 and 1927, I was arrested at Kansas City, as I have already explained it to you, for drunkenness there. I was taken off the street car by an old friend of mine who is the Police Captain. They just took me up for safekeeping and no record made of it.

Q. After that, is it your testimony that you had never again been arrested until you were arrested in Los Angeles in about '27 or '29, is that right?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. No, I don't think I was ever arrested between that time, no.

Q. What were you arrested for in Los Angeles? What was the charge against you?

A. The charge against me was drunkenness and possessing liquor.

Q. I didn't hear that.

A. The charge was drunkenness and possessing liquor.

Q. Possessing liquor? A. Yes. [1800]

Q. Were you convicted?

A. Yes: I was convicted without having any chance to present any evidence because the Police had already drank the evidence up for themselves at that time.

Q. In what court were you?

A. I don't recall what court I was taken to. I can't recall. You can check up there in Los Angeles and you can get the record.

Q. Did you have a trial, Mr. St. Clair?

A. As I stated to you, I was convicted without having any chance to present my side of the evidence to show that I was taken from another county and hauled across into Los Angeles County and arrested.

Q. Were you given a sentence?

A. They gave me thirty days, and after serving part of my time I paid the balance of $15.00 and was released.

Q. All right. That was when? 1927 or somewhere around there?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. 1927 or 1929; somewhere around those years.

Q. When was the next time that you were arrested?

A. I believe the next time that I was arrested is 1934, helping Harry Bridges on the waterfront.

Q. What were you doing at that time to help him?

A. Well, I was a member of the Communist Party at that time and the Workers ex-Service Men's League was an [1801] organized—it was founded and organized by the Communist Party, and its activities were being directed by Walter Lambert at that time from 37 Grove Street.

Q. What month in 1934 was that that you got arrested?

A. I believe it was along in July 17, I believe.

Q. That was the very next time?

A. That was the very next time, was the time that they had this series of raids throughout the city here against the Communist Party.

Q. Have you ever been convicted of a felony?

A. No, no. Never before been convicted of a felony. No, sir.

Q. Are you a citizen? A. What?

A. Indeed I am; very much so; born here in the State of Kansas. So were my parents born in this country.

Q. Where were you born in Kansas?

A. Born in Kansas City, Kansas.

Q. When? A. 1890.

Q. Do you remember the time when there was a public affair at 121 Haight Street and Mr. Bridges came up to the door? Do you remember that?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. You bet I remember that time. [1802]

Q. You had a conversation with him at that time, did you?

A. Only to the extent of stopping Bridges there at that door, realizing that he was coming into that door where there was a mass crowd of people and that he might be recognized.

Presiding Inspector: You have been all over that. He isn't asking you that. He asked you if you remember it, not what it was.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you have any instructions to keep Bridges out?

A. No, none at all whatsoever.

Q. Did you have instructions to leave him in?

A. Never had no instructions to leave him in either.

Q. Didn't have any instructions of any kind?

A. No, not regards to Harry Bridges.

Q. You just thought you would sort of warn him to be careful, is that the idea?

A. That was the idea at that time.

Q. Now, was he in working clothes, or was he dressed up at that time?

A. Dressed up.

Q. He was dressed up?

A. He was dressed up that night.

Q. Do you remember how he was dressed?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. No, I don't remember. I didn't pay any attention [1803] to that.

Q. You didn't pay any attention.

A. I knew his face the minute I saw him and that was that.

Q. Now, you say that you talked to Wilkie once about this meeting.

A. About that meeting, at that special time, yes.

Q. Did you ever talk to anybody else about it?

A. No; no sir.

Q. You never did? A. No, sir.

Q. You never talked to anybody else about any of the times Bridges came to 121 Haight Street?

A. Not at that time.

Q. Did you never mention it to anybody?

A. I have mentioned it before here since I made up my mind that I would do what I could to expose the Communist Party and its connections with the labor movement. I have told many people there.

Q. When was that? When was the first time?

A. I couldn't say when the first time was. The first time I begin to let loose against the Party was sometime in 1938 when I received information from a former unit organizer of the Communist Party at Stockton that the Communist Party [1804] through Walter Lambert and another fellow by the name of Jeff—he used to work for the Yellow Taxicabs, organizing the taxicab drivers—that Walter Lambert and this Jeff went to the Fish Workers Reducing Union, which was controlled and operated by the CIO, to Harry Bridges and they tried to get this here Secretary and Treasurer of this repective union to turn over $4000 of the union's funds to the Communist Party. This Secretary and Treasurer happened to become a member of the Communist Party himself. He refused to turn those funds over to the Communist Party and they weren't satisfied. They kicked him out of the Party and a meeting was held and had him ousted from the union.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Who was that man?

A. That was sometime in 1938. And I received that information at Stockton. I came to the City of San Francisco later on; sometime in October, I believe it was.

Q. Of 1938? A. In October of 19——

Q. Of 1938?

A. '38, yes. That is correct. And I checked up with a member of that organization by the name of Walter Meegan and explained it to him. He said "Yes, that's so. That is so. I was there."

Q. Now, excuse me. Who was the man who refused to turn over this money? [1805]

A. I don't know this man's name, the Secretary-Treasurer of that union. I was told at that time what his name was, and I was asked if I knew him, but I did not know this fellow at that time.

Q. Have you ever met him? A. What?

Q. Have you ever met him?

A. I don't know whether I ever have met him or not. I don't know.

Q. All right.

A. I may have met him and not known him.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. When you found out about that you say that you decide then to expose Harry Bridges?

A. You damn right.

Q. All right. What did you do?

A. I let it be known just what the CIO was and who its leadership was; that Harry Bridges was a member of the Communist Party, and also told who founded and organized the Committee for Industrial Organization in the State of California.

Q. Whom did you tell that to?

A. Anybody and everybody that was willing to listen to me.

Q. Well, name anybody, whom you told those things to.

A. Well, for one, I will tell you: That there was a [1806] meeting up there at the City Hall.

Presiding Inspector: No. He just asked you for some names.

A. (Continuing) There was a meeting——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) We don't want you to answer a lot of things except what Mr. Gladstein asks.

A. (Continuing) Walter Lapham is one of them.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Who? A. Walter Lapham.

Q. Who is Walter Lapham?

A. He is the President and owner of the Steamship Line here.

Q. What steamship line do you mean?

A. American-Hawaiian Steamship Company.

(Testimony of Richiard A. St. Clair.)

Q. You mean American-Hawaiian?

A. That's right.

Q. You went up and told him about everything you knew?

A. Up there at the City Hall when he was having that labor hearing up there at that time. I met him in the hallway and I told him. He said "Is that so? Well, I suspect that to be true, but there is nothing we can do about it."

Q. When was that, Mr. St. Clair?

A. Well, I believe that was sometime in 1937, I believe, that they had that labor hearing up there at the City Hall. [1807]

Q. All right. Who else did you tell about what you say you know concerning Harry Bridges and his Communist connections?

A. Well, there is many of them that I have told it to that I do not even know their names.

Q. Well, did you go to any official of any kind? Police Department?

A. I reported to the Mayor of the City of San Francisco, too.

Q. Mayor Rossi?

A. Yes. And I believe—and I have reasons to believe that Harry Bridges has used the name of "H. P. Rossi" himself, because in the offices——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) You haven't been asked this.

The Witness: What?

Presiding Inspector: You haven't been asked that.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

The Witness: All right.

Presiding Inspector: Just confine yourself to the questions.

The Witness: I am willing to explain everything I know, if he is willing.

Presiding Inspector: Just answer the questions. If you tell the whole truth and answer the questions, we will get [1808] along all right.

The Witness: All right.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You say you went and told Mayor Rossi of what you knew about Bridges? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was that?

A. That was about the same—wait a minute, now! That was in 1937, but what month I can't state: Mayor Rossi will produce the letter I made arranging for the interview.

Q. You say you wrote a letter?

A. I wrote a letter; yes sir.

Q. To Mayor Rossi? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What kind of a letter was it?

A. A letter informing him that I possessed information that Harry Bridges was connected with the Communist Party.

Q. All right. Did you have a meeting with Mayor Rossi?

A. I didn't get a chance to have a meeting with Mayor Rossi: Arrangements were made for me to meet his Secretary.

Q. Did you meet his Secretary?

A. I met his Secretary.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. What happened?

A. Well, I went to work and explained to him the [1809] information that I possessed and knowledge of Harry Bridges' connection with the Communist Party.

Q. Who else was present besides the Secretary and yourself?

A. Just the Secretary and myself.

Mr. Del Guercio: Your Honor, I object to this line of questioning. Is that all necessary?

Mr. Gladstein: It is quite necessary.

Mr. Del Guercio: I assume that that was the information he wanted.

Presiding Inspector: I think he may continue.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you make a statement to him at that time about what you knew?

A. I just talked to him like I am talking to you right now.

Q. Did he make any notes?

A. Never made any notes, no.

Q. Did he ask you to sign a statement of any kind? A. No.

Q. What was the man's name?

A. I can't recall his name, his Secretary at that time.

Q. This was in 1937?

A. It was right around 1937. [1810]

Q. Can you remember what part of that year it was?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. I can't remember the date or the year.

Q. Not the exact date. Can you give me the season, whether it was the fall, spring or summer?

Presiding Inspector: I didn't know you had seasons here.

A. I think in the letter I wrote to him, that is enough. You get the date from him. He will produce it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did anything else happen after you talked to the Mayor's Secretary about what you knew about Harry Bridges?

A. Nothing else happened excepting that there was a watch put on me by Alex Noral, State Organizer of the Workers Alliance. He occupied a car right across from the alley of the hotel where I was staying, and he had been there two or three times and his automobile bore an Oregon license. I was wise then and knew that I was under watch for them and I left San Francisco and went to Los Angeles on my own hook.

Q. Now, did you tell the Mayor's Secretary everything that you knew about Bridges?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Everything?

A. You bet I did, and I'm telling it to the public yet if I get a chance.

Q. All right. Did you tell anybody else everything you knew about Bridges? [1811]

A. Oh, I told many people, too numerous to mention.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Try to remember one more.

A. I couldn't for the life of me remember the names of them because I spoke to many of them, workers even, people I met on the street I would talk to, political elections that were coming and about Communists, and about high-ranking State officers who called at the Communist Party headquarters.

Q. I mean about Harry Bridges.

A. I told too many to mention. I reported it to the District Attorney at Los Angeles. I reported it to the FBI. I reported it to the Dies Committee.

Q. When did you report to the Police Department or to the District Attorney in Los Angeles?

A. I reported it there to the District Attorney sometime in 1940. I can't remember the date.

Q. What part of the year?

A. Well, I would believe it to be in the late part of 1941. I can't say exactly the date. I can't. But they have got the date of that down there, if these men want to check that up. The reason why I went —do you want me to tell anything about why I went?

Presiding Inspector: Never mind. You have been asked for the date and you have given it as well as you can.

By Mr. Gladstein: [11812]

Q. When you went to the District Attorney's office whom did you see?

A. I met Mr. Simpson and Mr. Wohl; Mr. Simpson and Mr. Wohl.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. And what happened?

A. I gave them my knowledge and the information that I possessed in regards to Harry Bridges, the Communist Party and about a murder that happened to be committed on the San Pedro waterfront.

Q. Was there a stenographer present?

A. What?

Q. Did they take notes of it?

A. Yes, they took notes of it; yes, sir.

Q. Did they prepare a statement?

A. I don't know whether they compared the statements or not. I don't know.

Q. I say, Did they prepare a statement?

A. Oh, certainly they did. Yes, they did.

Q. Did you sign it?

A. I don't believe I did.

Q. Did they ask you whether it was true, the statement?

A. Well, no. They did not ask me if the statements were true, no.

Q. Did they typewrite a statement up? [1813]

A. No. He just marked it down in lead pencil in long hand.

Q. Did anything else happen there?

A. Nothing else happened there then, no.

Q. You just told these gentlemen what you knew? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And they didn't do anything else about that?

A. They did nothing about it, to my knowledge.

Q. Did you give them your name and address?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. I did give them my name and address.

Q. Did they ever get in touch with you again?

A. Yes. They did get in touch with me.

Q. When did they get in touch with you?

A. It was about two weeks after I wrote to them. They got in touch with me. I can't give you the exact date of that either.

Q. You say two weeks after you wrote to them?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you write to the District Attorney's office? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what happened after you wrote to the District Attorney's office?

A. Two investigators came out to interview me and see what information I possessed in regard to the murder being committed there on the San Pedro waterfront. [1814]

Q. When was that murder?

A. That murder was committed sometime in 1935; 1935.

Q. Now, do you know who those two investigators were that came out to see you?

A. I don't know anything else about that.

Q. Did you talk to them at that time in your home?

A. Not at my home. Nobody talked to nobody at my home at that time.

Q. You say two investigators came out to see you at your home. A. They talked to me.

Q. Where did they talk to you?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. At the place where I was, the SRA camp at Chino, California.

Q. Were you living or working there?

A. I was living there.

Q. All right. So they talked to you where you were living? A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell them everything you knew about Harry Bridges?

A. I told them every bit of information I possessed about Harry Bridges.

Q. What happened that time?

A. They made arrangements for me to come into the [1815] Hall of Justice at the District Attorney's office the following day, and they came after me.

Q. And they took you down there?

A. They took me down there.

Q. And that is the time you were in the District Attorney's office and you spoke to these gentlemen whose names you mentioned? A. Yes.

Q. And notes were made of what you told them?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did they type the statement up? Did they ask you to sign the statement?

A. They asked me to sign nothing.

Q. Did they ask you to make an affidavit?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did they ever get in touch with you again?

A. No.

Q. Never did? A. No.

Q. All right. Now, you say that you also gave your information to the FBI. Is that right?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. What?

Q. Did you say you gave your information concerning Bridges to the FBI? Do you know what the "FBI" is?

A. Federal Bureau—what information I gave them in re- [1816] gards to Harry Bridges, they just wrote it down on the paper. That was all.

Q. No, no. Listen! You say you have just finished telling me about the time that you gave information to the District Attorney's office in Los Angeles. Do you remember that?

A. Yes.

Q. And you say that was sometime in 1940?

A. It was.

Q. But you can't remember what month in 1940?

A. No. I can't remember what month.

Q. You don't know whether——

A. (Interposing) Pardon me.

Q. Was it the middle of the year or the first of the year or the end of the year?

A. Wait a minute, now! I believe it was sometime in August, I believe it was.

Q. August of 1940?

A. I believe it was August or September, yes.

Q. All right. Now, you mentioned before, a little while ago, that you also wrote letters to other departments of the Government to tell them what you knew about Harry Bridges. Is that right?

A. Not only about Harry Bridges, but about the Communist Party.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Yes. But you wrote letters to other departments [1817] of the Government or the Police or various branches of the Government to tell them that you knew something about Bridges and the Communists, is that right?

A. Well, no. I actually perhaps didn't mention Harry Bridges' name, but mentioned the Communists.

Q. To whom did you write letters?

A. To the Dies Committee.

Q. When did you first write to the Dies Committee? A. December 3, 1938.

Q. And what did you tell them in your letter?

A. I told them I was a former member of the Communists Party and held a position of trust at Communist headquarters and I was in the possession of quite a bit of evidence against the Party.

Q. Was there any response or reply to that letter? A. Any what?

Q. Did any one come to see you about that letter after you sent it? A. No.

Q. Did anybody ever write you a letter?

A. No. I never did receive a reply in answer to that letter.

Q. Did you keep a copy of that letter?

A. No. I don't do that. No, sir.

Q. In this letter to the Dies Committee you said that you had been a former trusted person in the Communist Party? [1818]

A. A guard at Communist Party headquarters; yes, sir.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. And you said you had a lot of information?

A. That I possessed information in regard to the Communist Party and the labor movement.

Q. And the labor movement? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you mention Harry Bridges?

A. I don't know whether I did mention Harry Bridges at that time or not. I don't know.

Q. You are not sure about that?

A. No, I am not sure.

Q. It is possible that you did, but you don't remember; is that it? A. That might be so.

Q. All right. And you say they never answered that letter?

Mr. Del Guercio: He has already answered that, your Honor.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Nobody came to see you about it?

A. Nobody came to see me about it.

Q. Now, what other branches of the government did you write a letter to? Did you write to the Immigration Department? [1819]

A. That was the only branch of the Government that I wrote to and made contact with, was the Dies Committee. Yes, that is correct.

Q. You did not write to the Immigration Department?

A. No, I did not write to the Immigration Department?

Q. Did you go up to see the Immigration Department? A. I went up to see them.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. When did you go up to see them?

A. September; on or about September 7, 1940, I believe it was.

Q. Did you go up to see them when the last hearing was being held against Mr. Bridges? Do you remember when that was? A couple of years ago?

A. Yes. Oh, I remember that hearing. Yes.

Q. Did you go up to see anybody and tell them about your information?

A. I never went up to anybody at that time to tell them about the information, but in some manner—I don't know how it come up—the Immigration Department contacted me and asked me what information I had in regards to Harry Bridges, whether he was a member of the Communist Party or not.

Q. Was that while that trial was going on in 1939?

A. Oh, that was before the trial; just shortly before the trial. But I refused to be willing to give any evidence at that hearing. I had no faith in that hearing. That was the [1820] very words I stated to them.

Q. Whom did you speak with?

A. Let's see. I believe it was an Immigration Officer; some Immigration Officer.

Q. What is his name?

A. From Portland, I believe.

Q. Norene? A. Norene, that's right. Yes.

Q. Where did you see him?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. I saw him at Santa Ana.

Q. Santa Ana? A. Santa Ana.

Q. Where did he see you? A. Post Office.

Q. Were you working there?

A. Yes, I was working there.

Q. At the Post Office?

A. Not the Post Office; no sir.

Q. Did he ask you to come to the Post Office building?

A. He asked me to come to the Post Office.

Q. When he asked you to come did he do it by telephone or by letter?

A. No. The man come after me in the afternoon; about, oh, I guess along about two or half past two o'clock, and took me down to Santa Ana to the Post Office. [1821]

Q. Do you know who that man was?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Who was he?

A. I think it was Mr. Graham.

Q. And Mr. Graham, when he met you, did he tell you what he wanted? A. Yes.

Q. What did he say?

A. He said Mr. Norene, the Immigration Officer, wanted to see me at the Santa Ana Post Office.

Q. Did he tell you what Mr. Norene wanted to see you about?

A. No, but after I knew it was the Immigration Officer I had an idea that it was in regards to Harry Bridges' hearing at that time.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. All right. You went to Mr. Graham to see Mr. Norene in the Post Office Building?

A. That's right.

Q. And you had a meeting with him at that time? A. Yes, yes.

Q. And was it in an office?

A. It was in the Immigration office at the Post Office there. It was in charge of Mr. Davis.

Q. You mean there was a Mr. Davis in the room?

A. There was a Mr. Davis in the room, yes. [1822]

Q. And you were in the room?

A. I was in the room.

Q. And Mr. Norene was in the room?

A. And Mr. Norene was in the room.

Q. Was Mr. Graham in the room?

A. I believe he was.

Q. Was anybody else in the room?

A. McFarley was his name. McFarley, I believe, is the inspector in the San Francisco District.

Q. Farrelly?

A. Farreliy. I believe that is his name.

Q. Something like that?

A. Yes, something like that.

Q. Anybody else?

A. Yes. It was another Immigration Inspector there, I don't know what—I can supply you with the name of the old man. (Referring to memorandum) There they are. [1823]

Mr. Gladstein: May the record show that the witness has just handed me a card on which two names are written; one of them purporting to be A. J.——

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

The Witness: (Interposing) Mr. Norene's card.

Mr. Gladstein: (Continuing) ——A. J. Phelan and P. U. Farrelly.

Mr. Del Guercio: P. J. Phelan.

Mr. Gladstein: I wasn't sure of that initial.

Both names are written in pencil on the back of a card——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Printed.

Mr. Gladstein: (Continuing) ——printed in handwriting on the back of the card which purports to be a printed card of Roy J. Norene.

On the face of the card, underneath the name of "Roy J. Norene" are the words "Divisional"——

I want anybody to check with me. I don't care who. I will read it into the record anyway.

Presiding Inspector: Why don't you have it marked?

Mr. Gladstein: The witness may want it back. I don't think it is necessary.

The Witness: It was a card given to me. That is their own handwriting.

Mr. Gladstein: On this card, under the name "Roy J. [1824] Norene," are the following printed words: "Divisional Director, Immigration and Naturalization Service, 333 U. S. Court House, Portland, Oregon."

In handwriting, printed in pencil, are these words: "Sant. Anna."

Underneath that the words "Federal Building."

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

I return this card to you.

The Witness: All right.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Was there anybody else there in that office?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Was there a stenographer?

A. Who—no.

Q. You know what a stenographer is?

A. I know about them. Nobody else was in the office.

Q. How long were you in that office with them?

A. About 45 minutes.

Q. What happened?

A. Well, I gave them to my knowledge of Harry Bridges and his connection with the Communist Party. They said they expected to use me as a witness at the hearing, and I announced to them that I had no place in the hearing, no desire to testify.

Q. Did you tell that to Mr. Norene?

A. You tell the world I did.

Q. Mr. St. Clair, did you tell them everything that you [1825] knew about Harry Bridges and his connection with the Communist Party?

Mr. Del Guercio: That has been asked and answered.

A. I told them,——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) It is going over the same thing again.

Mr. Gladstein: This is another occasion.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it.

Mr. Del Guercio: It is the same occasion.

Presiding Inspector: It was a general question before.

A. (Continuing) I told them only what they asked me. I just answered the questions; that was all.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did they ask you to sign a statement?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did they make notes of what they asked you?

A. That is right; they did.

Q. And they made notes of what you answered?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they read this over to you afterwards?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did they ask you to make an affidavit?

A. No, sir.

Q. You said you were there 45 minutes?

A. I said 45 minutes. [1826]

Mr. Gladstein: That is what I thought I said.

Presiding Inspector: He doesn't hear well.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did they get in touch with you again after that?

A. No.

Q. You gave them your name and address?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. They never asked you to testify?

A. No, sir. I had no desire to testify at that hearing.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Did they ask you to testify?

A. No, sir, because I made it known that I had no desire to testify at that hearing.

Q. Now, you mentioned that you told these men, you told Mr. Norene pretty plainly that you did not want to testify because you had no faith in the hearing?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the question.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it.

Mr. Del Guercio: He didn't say "Very plainly."

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it. Go ahead.

Mr. Gladstein: Read the question, Mr. Reporter.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you hear the question when it was read?

A. I remember the question you asked.

Q. What is the answer? [1827]

A. I made no statement to them.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Norene that you had no faith in the hearing that was going to be held against Harry Bridges?

A. I told Mr. Norene that I had no faith in that coming hearing regarding Harry Bridges; that I believed it would be a whitewash.

Q. Did you tell him why you had no faith in that hearing?

A. No, I didn't tell him why. He didn't ask me.

Q. Did you tell him why you thought he was going to be whitewashed?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. No. He didn't ask for any details of that.

Q. Did you tell anybody else anything about that? A. Not at that time.

Q. Did Mr. Norene say anything to you when you said that? A. No.

Q. Did anybody else say anything? A. No.

Q. You mean you said, "I have no faith in the hearing and I think he is going to be whitewashed," and they didn't say anything to you?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that as being repetition.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, but I will allow it.

A. I said I had no faith in that hearing and that I [1828] had no desire to testify at the hearing, and that was that.

Presiding Inspector: I am giving wide latitude.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Nobody said anything to you about that?

A. No. They stood there and stared—sat there and stared at me and looked at one another; that was all.

Presiding Inspector: Just as they are doing here?

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You say that you went up and talked to Mr. Lapham, the shipowner?

A. I did go up to his office.

Q. You went up to his office?

A. The second time—I recall that just now.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

I talked—there at the City Hall—and then I went up to his office the second time. The first time I went up to his office he had no time and wouldn't listen to nothing I had to say, wouldn't have anything to do with me.

Q. Did you tell him anything you knew about Mr. Bridges?

A. No. He didn't want to listen.

Presiding Inspector: Just answer the questions. Don't volunteer.

The Witness: Very well.

Presiding Inspector: We will never finish otherwise.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you talk to any other shipowner? [1829]

A. No.

Q. Did you talk to Mr. Almond Roth?

A. I have never met him; don't know him.

Q. Did you try to tell any of the shipowners what you knew about Harry Bridges?

A. No. I might say——

Presiding Inspector: Just answer the question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You mentioned a Mr. Graham who came to see you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall his first name?

A. No. I don't know the man by his first name.

Q. Do you know what his position was?

A. I do.

Q. What was it?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. I believe the District Organizer, or something like that, for the Associated Farmers.

Q. Where is he District Organizer for the Associated Farmers?

A. Their headquarters are in San Francisco, California, here.

Q. Where is he the District Organizer, what district? A. Orange County.

Q. Is he the man who came to you, came to see you to take you to Los Angeles? [1830]

A. Not to Los Angeles.

Q. To Santa Ana? A. Yes; Santa Ana.

Q. To the meeting with Mr. Norene?

A. That is right.

Q. Was there anybody with Mr. Graham when he came out there? A. No, sir.

Q. Did Mr. Graham tell you how he happened to find out that you knew something about Bridges?

A. No; he didn't tell me.

Presiding Inspector: That is pretty remote.

Mr. Gladstein: I would like to confer with my colleagues for a few moments. Would you object to having the afternoon recess now?

Presiding Inspector: No. We will take a very short recess.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

Mr. Gladstein: Are you ready, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Go right ahead.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. St. Clair, do you remember a little while ago you were telling me about finding out about a man in the Fish Workers Union?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. Yes. [1831]

Q. One of those fish unions? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you said something about some money?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was that about exactly?

A. Well, I was in the city of Stockton in 1938—do you want me to go into details?

Q. Just tell me in a general way what that was about.

Mr. Del Guercio: He already stated that. He is asking for repetition.

Presiding Inspector: I don't think he has quite stated it.

A. I received from a former Communist Party Organizer at Stockton information that Walter Lambert and another Party member by the name of Jeff went to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Fish Workers Reducing Union——

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. (Interposing) Fish or Ship Reduction Workers Union—what is it?

A. No, no—Fish Workers—something they have to do with catching fish out on the seas and they bring the fish in to this ship and reduce it to fertilizer. I have forgotten the actual name of that organization.

Q. That is all right.

A. And the Secretary-Treasurer of this Union was a [1832] member of the Communist Party.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Walter Lambert and Jeff went to this man and tried to get him to turn over $4000 of the Union's funds over to the Communist Party. This Secretary-Treasurer refused to do it without a vote from the membership. Walter Lambert did not want the membership to know anything about it, expected him to turn $4000 over to the Communist Party. He refused to do it, comply with the request. They went to work and dismissed this fellow, kicked him out of the Party. Not being satisfied with that he was later removed from his position as Secretary-Treasurer of the Union.

Q. Was this man's name Fred Allen?

A. I don't know what his name was; I couldn't remember it now.

Q. You can't remember it?

A. No, I couldn't remember. They did this—after all the effort that had been made to organize them, to consolidate them, and then to turn around and cut their throat in that way—that was going too far. So I came to San Francisco and met Walter Megan, a member of that Union, and I asked him, told him what information I received at Stockton.

Presiding Inspector: He hasn't asked you about that.

The Witness: He asked me to give details in general. I just tried to explain how I checked up on this. I wouldn't take one man's word for anything like that.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

By Mr. Gladstein: [1833]

Q. You say you did check up on this?

A. I took it up with Walter Megan.

Q. Did you check up with the Secretary-Treasurer of the Union? A. No.

Q. You never saw him?

A. No; never saw him before to my knowledge. I may have, but did not know his position or connection with the party.

Q. Now, when did you first see any representatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation concerning what you know about Bridges?

A. The 17th day of September, 1940, I believe it was.

Q. Where did that take place?

A. At the Federal Building, Los Angeles.

Q. How did you happen to go there?

A. How did I happen to go there?

Q. Yes.

A. A telephone call came out there where I was living at Chino, California, and left word for me to call up Operator, a certain number. I did not know anything about this, who it could be from. So one of the clerks in the office out there put the call in to that operator, and the operator gave that clerk the information, and the clerk told me where to go to at the Federal Building. That was when I first made connection.

Q. Did you go the day after you received the phone call? [1834]

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. I believe I did go the day after; yes, the day after; I believe I did.

Q. What was the message that you got about the phone call?

A. The message about that was just to call, for me to call operator, a certain number.

Q. Did you make that call?

A. The call—I did not make the call but another man at the office put in the call for me to trace it to who it was.

Q. Did that man tell you what he found out after he traced the call?

A. He told me what room to go to at the Federal Building.

Q. And you did go? A. I went.

Q. All right. When you got there who was there?

A. I called there at the reception room, there at the information desk, and gave them my information. They contacted a man inside of the office, so he came to the room where, the reception room, where I was at and contacted me.

Q. When you say that you gave information, you mean you told them about Bridges?

Mr. Del Guercio: Can't we expedite this? Can't we place him in the office having him talking to the FBI men without going through all this? [1835]

Presiding Inspector: I don't think we can control this examination. I think he is within his rights. Go ahead.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. I gave him the information.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Let me take you back to the time you walked in through the front door of the office. You say now that you gave somebody some information, is that right?

A. You are taking me back and bringing me in—I first went to the place and went to the reception room.

Q. Yes. What did you do there?

A. I went to a girl there sitting at the desk and I explained my mission to her.

Q. What did you say to her?

A. Well, I told her I was Richard A. St. Clair; that I was instructed to call there at the office.

Q. What else happened?

A. I saw Mr. Findlay and it was with Mr. Findlay that I had the interview.

Q. They sent you in to see Mr. Findlay?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was anybody else present besides Mr. Findlay and yourself? A. A Mr. Smith.

Q. Anybody else? A. That is all. [1836]

Q. How long did that interview last?

A. That interview lasted from 11:00 o'clock in the morning to about 5:00 o'clock in the evening.

Q. Right straight through?

A. No; we stopped off for lunch.

Q. And what were you talking about in this interview?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. We were talking about the Communist Party, Harry Bridges' connections, and he asked me how I come to know about Harry Bridges being a Communist, who I got the information from, and so forth.

Q. Did they tell you how they happened to learn that you had all this information?

A. Never said anything to me about it. It wasn't necessary for me to ask them because I had told so many people and I supposed the FBI picked it up.

Presiding Inspector: Don't make a speech, in answer to these questions. When he asks you a question just answer the question and then stop.

The Witness: All right.

Presiding Inspector: We will get along a lot faster.

The Witness: All right, Judge.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did they take notes of what you said?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did they prepare a statement for you?

A. Yes, sir. [1837]

Q. Was it written out, or typewritten?

A. It was written down by hand and later typed.

Q. And after it was typed did they show it to you?

A. They showed it to me; yes, sir.

Q. Did you read it through? A. I read it.

Q. Did they ask you to sign it?

A. They asked me if I was willing to sign it; I signed it.

Q. Did they give you a copy?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. They never gave me no copy. It wasn't necessary.

Q. Did you ask for one? A. No, sir.

Q. And then you left? A. I left.

Q. Before you left did they tell you that they would get in touch with you again?

A. They didn't inform me they would get in touch with me. They asked me to keep them informed when I moved from my present place.

Q. Did they tell you that you were going to be a witness?

A. They did not tell me I was going to be a witness; no, sir.

Q. When was the next time that you had any contact with the FBI? [1838]

A. The FBI? You mean, when I had a contact with the FBI again?

Q. Yes.

A. That would be on 21st day of this month, I believe.

Mr. Del Guercio: Counsel is asking for it.

A. (Continuing) I believe it would be the 21st day, I believe, when I was asked to appear at the office.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. The 21st day of this month?

A. Yes, sir; when I was notified.

Q. How long ago was that?

A. The 21st day of this month.

Q. How long ago was it?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Is that necessary? The 21st day of this month——

Presiding Inspector: He may think that he has made a mistake in the month.

The Witness: Just a moment.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. How long ago was it?

A. How long ago that I received the notice?

Q. Yes.

A. I will give you that information.

Q. Can't you tell me how long ago it was? [1839]

Presiding Inspector: He told you once. He may have made a mistake. I think that is what you are assuming, isn't it?

Mr. Gladstein: I am not assuming.

Presiding Inspector: Then you shouldn't repeat the question.

A. (Referring to letter): April 18th.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. April 18th? A. Yes.

Q. Of this year? A. Yes; this year.

Q. You got a letter from them on that day?

A. I got that letter from them; yes, sir.

Q. What did—did they tell you to go or come some place?

A. Yes. I have the matter of record here. (Indicating letter.) Here is the subpoena right here.

(Whereupon the witness passed a letter to Mr. Gladstein.)

Mr. Gladstein: The witness has shown me a letter dated April 18, 1941, on the letterhead of the U. S. Department of Justice, Immigration and Naturalization Service, Los Angeles, California, and purporting to be signed by Harry B. Blee, Assistant Director, Los Angeles District, and addressed to Mr. Richard A. St. Clair, 13812 South Budlong Avenue, Gardena, California. [1840]

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You also received a subpoena besides that, didn't you? A. I received a subpoena; yes.

Q. When did you receive the subpoena?

A. The 18th.

Q. At the same time?

A. The same time; same day.

Q. Did you have the subpoena with you?

A. I did not have it with me until I received it.

Q. Do you have it now?

A. I have. There it is—you just read it.

Q. Is that the subpoena? A. That is it.

Q. The letter you showed me?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you not receive a yellow or white paper with the word "Subpoena" on it?

A. You are referring to the one I showed first earlier in the trial—is that it?

Q. Did you have something else, show something else earlier?

A. I showed a paper showing my address on it.

Presiding Inspector: Do you know what a subpoena is?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

The Witness: I know; yes. That is the only one I ever received. [1841]

Presiding Inspector: That isn't a subpoena.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Is that the only thing that you ever received from the FBI, the paper that you just showed me?

A. The subpoena; yes, sir.

Mr. Del Guercio: It wasn't received from the FBI, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: I know. That wouldn't make any difference.

Mr. Gladstein: I am not trying to make the record any different.

Presiding Inspector: You can't change it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Is the letter you just showed me—and for the record——

Presiding Inspector: I don't know what the purpose of this is.

Mr. Gladstein: A question of recollection, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I know, but we have had a long examination on that.

Mr. Gladstein: I will try to make it short.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Is that letter you just showed me, Mr. St. Clair, the only document you ever received from the Department of Immigration with respect to your coming here and testifying as a [1842] witness?

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

A. Yes, sir; that is the only information I received and that was the first I knew I was going to be called here.

Q. Is that the only document ever handed to you or mailed to you?

A. That is the only one.

Q. Didn't you receive a subpoena, a different paper, before you got this letter?

A. No, sir; no, sir. I never did.

Q. May I see that paper again?

A. (Producing letter.)

Mr. Gladstein: The witness has just handed me again the same letter to which I made reference earlier in the examination, and a part of this letter, the opening sentence, says:

"Dear Sir:

"You have heretofore been served with a subpoena directing your presence at San Francisco, California, on April 26, 1941 in connection with the Harry Bridges case."

Then later on:

"Mr. Albert Del Guercio, Examining Inspector who issued the subpoena above mentioned, has telephoned this office and advised that he wishes you to appear in San Francisco on the 22nd instant instead of the 26th instant.

"Kindly make arrangements to be in San Francisco, [1843] California, on April 22, 1941. You should appear at the address and at the hour indicated on the subpoena.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

"Very truly yours,

WILLIAM A. CARMACHAEL,

"District Director, Los Angeles District."

This is another letter. I have just received a different letter because the first letter shown to me was signed by a different person.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. The letter you are now looking at, Mr. St. Clair, is different from the one you showed me a little while ago, isn't it?

A. (Examining letter): Is it?

Here is the other one. (Producing letter.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Does counsel have both letters?

Presiding Inspector: He has now.

Mr. Del Guercio: Did he see it before?

Mr. Gladstein: No.

Presiding Inspector: They are identical except the signature.

The Witness: I had both of them in the same envelope.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Are these two letters, the ones I am holding in my hands, the only ones, only documents that were ever served on you, given to you, or mailed to you in connection with your [1844] appearing in this case? A. Mailed to me.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Listen to me: You just gave me two letters. I have them in my hand. You said you received these letters in the mail, both of them?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, except for these two letters, did you ever receive any other letter, or document, or anything else——

A. (Interposing): No, no.

Q. (Continuing): Wait a minute—in connection with your appearing here as a witness?

A. No, sir; never did receive any paper or document of any kind except them two right there.

Mr. Gladstein: And the record will show neither of those letters is itself a subpoena.

Presiding Inspector: You can have them read into the record if you want to. It doesn't prove that he was served with a subpoena.

Mr. Gladstein: That is correct.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, when you came to San Francisco, after getting these letters, did you have any conversations with anybody as to what you were going to testify to? A. Yes, I did.

Q. Who? [1845] A. With Mr. Findlay.

Q. Anybody else? A. No.

Q. No one else at all? A. No; just him.

Q. He is the only one to whom you talked about what you were going to testify to here in court?

A. The only officer in connection with the Federal Bureau of Investigation that interviewed me in regard to the statement I have made before appearing at this hearing.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. Did any of the Attorneys for the Government talk with you as to what you were going to say?

A. No man, no one else, except Mr. Findlay.

Mr. Del Guercio: Ask him if I talked to him.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did Mr. Del Guercio talk to you?

A. He never asked me any questions whatsoever.

Mr. Del Guercio: Ask him if Mr. Myron talked to him.

Mr. Gladstein: Do you want to conduct the examination?

Presiding Inspector: Make your objections to me as the Presiding Inspector.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead.

By Mr. Gladstein: [1846]

Q. You remember the last hearing against Harry Bridges, don't you?

A. I remember that last hearing; yes, sir.

Q. In connection with that hearing do you remember of going up to Mr. Bridges' office and telling him that you wanted to talk with him about testifying in his favor? A. My God——

Presiding Inspector: "Yes" or "No"?

A. No.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You never did?

A. Never did go to Harry Bridges' office.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. You don't like Harry Bridges, do you?

A. No more. In the eyes of the world—no.

Q. Do you want to see him deported?

A. You tell it to the world I do. He deserves to be.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to these questions.

Mr. Gladstein: This is on the matter of animus. I am entitled to go into that.

Presiding Inspector: I think so. He answered the question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you remember when you went to Mayor Rossi's office? A. I remember that; yes.

Q. Did you go up there to tell him Bridges was using [1847] his name?

A. No. I didn't tell him at that time Bridges was using his name. I didn't know whether Harry Bridges was using that name or not. But I saw ILWU stationery, with a letter on it, that laid on Catherine McKee's desk, that bore the signature of Harry, or H. B. Rossi. That was on ILWU stationery.

I said to Catherine McKee, "Is there a Rossi working in the offices of the ILWU, or on the waterfront?

She said, "St. Clair, you have no business reading my mail, letters on the desk."

I said, "I am not reading the letter. I just observed the signature, 'H. B. Rossi.'" So she just laughed.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Q. You mean there was a signature on a letter which had the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union printed on the top, is that right? A. That is correct.

Q. And on the bottom of the letter was signed "H. B. Rossi?" A. H. B. Rossi; yes, sir.

Q. Is that correct? A. Right.

Q. Did you tell that to anybody?

A. Yes, I did. I reported that to the FBI.

Q. Who else did you tell it to?

A. I believe I reported it to the District Attorney's [1848] Office in Los Angeles.

Q. Who else did you tell it to?

A. That is all that I know of.

Q. Did you ever tell Mayor Rossi about it?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever tell his Secretary to tell him about it? A. No.

Mr. Gladstein: In the question I am about to ask, your Honor, I do not mean any implication of any kind, but I am simply asking it as a question of fact.

Mr. Del Guercio: Why are you making excuses for it?

Mr. Gladstein: I am saying this in advance because I expect some objection or comment to be made to it.

Presiding Inspector: Don't answer the question until we know what it is.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. St. Clair, have you ever been confined in any institution of any kind—"yes" or "no"?

The Witness: Shall I answer the question?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

A. No.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You say you are working for a man by the name of Kerr now?

A. I am working for Mr. Kerr. [1849]

Q. How do you spell it? A. K-e-r-r.

Q. What sort of business is that?

A. It is a business where he furnishes animals of all kinds, of all descriptions, to the M-G-M movies for making pictures.

Q. And where is that business located?

A. I will give you the exact address.

Mr. Del Guercio: I think he showed that letter to the reporter this morning and he got an address from it.

The Witness: I am willing to produce the letter and let the Court see it.

(Handing letter indicated to the Presiding Inspector.)

The Witness: I suppose he is trying to make something out of that.

Mr. Del Guercio: I ask that the letter be read in evidence on account of counsel's implication here.

Mr. Gladstein: I have made no implication.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

Mr. Del Guercio: You said an implication was involved.

Mr. Gladstein: The witness has just shown me a letter, the only material portion of which, in so far as my last question is concerned, appears to be the address of the place where he says he is employed. That address appears to be 13812 Budlong Street, Gardena, California.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, counsel here [1850] made a statement to the Court that he was about to ask a question that might have some implication. I think he, in fairness to the witness and to the Court, should read this letter here.

Presiding Inspector: That doesn't seem to have any reference to being confined in any institution.

Mr. Del Guercio: It will probably show the character of this person as understood by his employer.

Presiding Inspector: We will come to that later. I won't accept it at the present.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Is this the address, Mr. St. Clair, 13812 Budlong Street, Gardena, California, where you work?

A. That is right. [1851]

Mr. Gladstein: That is all, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Just a moment! Just to see that you understand that question which Mr. Gladstein asked you about, I suppose he meant to include not only the places where people are confined for punishment but places where people are confined for mental troubles or something of that kind.

The Witness: No.

Presiding Inspector: You have never been in any State Hospital?

The Witness: Never have been.

Presiding Inspector: Or anything of that kind?

The Witness: No.

Presiding Inspector: That is all. I wanted to be sure that he understood the question.

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes.

Redirect Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. May I see that letter that you showed Mr. Gladstein there?

A. The letter? The subpoena letter or——

Q. (Interposing): No, where you are employed?

A. Where I am employed?

Q. Yes.

A. (Handing letter to Counsel.) [1852]

Mr. Del Guercio: I have here a letter dated "Gardena, California, Fowls of Distinction" on the letterhead.

"To whom it may concern:

"Greetings:

"This is to certify that the bearer, Richard St. Clair, has been in my employ for some time. I have found him to be exceptionally trustworthy, an efficient workman, and an employee that I can fully recommend to anyone.

(Testimony of Richard A. St. Clair.)

(Signed) "J. H. KERR."

That is all.

Presiding Inspector: That's all. You are excused.

The Witness: I am surprised it ended so soon.

(Witness excused.)

JOHN OLIVER THOMPSON

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio?

Q. What is your name?

A. John Oliver Thompson.

Q. Where do you live, Mr. Thompson?

A. 99 Bennett Avenue, Yonkers, New York.

Q. Are you employed at the present time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where were you born, Mr. Thompson? [1853]

A. Portsmouth, Virginia.

Q. And of what country are you a citizen?

A. United States of America.

Q. Have you ever been out of the United States?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many times?

A. Oh, it would be hard to say, sir, as a sailor.

Q. In what capacity?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. A sailor; a seaman in the Merchant service.

Q. Have you ever been a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you first join the Communist Party?

A. Well, I joined the Young Communist League in 1929.

Q. Where? A. In Baltimore, Maryland.

Q. Do you know the month of the year?

A. I think it was around November, 1929.

Q. And how long did you remain a member of the Young Communist League?

A. Oh, till about 1932.

Q. And then what did you do?

A. Then I joined the Communist Party. I graduated into the Communist Party.

Q. Where? A. In New York City. [1854]

Q. Did anyone solicit your membership in either the Young Communist League or the Communist Party? A. I don't understand that.

Q. Did anyone ask you to join the Communist Party?

A. Well, you automatically graduate after a certain age in the Young Communist League. You automatically graduate into the Communist Party.

Q. And how long did you remain in the Communist Party? A. Until August, 1935.

Q. And while you were a member of the Communist Party where did you live?

A. I lived in Baltimore, for a while—I mean, in New York. I lived for a while at the Workers'

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Cooperative House up at Alden Avenue in the Bronx, and then I lived on 342 East 13th Street.

Q. Did you go to any schools while you were a member of the Communist Party?

A. I went to the New York District School and to the Workers' School there, the National School.

Q. New York District School?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was that?

A. That was a school they had for training organizers for the Party.

Q. For what party?

A. For the Communist Party. [1855]

Q. And where was it conducted?

A. It was conducted at 35 East 12th Street.

Q. What is that address? Who occupies that address?

A. Well, the national office of the Communist Party, the Daily Worker office, the Morning Freiheit and various other offices.

Q. Is that a Communist conducted school?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who were the instructors?

A. The head instructor was Markoff, and we had J. Peters.

Q. Peters? A. J. Peters.

Q. J. Peters?

A. Yes, sir. Jerome, Browder instructed us there, too, and Clarence Hathaway, Robert Minor.

Q. Did you attend this school daily?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. I attended that school daily for a month.

Q. For a month? A. Yes.

Q. What is the name of the other school that you attended?

A. That was called the National School. The National Training School.

Q. And who conducted that school? [1856]

A. That was conducted by the same people.

Q. The same people. You mean Communists?

A. The same instructors, only it was for a longer period.

Q. To go back, first, to the District School you called it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What instructions were you given there?

A. There we were given instructions on how to organize in the unions; carry out Party work in the unions; increasing the membership of the Party and seeing that the Party line was followed out.

Q. Can you speak a little louder?

A. That was to see how to—learn how to carry out the Party line in the unions.

Q. Any particular unions?

A. Well, I was active in the Marine Workers Industrial Union at that time.

Q. And were you given any instructions as to what you should carry out in the Marine Workers Industrial Union?

A. Well, we were to organize the seamen and get the seamen in the unions so we can have them into the Party later.

Q. To have them into what Party?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. The Communist Party. [1857]

Q. Were you instructed to go out and recruit seamen for the Marine Workers Industrial Union?

A. Yes, for the——

Q. For the what?

A. For the Marine Workers Industrial Union.

Q. Well, do I understand you correctly that you were instructed to go out and get seamen to join the Marine Workers Industrial Union?

A. That's right.

Q. That was one of the instructions?

A. Yes.

Q. What else were you instructed to do?

A. Then we later on in the National School were taught underground work and how to sabotage on the ships in case of strife, revolution.

Q. Who gave those instructions?

A. Those were given by Peters.

Q. J. Peters? A. J. Peters.

Q. And was he a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, what instructions did they give you regarding the sabotaging of ships?

A. How to put sand in the bearings, in the oil cups and to drain the glycerine out of the steering apparatus. [1858]

Q. Did you receive any other instructions?

A. Not in that line. That was instructions mostly to the fellows there who worked in the engine department, and I belonged to the deck department.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. How long did you attend that school, the second school? A. Three months.

Q. Did you attend it daily?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Daily for three months? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many times a week?

A. Oh, it was every day, the full day, five days a week, and then a half a day on Saturday.

Q. Were you employed during that period of time? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you being paid by the Communist Party?

A. My room and board was being paid by the Communist Party.

Q. While you were attending this school?

A. Yes.

Q. Or both schools? A. Yes.

Q. How many students were there in these schools?

A. Well, in the District School I would say there were about 60. [1859]

Q. 60?

A. 60 in the group I was in.

Q. And in the National School?

A. In the National School was a little larger.

Q. How many?

A. I would say about 150 or so.

Q. And both these schools were conducted in the Communist Party headquarters in New York City, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. By the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Presiding Inspector: Did he give the exact dates of the attendance at these schools?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes. I thought he did.

Presiding Inspector: Perhaps he did.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. When did you go to the District School?

A. That was started in, I believe it was around the third of January.

Q. What year? A. 1931.

Q. 1931. And you attended the District School for one month? A. One month.

Q. And when did you start going to the National [1860] School?

A. Well, I started a few weeks after the District School was over. I don't remember the exact dates.

Q. Did you have to go to the District School first before you could attend the National School?

A. That's right.

Q. And you attended the National School for how long? A. Three months.

Q. Did the instructors use text books?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What text books were used?

A. Well,——

Q. (Interposing) Do you remember the names of any of them?

A. They had Lenin on "Organization".

Q. They had what?

A. Lenin on "Organization", Political Economy, and they had some books—they were mimeographed sheets. They had no name. They were, I think, published by Peters—written by Peters himself, and those were on underground work.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. In the National School what books were used for instruction?

A. Those are the books that I am talking about.

Q. Oh, at the National School? A. Yes.

[1861]

Q. Did they use any text books for instruction on sabotage?

A. Yes, sir. They had regular mimeographed books.

Q. They had mimeographed books?

A. They had mimeographed sheets put together. They passed out those and collected them up every night.

Q. Now, in giving these instructions, concerning sabotage, putting sand in the machinery on ships, and so on, did the instructors say that was the doctrine of the Communist Party, the policy of the Communist Party?

Mr. Gladstein: If your Honor please, I suggest that the question in its present form is leading, and I suggest that Mr. Del Guercio simply ask the witness for his recollection of the document without putting the words in his mouth.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I don't know about the last part of the objection, but I think it is leading. See whether he doesn't recollect in general what the instruction was as to the practices recommended by the Communist Party with respect to sabotage.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. This was a Communist conducted school, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were all instructions that were given at that [1862] school Communist matters?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were the instructions on sabotage also a Communist matter? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know of it was the accepted policy of the Communist Party at that time to advocate sabotage? A. Absolutely.

Q. And where did you learn that? In the School? A. In the National School.

Q. Did the instructor tell you when you were to do this sabotaging of ships, on what occasions and under what situations?

A. Well, that was in time of strife and in times of a crisis or war, especially if the war was against the Soviet Union.

Q. And did the instructor tell you for what purpose you were to do these things?

A. Well, they were to weaken the armed forces of the country. The Merchant Marine was an auxiliary of the Navy.

Q. Of what country?

A. Of our own country.

Q. Of the United States? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were any instructions given regarding the over- [1863] throw of the Government of the United States by force and violence?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. That is their accepted doctrine, was what we were taught. That was the only way we could do it.

Q. Were instructions in that connection given at this school in New York? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what instructions were given in that connection regarding the use of force and violence and overthrow of the Government?

A. Well, we were instructed that we have to work very hard, establish nucleus in the Army and Navy, so when the precise moment comes we would be able to overthrow the Government.

Q. Did they instruct you how you were to overthrow it?

A. Well, supposed to be a revolution.

Q. What kind of a revolution?

A. Well, when they give the orders.

Q. Well, was it a revolution of words?

A. No; it was by force of arms, because they claim that the capitalists would never give in peacefully.

Q. Were you ever employed in the Communist Party headquarters in New York City?

A. Yes, sir. [1864]

Q. In what capacity?

A. Well, I worked there for 18 months as a night watchman, and then the rest of the time I worked as elevator operator on the night shift.

Q. When did you commence your employment as a night watchman? A. May, 1931.

Q. May, 1931. And who employed you?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. I was given the job by Peters.

Q. J. Peters? A. He got me the job.

Q. And as night watchman what were your duties?

A. My duties was to go around to all the offices. I had keys to all offices. It was to go to all the offices and see that nobody hid in there to steal documents and to see that no one got into the building who weren't Communist Party members?

Q. Did you become familiar with all the offices in that building? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when did you begin your duties as elevator operator? A. About November.

Q. Of what year?

A. November of 1932, I guess. [1865]

Q. And how long did you continue in that capacity? A. Until August, 1935.

Q. And who employed you as elevator operator?

A. Well, the official name was the "Workers Center."

Q. The Workers what?

A. The Workers Center. That's the organization that I was supposed to be working for, the Workers Center.

Q. And what kind of an organiaztion was that?

A. They were supposed to be the ones who managed the building.

Q. Well, was it connected with the Communist Party?

A. Yes, sir. The Superintendent was a member of the Communist Party. We all had to be members of the Communist Party to work there.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. Could you be employed in that building without being a member of the Communist Party?

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you assigned to any particular elevator?

A. The elevator on the 12th Street side of the building, on 35 East 12th Street.

Q. And by whom was that elevator used?

A. Well, it was used by mostly anybody, especially for the ninth floor. They only used one elevator for that, where the national offices were.

Q. What was on the ninth floor? The national offices of what? [1866]

A. The national offices of the Young Communist League and the national offices of the Communist Party.

Q. During any time that you were employed on that elevator did you see Harry Bridges?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recognize Harry Bridges in this court room?

A. The man sitting right over there with the gray suit on (Indicating).

Q. When did you see him in that elevator in this Communist Party headquarters in New York?

A. I am not sure of the exact date, but I believe it was in the latter part of '34 or the first part of '35.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. Now, had you ever seen Harry Bridges before that time? A. No, sir.

Q. How did you know it was Harry Bridges?

A. Because it was my duty whenever there was a meeting, a Central Committee meeting, to stay on that elevator and run that elevator until the meeting was over, and only Communist Party officials could go up to that meeting, members of the Central Committee.

Q. Now, was there a meeting of the Central Executive Committee going on at the time you saw Harry Bridges in your elevator? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who gave you these instructions that nobody but [1867] Communist Party members were to go in that elevator while a meeting of the Central Executive Board was going on?

A. I got if from my boss Charles Kellener.

Q. Who? A. Charles Kellener.

Q. Charles who? A. Charles Kellener.

Q. Spell that. A. K-e-l-l-e-n-e-r.

Q. Is he a member of the Communist Party?

A. Yes.

Q. Was anybody with Harry Bridges at the time?

A. I believe Roy Hudson and Peters.

Q. Who is Roy Hudson?

A. Roy Hudson, he was the member of the Marine Workers Industrial Union on the East Coast.

Q. And is he also a member of the Communist Party?

A. He is a member of the Political Bureau?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. A member of the Political Bureau?

A. Yes.

Q. That is the highest body in the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And is that the same Peters who was giving you instructions in this District School, the National School? A. Yes, sir.

Q. A member of the Communist Party? [1868]

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And where did you take Harry Bridges, Roy Hudson and J. Peters on your elevator?

A. It was my duty not to let people up on that floor who weren't members of the Committee.

Q. Who were not members of the Committee?

A. Yes, sir. So I asked Mr. Bridges which floor he was going on. He was continuing up. And it was either Peters or Hudson who said "That's all right. This is Comrade Bridges. He is with us."

Q. Could you take people up to the ninth floor on Roy Hudson's O.K.? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And on Peters' O.K.? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you take Harry Bridges up to the ninth floor? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You let him off? A. Yes, sir.

Q. On the ninth floor? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did Roy Hudson say to you before you took Harry Bridges up to the ninth floor? Just what did he say?

A. Well, I asked—I said "Where are you going"? see. He said, "That's all right". [1869]

Q. Asked who where he was going?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. Bridges.

Q. And then Roy Hudson spoke up?

A. I'm not sure whether it was Hudson or Peters now who spoke up and said, "That's all right. This is Comrade Bridges."

Q. Did he say "Comrade Bridges"?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he say anything else?

A. That's all. [1870]

Q. When Peters said this where was Harry Bridges? A. In the elevator.

Q. Did you hear Peters say that?

A. I assume I did.

Q. Was he within hearing distance?

A. Yes; it was a very small elevator.

Q. Were you all in the elevator?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many people does that elevator hold?

A. The legal capacity was 13 people, but we could never carry more than 10 on it.

Q. How many people were in the elevator at the time this conversation occurred?

A. There were three besides myself.

Q. Who were they?

A. Peters, Hudson and Bridges.

Q. Anyone else? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know where Harry Bridges went after he got off the elevator on the 9th floor?

A. I guess he went to the room where the meeting was being held?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. Do you know where he went—did you see him go anywhere? A. No, sir. [1871]

Q. Are there any other offices, other than the offices of the Central Executive Committee of the Communist Party and the Young Communist League, on the ninth floor?

A. Their Central Control Committee room.

Q. Of what?

A. Of the Communist Party.

Q. Any other offices? A. That is all.

Q. Do you know how long Harry Bridges remained up on the 9th floor?

A. The meeting was over about two o'clock in the morning.

Q. What time of the day was this that you took Harry Bridges up?

A. I guess it was some time before ten o'clock.

Q. Ten o'clock in the morning?

A. At night. I went on for the shift from 3:00 to 11:00. I generally had to stay there when there was a meeting—I have to stay later until everybody is out.

Q. How long did you stay there that night?

A. I stayed almost to 3:00 o'clock. The meeting was over a little after 2:00. I had to go up to the top and taken two elevator loads down.

Q. The meeting was over about two o'clock in the morning? A. Yes. [1872]

Q. The next morning? A. Yes.

Q. Did you take Harry Bridges down?

A. Well, I didn't pay any particular attention to who I took down, but I took everybody up there down.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. How many loads did you take down?

A. I guess I took about three loads; about 30 people.

Q. Do you know the names of any of those that you took down? A. I know some of them.

Q. Will you give their names?

A. There was Peters, Tommy Raye, Durbin, Wiener.

Q. Let me ask you this—question: Did you recognize all of the people, not all of the people, but those that you did observe, as being members of the Communist Party?

A. Oh, yes; couldn't let them up otherwise.

Q. Did you see anyone there that was not a member of the Communist Party?

A. No, sir.

Q. You said, Mr. Thompson, that you were familiar with all of the offices in the Communist Party headquarters because you were night watchman for a period of time there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Tell me what offices were in the building—how many floors are there in that buildi [1873]

A. There are nine floors.

Q. And what are some of the offices that are in that building?

A. Well, on the second floor was the Editor's office of the Russian newspaper, Novymir.

The Reporter: Spell it, please.

The Witness: I do not know how to spell it.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Mr. Del Guercio: N-o-v-y-m-i-r—is that agreed, Mr. Gladstein?

Mr. Gladstein: I don't know what you are talking about.

Mr. Del Guercio: The name of the Russian newspaper.

Mr. Gladstein: Are you asking me?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: Why are you asking me?

Presiding Inspector: He thought you might perhaps know.

Mr. Gladstein: I don't happen to know.

Presiding Inspector: That is all.

Mr. Gladstein: Why don't you ask the witness?

Presiding Inspector: He did. He gave the name, but couldn't spell it.

Mr. Gladstein: The witness didn't know so, therefore, you are asking somebody else?

Presiding Inspector: He said he didn't know how to spell it. It wasn't quite that way. He didn't know how to spell it. He gave the name.

[1874]

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. What other offices were there?

A. On the third floor, the Workers' School office, and all the class rooms.

Q. And on the fourth floor?

A. On the fourth floor there was the Finnish Press, the Finnish Workers' office, Federation office.

Q. On the fifth floor?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. On the fifth floor was the District Committee of the YCL, and the District Committee of the Communist Party.

Q. That was the New York District?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And YCL—that is the Young Communist League? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was on the 6th floor?

A. On the 6th floor was the Morning Freiheit office, the Editor's office and the Financial office—that is all I can recollect on that floor.

Q. What was on the 7th floor?

A. On the 7th floor was the print shop where they had all the setting up of the type for the Daily Worker, linotype machines, etc.

Q. What was on the 8th floor?

A. On the 8th floor they had the Daily Worker offices.

Q. Do you know who comprised the Central Executive [1875] Committee of the Communist Party during the period of time that you were employed there? A. I didn't get the question.

Presiding Inspector: Read the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. I don't know all of them because once in a while they change.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Those that you do know, name them?

A. There was Browder.

Q. Earl Browder? A. Yes; Robert Minor.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. Minor is the person who replaced Earl Browder, at the present time head of the Communist Party?

A. I don't know who he replaced. He was a writer on the Daily Worker's staff at that time.

Also Clarence Hathaway was on it.

Q. Do you know any others?

A. Not right off-hand, I can't remember the names of them.

Q. Did you mention Roy Hudson?

A. He was on the Political Bureau of the Communist Party and also on the Central Committee.

Q. Who is Tommy Raye you mentioned as being one of the persons with Mr. Bridges at the time you took him up to the [1876] 9th floor?

A. He was a member of the Marine Workers Industrial Union and also a leading Party official. He was on the Top Fraction of the Union and on the Political Bureau of the Party.

Mr. Del Guercio: Does your Honor want to stop here?

Presiding Inspector: Unless you can finish.

Mr. Del Guercio: I won't be able to finish.

Presiding Inspector: Tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

(Whereupon, at 4:10 P. M. an adjournment was taken to Thursday, April 24, 1941, at 10:00 A. M.) [1877]

Court Room 276,

PROCEEDINGS

Presiding Inspector: Call the witness, Mr. Del Guercio.

Mr. Del Guercio: He will be in shortly.

JOHN OLIVER THOMPSON

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Direct Examination (Resumed)

Presiding Inspector: Anything further, Mr. Del Guercio?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes, your Honor.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. Thompson, while you were employed in the Communist Party headquarters in New York City did you ever have occasion to see a Mr. McCuiston? A. William McCuiston; yes.

Reporter: Spell it please.

Mr. Del Guercio: M-c-C-u-i-s-t-o-n.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. And in what capacity?

A. Well, I think he was connected with the Marine Workers Industrial Union and he used to come there to the Top Fraction meetings which were held on the fifth floor.

Q. Speak a little louder, please?

A. He used to come to Top Fraction meetings there that were held on the fifth floor in the District Committee's office.

Q. Top fraction meetings of the Marine Workers [1879] Industrial Union?

A. Of the Marine Workers Industrial Union; yes.

Q. Did they hold meetings in the Communist Party headquarters? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How often?

A. Some time they held them in the quarters there and sometimes they held them in friends' houses, sympathizers' houses.

Q. And during what period of time was this?

A. Well, the last time I seen them was around '34.

Q. Around '34? A. Yes.

Q. Did you attend any of those meetings?

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you ever a member of the Marine Workers Industrial Union?

A. I was from the convention, when we went from the Marine Workers League to the Marine Workers Industrial Union, and that was in 1930, up until about '32, I was still in the Union.

Q. Was the Marine Workers Industrial League the successor of the Marine Workers League?

A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. And what was the Marine Workers League?

[1880]

A. Well, that was the beginning of organizing the Union in the Marine industry, and later on we got orders from the Party that the time was ripe to hold a convention and form an industrial union.

Q. And was the Marine Workers League—was it the Marine Workers League or the Marine Workers Industrial League?

A. The Marine Workers League.

Q. Was it connected with the Communist Party? A. Yes, it was an auxiliary.

Q. It was what?

A. It was an auxiliary of the Party. All the leading functionaries were leading Party members.

Q. Do you know a Betty Gannett?

A. Yes. I know her from Philadelphia. She is on the District Committee. That's where I first met her.

Q. District Committee of what?

A. Of the Communist Party in Philadelphia.

Q. Did you ever have any business with her?

A. Well, in 1930, towards September, 1930, we called a strike there in Philly. It was supposed to be a strike there. So the A. F. of L. local during the time we were calling the strike, they went over and took the union hall away from us.

Q. What is that?

A. They took the union hall away from us.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. Who?

A. Polly Baker and his gang in Philly. [1881]

Q. What connection did Betty Gannett have?

A. So we went up to Communist Party headquarters about it. I believe it was on Spring Garden Street at that time. We discussed it up there. So there was Bill Lawrence and Betty Gannett and a few more of the leading functionaries up there. They decided the best way to get the hall back and protect ourselves was to have arms. We were given a German Luger, a .32 and a couple of sawed-off shotguns.

Q. Who gave you those guns?

A. Betty Gannett and Bill Lawrence.

Q. Was Lawrence a member of the Communist Party at that time?

A. I believe he was District Organizer at that time.

Q. Do you know Joseph Curran?

A. Well, I don't know his too well. I know he is a member of the Party.

Q. How do you know he is a member of the Communist Party?

A. Well, from seeing him around the headquarters there attending meetings.

Q. Have you ever been convicted of any felony?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have? A. Yes, sir.

Q. For what?

A. I was convicted of manslaughter. [1882]

Q. Where? A. In New York City

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. When?

A. That was on December 21, 1939.

Q. And were you sentenced?

A. Yes, sir. Two to five.

Q. Two to five years? A. Yes.

Q. And what sentence did you serve?

A. I served about 17 months.

Q. Seventeen months?

A. I am out on parole now.

Q. You are out on parole at the present time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you ever been convicted of any other crame? A. No, sir.

Q. At any time? A. No, sir.

Mr. Del Guervio: You may cross examine.

Cross Examination

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. When did you leave the Communist Party, Mr. Thompson? A. In August, 1935.

Q. And how did you happen to leave?

A. Well, that was discussed with the Party there. I [1883] see them pulling the wool over our eyes and I decided to give it up.

Q. Did you make the decision suddenly?

A. No; it was in my mind for quite a few months.

Q. Did you remain active in the Communist Party work until August 1935?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. When did you become inactive?

A. Oh, I guess it was around about April.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. Did you do anything at all in the Communist Party between April and August of 1935?

A. Probably attended a few meetings.

Q. That is all? A. All to my knowledge.

Q. Did you express your attitude toward the Party to any of the Party officials between April and August of 1935?

A. Well, I expressed it to the manager of the building. He wanted to know why I was inactive so I told him. He said, "Well, it is either you be a party member or get out of the building. We can't have you working here if you are not a Party member."

Of course, I quit.

Two weeks later he sent for me. Hines and John Harvey were out to the house to see me, if I wouldn't come back. I wouldn't come back. [1884]

Later I was sent for by the Control Commission to come up to see Durbin. So I wouldn't go back. And a few weeks later my name and picture, I believe, was in the Daily Worker as being expelled.

Q. What were you expelled for, if you know?

A. An enemy of the working class, I believe it was.

Q. Do you remember any more details than that?

A. No; I didn't pay much attention to it.

Q. Did you read any items that may have appeared in the Daily Worker concerning your expulsion? A. No.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. How did you know that an item was in the Daily Worker then?

A. There was a small line that was called to my attention.

Q. Did you read it?

A. I glanced over it. I wasn't much interested in it.

Q. Did anyone ever tell you whether there were any other reasons for your expulsion?

A. No, sir.

Q. When did you quit your job in the building?

A. It was on August 14, 1935.

Q. You mean just about the same time you left the Communist Party? A. Right.

Q. When did you first tell the manager—when did the [1885] manager of the building discuss with you your not carrying out Party duties, or your not being a good Communist Party member?

A. Oh, he discussed that with me two or three times.

Q. When was the first time?

A. I guess it was around May.

Q. Around May? A. Yes.

Q. And it is your testimony that despite the criticism which he then made of your Communist Party inactivity and attitude, that they nevertheless allowed you to continue working in the building between May and August of 1935?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know whether your job in the building was considered a confidential one?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. Absolutely was.

Q. Didn't you consider it strange that a man who indicated his attitude to be unfriendly to some extent to the Communist Party should be kept for several months in a position of importance and trust?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment. I object to that as being argumentative.

Presiding Inspector: I will take it. It is cross examination. You may answer.

Do you understand the question?

The Witness: Yes. I wouldn't consider that exactly unfriendly. I was told to go home and think it over. They said, [1886] "You are probably tired and all you need is a rest."

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you honestly express your attitude at that time to the manager of the building?

A. Well, I told him I was sick of the whole business.

Q. Don't you consider that unfriendly?

A. No.

Q. You stated the other day, rather yesterday, Mr. Thompson, that on this occasion when you saw Harry Bridges it was the latter part of 1934 or the early part of 1935. Is it possible for you to fix it any more definitely than that?

A. No, I can't. I know it was in the winter months, round that part, because it was right after, six or seven months after the strike, the general strike, and there was a lot of discussion going on.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

concerning the lessons to be learned from the failings of the strike. At that time there was a committee meeting. Central Committee meeting.

Q. How early might it have been—could it have been as early as September of 1935? A. No.

Q. '34? A. No; it couldn't have been.

Q. Could it have been as early as October of 1934? A. I doubt it very much.

Q. Could it have been as early as November of 1934? [1887] A. It could have been.

Q. You do remember that it was in the winter months?

A. It was cold because I remember the people were wearing overcoats then.

Q. I am going to have to ask you which are the winter months in New York?

A. What is that?

Q. Which are the winter months in New York?

Mr. Del Guercio: I think the Court will take notice of that.

Mr. Grossman: I am entitled to know what the witness considers as the winter months there.

Presiding Inspector: You mean what he considers the winter months?

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. What do you consider the winter months in New York?

A. It generally gets cold there around the latter part of October and stays cold until after April.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. You don't consider April as one of the winter months, do you?

A. No; but it was cold enough to wear a coat.

Q. Well, it is your testimony that if you have to fix it more definitely it is much more likely it was in the [1888] November-December-January range than any other months of the year that you saw Harry Bridges there?

A. Around that time.

Q. Is there any event which enables you to fix it more definitely than you have yet fixed it—do you remember anything that was happening about the time that you saw Harry Bridges?

A. The only thing I remember was a committee meeting up on the 9th floor. I think there was some discussion going on about that time about elections, or something, out here on the west coast, and some dealings with the ILA in New York.

[1889]

Q. Do you remember whether it was before or after Christmas or before or after New Years?

A. Well, that's hard to say.

Q. Is it still your best recollection that it was about six months after the general strike?

A. Six or seven months, I believe.

Q. Could this have been as late as August, 1935?

A. No, sir.

Q. As late as July of 1935? A. No, sir.

Q. As late as June of 1935? A. No.

Presiding Inspector: He said "No".

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Answer so that the reporter can hear. As late as May of 1935? A. No, sir.

Q. As late as April of 1935?

A. It could have been.

Q. It could have been. Do you think that's likely?

A. Well, if I knew the exact time I would state it, but I don't know the exact time.

Q. Does it appear to you now——

A. (Interposing) No, sir.

Q. (Continuing) ——that it wasn't as late as May? [1890]

A. I don't think it could have been as late as May because we was wearing overcoats yet.

Q. Would your answer be the same as to April?

A. What?

Q. Would your answer be the same as to April?

A. Well, no. It could have been because April is cool. A lot of times in New York it is quite cool.

Q. Was this the only time that you had ever seen Harry Bridges? A. That's right.

Q. And until you came to his hearing it was the only time you had seen Harry Bridges?

A. Right.

Q. Have you ever been shipping out as a seaman recently? A. No, sir.

Q. When was the last time you shipped as a seaman?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. I think the last time I paid off the ship was in 1930, in December, in Galveston, Texas.

Q. What work have you done——

A. (Interposing) I was taken off that ship, by the way.

Q. I beg your pardon?

A. I was taken off that ship by John Harvey of the Immigration Authorities, and so forth. We were going to dynamite it for the Party. [1891]

Q. What work have you done since you left the Communist Party? Will you itemize the various jobs, please.

A. Well, I worked on the WPA as a guard.

Q. Was that the first job you had after you left the Communist Party?

A. The first job was the WPA.

Q. And how long did you have that?

A. I worked on there—let's see! I worked in September, I believe; September the 23rd, 1935, and worked a couple of months as a laborer and then I was promoted to a guard and worked until November 14, 1936.

Q. Was that in New York City?

A. New York City, up in the Bronx.

Q. What was your next job?

A. The next job I worked for Douglas Elman Real Estate Corporation.

Q. Douglas who? A. Douglas Elman.

Q. How long did you work for him?

A. I worked there up until about December the—'36—I believe it was '37. It was December of '37, I believe. I worked there about 13 months, anyway.

Q. What kind of work did you do there?

A. Well, I was relief man.

Q. What does that mean?

A. Well, I run the elevator, relieved the elevator [1892] men on the days off, the firemen, the porter, the hallman, the doorman, etcetera.

Q. And after that what was your next job?

A. Well, was in the Tombs for a few months and I come out on bail.

Q. What were you in the Tombs for?

A. Manslaughter.

Presiding Inspector: The Tombs is the criminal prison in New York City.

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

A. (Continuing) And then I went back to work for the same people.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. You have been working for them up to date?

A. No. I worked for them until I was sentenced, and then after I come out I worked a while for a contracting company in New York.

Q. What was the name of the company?

A. William H. Hahn. That is 61 West 131 Street.

Q. What kind of work did you do there?

A. I was a helper, mixing cement, plaster and so forth; sidewalk jobs.

Q. How long did that job last?

A. I worked there until—I started there in

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

February of last year and I worked there until about June, the first part of June. That's 1940.

[1893]

Q. And after that?

A. After that I went to work at the Empire City race track.

Q. Doing what?

A. Working maintenance.

Q. Do you still hold that job. A. Right.

Q. You say you are at present on parole?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And how long a period is your parole?

Q. Oh, finish up in September, 1943.

Q. September, 1943?

A. Yes, I think it is September 13th.

Q. You pleaded guilty, did you not, to this offense? A. That's right.

Q. And the offense was committed, was it not, with a knife? A. Right.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I don't think it is proper ordinarily to question the witness here as to the nature of the offense.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I think I will allow that.

Mr. Del Guercio: I have no objection to it, but I think——

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. (Interposing) And the offense was committed against [1894] your wife, was it not?

A. Yes.

Q. You stabbed her in the back, did you not?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. No, not to my knowledge.

Q. Where was she stabbed?

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, if your Honor please, I object to that.

Presiding Inspector: What is the materiality of this?

Mr. Grossman: I think the nature of the offense——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) You have got a conviction of manslaughter. Now, if you want to ask what degree of manslaughter that would be all right. But we can't go into details and try this case over again.

Mr. Grossman: I am not trying to try the case over again.

Presiding Inspector: It doesn't affect his credibility.

Mr. Grossman: It does to some extent.

Presiding Inspector: Not with this Inspector. Now, go ahead. He has admitted the crime. The crime is well defined.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Have you ever been arrested on a charge of felony except for this manslaughter?

A. Yes. I believe I was arrested in 1933, New York City, down at the Garment Center. I was assigned to go out and do "dumping" by Irving Potash.

Q. What were you charged with? [1895]

A. Felonious assault.

Q. What was the disposition of the case?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. Well, it happened so that I was with the people that when the thing was around there and with those was going on, so they just picked up everybody.

Q. No. What I want to know is this: Was there a trial?

A. No, it was dismissed.

Q. You didn't plead, then?

A. No, dismissed.

Q. Have you ever at any other time been arrested and charged with a felony?

A. No.

Q. Have you been convicted of any crime except that which was mentioned? A. No, sir.

Q. Are you paroled at the present time to any individual or organization? A. No, sir.

Q. When did you first begin to run the elevator——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I think perhaps you ought to know something about the system in New York in that respect.

Mr. Grossman: Yes. [1896]

Presiding Inspector: Whom do you report to?

The Witness: I have a parole officer.

Presiding Inspector: He is a public officer?

The Witness: A public officer. I report to him once a month now.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. When did you start running the elevator in the Communist Party buildings?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. Well, I believe it was as—as an elevator operator?

Q. Yes.

A. I would say around November, around November of '32.

Q. Did you work continuously on the elevator from then until August '35?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you work on the same elevator all that time?

A. Well, once in a while when that elevator broke down, which happened very often—that was on the 13th Street side. [1897]

Q. Most of the time, and when it wasn't broken down you worked on a single elevator?

A. Right.

Q. That elevator—how would you describe that elevator as against the other elevators?

A. Well, the one on the—you mean the 13th Street side elevator?

Q. I am concerned with your describing the elevator you ran so that we can distinguish it from the others?

A. Well, it is a pretty small elevator.

Q. Does it do any different work, cover any different floors, run at any different times than the other elevators? A. No.

Q. All the elevators go to every floor?

A. All except the one on the 13th Street side; there are two that never touch the 9th floor.

Q. Did you work every day of the week?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. No, I had a day off.

Q. Do you remember which day it was regularly, if you had a day off?

A. I remember I was off—let me see—I believe I was off on a Sunday, Sunday afternoon, because I worked one night a week on this elevator on Saturday night. The watchman was off and I went on the elevator at 11:00 o'clock at night and worked [1898] to 7:00 o'clock Sunday morning. I didn't report back to work until about 3:00 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Q. That was your usual day off?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember what day of the week this occasion was when you saw Harry Bridges?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you remember whether it was your Saturday night?

A. I wouldn't know.

Q. How many times did you see McCuiston come into this building?

A. I have seen him quite often.

Q. How many times would that be?

A. I don't know. I wouldn't be able to say. I never counted the times. When you are on an elevator you take so many people up and you generally take them up by their faces because you get used to them.

Q. During what period of time did you see him?

A. I believe I seen him around, a few times, I think, it was in '31. I seen him there again around '34.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. You weren't running an elevator in '31, were you? A. What?

Q. You weren't running this elevator in '31?

A. No, but I was on as night watchman. I took the elevator at 11:00 o'clock at night and run it until everybody [1899] was out of the building.

Q. Did you see him in '32?

A. I don't think so.

Q. Did you see him in '33?

A. Could have been.

Q. Did you see him in '34? A. Right.

Q. Did you see him in '35? A. No.

Q. You didn't? A. No.

Q. Are you sure of that?

A. I can't be positive.

Q. Why do you think you didn't see him in '35—you don't recall?

A. I don't recall is all.

Q. Your best recollection is that you did not see him in '35?

A. To my best knowledge.

Q. You have answered questions about these respective years. Have you done it from your memory or have you figured it out from some independent information you have?

A. I am just trying to remember.

Q. Did you ever see Mr. McCuiston go anywhere else in the building except to the fifth floor? [1900]

A. No.

Q. You stated that he was going to Top Fraction meetings, I believe? A. Right.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. Did you state that? A. Yes.

Q. How did you know that?

A. Because I know quite a few other seamen used to come up there and there used to be Top Fraction meetings on that floor held once in a while, so I took it for granted that that was what he was going up for.

Q. What were the facts from which you took it for granted?

A. Because there were meetings being held up these, Top Fraction meetings, and they wouldn't have any seamen coming up at that time for any other reason. You know that yourself. They are very particular who they let around there.

Q. You mean that at particular times Top Fraction meetings were being held and at those same times he went to the fifth floor?

A. I wouldn't say every time.

Q. On some of the occasions? A. Yes.

Q. Do you have any other information to indicate when he went to the fifth floor he went to Top Fraction meetings? [1901] —

A. No.

Q. Did he ever tell you that he was attending Top Fraction meetings? A. No.

Q. Were there any other people on the floor when Top Fractions meetings were held?

A. Sometimes some big functionaries like Amter —A-m-t-e-r—and Krumbin were there.

The Reporter: Spell the last name, please.

The Witness: I don't know how.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Presiding Inspector: Spell it phonetically—K-r-u-m-b-i-n.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. How many different offices were there on the fifth floor?

A. You mean in number or name?

Q. Number.

A. I would say about nine or ten different doors.

Q. How many individuals worked regularly on that floor? A. That would be hard to say.

Q. Just an estimate? A. What?

Q. Just an estimate.

Mr. Del Guercio: If you know, if the Court please.

Mr. Grossman: I think an elevator man has general knowledge of such things. [1902]

Presiding Inspector: You mean continuously?

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. What would you say was the average number of persons that were working on this floor every day during the time that you were running the elevator?

A. That is hard to say for in a Party building like that they are coming and going all the time.

Q. Would it be more than ten people?

A. I presume so.

Q. Would it be close to 25?

A. I don't know.

Presiding Inspector: You mean exclusively on that floor?

Mr. Grossman: Yes; on the fifth floor.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Presiding Inspector: Exclusively?

Mr. Grossman: Yes; worked just on the fifth floor.

Presiding Inspector: You haven't shown that any worked there.

Mr. Grossman: He stated there were certain offices on this floor. I assume certain people regularly occupied those offices.

Presiding Inspector: I don't know.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. There were some people that worked on the 5th floor exclusively, weren't there?

A. Yes, there were. [1903]

Q. What offices were on that fifth floor?

A. They had the Party District office—that is the New York District the Y.C.L. District Office, and they had a District office of the Daily Worker. That is all I can recall.

Q. Were there more that you can't now recall the names of?

A. Well, there are more offices there but they were all connected with the same thing—like the Financial Secretary's office, David Leeds' office—that all belonged to the District Committee.

Q. When were these Party Top Fraction meetings held, during the day or during the night?

A. Most of the time they were held at night.

Q. You discussed yesterday your attendance at the National School, I think you called it?

A. National Training School.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. National Training School? A. Yes.

Q. During what period did you attend that school?

A. Well, I attended that school in 1931.

Q. Were there any other seamen at the school besides yourself?

A. I believe there were three or four there.

Q. And do you recall who they were? I don't ask your to name them, but I want to know if you recall who they were. [1904]

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that. If he is asking who they were certainly he ought to give their names.

Mr. Grossman: You can question him on that.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment——

Presiding Inspector: Don't argue.

Mr. Grossman: I think we have too many interruptions from Mr. Del Guercio. He can take care of it, if he is interested, on his examination.

Presiding Inspector: Counsel has a right to interrupt. He has his client, the Government, to represent here, just as you have your client, the Alien.

Mr. Grossman: Except I have no objection to his asking on his examination who they were, but if I am not interested I don't have to ask their names because he is interested in their names.

Mr. Del Guercio: Does counsel object to me addressing the Court?

Presiding Inspector: Look here—just a moment. You ask the next question. I want no argument on the matter.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. The next question is this: Without naming them, do you remember who the seamen were that were in the school with you?

A. You don't want their names?

Q. I asked if you recall who they were without naming them. [1905] A. I believe so.

Q. You can? A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall what kind of work they did on the ships, whether they were Masters or Engineers, or deck, or what?

A. There were three working in the black gang, in the engine department.

Q. All that you can recall were from the black gang, is that it, the engine room crew?

A. That is right.

Q. You were the only one from the deck department?

A. No; I believe there was another one there.

Q. And the five of you were all the seamen in this school? A. Yes.

Q. When were you first contacted by any representative of any Government agency with respect to what you knew about Harry Bridges?

A. I believe that was in October 1940.

Q. By whom were you contacted, and where?

A. By my parole officer, who came out to my house and told me that the FBI Agent wanted to see me—that he didn't want to come to the house and cause any disturbance—and he asked me to go up to the office. He didn't tell me what it [1906] was for, or anything.

Q. Did you go immediately to the FBI office?

A. I went the next day.

Q. Whom did you see there?

A. I seen a Mr. Pope, I believe is his name.

Q. Anyone else present when you talked to him?

A. There was one more person, but I don't remember his name.

Q. What has the first thing that was said when you began to talk with Mr. Pope?

A. Well, he asked me if I was a member of the Communist Party at any time, and I explained to him——

Q. (Interposing) Just a moment. Did you give him such information about your Communist Party membership. A. Right.

Q. You gave him correct information?

A. Right.

Q. What else did he ask?

A. He asked me about working there, how long I worked there, and so forth. I told him. Then he asked me the people I knew, and so forth, and he asked me if I had ever seen Harry Bridges in New York. I told him "Yes." He asked me if he was a member of the Communist Party, if I had ever seen his book ,and I told him, "No," I have never seen his book." [1907]

Q. Do you remember anything else about this conference?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. He asked me if I was willing to come out here and testify.

Q. What did you say?

A. I told him "Yes."

Q. Was any statement drawn up at that meeting for you to sign. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it typed or written? A. Typed.

Q. Did you sign it on this same occasion?

A. The same day.

Q. Did you see them again or did you see any representatives of the FBI again?

A. Yes. I went down there once more to see them.

Q. Why did you have to go down again?

A. Well, they sent for me.

Q. What happened the second time?

A. They asked me if I knew certain other people. They asked me names of certain other people and so forth.

Q. Whom did they ask you about?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to that question. It isn't material to the issue here. If they asked him about other people who were in the Communist Party [1908] headquarters it might have been for another purpose than this case here.

Presiding Inspector: I suppose you can confine it to this general subject.

Mr. Grossman: I beg your pardon?

Presiding Inspector: You mean this question as confined to this general subject?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Mr. Grossman: Oh, yes; except that he might not know the answer to that.

Presiding Inspector: I think I will take it.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. About what other people did they ask you?

A. They asked me about Tommy Raye and George Meek and Hudson and Wiener and Blake, Browder.

Q. Any other? A. Trachtenberg.

The Reporter: Spell it, please.

The Witness: I can't spell it.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did they ask you about McCuistion?

A. No.

Q. Did they ask you about McCuistion the first conference you had. A. No.

Q. Did they mention anything else about Bridges at the [1909] second conference or did they ask you about Bridges?

A. No. They asked me if I wasn't sure that he was a Party member. They asked me to think back.

Q. What did you tell them?

A. I told them I wasn't sure as far as his book was concerned, but that as far as being introduced as a Communist, that was enough, because only Communist Party members were allowed on the ninth floor. High Party members, too.

Q. Did you have any other conferences with representatives of the FBI?

A. Not until about a day before I come here. They came down and notified me I had to come.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. Did you have any discussion at that time about your testimony? A. No, sir.

Q. Or what you knew about Bridges?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did any of these FBI men tell you how they happened to get in touch with you?

A. They never did.

Q. Do you happen to know of your own knowledge how they knew, if they knew, that you had some information about Bridges?

A. The only way I figured they could know it is by my record, where I was arrested, and so forth, and where I worked.

Q. You mean when you were arrested you stated that you had worked formerly in the Communist Party headquarters? [1910] A. Right.

Q. Have you ever told anyone since this occasion when you saw Bridges about it up to the time that you talked to the FBI?

A. Up to the time?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, I talked to a couple of boys up there in the prison; two sailors.

Q. Before you went to prison did you ever mention it to anyone else?

A. My brother. He told me he attended an open unit meeting of the Communist Party and Joe Curran and so forth was all in there, and he asked me and we discussed those things.

Q. Did you tell it to anyone else?

A. No.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Q. Did you ever tell it to any other representative of the Governmental Agency, State or Federal?

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you ever testified before or given any statement to the Dies Committee?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever give a statement in connection with your arrest or imprisonment for manslaughter concerning what you know about Harry Bridges?

A. I don't understand that question. [1911]

Q. Did you ever give any statement in connection with your arrest or your imprisonment for manslaughter about what you know about Harry Bridges?

A. You mean when I was arrested?

Q. Well, I assume there are certain times when they ask you questions; your parole officer probably asks you questions and the prison probably asks you question.

A. I was never asked anything concerning the labor movement.

Q. Well, have you ever given such information in connection with questions that were asked you by reason of your arrest and conviction?

A. They never asked those sort of questions.

Presiding Inspector: You never did give any information to them?

The Witness: No, sir.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Did you ever tell your parole officer what you state you know about Bridges?

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

A. No, he never asked me much about it.

Q. Did you ever tell him?

A. No, not until—not until the day before I come here and he asked me about it. So I told him just how it was. So he says "Go there and tell the truth".

Q. Have you ever used any other name except John [1912] Thompson?

A. I used my Party name. Just "Jack".

Q. Anything else? A. Nope.

Q. Have you ever been offered any inducement whatsoever for testifying in this case?

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you offered any inducement whatsoever for giving a statement or affidavit to the Federal Bureau of Investigation? A. No, sir.

Q. Did anyone ever tell you that there might be some effect on your continuing out on parole if you did not cooperate with the FBI in this case?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that, your Honor. There is no foundation for it.

Presiding Inspector: No, there is no foundation for it. But I will allow it. I don't see exactly how that could be. But, then, go ahead. It is a state offense and not a government offense.

Mr. Grossman: Yes, except that parole violators can be pulled in rather easily, if the procedure is the same in New York, without a hearing or anything else. [1913]

Presiding Inspector: They can be.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Mr. Del Guercio: That statement of Counsel is out of order.

Presiding Inspector: It is quite the fact, however. Go ahead.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Has anyone ever told you that unless you cooperated with the FBI in this proceeding you would be sent back to prison?

A. No, sir. I just asked my parole officer was it necessary that I go, and he said "You, or anybody who gets a subpoena has to go."

Q. At the time you gave the statement to the FBI were you of the opinion that if you did not cooperate with them you might have to go back to prison to serve the rest of your term?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Grossman: That is all.

Presiding Inspector: Now, I have been thinking over the ruling that I made about his crime. If you want to ask him a little more about it, as this record will be read by others besides myself, I will let you do it.

Mr. Grossman: I think I have only one or two more questions on that.

Presiding Inspector: Of course, manslaughter is the [1914] causing of death without intention.

The Witness: Judge——

Presiding Inspector: (Waving hand negatively).

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Were you convicted of manslaughter in the first degree? A. Second degree.

Q. Second degree. And were you indicted for manslaughter in the first degree?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the second degree, is that right? A. Right.

Q. Now, the question I asked you before when we had some objection to the nature of the question was whether you had stabbed your wife in the back.

Presiding Inspector: He answered that question. That was answered.

Mr. Grossman: Well, I wanted to—his answer was, I think, something about his not remembering.

Presiding Inspector: "Not that I know of", he said, or something of that kind.

Mr. Grossman: I want to follow that.

Presiding Inspector: All right. [1915]

Mr. Del Guercio: I want to enter here an objection to any question along that line.

Presiding Inspector: All right. I think you probably should. That's right.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. Do you know where your wife was stabbed by you?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. I mean what portion of her body.

(Testimony of John Oliver Thompson.)

Presiding Inspector: I will take that, if he can tell.

The Witness: I don't think I have to answer those questions. I am not on trial.

Presiding Inspector: No, you are not. But answer the question. It will only be a question or two.

By Mr. Grossman:

Q. You don't want to answer this question?

A. No, I don't.

Mr. Grossman: All right. I will withdraw it. That is all. No more questions.

Presiding Inspector: Anything further?

Mr. Del Guercio: No further questions.

Presiding Inspector: That is all.

Mr. Del Guercio: May the witness be excused?

Presiding Inspector: You may be excused.

(Witness excused.) [1916]

Mr. Del Guercio: May I take just a minute? I have another matter.

Presiding Inspector: Do you want a recess? A slight recess?

Mr. Del Guercio: If you please.

Presiding Inspector: All right.

(Whereupon, a short recess was taken.)

[1917]

Presiding Inspector: You may proceed.

Mr. Del Guercio: Take the stand, Mr. McCuistion.

Presiding Inspector: Raise your right hand.

WILLIAM C. McCUISTION

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Presiding Inspector: Give your name and address to the reporter.

The Witness: William C. McCuistion—M-c-C-u-i-s-t-i-o-n; 319 Proctor Street, Port Arthur, Texas.

Direct Examination

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Are you employed at the present time?

A. No, sir, I am not.

Q. Where were you born?

A. I was born in Paris, Texas.

Q. Of what country are you a citizen?

A. Of the United States of America.

Q. Have you ever been a member of the Communist Party? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you join?

A. I joined the Communist Party first in 1922.

Q. Where?

A. I joined first here on the West Coast, in the City of San Francisco. [1918]

Q. And how long did you continue your association with the Communist Party?

A. More or less intermittently I continued my association up to 1935. I was out of the Party though, perhaps for a period of six or seven years in between through various disagreements I had with the Party.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. And since 1935 have you been associated with the Communist Party?

A. Only in the capacity of an adviser to the higher committees, adviser on labor questions.

Q. While you were a member of the Communist Party, or while you were associated with the Communist Party, did you become a member of the Marine Workers Industrial Union?

A. Yes; I became a member of the Marine Workers Industrial Union at the time of the formation of the Union. I was a charter member of the Union.

Q. You were a charter member? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how the Marine Workers Industrial Union came into existence? A. Yes.

Q. How did it come into existence?

A. The Marine Workers Industrial Union came into existence by virtue of a convention called by the Marine Workers League. The convention was called, as I remember, in April, [1919] 1930.

Q. Who called the convention?

A. The convention was called by the Marine Workers League and by the Trade Union Unity League, at the instance of the Red International of Trade Unions.

Q. What was the Marine Workers League?

A. The Marine Workers League was an organization of seamen, a very small skeleton organization, being the American section of the International Seamen's Clubs, and the International Seamen and Harbor Workers, affiliated with the Trade

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Union Unity League, and the Red International of Labor Unions.

Q. Was it a purely Communist-conceived, controlled and dominated organization?

A. The membership was practically 100 per cent Communists.

Q. Do you know why the Marine Workers Industrial Union was formed?

A. The Marine Workers Industrial Union was formed because at that time the only other organization in the field, especially on the Atlantic and Gulf, was the skeleton organization of the International Seamen's Union of the American Federation of Labor; and it was showing signs of growing and becoming an influence. The Communist Party made the decision that the Marine Workers League would have to change its form into that of an industrial union in order that they would be able [1920] to retain their influence among the seamen, and to control a certain section of the seamen and possibly get into control of the industry.

Q. For what purpose?

A. For the purpose that the Communists organize any other union, for the purpose of having a means of disseminating their propaganda, carrying on agitational work, organizing for the revolutionary end.

Q. Would you say that the Marine Workers Industrial Union was formed by the Communist Party for any other purpose other than for carrying out the objectives of the Communist Party?

A. No. The end proved that that was exactly the case; that the Marine Workers Industrial Union was only a tool of the Party and when it served its purpose the Party liquidated it.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Do you know if the Marine Workers Industrial Union ever disassociated itself from the Trade Union Unity League?

A. Never at any time. I was an official of the Marine Workers Industrial Union from the day of its birth to the day of its death.

Q. When did the Marine Workers Industrial Union go out of existence? A. In 1935.

Q. And why?

A. Because of the decision of the National Fraction. [1921] The Communist members and the leadership of the Union, held a meeting at 35 East 12th Street in New York City, and in this meeting decided, with practically a unanimous vote—myself and one other member of the National Fraction dissented—to liquidate the Union and to instruct the membership of the Union to join the American Federation of Labor.

Q. Do you know why the matter of liquidating the Marine Workers Industrial Union was taken up at that Fraction meeting?

A. Yes; because at that time the seamen, through the medium of the West Coast strike, the longshoremen, and various others, had become organized, and because the seamen as a whole had failed to follow the Party line, failed to follow the Communist Party led Marine Workers Industrial Union, and the Communist Party felt that if they continued with the Marine Workers Industrial

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Union the seamen and the members of the Union would be isolated from any chance of employment, or any chance in participating in the activities of the big mass of seamen. For that reason they liquidated it in order to turn their influence to the much larger American Federation of Labor.

Q. Had any orders come from Moscow, from either the Red International of Labor Unions, or elsewhere in Moscow, to liquidate the Marine Workers Industrial Union?

A. The orders came directly from two sources: The orders came directly from the International Seamen and Harbor Workers, and orders came directly from the Red International of [1922] Labor Unions. The orders were also transmitted through the Political Bureau of the American Party as coming direct from the Communist International.

Q. Did the Trade Union Unity League, of which the Marine Workers Industrial Union was a part, ever disassociate itself for any period of time from the Red International of Labor Unions?

A. It was impossible for it to disassociate itself.

Q. Why?

A. It was called the American section of the Red International of Labor Unions; it was organized by the Red International of Labor Unions; it was a child of the Red International and couldn't have disassociated itself.

Q. Your answer is it never did disassociate itself?

A. Never at any time, never until its liquidation, and then it disassociated itself from everything.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. You say you were a charter member of the Marine Workers Industrial Union? A. Yes.

Q. Where was that?

A. That was in New York City. The convention was held there.

Q. Did you hold any office?

A. I was a member of the National Committee and the National Bureau of the organization, from the time of the birth of the organization until the time of its liquidation; besides [1923—24] holding various local positions in different cities. I was secretary at various times in Buffalo, Cleveland, Houston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New York—and at various other places.

Q. And was the chapter or union of the Marine Workers Industrial Union on the Pacific Coast under your jurisdiction?

A. It was absolutely under the jurisdiction of the National Bureau of the organization, which corresponds to an executive committee in any other organization.

Q. Was there such a Union on the Pacific Coast?

A. Yes.

Q. During what period of time?

A. The Union on the Pacific Coast—from the very beginning. The Marine Workers League, originally was on the Pacific Coast, first having a hall on Stuart Street and later a hall on Clay Street; and the Marine Workers Industrial Union followed right along and organized the branches in San Francisco, San Pedro, Portland, Seattle, which were the main branches.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Did you correspond with the Marine Workers Industrial Union on the Pacific Coast?

A. Frequently.

Q. Who were some of the other members of the Committee of which you spoke?

A. Tommy Raye, Roy Hudson, Joe Bianca, Harry Hynes, David Drummond, Al Lannon—and various others. I would have [1925] to refresh my memory by looking back over some of my notes to name others, but I do recall that various others came on from time to time as replacements. These were there all the time.

Q. Did you know a Mr. Nat Honig?

A. Yes, sir; I knew him very well.

Q. Was this during the same period of time?

A. Yes, sir; and for some time before.

Q. What was Nat Honig at that time?

A. He was a member of the Executive Committee of the Trade Union Unity League, and he was also editor of Labor Unity, the official publication of the Trade Union Unity League. He conducted a school, Workers School of Journalism, they called it, in trade union journalism; sort of an informal school for those of us who were connected with organizations within the TUUL.

Q. Going back to this correspondence which you said you had with the Marine Workers Industrial Union in San Francisco, with whom did you have such correspondence?

A. The majority of the correspondence was with Tommy Raye and with Harry Hynes. On at least two occasions I had correspondence with Harry Bridges.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Well, do you know Harry Bridges?

A. I know him personally; yes.

Q. Where is he?

A. Not intimately, but I am acquainted with him.

Q. Can you identify him? [1926] A. Yes.

Q. Is he in the court room?

A. Yes; sitting right there, the gentleman with the gray suit. (Indicating).

Q. What was the nature of the correspondence you had with Bridges?

A. Dealing with the policy of the Waterfront Worker. There had been some differences between Raye and Hynes and Bridges, on the question of the policy the paper should follow. In this they had a difference with Darcy, who was organizer of the Party here. Their opinions didn't exactly agree with his. So the matter was put before the National Fraction of the Marine Workers Industrial Union, which was a higher Party organization.

Q. Was Bridges a member of the Marine Workers Industrial Union at that time?

A. I have never seen his membership book in the Marine Workers Industrial Union. However, he was actively working in the organization of the Marine Workers Industrial Union as a member of the Communist Party, as a member of the leading Fraction on the West Coast here that superintended the organization of all marine affairs.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. And is that why you corresponded with him?

A. I corresponded with him as a leading Communist in the marine industry, and corresponded with him understanding he was [1927] a leading Communist in the marine industry on the Pacific Coast.

Q. Did you make copies of that correspondence?

A. There were no copies kept of it. Well, perhaps there was the original correspondence, but that was all in the possession of Roy Hudson and where it has gone nobody knows.

Q. Did you ever meet Mr. Bridges?

A. Yes.

Q. When was the first time you met him?

A. The first time I met Mr. Bridges was in 1935, met him personally. I had known of him for some time previous.

Q. Where did you meet him?

A. I met him at the foot of Clay Street.

Q. Where?

A. San Francisco, California.

Q. Who was present at the time?

A. Frederick A. Reed, myself and Mr. Bridges.

Q. Who was Frederick A. Reed?

A. Frederick A. Reed was a member of the Communist Party and a seaman.

Q. And did you have any conversation with Bridges at that time?

A. Just a brief conversation and a lunch.

Q. Well, were you introduced to Bridges?

A. I was introduced by Fred Reed. He said,

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

"Bridges, this is McCuistion." And Bridges said, "Hello." That was about the extent of the meeting. [1928]

Q. Well, what did you do after that?

A. The fact that I had been shortly before expelled from the Party was mentioned——

Q. (Interposing) Who mentioned that?

A. Bridges mentioned that.

Q. How did he mention it, in what manner?

A. Well, he mentioned it in the form that they had work for active men to do around the waterfront here, and that my expulsion was made with a provision that within a year I was eligible for readmission to the Party, and that by working around the waterfront here and helping the Party carry on their activities, particularly, in relation to getting Scharrenberg, the Sailors Union of the Pacific, and organizing a bloc to oust Harry Lundeberg, that on that basis I could get back in the good graces of the Party and be readmitted.

Q. By the Party you mean——

A. (Interposing) Yes.

Q. What party?

A. The Communist Party; the one that I was expelled from.

Q. Did you have this conversation in the presence of Reed?

A. No; just a brief part of it in the presence of Reed. The rest was discussed at some little waterfront restaurant. I was broke at that time and Harry bought the [1929] dinner.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Did Bridges tell you how he knew you had been expelled from the Communist Party?

A. I didn't ask him that. He had a clipping from the Daily Worker. He also spoke of the Communist Party. Although I couldn't swear that he was a member of the Communist Party, he spoke of the Communist Party as "we," "You ought to come back and help us," and "we are always sorry to have to expel a militant worker," and so on and so forth like that. I could only draw the implication; that was all.

Q. As a result of that meeting were any arrangements made to meet Bridges again?

A. Yes. I saw Bridges that same night.

Q. Where?

A. I think up on Grove Street, the headquarters of the Communist Party.

Q. Did Bridges ask you to meet him at the headquarters of the Communist Party?

A. He said that he wanted to talk to me later on. I asked where to meet him. He said, "I will see somebody at headquarters that will tell you."

I said, "I will be going there."

I thought probably I was going out to meet him in a house, or something like that, but instead he was there when I got there. [1930]

Q. He was in the Communist Party headquarters? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who else?

A. As I remember, Elmer Hanoff was present and one or two others who I didn't know. I wasn't acquainted with the Party membership around San Francisco at that time. I had known Hanoff before because he had been in the leadership of the party always. Reed was there. Reed went up with me.

Q. Did you have any conversation with Bridges at that time?

A. Just a brief passing conversation. We discussed what I was going to do. I stated that I was sore at the Party for having liquidated the Marine Workers Industrial Union and that I didn't intend to stick my neck out any more; that I was a seaman and that I was going to sea as soon as I got a chance. But I also stated that I probably would have a hard time going because I point-blank refused to join the American Federation of Labor Unions, either one of them. I disagreed with their principles almost as much as I disagreed with the Communist Party principles.

Q. Did you go out to sea?

A. I went to sea. Mr. Bridges said that he could arrange it for me and, as a result, why, I was told to contact, I think it was, Mills at the Sailor's Union of the Pacific. [1931] It was strange because I always sailed below in the engine department. However, this contact was made for me. I was given a shipping permit without having to produce any clearances, any papers, pay any dues or, even take a union book out. I was given a permit in the shipping department. That wasn't my department, and I shipped almost immediately; put at the top of the list and shipped almost immediately.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. You say that was arranged for you. Who arranged that for you?

A. That was arranged by Mr. Bridges.

Q. On what ship did you sail?

A. The President Garfield.

Q. And in what capacity?

A. As an ordinary seaman.

Q. And on what date was this?

A. It was in the spring of 1935. It was shortly after Mr. Bridges had gone to the hospital for an operation for perforated ulcers.

Q. Only for the purpose of refreshing your memory, Mr. McCuistion, I have here a photostatic copy of the shipping articles signed by the Dollar Steamship Lines, Inc., and this was done in the office of the U. S. Shipping Commission for the Port of San Francisco. The date here is unintelligible, your Honor. I can't read it, but it is the year 1935.

A. I know the sailing was approximately a month after I [1932] had met Bridges; approximately a month after that before the shipping permit had been arranged, and I shipped and sailed almost immediately. I couldn't recall the time exactly.

Q. It appears to be June, 1935. Is that the trip you have in mind, Mr. McCuistion?

A. Yes. It was in the early part of '35.

Q. Did you sign these shipping articles?

A. Yes, I always have to sign the articles.

Q. Does your name appear on the photostatic copy of these shipping articles?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. Yes, sir. My name is the third from the bottom with a line drawn through it.

Q. With a line drawn through it?

A. I went "on the beach" at Colombo, Ceylon.

Q. But you did sail on this ship? A. Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer these for identification only.

Presiding Inspector: Mark them for identification only.

(The documents referred to were marked Government's Exhibit No. 246 for identification.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. During the time that you were connected with the Marine Workers Industrial Union, Mr. McCuistion, did you become familiar with the Waterfront Worker? [1933]

A. Yes. I read almost every copy of it. They would send in copies. Copies of it had to be sent to New York for editing by the National Bureau and the National Fraction of the Marine Workers Industrial Union.

Q. Mr. McCuistion, I will show you a copy of the Waterfront Worker for July, 1933, Volume I, No. 8, and ask you if you have ever seen this?

A. Yes. I wouldn't say that I have seen this specific one, but I have seen hundreds of them along the same line.

Q. Would you say that that was an authentic copy of the Waterfront Worker?

A. Absolutely; yes.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Issued at that time?

A. Yes. It is the same technical makeup, the same work, the same type and everything.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I ask that a photostatic copy be substituted?

Presiding Inspector: It may be so substituted.

(The document referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 247.)

GOVERNMENT'S EXHIBIT No. 247

(Cut—Waterfront Worker)

Issued By: A Group of Longshoremen With the Cooperation of the M. W. I. U.

Volune 1—No. 8 Waterfront Worker July 1933

The B. B. Must Be Smashed!
Now Is the Time!

As we pointed out in the last issue of the Waterfront Worker, in order to break the Blue Book we followed the rest of the stevedores on the Front in signing up for the ILA. A fight against the Blue Book was promised us. It was this promise that brought such a quick response from the stevedores; 4,000 signing up.

Over a month has now passed. What action has been taken by the present selfelected officials to carry out this promise? None. When the Blue Book started a drive again for dues it was evident that a general meeting should be called and the men organized to resist to pay dues on a mass scale. This Holman and Co. did not do.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Every one on the Waterfront was eager to act. Yet in answer to the question how to meet the Blue Book drive, Holman told us to wait until men were knocked off; that he would then fight it out in court; or that he would take the Blue Book officials to the Labor Commissioner, etc. When some of us suggested that the docks be organized to stop working when the Blue Book attempted to knock any men off, Holman and the rest of the officials saw the "Red" horrors.

Stevedores were knocked off the job. They were taken to the Labor Commissioner. What was the result? According to the Daily News of Saturday the 22nd, the Labor Commissioner told the stevedores "that the Commission had no jurisdiction in the matter and that it was a case for settlement entirely between the men and the companies and probably the Recovery Act".

Stevedores, take special note of the word "probably". In the meantime, the Blue Book is getting a grip on the waterfront again. This is being made possible by Holman and Co. who are preaching passivity and inaction and by covering up this treachery to the longshoremen by crying, "Communists and fanatics" at every worker who proposes to take militant action to smash the Blue Book. They have told us to leave it to lawyers and other Messiahs, but not to do anything ourselves.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

This attempt to keep the militancy and fighting spirit of the stevedores from expressing itself in action against the Blue Book is helping the Blue Book to stage a come-back. Already stevedores are being thrown off the job and threatened and intimidated into again paying into the racket. If we want to break the Blue Book we cannot leave it to lawyers and other so-called legal means. We must act ourselves—And Now. Resistance to the Blue Book must be developed right on the docks by ourselves. The Waterfront Worker proposes that the following immediate steps be taken.

1—That the stevedores on each dock get together and elect a dock chairman.

2—That as soon as a worker is knocked off the job by the Blue Book, the Dock Chairman immediately get in touch with the Waterfront Worker, 3470 - 19th Street. The Waterfront Worker will send a speaker to the dock to mobilize the stevedores for a stoppage of work or any other action that the men themselves decide upon.

3—That at the General Meeting on Thursday we will elect no Holman men, who are paralyzing action but officials who will take a fighting stand against the Blue Book.

"We" and the Cheeseknife

From a Correspondent

Gordon gave the incentive for the non-payment of traveling time across this bay. About two years ago he (Gordon) was a gaffer for the Klitgaard Stevedoring Co. As biscuits were hanging high there he cast about for a more lucrative billet. After tireless handshaking and backslapping and flirting his cheeseknife (A Shriners Pen or Masons Emblem) he finally hooked up on Pier #21 working coastwise vessels as a hiring boss.

On his second day in that capacity, a vessel was to work across the Bay. He (Gordon) came outside the gate where the men were at Pier #21 and said as follows: "We" (with the emphasis on the "we") "We", he again said,are not going to pay traveling time, so if you do not care to come on them conditions, we (again with emphasis) will get men in Oakland.

You May and You May Not

You may and you may not have heard of the New Company which has been formed. You surely have heard that Scarface Mike and Mr. Jensen have consolidated.But as they have formed this new company we have not been informed what name will shine first. I almost forgot. According to last months news it should, as a matter of course, be Mr. Jensen. When Mr. Jensen has a job he falls on Mike for support. It's Mike's gang first, or a big part of that gang if there should be need. Even though he still has part of his old gang, Mike comes first.

It is too bad Mr. Jensen cannot find enough able men on the front today to have a gang of his own without having to rely on Mike and his gang. When Mike has a job he doesn't seem to know who is with Jensen; well he should—his own gang. Them two are not the only ones who have consolidated, Tomato Face & Co. And is his face red!

A slave.

August First

Editor Waterfront Worker

August 1st will mmark the 19th anniversary since the outbreak of the world war, which caused the death of at least 13 million soldiers, 28 million civilians; wounded 20 million; leaving 9 million orphans, 5 million widows. The lot of the workers was greater impoverishment than ever. Hunger and disease stalks every corner of the earth.

IT IS TO EXPRESS THE UNITED DETERMINATION OF THE WORKERS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD NEVER AGAIN TO BE DRAWN INTO A WAR FOR THE BOSSES, THAT AUGUST 1ST DEMONSTRATIONS TAKE PLACE.

The accentuation of the crisis the narrowing of the world's markets is driving the big capitalists to the only solution they know—WAR. The relation between the United States and England are becoming ever sharper, heading towards a decisive struggle for world control. The Japanese imperialists are making a strong effort to become the predominant power on the Pacific. There is an ever-sharpening division between many European powers.

The United States imperialists are setting the pace for armaments. Every million invested here for war preparations speeds the mad race to catch up by the other powers. The peace appeals, made by Roosevelt only a few weeks ago, were only to deceive the masses, a mask, as the government is now zealously carrying out a war program greater than any in the history of the country. The complete failure of the London Conference brings war still closer.

The sincere peace proposals made by the Soviet Union were met with silence by the capitalists of all countries. In reality they try to agree for a war against the Soviet Union, hoping to open that vast territory, now in the hands of the workers, for exploitation by imperialists, in the same manner as China is now being divided.

We have nothing to gain out of such a war but more misery and poverty! Only the organized might of all of us can stop it! We must demand that all funds for war preparations should go to the unemployed; that the public works fund go

Stevedore Points Way to Break the Blue Book

Editor Waterfront Worker:

The stevedores on the San Francisco waterfront must get busy at once to protect their interests against the Blue Book.

The shipowners, afraid of the fighting mood now noticeable on the waterfront are again using the Blue Book to keep the Worker down. At an open meeting a plan of United Action must be decided upon by the rank and file of the ILA and an aggressive group of officers elected.

Lee Holman does not seem to value time at all and has been stalling off the members for days, waiting for some unknown individual from the Northwest. There are enough men on the San Francisco waterfront who are familiar with Union Labor organization and procedure without the aid of some unknown and untestedoutsider to add to their burdens. Men who have been black listed and are now suffering for their stand are the victims of such methods of delay. The rank and file must come at once to the help of these men with financial and mass support and demand that they be rehired. It is up to the stevedores to see that these men are taken care of. The blacklisting of Workers and their replacement by ILA men will not encourage an aggressive spirit among the Workers.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

The stevedores that have signed with the ILA have a just grievance against Lee Holman and his associates because of their dilatory tactics and time wasting methods. Lee Holman and his associates have a Pansy attitude when it comes to action, and are continually urging caution and state that they want no trouble.

The history of the Labor Movement has been one of strife and struggle. It has never been the policy of the employers to grant wage increases and better conditions without the Workers fighting for them. The Workers must learn the sad fact that there is no Santa Claus and Captain Peterson, Stein, Red Wicks, and other lickspittles of the employers most certainly will not lose any sleep fighting for better conditions for the stevedores.

The Worker must occasionally sacrifice his evening at home, listening to Amos n Andy, and go to his Union Hall to take a part in the affairs of his Union.

Get together, Workers, and remove the stigma of docility that has been applied to the American

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Workers. The meek may inherit the earth but they will more probably end up in Wollenberg's slop line.

Worker

Fellow Stevedores:

Last Monday several of us attended a meeting of the ISU. Being ex camen, we wanted to hear what old Andy Fursueth had to say. After speaking for over an hour telling us what good conditions we are going to get he wouldn't let any of us speak from the floor. One stevedore asked him about the I.S.U. cooperating with the ILA to bring about better conditions on the waterfront. He got mad and shouted; "No, never on your tintype."

Most of the stevedores remember 1916 - 19 when through the failure of the ISU we lost out. We should try to get the sailors to co-operate with us to bring about better conditions on the waterfront.

A Stevedore

Talking of the Blue Book, rumor has it that Steinberg and Scabby Peterson had to call on the law in San Pedro last week as they were nearly mobbed trying to induce the stevedores to join a Company Union.

Out of the History of the ILA

(From a correspondent)

The ILA came into existence thirty five years ago, functioning first in the ports of the Great Lakes.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Daniel Keefe was its first president and, like his successors, used the organization and its affiliated bodies for his own material interest. At a convention in Detroit the delegates were standing behind Wm. Jennings Bryan running for President of the United States while Keefe wath a small cliqne was out for Taft. Taking the floor and making a lengthy speech and not able to swing the delegates to his side Keefe took his hat and left the hall in an angry mood. When election came around Taft was elected. He called Keefe to Washington and made him Commissioner of Immigration.

At the beginning of the century the sailors and longshoremen were strong for industrial Unionism, but Andy Furuseth (The Armchair Sailor) and Keefe of the Longshoremen fought bitterly to keep them apart.

Next in line to take up what Keefe left off was T. U. O'Connor who was a lake tugboatmer. During the strikes on this coast in 1916 O'Connor came west and advised the men to go back and patch up their differences as he thought if the strike was long drawn out the locals would be looking to the International for financial support. Shortly after his trip west he also was called to Washington by Woodpile Wilson and handed a nice plum as chairman of the United States Shipping Board at twelve thousand a year which is only a secondary issue as he is the spokesman on the sale of U. S. vessels. Stevedores in this port will remember the turnover to the Dollar

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.

Company of government vessels, also Hoyt, American Hawaiian, and Matson Navigation Company.

The next un'line was Anton Chlopeck. In the 1922-23 strike in the Northwest Chlopeck came to the coast and at a large meeting took the floor and in his sonorous voice said "I will cable Sydney, Melbourne, and Brisbane, also London Barcelona and Cape Horn and see that the vessels are not discharged that were loaded in this port by strikebreakers." He did not stop them at Vancouver, less than four hundred miles away, [illegible] at the Gulf and Atlantic [illegible] which were under the ILA [illegible].

Then comes present incumbent Joseph Ryan. Ryan took it upon himself to accept a cut for the longshoremen on the east coast and the Boston contingent refused to take it. Ryan brought ILA longshoremen from Philadelphia to take their places. Ryab is receiving salaries from five different sources and if he can spare two more positions he will be on a par with Matthew Woll of the American Federation of Labor who is drawing salaries from seven different positions.

The Keefes, Chlopecks, and Ryans are not handed these juicy plums from the U. S. Chamber of Commerece and the Captains of Industry for looking out for the interests of the longshoremen. It is strange that most "Labor Leaders" manage to get nice political berths.

Big Tim Reardon is in a state job after years in the Board of Public Works. McDonald is State Labor Commissioner, and O'Connell and Maloney have nice jobs.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

The parent body, the American Federation of Labor, of which the ILA is a part, has been in existence for over fifty years. Samuel Gompers was president for forty three years and would be there yet if Father Time hadn't interfered. Gompers' successor is an old hard coal miner who never mined enough coal to roast a bag of peanuts and he will be in the saddle until Father Time takes him out.

The A. F. of L. is always claiming that it represents Labor with a membership of less than two million while there are forty six million wage earners in this country. At its peak the A. F. L. had four million and claimed six million. In over fifty years it has had two presidents, in thirty five years the ILA has had four presidents. Wall Street only lets its presidents have eight years at the most.

This is an outline history of Its 35 years of existence. It has meant a harvest for a few officials and slave conditions for thousands of stevedores.

Waterfront Worker.

Many here on this dock including myself did not get a copy of the last issue of the Waterfront Worker because no one was around this dock selling them and we missed getting one at the Ferry.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

We hope you will give us a chance to get a paper next by sending a man down to the dock.

So far there has been no one from the Blue Book firing anyone here for not paying up, like they have done on some of the other docks, but we expect them soon. A few days ago "Mac", the big boss here told some of the fellows that they (The Seaboard Stev. Co) were sticking with the Blue Book. This is only natural as the Blue Book has always been a great help to the big officials here by reporting any man that made a kick over anything, thus getting him fired. It's up to us to quit paying any more dues, and to keep the B. B. agents from trying to collect them.

A Steel Docker.

THE OLD TIMER SAYS—

Furuseth, president of the ISU always carried on a fight against unity of longshoremen and seamen.

In 1905 the longshoremen in Eureka were striking for the right to load the steam schooners. Furuseth sent 400 members of the ISU to break the strike. Nelson and other companies were carrying double crews of ISU men to do the striking longshoremen's work.

In 1921 when the seamen wanted to call on the longshoremen for support, Furuseth said no because if they did the longshoremen would call on the seamen for support the next time they struck.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

In 1918-1919 sailing ships going off-shore out of Seattle could not get men to take them out for $90, which was the ISU scale. To get men they paid $110 and $120 a month. Furuseth shipped men for $90 saying that $120 was not the union scale.

ON THE NATIONAL RECOVERY ACT

New York, July 20. Preparing for a militant struggle against the NIRA wageslashing, the united front of the Trade Union Unity League, Conference for Progressive Labor Action, Unemployed

(NATIONAL RECOVERY ACT—

Councils and the A. F. of L. Committee for Unemployment Insurance has called for a national convention at Cleveland August 26 & 27.

Their manifesto urges the election of delegates from all ships, trade unions, Unemployed Councils and leagues and from every workers' economic organization for this convention.

The call points out the hypocrisy of the Recovery Act in speaking of the workers right to organize, but actually moving to abolish the right to strike and, as already proven, refusing to deal with any but boss-controlled unions and misleaders in setting wage codes for the various industries.

The united front proposes a program of struggle for (1) Immediate and substantial wage increases in all industries and for all workers; (2) A fight against all attempts to put over wage reductions under the guise of a minimum wage program; (3) Struggle against relief cuts, evictions, foreclosures, and gas, water and light shut-offs; (4) Against forced labor camps, commissary relief plans, and for payment in cash at full union scale on all public works; and for Federal Social and Unemployment Insurance.

UNITY CONVENTION OF THE MWIU

The second National Convention of the Marine Workers Industrial Union was held in New York City July 16, 17, 18. Over 130 delegates, representing almost every port in the country and every section of the Marine Industry, took part.

Progress in all ports, particularly Baltimore, Philadelphia and the Gulf ports, was reported. Included in the work done by the convention were:

Drawing up of fighting demand for all sections of the Marine Industry.

Drawing up of codes for longshoremen, seamen and harbor workers.

A program for fighting against the danger of war.

Included in the codes are demands for a decent minimum wage, unemployment insurance, and a guaranteed number of weeks work a year.

The next issue of Waterfront Worker will print codes drawn up by the 2nd Convention of MWIU.

WATERFRONT WORKER
THE I. L. A. MEETING

The Waterfront Worker calls on all its supporters to attend the I. L. A. meeting Thursday evening. The Labor Temple seats only about a thousand. Come early—remember that the following must be done:

a. A chairman to be elected from the floor to insure fair hearing to all.

b. The men elect their own officials—these should be stevedores well known to the men on the docks.

c. That an Executive Board of 24 to 30 be nominated and elected from the floor, its members representing the different docks.

Such a Board should be made up of trusted rank and file stevedores from the docks.

d. That this board be instructed to take care of the negotiations with the shipowners and to report to the membership. Men elected by the stevedores themselves should handle the funds and all affairs of the organization. These are not not only our interests but the interests of every other stevedore. We call on them for their cooperation and support in carrying those steps out.

For Rank and File Control.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Government's Exhibit No. 247—(Continued)

THE I. L. A. CODE

The proposed ILA code contains 20 points. Most of them look allright others will stand additions and amendments. We suggest the following:

=3 calls for straight time rate of $1.00 an hour and $1.50 overtime with additional rate for winch drivers etc. . . . Different rates have always acted to split the ranks of the men (San Pedro). The rate should be uniform for all except hatch bosses.

=4 Deals with the size of gangs. There should be a minimum of 8 men in the hold discharging and 8 or more loading, according to commodity handled.

=16 calls for the representatives of the ILA to act for the employees in all conferences. Elected rank and file committee should take part and have the deciding vote.

=17 calls for any disputed controversy to be referred to the District Secretary, and the Executive Board. Here too an elected rank and file committee should take part and have the deciding vote.

Not included in the code is any reference to limiting the load. A deep cut in the size of the load should be included.

In general this code with the amendments and additions above included will present tolerable working conditions of the front. We call upon all stevedores to support the above amendments at the meeting and to take a fighting stand for the realization of all the demands of the code.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I call the Court's attention particularly to the address of the Waterfront Worker, which appears [1934] in this issue on page three thereof. It appears as follows:

"We will try to bring the Waterfront Worker out every two weeks. This will require more material, news, et cetera. Do you share? Write for the Waterfront Worker, 3470-19th Street."

I would also like to call the Court's attention on page one to the Masthead, on which appears this:

I would also like to direct the Court's attention to page two of this issue, column two, wherein appears:

A. Yes. These are all just about the same. They use the same type of newsprint for the mimeographed work.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer these two in evidence, if [1935] your Honor please in this order: The one dated January 29, 1934, first, and the other dated February 12, 1934.

Presiding Inspector: They may be received.

Mr. Del Guercio: And, I ask that we be permitted to substitute photostatic copies of each.

FAKERS OPPOSE CONVENTION

The membership of all the coast locals are endorsing Rank and File action, wherever they have had a clear explanation given to them. San Pedro, San Diego, and now Everett have endorsed such a convention to be held immediately.

However, the phoney officials are playing their usual game of trying to slip us the old sellout.

Bjorklund wishes no convention Paddy Morris wishes no convention. He tells the locals of the northwest "No convention—the district is broke". Pedro Pete" is up to his old phoney tricks; at the membership meeting at Pedro he did not dare oppose the report of the Frisco delegate, but he wired that he endorsed his Washington scabby agreement. These ILA officials are fighting the Rank and File convention because the FEAR Rank and File action.

The ship owners also fight the Rank and File Convention because they, too, fear Rank and File action. This was proven when the Pedro membership voted unanimously for united action with the Frisco Local. The ship owners answered immediately with a raise, but a raise so scaled as to split the ranks of the workers 85c for holdmen, hatch-tenders; winch-drivers,95c; dock men, 75c; car-gangs no raise,55c. Bjorklund's latest move is the communication calling for a strike-vote on Feb. 5th if the code is not signed.

Such manoevers as this only lead us to defeat; we can not play with strikes. The ship-owners are prepared for a fight.We must do the same.

HATS OFF TO SECRETARY COX

At the Special meeting held,Sun. Jan. 21st, our secretary made a very militant speech, denouncing the labor fakers and calling for SOLIDARITY of all Pacific Coast Locals. Not only does Brother Cox make speeches condemning the fakers but he carries this idea out in practise from the looks of the letters, which have gone out in the past few days.

We want officials who stand four square for the men and to prove this by their actions in fighting for better conditions. Keep it up Bro. Cox, you're on the right road.

EDITOR SWAMPED WITH NEWS

From the number of letters received by the Waterfront Worker this week it looks like the men realize that the Waterfront Worker is their paper. Due to lack of space some of the news will have to be held over. But dont let that stop you from writing the more letters, the better paper.

Some donations have come in but not enough to brag about. We are still using the old type-writer and having a helluva time with it. We must get it repaired if we are to continue getting out the WORKER.

Let's have the donations, boys, send in pennies, nickels, dimes or two-bit pieces, they all count. We will print all donations received with a financial statement of each issue.

Continue with the news and soon we will have a bigger sheet than the up- town papers— well if not bigger-at least BETTER, for us.

POLICY OF WATERFRONT WORKER

The WATERFRONT WORKER wants to make it clear to all workers, that the W.W. is published by a group of longshoremen, who are all members of Local 38-79 The W.W. is in no sense an official organ of the Union, controlled by the buro-cratic officialdom.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

The paper is the voice of the oppressed workers crying out in pain and anger against the shout of the slave-driving bosses of "MEET THE HOOK". The worst enemies of the paper, (including The Shipowners, bosses finks and stool-pigeons) are forced to admit that the paper fills a vital need on the S. F.Front By exposures in the W.W. many scab-loving bosses have been driven into line and kept there, some of the ILA official family has had to toe the mark and many finks tremble at each issue of the paper in fear that the W.W. had been able to uncover their past records but above all the constructive, progressive policy of the W.W. has proved to the men that the W.W. is their paper reflecting the ideas of constructive leadership.

There is rumors being circulated that the Marine Workers Industrial Union is publishing the paper; nothing is further from the truth. The M.W.I.U. has helped with news, stories and checking up on finks but the W.W. will accept help, and aid from any union, group or body as long as the assistance is constructive and progressive, yes, and criticism, too.

For further information, discussion or explanation on any point, write to 3470-19th St.

If any one is not in agreement with the policy of the WORKER send in your criticism, and we will discuss it in our columns. Send in your news or any donations to 3470-19th St. S. F.

COLLEGE BOYS REPLACE ILA MEN

3 U. of Calif. men, have been working on the Matson Dock for the past 2 weeks. The ILA delegates have protested to the dock officials and they were told nothing could be done as the boys were sent down through the office. Of course we have nothing against the boys earning a living but there is paid up ILA men with families who depend solely on stevedoring for a livlihood and these members are walking the Front looking for work.

We must remember that college students were used to help break the 1919 strike and now is the time for us, stevedores, to take steps to see that such a thing is not repeated.

Another protest should be made and if no action is taken, the entire dock should walkout and stay out, until those fellows are taken off the job. If the bosses are allowed to get away with this it will only be a question of time when they will try bigger things.

POLICE STOP ILA SPEAKER

On Sat. Jan. 20, the police stopped, the International organizer from speaking on the street.

This may appear to be a small matter to many stevedores, but on the contrary, this little incident has a deeper meaning than what appears on the surface.

In the program of the Frisco longshoremen, the shipowners can see opposition to their slave-code of 50 cent ah hour minimum, to the intense speed-up and the general miserable conditions up and down the coast. They can also see the beginning of a Rank and File movement that is shaking the ILA burocrats loose from their moorings, they are also aware of the fight that is being waged for the demands of $1 an hour, $1.50 overtime, 6 hour day 30 hour week and Union recognition. Above all they know that the Frisco Local is leading the fight.

It is our right to speak on the street at any time We laughed when the "Reds" were chased off the Front but now it is another story — our speakers were denied the right to speak. What are we going to do about it The WATERFRONT WORKER recommends that the morning street meetings be resumed and that a determined fight be waged to hold such meetings despite any and all police interference.

Pedro's Election Victory

On the recent trip of our delegates to Pedro, one of them stayed over and visited the Fink-Hall. The Pedro Fink-Hall, as we all know, is where the Pedro stevedores get their jobs.

One of "Red" Hynes men came in, one of those babies with a black jack in each pocket and whose chief pleasure is cutting a young girls breasts with a razor blade and injecting salt into the outs—a swell pal for degenerate Hitler. Hull the Pedro delegate informed our delegate to hush up as one of the Red squad had his eye on him. Well our del did not shut up but talked louder and won the respect of the stevedores present.

The Fink-Hall and the Pedro Red squad can be crushed, IF the rank and file get together and kicks out the phoney officials, who do nothing but peter and patter between the Fink Hall and the government agents.

Rank and File of Pedro Organize, adopt a constructive program, follow the lead of the Frisco Local and soon we will have ILA recognition for the West coast—and ILA hiring halls—Not Fink halls and Red squads.

ILA Versus Swastika

Because "Bloody Hitler's" ships dock at Pier 15 is no reason why the regular steam-schooner gangs shouldn't be wearing the green buttons. Hitler abolished all trade unions when he came into power; many strong and courageous labor leaders were killed and sent to concentration camps because they dared to stand up and fight for their rights - the right to organize.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

In America our trade unions are not abolished yet, so to protect them and ourselves at the same time, lets line up and sign up. Soon, we are going to need a 100 per cent organization, here, on the waterfront. Lets organize - and prepare NOW.

Swat the Swastika ! !

Dear Editor:

I just put in two days on the "S.S.Point Sur" for McCormick, loading cement. If we had been working to save our lives we could not have worked harder.

Every hour or so some one had to quit because the hard slaving work coupled with the dust and abuse of the bosses was too much to stand. Five men passed out altogether being barely able to walk or talk.

The five gangs on the ship hoisted 5000 tons in two days This terrific speed was made possible by slinging 38 sacks to the load, and by the bosses keeping a watchful eye on us all. If a man slacked for an instant or was the least bit slow getting away with the sacks, he was at once asked. "What's the matter with you? Can't you stand the pace? "We only had light men in the hold, and one thing I'm sure of is this. I'll starve before I'll work another cement ship for the McCormick.

ganized in the I.L.A. are today rallying their forces to prevent a sellout of their meal hour strike, by Ryan their president. These longshoremen have been striking on the job for the past two months, refusing to work the meal hour untill they are paid the old double time rate which was taken away from them through the treachery of Ryan. As a result of their action many passenger ships in order to maintain their schedule have been pulling out with as much as a third of the cargo still on the dock. The shipowners have tried all kinds of tactics to split the ranks of the lonshorement with out success. Attempts have been made to break their ranks by offering individual gangs the double time rate to work certain particular ships These attempts have failed,largly because of the strong opposition movement in Local 800 which is leading the revolt against Ryan and his officials. Local 800 has gone so far as to oust the entire leadership, president, executive committee, and all.

The pressure of the rank and file has forced the officials to call a meeting of all three locals tonight.

Worker group that some of the stevedores are under the impression that this paper is conducted for the purpose of slandering anyone who we are not in sympathy with. This is not true. We check up on all news coming in and try to avoid any mistakes. We are working for the sole interest of a better union and not for any individual, who is trying to get even with his enemy at our expense. We are always willing to rectify any error that is made on our part. On the other hand, we are bound to make enemies, we will continue to expose any faker who is out to feather his own nest.

Wake up, Delegates!

Editor:

Sir, what are the reasons you never see the walking delegates from the ILA around the McCormick or Nelson docks on Sat. which is a very busy day??

All the hiring is done by Olsen on the McCormick dock, and by Hansen on the Nelson dock. What are the reasons bona fide longshoremen are left standing, looking on, and the hiring bosses are hiring men from the CWA to their own knowledge, also a bundh of kids, what don't know what it is all about. I guess they are recruiting for a bunch of scabs in case of a strike.

I am, Sir, a Longshoreman and War Veteran.

Matson Man says PAYUP LUCKENBACK

Editor, Waterfront Worker:

I have worked for the Matson Co. many years now. We sure hit the ball—boy, we move the cargo. Do the bosses, sub-bosses yell, push and drive us?? Are you asking me But I must say, the boys are all lined up in the ILA, wearing green buttons and ready for action, but what I can't understand is, why do the ILA delegates spend a lot of time around a dock where the men are already paid up??

Why don't the delegates concentrate on the Dollar docks, where you never see a green button except on an outside gang??? Or over on the Luckenback, where the color is not green but blue. These Luckenback and Dollar Line stevedores should be lined up—what about some action on these docks, delegates??? You don't need to come around the Matson so often—we know what you look like.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Alas, the women of our hard working stevedore husbands are really being allowed the privileges to voice our opinion on some of the facts that are beyond a doubt, to be openly viewed when the proper time comes. Why not urge that time now, just around the corner.

We, wives, have debated with ourselves often, and are still wondering, why, with such a group of capable, and sound thinking men as the ILA, that these men should be at a stage right now, where the B.B. and its doggy bosses should be called.

The ILA can and will come to the front, only when all the men realize that they must stick together and push. Come out to the meeting and voice your opinions or suggestions. It may be just what the Union needs as that extra or other support.

Too bad, I have been a woman. I've often wanted to don a pair of jeans and mens clothing—just to get a little more "dope" on some of the radicals of the B.B. Union. (If it must be called a union—too bad.)

Mr. Sorensen, our mighty boss,don't make any extra money, he is a share-holder in the Stevedore Co. which makes him a extra-special good slave driver. The straw-bosses are so scared of him, that when he gives them one dirty look, they have to go to the toilet, some of them even carry toilet paper with them in their pockets for that purpose. Flat-foot, sure is a smart man—when it comes to whiskey.

FLAT-FOOT GUS—THE SADIST

Waterfront Worker:

I am surprised that you have not heard anything of Gus Kutschel (Tanglefoot Gus) walking boss on Pier 28.

Now Gus is great for safety, about once a week he comes with a letter signed by Capt. Ludlow, all about safety but observing safety is a horse of another color. If the bosses dont obey the safety rules, how do they expect the men to obey them. Now, the winchdriver is not supposed to hang a load over the men working in the square of the hatch, well, just listen to that man, Gus, holler "Come In With It" while there are two loads landed in one section and the men are flooring off. Safety rules dont mean anything if he can cheat the men out of a half hour's pay I wonder if he would like to work and have a load (very seldom less than 2 ton) hanging over his head. When it comes to putting on hatch covers, he stands over the hatch-combing and hollers and shouts and makes the men feel very uneasy. Also forgetting, no; I dont think he is forgetting, because I believe the man gets a sadistic pleasure out of the men's discomfort. I think he really enjoys to see the men running forward and back and dont know where they are going.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Of course he does not believe in making it easy for the boys; trimming the gear in place, why, we lose time doing it. I have actually seen him standing over the men and shouting, "Work faster, what's the matter with you?" And the men working as fast as any human being could work but still trying to work faster. I wonder when the men will come to their senses??

Oh, I have almost forgotten, some day, when a ship is finishing off, you ought to watch him, when it gets on the half hour. See him driving up the dock gang. If you have any kind of imagination just think of the African slaves with an over-seer cracking his whip over their heads.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Now Gus can be playful at times Oh Yes, he can be very playful, when he has his pets around he sneaks up behind and pulls the poor fellow's hair or kicks them in the back. But he gets the greatest pleasure out of sticking a pin up a man's back-side. Well—I always thought he was a sadist anyhow.

P. S: Please don't print this if you doubt my word. Ask the boys—on Pier 28

Editor's Note:

To Slave from Pier 28

Mr. Tanglefoot Gus can be stopped from carrying on such practises against the men. We, stevedores work on the docks in order to earn money to keep our-selves and family and not to be used by some simple-minded boss as his play-toy.

How can we stop such a half-baked fool from driving us mad??

1) We must draw up a set of ILA working rules in the union and furthermore see to it that they are enforced.

2) These working-rules can be enforced by having dock committees on each dock.

The time has come, when we as workers must stand up and demand our rights. We joined the

Editor Waterfront Worker:

Just a few lines to let you know that we are progressing since our last regular ILA meeting. We read a communication from the the Frisco Local in regards to calling a Rank and File convention. This proposition was endorsed and a telegram was sent to the Frisco Local also the the District office. Also any delegates from Frisco will be received with cordiality and welcome. At the present time, we have trouble coming up with the stevedore companies; they want to do away with Alphabatic list system and to inaugurate a gang system. We made a motion that we would talk to the stevedore co. when they would talk closed shop The reason that the Rank and File convention was not endorsed was because the manner in which the letter from Frisco was written. The letter called for the election of a new executive board and the opponents of this motion used this in order to stop the passing of the motion; the chief provision seemed to call for a new executive board. Paddy Morriss attended one of our meetings and he certainly is opposed to the calling of the Rank and File convention, he claims that the District is broke and we shouldn't go the expense of electing a new executive board.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Yours

For a Rank and File Convention

A Rank & Filer from Everett.

Editor's Note:

This letter proves the contention of the rank and file, that the burocratic officials are out to feather their own nests at the expense of the membership. It also proves, as soon as an intelligent explanation is made of why a Rank and File convention should be held immediately, the membership will support such actions 100 per cent.

Norfolk Va.

"Out with Miller and Alston" is one of the main slogans of the rank and file membership in this port. These officials, henchmen of Jos. P. Ryan sabatoged the move of their membership to present a real dockers code at the recent N.R.A. Hearings in Washington. Norfolk locals are preparing to circulate petitions in all North Atlantic ports calling for support in their fight to oust these corrupt officials.

ATTEND YOUR UNION MEETING

At the special meeting held on Sunday, Jan. 21, only 450 member showed up. The quorum for a special meeting is 1000 therefore we could not take any immediate action on the questions with which we were confronted. All we could do was to draw up a plan of action and submit it to the next membership meeting for ratification. This was done.

Boys, we must face facts, for months on the Front, the cry has been "we want action." The officials were charged with inactivity and rightfully so but times have changed. Now, the officials are lined up with the Rank and File and, where is the support? We have a definite plan of action—Unity of the Pacific Coast behind a Fighting Program. This program must be put into effect at

The W.W. has heard the rumors that some of the worst slave driving bosses on the front, Russian Louie for example, thinks it helps him with the ship owners to have the W.W. publish the fact that he is their efficient tool. Aint that nice!

The shipowners do not need to be told who their best men are. They already know from the actions of these different bosses & are ready to dump them as soon as they can get one that will give them bigger loads with less men. Look at Bob Nelson, after all the money poor old Bob saved Steel Dock. How ever the W. W. certainly thinks that most of the bosses on the front would sooner take a chance on getting a little less work than more W.W. publicity.

Ryan Betrays Coast

At the final Code Hearings held in Wash., on Jan. 29th, Ryan appeared as the representative of the ILA. In his recommendations for the revised Shipowners code he failed to bring up the demands of the men,of$1.00 an hr.$1.50 overtime,6 hour day, hiring from ILA. halls, the repudiation of the B.B. nor did he object to compulsory arbitration or to "decasualization", which according to the Dep't. of Labor experts, will throw 50,000 longshoremen out of work.

Due to pressure exerted on Ryan,led by the Fris co Local, he was forced to raisethe minimum scale to 90c for the West Coast. However,Ryan is still up to his old tricks, as he has agreed with Administrator Weaver, to hold secret conferences to settle the final Code. For 9 months,the men have been promised better working conditions under a NRA code, Have been patiently awaiting for the code to come, the shipowners have been stirred to feverish activity, preparing for trouble.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

In Seattle, an attempt to hire longshoremen for 45 cents an hr was defeated by joint action of seamen, the Marine Workers Industrial Union, Teamsters and Rank & File members of the ILA.

In Frisco, the ship-owners are hard at work to split the unity of the men by a staggered wage-scale, for instance, on the Bananna docks the scale is 85-60 & 50 cents an hour, the Sugar House pays truckers 65c, the Encinal Terminal in Alameda pays 60-65 cents Another angle of the shipowners-is the recent attempt to recruit negroes into the B.B. also the hiring of college boys on various docks & the most infamous of all is the use of stool-pigeons in the ranks of the ILA (one of these . . . rats was just exposed thru the efforts of the Waterfront Worker)

Pedroelection victory, the ILA won, 97% to a measly 3%, yet the Fink-Hall signs the working agreement. The stevedores on the Coast have only one course to follow and that is to Unite the Coast for Concerted Action, in preparation for the coming struggles. We have seen the maneuvers of the District officials to head off the Rank and File Convention. But these maneuvers are being spiked because the membership are fast awakening to the facts, that the Rank and File must take a more active part in the affairs of the Union if they are not to be Sold Out.

Reports, on the bullitin board, from the delegates up north, state that the membership of the northwest after hearing the true accounts of the code hearings and the Portland convention are solidly behind a Rank and File Convention.

KULBERG'S FIXING IN STOCKTON

Editor, Waterfront Worker:

Dear Friend:

These are some of the facts, which you might want for publication.

The Stockton ILA was organized some time in November, with a man named Baker as the leader. Today, there is an approximately 75 members, with an average attendance at the weekly meetings between 25-35. No sooner did the workers join up than they lost their jobs. Soon after this Mr. Kulberg visited Stockton; he promised the ILA members that they would soon be working and have complete control of all dock labor. He also stated, that if it were absolutely necessary the Frisco Local would refuse to work all Boats worked at Stockton using non-union labor.

Mr. Kulberg arranged a meeting with Mr. Blaine and Mr. Creel. He asked, why are the Union members being discriminated against? Mr. Blaine answered, that he had not been informed of the existence of a Union. Kulberg then arranged for the members of the Union to meet Mr. Blaine.

At this meeting, the members, who had been discriminated against, were called into Mr. Blaine's office one by one & asked point blank, if they had been discriminated against, since they joined the ILA? Mr. Blaine used some reason against each 1 of us, such as, inefficiency or incompetence. Mr. Kulberg only succeeded in making fools out of the Union members. He then suggested, that we try to get the other dockworkers to join the Union. This is impossible, as the others workers see that they would only lose their jobs by going I. L. A.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

At present the Stockton ILA is an unemployed organization with the secretary always hollering for dues.

Only two Boats use ILA men. This work is not rotated, pay is 60 cents an hour. Mr. Blaine pays 65c and 75c. He hires about 10 Union men at the dock, about 70 men work the Ship so you see that makes 1 ILA man to 7 non-ILA.

The other day someone was passing out copies of Waterfront Worker in our ILA hall our secretary Keyes made a remark to this effect, "Get that old junk out of here." Now this seems to me as a very poor attitude for him to take towards a sympathizing paper.

Sincerely

An ILA member, who has been discriminated against in Stockton.

ANOTHER MISLEADER EXPOSED

Evidently all misleaders of the workers do not operate the same. At one of our recent meetings, the Int. Organizer gave a militant speech, informing the

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

I. L. A. members that we must use force to stop the discrimination of the ILA members in the Port of Stockton. The members of Local 38-79 voted unanimously to refuse to work ships loaded by non-ILA Mr. Kulberg arranged a meeting with Capt. Blaine in Stockton. The sincere and honest workers, with the utmost confidence in the organizer and the ILA, braved future discrimination and terror by appearing before Capt. Blaine and charged him with denying ILA men the right to work.

The organizer did not protect the ILA members but on the contrary sided with the bosses and the bosses's agents, that "the men were inefficient.

To further insult the ILA members Kulberg told them, "to go & get the workers who took your jobs to join the Union."

Then Mr. Kulberg being the smart guy met with Mr. Allen of the Stockton Chamber of Commerce & Mr. Crooks of the Labor Council and promised to endorse the Port Bonds. The Port Bonds is the scheme of a bunch of real-estate sharks to unload some mud-flats onto the State at a nice piece-of-graft for themselves. Mr. Alvin Kulberg tells the ILA Local to endorse the Bonds, if the Bonds pass you all go back to work Smart guy, Alvin.

This sell-out does not discourage the membership nor do we have any illusions about certain of OUR officials but on the contrary we will fight all the harder to build the ILA into a Real Union with Honest and Sincere workers in the leadership.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

The Waterfront Worker pledges itself to carry on the fight until all crooked officials are driven out of the Union and the ILA is a Real Union with Rank and File Control.

Fink Boyce Exposed

An agent of Scabby Petersen's has been uncovered in the ranks of the stevedores. A human rat, the lowest and foulest of all creatures has been found gnawing and burrowing within the ILA.

This rat was recognized by a stevedore, who formerly worked as a seaman.

In 1930 Fink Boyce came aboard the Steam Schooner Davenport, in Oakland, to check up for the Fink Hall. Captain Nelson refused the Fink the right to brow-beat the sailors and he kicked Mr. Boyce off the ship. When the Schooner docked in Frisco, the rat again came aboard, intent on doing his rotten work but the Captain again showed his Solidarity with the sailors by kicking off the Fink Hall's agent. And to guard against a further invasion of rats, Captain Nelson ordered rat guards put up on all dock lines. (continued next column) Captain Nelson was fired for his action, he was fired for kicking a dirty rat off his ship.

Later when Boyce went aboard the Schooner Tiverton to check the Fink-books, he threatened a sailor who would not take out a book that he would fix him the same as he did Captain Nelson—with the axe. He forced the sailor to take out a Fink-Book.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Brothers;this is the kind of rat we have in our organization and he tries to justify his Fink record with the whining excuse, "I did it to eat, because I made a mistake in the past it is no reason why I should suffer now." Let us say Mr. Boyce,there is hundreds of good men being kept on the Beach.. by that dirty, lousy Fink-Hall. And Mr. Boyce, you are part and Parcel of the whole rotten, stinking system.

Scram!

Fink!

Scram!!

Famous Last Words.

You haven't got a Fink-Book, you want stamped, have you, Boyce??

Conductor Says "Organize"

Editor Waterfront Worker:

The undersigned is a conductor on the Market St. Railway, I am much interested in your little WW I used to be a longshoreman about 4 years ago I left the Front to take this job.

My work is not nearly so hard—as that of you, longshoremen but we do put in disgraceful long hrs. We get up at 3:30 A.M. to go out on a run.

Some years ago, I remember the longshoremen lost a strike becaus they asked too much, i.e. about 60% of the shipowners profit. They could never stand for that, the stevedores were considered crazy to even make such outrageous demands.

In contrast to this the Mkt. St. Railway is going to pay its employees 55% of the profits. We have been informed that, when and if profits are made, this will amount an hourly increase of 2c. What an enormous increase, when the cost of living has gone up nearly 20% in the last 6 months.

Of course, I now realize this whole move was nothing but a clever and successful move to break-up our new Union. So my advice to you longshoremen is to stick to your program and never listen to any phoney proposals mad by your employers.

Yours for a 100% ILA Waterfront.

An Ex-Stevedore.

Dear Sir:

As conditions are getting so rotten on Pier 39, whereI work, I only have one way to express myself & that is through the Waterfront Worker.All stevedores are anxious to read your fine little paper. They would gladly pay a nickel a copy for it.You hear lots of them say so. So please print my article in the first paper out.

When work picks up,I'll remember you.

Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Boss

On Pier 39, things are getting pretty bad, Mr. Horseman hasn't got a new car yet this year.. Mr. Sorensen, the walker, is really worried about it. He, himself has a few dollars $ invested in the "outfit" & he is chasing the poor straw bosses up and down the docks trying to make a profit.

Cook is about to be sent to a sanatorium, his nerves is giving out. The big boss is riding him sooooo hard, & at the same time doingwork for 2, only small hope is held for his recovery.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Norman of course is getting a break by having Long Emil's brother-in-law in his gang. They send Cook home & put Norman's gang in his hatch. Cook is always sure of last in and first out.

Diver with his big, silly grin, we all know is a sucker and will always remain one.

—And somehow Rolf knows how to please Mr. Sorensen, by packing all his booze out of the ship and he works his gang 15-20 minutes—for the church every day.

Preacher Larsen with his BlueBook is the biggest sucker of them all He claims that he can live for years without working, & the Lords Kingdom is near, Moses will soon be back & so on—but until Moses gets here the Preacher wants to be on the right side of the Big Boss. A Stevedore—Pier 39

Solidarity, Cries Stevedore

Editor Waterfront Worker:

I am a longshoreman working on the Frisco front but living in Oakland, which is the reason I do not attend all the meetings. If all meetings, of the future, will be as exciting as the last one, held on Jan 29, I will come often The most exciting part of the meeting was when the visiting delegate came on the platform to make an appeal for funds, in behalf of some strikers in the Imperial Valley. This speaker told his story very convincingly, and I was very pleased to see the Br others respond as generously as they did.I think $38.00 was collecetd. The longshoremen apparently/understand the meaning of Solidarity, with a few exceptions. A small group sitting near the platform tried to raise a loud howl because the strikers in the Valley were not AF of L Unionists. Whenever we can, we should help the workers in the other crafts, no matter whether they are organized in the AF of L or some other affiliation.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

One corpulant gentlemen, McKenna, by name, seemed to be the leader of this group of objectionists; however his mighty efforts gained him nothing(perhaps a lot of ill-feeling).Iwonder if he put anything in the hat when it passed him???

Your little paper is just what we need on the Front,to express our sentiments & I hope you will continue to publish it.Dont let any of these corpulent gentlemen scarce you.We have only One Enemy—the Shipowners.

Asks For 5c Waterfront Worker

Editor Waterfront Worker:

Having been a reader of this paper almost since its coming on the Front and seeing where you are a little short on cash, why not charge a nickel for it?

I dont think a nickel every 2 weeks will break any of us and maybe if it is OK, a bigger paper can be published.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

This putting the bosses on the spot doesnt help them out. They are getting so every other week they get the paper and see if their name is in it. You should write a little about Russian Louie and how he cashes the brass—for the gang, at 5c on the dollar or they lose their jobs. Brown does the same thing.

Stevedore Has Thumb Torn Off.

On Weds. Jan. 31st, a stevedore working for Hungry Gus, had his thumb torn off, while working the Kohoa Maru.

In trying to make tonnage, Hungry Gus had his men sling so many sacks that the sling would not go around the load. In trying to reeve the hook thru, the man 's thumb got jammed and when the winch driver went ahead it tore the man's thumb half off, the weight of the man being lifted-off the ground tore the thumb entirely off.

Immediately after this avoidable accident happened, a head boss from the dock came down & gave Hungry a severe bawling out and told him to sling three less of sacks to the load.

This accident is the direct result of the competition between the bosses to beat each other in tonnage and as always it's the - men have to pay for it by working at an intense speed-up and being crippled for life.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

We as members of the ILA can stop this useless, insane speedup and needless maiming of workers. We must adopt a set of ILA working rules.these rules would stop the boss's from swinging such monstrous loads. A militant dock committee on the job would see to it that the working rules w'd be enforced to safe guard the workers against the competition of the Kulberg Attends Stockton Meeting! Puts On Red Dress!

On Feb 7th.Kulberg attended the Stockton ILA meeting because the membership were demanding action In opening the meeting,he stated that it was a poor time to go in to action as the Frisco Local was poorly organized and it would be best to wait for the Code.

Every member saw through this program and in the middle of the meeting, the President handed in his resignation.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Pie-card Kulberg, to save his face, jumped up and gave a rousing speech, stating, "now nor e militant action would have to be taken, that to get results we' d have to fight and strike—like the Communists."

Mr. Keyes,secretary of the ILA, also of the Ferryboatmen's Union is a good friend of Kulberg ' s: He evidently was prompted by Pie card Alvin because a motion was made and passed that the secretary be paid 25 cents by every member who works 8 hours or more (for the good of the I.L.A. no doubt)

Pie-card Kulberg did not trust himself in such a hostile atmosphere so he had a good array of other Fakers to assist him. The local secretary of the Labor Council was there,he stated "that if an agreement was not made with the ILAhe would put out leaflets knocking the Port Bonds. When fellow worker Larsen was hurt a few months ago thru the negligence of the Ship Owners & Stevedoring Co's, the gang was blamed and fired.

Louis Disner,notorious scab herder and Klu Klux Klan organizer was put in as hatch tender. Louis immediately pulled the old Fink Hall stunt;"Everybody in th gang buys cigars for the hatch tender." One member of the gang refused and was fired off the job for refusing to buy El Ropos for Disner.

Louis is trying the old routine cigars first—then a gallon of wine;a ham.etc. If we dont stop it, it will be a step-in for mama or a new car.

The same day, in the afternoon a genuine Fink by the name of Halloway came aboard and by meat flapping the Captain and mate got himself a job; bragging that all Union men were brothers and he was a good friend ofthe whole gang.

It becomes necessary at this time for all of us to be clear on the plan of attack adopted by the shipowners against the longshoremen and seamen, and having defeated us, as they hope to, move to attack the teamsters.

Attempts are made to set up a negro union to split white and negro workers. Some of us, not seeing how the shipowners are preparing to attack us coastwise, don't very often see the necessity of organizing for the backing of workers, not only in one port, but all ports are playing right into the shipowner's hands, with ill-time and improperly prepared dock strikes.

Lee Holman is waiting around with his organization of scabs hoping the shipowners will give him a chance to lick their boots.

In Pedro, of course, Pedro Pete plays the game by ruling in favor of the finks remaining working, informing the seamen and other marine crafts that the longshoremen will not be able to back them up in any of their struggles.

set up their scab fund. The scabby Columbia River Longshore Assn. is kept at Portland's organized scab reserves.

In Seattle the Chamber of Commerce is busy collecting a scab fund, attempts have been made to organize the casuals into a rival union.

Over the whole coast watching their chance to pull charters and wreck union, waiting to do Ryan's bidding, stand the labor fakers of the District, Lewis, Paddy Morris, and Sheriff Bjorklund.

In the fight to organize the Rank and File Pacific Coast Marine Federation these district misleaders take different positions so as to remain in the leadership, but always with the aim of splitting the forces of the workers. Lewis takes the position that the Marine Federation is all right, but now is not the time for it. Paddy Morris wants a Federation—speaks hot and heavy for it, but demands it be organized to only protect the interests of each marine craft so we, instead of uniting our forces, will waste our time on jurisdictional fights.

The fakers of the I.S.U. have let loose a coastwise drive to split the longshoremen and seamen. In this they all have joined from Lhe "Old Fink of the Sea" Furuseth So "Pmch Drunk" Frank Webb, I.S.U. Frisco Patrolman. They hope to set up a separate group of steam-schooner men to work longshore for about $2.00 a day.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Fellow Workers, we have no time to lose - bitter struggles lie just ahead of us. At one we must tour our best speakers and organizers on the whole coast to arouse the workers of the danger—to get busy and build up the Pacific Coast Rank and File Marine Federation—to build rank and file control in all coast locals so the shipowners will not be able any longer to play one local against another, —to carry on a coastwise fight for more favorable decisions on the Award — to mobilize for a fight against Ryan and Lewis' union wrecking, charter-lifting stunts.

This was proven correct when we sent Harry Bridges, our militant rank and file leader, on a tour a year ago to unite the Coast in the District I.L.A. Convention, and resulted in being able to organize gang stewards and to plan the organization of a coastwise marine federation.

Prepare for the shipowners attack and win the day.

Capitalist Justice—Worker Tried for Being Shot in Back

Insull Freed After Stealing Millions.

Last week, Metzgar, the worker who was shot in the back duringthe police attacks on the mass picket line on May 28, was tried in a capitalist court in a true capitalist manner.

Metzgar, who was an innocent bystander during the police attack was deliberately shot in the back by a police sergeant. After being released from the hospital he was arrested and charged with "felonious assault and intent to do great bodily harm". His case just came to trial last week and he was defended by the International Labor Defense.

In a truly militant working-class manner many longshoremen attended the trial and some were called as witnesses. The longshore witnesses showed how deliberate the police attacks were and how Metzgar was shot trying to escape the brutal police. The prosecutor went into spasms of rage whenever the witnesses would call the attacks in their true name—police attacks. He stated they should be called "melees".

Every honest worker can see how the courts are used to prosecute and intimidate the workers, especially militant workers who dare stand up for their rights, and how the prosecutor and judge lie and use all sorts of legal trickery to confuse the workers.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

The jury voted 10 to 2 for acquital. As th jury could not agree they were dismissed. Th judge stated, as he heard the jury's report, "Thi case has cost the City too damn much already' This remark of the judge's proves the correctnes of the International Labor Defense's policy—tha of demanding a jury trial.

During the strike the longshoremen had over 80 arrests. It is true that most of these cases wer dismissed, but the number of arrests could have bee reduced greatly if the arrested workers would hav demanded jury trials, flooded the jails and th courts. The cost would have been so terrific tha the police would have stopped their wholesale ar rests.

Compare the justice meted out to Metzgar and t Samuel Insull. Samuel Insull, the man who stol millions, who caused more suicides misery and wip ing out of small savings than any man in this dec ade, and who built his immense fortune on th blood and sweat of the exploited toilers. Afte the crash Insull ran away to Greece and after great lot of newspaper wailing and gushing he re turned to America when he got good and ready We all know that the Insull jury voted a verdic of not guilty. Negro and White Stick Together

Dear Ed:

Saturday, Dec. 22, Bob Rees went to Encinal Terminal to work the Dorothy Luckenback. On arriving there he found one man short.

Bob being a cheap union man could not afford to call the I.L.A. Hall himself, went over to the Timekeeper, Barneti, and told him to phone the I.L.A. for a white man and that if they would send him a nigger he would send him back.

It certainly is doing what the shipowners want us to do—calling negro workers "niggers". During the strike negro workers fought shoulder to shoulder with white workers.

Bob Rees never worked to form the I.L.A., nor did he make any rules for the good and welfare of the organization.

Get wise, Bob, black or white, we are all in one class, the working class—in one union, the I.L.A. Take any man that is sent from the union. The union has always fought against any discrimination.

Stick together, we win—split agaprt, we lose.

Shyster Lawyer in Charge Defense

B.A. Greene, the shyster lawyer who is part of the A.F. of L. machine in Portland and the entire state of Oregon, and who played a large part in breaking the strike of seamen on the SS Hollywood, has been "in charge" of the case from the start. Everystevedore in Portland, and especially the defendants themselves, know that Greene is stalling the case along as long as he can—trying to keep the men just anxious enough to continue their efforts to raise funds for the defense, and at the same time, keeping the whole affair just quiet enough so that nothing will be done about in the courts, which will keep Greene's expense account paid by the workers for as long as possible.

While 22 of the defendants were still held in the County Jail, 18 of them signed a petition demanding that the International Labor Defense participate in the defense. The paper disappeared before the men could turn it over to their fellow-workers outside, for action

Steam-Schooner Men Work on Dock

Lay Basis to Split Longshoremen & Seamen

Dear Ed;

It is becoming a practice of the steam-schooners to force the sailors to work cargo on the dock. This is done with the idea to use the steam-schooner men in case any serious trouble arises between the shipowners and longshoremen. The S.S. Noye is more of a violator of this form of chiseling than any steam-schooner I know. The way they get away with it is this way; the Noye picks up a few tons here and there all over the Bay and as the I.L.A. Hall will not send a gang down to a job for anything less than two hours, why the schooners have been getting away with more and more as time goes on.

The steam-schooner sailors do not want to work cargo on docks but under the present conditions we are forced to. The phoney I.S.U. officials will not make a move to help us stop this unfair practice. I suggest that the I.L.A. send gangs down to do this work and let them travel with the ship and get their pay while travelling. I hope the I.L.A.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Scab Hotel in Crockett

Discriminates Against Negroes

Some action should be taken against the scab hotel in Crockett. Not only do they give out slim rations but when John Zillich's gang went up there the chief fink of the hotel forced three negroes in the gang to eat in a separate room. Say, what kind of I.L.A. men are in that gang, that they will let a fink cook get away with anything like that? Even the three negroes who agreed to such a thing must have a little of the Uncle Tom in them.

We're living in 1934, where every man regardless of race, color, or creed, has an equal right in any worker's organization, especially in the I.L.A., a rank and file controlled union. I say to all negroes that it is time for every colored man to stop being an Uncle Tom and stand up and fight like a man.

Were Clerks Sold Out?!

Finnegan Machine Working Smoothly.

Dear Ed:

Perhaps you would like to know how the Clerks have been since their award has been given out. We now work two hours and a half or one and a half where we used to get at least a half a day and our raise in pay amounted to, in most cases, ten cents an hour, so the outcome we are cut at the minimum, the equivalent of a half a day's pay. Our hours are all we can get and as long at one time as we are able to stand on two feet.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

The latest is now to take in the finks and scabs which no doubt if they are good finks the shipowners will be willing to pay the $25.00 Initiation Fee. If you should happen to run across some of our boys whom you know to be good Union men with their buttons in the pocket, it is simply because they don't want to represent a "Fink Hall". Well, what we have a hall for I sometimes wonder. We still have to panhandle the beach and the finks and scabs get all preference; for instance, the American Hawaiian have about twenty finks and scabs there and we have about as much chance as a snowball in Hell for a job. If you want to lose your job, if your're lucky enough to have one, ask a Steamship Company to call the Hall for you and that will be the end of your job.

I hope someone comes to the rescue soon as that's about our last resort. I often wonder if we were sold out or is that foolish. Hey, Hey. I hope the boys will get next to themselves and clean that organization before it's too late, but they will have to work fast.

Longshoremen Help Seamen Unite Forces

Dear Ed:

During the strike we seamen saw how necessary it is to not only have unity amongst seamen, longshoremen and teamsters, but unity amongst ourselves.

We well remember the day after Bloody Thursday, Larsen, I.S.U. Secretary, called the cops and ran us out of the I.S.U. Hall when we, 1200 rank and file members, tried to call a meeting to vote for a united seamen's strike committee between the Marine Workers Industrial Union and the I.S.U. Now with the shipowners building up big scab-funds to attack us soon, unity between all seamen, will be more necessary than ever before.

Already the Marine Workers Industrial Union is taking up with seamen to unite all seamen in one seamen's union, a union which the majority of the seamen have picked as their organization, the I.S.U. The M.W.I.U. has always maintained we must unify our ranks and it would not stand in the way of unity.

Longshoremen can do much to help the seamen and demand any attempt on the part of the I.S.U. fakers, Scharrenberg & Co., to keep seamen from unity with other maritime workers, be stopped, by the united action of all the maritime workers.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Seamen must demand a vote on all agreements made in their name.

Granting of original demands of $75 for A.Bs.

Full voice and vote when admitted to the Union. No more probationary membership.

The right of seamen aboard ship to voice their opinion regards seamen's affairs, as many are denied this democratic right because it is ruled by the I.S.U. leaders that they cannot vote because they are at sea.

We must be on guard that the I.S.U. leaders do not carry thru successfully their plan to split the seamen and longshoremen as this talk is being spread on the Coast by Woopy Andy Furuseth.

for the unemployed is to be placed on labor. It means a further cut in living standards. 4.) "Establish, broad foreign markets. (This can be done only by driving wages here still farther toward the wages of Japanese workers—or by a new world war.)

This is the program that Hearst is boosting.

But Hearst and his multi-millionaire friends know that American workers will not take his scheme lying down. They will resist. There will be big strikes. As is always the case when the bankers and big bosses are getting ready for a new piece of dirty work, they want to suppress all opinions and actions which do not fit in with their skullduggery.

So, now Hearst is calling for the extermination of the "Reds". He calls for censorship of moving pictures so that nothing favorable to labor shall get in, demands the passing of laws that Will Make It Illegal Even to Distribute Leaflets and Handbills Giving Labor's Side in the Case of Strikes or at Any Time.

Hearst calls for denial of the use of the U.S. mail to all papers and publications that do not agree with his definition of "Americanism". He calls for the deportation of all foreign born workers That Refuse to Become Strikebreakers, and Worship at the Shrine of Hearst.

Hearst, and the bankers and employers whose opinions he expresses, calls for a new federal law to imprison and deprive of citizenship even naturalized citizens—yes, and native born Americans as well—who believe with good reason that this country and its government is run by J.P. Morgan, Rockefeller, Vanderbilt, Astor, etc. in the interests of this little clique of multi-millionaires who never did a day's work in their lives.

Hearst wants everyone treated as "traitors" who believes and says that such a clique and their government should be kicked out by the organized power of the workers and workers and farmers put in to take their places, running the government and his country in the interests of everyone who works, or who wants to work for a living.

Such beliefs are treason", says Hearst. The only labor leaders he likes are those who sell out their unions, their fellow workers, and the whole working class, to Hearst his capitalist kin, and the big trustified employers.

It is time that the organized labor movement showed Hearst, who openly praises Fascism in Germany and Italy, while always slandering and lying about the workers and peasants government of the Soviet Union, who is trying his best to promote Fascism in the United States, That It Is On To His Game.

It is time to let him and those for whom he speaks know that American workers have had just about all the insults from him and his sheets that they can bear. It is time to start in and get ready for a unified struggle against the whole open shop, wage and relief cutting program sponsored by Hearst and the big employers.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

It is time to speak out in the clearest manner against all schemes for suppressing any section of the working class and to defend freedom of speech, of the labor press, of the right to assemble, or organize and strike. It is time to let Hearst know that We Are On To His Game; that we know when he calls for a drive against the "Reds" he really means All Workers the Entire Organized Labor Movement.

Why should any wage earner, since this is the kind of program Hearst supports, buy and read any Hearst paper? Why should workers whose wages, unions, political parties and living standards Hearst is attacking, poison themselves with Hearst venom?

Mr. Del Guercio: I would like to call the Court's attention to what appears on page six of this issue, particularly the address being given as "P.O. Box 1158". Also what appears on the front page of this particular issue, and I quote:

This also appears:

"The Waterfront Worker is going to celebrate its third birthday by holding a meeting at Albion Hall Saturday nite. For this memorable occasion the Waterfront Worker has invited William F. Dunne, one of the foremost trade union authorities in America, to speak and explain the West Coast Maritime strike and the great San Francisco general strike. Many [1937] workers are acquainted with Dunne already, knowing him for his militant history in Butte, Montana, and as a militant member of the National Executive Committee of the A. F. of L."

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, Mr. McCuistion, do you know the William F. Dunne mentioned in this article?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who is he?

A. He was a leading member of the Communist Party, a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party and a former editor of the Daily Worker. He had been disassociated with the American Federation of Labor as an official for some years at that time.

Q. Was he a high official of the Communist Party at the time of this article?

A. Yes, he was at that time. He still is, to the best of my knowledge. He has been for many years.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

He is a charter member of the Communist Party of this country.

Q. Now, I show you another issue of the Waterfront Worker for April 13, 1936, and ask you if you can identify it as being a genuine copy of the Waterfront Worker?

A. I probably have never seen this issue before. It's just the same as the others. At the time this issue came out I was in India, so I couldn't very well have seen this.

Q. Does it appear to you to be a genuine copy of the [1938] Waterfront Worker from what you have seen of them?

A. Yes, sir. It appears just the same, the same kind of work, the same kind of paper, the same kind of lettering on the masthead and everything.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, if your Honor please, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Presiding Inspector: It may be received without objection.

Mr. Del Guercio: And I ask that the photostatic copy thereof be substituted.

Presiding Inspector: It may be done.

Shipowners Prepare for Showdown

The scab ship Santa Rosa is due in Pedro Monday morning. She is manned with the cream of the scum of the large eastern cities. Armed to the teeth with knives, black-jacks, guns and scab I.S.U. books paid 3 months in advance, these scabs are headed straight for trouble.

The shipowners have prepared for such action. Along with the planned murder of the maritime leaders in Frisco, the revocation of the sailor's charter, the pending injunction against the seamen's hiring halls and the deliberate dispatching of ships to the West Coast manned with scab crews, this does not only show direct cooperation between the East and West Coast shipowners but it means that they are taking action.

What causes the shipowners to take action at this time?

1. The strike on the East Coast is growing stronger daily.

2. The fakers are doomed; therefore, they have resorted to open strike-breaking and fitting the scabs out with I.S.U. books.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

This leaves no alternative to the longshoremen and the Pacific Coast maritime unions but fight.

We can expect any time that the papers, the fakers and the shipowners to raise the cry that the East Coast strike is unofficial, that it is a red plot to destroy American shipping, that these "mutineers" should be hung from the yard elm etc. Ryan has Okeyed the plan of putting scabs on ships. He stands alongside Olander, Carlson, Grange, Hunter, and the rest of the gangster beef squad leadership of the I.S.U. of A. Any day now Ryan will be issuing orders that these ships are not scabs, that the East Coast strike is phoney, that the West Coast has agreements that must be respected, etc., and you will find the Pacific Coast district officialdom echoing those orders.

"Mutiny Strikes"

The strike of the seamen in New York harbor, which grew out of the SS California "mutiny" incident, is spreading despite all obstacles placed in their path by a scab-herding union officialdom and the WPA administration. Over 2 dozen ships have already been tied up, more to come.

Strikers revealed that officials of the International Seamen's Union, led by acting president Andrew Furuseth, have been rounding up scabs in Cleveland, Toledo and other ports in the Great Lakes area.

As further evidence of the complete tie-up of the reactionary officials with shipowners, the strikers pointed to the charges made in the press that "they did not represent the union membership".

A statement answering this charge issued by the provisional strike committee said in part: "The charge that we do not represent the membership is absurd. We are the members of the union. We are the men who sailed the seas and spread the union from port to port. We are the workers who fought on the picket lines. We pay the dues to maintain men like Furuseth in high paid positions as officials".

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

The expose of the strikebreaking part played by the WPA administration, which, was printed in the Sunday Worker of Mar. 29th, was corroborated in a letter sent by Nels Andersons, labor relations director of the WPA, to Representative Vito Marcantonio.

The letter stated that "no more" WPA workers would be assigned to take places of strikers "until the union is able to settle its own differences".

Marcantonio pointed out that no attempt was being made to remove those now scabbing. Serving notice that he would take the matter up on the floor of the House of Representatives, Marcantonio, stated, "The response is not satisfactory. I shall take it up on the floor."

Just in that is he different from other army officers, active or retired. Most of them know as much about war as does Gen. The meeting at which General Butler will speak will be in Dreamland Auditorium and under the auspices of the American League Against War and Fascism.

In addition to attacking Lewis and Brophy, the veteran red-baiter, also led the recent notorious expulsion of 18 locals of steel workers out of the union.

Castles and Wage Cuts

William Randolph Hearst came in for a severe lashing from Senator Shwellenbach of Washington and a member of the Committee Investigating Lobbies. He accussed Public Enemy No. 1 of running his newspapers on a sweatshop basis and of a long record of stealing papers, bribery, intimidation and the yellowist of journalism.

While Hearst was building a $15,000,000 Bavarian castle in California he said, "so he and Hollywood movie stars could enjoy themselves", drawing $500,000 salary, "he was putting into effect three separate and distinct reductions of 10 percent upon the salaries of his employees". The Senator also reviewed Hearsts criminal activities in bringing about the Spanish-American War and his yellow sensationalism during the World War. "No man in the country today is more despised by the men who work for him", he added.

The characterization of Hearst was brought about by his effort to prevent the Lobby Committee from obtaining and publishing his telegrams obtained from the telegraph companies.

fice will be broken and will result in a direct vicious attack by the shipowners on the West Coast.

Although the Grace ships only touch 2 West Coast ports, Pedro and Frisco, this is a coast issue and must be made so.

Past experience has shown us that the district officialdom will stay on the fence with no direct declaration of policy and allow Frisco and Pedro to take the lead in this action.

The district council #2 of the Federation has already declared the Santa Rosa "hot" and has notified all other councils and has called upon them for support.

The longshoremen and other maritime unions must prepare themselves for a showdown on this issue. The shipowners realize that the East Coast strike becomes more solid daily and all strike publicity to the West Coast is smothered They see in the strike the concrete beginning of an East Coast Maritime Federation and the loss of their aides like Ryan, Scharrenberg, Hunter and the other cohorts. This they want to stop if at all possible.

Even if the present strike results in nothing more than organization of the East Coast seamen, the shipowners are willing to spend millions of dollars to prevent the further cementing of East and West Coast unity.

The fakers have played every card in the deck as union officials and now they are forced to come out openly as shipowner agents and ship scabs to the struck ships. The '34 and Gulf strike exposed them, so will the East Coast walk-out shove them further down the long incline to oblivion. Washed up and desperate the fakers are fighting to keep their necks, it is a win all or lose all policy with them and they will resort to anything to keep above water.

As far as the Rank & File of the maritime workers are concerned there is no compromise. We have maneuvered out of many tough issues but now we are up against the basic issue of unionism and we must fight.

Delegates to the I.L.A. Convention

Soon, we will be casting our ballots for the delegates to the Annual I.L.A. Convention. This convention is going to be a memorable one for the maritime workers of the Pacific Coast. The Paddy Morris, Lewis, Pedro Pete machine is slipping and to bolster it up they are resorting to the cheapest political tricks and slanders imaginable.

That is why, more than in any other previous convention, we must see to it that real honest, sincere, proven trade-union fighters are elected as delegates. We must elect brothers who have good union records and who are not afraid to take the floor and fight for the Rank & File at all times.

We can all remember last year's convention when one of the delegates had to be censored by the local membership before he would go along with the majority of 38-79 delegates. Today, that member stands charged with the stealing of union funds, falsifying the Labor Relation Board's minutes, etc., and is soon to face trial on these charges. We should see to it that such types of men do not represent, or misrepresent rather, our local at the convention again.

When you ballot, look the nominees over very carefully. If you do not know all the nominees ask for information before you go into the hall to vote.

Be sure to vote for honest, sincere, proven trade union fighters! Protect your interests. Elect fighters.

Unite All Forces of Labor

All workers and workers' organizations who venerate the role of labor in American history, will turn out to demonstrate on May Day.

May Day in 1886 was a day of struggle for the Eight-Hour Day, a burning demand of that day. One even yet to be won by millions of workers. Unemployment, and long hours for employed workers; were then the evil that they are today.

On May First, 1886, a general strike swept all America. It won the Eight-Hour Day for hundreds of thousands. But victory has its sacrifices. Capitalism, to revenge itself, hung the leaders of the movement in Chicago, Albert Parsons and his comrades. But May day, and its celebration as a day of challenge against capitalism by labor, was born.

Today, more than ever, as a dying capitalism tries to cling to power with fascist fang and claw, the unity of labor on Labor's own day, May Day, is imperatively necessary to hold back the arrogant reactionaries.

Hearst and the Liberty League openly, others by deceitful and covered means, are driving toward imposing a fascist regime of hunger and white terror upon the American people. The other day, Mr. Sloan, head of General Motors, remarked that now Big Business must not limit itself to running industry, but must, in effect, seize governmental power.

Against all such fascist challenges, a united May Day this year must hurl back the defiance of all workers, united and on the streets!

Whispering Campaigns and Stool Pigeons

From time to time whispering campaigns have swept the Front in an attempt to undermine certain Rank & File leaders in the union. In 99 cases out of a hundred if these campaigns were traced to their source you would find that the same small group of individuals would be responsible. To say that some members of this group are in the pay of the shipowners and police is not enough. These individuals are a distinct menace to our organization and to the organized labor movement as a whole. Like rats that burrow, breed and fatten on refuse and garbage these individuals prey and lick their chops over some choice bit of slander which their degenerate minds breed.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Most generally their vicious lies are an attack against the known militants in the union. As an example, lately, their lies were directed towards some of our elected leaders, calling them dictaters, etc. However, in the report of the special investigating committee it was found that in several cases where the individuals were doing lots of squawking about a dictatorship, that they were the ones who had wilfully violated some union or hiring hall rule.

Brothers, keep your eyes upon those members who are so quick to shout wolf against some of the proven fighters for our union. The quicker the rats who start and circulate such lieing rumors are brought to trial before the membership, the sooner peace and harmony will reign in all maritime unions.

Boston Labor Council Assails Green Attack on Industrial Unions

The cause of industrial unionism won a signal victory at the last meeting of the Central Labor Union in Boston, when a motion was passed branding President Green's charges of dual unionism against the Committee for Industrial Unionism, as false and unfounded. The motion was introduced by a group of forty-eight unions.

Dirigible Commander Under Fire

When Dr. Hugo Eckener, famed dirigible commander, returns with Germany's huge new airship he will be stripped of his honors and ousted from his post in "disgrace" because he refused to name the new dirigible after Adolph Hitler. He tried to keep Hitler from using the two dirigibles under his command for propaganda purposes during the recent election campaign.

Protection Against Strikebreaking

"I favor a national Farmer-Labor Party in 1936 along the lines of the Gorman resolution at the A.F. of L. convention. I don't feel that the New Deal has met all the needs of labor, and I think a Farmer-Labor administration would really protect the workers against such strike-breaking and terror as we have been experiencing in Vermont".—James R. Gallagher, vice-president, Vermont Federation of Labor.

Unions Come To Aid of C. S. Victims

International unions of the American Federation of Labor and locals in 20 states have sent resolutions protesting against the further imprisonment to the prison board of the 8 young people who were convicted because they organized and won better conditions for the agricultural workers.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

The C. S. Committee announces that a petition signed by 7 international unions demands that the C.S. prisoners be freed.

The resolutions call for repeal of the C.S. laws and charge that the convictions were a result of "an anti-union, strike-breaking campaign".

A broad conference composed of California trade unions, fraternal and other mass organizations has been called for Sacramento Sunday, April 19th.

Unity

Slaves are we
In a human chain
Millions of workers
By hand or brain
Selling our Power
Strength and skill
For a few lousy cents
that our bellies be filled
Toiling for parasites
Day and night long
Selling our strength
While we yet are strong.
Begging for bread
When we cannot work—
Begging for Life
From those who shirk.
Living in garrets
Dressing in rags
Life is a nightmare
Living is sad

Seattle Stevie Asks For Steward Delegation

Waterfront Worker

Dear Editor:

I wonder if you fellows in Frisco know that the officers of the district, some members of the District Executive Board, and even Fischer of the Federation are going from Local to Localand trying to run down Harry Bridges and what they call an irresponsible bunch of reds on the Frisco Front. I know you will think it strange that they are using the identical arguments of the shipowners; nevertheless, it is true because they are doing just that. I can truthfully say that the union members up here are not going to be stampeded by anything so raw as that. Too many of us have also been painted with that same red brush. I can't understand why Bridges and some good delegation of gang stewards can't pay a visit up here and tell us the truth about conditions in Frisco. Hoping to see "Red" Harry up here soon,

I remain,

A Seattle Longshoreman.

Give Them Enough Rope And They Will Hang Themselves

Dear Ed:

In my mind, one of the surprising factors about the special investigating committee is the findings. If you have noticed, despite the fact that Captain Knopff has been suspended from office about one month, that there has been no whispering campaign sweeping the front. I wonder if this is due to the fact that the Captain stands in more or less with that particular group who have in the past been so quick to start whispering slander about various militant union brothers. I can recall that at different times the Waterfront Worker pointed out that Knopff was not to be trusted and like the good book says, "and so it came to pass".

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Another thing, dear Editor, have you noticed this same outfit that is always circulating slander about our militant leaders came to Knopff's defense in a round about way—they said "the Board of Trustees had no right to suspend Knopff etc".

One by one the phonies are being eliminated and the militant unions are becoming stronger and stronger. Some wise old man once said, "Give a calf enough rope and he would hang himself".

For less phonies in the unions.

A Rank & Filer.

Luckenbach Boss Moves Against Militant Member

Dear Editors:

At last Mike Comer, a Luckenbach boss has made good his promise to get rid of all militant men out of his gang. No sooner did Mike take the gang over then he immediately started to show the men how to work. Naturally, all the militant union men would not accept this speed-up and most generally they quit. The steward would not stand for his line and one day told him what he thought of him as a boss. Finally, when the gang was pretty well-filled with pork-chop conscious men he used an old trick telling the gang the only way to get in more time was to get rid of this steward because the steward was slowing down the job. For this reason the walking boss would not give the gang good jobs. The results were the steward was voted out of the job. This system was used in the Blue Book days and must be stopped. The only thing the gang and the boss are interested in is extensions.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

"A Pretty Hard Nut To Crack" Says Tacoma Old Timer

Editors:

I read the Voice of the Federation and the Pacific Coast Longshoreman and I want to know why doesn't Frisco write more news to these two papers?

I'm an old timer from Tacoma and I just want to say that you fellows in Frisco are good fighters and I admire you very much, but you must remember, that a few years back you were all in a company union and when you go back even further than that, you will find the record of Frisco smells kind of bad. We are not saying you aren't good union men now but we think we rate knowing what you are doing. There isn't any local that can get along by itself. Up and down the coast our interests are the same and I realize that Frisco has led the fight even when our district officials were sitting back on their hands. I say again, write more Rank & File news from Frisco and if we continue to hold and to build our Ranks still stronger, the shipowners are going to find us a pretty hard nut to crack.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Sincerely,
A Tacoma Old Timer.

Visitor Says "We Need More Coastwise Unity"

Brother Editor:

I am a visitor from the northwest and want to give a few of my impressions of Frisco. We have the fakers concentrated in the northwest and one would get the impression from reading the Pacific Coast Longshoreman that the Rank & File believes all this hooey being circulated about Frisco. Such is not the case. The Northwest Rank & File understand what Frisco is up against. We realize that the first blows struck by the employers against the unions are most generally struck in Frisco. First, because that is the largest and best organized port.

I do not wish to find fault with the way Frisco has fought back these attacks, but I do not see why the Coast was not told more in detail what Frisco was doing and why they were doing it?

From the short time I have been here I have found conditions in general much better than in other ports. I also found that the men cooperate and work together 100% with their officials and gang stewards. I like it find here but must soon return to my home due to my family connections.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Yours for MoreCoastwise Unity,

A Northwest Visitor.

Unionism Is Spirit of Gladness Among Workers.

To the Waterfront Worker

The Eidtor

Sir:

At present I am working on a permit from I.L.A. 38-79 on the Friseo waterfront. Naturally, I am very interested in the Rank & Filism methods of conducting your local's order.

The power of the Rank & File comes in listening to the Rank & File. Am I correct? Rank & File means direct ruling—sane, of course, from the members of the body or local. Granted?

Unionism or Brother-Hoodism is a spirit of gladness towards workers of the sweat; that is, an open hand to all brothers of union labor. Thus, unionism is discrimination and animosity to no member in good standing.

One definition of a niember in good standing is one who has a good strike record, taking into consideration that he is a union man in all other things. Do you agree?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Definition #2, or definition the last is the member in good standing who has joined the union after the 1934 maritime strike, and can show to the satisfaction of all concerned just what his activities were before the 1934 strike. Can I be proven wrong in the above statement?

My summary:

Privileges granted to strike members in good standing should be granted to all members in good standing. Therefore brothers would be brothers, incomparable Partiality should be stamped out. Suspicion and hatred would tend to lessen. Noblesse oblige.

Fraternally,

Member Local 38-93 Stockton.

It Looks Like an Attempted Whitewash

Waterfront Worker Editors:

At our last membership meeting it seemed to me that Charlie Connors was trying to white-wash Bro. Knopff when he stated that Knopff was willing to make the check good, but the P.G. & E. had already mailed a duplicate check; therefore, the captain did not owe the Relations Board anything.

Maybe Bro. Knopff does not owe the Relations Board anything but he owes the organization plenty —not in monetary wealth, however, but in the loss of confidence and respect when a brother betrays the trust put in him by the Rank & File.

That $60 check could be made good a thousand times, but it would never bring back the confidence and respect which Captain Knopff once held in Local 38-79, and it is surprising to me that Charlie Connors did not look at it from this angle.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

That part of the report of the special investigating committee which stated that in the future any local or hiring hall official who would be proven guilty of discriminatory action or favoritism would automatically be expelled from the organization I concur with 100%.

I have suffered black-list.

Just a Longshoreman.

Suggested Coffee and Cake for Walking Bosses.

Waterfront Worker

Editor:

I agree with your comments in regards to a school for permit men. My beef is there ought to be a school for these company walking bosses who carry an I.L.A. book because they have to. They have no use for the union because they are chiseling all the time, asking for big loads, etc. Take Van Dahl of the Haywire—he is always doing it. Also he buys the finky Examiner and is proud to read it on the Ferry boat in the restaurant where everybody can see him. So in closing let me suggest that the I.L.A. have an open house for all these faking walking bosses and have sandwiches and coffee so you will have them all present.

Murder Plotted Against Maritime Leaders.

Ivan Hunter Resorts to Gangster Tactics to Rub Out Rank and File Leaders.

With the phoney A.F. of L. officials shouting "frame-up" at the top of their lungs, Ivan Hunter, I.S.U. secretary-treasurer faces grand jury charges on attempted murder.

Ivan Hunter, a phoney and black guard from away back was one-time bootlegger pal of stool-pigeon Friedhl, who was accidentally killed by the Los Angeles police. They were bootlegger pals until a bigger and better organized mob chased them out of Detroit.

Hunter was sent to the West Coast with instructions what to do to bring peace (?) and harmony (?) to the West Coast maritime situation. Running true to form Hunter came West and tried to use tactics that Ryan and other gangsters used to grab off certain chunks of the labor movement. He attempted to rub out all opposition but "Old Man" Hunter ran into a few obstacles that knocked his plans cock-eyed.

On the West Coast we have union officials that are wide awake and a Rank and File that is organized and prepared to act. "Old Man" Hunter was stopped cold.

While the phonies cry "frame-up" the Rank and File burst into loud guffaws. What could be more ridiculous? Everyone knows that the cops certainly do not love any maritime union man, especially the militant leadership. To even think that the police would take part in a frame-up of a phoney is worth more than a laugh. It is good for two laughs.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Apparently nothing is too low for such union officials as Hunter. That "Old Man" has his own understanding of unionism, which means how much dough can I get out of this? His idea of organizing means to organize his way. His way is the shipowners way: Any individual or group who opposes his way means that the individual or group will have to keep an eye on such leaders as Hunter for their own personal safety.

"Old Man" Hunter must be shown that San Francisco is not Chicago. That by "rubbing out" a few officials will not solve the problem for the reactionary officials. The maritime unions do not rest upon individual leaders. It rests upon the shoulders of each and every member of the different unions. Hunter does not realize this fact. He has had no experience with the Rank & File trade unionists. He will get some now.

The conspiracy against King and the others is also against us and against every progressive trade-unionist in the nation. Mr. Hunter is not alone in his fantastic plot. His plan fits in with the shipowner's plan to smash the waterfront unions. A few weeks ago, District Council #2 of the Federation, forewarned its affiliated unions of the union—smashing plans of the shipowners and of the international officials.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

According to the evidence submitted Hunter stated he was afraid of the "Feds"—that the "Feds" would dig right down to the bottom". He must have plenty to hide.

Now, more than ever, we must insist on a public congressional investigation. The public, through open hearings, should know what the shipowners and our international officials are trying to do. A congressional investigation would expose the connection between the shipowners and the different phoney officials, who are doing everything humanly possible to wreck the Rank & File and our wonderful organizations.

A congressional investigation would block any further attempt to do murder. The shipowners, "Old Man" Hunter, and the district leadership of the coast are afraid of the "Feds"? And they have good reason to be.

Demand a Congressional Investigation at once.

[Endorsed]: Filed June 2, 1942.

Mr. Del Guercio: I would like to call the Court's attention to the following that appears in this issue:

"Dimitroff, the great working class leader, talks".

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. McCuistion, who is Dimitroff mentioned in this paper?

A. Dimitroff is a member of the highest committees in the Communist International; was one of the defendants in the Reichstag fire in Germany; one who was acquitted and subsequently given permission to return to the Soviet Union. He is an international leader of the Communist Party. [1939]

Mr. Gladstein: Was there just a mention of that, Mr. Del Guercio?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: I suppose that fire was mentioned in the San Francisco Examiner and other papers, too?

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't think I am calling for any comments of Counsel at this time. It isn't necessary for him to interrupt.

Presiding Inspector: No.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Now, you said the second time you met Harry Bridges was in the headquarters of the Communist Party in San Francisco. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you meet him at any time after that?

A. The next time I met him was in December, 1936, Madison Square Garden in New York City.

Q. And what was the occasion of that meeting?

A. That was a meeting called by the Seamen's Defense Committee and financed by the Communist Party, at which I was Chairman and Harry Bridges was the main speaker.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. You say you were Chairman of what?

A. Of the meeting at Madison Square Garden.

Q. Were you connected with the strike committee?

A. I was a member of the strike committee.

[1940]

Q. Who called the strike?

A. The strike was called by the striking members of the International Seamen's Union.

Q. And you were a member of the strike committee?

A. I was a member of the strike committee.

Q. Who were some of the other members of that committee?

A. Other members were Joe Curran, Al Lannon, Ted Lewis.

Q. Who? A. Ted Lewis.

Q. Ted Lewis?

A. Walter Kaner, Jack Lawrenson, MacBride, Jerry King, Patrick Keenan, Peter Innes, Alfred Rothbart.

Q. Who?

A. Alfred Rothbart, "Riffraff" Rolph. I could go on for names. There is quite a few of them.

Presiding Inspector: Mr. Reporter, will you read back the answer to the question about "Who called the strike?"

(The answer referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Presiding Inspector: Is that what you meant to say?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

The Witness: And the Seamen's Defense Committee. I might explain in that that one organization that participated in the strike was the Marine Firemen, and I was an official of that organization and we called a strike separately sometime after the striking members, the rank-and-file, called the strike. [1941] We called ours officially after a vote, because we were affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and such was required by our constitution.

Presiding Inspector: That explains the matter. I didn't understand.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Mr. McCuistion, was the Communist Party in any way connected with that strike?

A. The Communist Party actively was connected with it. They held daily meetings of the members of the Communist Party who were also leading activists in the strike and leading members of the strike committee.

Q. Did they direct the strike?

A. They directed the policy of the strike from the very beginning to the very end of the strike.

Q. Now, do you know how arrangements had been made to get Harry Bridges to appear in Madison Square Garden to speak?

A. Yes, sir. I know that the arrangements were made. First there was a teletype request for Harry Bridges to come to speak, and we couldn't get any definite answer, "Yes" or "No." Rathborne was speaking for Bridges evidently at that time and said he thought he could prevail on Bridges to go. Later on we contacted Peter Innes, who was a representative [1942] in San Pedro, and Peter Innes was instructed to go to San Francisco to exert pressure on Harry Bridges any way he could to get Harry to come over.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

The reason for that was that we decided that the strike morale was at a pretty low ebb and that it would pep things up a little bit for Harry to come over and talk to the boys on the East Coast. But finally we got a flat refusal from Harry Bridges to come.

Following that, why we withdrew to 7 37th Avenue I say "we"—the members of the Communist Party withdrew, the leading ones, and they invited me to come along and, although I wasn't a member of the Party at that time, I was cooperating fully with them.

Q. Who was in that party?

A. That was Roy Hudson, who called the meeting of the fraction, Thomas Raye, Al Lannon, Jack Lawrenson, and the section organizer of the Communist Party of the Waterfront Section, a fellow by the name of John Robinson, and a few others I couldn't call, but they were all leading members. All of the ones there were leading members; and the conversation and the discussion was participated in principally by Hudson and Lannon and Raye.

Q. Now, were all the persons that you mentioned members of the Communist Party.

A. Yes. Roy Hudson was attending the fraction, represent- [1943] ing the Political Bureau of the Communist Party.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Was he connected with any union at that time?

A. No. He was head of all marine work of the Communist Party, but he didn't carry a membership in any union.

Q. How about Tommy Raye?

A. Tommy Raye was a member of the International Seamen's Union rank and—the rank-and-file group. That is, got up a rank-and-file group with rank-and-file trustees in the Sailors' Division.

Q. What happened at this meeting?

A. At this meeting we brought up the question that the strike committee itself was threatening to rebel and call the strike off prematurely, or that the morale of the strikers was so low and that the Party would have to do something about it. So the decision was made. Hudson said that the same thing had been discussed in the Political Bureau and that the Political Bureau of the Party was in thorough agreement with the getting of Bridges to the East Coast to speak at a meeting in Madison Square Garden, a pep meeting, a rally for the strikers; and that as such the Party was perfectly willing to finance it, and that the instructions to finance it had been given already to David Leeds, who was the Financial Secretary of the New York District of the Communist Party. And with that, why, we took a quick vote in there. I did not vote because I wasn't eligible to vote, but it was unanimous that Tommy Raye

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

[1944] get in immediate touch with Harry Bridges and tell him that it was a Party decision that he come East and that he come East.

Q. And did Tommy Raye get in touch with Harry Bridges?

A. Yes. I made the telephone call from the strike headquarters. I called up Pete Innes. I called up the office here. I forget the number, and I asked for Pete Innes.

Q. Pete Innes? "Pete" did you say?

A. Peter J. Innes is his full name. We just called him "Pete," that was all.

Q. How do you spell it?

A. P-e-t-e-r I-n-n-e-s.

Q. Where was he at that time?

A. He had come to San Francisco on instructions from the strike committee to try to put some pressure on Bridges to come over.

Q. And did you contact Innes?

A. Yes. I contacted Innes, I told him to get ahold of Bridges and take Bridges to a pay phone and have him call up a number in New York. I gave him a number of another pay station in New York. Innes said "All right." A few minutes later we received the call from the West Coast. I spoke to Innes first, and then I said "Tommy Raye wants to speak with Bridges. Have you got him? He said, "Yes."

Tommy Raye took the phone. Tommy Raye, Al Lannon and myself were there. I left the booth half open. Evidently [1945] there was some arguing on the other end of the phone, but Tommy Raye told Bridges it was Party Orders, "The Political Bureau and the fraction have made the decision. You have to come."

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

And with that there wasn't more than a word or two more and "goodbye." Of course, Raye told him —he said, 'Make that official by sending the news that you are coming over the teletype." He says "Otherwise, we are liable to have a rebellion of the strike committee on our hands here."

So the conversation ended, and a few minutes later at strike headquarters confirmation came in, and Harry Bridges changed his mind and sent word to the East Coast that he had decided to come and speak at the meeting [1946]

Q. Why didn't Tommy Raye speak with Harry Bridges at Bridges' office?

A. Because there was a report, which I believe was true—after all, the bosses have ways of fighting against us—and we thought the wires were tapped. Whether they were or not we didn't know. But we had every reason to believe that the shipping companies had tapped the wires of our phone at New York, and probably Bridges' phone in San Francisco.

Q. Was it for that reason that you used a pay telephone?

A. Yes, sir. All intimate conversations were always conducted over a pay telephone. Routine Union business was conducted over the Union telephone, or via the teletype.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. You spoke about a teletype. Did you have a teletype between——

A. (Interposing) Strike headquarters in New York.

Q. Between New York and whom?

A. What?

Q. Between whom?

A. Between San Pedro and between San Francisco.

Q. Who was at the San Francisco end of the teletype?

A. The Maritime Federation, or whatever they had out here—I don't know whether it was in the Maritime Federation's name, or whose name it was, but we had a call number, to call San Francisco and contact them.

Q. Did Harry Bridges speak at the Madison Square [1947] Garden meeting?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember the date he spoke?

A. No; it was around the middle of December; that is all.

Q. What year? A. 1936.

Q. Did you meet Harry Bridges after he had spoken at that meeting?

A. Yes. I met him in an ante-room in the rear of garden.

Q. Who were present?

A. Present were David Leeds, Joe Curran, Tommy Raye; for a few moments, Roy Hudson, myself;

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

and for a little while, Peter Innes, until Bridges excused Innes from the meeting.

Q. How many of those present were members of the Communist Party?

A. Everyone except myself and Innes.

Q. You say Innes was only present for a little while?

A. He was present just for a short period of time.

Q. And he left. A. He left.

Q. Was any discussion had, any conversations had between anyone after Innes left?

A. Yes. There was a general conversation of what could [1948] be done, how the Party could work to pep up the strike, to make the strike more effective.

There was a discussion of whether we would seriously begin to contemplate the calling off of the strike and the return to work on the best basis possible.

There was a discussion of how the Communist Party could really work to bring about this end without being called defeatists, and without being accused of wrecking the strike.

Everyone participated in the discussion.

There was also a discussion of finances. I had taken a collection up, which was several thousands dollars in cash and——

Q. Interposing) Who did you turn that over to?

A. I turned that over to David Leeds, the financial secretary of the Communist Party.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Was he connected with the Strike Committee?

A. In no way whatsoever.

Q. Why did you turn it over to Leeds?

A. Because I had instructions to turn all the money over to Leeds from the Party itself. The Party had financed the meeting and the Party took all the proceeds.

Q. Was Leeds a Union man?

A. He had no connection with the Waterfront; never had been a seaman in his life, or longshoreman, or belonged to any Union as far as I know. [1949]

Q. What happened then.

A. There was a little beef started between Leeds and Bridges on the question of expense. Bridges stated that his expenses had been guaranteed over there; that he couldn't very well stick his membership for the expenses.

Leeds, of course, quarreled a little about the money, but nothing to amount to anything. Leeds handed Bridges something over $500. I think it was $520 or $525.

Q. Did you see Leeds hand over that money to Bridges?

A. I saw Leeds hand over the money to Bridges, and Bridges gave Leeds an initialed receipt.

Q. Did anything else occur at that meeting?

A. Nothing further except it was—I raised a little beef about the money too. I said I probably would have a hard time explaining to the seamen, when they came up to get carfare to go out on the picket line, if I had to tell them that we were broke, I would have a hard time explaining what had become of the collection, the money we got a Madison Square Garden. I was of the opinion that the Party could wait for their money and let some of the money go down there.

It was agreed that any pledges that we could collect we could keep. But the Party had to have the cash because they needed it.

The upshot of it was that the amount of money turned over to Frank Jones, Treasurer of the Seamen's Defense Committee, was [1950] considerably less than was handed over to Bridges for use of the strikers.

The Garden meeting was a profit. The party came out ahead and, with what was collected from sympathizers, they probably made $4000 or $5000 profit on the meeting. But we didn't get it on the waterfront.

Q. Did Bridges render an itemized account of his expenses?

A. No; except to say that he needed sufficient money to cover it. There was no itemized account, or anything. We had a hard time explaining that in our subsequent meeting of the Strike Committee. They wanted to know who paid Bridges—some of the more inquisitive ones wanted to know how the thing was financed. We had to cover it by saying, "Well, we just borrowed the money from some private sources that don't care to have their names involved in it." We covered it up in that manner.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Did Bridges say it was for his expenses for coming to the East Coast?

A. Yes; that it was for his expenses coming there, and for a trip up to Boston and down to Baltimore, and a few places he went. I didn't follow where he went.

Q. Do you know if he said he had paid the expenses of that trip?

A. Yes; he paid the expenses himself, but was given this money by Leeds. [1951]

Q. Did you ever see Bridges at any time after that?

A. No. I have never seen him since that time, except just a passing glance at him, and seeing him here today.

Q. Were you ever in the Army?

A. Yes sir; I was in the Army.

Q. When?

A. In 1919 I was in the Naval Reserve, called the Junior Naval Reserve, New London, Connecticut, during the war. Then in 1919 I joined the Army.

Q. Were you honorably discharged?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you receive any medals while you were within the Army?

A. I received the Treasury Department Medal of Honor for lifesaving while I was in the Army.

Q. Did you receive any other medals or mention?

A. I received the Maltese Cross of the Catholic

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Church from the Sisters of Charity for actions at the same time and for practically the same type as the other medal was awarded.

Q. The same people involved?

A. No; there were different people involved, but at the same time.

Q. Did you join any Loyalist cause in France —in Spain, during the Spanish war?

A. Yes, sir. I left the United States March 27th and [1952] I joined the International Brigade, and stayed in Spain for some 15 months. Subsequently I deserted and came back.

Q. When did you leave the United States?

A. I left the United States March 27, to the best of my memory, on the French Line Steamer Paris.

Presiding Inspector: What year?

The Witness: 1937.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. And how were you recruited?

A. I was recruited by request. I went to the Communist Party and told them that I wanted to go to Spain.

Q. Who did you see in the Communist Party?

A. I saw A. W. Mills, of the Central Organizational Department of the Communist Party. I had a meeting with him and Bill Lawrence, who was handling the recruiting at that time, and several others.

Q. How many went over with you to Spain at that time?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. 25; four of the group we contacted on the ship. They had been sent over by the Socialists. 21 were sent over by the Communist Party.

Q. Who paid the expenses?

A. The Communist Party bought the tickets from the World Tourist and furnished me with money to give to each member of the group that was going.

Q. Were in charge of the group? [1953]

A. I was in charge, in co-charge with a boy by the name of Walleck, subsequently executed by the Communists in Spain.

Q. Who was that?

A. Albert Walleck was the name he used; but his passport, the name he used on his passport was A. Wallace.

Q. Did you say you were given funds by the Communist Party for the trip?

A. Yes; by A. W. Mills, of the Central Committee.

Q. Were you given any other funds?

A. Yes. I was given a package of money. I was told that it contained approximately $3000 and that was to be delivered to the Communist Party of France.

Q. On what ship did you sail?

A. On the Paris.

Q. All 25 of your group?

A. All of us went together. The four we met on the ship that came from the Socialist group. We went on the ship, the 21 of us in our group.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

we boarded in groups of two and three. We held a meeting after the ship was at sea.

Q. When did you arrive in Europe?

A. Well, I couldn't call the exact date, but some five days later.

Q. Where did you land? A. At Le Havre.

Q. Where did you go from there? [1954]

A. From Le Havre we went to Paris.

Q. Did you turn over the money that had been entrusted in your care?

A. Yes. I turned over the money—I forget the fellow's name, but I think it was Moreau—M-o-r-e-a-u—and I got a receipt. He was thoroughly identified to me in the headquarters of the Communist Party of France.

Q. Then where did you and this group go?

A. We went to Perpignan, France. From there we took autos to the foothills of the Pyrenees. We climbed them and reported in to Figueras and Catalonia.

Q. And to whom did you report?

A. We reported to the Political Commissar in charge.

Q. To the Political Commissar? A. Yes.

Q. I thought you were going to Spain to fight for the Spanish Army? A. We did too.

Q. Was he the Political Commissar of the Communist Party?

A. He was. The Communist Party furnished the Political Commissars for the Peoples Army and for the International Brigade. The Commis-

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

sars held equal rank with the Military. The only difference was the Commissars, they wore the same kind of polished boots, and high pressure caps, but instead of [1955] wearing gold insignia, they wore a red insignia and a red star encircled to show their rank.

Q. Were you assigned to any particular regiment?

A. I was assigned to the training headquarters at Madrigueras—M-a-d-r-i-g-u-e-r-a-s.

Q. Did you see any active fighting?

A. Very little. My total active service on the front was about 45 days. I dodged it as much as possible.

Q. Were you wounded?

A. I was wounded at Brunnette; yes, sir.

Q. Where were you hospitalized?

A. I was hospitalized at Castillejo and Villa Paz.

Q. Were you wounded more than once?

A. I was wounded in an air raid in Barcelona later on.

Q. How long did you serve in Spain?

A. 15 months.

Q. Then what happened?

A. Then I deserted—I climbed the mountains into France and came back to the United States.

Q. Why did you desert?

A. I deserted because I went over there originally for a period of six months. I didn't like the war. I didn't want to get killed. I was pretty much afraid for my own hide. I knew we were fighting for a lost cause over there. The battle was lost already. We had been sold out by the Communists and [1956] sold out by Russia; even sold out by the popular front government of France. We didn't have a chance to win. The political commissars got the gravy and we got the work. So I decided it was time for me to get back. In fact, I had been looking for an opportunity for three or four months. I finally did find it.

Q. When did you finally get back to the United States?

A. I got back to the United States around September of 1938; the early part of September or the latter part of August. I stayed in France several months after I left Spain.

Q. How did you get back?

A. I got back as a stowaway on the Crown City, a ship operated by the Maritime Commission.

Q. What have you been doing since your return to the United States?

A. I have been an official of the National Maritime Union. I was for a time Gulf Correspondent of the official organ of the National Maritime Union, the Pilot. Since that time, since July 1939, when I walked out of the convention of the National Maritime Union, I have been living by doing a little research work here and there, a little writing, and going in debt.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Have you been connected with the Communist Party in any manner since your return to the United States from Spain?

A. I have had absolutely no connections with them, except [1957] certain members of the Communist Party that I knew personally. We were personal friends before. Although we disagree on certain principles we still are personal friends. I have talked with them about what is going on now. That is about the only connections I have had with the Communist Party. I disagree thoroughly with the Communist Party and have actively opposed the Communist Party since my return.

Q. Have you ever been convicted of any crime?

A. Of a few misdemeanors. During my course as an organizer I have been convicted of assault.

Q. Were they all in connection with your activities in the Communist Party?

A. All in connection with Communist Party activities, and a few just of plain trade union activities; nothing serious. I never did any time, anything like that.

Q. Have you ever been charged with any felony?

A. Yes. I was charged with murder, at the instigation of the Communist Party, last year. I laid in jail some seven months waiting for trial and then was acquitted.

Q. When were you acquitted?

A. I was acquitted in January of this year.

Q. And where did the trial occur?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. In New Orleans. Before that I had been at liberty for some time, because the U. S. Courts in Washington had refused to extradite me. Finally, I got tired of having it hang [1958] over me, and I returned voluntarily, waived extradition, and returned voluntarily from Indiana.

Q. Since your acquittal has the Communist Party made any references to you?

A. Oh, yes. They have put out leaflets, and said that I ought to have been convicted, that I ought to have been hung; that it was a miscarriage of justice, and this and that. They have attacked me in the press almost consistently. In other words, they did everything possible to try to off-set the verdict of "not guilty."

Q. Do you have any such publication on you at this time from the Communist Party?

A. No. I had a leaflet, but I left it up in my room. It was put out recently.

Q. You testified before the Dies Committee, did you not?

A. Yes, sir; I testified before the Dies Committee.

Q. How did the Communist Party like your testimony before the Dies Committee, if you know?

A. They liked it so well that Joseph Curran, another Communist head of the National Maritime Union, and Raymond Torr, and Barney Halling, immediately tried to get me arrested on a charge of murder while I was testifying.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

The Washington Police informed them they had no request to pick me up.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation also informed the [1959] Dies Committee they had no request to pick me up.

So then these people got in touch with the New Orleans police by some hook or crook and got a warrant issued for me, for my arrest, for a murder, supposed to have taken place some couple of months previous to that.

Q. Had the Communist Party, through any of its agencies, attacked you and accused you of anything prior to your appearance before the Dies Committee?

A. Never in any way whatsoever, was I accused. In fact two weeks prior to my appearing before the Dies Committee I was walking back and forth, just as freely as anybody in the world, on the waterfront in New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and other places, getting up the testimony that I intended to present before the Dies Committee, I was doing this voluntarily.

Q. Since that time have you been prominently mentioned by the Communist Party through their various publications?

A. Since that time I have been called everything they could conceivably call a man.

Q. Did you know John Oliver Thompson?

A. Thompson, yes. I knew him just casually. I knew him first in Baltimore some years ago when he was a member of the Marine Workers Industrial Union. I knew him later working for the Party of New York as an elevator boy and janitor.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Do you know how the waterfront section of the Communist Party here in San Francisco was formed? [1960]

A. I couldn't say just exactly how the waterfront section was formed, but I participated in the activities of the waterfront section of the Communist Party when there were only a few members, and I know of it by reports that we received from the Party here in San Francisco through our National Fraction in New York.

Q. Well, what were you doing in New York at that time?

A. At the time it was formed I couldn't state just what I was doing. I don't know what you me exactly by the question, how it was formed. It has been in existence a long time, practically since 1921. I couldn't tell about the formation of it at that time.

Q. Did you attend any meeting there in New York wherein the waterfront section of the Communist Party of San Francisco was discussed?

A. Yes. I have attended dozens of meetings where the activities of the waterfront section of the Communist Party of San Francisco was discussed.

Q. With whom were these meetings held, who attended these meetings?

A. These meetings were held at regular intervals by members of the Political Bureau and the

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Central Committee of the Communist Party, and the National Fraction of the Marine Workers Industrial Union. [1961]

Q. Would the name of Harry Bridges, come up in these meetings?

A. During 1933 he was practically the chief topic of conversation at the majority of the meetings.

Q. Well, was any mention made of his activities in connection with the Waterfront Section of the Communist Party?

A. Yes. The first mention I remember being made of him in a prominent place was when we received a report from——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) Just a moment! May I interrupt to make the same objection we have made heretofore to this line of questioning, upon the ground it calls for hearsay?

Mr. Del Guercio: Is that the only objection?

Presiding Inspector: I don't know what the point of this is. I think I will take it, not for the purpose that you seem to have in mind. I think it may have some materiality.

Mr. Del Guercio: The purpose of it is to show the general scheme, your Honor, of what is going on.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, I will take it.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Did you finish your answer?

A. Yes. I received and read reports coming

(Testimony of William C. McCristion.)

directly from Communist Party headquarters in San Francisco transmitted to the Central Committee of the Communist Party in New York, and by them handed to me as a member of the National Fraction [1962] of the Marine Workers Industrial Union to read and to study and to make certain recommendations on the basis of reading these reports.

Q. Did you make any recommendations?

A. Yes. I and the other members of the National Fraction made a decision that the main concentration of the Party's activities should be directed in two ways: One towards the organization of seamen on the Munson Line and particularly on the East Coast and the Gulf, and the organization of longshoremen on the West Coast; and the other ports secondly.

Q. Was Harry Bridges discussed in that scheme?

A. Yes. Harry Bridges was discussed. The report stated at that time that there was in existence a "dock nuclei"—they called it the "Luckenbach dock nuclei," they called it at that time, that there were only eight longshoremen members of the Communist Party in San Francisco at that time, early in 1933, and that Harry Bridges was one of those eight and that he held the greatest possibilities for developing into a national leader in the maritime field. And it was decided that every cooperation would be given out here to the extent of diverting a part of our New York subsidy to San Francisco to be used for the purpose of building Harry Bridges up.

Presiding Inspector: It is not very material.

Mr. Del Guercio: Sir?

Presiding Inspector: Not very material. Not as proving [1963] any membership. It may be material in other respects. I don't take it on that ground.

Mr. Del Guercio: No, but to——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Go ahead. All right.

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please—well, I better show those to Counsel first.

That is all. You may cross examine.

Mr. Gladstein: Shall we start now?

Presiding Inspector: Would you rather wait until 2:00 o'clock?

Mr. Gladstein: I think so.

Presiding Inspector: Very well. 2:00 o'clock.

(Whereupon 12:25 o'clock P. M., a recess was taken until 2:00 o'clock P. M. of the same day.) [1964]

After Recess

2:00 O'Clock P.M.

Presiding Inspector: You may proceed.

WILLIAM C. McCUISTION

called as a witness on behalf of the Government.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Presiding Inspector: Have you anything further to ask this witness?

Mr. Del Guercio: With your permission I would like to ask a few more questions.

Presiding Inspector: Certainly.

Direct Examination (Resumed)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Have you ever been a member of the IWW?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When were you a member of the IWW?

A. I was a member of the IWW roughly from 1919 to 1924. Part of the time I was also a member of the Communist Party.

Mr. Gladstein: What was that period?

(The answer referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. During that period of time did you become familiar with its literature? [1965]

A. I became familiar with some of its literature. I was never very active in the IWW, but largely working for the Communists, more than the IWW, for the wrecking of the organization, or to take it over.

Q. I will show you a book here called "The IWW, Its History, Structure and Methods", by Vincent St. John, and I will ask you if that is one of the pieces of literature that was circulated by the IWW?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. Yes, sir; I remember this being written by Vincent St. John, and with the IWW shield on the book, and I remember having read it; yes, sir.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, if your Honor please, as Government's Exhibit next in order.

Mr. Gladstein: I do not think a proper foundation has been laid, or proper identification has been made by the witness, and I object to it on that ground.

Presiding Inspector: I think you had better identify it more fully.

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. Do you understand this as being genuine IWW literature?

A. Yes, sir. I identify it for several reasons: One, is the shield of the organization, with the letters "IWW" and the three stars, standing for "Organization, Education and Emancipation," if I am correct; and the words beneath that [1966] signifying the international set-up of the organization. Also the fact that Vincent St. John is recognized, was recognized at that time, and still is recognized, as the leading theoretician of the IWW.

Presiding Inspector: Have you read that?

The Witness: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Did you read it while you were a member of the IWW?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

The Witness: Yes, sir. This came out in several different editions.

Presiding Inspector: Do you know the general tenor or the principles of the IWW?

The Witness: Yes, sir; I know the general tenor.

Presiding Inspector: Is this book an expression of them?

The Witness: This is the expression of the writer who was a member of the IWW, and was regarded as the theoretician of the IWW at that time. The IWW at that time gave great leeway to the membership in the expression of their opinions.

Presiding Inspector: Does it state, or does it not state the principles of the IWW?

The Witness: Yes; it states the principles of the IWW.

Presiding Inspector: I think I will take it. You don't object with that explanation, do you?

Mr. Gladstein: I think the objection should still be recorded. [1967].

Presiding Inspector: You had better interpose your objection at this time.

Mr. Gladstein: At this time I still don't think an appropriate foundation has been laid for the introduction of the document, so we will make that objection.

Mr. Del Guercio: I will offer it.

Presiding Inspector: You are not going to leave it in just that way, are you? There will be other testimony about it?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: I will receive it subject to your later motion to strike, Mr. Gladstein.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you.

(The booklet referred to was received in evidence and marked Government's Exhibit No. 252.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Of course, if your Honor please, another ground upon which we offer it——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I beg your pardon?

Mr. Del Guercio: There is another ground upon which we offer this. It is a booklet, of course, on which appears the seal of the IWW.

Presiding Inspector: But it doesn't prove itself.

Mr. Del Guercio: It doesn't prove itself. I know that.

Presiding Inspector: You will have to have some proof.

Mr. Del Guercio: I think that is a sufficient founda- [1968] tion for the identification of it.

Presiding Inspector: I am going to receive it now anyway.

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: And we will see how far you connect it up. Of course, it seems to have little relevancy as yet. We don't know much about the IWW. It has been mentioned once or twice, but not with any definiteness.

Mr. Del Guercio: I want, without reading the various excerpts from this, to call the Court's attention to the following pages: 10, 15 and 16.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

By Mr. Del Guercio:

Q. I will show you another booklet called "Sabotage; Its History, Philosophy and Function", on the back cover of which appears this: "IWW literature, IWW publishing house, 1001 West Madison Street," and ask you if you have ever seen this?

A. I have seen the pamphlet and I am familiar with this list of pamphlets and the nature of the address of the publishing house. However, I couldn't say that it represented the policy of the organization or anything like that, except that I have seen the book in IWW halls and Communist Party halls and in Marine Workers Industrial Union halls. I think I have a copy of it myself.

Q. You have seen this in IWW halls? [1969]

A. Yes. Yes, sir.

Q. You are not an expert on the IWW?

A. No, sir. I am not an expert on IWW matters.

Q. But you have seen this booklet in IWW halls during the time you were in the IWW organization?

A. Yes, sir. I have seen the booklet.

Mr. Del Guercio: I offer this in evidence, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: No. I will exclude that. He might have seen Smith's "Wealth of Nations" there.

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, I offer it for identification.

Mr. Gladstein: No objection to that.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: Yes. These may become important. I am not ruling on that. Only on the evidence produced. I think even the first is pretty tenuously established, but we will see about it when we get the case in.

(The booklet referred to was marked Government's Exhibit No. 253 for identification.)

Mr. Del Guercio: That is all, your Honor. I will turn him over for cross examination.

Presiding Inspector: All right. You may cross examine.

Cross Examination

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. McCuistion, you say that you are now unemployed? A. Absolutely yes, sir.

Q. How long have you been unemployed? [1970]

A. I have been unemployed—that is, I haven't drawn wages since the months of July or August, 1939.

Q. For a continuous period since July or August, 1939 you have neither been employed nor drawn wages from any employer?

A. No. I received money for writings; I have received money for research work and I was in jail a good period of the time.

Q. What kind of writings did you make reference to?

A. A series of articles specifically for the National Republic Magazine; a series of three articles. They appeared monthly in 1940. I worked with various writers. I will give the names of some of them, in research work. I worked with Bob Russell, a well known writer.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Excuse me. Before you go into research, are you making a distinction now between your writings and your research, or are they both a part of the same thing?

A. They are a part of the means of making a living.

Q. All right. You mean they are connected, they are integrated? A. Yes, certainly.

Q. All right. Now, proceed.

A. I worked on this in Washington. I assisted Mr. Ralph Emerson and I assisted various other people in Washington at various times in doing research on labor research largely. I [1971] even for different persons around there, received bits of money and this is largely the way my income has been based, through research and through writing, through borrowing from my friends.

Q. Since July, 1939 to date could you estimate the total amount of income you have received from both your writings and your research?

A. From both the writings and the research, I would estimate approximately a thousand dollars.

Q. Now, have any of your articles appeared under your own name? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you state some of those?

A. I will state only one that has appeared under my own name. That was a series of articles I sold to the National Republic Magazine.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. On what subject, please?

A. This was the subject of the organizational structure of the Communist Party and how they developed the organizers within the Communist Party.

Q. What did you receive for that article?

A. I received for those articles approximately $120.00.

Q. Would it be correct to say in a general way that the tenor or objective of that series of articles represented [1972] a hostile or antagonistic approach toward the Communist Party?

A. Absolutely not. In fact, the articles were decidedly the opposite. The articles were strictly an academic study of the structure of the Communist Party, such as could have been well written by a member of the Central Committee of the Party.

Q. You made no attack on the Communist Party at all?

A. I made no attack on the Communist Party, but I made attacks on the Communist Party methods; a certain attack on their methods only.

Q. Well, did or did you not attack the Communist Party or any of its activities in those articles?

A. No. I did not attack their activities. I merely attacked their methods of dealing with individuals. In fact, I think the articles were very charitable toward Communists themselves.

Q. You mean that you felt more antagonistic than the articles reflect?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. Oh, no. I mean that I feel sorry for the average Communist.

Mr. Del Guercio: Oh, if the Court please, I object to this.

Presiding Inspector: He can answer it.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. During what period of time did those articles [1973] appear in print? A. Yes.

Q. I say, over what period of time did those articles appear in print?

A. Well, over a period of three months. I should say, roughly, that they appeared in the April, May and June issues of 1940 of the magazine.

Q. What kind of activities or work is covered by the term "research" as you used it?

A. "Research" is serving whoever hires me to do any kind of work they ask me to do. Some of it was strictly reading and plugging study work in the Congressional Library. Some of it was the discussion with seamen, the discussion with longshoremen, the discussion with workers in various other industries of their reaction towards certain things that were happening today, and the placing of these things in the proper order, giving them my opinion on these things and letting the other person do what they wished to do with them. [1974]

Q. Can you name some of the persons, the most important persons, or organizations, in the sense that these pieces of work were most remunerative and for whom you did this research work?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. Yes; I can name some of them. I did a little work for Dr. J. B. Mathews, Research Director of the Dies Committee; for Mr. Stribling, the Secretary of the same Committee; for Mr. Ralph Emerson, who is a lobbyist in Washington, D. C.

Q. Who was he a lobbyist for?

A. He is an independent lobbyist. He works for various people, like a lot of other people do in Washington. He didn't tell me his business. He merely hired me to do some work for him. I didn't inquire.

Q. Who else?

A. For Mr. Bob Russell, of Port Arthur, Texas.

Q. Who is he?

A. He is a writer. I don't know how to say it, other than that he can be located in the telephone book, and located through his agent. His agent is Mr. Blasingame, a well-known writers' agent in New York.

Q. Can you think of any others?

A. Yes. I am thinking of them right now. I did work for an attorney, Albert Koorie, in New Orleans.

Q. In what connection was that?

A. In connection with—that was in connection with [1975] the deportation proceedings instigated by the Communist Party against Arthur Thomas because of his anti-Communist activity in the Maritime Union, National Maritime Union.

Q. Proceed and name some of the others for whom you did this research work?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. That is all I care to name off-hand. My income through all of those didn't make me worry about my income tax, so I didn't keep accurate records.

Q. You say that is all you care to name. By that do you mean that you do have in mind others that you prefer not to mention?

A. No, I don't have others in mind. I have no secrets to keep in this matter. Others were casual. I made $5.00 out of some and I made a few more dollars out of others. They were minor sums and it would be hard for me to recall the instances. After all, I was making a living.

Q. What was the largest amount that you received for any piece of research work of the character you have been describing?

A. I couldn't say just exactly. Perhaps the research in the Thomas case was the largest amount. I received approximately $300 for that. Thomas didn't have very much money, and Koorie didn't have much money either. There was no national campaign to prevent him from being deported.

Q. Does this term "research", which you have used, include any kind of investigation on your part into determining [1976] what the ideas or opinions, political or otherwise, are of any particular individual? A. Absolutely not.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that as a broad question and not material to the issues in this case.

Presiding Inspector: The witness has answered. He says "No."

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You understood the question?

A. Yes; I understood the question—that you were implying that it involved my prying into the private opinions of individuals. That is something I do not believe in and would not participate in.

Q. Would that answer cover activities of individuals as well?

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: I think I will allow it.

A. Activities of individuals—no. I wouldn't say it covered individuals whatsoever because, as I say, I have no interest in individuals and my lack of interest in what individuals do would prevent me from taking any kind of employment that would infringe on the rights of any individual, regardless of what his views were.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Or his activities? [1977]

A. Or his activities.

Q. Would you say that you have fairly exhausted your memory now on the question of the research and writing that you have done, and, in fact, all the employment that you have had since July 1939?

A. Yes, I would say I have fairly exhausted it.

Q. Have you any income, aside from that which you receive from the writings and the research that you have described?

A. Only in the form of loans.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. In no other form?

A. In no other form whatsoever, unless you call income the $4.50 a day witness fees I am getting while I am here.

Q. Have any of these loans been, any individual loan, been more than $100?

A. There was no individual loan of more than $100; none that large.

Q. Now, have you not worked recently as a labor spy in the Gulf area of the United States?

A. I have not.

Q. Have you worked recently, or any time, as a labor spy anywhere else? A. I never have.

Q. Have you ever been employed by one of the oil corporations in the Gulf area of the United States?

A. I have been employed by oil companies as a seaman [1978] aboard their ships in the past a number of times, but never other than in the capacity of a worker working at my trade and carrying a union card.

Q. In the questions from now on, until I indicate something to the contrary, we will confine the period that we are covering in these questions to that period from July 1939 to date. A. Very well.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to that. The question asked o" to determine that.

Presiding Inspector: He makes that as a general condition in all his questions.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes; so the witness will understand it and I won't have to repeat it again and again.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: I think that is reasonable. We understand that we are now covering that period.

Mr. Del Guercio: If the witness can answer.

Presiding Inspector: If he can answer he can say so.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. With that understanding, Mr. McCuistion, I want to ask you if it isn't true that you have been employed in the period mentioned by an oil company, and that your duties were to go around and find any labor agitators and report them to the company?

A. That is not true. I have never received a penny from any oil company in my life for any activities other than [1979] I stated before, that is, that of working as a seaman; or from any other industrialist, or from any boss in any form whatsoever. I am a union man now and have always been a union man.

Q. Do you know a man by the name of William Woldman? A. Woldman?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, I know him. He is a Communist that runs the Crescent Jewelry Company in Houston, Texas.

Q. How long have you known him?

A. I have known him roughly since 1930.

Q. Is it true that he runs a watch repairing

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

jewelry business at 605 Travis Street, Houston, Texas?

A. Yes. That is in the Milby Hotel; but in addition to that he also buys gold and runs an undercover pawn shop and is a fence—buys stolen goods.

Q. Did you speak to him some time in April, 1941, at his place of business? A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell him on that occasion that you had been confined in jail for quite a number of months in New Orleans under a murder indictment?

A. I did.

Q. Did you tell him that you had, however, "beat the rap"? A. I did. [1980]

Q. Did you tell him that you had——

A. (Interposing) I didn't use those words, however. I am a little bit more careful in my English. I told him I was acquitted by a jury after being tried.

Q. Did you tell him that you had powerful friends in Washington who helped you?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you tell him that as of the time that you were speaking to him you were employed by an oil company?

A. I did not. I told him I was attempting to obtain employment by one of the oil companies.

Q. Did you tell him that you were making good wages?

A. I did not. In fact, I borrowed $2.00 from him at that time.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Did you tell him that you were sick and tired of working? A. I did not.

Q. Did you tell him that you were going to enjoy life the easiest way you possibly could?

A. I told him that I was not going to mix in any trade union politics in any way whatsoever; that I was disgusted with the conduct of the trade union leaders today, who I thought a few years ago would be honest union leaders, and today turned out to be phony.

Q. Did you tell him that you were going to enjoy life the easiest way you possibly could? [1981]

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you tell him that it was your job to go around and find labor agitators and report them to the company? A. No.

Q. Did you tell him that for such work you were being well paid? A. No.

Q. Did you tell him that you had a drawing account and expense account? A. No.

Q. Did you tell him that you were authorized to stay at the Rice Hotel? A. No.

Q. Is there a Rice Hotel in that city?

A. Yes, but I was staying at the Milby Hotel. He was well aware of it because his business is in the Milby Hotel.

Q. Well, the Rice Hotel——

A. (Interposing) Is just across the street from the Milby Hotel.

Q. Is the Rice Hotel considered a fairly high priced hotel?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. Yes. The Milby is $1.00 and $1.50 a day and the Rice is $3.00 a day and up. I couldn't stay at the Rice.

Q. I want to ask you again, did you tell him that you were authorized to stay at the Rice Hotel?

[1982]

A. No.

Q. Did you tell him that notwithstanding the authorization you stayed at a cheaper hotel so that you could pocket the difference?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Now, a few days after this occasion when you had the conversation with Mr. Woldman, did you again come to his place of business with a friend of yours called "Slim"?

A. Not that I recall of anybody called "Slim". I walked into his place of business with a friend of mine named Clyde Brown.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Woldman that you were going to Corpus Christi and then coming back to Houston?

A. I don't know whether I told him that. I told Brown that. I did go to Corpus Christi. That is my home town.

Q. And did you tell Mr. Woldman that you were going to spend the weekend of March 30th in Corpus Christi?

A. I don't recall whether I told him that. I had a general conversation with him.

Q. Did you spend that weekend in Corpus Christi?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. I can't recall. I stayed in Corpus Christi roughly about a week and a half or two weeks.

Q. Did you thereafter return to Houston?

A. Yes, and was subpoenaed to come here.

Q. Did you ever tell Mr. Woldman that you had attempted [1983] to set up another separate union from the National Maritime Union in the Gulf?

A. I told Mr. Woldman this, I think, to be exact: That it was my opinion that the seamen would never get anywhere until they threw the fakers out of the NMU and put honest men at the head of it and made a new union out of it.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Woldman at the time that you were attempting to set up another and separate union in the Gulf from that of the National Maritime Union? A. No.

Q. Did you ever tell Mr. Woldman that you were attempting to get the union in the Gulf to secede from the National Maritime Union?

A. No.

Q. Did you tell him that you were being aided in your work by Arthur Thomas?

A. Absolutely not.

Q. Do you know Arthur Thomas?

A. I know him personally very well. He is a close personal friend of mine.

Q. Where is he now?

A. He is in Port Arthur. He is the owner and manager of the Exchange Bar and the Exchange Cafe.

Q. Is he or is he not under indictment for

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

perjury in the District Court of the United States for Northern California? [1984]

A. He is not.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Woldman that you were also being aided in your work in the Gulf by Jerome King? A. I did not.

Q. Do you know Jerome King? A. Yes.

Q. Is he also a friend of yours?

A. Jerome King is a close personal friend of mine.

Q. Do you know where he is now?

A. Jerome King is in Waldman Prison doing two and a half years for killing a Communist.

Q. Is that what the charge was? Killing a Communist? A. Yes.

Q. Is that the way the indictment read?

A. I didn't see the indictment. How do I know? I know the guy that he killed was a Communist.

Q. What you really mean is that he is now serving time for murder?

A. He is serving time for manslaughter. It was a fist fight and he was very badly beaten himself, "dumped" by a "goon squad". In the "dumping" one of the goons got killed.

Q. Mr. McCuistion, were you arrested in Houston, Texas on October 22, 1930?

A. Yes; something about that date. I was State Organizer [1985] at that time.

Q. What were you charged with?

A. I was charged with assault, I was charged with breaking and entering, I was charged with vagrancy, and they threw the whole book at me.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. You were also charged with burglary, were you not?

A. Yes. I said "breaking and entering", which is burglary. I was charged with that.

Q. And you were convicted of aggravated assault, were you not?

A. I was convicted of simple assault, as I remember correctly, and the Grand Jury billed us on the rest of the cases. There were several of us. In fact, practically the entire Communist leadership was arrested and charged with the same thing at that time.

Q. Are you now saying that your recollection is that you were convicted of simple assault?

A. Yes.

Q. But it is possible that you were convicted of aggravated assault?

A. Very possible. I was guilty of aggravated assault.

Q. Were you arrested in November of 1931 in Kansas City?

A. Yes sir. Also at that time I was a member of the Communist Party and was a leader of the unemployed at that time.

Q. Were you arrested in November of 1932 in Chattanooga, [1986] Tennessee?

A. Yes. That was at the time of the hunger march. I was taking the southern section of the hunger march to Washington. I was also a Communist then.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Were you arrested in August of 1934 in Buffalo, New York?

A. Yes, I was also a Communist then; Maritime Organizer for the entire Great Lakes Region.

Q. Were you charged with assault?

A. I was charged with assault and vagrancy and a number of other things then. I don't remember all. Just nuisance charges. All these charges would be automatically thrown out in a few hours. The Party would have bondsmen up there almost as quickly as the patrol wagon and have me bailed out, a big defense fund raised and nothing would ever come of it.

Q. Were you arrested in December, 1934 in Baltimore? A. Yes.

Q. Were you charged with assault?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you found guilty?

A. I was found guilty and I was guilty.

Q. Were you arrested in New Orleans in October, 1936? A. Yes. [1987]

Q. Were you arrested—withdraw that. I lost myself at some point. Where were you arrested in connection with the murder charge about which Mr. Del Guercio asked you?

A. I was arrested in the first time in the committee hearing rooms of the Dies Committee in Washington, D. C., after I had been on the stand two complete days. I was arrested on the third day.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Was a warrant served on you?

A. There was no warrant served on me for the simple reason there was no warrant. I wasn't indicted until about four months after that.

Q. When you say that you were "arrested" what do you mean?

A. I mean I was taken into custody by Lieutenant Linegard, and I didn't care to raise any technical points on it. I knew I hadn't done anything to be arrested for and I was confident that I would subsequently be acquitted of anything that I was charged with. I have a little faith in justice in the courts anyway.

Q. Now, when did the trial of that murder case actually begin?

A. The trial began in January the 21st of this year.

Q. 1941? A. Yes.

Q. Well, before that trial began you were arrested [1988] several other times, weren't you?

A. I was arrested in Washington. Extradition was refused. I was subsequently arrested in Indiana, at Claypool, Indiana, near Warsaw. I was advised by counsel there that it would be impossible to extradite me because of such a flimsy bill of particulars against me. But I stated that I was tired of having a murder charge hang over my head and I would waive extradition and go back and face it. I waived extradition and went back.

Q. Were you arrested in Washington, D. C. in May of 1940 for being drunk? A. Yes.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Were you arrested three days later in Washington, D. C., on the same charge of being intoxicated?

A. No.

Q. Did you serve ten days on such a charge?

A. Yes.

Q. While you were in jail that ten-day period did you attempt to commit suicide?

A. No. But it seems that the Daily Worker had an imagination about something that I did do it. I don't recall it.

Q. I have before me an item from the Washington Post, not the Daily Worker; the Washington Post of March 29, 1940. [1989] By the way, do you charge that the Washington Post is a Communist paper?

A. I make no charges whatsoever of any nature. I am here as a subpoenaed witness for the Government and I answer the questions put to me to the best of my ability. I don't know how to say anything else. I will answer your questions and be as courteous to you as I hope you will be to me.

Q. Now, Mr. McCuistion, in this article, to which I have just made reference, the statement is made "William C. McCuistion, Dies Committee witness who was recently indicted for murder of a New Orleans labor leader was jailed for 30 days yesterday by Police Judge Walter J. Casey". Is that a correct statement of what happened?

A. Absolutely not. I wasn't jailed for 30 days.

Presiding Inspector: Never mind! It isn't a correct statement.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. (Continuing): It isn't a correct statement.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. What is incorrect about it? The fact that it wasn't 30 days?

A. The fact that it wasn't thirty days. I wasn't jailed by the judge. There are a lot of inaccurate statements.

Presiding Inspector: What difference does it make what the Washington Post or the Daily Worker or anybody else says? [1990] We are only interested in the facts.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes, that is right.

Presiding Inspector: It doesn't add anything.

Mr. Gladstein: It goes to——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): I will exclude the question of what the article says.

Mr. Gladstein: I want to use the article.

Presiding Inspector: Then show it to him.

Mr. Gladstein: I haven't finished, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I shan't hear anything quoted from the article. Go ahead.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, may I not use something for the basis of a question?

Presiding Inspector: You may show the article to him.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

Presiding Inspector: Ask him if it refreshes his recollection.

Mr. Gladstein: Certainly. There are two articles here. One is from——

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): The article is entirely immaterial here.

Mr. Gladstein: I realize that.

Presiding Inspector: Then don't ask about it.

Mr. Gladstein: I may use——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): Now, go ahead. Let us [1991] have no trouble about it. Show the article to the witness and ask him whatever you want to.

Mr. Gladstein: May I make a statement for the record as to what I am showing the witness, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Certainly you may.

Mr. Gladstein: That is what I was about to do.

Presiding Inspector: I thought we knew about that.

Mr. Gladstein: This document which I am about to show the witness contains two clippings: One from another newspaper, and I want to show that to the witness.

Presiding Inspector: Well, go ahead.

Mr. Gladstein: All right. Now, for the record, I am showing the witness a piece of paper on which there are two clippings: One from the Washington Post, March 29, 1940; and one from the Washington Times-Herald of May 26, 1940. Incidentally, I want to make a correction. The article from the Washington Post is not March 29, but May 29.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I see that, please? You are making a statement to the record here without showing it to me.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Gladstein: Oh, all right.

Mr. Del Guercio: Now, if your Honor please, there is no masthead on any of these articles here.

Presiding Inspector: It doesn't make any difference. If they actually refresh the witness' recollection he can say so. [1992]

Mr. Del Guercio: May the record show, then, that there is nothing on here in the way of writing to show from where they came?

Presiding Inspector: Well, that will appear on the face of the document. If they actually refresh his recollection——

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. (Interposing): Read the article, if you will.

A. (Reading articles): No truth whatsoever to the articles.

Presiding Inspector: The question is whether they refresh your recollection of what occurred?

The Witness: They refresh my recollection of the refusal of Chief Justice Sweet to extradite me, that's all.

Presiding Inspector: Now, go ahead.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Don't they refresh your recollection as to whether you attempted to commit suicide?

A. I never attempted to commit suicide in my life. That is a felony, isn't it? They would charge me with it if I did.

Presiding Inspector: Now, wait!

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. In connection with that arrest, Mr. McCuistion, do you recall whether it is true that you were taken into custody on an intoxication charge after you had collapsed on the wall of St. Elizabeth's Hospital? [1993]

A. I know that I was feeling pretty bad about the whole business, wanting to get the mess cleared up. A man doesn't feel any too good when he has a murder charge hanging over him, even when he knows he is innocent. I know I went on a drunk and the drunk lasted about 30 days, and I sobered up in jail like a lot of other drunks have.

Q. Do you recall whether in jail you improvised a noose out of your shirt?

A. I said I did not; that none of that has the slightest basis of truth.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, counsel here has asked the witness, as I recollect it, at least two times whether he has attempted to commit suicide.

Presiding Inspector: I know.

Mr. Del Guercio: And the witness has answered "No" both times definitely, yet counsel is pursuing——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): He wants to press him because he knows he can't contradict him on this.

Mr. Del Guercio: Apparently.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead.

Mr. Del Guercio: He is still here and alive.

(Testimony of William C. McQuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: Of course, he is bound by his answers on a collateral matter like this.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Was this period that you spent in jail in Washington [1994] in May of 1940 in connection with the 30-day drunk that you have just mentioned prior to the time that you actually stood trial on the murder indictment? A. Yes.

Q. Who were you charged with having murdered?

A. I was charged with having murdered Philip Carey, a close friend of mine.

Q. Was he a labor man?

A. He was a labor man, yes.

Q. Did he belong to a union?

A. He belonged to the National Maritime Union, yes.

Q. What was his position?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to this line of questioning.

Presiding Inspector: What is the object of this?

Mr. Gladstein: Well,——

Mr. Del Guercio (Interposing): Are we going to try the murder trial here?

Mr. Gladstein: No, of course not.

Presiding Inspector: If you hadn't introduced it I don't know what would have happened. But, of course, you introduced this evidence about this murder trial.

Mr. Del Guercio: Only to the extent to show whether he had ever been arrested.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: But you opened the door on it. [1995] You opened the door on it. Now, we will go into it to some extent.

Mr. Gladstein: I want to identify the man, that is all.

Presiding Inspector: Very well. You may do that.

Mr. Gladstein: Will you read the question, please.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. He was Secretary-Treasurer pro-tem of the Stewards' Division of the National Maritime Union of America, Gulf District.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You mean Mr. Carey was?

A. Mr. Philip Carey, yes.

Q. Was he a member also of the National Council of that union?

A. Only by—I am not sure whether he was or not. I couldn't answer. They had just recently revised the constitution and put in a lot of new protective clauses and, I don't know. I haven't even read it myself now. I wasn't interested in what was going on in the union even.

Q. And when is it that you were charged with having murdered him? The date.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, that is shown in the indictment. If they want to bring the indictment here——

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): I will allow it. [1996] This is a question of when——

A. (Interposing): The murder——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): Wait a minute! See if I understand it. You are not asking for the date of the charge, but the date when it is claimed that the charge was committed?

Mr. Gladstein: That's right.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

A. (Continuing): It was supposed to have been committed on the night of September 17, 1939.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did I understand you to say earlier today that you had walked out of the convention of the National Maritime Union?

A. You understood correctly. I walked out of the convention and several others walked out with me.

Q. The answer to that question would be "Yes"?

A. Yes.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you have been expelled from that union? A. That is not a fact.

Q. Isn't it a fact that at the second National Convention of the National Maritime Union of America, held in New Orleans between July 3 and July 14, 1939, a resolution concerning you was introduced before the body? [1997]

A. It will take a little explanation if you wish it.

Q. Can't you first answer it "Yes" and then, if you want to, explain——

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. (Interposing): No, I can't because I wasn't present after I walked out. What I want to say is that when I walked out of the convention of the National Maritime Union, by that act I automatically severed all connection with the union. Therefore, you can't expel a man after he has already quit. It is closing the door after the cow has gone.

Q. Were you a member in good standing after you walked out?

A. I was a member in good standing and a delegate to that convention. [1998]

Q. Under the Union rules do you remain a member in good standing for any period thereafter until you fail to pay dues, or to send in a resignation.

A. When you walk out of any organization you automatically resign from that organization. When you are in disagreement with their policies and principles and walk out you have severed all relations with that organization.

Q. Did you resign in writing?

A. Resign in writing? No, I resigned—there were reporters there reporting the convention.

Presiding Inspector: He asked you if you resigned in writing. You answered "No."

A. No.

Presiding Inspector: Ask the next question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Isn't it true, Mr. McCuistion, that at that convention a resolution was presented reading in part:

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

"Whereas our passenger and freighter agreements expire on September 30; and

"Whereas there is no room in our ranks for disrupters, labor spies, and their ilk; and

"Whereas William McCuistion was run out of the Port of Baltimore and led goon squads in the Ports of Boston, Port Arthur, Houston, Galveston, Corpus Christie, and generally has conducted himself as an enemy of the NMU and its members for his personal [1999] aggrandizement;

"Be It Resolved that this convention expel William McCuistion from the Union for fourteen years."

Wasn't that resolution introduced at that convention?

Presiding Inspector: Do you mean that it was introduced at the time that he was present?

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking him whether, to his knowledge, that was introduced at that convention.

Presiding Inspector: I think you should divide it as to whether he has knowledge by having heard it introduced; that is, divide it between the period he was there and the period afterward.

Mr. Gladstein: I am perfectly willing to do that.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. First of all, was such a resolution introduced while you were still at the convention?

A. No.

Q. To your knowledge was it introduced at any time during the convention?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. To my knowledge, no.

Q. Have you ever heard such a resolution was introduced?

A. This is the first time I have ever heard the wording of such a resolution.

Q. Have you heard prior to today that such a resolution in substance was introduced at that convention? [2000]

A. I have heard that such a resolution was, in substance, introduced as the rank and file delegates had walked out and left the Communists in full possession.

Q. Had you heard that you were expelled for fourteen years from the National Maritime Union before you came to this hearing today?

A. No, because you can't expel a man when he is not in the organization.

Mr. Gladstein: Read the question, please.

Mr. Del Guercio: He has a right to qualify his answer, if your Honor please. He has qualified it.

Mr. Gladstein: He certainly has qualified it, but hasn't answered the question. I would like the question read.

Presiding Inspector: Read the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Presiding Inspector: I will explain that to you. It doesn't mean whether legally it was effective or not. But what counsel is asking about is whether such a resolution was adopted.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. I understand such a resolution was adopted; yes. But that is from indirect information and hearsay largely.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Were you assisted in connection with your murder case by any representative of the Dies Committee, or anyone connected with it? [2001]

A. None whatsoever; with the exception of Congressman Starnes, who went to see Attorney General Jackson to receive permission from him for a representative of the Department of Justice, and Immigration Division, to testify at my trial merely as a character witness. That was Congressman Starnes of Alabama.

Q. Were you furnished with counsel or assistance of any kind by Congressman Starnes, or anyone else, connected with the Dies Committee?

A. No. My counsel was volunteer counsel and they so stated at the trial.

Q. Who was the representative from the Department of Justice who was obtained by Congressman Starnes to be your character witness?

A. That was Mr. Delaney, a personal friend of mine, in New Orleans, and director of Naturalization in the New Orleans office of the Immigration Service.

Q. How long had he been a personal friend of yours?

A. Oh, roughly, for about a year. We first met in connection with the Thomas case.

Q. That would date back to when?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. I couldn't say exactly. When you meet a friend in clubs, and various places, and discuss matters with them, why you don't keep a record of just when you met them. I would say approximately a year ago. I couldn't date it to any par- [2002] ticular time.

Q. Couldn't you give me the approximate month and year when you met Mr. Delaney?

A. You can take a piece of paper and a pencil and figure it out—approximately a year before I was tried—I was tried in January, 1941. No, I am wrong. I should have said approximately two years. I have known him since early 1939.

Q. Have you ever worked for him or with him?

A. I have never worked for him or with him.

Q. What was the nature of your relationship with him?

A. I came to Mr. Delaney at the time of the first hearing of Harry Bridges. I discussed with him, before the first hearings, when they were scheduled to come up, I discussed these hearings with Mr. Delaney. I stated at that time that I didn't approve of the hearings because I believed it was not the proper way to approach the whole thing. I also said that I didn't favor the deportation of Harry Bridges, and I testified so later in the Dies Committee—if you wish to refresh your memory on that.

That was the nature of the conversation.

However, he asked me would I testify if subpoenaed as a witness.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

I said, "Yes, but I will be a reluctant witness."

Q. Now, how did you happen to go to Mr. Delaney? [2003]

A. I went to Mr. Delaney in an endeavor to help a friend of mine, who was also facing proceedings of this same nature. This friend of mine, Arthur Thomas, was an anti-Communist labor leader, had fought the Communists, and the Communists were spending quite a bit of money and a lot of effort to try to have him deported. I went to Mr. Delaney to find out what I could about the case, and find out if there was any way possibly I could help and to really acquaint the Government with the facts that this man was an active anti-Communist and being persecuted in the Union because of these beliefs.

Q. Would it be correct to say that your first contact with Mr. Delaney was a voluntary one on your part and that the purpose you had in mind when you sought him out was to learn from Mr. Delaney whatever you could to help your friend, Mr. Thomas?

A. Yes; and to help Mr. Delaney understand the whole situation, if possible.

Q. All right. On that occasion you also discussed Harry Bridges, is that right?

A. Yes; I discussed Harry Bridges.

Q. How did that happen to come up?

A. Well, Mr. Delaney is an official of the Immigration Department. He asked me questions and I answered them.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Who first mentioned the name of Bridges? [2004]

A. I think it was Mr. Delaney that first mentioned it, asked whether I knew whether Harry Bridges was a Communist or not.

Q. When did you say this was?

A. In 1939.

Q. This was before the hearing?

A. Before the hearing; yes.

Q. How long did you discuss with Mr. Delaney whatever information you claimed you had concerning Bridges?

Presiding Inspector: You mean in this conversation?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes; in this conversation.

Presiding Inspector: In a single conversation?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

A. In a single conversation, about an hour and a half, or two hours at the outside.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. That you were talking about Mr. Bridges?

A. Yes.

Q. You were there longer, however, I take it, because part of the conversation concerned Mr. Thomas?

A. Yes; and also because we discovered that Mr. Delaney had been a friend of my family, had come from the same part of Texas I came from, and on that basis we developed a personal friendship through talking over old times.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. How long would you say all together you spent [2005] continuously with Mr. Delaney during this first occasion when you spoke to him?

A. A maximum of two or two and one-half hours.

Q. Most of that time was taken up with the discussion of Bridges?

A. No. It was taken up—about an hour and a half was taken up on official business, discussing the Thomas case, discussing the Bridges case, discussing whether you were making martyrs of the Communists by deporting them—things like that. The rest of the time was taken up in the discussion of strictly personal matters.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Delaney on that occasion all you claimed to know concerning Mr. Bridges?

A. Yes. I told him certain facts and things I wouldn't even be willing to testify to because they are things that I don't know, things that I have heard from other people, regarding Mr. Bridges. After all, Mr. Bridges and I—well, I have nothing against him and he has nothing against me. It is all up to him.

Q. So you told him everything that you said here, plus other things which you would not care to testify to? A. Certainly, yes, sir.

Q. Was a written statement taken of what you said?

A. There were notes taken of what I said. I signed no statement that I remember. [2006]

Q. That you remember? A. Yes.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. You mean it is possible you did, but you don't now recall?

A. I might have signed it, but I don't recall whether I did. I had no objection to signing a statement. If he had asked me to sign it I would have; if he didn't ask me to sign it I didn't sign it.

Q. Did he ever get in touch with you again concerning the statement you had made to him about Bridges?

A. I got in touch with him. He didn't have to get in touch with me. I looked him up several times.

Q. When was the next time?

A. I couldn't tell you exactly. It was over a period of a couple of months that I looked him up possibly as many as four times.

Q. What did you talk to him about on those occasions?

A. Largely I formed a friendship with Mr. Delaney, and I dropped in to talk to him because I enjoyed talking to him, because I felt that I could learn something from him; and because I felt he was a very able man, and from my home state, and at that time I was really, after just getting out of trade union work, I was trying to get a new slant, a new approach on things as a whole. He was very intelligent, a very capable man and I enjoyed his companionship. The visits were [2007] largely on that basis.

Q. Did you understand that I asked you, Mr.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

McCuistion, when the next time was after the very first occasion that you met Mr. Delaney, that you spoke to him concerning Bridges?

A. I said I couldn't remember the exact time. But I had several meetings in the course of the next two or three months.

Presiding Inspector: I think that answers the question. He can't remember.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, would it be correct to say that probably on all of those occasions you discussed Bridges with him?

A. Probably Bridges' name came up in various ways during those discussions; I wouldn't say positively that it did.

Q. Now, in addition to talking to Mr. Delaney about Mr. Bridges, did you ever give him any other information concerning other people in the labor movement? A. Never.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment. I object to that.

Presiding Inspector: I will allow it. The answer was "No."

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. What was the answer?

A. Never, with the exception of Thomas. [2008]

Q. Did you ever talk to him about Joe Curran?

A. Never, in any official capacity. The name of Joe Curran might have come up.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. When you say "official capacity", do you mean that you were representing somebody?

A. He was an official. I had no reason to talk to him about people unless it was something official. I remember he did ask me a question one time. He stated that he wanted to know what it meant by calling Joe Curran 'No coffee time Joe". What that meant. It was the only question that came up, as to what that meant.

Q. Did you supply him with information concerning any other labor leaders besides Mr. Bridges? A. None.

Q. Did he ask any of you?

A. He didn't ask me any questions. In fact, he was——

Presiding Inspector: You haven't been asked anything further. Just answer the questions.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, this morning you said, in answer to Mr. Del Guercio's question concerning the murder indictment against you—I may be misquoting you but if I am I know you will correct me. It is just my recollection of what was said and I haven't had a chance to check the actual record. It was my impression that you said that you were testifying in the Dies [2009] Committee and then you learned about this business of this charge of murder in New Orleans, and there wasn't any warrant of arrest at the time, but that the Communists did something funny and a warrant was later issued. Would that be a correct summarization of what you said?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. I wouldn't call it funny; no, sir.

Q. I am trying to get what you said, because I want to make it preliminary to another question.

Presiding Inspector: He said it isn't accurate.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Will you explain exactly what you meant to say?

A. I meant that it was at the instigation of certain Communists that I was arrested; that had I not testified before the Dies Committee it is my opinion that I would not have been arrested, or ever indicted for the murder of Philip Carey.

Q. Were there any charges against your before you testified before the Dies Committee?

A. To the best of my information there were none whatsoever. I had heard, through a friend of mine on the waterfront in New York, he said, "The Communists are talking about you being wanted for murder."

I said, "Well, if that is so it is pretty serious business. So I am going to find out about it."

I walked up with this friend—I can give his name now—a seaman by the name of Vest, and another one by the name of [2010] Fawkes—I walked up to the Department of Justice Office, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in New York, and asked if they had, to please ascertain if there were any charges of murder against me.

I also went to the Old Slip Police Station, City

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Police of New York, and asked if I was wanted for anything. They said "No."

I never would have testified before the Dies Committee if I thought there were any charges against me. I would have wanted to have gone ahead and vindicated myself.

Q. Do you know whether or not the New Orleans police were looking for you in September of 1937?

A. If they were they were looking for me in a funny way because I was moving around openly all over the country.

Q. Weren't they looking for you at the time you were testifying before the Dies Committee?

A. If they were they were very slow then because I testified two days before I was apprised of the face that anybody wanted me for anything.

Q. Do you remember the man, the officer, police officer, who came from New Orleans in connection with taking you into custody, do you remember his name?

A. Yes; Johnny Grosch—G-r-o-s-c-h—Chief Detective in New Orleans.

Q. Isn't it true that Officer Grosch was looking for you [2011] since September 26th?

A. Not to my knowledge it wasn't true. If he was he was keeping it a secret.

Q. You mean he never told you, nor did you ever hear that he had been looking for you since September 26th?

A. No — except that one time in New York.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

There was a letter introduced at my trial to the effect that nobody was looking for me until after I testified, and this letter was introduced in evidence. Grosch himself admitted it on the stand.

Q. When did you testify before the Dies Committee?

A. The first part of November, 1939; possibly the last part of October, the last few days. I don't recall the exact dates.

Q. Well, let me see if I have it straight. You said a couple of times that the Communists and you had a public, open, falling out at the time that you testified before the Dies Committee.

A. No, sir. I never said that. I said I had a falling out with the Communist Party and not with any individual Communist. I still have many friends, personal friends, members of the Communist Party.

Q. All right. I will reframe that. Is it correct that you and the Communist Party had your public falling out as a result of your testifying before the Dies Committee? [2012]

A. No. We had our falling-out as a result of my opinion of the Communist Party, after I saw them in action in Spain.

Q. Well, when did you—withdraw that. You said a little while ago that the Communist Party took certain action against you because you testified before the Dies Committee.

A. I mean that the Communist Party pushed further the case against me. This is merely an opinion of mine. I couldn't prove it, and I am not trying to prove it. It is my opinion that the charge of murder against me was instigated by the Communist Party; that it was pushed, that they paid the witnesses to perjure themselves in my trial; and that the Jury evidently thought the same thing because they acquitted me.

Q. Did you take the stand in your own defense?

A. I did not. The State failed to establish a case. It wasn't necessary. My counsel so advised me and I took the advice of my counsel.

Q. Who was the name of your counsel?

A. Albert Koorie, Jack Culligan, and Mathew Braniff.

Q. Do they all have offices in the same city?

A. Yes, in different buildings.

Q. That city is what? A. New Orleans.

Q. One of those gentlemen you named earlier this afternoon as having done some research work for? [2013]

A. Yes, sir. He was a personal friend of mine and volunteered his services without charge.

Q. Did you perform the research that you have talked about for him before or after he defended you?

A. I performed this research work in connection with the Thomas case before he defended me.

Q. He handled that case?

A. He handled Mr. Thomas' case in part.

Q. Now, Mr. McCuistion, when did you first join the Communist Party?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: Just a minute. We will take a short recess. That is a new subject.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

[2014]

Presiding Inspector: You may proceed, Mr. Gladstein.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I want to go back for a moment, Mr. McCuistion, to the NMU Convention that you walked out of. Were you seated as a delegate in that convention?

A. I was not. I presented my credentials to the Credentials Committee and was seated as a delegate temporarily, and I walked out before the Credentials Committee reported. However, I had been a candidate for Chairman and for Secretary for the convention.

Q. Isn't it true that the Credentials Committee reported that you had been illegally elected as a delegate to the convention?

A. That is not true, to my knowledge.

Q. Now, you say you walked out of the convention? A. Yes.

Q. On which day?

A. I couldn't recall the exact date. If you will let me have the proceedings of the convention there, I will refresh my memory on it and tell you.

Q. Well, can't you tell me approximately how long after it began?

A. I cannot, no. I should say the second or third day, or second or third session.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Why did you walk out of the convention?

[2015]

A. I made a statement that it looked to me like the convention was dominated and controlled by the Communist Party and, as a sincere trade unionist, I couldn't honestly stay as a delegate to such a convention. Therefore, I was walking out.

Q. Now, I started to ask you when you first joined the Communist Party.

A. What was that question?

Q. When did you first join the Communist Party?

A. Either in 1921 or 1922. I can't be exact. It wasn't called the "Communist Party" then altogether. It was called the "Workers Party" the "Workers Communist Party".

Q. How long did you remain a Communist?

A. As I say, I couldn't exactly answer. I was perhaps a member of the Communist Party for a year or possibly two years at that time. I was never very active in it and subsequently dropped out, resigned and never became active until 1929 here in San Francisco.

Q. Well now, let me see if I have this chronology straight. You say you joined either in 1921 or '22 and that you were a member for approximately a year or two. That is your best recollection?

A. Oh, more than that. I should say approximately three years.

Q. For approximately three years? [2016]

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. Yes, during which time I wasn't very much of a member. Most of the meetings of the Party I would go to, why, at that time there were more foreign languages spoken than English and I couldn't understand anything except a little border Spanish. So it wasn't very interesting to me. So I just dropped out.

Q. I want to summarize and get this clear. Would it be correct, then, on the basis of your recollection that you first joined in 1921 or 1922 and remained a member until approximately 1924 or 1925?

A. That is approximately correct, yes.

Q. And what happened then?

A. We say, I had never been very active. Just for la[illegible] of interest in what they were doing, I let the thing slide.

Q. You mean that you resigned or quit?

A. No, I just ceased to be a member. I didn't take the trouble of quitting. They might have dropped me later on after I left. I don't know. I just didn't bother to look up meetings or attend meetings or worry about what they were doing or anything else.

Q. You mean that you didn't formally resign?

A. No.

Q. And you were not expelled or anything of that sort? A. Not to my knowledge; no sir.

[2017]

Q. When did you next join the Communist Party?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. I next joined the Communist Party—I really became active in 1929.

Q. All right. That is the second time you joined the Communist Party, in 1929. Where did you join then?

A. In San Francisco, California.

Q. You had also joined the first time in San Francisco? A. Yes.

Q. All right. And for how long did you remain a member of the Communist Party the second time?

A. The second time I remained a member for about a year and a half, I should judge.

Q. Could you date the approximate time when you ceased to be a member the second time?

A. Yes. I was expelled in 1930 by charges brought by this same Communist named Woldman that you mentioned a while ago.

Q. When were you expelled?

A. In December, 1930.

Q. What were the charges?

A. The charges were at that time that I refused to lay out time in jail and, instead, took the money out of the Party and paid my fine with it; $57 and something, I think, for the assault case. Or, rather, I just forfeited that much bail and let them take their fine out of the bail. This was a charge, [2018] and since Woldman had to put up the money he was a little sore at it and brought charges against me, and I was sore. So I decided to go to sea again and work as an active seaman; which I did. And the Party expelled me.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Any other charges?

A. None that I can recall, no. I wasn't given a trial even. It was just an absentee business. I came to the West Coast and I shipped as an oiler on the Hawaiian Standard and I was absent from the country three months working in the Islands.

Q. When did you next join the Communist Party?

A. Well, I was re-admitted that same year, 1931. I was re-admitted to the Party.

Q. When in 1931?

A. The summer of 1931.

Q. Where? A. Kansas City, Missouri.

Q. And how long did you remain a member of the Communist Party thereafter?

A. Until 1935, when I couldn't stand them any longer.

Q. When in 1935?

A. Approximately January.

Q. What did you do in January, 1935 when you "couldn't stand them any longer?"

A. I didn't like the trade union policy of liquidating the Marine Workers Industrial Union. At the plenum of the [2019] Central Committee of the Party I so declared, and when Roy Hudson tried to restrain me I had a fist fight with Roy Hudson and I had a fist fight that night at a dance with another Communist named Harvey in an argument over policy. As a result they served me notice that I was being brought up on charges of being an irresponsible character, and so forth and so on. I didn't dignify the charges by answering them. I merely went back and started working at my trade again as a seaman.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. And you have never been a member of the Communist Party since that time?

A. Never have; no sir. Although I have worked with the leadership of the party since that time, but refused to join again.

Q. Now, you say you fought with Hudson.

A. Yes, I fought with him. I didn't fight much with him because there wasn't any fight. He wouldn't fight back.

Q. What did you do in the way of fighting?

A. I hit him.

Q. You say you had another fight with somebody else?

A. Yes; with the district organizer of the Communist Party at Denver, Harold Harvey, who was formerly Organizational Secretary of the Communist Party of San Francisco.

Q. Was that about the same time?

A. It was the same night. He fought back.

[2020]

Q. Did you express yourself?

A. Yes. It was an argument; merely an argument over policy. I didn't favor liquidating a union that a lot of men had fought to build and I didn't favor five or ten men going out and saying to these men "Well, the union that you built up, that you paid your dues into, that you had gone to jail for and fought in the picket line for is liquidated. Now, boys, get out and go into another union". I didn't believe in that stuff and I don't yet.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. And you expressed yourself pretty vigorously, I take it? A. Yes, I did; very vigorously.

Q. Were you expelled that time or did you quit?

A. The first time I knew I was expelled was when Harry told me about it. I had an idea I was expelled, but I didn't actually know it.

Q. Until he told you about it? A. Yes.

Q. Where was this?

A. I mean officially. In San Francisco.

Q. In San Francisco?

A. In San Francisco.

Q. That was the incident you referred to this morning? A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember from what that clipping was? [2021]

A. From the Daily Worker, yes. I couldn't be absolutely sure whether Reed or him had the clipping. But I know that one of them had it and both of them knew about it.

Q. Do you want to qualify your previous testimony on that to that extent?

A. To that extent: That one of them had the clipping, but that Bridges was the one that discussed it.

Q. Who raised the subject?

A. The subject was raised by Bridges.

Q. In what manner did he raise it?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. In the manner that he thought that I should activize myself. He said that he felt that I had just been mistaken, "blew my top" is the expression that he used, and he felt that I could be useful on the waterfront in San Francisco and that maybe I could set myself straight.

Q. Could you give us the approximate date of that?

A. No, I couldn't. It was within 40 days, I should say, prior to the sailing of the President Garfield. It should have been in May sometime.

Q. Let's see now.

A. I attached no particular significance to the meeting at that time. Therefore, I can't recall exactly. I was in 'Frisco over a period of two or three months and the meeting—until just today—has no special significance. Even today it doesn't seem to be an important meeting or anything like [2022] that.

Q. Now, Mr. McCuistion, you were in New York in January, is that right?

A. In January, yes.

Q. January of 1935? A. Yes.

Q. When did you leave New York?

A. I couldn't tell you exactly. I came to the West Coast by a freight train and schedules weren't very good.

Q. You didn't ship out of New York?

A. No.

Q. Were you on any ship between January 1935 and the time that you left San Francisco?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. No, I was on no ship. I went aboard a couple of ships in various ports, in New Orleans and Houston, enroute. I went aboard to eat a meal, but I didn't ship aboard any of them.

Q. There would be no record of your having been aboard?

A. No, not unless there was somebody who was a member of the crew who could remember seeing me aboard.

Q. Now, let's see. On this ship that you left San Francisco, what did you say the name of it was?

A. The President Garfield, Dollar Steamship Company.

Q. You able to tell me, are you not, how long it took for that ship to travel from San Francisco to Colombo? [2023]

A. Approximately a month and a half; about half way around the world. We made stops at Honolulu; Kobe, Japan; Shanghai, Manilla and Singapore, and Colombo was the next stop.

Q. And how long did you say it took for Mr. Bridges to arrange getting you on the ship?

A. I don't know how long it took exactly. I know that when I got ready to ship I went up and I was shipped right away, without a union book or without anything.

Q. I think you said this morning that in this conversation with Mr. Bridges after the discussion you indicated that you wanted to ship out and Bridges said he could fix it, and he did. Would that be correct? A. Yes.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. And,——

A. (Interposing) . Evidently it was fixed right then. Evidently it was already fixed, because the first time I went up in the hall—the first time I walked into the hall I went up to the dispatcher, Frederick Reed and myself walked to the dispatcher and we were both shipped on the same ship.

Q. And can you recall—this is your best judgment, I realize—how long it took after Mr. Bridges said he would arrange this for you for the actual arrangement to be made so that you could sail out?

A. I don't know how the arrangements were made, whether it took—— [2024]

Presiding Inspector: He is just asking for time.

The Witness: Well,——

Presiding Inspector: This happened at one moment and then you were shipped at a later moment. Now, how long a time was there between?

The Witness: Oh, approximately 30 to 40 days; somewhere around in that. It was four to six weeks, I would say roughly. I wouldn't gauge it exactly. That was because I didn't want to ship. I never went up to the hall. I was meeting a lot of friends.

Presiding Inspector: Doesn't need any explanation.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, would this be correct, then? After your conversation with Mr. Bridges, in which he discussed this clipping concerning your expulsion from the Communist Party, a period of approximately four to six weeks elapsed before he got you to ship out; that is, before he got you the chance?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. I don't know whether he got me the chance right then or whether he didn't arrange it until the day I went up there. But it appeared to me that it had been pre-arranged for some time. But I walked up and the guy didn't pick up the telephone or anything. He didn't even know me. "Oh", he said, "You're McCuistion?" I said "Yes". He said "All right".

Q. But it was four to six weeks from the time Bridges talked to you? [2025]

A. To the best of my memory.

Q. Until the time you shipped out?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, you mentioned this morning that the time you talked to Bridges was after he came out of the hospital.

A. Oh, no. You are wrong, Mr. Counsellor. I said I shipped on this ship shortly after he went to the hospital to be operated on.

Q. Is that what you said?

A. That was exactly my words.

Q. How did you know that?

A. The papers had headlines about Bridges dying, Bridges not expected to live. After all, Bridges is a pretty important character in San Francisco.

Q. Let me get some relationship here, if you will, Mr. McCuistion. How long was it after you learned about Bridges being in the hospital that you shipped out?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. I should say very shortly after that. And that is what gives me an impression that it had been arranged long before he even went to the hospital, because there is no question or no checking or no verification needed. I just come up to the dispatcher and shipped.

Q. Now let us go to this discussion that you had with Mr. Bridges the very first time you met him in 1935. [2026]

A. Yes.

Q. Can you state some of the outstanding things that were discussed?

A. No. I can only state the general tenor of the conversation because, as I say, I didn't attach at that time any particular importance to it. I can state the general tenor of the conversation and that is all.

Q. Give us the things that stand out in your mind as having been discussed.

A. The fact that I was expelled from the Communist Party; the fact that such expulsion was only for a period of a year, providing that I conduct myself in such a manner as to warrant my re-admission; the fact that there was necessary work to be carried on; the fact that there was some kind of grudge between Harry Bridges and Lundeberg, and that they figured that Lundeberg ought to be eliminated and that they figured on using the expulsion of Scharrenberg, who was friendly with neither Lundeberg nor Bridges, as a stepping stone to this. Various discussions like this. I will tell you: Discussions like that took place daily between me and other members of the Party, and it would be hard to narrow it down to just what we did discuss specifically. But that was the line and Bridges discussed these things with me as a member [2027] of the Communist Party talking to an ex-member of the Communist Party.

Q. Did Bridges urge you to do anything?

A. Yes. Bridges urged me to straighten up, to get myself right again.

Q. Did he urge you to do anything specific in connection with any of the topics you have mentioned? Did he ask for your help, for example?

A. Yes. He felt that I should activize myself. I couldn't be specific and say just specifically what he asked me to do. I told him—the reason I can't be specific on that is that I was determined that I was going to ship out as soon as I had had my little fling of visiting old friends out here on the Coast, and so forth and so on. I was going to ship.

Q. Did he try to dissuade you from shipping out?

A. He tried a little bit to dissuade me, but not very hard.

Q. Did he give any reasons for his dissausion?

A. No. He did try to persuade me that I ought to join the Union; and I stated that I wouldn't join the American Federation of Labor then; that I opposed them just as much as I opposed the Marine Workers Industrial Union. It was a matter of principle with me at that time.

Q. I want you to try to remember, if you will, in this [2028] conversation just what was said about any individuals. You have mentioned a couple of names already. I wonder if you can remember any other names that were mentioned.

A. Well, I don't know. If Harry will refresh me with the names that he wants me to recollect, I will try to recollect it. He knows about as much of the conversation as I do. That's all. I have said all I remember about it.

Q. Well, you have already mentioned the names of Lundeberg and Scharrenberg. Were there any other names that stand out in your mind that were discussed?

A. No, I can't recall just off-hand.

Q. What was said in connection with Scharrenberg?

A. That Scharrenberg—I remember the discussion came out roughly that nobody liked Scharrenberg, that he would be a good guy to test out the power of the rank-and-file and the organization; he would be a good guy to make a test case out of. In other words, that Scharrenberg should be expelled, which would meet with the approval of both the Lundeberg forces and the Party forces, which were opposing Lundeberg. They could probably get together on that basis, and then later on this same energy could be diverted into the expulsion of Lundeberg, if they could raise sufficient strength. In other words, it was a sort of a boring-from-within tactics that was discussed as a whole. I can't be specific on it, though.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Where did that conversation take place?

[2029]

A. This conversation started with me sitting on the rail. There was a vacant lot at the foot of Clay Street there. I was sitting on the rail and Harry was standing up when it started. We went around to some restaurant. I forget what restaurant down there. Anyway we went in and had a little feed and discussed it more there; discussed it later on that night at Party headquarters.

Q. And that was the first time you ever met Bridges?

A. That was the first time I ever met Bridges, though I knew Bridges by having had him described to me. I have forgotten whether I had seen any pictures of him or not. I probably had seen a number of pictures of him and no doubt Bridges had seen my picture a few times. We were both big shots in our own way then.

Q. That same night you say you saw him again?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was that?

A. I think it was the headquarters of the Communist Party on Grove Street. It might have been just one of the branch headquarters or Western Worker headquarters or something like that. But it was definitely a Communist headquarters.

Q. Whom did you go with?

A. Frederick A. Reed.

Q. What time, do you remember? [2030]

A. I can't recall the time. It was early.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. How long were you there?

A. A maximum of 15, 20 minutes. I didn't feel very welcome there, to tell you the truth.

Q. Why do you say that?

A. Because I was an expelled member of the Communist Party and I wasn't agreeable to do any work for them. I was going out on my own, and, after all, an unwanted guest can feel it in many ways.

Q. What was discussed there?

A. Generally along the same line. That was the place where he definitely told me he could fix the shipping.

Q. Was Bridges there when you arrived?

A. Bridges was there when I arrived.

Q. Did you leave with Bridges?

A. I did not leave with Bridges.

Q. Did Bridges leave before you did?

A. I left before Bridges.

Q. Alone?

A. I left with Frederick Reed.

Q. Where did you go?

A. That would be hard to answer. I was more or less "on the bum" then and I went down to the waterfront, I know, to try to meet some friends that I could borrow a dollar or so from and, maybe, talk old times with. I wandered around. [2031] I might have been on the Embarcadero. I might have been on Howard Street, I might have been on Market Street. I know I walked down

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. For how long had you been in San Francisco on that occasion before you shipped out?

A. Well, that occasion was sometime before I shipped out. I hadn't been in San Francisco but two or three days, I should judge, before I met Bridges; two or three days at the outside.

Q. Where was the place that you came from before you hit San Francisco at that time?

A. New York, overland, by way of Florida and New Orleans and the Southern Pacific route.

Q. Do you remember how long it took you to arrive at San Francisco after you left New York?

A. I do not remember, no. I wasn't hurrying especially. I wasn't going slow especially.

Q. Do you have any recollection at all?

A. I have not, no.

Q. Can't you say whether it was one week or one month or three months?

A. I could not say; no, sir, because, as I say, I stopped various periods of time, and that's after all, six years ago and I was taking it easy. I was relaxing after having the strain of a lot of union activities for sometime previously. I was [2032] taking it easy. I had a pretty good little road stake. I didn't have to worry. If I saw a place I liked, I stayed there a few days and then moved on.

Q. Now, at the itme that you were here in San Francisco you would say that was a period all told of approximately four or five or six weeks?

A. Yes, something like that, yes.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. At that time who was Mr. Scharrenberg?

A. Paul Scharrenberg was the legislative representative of the Sailor's Union of the Pacific. I think that was his official title. I don't know. I know that Mr. Scharrenberg, he was a type of fellow that we called in those days a "labor faker".

Q. He held a high office, is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. In the union? A. Yes.

Q. Did he hold any other office besides the one that you have mentioned that you know of?

A. I don't know. I know that there was a lot of question, that he probably had made one or two trips in his life. He was a lawyer, and that now he is working in the legislative office in Washington. He was a very elderly man; nothing especially bad about him, nothing especially good about him.

[2033]

Q. I am talking about the time you were in San Francisco and what you knew his position to be.

A. I knew that he was opposed to everything that we consider progressive. We regarded——

Q. (Interposing) You misunderstood me, Mr. McCuistion, I didn't mean his views. The positions that he held in the labor movement.

A. Oh, I don't know. He held some position with the State Federation of Labor, I know. He held various positions. He was, in fact, a leading citizen along with his labor position.

Q. Was he the head of the Sailors Union at that time? A. No, sir.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Del Guercio: If the witness knows.

Presiding Inspector: He says "No".

A. (Continuing) I don't know just exactly the different positions he held.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, don't you know whether during that period when you were in San Francisco Mr. Scharrenberg was the head of the Seamen's Union here?

A. I know that Mr. Scharrenberg was not the head of the Seamen's Union here.

Q. Who was? A. Of the Sailors Union.

Q. Well, who was? [2034]

A. Well, I understood, to the best of my knowledge, that regardless of who held the technical position that Lundeberg was the head, that he was the only man that the membership respected, and therefore, he was actually the head, regardless of the title.

Q. Do you know what positions Mr. Lundeberg held at that time?

A. No, I couldn't tell you the exact position. In fact, I was just remotely acquainted with Mr. Lundeberg. In fact, the shipping—I shipped without his knowledge. I was very careful that he didn't find it out because I knew that Mr. Bridges knew that I had been a Communist and would probably queer any attempt of me being able to ship through his union.

Q. You mean that Mr. Lundeberg was in a position where he could have prevented you from shipping without a union card, had he known it?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. Oh, yes; very easily. In fact, almost any member of the union could have done it merely by virtue of challenging me.

Q. Could that be because the Union had an agreement with the shipowners whereby Mr. Lundeberg could keep you from getting a job?

A. No. Because the membership of the Union had confidence in Mr. Lundeberg. [2035]

Q. I don't understand, Mr. McCuistion. How could anybody have stopped you from shipping out if you had wanted to at that time?

A. The Sailors Union of the Pacific controlled the shipping. I don't think they had a contract at that time, but they controlled the shipping. In other words, if a shipping company was to ship a non-union man or a man without a union card, it was within the province of the union to call their members off of a ship and thereby precipitate another strike. This was done on a number of occasions. It has been done on a number of occasions since. It is regular union procedure.

Presiding Inspector: Well, your idea is that you don't know whether they had a contract or not? You think not?

The Witness: I think not.

Presiding Inspector: But that generally there was a friendly arrangement and the action was as though they had a contract?

The Witness: Yes. I think that they were working—this was a post-strike period and they were working out agreements. They might have had a signed agreement. I had been out of touch with union affairs during this brief period of time.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: I think that is pretty clear.

By Mr Gladstein:

Q. You said this morning that you shipped out through the union dispatcher. [2036]

A. I was shipped through the union dispatcher. The company probably has my original shipping ticket down there. I was given a regular ticket as though I was a member; sent down to the Dollar Steamship Company; presented my ticket to the mate; went back, and somebody had already O.K.'d me with the ship's delegate, so he didn't ask me any questions and the ship sailed.

Q. Well, would it be correct, then, to say that the job which you took when you shipped out was one that had been arranged or O.K.'d by——

A. (Interposing) Yes. It was what they call "back-door" shipping, is the label of it.

Q. Through the union, which was in a position to do either of two alternatives: Either keep you off the ship or put you on?

A. Not through a union. Through the individual, the dispatcher. I understood that I—what was his name? Mills. I think Mills was his name, the dispatcher that O.K.'d me through.

Q. Where was he located?

A. He was located in the Sailors Union of the Pacific Hall at 59 Clay Street. And if it wasn't through him it was through some friend of Harry's that Harry was able to get me on. [2037]

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. When is the last time you have been in the Sailors' Hall?

A. The last time I was in the Sailors' Hall, Sailors Union of the Pacific, was when I shipped, when I left that day, and I have never been in the hall since.

Q. Have you ever had any correspondence with the Sailors Union since?

A. I have had personal correspondence with different members of the Union, but none recently.

Q. To the Union?

A. To the Union hall. A lot of them get their mail there.

Q. Now, so you went and saw Mr. Mills, and you say he was in the Union headquarters?

A. I am not sure it was Mr. Mills.

Q. Who was it?

A. It was the dispatcher. If the dispatcher was Mr. Mills, it was Mr. Mills; if it was Mr. Jones it was Mr. Jones.

Q. You saw the Union dispatcher?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you alone when you saw him?

A. No. I was with Frederick Reed. We shipped together on the same ship, at the same time, as the article shows.

Presiding Inspector: Haven't you covered that?

Mr. Gladstein: Not yet. [2038]

Presiding Inspector: He said that in answer to one of your questions, or volunteered it to one of your questions.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Gladstein: I haven't asked about this.

Presiding Inspector: I beg your pardon. You may not have asked about it, but he answered it.

Mr. Gladstein: I cannot help that. If I ask a question and I get a different answer I cannot help that.

Presiding Inspector: We will never get through if we keep getting the same answers.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. What time of day was it when you went to the Sailors' Hall?

A. What time of day was it? Well, I have shipped on some hundred or so different ships in my lifetime, and to remember the time every day when I got on or off would be physically impossible.

Q. Did you have any trouble getting into the Union hall?

A. They had a guard at the door when I came in. Fred Reed went in ahead, and flashed his book and said, "Mac is a friend of mine. We are going to the dispatcher." He let us in the door and we walked to the dispatchers' hall. There was no question about it.

Q. Do you remember who the officials of that Union were at that time? [2039]

A. I do not. I answered that a while ago also; except that Lundeberg was one, and Scharrenberg was another, and a fellow by the name of Silvers was another one. I do not recall exactly—I never attended a meeting of the Sailors Union of the Pacific in my life.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Would you remember what offices those men held that you have just named? A. No.

Presiding Inspector: Haven't you asked that before?

Mr. Del Guercio: Not only asked it, but it was answered.

Presiding Inspector: He injected the name of Silvers. That is a new name. But you asked about the other two, I think, more than once.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. When did you start to openly oppose the Communist Party?

A. Well, while I was still in Spain; about one month prior to leaving Spain it became known that I was opposing them, and it became openly known, and I was put in a concentration camp. When I left Spain I left from a concentration camp.

Q. And have you been openly opposing the Communist Party since that time?

A. Ever since. When I appeared before the Consul General in Paris, France, the Communist Party offered to pay my transportation back to the United States, and I refused to [2040] accept it because I wanted to be under no obligation to them whatsoever.

Q. Now, you mentioned the 1936 strike on the east coast. Do you recall when that strike began?

A. Which strike? There were two 1936 strikes.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

the spring strike and the strike that took in the fall and winter, and ran up until '37.

Q. When you were discussing the strike this morning which one did you have reference to?

A. We were discussing the fall strike then.

Q. And was it in connection with that strike that you listed certain men who were on the strike committee?

A. Yes; I was on the strike committee myself.

Q. Well, you listed yourself and certain others, is that right? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, you said that that strike was Communist dominated——

Presiding Inspector: What was the word?

Mr. Gladstein: Communist dominated, I think you said?

A. I said that; yes, sir. I said the Strike Committee was Communist dominated, that the strike was Communist instigated. However, I think it was a good strike.

Q. Regardless of that, when you say the Strike Committee was Communist dominated, what did you mean by that? [2041]

A. I mean that the most active elements within the Strike Committee controlled the entire policy of the Strike Committee, and that these most active elements were members of the Communist Party.

Q. Well, how could the Communists control the Strike Committee unless they were in the majority?

A. The same that ten ward leaders can control the vote of an entire city.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Did the Communists control the Strike Committee?

A. The Communists did control the Strike Committee; yes.

Q. Were they in a majority on the committee?

A. No, but they always had a majority present at the meetings. The non-Communists would ditch meetings occasionally, but the Communists were always present and voted in one solid bloc.

Q. Are you talking about the Strike Committee?

A. Yes.

Q. How many people were on that Strike Committee?

A. It varied from time to time. They had as high as 50 members at times and it got down to as low as 15 or 16 members. I couldn't recall exactly.

Q. All right. At any time did the Communists have an actual majority control of that Committee?

A. They never numerically; no.

Q. Did they have what approached majority control? [2042]

A. Yes, it approached majority control. They had majority control because by voting as a bloc, and by five or six of them getting up and consistently hammering home one point, they could win over the influence of others who were more or less luke-warm, or who didn't care. That is an old organizational tactic that we have all used at some time in our lives.

Q. In general, what percentage, would you say, of the members of the Strike Committee were regular members of the Communist Party?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. I should say approximately 20 or 25 per cent.

Q. Was it ever higher than that?

A. I would have to have the list of the strike committee before me, and go over them one by one, and say "This man is a Communist and that man isn't," to determine the exact percentage. I can merely say that by voting as a bloc that there was no time that the Communist Party didn't control the Strike Committee. They never controlled the Firemen's separate Strike Committee.

Q. Now, I want to direct your attention to the meeting at Madison Square Garden. When was that held?

A. That was held along the middle part of December, 1936.

Q. And under whose auspices?

A. It was held officially under the auspices of the [2043] Seamen's Defense Committee.

Q. Would that be the same Committee as the Strike Committee we have been talking about?

A. Yes, the Strike Committee, the Seamen's Defense Committee, the striking seamen of the ISU—we called ourselves various things, but it was all the same.

Q. Do you remember who the speakers were at that meeting?

A. Yes; I can recall some of them. Heywood Broun was one of them, Congressman Vito Marcantonio was another.

Q. Was Heywood Broun a Communist?

A. Not that I know of. I never did look on him as a Communist. I looked on him as a good natured liberal.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Was Congressman Marcantionio a Communist? A. In my opinion he was and is.

Q. Proceed.

A. I don't know, but that is just an opinion of mine.

Q. Proceed, please.

A. Also a negro preacher named Powell.

Q. Was he a Communist?

A. I couldn't tell you. I never had seen the man before and can't recall ever having seen him since.

Q. When you asked you about those men, whether they were Commnists, you understood me to mean members of the Communist Party?

A. Yes. [2044]

Q. All right.

A. I draw a great difference between the two also.

Q. So your testimony is that when I asked you about whether Mr. Broun was a Communist, and whether Mr. Marcantonio was a Communist, you, in your answer, understood that I was asking you whether they were members of the Communist Party, is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Will you proceed, please?

A. Harry Bridges spoke. I spoke. I was not a Communist; Harry Bridges was a Communist.

Q. Who else spoke?

A. I can't recall the other speakers off-hand.

Q. Do you remember any representatives from any other unions being there?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. Yes; Hoyt Haddock.

Presiding Inspector: You mean as speakers?

Mr. Gladstein: As speakers; yes.

The Witness: As speakers? No, he was just on the rostrum. I thought you asked me representatives of other unions that were there. I made a mistake.

Presiding Inspector: He is asking about the speakers.

The Witness: I can't recall others.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Was any speaker there from International Ladies [2045] Garment Workers Union?

A. I don't recall whether there was or not. I recalled we received a check for $500 from them in the collection.

Q. Do you remember a man named Zimmerman who represented that organization?

A. I remember the name, but I don't remember whether he was there as a speaker or not. I cannot tell.

Q. Do you recall whether he was there on the rostrum?

A. I know that Sidney Hillman was invited, but didn't come. It is possible he sent Mr. Zimmerman to represent him.

Q. Who else that you remember?

A. Speakers?

Q. Yes.

A. I remember no others. If you would refresh my memory I might recollect. It appeared in all the papers in town. Approximately 18,000 people, I think, attended the meetings; something like that.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Have you ever called Heywood Broun a Communist, or a Communist figure?

A. I never did. I have talked with Heywood Broun. I never believed him to be a Communist. In fact, I have argued with other people who said he was.

Q. I asked whether you ever called Mr. Broun a Communist.

Presiding Inspector: He said he didn't believe so.

Mr. Gladstein: I didn't ask whether he believed he was; [2046] I asked if he had ever called him a Communist.

Presiding Inspector: That is a manner of speech. He means that it is his best recollection that he hadn't. You understand the ordinary manner of speech that people use.

Mr. Gladstein: I want it clear.

Presiding Inspector: What difference does it make whether he called Heywood Broun a Communist or not?

Mr. Gladstein: It may make considerable difference.

Presiding Inspector: You are bound by his answer anyway.

Mr. Gladstein: I still would like the question put, your Honor.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: Read the answer to the last question.

(The answer referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I think that answers it.

Presiding Inspector: It may be doubtful. I thought it was stronger than that.

The question is whether or not you have ever called him a Communist.

A. Never, to the best of my knowledge.

I just recall another speaker at the meeting since the word "Communist" was brought up. One of the speakers was Carl Brodsky, definitely a self-admitted Communist.

By Mr. Gladstein: [2047]

Q. Who was he representing?

A. International Workers Order.

Q. You mentioned a while ago that you were in disagreement with the Communist Party on the question of the liquidation, as you called it, of the Marine Workers Industrial Union. It that right?

A. That is correct; yes, sir.

Q. Can you think of anything else on which you were in disagreement with them?

A. No, nothing in particular; except the fact of their rule or ruin policy.

Q. Anything else?

A. I can't recall—just general disagreement; that was all.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. General disagreement?

A. Fed up with them.

Q. General disagreement on what?

Mr. Del Guercio: I think the term "fed up with them" is sufficient, if your Honor please.

Presiding Inspector: Let him explain.

A. First, I was fed up with the trade union policy very definitely. That was in itself sufficient.

By Mr. Gladstein.

Q. What was the trade union policy on which you were fed up? [2048]

A. That trade union policy was the liquidation of the independent unions of the Trade Union Unity League, and the infiltration of the membership of these unions into the American Federation of Labor for the definite purpose of seizing control of the Federation.

Q. Well, the disagreement was that the Communist Party wanted to liquidate the TUUL unions and you were opposed to that, is that right?

A. Yes, that was the main disagreement.

Q. Now, were these unions Communist front unions?

A. No. They were not Communist front unions. They were Communist Unions.

Q. They were Communist unions. That is, Communist-controlled and the members Communists?

A. A good percent of the members were Communists and the control was a hundred per cent Communist.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Your position was that you wanted the Communist unions continued?

A. Absolutely. I didn't believe in subterfuge. I believed that if you were a Communist you should call yourself one. I didn't lie about it when I was a Communist. I told the world about it.

Q. Can you think of any other question that you disagreed on?

A. No. I can think of the disagreements. They [2049] were petty disagreements. This was a basic disagreement. There might have been individuals that I had little discussions or disagreements with, but this was the basic disagreement.

Q. Was there any disagreement in principle with the Communist Party?

A. Disagreement in principle?

Q. Yes.

A. No. At that time I believed in theories of Communism absolutely. In fact, I continued to believe in Communism theoretically until I saw them in action in Spain, and then this being fed up turned into absolute wholehearted disgust.

Q. What did you consider those principles in a general way to advocate with respect to the government of this country?

The Witness: What?

Mr. Gladstein: Read the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. I considered those principles to lead to an organization of a proletarian revolution to overthrow the United States of America and to set up a workers' state. I agreed with those principles and I agitated and propagated for those principles at that time.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Did you personally believe in or advocate the use of violence to overthrow the Government of the United States? [2050]

A. I personally used violence at various times when I was so instructed.

Mr. Gladstein: Do you want to adjourn now?

Presiding Inspector: No. We have had a good deal of time out today.

Mr. Gladstein: I can go on to another topic, but I won't be able to finish with the witness today.

Presiding Inspector: Well, you had better go on for ten minutes more, eight minutes more. You may finish that topic.

Mr. Gladstein: I beg your pardon?

Presiding Inspector: You may finish the next topic. Of course, I have no information on that. That's a mere surmise.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Will you repeat again the names of the three attorneys who represented you in New Orleans?

Mr. Del Guercio: I thought we were going into a new topic.

Mr. Gladstein: I have something new upon it.

Presiding Inspector: Haven't you had that before?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Gladstein: Not the thing that I am going to ask.

Presiding Inspector: I know, but haven't you their names?

Mr. Gladstein: I didn't put them down. I don't remember [2051] them.

Presiding Inspector: All right. Let Mr. Gladstein put them down. Just give the names again.

A. Attorney Culligan——

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Culligan?

Presiding Inspector: You spelled that before. Perhaps you had better spell it again.

The Witness: C-u-l-l-i-g-a-n. I understand he has now moved from New Orleans.

Presiding Inspector: Never mind! Give the next name.

A. (Continuing) Koorie.

Presiding Inspector: And the next name?

The Witness: Braniff.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Are they associated together or do they have separate offices?

Mr. Del Guercio: Oh, that has been asked and answered. They have offices in New Orleans.

Presiding Inspector: Yes. You have already answered that. The next question.

Mr. Gladstein: I withdraw it.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I think you said that Mr. Koorie volunteered for you?

A. All three of them. [2052]

Mr. Del Guercio: That has been answered also, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Well, he has answered it.

Mr. Gladstein: I haven't asked the question yet.

Presiding Inspector: What difference does it make whether he said it or not?

Mr. Gladstein: Because I——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) You want to get a running start.

Mr. Gladstein: I want to make it introductory to the question.

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead. He has already said that. He said it just now.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did Mr. Koorie volunteer?

Presiding Inspector: He has already said that all three volunteered.

Mr. Gladstein: I didn't hear.

Presiding Inspector: You should listen to the answers.

Mr. Gladstein: I couldn't while Mr. Del Guercio was talking and your Honor was talking also. I didn't hear the answer.

Presiding Inspector: I could hear it even above my own talk. Now, read the answer.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

(The answer referred to was read by the reporter as [2053] follows:

"A. All three of them.")

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, do you know how Mr. Culligan happened to volunteer?

A. Yes, sir. He stated to the jury that he volunteered because he thought that I was a victim of a frame-up by the Communist Party and he felt it was his duty as a lawyer and a member of the Louisiana Bar Association to volunteer.

Q. Do you know how Mr. Braniff happened to volunteer?

A. Mr. Braniff volunteered by his own statement because he had formerly represented the CIO and certain individuals who were Communists in strikes, and he felt that I was a victim of frame-up through having talked with some of these people that he had previously defended and, as such, he felt it his duty to volunteer in my defense.

Q. And is it correct that Mr. Koorie volunteered because of his personal friendship for you?

A. Because of personal friendship.

Q. Do you know whether the volunteering of any of those three attorneys was induced by the Dies Committee or any representative of that Committee?

Presiding Inspector: Answer "yes" or "no."

A. I know positively that it was not. No.

By Mr. Gladstein: [2054]

Q. Do you know whether it was induced by any representative of the Federal Bureau of Investigation? A. I know positively it was not.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Or by the Department of Justice?

A. It was not.

Q. Or was it induced as to any one of those three men by Mr. Delaney? A. No.

Q. After you first met Mr. Delaney were you reporting activities of any kind to him?

A. None whatsoever. I told you that before also. I have never reported activities of any kind to anyone.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, we haven't gone into a new topic yet.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Were you present at your trial?

Presiding Inspector: Perhaps we will before we finish.

A. Was I present at my trial?

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Throughout your trial?

A. Well, I was under arrest. They didn't let me go out.

Q. Were you present at your trial?

A. Certainly I was present.

Q. Did you hear all the testimony?

A. Certainly I heard all the testimony.

Q. Mr. Delaney testified for you? [2055]

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he testify that you had been reported to him concerning Communistic activities in the NMU and that you were reporting your findings to Mr. Delaney?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. I don't remember the exact words. He testified that we had discussed these things. "Reporting," I made no reports to anybody. How could I report? I had no job?

Q. Did he testify that you were watching out for Communistic activities in the NMU?

A. I was doing that, yes.

Q. Did he testify to that?

A. I don't know whether he—I don't recall him saying that, no.

Q. Did he testify that you reported findings to him?

A. No, he did not testify to that.

Q. Did you report findings to him?

A. No, I reported nothing to him. I discussed a lot of things with him and with a thousand other people.

Q. Now, you identified a document today as being one containing the doctrines of the Industrial Workers of the World?

A. I did not identify the document as containing the teachings and doctrines of the Industrial Workers of the World. I said it was a document published by the Industrial Workers of the World. I stated that I was not aware or not an authority on the doctrines of the IWW. [2056]

Q. Do you know what the contents of this document happen to be?

A. I would have to re-read it in its entirety to refresh myself on that. I identified it largely by the shield on it and by the fact that I am familiar with the emblem of the IWW.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Well, anybody looking at the cover could say that it purports to be published by the IWW. Do you want to add anything to what anybody could say by such an examination?

A. Yes. I explained the meaning of the shield, the stars, the world, and the various meanings of the various designs of it.

Q. You don't claim that this document represents the teachings or the principles of the IWW, do you?

A. Certainly not. I'm not an authority on the IWW. The document will have to speak for itself on that.

Presiding Inspector: I think you left it a little ambiguous.

Mr. Gladstein: Why? Do you want to ask a question, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: No. I don't understand quite what the question was. Did you mean to imply that it didn't?

Mr. Gladstein: I don't know whether it does or not, and I wanted to know whether this witness claims that it does.

Presiding Inspector: No. He says he doesn't know. [2057]

Mr. Gladstein: That is all I wanted to question him about.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: But there might be an inference drawn that it did not, from the way the question was put.

Mr. Gladstein: I know nothing about the document. I have never read it and I don't know what it purports to represent.

Presiding Inspector: I don't suppose that you did. I still think the question was ambiguous or it might be ambiguous.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, let's have the question and answer. I don't want any ambiguity.

Presiding Inspector: No. You don't know whether it does or not, is that it?

The Witness: Yes, sir. I couldn't speak with authority on it.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, in view of the witness' answer I think that the document should be stricken from the record and I make a motion.

Presiding Inspector: I said that I would reserve the motion to strike.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

Presiding Inspector: I suppose counsel was going to connect it up by someone else and we will hold it until that time, then I will pass on the motion to strike. [2058]

Mr. Del Guercio: Your Honor, I refrained from introducing any further documents on the IWW in view of that.

Presiding Inspector: Well, if you are not going to do anything more with this document I will strike it out.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Not at the present time. No, I am not going to do anything more with it.

Presiding Inspector: Then we will hold it.

Mr. Gladstein: Of course, if your Honor rules on my motion to strike, to the effect that it should be stricken from the record, that does not mean that it cannot remain an exhibit for identification.

Presiding Inspector: I shall not allow it to stay in unless there is some further proof.

Mr. Del Guercio: I do intend to follow it up.

Presiding Inspector: That is what I expected. That is what I thought. Are you at the end of a particular subject?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Tomorrow morning.

WILLIAM C. McCUISTION

called as a witness on behalf of the Government, having been previously duly sworn, testified further as follows:

Cross Examination (Resumed)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. McCuistion, there are a few things that I neglected to ask you yesterday about topics that you were discussing and I would like to clear those up first before I go on to something else.

Do you recall you said the very first time you met Mr. Bridges he bought a meal for you and I think you used the word "dinner". Which meal do you intend to mean by that?

A. I said he bought a meal. I didn't use it in any particular sense. I wasn't eating very regularly. It could have been in the morning or in the afternoon. I don't recall the exact meal.

Q. I believe you said "dinner", and I think I can probably find that. I wondered whether you used the word "dinner" to mean the noon meal or the evening meal. Sometimes people use it to mean one thing and sometimes another?

A. In Texas it is breakfast, dinner and supper. That was the way I was raised.

Q. What is your best recollection as to when this meal [2061] was bought for you?

A. I don't remember the exact time. In all probability it was during the day some time; either in the early morning or the late afternoon. It was in the range of time during the day hours.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Did Mr. Bridges pay for the dinner or did Mr. Reed pay for it?

A. Bridges paid for the dinner.

Q. Did he pay for both you and Reed?

A. Reed wasn't there.

Q. He was not at dinner? A. No.

Q. When you first met Bridges that day I think you said you were in some lot of some kind?

A. No. I said I was sitting on the railing at the foot of Clay Street.

Q. Were you alone?

A. I said I was with Reed and that Bridges came up and that Reed introduced me to Bridges.

[2062]

Q. I see. How long would you say that you spent in the conversation and in having dinner with Bridges?

A. A maximum of twenty, twenty-five minutes.

Q. Did you leave the restaurant with Bridges?

A. No. We probably went to the door together. As I say, I didn't attach any particular importance to the incident then and I don't recall the details of it. I have eaten some thousands of meals since then that I couldn't describe either.

Q. Was Reed there at the time?

A. No, Reed was not there at the time.

Q. Where did you meet Reed later that day?

A. I was with Reed later that day at a number of places. If I recall correctly, I think that Reed had to go and get excused from picketing duty, picketing Standard Oil Filling Stations. At that time, why, the union was paying the pickets with meal tickets and with a certain sum in cash to go out and picket these various filling stations during the Standard Oil strike. Reed got excused from picket duty and he and I bummed around some that day, during the day, I don't remember just what we did or where we went, who we talked to. We probably talked to fifteen or twenty different persons, maybe more, maybe less.

Q. There is no doubt in your mind that that is the first time you ever met Bridges?

A. I don't know. Maybe Bridges can refresh my memory on it. I don't remember recall having met him before. [2063]

Q. When you testified before the Dies Committee were you sworn?

A. I was sworn; yes, sir.

Q. Did you tell the truth?

A. I told the truth.

Q. Have you told the truth here?

A. I have told the truth here.

Q. Were you asked before the Dies Committee whether you knew if Bridges was a Communist and, if so, what you based your statement on?

A. Yes sir, I was asked that.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute. If you are reading from the Dies Committee report I would like to know the page number and tell the witness what he said.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, give him the page.

Mr. Gladstein: If I am reading from it I will.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

but I was not in the question I just asked, Your Honor.

Was there an answer to the question?

The Reporter: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: He answered "Yes."

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you mention to the Dies Committee this incident that happened when Frederick Reed introduced you?

A. I didn't mention it. I only answered the questions [2064] that counsel for the Dies Committee asked me.

Q. I asked you did you mention that incident?

A. No.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a moment. That is an answer.

Presiding Inspector: Wait a minute. I will exclude the question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you mention to the Dies Committee the incident that same evening at the Dies Committee headquarters?

Presiding Inspector: Just a minute. Did you mention? I don't think that is a fair question.

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw it.

Presiding Inspector: It is deceptive, you know.

Mr. Gladstein: What is deceptive about it?

Presiding Inspector: That implies there was some requisite to mention it.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I asked the witness

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

whether he was asked if he knew as to whether Bridges was a Communist and, if so, on what basis, and he said "Yes."

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: All right. Now, I am asking him whether, during that testimony, he testified concerning this incident with Frederick Reed at the dinner.

Presiding Inspector: That implies it was a part of such an examination necessarily. [2065]

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I have a right to test his recollection, do I not, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Certainly.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you discuss——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Now, the question is: Was there any mention of that matter during your examination?

The Witness: No, there was no mention of that matter during my examination.

Presiding Inspector: That answers it. [2066]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you testify concerning the meeting that evening at the Communist Party headquarters with Bridges? A. Not at all.

Q. Now, Mr. McCuistion, at page 6745, of Volume 11, of the official report published by the United States Government printing office, entitled "Investigation of Un-American Propaganda Activity in the United States Hearings before a Special Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives, 76th Congress, First Session, on House Resolution 282," the following appears.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

"Mr. Whitley:"—

I want to interpolate and ask you who Mr. Whitley is?

A. That was Ray Whitley, Chief Counsel of the Dies Committee, at that time.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. (Reading)

"Mr. Whitley:"—addressing you, says: "Mr. McCuistion, have you ever talked to Harry Bridges, had any conversation with him?

"Mr. McCuistion: Yes; at various times since 1935.

"Mr. Whitley: Will you describe some of those conversations and the meetings?

"Mr. McCuistion: The first conversation that I ever had with Harry Bridges at any length of time was in 1935 at San [2067] Francisco. That was shortly before Bridges was taken to the hospital with a perforated ulcer, and Bridges and I met just before the meeting of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific, and at that time I was introduced to Bridges by Pyle, of the Radio Telegraphists, and several others, and Bridges proceeded to ask me why I was there and what I was doing on the west coast."

Did you give that testimony? A. Yes, sir.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Will you please reconcile the testimony that I have just read, which you gave before the Dies Committee, to the effect that you were first introduced in your first conversation with Bridges by a man named Pyle, with the testimony that you have given here that you were first introduced to Bridges by a man named Frederick Reed on Clay Street?

A. You are putting the wrong interpretation on that testimony right there. I stated, what I told you yesterday, on that I met Bridges later on at Party headquarters. I stated there were other persons present. I recall Roy Pyle was one of those persons that were present. Another introduction took place. Pyle was also a member of the Maritime Federation. I think he represented the Radio Telegraphists.

Q. Is it now your testimony that the reference in the Dies Committee report to Pyle, and the meeting at which Pyle introduced Bridges to you, was a reference to the meeting at [2068] the Communist Party headquarters on the night of the day when Frederick Reed and you and Bridges had the conversation?

A. This is the way I recall it——

Q. (Interposing) Please——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Let the witness answer. He was beginning to answer.

Mr. Gladstein: I think the question can be answered "yes" or "no" and he can explain.

Presiding Inspector: I think so, too.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Gladstein: I will ask the reporter to read the question.

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

A. I won't answer that directly "yes" or "no" because I had notes to refresh my memory at the Dies Committee. I have no notes here. At that time I know I met Pyle during the course of the day, now that it is recalled, but whether at headquarters that night, whether he was one of the men there, or whether he was down on the street where Frederick Reed was, I couldn't say. But I do know Pyle, I know him as a Communist—the world does—and he admits it himself.

Mr. Gladstein: Mr. Reporter, will you please read back about two questions, or three questions, where I asked the witness to reconcile the two answers, and he gives a statement to the general effect that he now recalls that he met Pyle down [2069] at the Communist Party headquarters?

The statement I now make is not intended as evidence, but merely to indicate to the reporter what portion of the testimony I wish read.

Presiding Inspector: Oh, yes. Off the record.

(Whereupon the portion of the record referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Presiding Inspector: Now, counsel puts the emphasis on the word "first". He says you have testified twice, testified to different occasions as being the first time that you met Bridges. Now, how do you reconcile that?

A. I would like to be able to read that section of my testimony to the Dies Committee to refresh my recollection on it. But, as I remember talking to the Dies Committee, I said I had a number of meetings with Bridges since 1935. As I recall it, the first time I met him I was introduced by Roy Pyle and several others. As I recall it, I also mentioned yesterday, that the first time I met him was when I was sitting on the railing with Frederick Reed. Well, naturally, I would attach more importance to Roy Pyle's introduction subsequently—maybe later on in the day, maybe a few minutes after that—and also at the headquarters that night, than I would to Frederick Reed's. Frederick Reed was a rank and file seaman who has no labor record whatsoever; while Roy Pyle is a labor official and, as such, the emphasis was placed on the questioning [2070] before the Dies Committee, on labor officials. They weren't interested in Frederick Reed, or anybody like that, but labor officials who were Communists.

I stated a minute ago that I met him in Company with Frederick Reed, and there were probably 15 or 20 people that day I talked to, and I can't recall every one I talked to. I may have talked to 15 or may have talked to 20.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. McCuistion, you testified a few moments ago, and you heard the reporter read it back to you, that you now recall that Mr. Pyle introduced Bridges to you at the Communist Party headquarters, is that true?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. That is possibly true. I say, I am not positive, but to the best of my memory I met 15 or 20 people that night. Bridges knows we were together that night; Bridges knows we were together subsequently.

Presiding Inspector: Don't get into an argument.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Is it your testimony now that Pyle introduced Bridges to you at the Communist Party headquarters that evening?

A. That is to the best of my recollection, that he introduced me some time during the day, and it was at the Party headquarters in the evening.

Q. Did you mention to the Dies Committee in your testimony that you had met Harry Bridges in the Communist Party headquarters [2071] in San Francisco? A. No, I did not.

Q. Why not?

A. I wasn't asked that question.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to the question "Why not?"—Was he asked the question?

Presiding Inspector: I think that is not quite fair.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Did you have notes with you, you say?

A. I had certain notes of names of people.

Presiding Inspector: Isn't this very immaterial?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Gladstein: Quite material; on the contrary, quite material.

Presiding Inspector: Why?

Mr. Gladstein: It is material because it goes to this point: That there is contradictory testimony given here by the witness on two occasions.

Presiding Inspector: That is a point on which a person naturally wouldn't charge his memory with. Incidentally, those things occur with any man. This, of course, is subject to your claim that there is a falsification. You have made the point so why continue?

Mr. Gladstein: I will continue with some other aspect then. [2072]

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, yesterday you testified, Mr. McCuistion, that when you first met Harry Bridges the question of your expulsion from the Communist Party sometime previously was raised by Mr. Bridges. I read to you now from the bottom of page 6745 and the top of page 6746 of your testimony before the Dies Committee. I will preface the reading, so that you will understand what I am discussing, with a remark simply that this follows directly after the quotation that I read to you earlier, the latter portion of which is to the effect that you were introduced to Bridges, in your first conversation with Bridges, by Pyle, and several others were there, and that Bridges asked you why you were on the West Coast.

This is what follows, quoting now:

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

"This was shortly after I had been expelled from the Communist Party for technically refusing to an agreement to follow a line of the Party. I told him I had been put out and I was going to go on a long trip to the Orient and think it over."

Please reconcile that statement with your statement in this case to the effect that Bridges——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Your Honor, I object to the question for the reason that the answer is incomplete. Counsel has not completed the answer given by the witness. I think the witness should have the entire testimony. [2073]

Mr. Gladstein: Just a moment. I am asking for that portion——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) I am speaking to the Court.

Mr. Gladstein: I am conducting——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Just a moment. The objection is made. If this isn't the whole answer I will exclude it. Read the whole answer.

Mr. Gladstein: I don't want to read the whole answer because a part of it covers other matters, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: Well, let me see it.

Mr. Gladstein: I will let you see the whole answer. Why should I warn the witness in advance about the contradictory testimony he has given at two different hearings.

Mr. Del Guercio: I object to counsel's statement, and ask it be stricken from the record. It isn't contradictory.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: Just a minute.

(The document was handed to the Presiding Inspector.)

Presiding Inspector: I think I will let him answer the question.

Mr. Del Guercio: I still object, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I know.

Mr. Del Guercio: And I take exception.

Presiding Inspector: Very well.

Mr. Gladstein: Would you read the question, please, [2074] Miss Reporter?

Presiding Inspector: You can read the balance of it when you take him on redirect.

Do you have the question in mind, Mr. Witness?

The Witness: Yes, I have the question in mind he asked.

That bears out just what I said yesterday, that I came to the West Coast to make a trip to go to sea, that I wanted no further activity on the waterfront or in any kind of union work or any activity. I wanted to go to sea.

Presiding Inspector: No, I don't think you get the drift of it.

Mr. Gladstein: I will state it again.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Please reconcile the discrepancy between your testimony in this case that Bridges raised the question of your expulsion from the Communist Party with the testimony before the Dies Committee to the effect that you raised that question and told him that you had been expelled and were going for a long trip to the Orient?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. I didn't say that.

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute before you answer.

I object to the question. In the first place it presupposes a discrepancy. There is no such discrepancy in this record. There is no contradictory testimony on that point.

Presiding Inspector: I don't remember the exact details [2075] in that respect.

Mr. Gladstein: Of yesterday's testimony on this, you mean, your Honor?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: I will refresh your recollection. I happen to have a note of it.

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, I will not accept the note.

Mr. Gladstein: I mean, I have a note that gives the page on which Mr. McCuistion testified and I won't read my note. I will read——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) Just let me see it.

Mr. Gladstein: At the top of page 1929.

Presiding Inspector: I will get the testimony in just a moment.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please, there is nothing in this——

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I just want to examine it myself.

Where is it, Mr. Gladstein?

Mr. Gladstein: Beginning at the top of page 1929, and I am afraid to get a complete grasp of it, your Honor, you will have to read that entire page and the following page, a portion of the following page.

Presiding Inspector: (Examining transcript) Now, what [2076] was the question, Miss Reporter?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Presiding Inspector: Well, don't you think you better put it more in the words of the witness, that Bridges mentioned your expulsion?

Mr. Gladstein: I will do that, your Honor, yes.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Please reconcile, Mr. McCuistion, the testimony you have given in this proceeding to the effect that Bridges mentioned to you that you had been shortly before expelled from the Communist Party with your testimony before the Dies Committee to the effect that you told Bridges you had been put out of the Communist Party and that you were going to go on a long trip to the Orient?

Presiding Inspector: Now, when was this conversation, how many years ago?

Mr. Gladstein: It is very significant——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) How many years ago was it?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Gladstein: Ask the witness. He claims that——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) No; I ask you how many years ago was it?

Mr. Gladstein: Well, he claims it happened in 1935.

Presiding Inspector: Yes. If you want the question you may have it. [2077]

Mr. Del Guercio: Your Honor, may I——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) No; you just want to except or object?

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, I had a point there.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I will hear that.

Mr. Del Guercio: There is nothing in this question that counsel was reading wherein he says that he told Bridges that he had been expelled from the Communist Party. What the transcript shows, it says this, the witness speaking:

"This was shortly after I had been expelled from the Communist Party for technically refusing to an agreement to follow a line."

Counsel says——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) Continue, please. The following page says, "I told him I had been put out."

Mr. Del Guercio: "And was going on a long trip to the Orient."

Mr. Gladstein: That is just what I said.

Presiding Inspector: Now, let's not get in a dispute as to what was meant by certain testimony which may or may not have different implications. I will allow the question.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Gladstein: Will you read the question, please?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.) [2078]

A. The testimony itself reconciles it. The testimony before the Dies Committee states that Bridges asked me what I was doing out here.

Presiding Inspector: Well, now, you——

The Witness: (Interposing) And I have been an active official.

Presiding Inspector: You think that you find no discrepancy?

The Witness: I find no discrepancy whatsoever.

Presiding Inspector: Therefore, you don't care to reconcile?

The Witness: I don't care to reconcile.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You claim, then, that both your statements to the Dies Committee and your statements here on that subject are true?

A. They are true. The wording may be a little different but it is true. It is reporting a conversation that I don't claim to remember accurately. I have no shorthand notes of the conversation.

Q. Now, you recall, don't you, Mr. McCuistion, that you were giving this testimony concerning Bridges because of the fact that you had been asked what knowledge of information you had as to whether he was a Communist. You re- [2079] call that, don't you?

A. Read the question. I don't recall that.

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I don't find that he was asked that question by the Dies Committee. I think I ought to know.

Mr. Gladstein: If I read any question from the transcript I will certainly call it to counsel's attention. I have a right to ask questions without referring to the transcript if I want to.

Presiding Inspector: Yes, you have a right to ask questions without referring to the transcript, but, of course, you can't lead him in that respect.

Mr. Gladstein: Well—

Presiding Inspector: You may ask his recollection.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

Presiding Inspector: But if you are asking for certain testimony heretofore given and your question imports that the testimony was given, then, you must read from the transcript.

Mr. Gladstein: All right, I will put it this way, withdraw that question, and ask you this:

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. In your testimony before the Dies Committee, or while you were there, weren't you asked how you know that Bridges is a Communist? [2080]

A. I don't remember whether I was asked that question in so many words. I remember the reason I told them that I thought Bridges was a Communist.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. What was that?

A. That was that leading members of the Communist Party had so told me and so informed me. That is the only way you know anything. The only way I know you are a lawyer is because you are sitting there asking me questions. I haven't seen your diploma.

Q. Well, now, just to refresh your recollection, calling your attention to page 6522 of that same transcript, Mr. McCuistion, the question is as follows:

"Mr. Voorhies——" who was he?

A. A Congressman from California, member of the Dies Committee, a Democrat.

Q. Who asked you questions, among others?

A. Various members had the right to ask questions, yes.

Q. All right. On that page the following appears:

"Mr. Voorhies: Mr. McCuistion, how do you know that Bridges was a Communist at that time?"

Mr. Del Guercio: Now, if your Honor please, just a short time ago counsel said that he was not referring or reading from the record. Now, it is obvious here that he was and he has not only misled the witness, he has misled the Court. [2081]

Presiding Inspector: I will take it. Go ahead.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you recall being asked that question?

A. I don't recall it. Let me look at the testimony and I will take it—if you say you are reading from the record I will take your word for it.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Oh, no. Your attorneys here will follow me. They have a copy.

Presiding Inspector: No, just a moment.

A. They are not my attorneys.

Presiding Inspector: You ought to withdraw that.

Mr. Gladstein: I will withdraw it. Mr. Del Guercio and Major Schofield, I am sure, will correct me if I have read it wrong. I will re-read it, page 6522 at the bottom of the page.

Do you have that, Mr. Del Guercio?

Mr. Del Guercio: We don't have that. The statement we made, you were deceiving the Court.

Presiding Inspector: No, no, we can't have quarreling here.

Br. Gladstein: Do you have that before you?

Presiding Inspector: Go ahead.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I don't want to read until he is ready.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. All right, Mr. Voorhies asked you a question, Mr. [2082] McCuistion. He says, "Mr. McCuistion, how do you know that Bridges was a Communist at that time?"

A. Yes, I will say I was asked that question; somebody asked me that question. If you are reading it must be there.

Q. You testified a good deal about Bridges in that case, didn't you?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, if your Honor please, that is argumentative. "Well, you testified a good deal in that case."

Presiding Inspector: Oh, yes. Well, it doesn't make a great deal of difference; it is a very slight matter. I think he can answer that.

Mr. Gladstein: Can you answer?

A. Yes, I testified. I answered every question that was asked me.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Yes. Now, after you gave the testimony which appears on page 6745 of the Dies Commitee report in which you say that the very first conversation you ever had with Bridges was when Pyle introduced you, on the following page, page 6746——

Do you want to make an objection?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes, I do. I want to know wherein on page 6745 the witness said that the very first conversation he had with Mr. Bridges——

[2083]

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) All right, I will read it.

Presiding Inspector: No, well, I don't think you need to take time for that. Go ahead and ask the question.

Mr. Gladstein: Thank you, your Honor.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. On page 6745 you testified that the first conversation that you ever had with Harry Bridges was in 1935 when you met Bridges before the Maritime Federation Convention and you were introduced to Bridges by Pyle of the Radio Telegraphers.

On the following page you were asked "Did you have any subsequent conversation with him, Mr. McCuistion" and your answer was "The next conversation I had with Harry Bridges was the one I related at Madison Square Garden, the time of the Madison Square Garden meeting when we discussed the Communists generally, and also the question came up in the course of that time that while I was pretty well straightened out, why, I did not come back in the Party."

Do you recall giving that testimony?

A. Yes, I recall giving that testimony.

Q. Why didn't you tell the Dies Committee about the conversation you had with Bridges that you claim in this case down on Clay Street when Frederick Reed introduced you, or the conversation you claim you had with Bridges at the Com-

[2084] munist Party headquarters that night?

A. If you will read the entire testimony instead of just reading a few excerpts you will find that that whole thing is explained in the Dies Committee very fully. This testimony there, and I have read that Volume 11 myself since that time, isn't together in the exactly exact order in which it was given. If you remember, you read a question and an answer just a few minutes ago and in that question was whether I had ever talked to Bridges and I said several times in 1935, which covered that various—the various meetings, the two meetings that day. Several could be two there. There may be a question of five minutes discussion here or five minutes discussion there, and yet you come over here and you read another question that is entirely foreign. If you want to know the real truth of the matter, it is that Mr. Whitley—and he will verify this for the Judge or for the Government or for yourself—was asked by certain members of the Committee not to go into the Bridges matter any too far because the decision, I don't think, had been finally handed down at that time in the Bridges' case, and that they thought that this was a matter for the Government Courts. Anyway, the questions on Bridges were shut off very sharply and several times they were renewed by various members of the Committee, such as Congressman Voorhies. [2085]

Now, if you will go three or four pages back in that testimony and three or four pages ahead and read all the questions at once and sum them up you will get the right answers. You are getting the right answers here. I am not lying to you. I don't lie to anybody. I don't have to. [2086]

Q. If I do, Mr. McCuistion, go three pages or four pages in each direction from the point where I have been reading from the Dies Committee records, will I find any mention of these two meetings, the one on Clay Street, and the other at Communist Party headquarters?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I object to that question. He hasn't shown the witness the testimony.

Presiding Inspector: He is testing his recollection. He may ask him. You are now assuming that these were all considered separate conversations?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: Although ~~they~~ occurred in the same day?

Mr. Gladstein: There is no indication that they did.

Presiding Inspector: There is no indication that they didn't.

Mr. Gladstein: I will ask the witness that later.

Presiding Inspector: All right.

Mr. Gladstein: I will ask that later. If he says he was introduced to Harry Bridges three times in one day the first time, that is all right with me.

Presiding Inspector: He said twice.

Mr. Gladstein: On the same day.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

By Mr. Gladstein: [2087]

Q. First of all, I want an answer to the last question, which is, you claim that if I——

Mr. Del Guercio: (Interposing) Let the reporter read the question.

Presiding Inspector: I will let him restate it. That means the technically withdraws the question unanswered.

Mr. Gladstein: I will not withdraw the question.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

The question can be read by the reporter if counsel wants to be technical.

Presiding Inspector: You don't need to do that. You can withdraw the question and ask it again. Which would you prefer to do?

Mr. Gladstein: I will ask the question.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Do you claim that if I go three or four pages in both directions from the point where I have been reading from the Dies Committee record that I will find any mention of the meeting between you and Frederick Reed and Harry Bridges, or the meeting at Communist Party headquarters between you, Bridges and others?

A. I don't claim that; no. You might and you might not. It might be a good idea for you to read it.

Q. Do you claim that—let me ask you this—if I read the whole testimony that you gave before the Dies Committee, everything, do you claim that I would find any mention of either [2088] your meeting with Frederick Reed, Bridges and yourself, or your meeting at Communist Party headquarters with Bridges and others?

A. I say, I don't know. I don't recall as directly as that. I know you will find reference to my meeting with Bridges, but whether I said the exact place I met him or not, I can't remember that. I might have met him at Communist headquarters, I might have met him down town, but I know I met him at Communist Party headquarters and

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

I know I met him on Clay Street. Whether I said that to the Dies Committee or not, I wouldn't know until I was able to refresh my memory by reading over the testimony.

Q. You testified yesterday that concerning the 1936 meeting at Madison Square Garden——

Presiding Inspector: May I see the report of the Dies Committee for a moment?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

(The report referred to was passed to the Presiding Inspector.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. You were testifying about the Madison Square Garden meeting in 1936. Is this a correct summary of what you said: That the Communists, or the members of the Communist Party with whom you were meeting, decided that Bridges had to come to the east, and they had you telephone to Innes to get hold [2089] of Bridges first?

A. That is practically a summary of what I said.

Q. You were not a member of the Communist Party at that time? A. I was not.

Q. Was Innes, to your knowledge, a member of the Communist Party at that time?

A. Innes was not.

Q. So that the Communist Party had you, a non-Communist, call another non-Communist—you can wait until I finish.

A. I haven't said anything.

Q. You started to.

A. You are a mind reader.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't think that admonition was necessary.

Presiding Inspector: Never mind. These matters always occur in trials.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. (Continuing) ——that the Communist Party had you, a non-Communist, telephone Innes, another non-Communist, to get hold of Bridges?

A. Yes.

Q. When you said you spoke to Innes was he in San Francisco at that time?

A. No, no, no, no. [2090]

Q. From where did you speak to him?

A. The first call to Innes was a call to Innes at San Pedro. That was made not by me. That wasn't the first call. When I spoke to Innes I was with Tommy Raye, after the decision had been made by the Party.

Q. Where was Innes when you spoke to him?

A. He was in Bridges' office.

Q. And later on you say Innes called you back?

A. Innes called back from a pay station to a pay station.

Q. And you spoke to Innes?

A. I spoke to Innes.

Q. He was in San Francisco at the time?

A. He was in San Francisco at that time.

Q. And he put Bridges on the phone?

A. He put Bridges on the phone and Raye talked to Bridges.

Q. That is your testimony, is it?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. That is my testimony.

Q. Can you tell us the date of that?

A. I cannot. However, there are certain records of that. I testified before a Federal Grand Jury concerning that matter and I think it is a matter of record. That was a Federal Grand Jury in Washington, D. C. I think they have a few telephone records on that thing. [2091]

Q. Can't you give us your best recollection as to the date with relationship, say, to the meeting itself?

A. I cannot. That took place before the meeting. I was a busy man, a member of the Strike Committee, and I was in full charge of investigation at that time. I had to cover a good many ports of the East Coast, in addition to coordinating the work between the non-Communists and the Communists on the Strike Committee. I had a pretty busy job. I can't recall the exact date.

Presiding Inspector: I don't think he asked for the exact date. I think he is asking for your best recollection as to how long it was before the meeting at which Bridges spoke.

The Witness: I would say roughly a couple or three weeks.

Presiding Inspector: That is your best recollection?

The Witness: Yes, sir.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Two or three weeks before the actual meeting? A. Yes.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. It wouldn't be more?

A. I wouldn't say so; no.

Q. It wouldn't be less?

Presiding Inspector: He said he has given you his best recollection. He explained that he has no definite recollection. I do not see any object in pressing that. We have got to try the case with some knowledge of human memories, recollections, [2092] and that sort of thing; fundamental psychology.

Mr. Gladstein: I will bear in mind your Honor's admonition.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. McCuistion, you said yesterday that concerning your relationship with the National Maritime Union, until you were brought into court here you had never learned of the substance of the resolution expelling you, or purporting to expel you, except that you had heard some hearsay, or some indirect information about it. That was correct, wasn't it? A. That is correct.

Q. Can you remember what that indirect information or hearsay was?

A. Oh, I had members of the Union come up and tell me, "Mac, they put through a resolution expelling you." And I told them, like I told you, that they couldn't expel me because I wasn't a member of the Union. Perhaps I was told about it maybe by 100 different guys. But as to seeing the actual wording of the resolution, I haven't seen

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

if. I haven't seen it yet. I just heard you read it. I haven't even read the proceedings of that convention. I am not that much interested.

Q. You learned about this only from what other people told you? A. Yes.

Q. You didn't read about that in any official document [2093] given to you? A. No.

Q. Or in any official document of any kind connected with the Union? A. No.

Q. Does the Union have an official document, publication?

A. Document, publication—they have a publication, certainly—The Pilot—and the seamen refer to it as the Junior Daily Worker.

Q. Did you learn about your expulsion from The Pilot?

A. I don't read The Pilot regularly. I read it when someone happens to hand me a copy.

Q. Will you please answer the question? You can answer that "yes" or "no".

A. I probably read in in The Pilot. There were a lot of columns on me in The Pilot. I read about myself every now and then.

Presiding Inspector: If you do not remember reading it in The Pilot just say so.

The Witness: I don't recall.

Presiding Inspector: He doesn't know whether it was in The Pilot or not. That isn't evidence on that point.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I will call your attention, Mr. McCuistion, to your [2094] testimony before the Dies Committee, the date of which, incidentally, I have not heretofore given. It appears, however, that you gave your testimony on October 30, 1939, and I think the following day. I haven't checked through. Is that correct, two consecutive days?

A. About three following days; I don't remember.

Q. On page 6730, of that record, I find this:

"Mr. Whitley: Were you subsequently expelled from the NMU at the New Orleans convention?

"Mr. McCuistion: The only thing that I know about it is that I read about it in The Pilot, that they expelled me by resolution. They entered a resolution in the last session of the convention after I had walked out, and said that I could not participate in it; that they would not let it be run on a democratic basis, as the record shows, and after that they entered a resolution declaring myself and half a dozen others automatically suspended for 14 years."

You gave that testimony, of course?

A. Certainly, I gave the testimony. You are reading it there. And since that was just a few months after it happened why I probably did read it in The Pilot.

Q. You think your recollection of the events concerning which you testified was better before the Dies Committee, of course, than today?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. They were a little bit fresher, especially, relative [2095] to my Union activities, because they both took place in 1939. I read The Pilot today if I can get a hold of a copy. I will read it tonight if I could get hold of a copy. I don't remember what was in it—just like remembering what is in the San Francisco newspaper.

Q. How many times were you expelled from the Communist Party?

A. Three or four times—I don't know. I never did get along any too good with them.

Q. Let me see. You testified yesterday——

A. (Interposing) I can give it to you exact now. I was expelled in 1930. I was expelled in 1935. I dropped out of the Party and was subsequently—the Party says they don't let you drop out. If they drop out they expel you as an absentee. In my early days in the Party, back in the early '20s, I couldn't remember the exact date of expulsion. So we will say roughly, three times. Possibly they slipped in an expulsion or two since then; I don't know.

Q. I will call your attention to page 2017 of your testimony yesterday:

"Q. I want to summarize and get this clear. Would it be correct, then, on the basis of your recollection that you first joined in 1921 or 1922 and remained a member until approximately 1924 or 1925?"

Presiding Inspector: What are you reading from? [2096]

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Gladstein: From the transcript of yesterday's testimony.

Presiding Inspector: All right.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. (Continuing reading)

"A. That is approximately correct, yes.

"Q. And what happened then?

"A. Well, as I say, I had never been very active. Just for lack of interest in what they were doing, I let the thing slide.

"Q. You mean that you resigned or quit?

"A. No, I just ceased to be a member. I didn't take the trouble of quitting. They might have dropped me later on after I left. I don't know. I just didn't bother to look up meetings or attend meetings or worry about what they were doing or anything else.

"Q. You mean that you didn't formally resign?

"A. No.

"Q. And you were not expelled or anything of that sort?

"A. Not to my knowledge, no, sir."

Is it still your testimony that as to the first time you severed your connections with the Communist Party you were not expelled?

A. Knowing the Communist party as I do, I wasn't told I was expelled. I didn't read about it in the Daily Worker. I [2097] know it is the habit of the Communist Party today that when a man drops out to expel him.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. As far as you know at the present time you were never expelled when you dropped out of the Communist Party in 1924 or in 1925?

Presiding Inspector: What do you mean by that question? From his knowledge of their practice, do you mean?

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking for his knowledge.

Presiding Inspector: Knowledge. You are asking for his information.

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking for his knowledge because yesterday he said "Not to my knowledge."

Presiding Inspector: But that is very ambiguous.

Mr. Gladstein: You mean his statement?

Presiding Inspector: I mean your question.

Mr. Gladstein: In what way is it ambiguous?

Presiding Inspector: I think it is ambiguous in this way: He has testified here on knowledge, but I should think it was "information" from the course of the conduct of the Communist Party. It is possible that at the other time you are asking for his knowledge from direct information given him. Now, the two blend. But, as I understand it, you are now differentiating between them.

Mr. Gladstein: I will abandon this line of examination. [2098] It isn't important anyway.

Presiding Inspector: I do not think it is important. I do not want to cut you off if you think there is anything in it. I think the question should be very clear as to what you mean because he has testified that from his knowledge of the customs of the Party and he says he was then expelled.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, you said, in your testimony yesterday, that the Waterfront Worker was edited by the people in New York. What did you mean by that?

A. I mean that they were responsible to the higher Party committees for the proper line being carried out in all publications, all Maritime publications of the Party fractions. In other words, they would send us finished copies to New York. As long as they hewed to the line pretty straight why there would be no howl about it. Maybe a suggestion would come in. But when they began getting off the line then was when the National Fraction, which had the power, actually sent them the orders that they had to write in such and such a manner about such and such a thing.

Q. What do you mean by the word "edited"?

A. Why by that I mean to supervise. I mean "edit" in the sense that an Editor of one of the papers in the City here supervises the contents of that paper; that he can cut out two or three lines of a story, or the whole paragraph, or the whole [2199] story, if he wants to. We had that power over the Waterfront Worker.

Q. You mean the reporter has to submit his story to the Editor, who goes over it before it appears?

A. Yes. If it gets by the Editor it is the

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Editor's hard luck, not the reporter's generally. I am not a newspaper man. I cannot qualify as an expert. But that is the sense in which I have used the word "edit".

Q. You are talking about before publication?

A. Not necessarily.

Mr. Del Guercio: There is no such inference.

Mr. Gladstein: I am asking.

A. (Continuing) I said we got the finished copy. We read it. As long as the Waterfront Worker followed the line correctly, all right, we said nothing about it; but the minute it didn't, why then we assumed stricter supervision over it. We had two members of the National Fraction here in the City of San Francisco directly responsible for looking over what went in the Waterfront Worker before it went out. That was Harry Hynes and Tommy Raye.

Q. Did you in the east ever get copies of the Waterfront Worker in advance of publication?

A. Two or three times; yes. That was during the discussion, the argument between Harry Bridges, Tommy Raye and Harry Hynes, when they had the argument with the District Bureau [2100-1] of the Communist Party here over the line of the paper. At that time we insisted that it be sent to the east coast, a dummy copy of it be sent to the East Coast, so that we could look it over before it was mimeographed here; before the stencils were even cut.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: That was not the usual practice?

The Witness: That was not the usual practice; no.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. When was the paper first published?

A. I couldn't tell you the exact date of its first publication.

Q. I didn't ask for the exact date. Give me your best recollection of the approximate date?

A. The approximate date was two years after the strike; I should say around the early part of '32 or the latter part of '31—it might have still been in existence.

Q. I don't know whether I asked you yesterday, in connection with the times that you have been arrested or convicted, whether you were ever arrested for and convicted of riot in the city of Baltimore in 1934?

A. Yes, sir; I was an official of the Communist Party and was arrested, together with three other Communists, one of them Al Yates, at present a Communist and a Union official in this city. The other two names I don't recall. We were arrested and convicted as Communists for inciting to riot. [2102]

Presiding Inspector: That answers the question.

Mr. Gladstein: The word "yes" answered it, but the witness wanted to make a speech.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I also wanted to ask you whether, in 1934, you were arrested in Buffalo and charged with arson?

A. No, sir; I was not charged with arson in Buffalo at any time.

Q. Were you charged with arson anywhere else?

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you arrested for arson?

A. I was never arrested for arson anywhere.

Q. Were you ever held for arson but not tried?

A. I was never held for arson.

Q. Were you ever arrested in Buffalo?

A. I was arrested in Buffalo and charged with assault.

Q. Once or more than once?

A. I was arrested, charged with vagrancy later. All of this took place while I was a Communist Party organizer.

Presiding Inspector: Didn't he testify about that?

Mr. Gladstein: I don't recall that he did.

Presiding Inspector: I think he did.

Mr. Gladstein: I am sure I didn't ask him about Baltimore: maybe I am wrong.

Presiding Inspector: You asked about Buffalo. [2103]

Mr. Gladstein: You would remember that.

Presiding Inspector: I would remember that: yes.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Gladstein: I have another topic to take up. Does your Honor want to take the morning recess?

Presiding Inspector: We will take a short recess.

(Whereupon a short recess was taken.)

[2104]

Mr. Del Guercio: If the Court please, a subpoena was issued for the appearance of Jim O'Neill at 10:00 o'clock this morning by the United States District Court Judge. I would like you to ascertain whether Jim O'Neill is present.

Presiding Inspector: Is James O'Neill present in the room? Jim O'Neill? (No response).

No one responds.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I ask the clerk, then, there be prepared to Judge Lauderback——

Presiding Inspector: Yes, if you will prepare a certificate I will certify that I called him after being sure a subpoena had been issued and served by the Federal District Court.

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes, a subpoena was served yesterday afternoon.

Presiding Inspector: Served yesterday afternoon?

Mr. Del Guercio: Yes. May I ask that he be called in the corridor also?

Presiding Inspector: Yes. Will you call in the corridor? Call loudly; leave the door open and call loudly for James or Jim O'Neill. Call loudly so I can hear it.

(Whereupon the name of James or Jim

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

O'Neill was called in the corridor by a Patrol Officer.)

Presiding Inspector: That is all right, Mr. Officer. He doesn't respond. [2105]

The Officer: No one answers, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: That is all right.

Mr. Del Guercio: May the record show that Jim O'Neill doesn't respond?

Presiding Inspector: Yes, neither in the Court room nor in the corridor.

Now, you may examine, Mr. Gladstein. We expect to adjourn promptly, to take a recess promptly at half past 12:00 today.

Mr. Gladstein: All right, your Honor.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, Mr. McCuistion, when is the first time that you spoke to any representative of the Federal Bureau of Investigation with respect to any information you claim to have concerning Mr. Bridges?

A. Subsequent to July 1939, in July or August 1939.

Q. Was that during the hearing of the last trial against Mr. Bridges?

A. That was during the hearing, to the best of my memory. If you will refresh me with the dates of the last hearing, then, I will know. It was in July or August. If the hearing was taking place then it was during the hearing.

Mr. Gladstein: The hearing, as I recall it—I may be wrong—started in July and went through until sometime in [2106] September, your Honor.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: I haven't the record here.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

Presiding Inspector: Nor have I seen it. I don't care to see it. I have read Dean Landis' report. He gives the dates there.

Mr. Gladstein: Yes. Well, so we can have the record clear on that——

Mrs. King: May I call to the attention of your Honor and to the reporter that on page two of the report of James M. Landis in his findings and conclusions as Trial Examiner in the matter of Harry Bridges he states that the hearings were opened on July 10, 1939 and that these hearings continued almost uninterruptedly for eleven weeks, and that they were finally closed on September 14, 1939.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Then, with that information——

A. (Interposing): It was during the hearings, yes.

Q. Now, who was it that you spoke to who represented the FBI?

A. Special Agent, Charles Weeks.

Q. Where? A. In New Orleans.

Q. And how did you happen to speak to Mr. Weeks? [2107]

A. I discussed the matter with Sherman Lemmon of the Maritime Commission and I had already made the acquaintance of Mr. Delaney, and at their suggestion I went to see Mr. Weeks.

Q. Was Mr. Weeks stationed in New Orleans as a representative of the FBI?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. He was Agent in charge at that time, to the best of my memory.

Q. When you spoke to him was anybody else present?

A. I don't recall. Mr. Weeks is in the Court room. I don't recall whether there was anyone else in his office. He had a very big office. I was sitting facing him. There might have been a stenographer there; I don't think there was. I think it was strictly a discussion between Mr. Weeks and myself.

Q. How long——

A. (Interposing): Mr. Lemmon was present for a little while, I think, but he went out.

Q. How long were you there with him?

A. Oh, a maximum of forty-five minutes. I should judge, thirty, forty-five minutes.

Q. What took place?

A. A discussion about Bridges, a discussion about Communist activities in general; that was about all. [2108]

Q. Well, you came voluntarily to him?

A. I came voluntarily to him, yes.

Q. All right, and you announced that you wanted to see Mr. Weeks, and I take it, that he granted you an interview?

A. Yes, that is about right.

Q. All right, when you met the gentleman what did you say? What did you tell him you had come to see him about?

A. I told him I came to talk to him about Communist activities in general and what they might mean to the labor movement, to the American Government as a whole, and we discussed them, but to go into a lengthy discussion I can sit here and have a discussion and I possibly would get a few words right that I said to him, but to remember the whole discussion I can't do it.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. I am only interested—if you will recall the questions I asked you, Mr. McCuistion—in what was discussed concerning Mr. Bridges.

Mr. Del Guercio: That is not correct. The last question was not in that form.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, all right, I am interested in what you said to him with respect to Mr. Bridges?

A. Practically what I have said in this hearing here today. [2109]

Q. Did you or he raise the name of Bridges first?

A. That would be hard to say, since Bridges was the main—was one of the main objects of discussion, as to who raised it first. He was not—he didn't have me on the pan, was not giving me any third degree, or anything, and it was a friendly conversation, and the question of who raised it first I don't know.

Q. Is it your best recollection that there was or that there was not a stenographer present at any time during your conversation with Mr. Weeks?

A. My best recollection is there was no steno-rapher present. There might have been another agent present, and Mr. Lemmon might have been there part of the conversation.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. On what note did that conversation end?

A. On what note did the conversation end?

Q. Yes. Were any arrangements, for example, made for the two of you to see each other again?

A. No. In fact, if I remember correctly, I told Mr. Weeks at that time that I was not interested particularly in the——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): Well, there weren't any arrangements?

The Witness: No arrangements made whatsoever of any kind, no commitments made on the part of either one of us.

By Mr. Gladstein: [2110]

Q. Did you see Mr. Weeks again after that, concerning Harry Bridges?

A. I don't recall seeing him again after that until I saw him here in the Court room, here in San Francisco.

Q. Did you see any other representative of the FBI concerning the Bridges case after the one that you have just testified about?

A. Yes, I talked a short time after that—a week or two weeks after that I talked to Special Agent Sackett who was then in charge of the—who had relieved Mr. Weeks—I understand Mr. Weeks had been transferred somewhere else—and covered practically the same grounds.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Did you go up to Mr.—I didn't get that name. A. Sackett, S-a-c-k-e-t-t.

Q. Did you go up to Mr. Sackett's office at his request or as part of your own idea?

A. I went up to Mr. Sackett's office—I guess, I went up to see Mr. Weeks—that was it—and Mr. Weeks had departed and Mr. Sackett was then the agent in charge, and so we discussed the same thing.

Q. And how long did you talk to Mr. Sackett?

A. Perhaps thirty minutes.

Q. This was still during the trial of the Bridges' case?

A. This was still during the trial of the Bridges' [2111] case.

Q. And that case, or Harry Bridges, was discussed as part of your discussion?

A. As part of the discussion.

Q. When is the next time that you spoke to any Special Agent of the FBI concerning the Bridges' case or Harry Bridges?

A. The next time I recall speaking to any of them was in the New York office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation when I went to the office to ascertain if there was any clues to the rumor that I was wanted on a charge of murder.

Q. Will you date that?

A. That was in the month of October, 1939.

Q. Were any arrangements made as a result of your discussion with Mr. Sackett for you to come back?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. There were no arrangements made of any sort whatsoever.

Q. Was there a stenographer present during your discussion with Mr. Sackett?

A. There was not.

Q. Did you give any statement to the FBI on either of the two occasions that you have mentioned?

A. I gave no statement to the FBI, but I understood that Mr. Delaney gave them a copy of the statement I had given him. [2112]

Q. What led you to that understanding?

A. The fact that their discussion showed they had some familiarity with the discussions that I had with Mr. Delaney. It was just a conclusion I drew; maybe I was wrong.

Q. When is the next time after the New York incident that you have just mentioned that you talked with the FBI concerning the Bridges' case or Harry Bridges?

A. When the two Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation visited me in the jail, in the Paris Prison in New Orleans, Louisiana.

Q. When?

A. Sometime between July 1940 and January 1941.

Q. Was this before your trial?

A. Before my trial, yes.

Q. What took place then?

A. It was merely—I was merely asked questions as to my acquaintance with Harry Bridges and questions covering generally my testimony before the Dies Committee, points of information.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. How long did that conversation last?

A. That conversation lasted, perhaps an hour.

Q. Was there any stenographer present?

A. There was no stenographer present.

Q. Were notes taken by either of the FBI Agents of what [2113] was discussed?

A. There were notes taken by both of them, yes.

Q. Do you remember the names of the agents?

A. Special Agent Griffen was one; Special Agent Scott was the other one.

Q. Were you asked to sign any statement?

A. I was not asked to sign any statement.

Q. And you didn't?

A. And I didn't sign any statement.

Q. Was any arrangement made at that conversation for any further interview?

A. There were no arrangements made whatsoever.

Q. When is the next time that you discussed Harry Bridges or the Bridges' case with any representative of the FBI?

A. Well, I presume that Mr. Del Guercio is a representative of the FBI or Immigration. That was when I was subpoenaed and called here.

Q. Well, when was that?

A. I was subpoenaed last week in Port Arthur, Texas, and I arrived here Monday morning.

Q. Have you ever worked with or for the FBI?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, that has been asked and answered before, yesterday, I believe. [2114]

Presiding Inspector: I am not sure about it.

Mr. Gladstein: I don't recall.

Presiding Inspector: Well, if not, I will allow it anyway. It may have been covered. If it has been covered it won't help.

Mr. Gladstein: Do you have the question?

A. I have never worked either with or for the FBI, no.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Well, have you made reports to them or supplied them with information?

A. At various times I have supplied them with information strictly as a citizen, without any commitments on their part or on my part.

Q. What does this information refer to that you were supplying for the FBI in a general way?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, I certainly object to that. Counsel has no right in this proceeding here to ask what kind of information he has given any Governmental agency—he knows that—unless it in in regard to this particular matter.

Mr. Gladstein: I am not asking him to divulge the specific information. I am asking him what kind of information he gave. [2115]

Mr. Del Guercio: Nor the kind, if your Honor please, unless it has to do with this case.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Gladstein: It certainly does, and I will put it in this form:

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Have you ever supplied the FBI with labor information or trade union information?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, trade union or labor information is not involved in this case. We are trying an alien here, to determine whether he is subject to deportation. That is the only issue. Labor unions or labor matters are not involved in this at all, and counsel knows that.

Presiding Inspector: I know, but at the same time we are covering a wide field here.

Mr. Del Guercio: We are not covering a wide field, your Honor. It is counsel that is covering a wide field; we are covering a specific field.

Presiding Inspector: Well, there is a wide field of investigation offered here and I think it should relate in some way to labor matters such as are involved here, Mr. Gladstein. Don't you think so?

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I could say this, your Honor: Of course, there is no point in asking the question after the witness knows what you are seeking, but I may as well state [2116] exactly what I have in mind.

I want to know whether Mr. McCuistion has supplied the Federal Bureau of Investigation with information on trade unions of the character known in labor circles as labor espionage. That is what I want to know, and I think that would be material because it would reflect on the character of the witness.

Presiding Inspector: I am not passing on that one way or the other. It might reflect or it might not reflect.

If Mr. McCuistion has given information in the nature of reports in labor espionage he might answer.

The Witness: I have never given any reports in the nature of labor espionage to the FBI or to any other agency or person in my life.

Presiding Inspector: It is somewhat categorical.

Mr. Gladstein: I would like to have the question answered that I asked, your Honor.

Mr. Del Guercio: I believe the question has been answered, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: With your explanation, doesn't it answer the question?

Mr. Gladstein: No.

Presiding Inspector: Well, then ask it again.

Mr. Gladstein: Would you read the question to refresh me [2117] as to how I put it?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Mr. Gladstein: That is the question I have in mind.

Presiding Inspector: Have you ever supplied the FBI with trade union or labor information?

Mr. Gladstein: Yes.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: In relation to any unions with which you had any connection?

The Witness: Never in my life.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Or with relation to unions with which you did not have a direct or indirect connection?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): Now, we can't go in as broadly—it wouldn't be labor espionage. It wouldn't bear on his character at all, would it, even under your view? Supposing he told something about the Woodworkers in the factories in Maine? Would that have anything to do with this case?

Mr. Gladstein: It depends on just what he did. He might have talked to members of the union, obtained information from them and reported it.

Presiding Inspector: Well, you had a statement that he did not.

Mr. Gladstein: That was a conclusion. He says "I have [2118] never engaged in labor espionage." That is his statement, but the expression "labor espionage", of course, is a broad term. In making my statement to the Court I was using a term which inherently consists of words of conclusion. Now, I wanted to get to the actual facts as to whether he had supplied information that related to trade unions or trade union activities.

Presiding Inspector: Well, is this a general question to test his credibility on this matter or to affect his character?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Gladstein: This is a question going to his character; it is a question going to bias.

Presiding Inspector: I think, if you have any such information you ought to call it to his attention. It would be fairer to do so, at any rate.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, I assure the Court, in the first instance, that any information that Mr. McCuistion has given to the FBI is not in our possession. We do not have it and we do not know anything about it.

Presiding Inspector: All right, you may answer. Answer the question.

A. I have never given the FBI any information regarding union activities of any sort. They have never asked me such a question.

By Mr. Gladstein: [2119]

Q. Have you given the FBI information concerning what you considered Communist activities in trade unions?

A. I have given the FBI information, what I considered un-American activities in unions and in various other places, yes, especially in relation to espionage.

Q. Now, you mentioned earlier this morning that when you were testifying before the Dies Committee you had a lot of notes, I think you said. Did you also have some records?

A. I did have records, 12 suit cases full of them.

Q. From whom did you get them?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. They were, some of them, former records of mine. They were, some of them, records that were given to me by various persons who had been formerly officials of the unions, who had been careful enough to keep copies of everything that went through, and records of various sorts gathered over a period of a number of years.

Q. Were you supplied with any of the materials that you have just mentioned that were in your possession——

Mr. Del Guercio (Interposing): Your Honor, we object to this line of questioning. We are not trying what material he had before the Dies Committee. I repeat again, I think we are getting far afield from the issues involved in this case.

Presiding Inspector: I know, but this is a witness offered by the Government and I will allow his recollections [2120] to be tested to see how much he remembers about these matters and anything that might be taken to reflect on his credibility. I will take it.

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, may I ask here: There was one question that was asked by counsel. He said he was asking those questions to test the witness' character. He aked if he had furnished any information and the witness replied that he had furnished information concerning espionage.

Now, does that go to the witness' character?

Presiding Inspector: Well, the question might have gone to the witness' character, that is, the answer to the question might have gone to the witness' character if it had been answered in a certain way, and that is the theory upon which counsel is asking these questions, I assume. I think I will allow it.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Now, I will re-ask this question, Mr. McCuistion.

The materials that you had in the 12 suit cases when you went to testify before the Dies Committee——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): Of course, I might say further—excuse me for interrupting.

Mr. Gladstein: Of course, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I might say that the answer to his question might possibly be argued by you to go to his good character. [2121]

Mr. Del Guercio: Certainly. Well, I don't want my observation——

Presiding Inspector (Interposing): We will allow the question to be asked.

Mr. Gladstein: Are you ready now?

Presiding Inspector: Yes sir.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Mr. McCuistion, with respect to the materials contained in the 12 suit cases that you had with you at the time you testified before the Dies Committee, were any of those materials supplied to you by Peter Innes? A. Yes, sir.

Q. A substantial portion?

A. A substantial portion of them.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Was Innes a friend of yours?

A. Innes was a friend of mine, yes, sir.

Q. He still is?

A. He still is a friend of mine.

Q. Do you know where he got some or any part of these materials he supplied you?

A. I remember—if I correctly remember——

Mr. Del Guercio (Interposing): I object to that question.

Presiding Inspector: I will take it. Go ahead.

The Witness: If I remember correctly I answered that [2122] question in testimony before the Dies Committee. I stated before the Communists purged Innes he purged the files.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. I asked you this question:

A. (Interposing): That is my answer.

Mr. Gladstein: Just a moment. I will ask that the question be asked again. It doesn't call for what he told the Dies Committee. It calls for an answer now.

Would you read the question, Miss Reporter?

(The question referred to was read by the reporter as above recorded.)

Mr. Gladstein: That could be answered "Yes" or "No".

Presiding Inspector: Do you want it to be answered "Yes" or "No"?

Mr. Gladstein: Sure.

Presiding Inspector: You may answer it.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. Yes.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Isn't it true that some of the materials he obtained and turned over to you were stolen from the home of Joe Curran?

A. It is not true.

Q. Isn't it true that those materials were taken without the consent of Joe Curran, from the home of Joe Curran? [2123]

A. That is not true. At the time those materials were taken Joe Curran didn't have a home. He was just a bum sleeping on the floor part of the time.

Q. What did you mean when you said that Innes purged these records?

A. Innes was in full charge of the records at one time of the Seamen's Defense Committee, and certain of these records related to Innes, and later on when those records were taken over, I would say stolen by members of the Communist Party, working in the office of the National Maritime Union, Innes went one step ahead of them and caught them when they were sleeping and got the records referring to him back so they couldn't be used against him.

Q. Were these union records?

A. They were records of various sorts. They cover everything from personal letters about Harry Bridges and, I think, from Harry Bridges and from Joe Curran, and teletype reports and a little bit of everything.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Q. Did the things that Mr. Innes took include union records?

A. Not official union records, as I recollect; copies of union records, the originals of which the union has files yet.

Q. Were some of these union documents communications to [2124] or from the union?

A. Oh, a few of them were, yes.

Q. That was union property, wasn't it?

Mr. Del Guercio: If your Honor please, we are going pretty far afield there on that. Now, that is a collateral matter and it seems to have been covered.

Presiding Inspector: Well, he can say whether they were union property.

A. They were property of the union membership and Pete Innes was a union member.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. And did you supply the Dies Committee with these records?

A. Such as they cared to use and include in the record I supplied them with.

Q. That included these union documents of whatever character they were?

A. Of whatever character they were, and whatever character——

Q. (Interposing): Did you supply any of those to the FBI?

A. I haven't as yet, but if the FBI wants anything I have got they can have them.

Q. Now, I want to read you from the testimony of Mr. [2125] Peter Innes before the Dies Committee. You know that he testified before this Committee?

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

A. I know that he testified, yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: Well, I object to him reading the testimony of Peter Innes.

Mr. Gladstein: I want to frame a question.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I will hear the question.

Mr. Gladstein: This appears in Volume 13.

Presiding Inspector: Don't answer this.

The Witness: All right.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. Volume 13 of the Dies Committee records. It starts at the bottom of page 8062.

Mr. Del Guercio: We don't have that, your Honor.

Mr. Gladstein: Well, you can come over here.

Mr. Del Guercio: I don't want to come over there.

Mr. Gladstein: All right.

By Mr. Gladstein:

Q. "The Chairman. — "I suppose that refers to Mr. Martin Dies.

"Are those all original copies of letters that you wrote and kept?

"Mr. Innes: Originals and copies. Well, Mr. Chairman, I have practically all of the originals of my own letters. It may seem funny to the Committee how I happened to get them [2126] but when

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

I came back from the Coast I got orders from Joe —he told Walter Coney and myself to go up to the apartment, up to where he was living and destroy the papers that were up there.

"They were all personal correspondence and the spring strike records and a lot of the financial records from the fall strike, so I asked him, I said, 'How did all this stuff get up there, Joe' and he said, 'You know how it is whenever I want to get things out of here, why, I just get a rumor that the FBI is going to make a raid and I just purge the files and send them to my house.'

"So when I went up there—" this is Mr. Innes talking, and I might interpolate to say that the context shows clearly that his reference to "Joe" is a reference to Joe Curran—"So when I went up there — " continues Mr. Innes — "And I went through it and found all my correspondence, so I purged the originals and put them with my carbon copies, and so I have them both."

Now, after hearing that testimony in which Mr. Innes said that he took some of these materials from the apartment of Joe Curran, do you wish to change your previous testimony in any respect?

Mr. Del Guercio: Just a minute. I object to that, if [2127] you Honor please. Counsel has no right by any rule of law to confront this witness with the testimony of another witness.

Presiding Inspector: It isn't shown that it is the testimony; you assume that. That may be technical.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Mr. Gladstein: You mean as to whether this is his testimony?

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Gladstein: I don't know.

Presiding Inspector: We haven't that introduced in evidence.

Mr. Gladstein: Oh, no. But it is sort of a public record, a public document.

Presiding Inspector: I know. We can't take judicial notice of it; at least, I shouldn't think we could.

Mr. Gladstein: I don't know, your Honor.

Mr. Grossman: There is a presumption in California that establishes a prima facie case it purports to be a document of the Government.

Presiding Inspector: Well, then it can be introduced in evidence.

Mr. Grossman: Yes.

Presiding Inspector: It isn't introduced in evidence now.

Mr. Gladstein: Of course, much of it is self-serving. Much of it we have no desire to introduce because we were not [2128] present and given an opportunity to cross examine. I might say every witness, I mean witnesses like Mr. McCuistion and Mr. Innes who appeared before the Committee, were given a very friendly reception by the Committee, not subjected to any cross examination. The point is this documents purports to be published—I don't think Mr. Del Guercio will raise any question about it because copies are available from the

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Committee—and in its publications one finds testifying before the Dies Committee at various times were men like Mr. McCuistion, Mr. Innes, Mr. Gitlow, and three or four others, I think, two or three others who appeared in this hearing, or who said that they had some connection with the Dies Committee.

Presiding Inspector: Well, now, we are asking here, as I understand it, in general, what the information is of this witness as to how Mr. Innes got these documents?

Mr. Gladstein: That is right.

Presiding Inspector: Now, how is that very material?

Mr. Gladstein: Well, it goes to the question—you see, I asked this witness whether he used certain materials that he obtained from Mr. Innes and he said "Yes". Now, I think there is some materiality to the point that if Mr. McCuistion knew that Mr. Innes had taken union records to which he had no right and used them, and Mr. McCuistion used those records before the Dies Committee, introduced them before the Dies Committee and, as he states, is ready to give them to the [2129] Federal Bureau of Investigation, and these, mind you, are the records of strikes and the correspondence of the union and are precisely the kind of thing that labor spies turn over to anti-labor and anti-union forces——

Presiding Inspector: (Interposing) I don't

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

see any materiality in it, but if you want it you may have it.

Mr. Del Guercio: May I be heard, your Honor, please.

Presiding Inspector: Yes.

Mr. Del Guercio: I think that the remark of counsel here is very significant and goes to this case. Now, we all know, and it is a matter of public record, that the Dies Committee was investigating subversive activities, un-American activities, and counsel made the statement that we, indicating his own counsel here, and Harry Bridges, were not given an opportunity to appear before that Committee. I think that that remark is very, very significant.

Presiding Inspector: Well, I don't consider that. I think I will allow him to——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) Half of the witnesses that the Government has produced in this case are witnesses that appeared before Congressman Dies and told their stories there at that time. Now, they have been brought by Mr. Del Guercio into this hearing.

Presiding Inspector: And that gives you every opportunity [2130] to examine them because you have their statements in advance so that you know everything that they are going to say, or practically everything. You ought to be glad.

Mr. Gladstein: Except it crosses us up by their saying things that are at variance with things they testified to before.

(Testimony of William C. McCuistion.)

Presiding Inspector: I say you ought to be glad this has occurred in this way.

Mr. Gladstein: I haven't any objection to the Government using witnesses that appeared before the Dies Committee. I think the labor movement knows generally how to characterize that, your Honor.

Presiding Inspector: I think that is a little uncalled for, Mr. Gladstein.

Mr. Del Guercio: Not only uncalled for but——

Mr. Gladstein: (Interposing) I will withdraw that remark.

Presiding Inspector: Let's stop there, both sides, and go on and take the testimony.

I will let you answer that.
